Held, that a suit to follow the purchase-money of a house in a foreign territory, which had been sold by the order of a British Insolvency Court, on the ground that it was not the sole property of the insolvent, and that a certain portion of it belonged to the plaintiff, is a suit "for the determination of any right to or interest in immovable property" within the meaning of section 16, clause (d) of the Code of Civil Procedure, and can only be instituted in a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the house is situated. HARI RAM v. KANSHI RAM. 122 P R 1908

172. Suit against Ruling Chief with respect to property owned by him and situate in British India—Suit instituted without obtaining previous consent of Governor-General in Council—Maintainability of suit as against the co-defendants—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 433.

Held, that the Raja of Poonch is a Ruling Chief within the meaning of section 433, Civil Procedure Code, and as such cannot be sued in Courts of British India in respect of immovable property acquired by him in that country without the previous consent of the Governor-General in Council.

JURISDICTION—contd.

Held also, that a suit instituted by the reversionary heirs of a childless proprietor against a number of alienees holding separate and distinct portions of his estate under independent titles, in which a Ruling Chief is but one of several defendants, should not be dismissed against all the defendants merely because it fails against the Ruling Chief on the ground that previous consent of Government, as required by section 433, had not been obtained before the commencement of the suit, a defence peculiar to that defendant alone. DAYAL SINGH v. UTTAM KAUR. 21 P R 1909

173. Jirga—Resolution of—No restriction on jurisdiction of Civil Courts where the provisions of section 10 of the Punjab Frontier Crimes Regulation, 1887, are not acted upon—Punjab Frontier Crimes Regulation, 1887, sections 10, 12.

Held, that the Civil Courts are not debarred from enforcing the provisions of the Pre-emption Act, 1905, merely because on a reference by the Deputy Commissioner a Jirga had passed a resolution amounting to an authoritative statement of a general custom to the effect that the members of one Biloch tuman in the Dera Ghazi Khan district, should not be allowed to acquire lands in the territory of another tuman when such reference had not originated in a definite dispute of a character mentioned in section 10 of the Punjab Frontier Crimes Regulation, 1887, and when the Deputy Commissioner had taken no action under any of the clauses of sub-section 3 of that section. ABDUL KHAN v. HAJI SHAH. 26 P R 1909

174. Suit on foreign judgment—Jurisdiction of High Court of Judicature in England over Indian British subjects residing in India under contract made and broken in England—Interest.

Held, that according to English law it is the duty of the debtor to seek out his creditor and pay him wherever he may be, and therefore the fees of a solicitor residing in England for work done are payable in England, when no particular place of payment is named, and non-payment is a breach within the jurisdiction of the contract, which was to be performed in England.

Held also, that a defendant who has made and broken a contract in England, and who is a British subject, is amenable to the jurisdiction of the High Court of judicature in England, after he has been properly served with notice of action in accordance with the English rules of procedure, notwithstanding that he is a native of British India and residing there.

Held also, that judgment passed in England against a defendant in India who has been duly served with a writ of summons but who did not enter appearance or deliver a defence, when the proceedings have been strictly in accordance with the existing rules, must be considered as one passed on the merits.

JURISDICTION—contd.

Held further, that the English Statute as to judgments carrying interest does not apply to India, nor does such a case fall within the scope of Act XXXII of 1839, and plaintiff suing on a foreign judgment cannot, therefore, recover more than appears on the face of the judgment. RAM CHAND v. MR. JOHN BARTLETT. 75 P R 1909

175. Revision under section 70 (1) (a). Punjab Courts Act—Power of Chief Court to revise orders although they might be attacked on appeal from the decree—Civil Procedure Code (1882), section 588—Jurisdiction of Court in suits for damages for torts—Meaning of words "actually and voluntarily resides"—Civil Procedure Code (1882), sections 17 and 18.

The plaintiffs brought a suit to recover compensation in the District Court of the Gujrat district on the allegation that the defendants had murdered a near relative of plaintiffs in the Faridkot State, where they were convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life. The District Court held that the cause of action having arisen in the Faridkot State, the plaintiffs should institute their suit in that State. This order was upheld by the Divisional Judge on appeal. The Chief Court on revision under section 70 (1) (a) of the Punjab Courts Act—

Held, following Pandit Ram Kant v. Pandit Ray Deo (No. 60 P. R. 1897, F. B. (and Asa Ram v. Tara Chand (No. 44 P. R. 1899), that revision lies to the Chief Court under section 70 (a) of the Punjab Courts Act from order appealable under section 588 of the Civil Procedure Code (1882), in spite of the clause (a) of that section to the effect that orders passed in appeals under the section shall be final.

Held also, that the defendants although in confinement in jail in the Faridkot State, were still for the purposes of section 17 of the Civil Procedure Code (1882) "actually" and "voluntarily residing" in the Gujrat district where their homes and land are and where their families reside, and that therefore the Gujrat Court had jurisdiction to try the case. RAM LABHAYA v. BISHEN DAS. 77 P R 1909

176. Civil Courts have no jurisdiction to convert a mortgage by way of conditional sale into a mortgage prescribed by section 6 (1) (a) of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act.

See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT 88 P R 1909

177. Power of Court to refuse to entertain pleas raised too late.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908. O. I, R. 9. 93 P R 1909 P C

178. Punjab Court of Wards Act II of 1903—Sections 26 and 31 (2)—Non-production of certificate.

Held, that it lies not within the province of a Civil Court to determine whether the Deputy JURISDICTION—concld.

Commissioner should or should not grant a certificate in accordance with section 26 of the Punjab Court of Wards Act. KANDA RAM v. MUHAMMAD KHAN. 6 P R 1910

179. Held that Civil Courts have no jurisdiction to deal with the terms offered to a mortgagee by the Deputy Commissioner under section 9 (2) of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900. DULA SINGH v. DIAL SINGH. 22 P R 1910

180. Jurisdiction—Court cannot decide other question till point of jurisdiction settled.

Where in a suit before a Munsif, 1st class, it was objected that the suit was undervalued, and that the value for jurisdictional purposes was Rs. 2,000, but the Munsif, without deciding the question of jurisdiction dismissed the suit as barred by limitation—

Held, by the Chief Court, that the first question for decision is the jurisdiction of the Court in which the suit is filed. If the Court has not jurisdiction the proceedings are coram non judice and no question, either of fact or law, can be decided except that of jurisdiction. ABDUL HAQ v. NIAZ AHMAD. 83 P R 1910

181. Held, that where the relation of landlord and tenant was settled by the Cantonments House Accommodation Act, the application of the general law was ousted, and consequently the Civil Courts had no jurisdiction to decide the question of necessity for repairs and their cost under section 70 of the Contract Act, 1872. DAVIES v. BROKE-SMITH. 103 P R 1910

182. Held, that when a Divisional Judge refrained from passing a definite order on an application for revision made by the Deputy Commissioner under section 21 (A) (2) of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act he had full jurisdiction to pass another order upon a second application made by the Deputy Commissioner. ASA SINGH v. BUTA. 12 P R 1911

JURISDICTION OF CHIEF COURT.

See CHIEF COURT—POWERS OF. 47 P R 1911 F B
See DIVORCE. 47 P R 1911 F B

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS.

See JURISDICTION OF SETTLEMENT COURT.

1. Suit for correction of Patwari's papers—Patwari making entries in annual papers inconsistent with Settlement Record.

See ALLUVION AND DILUVION. 7 P R 1886 Rev.

2. Suit to set aside award of arbitrator appointed by Revenue Officer in partition proceedings—Allegation of fraud but no dispute as to title—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 158 (2).

See ARBITRATION. 52 P R 1898

3. Suit for sum payable as dhart and for marriage due—Claim based on two causes of action, one cognizable by Civil Court, the other cognizable by Revenue Court—Power of Chief Court to deal with part of decree.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

See CAUSE OF ACTION—I. DISTINCT. No. 38. 28 P R 1894

4. Jurisdiction of Civil Court to adjudicate on the correctness of boundaries laid down by the Settlement authorities.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 18. 1 P R 1901

5. Decree for partition of estate—Partition referred to Collector—Power of Civil Courts to interfere.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 54. 73 P R 1889

6. Suit for haq tora—Rent of land—Customary dues.

See CUSTOM—VI DUES. 18 P R 1892 Rev.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 33 P R 1887 F B

7. Claim for partition—Jurisdiction.

See JURISDICTION. 104 P R 1900
See PARTITION. 12 P R 1885 Rev.
3 P R 1886 Rev.

8. Suit for possession by tenant who has been ejected—Suit instituted more than one year after ejectment—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 50, 77 (3) (9)—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

See LANDLORD AND TENANT. 64 P R 1898

9. Right of widow who has succeeded to her husband's interest in joint holding to claim partition—Grant of such prayer by Revenue Officer—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain subsequent suit by co-sharers objecting that widow is by custom not entitled to claim partition—"Question as to title"—"Owner" and "landowner"—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 111, 115, 116, 158.

See PARTITION. 82 P R 1898 F B

10. Joint estate—Mortgagee's right to partition—Jurisdiction of Revenue Court—Procedure—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 111, 115, 117.

See PARTITION. 4 P R 1903 Rev.

11. Suit by one lambardar against another for dues alleged to have been wrongly collected and retained by the defendant—Jurisdiction.

See SMALL CAUSE COURTS—JURISDICTION OF. 2 P R 1887

12. Suit for rent of Revenue paying land.

See SMALL CAUSE COURTS—JURISDICTION OF. 86 P R 1887

13. Suit for "atrafi" dues—Jurisdiction.

See SMALL CAUSE COURTS—JURISDICTION OF. 108 P R 1887

14. Suit by co-sharer for share of produce in certain land.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, JURISDICTION OF. 34 P R 1888

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

15. Suit for value of trees illegally cut and appropriated.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 13 P R 1888

16. Ejectment of tenant by landlord—Suit by tenant for refund of portion of rent paid in advance.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, ARTICLE 44. 172 P R 1888

17. Suit to try correctness of Settlement Record.

The suit held not cognizable by a Revenue Court. MEHR KHAN v. TORA KHAN. 11 P R 1867 Rev

18. Plaintiff's suit for lambardari dues dismissed, as the appointment of lambardars rested with Government, and the question was whether plaintiff or defendant was entitled to hold the office. MAHOMED BUKSH v. HUSSA. 27 P R 1869

19. A suit will not lie to enforce a contract made by a Saddar Malguzar appointed under clause 3, section 10, Regulation VII of 1822, for a share of his lambardari allowance; but the assignee may sue for breach of contract. HURREE SINGH v. MAHAN SINGH. 16 P R 1870

20. Settlement of mafi tenure.

Upon the death of a mafidar, a mohunt, Government resumed the mafidar's tenure which he held, and settled it with the defendant. Plaintiff, who succeeded deceased as mohunt, sued for a declaratory decree of his right to have the settlement made with him. Held, that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit. DYA RAM v. THAKAR DASS 25 P R 1872

21. The assignment of puchotra cannot be enforced in a Civil Court; a suit brought by the assignee for the recovery of a specific amount of puchotra not paid to him, dismissed. MALUK SINGH v. NUTHA SINGH. 31 P R 1872

22. "Dharat."

Held, by the Financial Commissioner, that the right to collect dharat is one which is not cognizable by the Civil Courts, and that the cess being of the nature of a tax, the orders of the Executive Government are required to impose it. NAWAB JALLAL-UD-DIN KHAN v. MUKANDA. 8 P R 1872 Rev

23. Octroi dues—Act XV of 1867, section 19—Lessee.

A lessee of octroi dues cannot sue in a Civil Court for the recovery of arrears. MUHAMMAD SULTAN v. KHAZAN SINGH. 60 P R 1873

24. Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871), section 4—Suit relating to grant of land revenue.

Plaintiffs sued defendants for money received for the use of the former—viz., a share in certain rents collected by the defendants in respect of a jagir in which plaintiffs alleged they and defendants had an interest. Defendants denied plaintiffs' interests in the jagir and their right to share in the collections. Held, that the suit related to a grant of land-revenue, and was not cognizable by the Civil Courts. ATMA SINGH v. JIT SINGH. 36 P R 1874

25. Grant of land revenue.

Plaintiffs sued to establish a right to a certain share in a jagir, and to recover Rs. 1,500, value of produce: and one of the issues was whether they were entitled to two-thirds or one-half of the produce. The Original Court decreed Rs. 1,192; and the Appellate Court reduced this to Rs. 894, holding that plaintiffs were entitled to a half and not two-thirds. Plaintiffs appealed to the Chief Court in respect of the difference, viz, Rs. 298. Held, that the suit was barred by section 4, Act XXIII of 1871; and that plaintiff's course was to apply under section 5 in the Revenue Department for an order declaring their share, and then to sue in the Civil Court for the amount due accordingly. KHUSHAL SINGH v. BASSAWA SINGH. 9 P R 1875

26. Grant of land revenue—Alluvial deposits—Act XXXIII of 1871, section 41.

Plaintiff was mafidar of certain lands which were swept away by the river up to 1870. In 1873 a small plot of land was reformed by the river on the site of the original land. Plaintiff claimed to revive his mafi rights. Held, that section 4 of Act XXIII of 1871 and Rule 33 under section 41 of Act XXXIII of 1871, barred the hearing of the suit in a Civil Court. AHMADYAR v. ALLA JOWAYA KHAN. 10 P R 1875

27. Puchotra—Act XXXIII of 1871.

The Civil Courts have no jurisdiction to determine the amount of puchotra to be taken by lambardars. The claim is connected with land revenue; the share of each must be settled by the Revenue authorities; and an infringement of the order passed by such authorities may give a cause of action. NURA v. NURA. 27 P R 1875

28. Claim to partition—Act XXXIII of 1871, section 65.

The land in suit was common land of the patti of which the parties were proprietors; and this land had been for some time in defendants' possession on behalf of the proprietary body. Plaintiffs sued for partition of their share, and for possession by ejectment of defendants. There was no dispute about the shares of the parties. Held, that the Civil Courts could not take cognizance of the suit, under section 65 Act XXXIII of 1871 WIRA v. DHARMA. 71 P R 1875

29. Suit to set aside adoption.

A Revenue Court cannot entertain a suit to set aside an adoption, where a decree, if passed, might affect moveable property. Such Court can only decide upon the validity or otherwise of an adoption in so far as it relates to a claim for land, or the rent, revenue or produce of land. JAISUKH v. MUSSAMMAT INDRI. 2 P R 1875 Rev

30. An altumgah grant to the Nawab of Karnal by the former Government and istumrari property, held, to be grants of land revenue and exempt from the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts. NAWAB AZMAT ALI KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT LALLI BEGAM. 1 P R 1876

31. Act XXXIII of 1871, section 65, clause 2—Partition—Abadi.

By section 65, clause 2, Act XXXIII of 1871, a Civil Court cannot take cognizance of claims to partition by persons who do not contest the correctness of the Settlement record. Held, that this section barred a claim in a Civil Court for partition of the abadi there being no dispute as to shares. ALI BUKSH v. SHAME KHAN. 14 P R 1876

32. Puchotra.

Plaintiff, lambardar, sued for his puchotra, the defendants (proprietors) having instead of paying their revenue through plaintiff paid it direct to the jagirdar. Held, that the Civil Court had jurisdiction to try the suit. Section 65, Clause 6, Act XXXIII of 1871, commented upon and explained. DEVI SINGH v. KALI RAM. 27 P R 1876

33. Patwari's pay.

A suit for a patwari's pay is cognizable by a Civil Court; section 65, Clause 6, Act XXXIII of 1871, does not apply to such a claim. JAINTI DASS v. LEKH RAM. 28 P R 1876

34. Partition—Settlement Record.

Plaintiffs sued for partition and possession of a portion of the common land, and for an amendment of an entry in the wajib-ul-urz, the meaning of which was contested by the parties,—defendants alleging that the entry meant that no partition should take place without the consent of the whole proprietary body, and plaintiffs disputing this construction, and alleging that if it were correct, then the entry itself was incorrect. Held, that the suit would lie for the purpose of declaring what the plaintiffs' rights were under the wajib-ul-urz, and of their right to obtain their share by partition. MAMRAJ v. JAS RAM. 40 P R 1876

35. Partition—Silence of wajib-ul arz—Land Revenue Act.

Section 65, clause 2, of the Land Revenue Act proceeds upon the assumption that the shares of the parties, and the conditions and terms on which they are entitled to partition, are determined by the wajib-ul-urz; and where the record of rights is silent on the point, a literal construction is not to be put upon section 65, but it must be held that the Civil Court has jurisdiction whenever there is a disputed question of right between the parties. The Civil Court cannot go to the length of giving detailed directions as to the mode in which partition is to be carried out. SYAD ULLA v. PIRA.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

97 P R 1876

36. A Civil Court in the Punjab can give a decree in accordance with section 225, Civil Procedure Code, for division of an estate, or for separate possession of a share in an actually undivided estate, paying Revenue to Government, where the right to a share or the extent of the share is disputed; the execution of the decree is left to the Revenue Officers by the rules framed under section 67 of the Land Revenue Act. Semble—After the making of the decree, all disputes between the parties as to the mode of partition are cognizable by the Revenue Officers only, under section 65, Land Revenue Act, and not by the Civil Courts. MUTSADI MAL v. MUSSAMMAT DHAN KOUR.

100 P R 1876

37. Marriage fees.

A suit for haq bakree or marriage fees, does not lie in the Revenue Court. NUR KHAN v. HAYAT. 1 P R 1876 Rev

38. Act XXXIII of 1871, section 65, clause 2—Partition.

There were two tarafs in the village, one, a Gil taraf, being divided into five pattis. The proprietors of three of these pattis were of the Gil got, the owners of the remaining pattis being Brahmins. M. S., a Jat of the Gil got, owned one of the five pattis, and dying without heirs in 1866, the question as to what should be done with his land was disposed of by the Tahsildar ordering it to be recorded as shamilat of the Gil taraf. Subsequently, in 1874, certain persons applied for partition of the shamilat of the Gil taraf, and D. S. and others of the Gil got objected to the land of M. S. being treated as shamilat of the whole Gil taraf, contending that the Brahmins had no right to it. The objection was disallowed, and the Revenue Officer divided the land: D. S. in 1875 sued the defendants (Brahmins) for a portion of the land of M. S. which had gone to the defendants in the above partition.

Held, that the Civil Court's jurisdiction to entertain the suit was not barred by section 65, clause 2, Act XXXIII of 1871. DHIAN SINGH v. GHAZI. 17 P R 1877

39. Punjab Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 65—Partition.

The parties to this suit purchased land jointly and cultivated different portions. Plaintiff claimed to have as his share at partition the portion he had all along cultivated, and was referred to a regular suit. Held, that as there was no dispute as to the jointness of the ownership, no Civil Court could award partition. NATHU v. LAL CHAND.

48 P R 1877

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

40. Act XXXIII of 1871, section 65—Partition.

Plaintiffs admitting the land in dispute was shamilat, claimed, in the event of a partition, either to have it included in their share, or excluded altogether from partition. Held, that the suit was excluded from the cognizance of a Civil Court by section 65 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, XXXIII of 1871. AMIN CHAND v. CHAILU.

69 P R 1877

41. In a suit by a widow for partition of her late husband's share in a joint khata, which was contested by the defendants, held, that as the right to partition was contested, the suit was not barred from the cognizance of the Civil Courts by clause 2, section 65, Act XXXIII of 1871. RANJHA v. MUSSAMMAT RAJJI. 22 P R 1878

42. Decree for partition—Act XXXIII of 1871, section 65—Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), section 244—Execution—Suit by party dissatisfied with execution proceedings—Jurisdiction.

Where a decree for partition has been made, and partition has been carried out in execution of decree, held, that a civil suit by a person concerned by the decree, who is dissatisfied with the proceedings taken in execution, will not lie, his remedy being by way of appeal under the provisions of section 65 of the Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871).

Held, further, that such a suit is barred by the provisions of section 244, Act X of 1877. NIHAL SINGH v. MIHAN SINGH.

126 P R 1879

43. Suit for land allotted at partition where delivery of possession has not taken place.

Held, that a Civil Court has no jurisdiction to entertain a suit for possession of land allotted by the Revenue authorties in partition proceedings, when the partition has not been completed by delivery of possession through the authorities. ILAHIA v. BUTA.

134 P R 1879

44. Suit for the right to a religious office—Custom—Kangra Bhojkis of Bhawan shrine—Right to officiate at temple.

A suit by a family of priests for a decree prohibiting another branch of the family from conducting religious services in a shrine, held, to be cognizable by the Civil Court.

Found that by the custom of the Bhojkis of the Bhawan shrine at Kangra, only Bhojkis by wives who are the daughters of Kangra Bhojkis are entitled to officiate at the temple, and not sons of Kangra Bhojkis by daughters of Jowala Mukhi or Naina Devi Bhojkis. BHAG MAL v. SANT. 27 P R 1880

45. Act XXXIII of 1871, section 65, clause 3—Dispute at partition as to tenure of village.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

At partition of the village lands, plaintiff claimed proprietary rights in certain lands in his possession, on the ground that the tenure of the village was Bhayachara and not Zemindari, as asserted by the opposite side, and that therefore possession regulated the measure of right. Held, that a suit by plaintiff in the Civil Court, for a declaration of his right as above, was not barred by section 65, clause 3 of the Land Revenue Act of 1871. GHISA v. RANJIT.

121 P R 1880

46. Revenue free grant—Intention of Government.

Held, that the question in whose favor Government intended to make a revenue free grant, where sharers are mentioned in the recommendation but not in the order of Government, is not one which can be determined by a Civil Court. MUHAMMAD-SHAH v. FATTEH-ULLA-SHAH.

122 P R 1880

47. Dispute about abadi of village—Principle of division—Rights of individual proprietors inter se.

In a suit brought by one out of three tarafs of the village against the second taraf and one patti of the third taraf, the contention of the plaintiffs was that the interest of the tarafs in the abadi of the village (which was shamilat) was according to the khewat of each taraf, and their object was to have a partition of the abadi on that principle, so as to make up the deficiency of their share from land of the abadi in possession of the defendants or from other common land of the village. The defendants pleaded that the interests of the taraf in the abadi were according to possession.

Held (reversing the orders of the lower Courts) that the said Courts should only have determined the rights of the three tarafs inter se as to partition and should not have touched the possession of individual proprietors, the mode of giving effect to the rights of the tarafs inter se or of individual proprietors in any taraf being a matter reserved to the Revenue authorities. DALLA SINGH v. ALA SINGH.

92 P R 1881

48. Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 42, rule 3, and section 65, clause 6—Suit by mortgagees of jagir revenue against lambardars for instalment of such revenue—Agreement by lambardars to pay plaintiffs and not jagirdars—Claim connected with collection of land revenue.

Plaintiffs, who were mortgagees of the interest of the jagirdar of the village, gave notice of the mortgage to the defendants, the lambardars, and procured from them in 1877 a written agreement by which they bound themselves to pay the collected revenue year by year, not exceeding Rs. 3,000, to the plaintiffs and not to the jagirdar. It appeared that the sum claimed in the present suit, which was the jagir revenue for the kharif harvest of Sambat 1936, had been collected by the defendants and by them paid into the treasury at the tahsil, from whence it had been paid out to the jagirdar. It further appeared that in 1878 the Collector had on the petition of the mortgagees passed orders that the revenue might be paid to them through the Tahsildar, but that subsequently in 1880, he passed further orders that the collection for the mortgagees must be stopped for the future. This order was not due to any act of the defendants, the lambardars.

Held, on the above facts that the plaintiffs' claim against the lambardars was barred by clause 6, section 65 of the Land Revenue Act, the said claim being not the less one connected with the collection of land revenue, because the act which gave rise to it was a violation of an agreement which itself related to the collection of land revenue.

Held further, that the claim was not saved by Rule 3 of the rules under section 42 of the same Act, as the lambardars were not defendants, quoad the jagirdar, within the meaning of that rule, nor, further, on the facts found could it be held that there had been any default at all on the part of the lambardars. MAKHAN MAL v. MAHA SINGH.

16 P R 1882

49. Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871), sections 4, 6—Suit for property in rent-free land—Certificate—Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 65—Suit for partition where shares were not determined at Settlement and where parties are at issue as to principle of partition.

In a suit by plaintiff in which he claimed to make up his share of certain land of which he and the defendants appeared to be joint proprietors, as the land was held revenue-free, the plaintiff obtained a certificate from the Deputy Commissioner under section 6 of the Pensions Act, 1871. The lower Appellate Court dismissed the plaintiff's suit holding that if the suit was one for partition, the jurisdiction of the Civil Court was barred by section 65 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1871, and if it was for illegal ouster, it was barred by the Pensions Act, owing to the certificate not having been sanctioned by the Financial Commissioner.

Held, that as the dispute between the parties related to the property in the land, the revenue of which was released, no certificate was necessary under section 4 of the Pensions Act, and further that the Deputy Commissioner's certificate satisfied section 6 of the Act, if any certificate was necessary.

Held, also, that though the suit must be regarded as one for partition, unless the plaintiff was able to show that he had been dispossessed by the defendants of any particular portion of the land, the jurisdiction of the Civil Court was not barred by section 65, clause 2 of the Land Revenue Act, as the shares of the parties were not determined at Settlement, and as they were at issue as to the principle on which the partition should be made. Syad Ulla v. Pira (No. 97 P. R. 1876) followed. BHAI BADAN SINGH v. PARTAP SINGH.

131 P R 1882

50. Suit for land awarded at partition—Possession and subsequent ouster.

Held, that a suit for possession of land awarded to the plaintiff in partition proceedings by the Revenue Courts will not lie in a Civil Court, unless the plaintiff can show that, subsequent to the partition, he obtained possession of the land, either through the agency of the Revenue authorities or otherwise by private arrangement. Ilahia v. Buta (No. 134 P. R. 1879) followed. UMRA v. JIWAN SINGH. 164 P R 1882

51. Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 65, clause 6—Claim arising out of, or connected with, the collection of land revenue.

Plaintiff, a lambardar and a joint proprietor with the defendant of the village of K. sued to recover from the defendant a moiety of certain revenue which had been realized from him as lambardar by Government. It appeared that the revenue of K. had been assigned at a former Settlement to two jagirdars, and that one of these having died at the beginning of the new Settlement the fact of his death was suppressed, and the revenue which lapsed to Government remained unpaid for several years till Government realized the whole amount from the plaintiff who brought the present suit to recover a moiety of the amount thus realized.

Held, that the present suit was not excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Court by section 65, clause 6 of Act XXXIII of 1871, as it was not intended that that section should bar a suit like the present between two joint proprietors for contribution springing out of relations resembling those created by contract, nor could the present claim be properly said, to arise out of, or to be connected with, the collection of land revenue, or any process enforced on account of an arrear of land revenue, as, as soon as the plaintiff paid up the full sum due on account of revenue, there ceased to be an "arrear of land revenue" within the meaning of the Act, and the defendant's liability did not arise out of, nor was it connected with, the collection of land revenue, but out of a relation resembling that created by contract. Devi Singh v. Kali Ram (No. 27 P. R. 1876) cited and approved. MOHAR SINGH v. SHER SINGH.

42 P R 1883

52. Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 65, clause 6—Suit by representative of deceased jagirdar to recover money collected by lambardar and paid over to a third party—Money had and received.

The jagirdar of D. allotted during his lifetime to his younger son, the present plaintiff, the revenue of the village of D. subject to a payment to himself so long as he lived. Shortly before his death the said jagirdar started on a pilgrimage and authorised the lambardar, the present defendant, to pay over a certain sum to his eldest son from the kharif harvest of 1935, which sum the lambardar, having collected the revenue for the harvest in question, paid over to the deceased jagirdar's eldest son; whereupon the plaintiff brought this suit to recover the said sum from the lambardar on the grounds that the revenue when collected belonged to him, as his father had died before the harvest was either sown or reaped, that the payment to his eldest brother was made without his consent, and that the father's authority must be held to have terminated with his death.

Held, that the above claim could not be regarded as one of those which clause (6) of section 65 of the Land Revenue Act excludes from the cognizance of the Civil Courts; as, looking at the general tenor of the Act, that clause would appear to have been merely intended to exclude suits in which the action of the Revenue authorities in the matter of the amount of the Revenue to be collected or the mode of collection is at issue, and was never intended to exclude a suit like the present, founded on the non-payment to the plaintiff of a sum collected on his behalf by a lambardar, and wrongly, as alleged, paid over by him to a third party; such suit arising out of a relation resembling that of contract, and being analogous to those suits which in English practice are based on account for money had and received to the plaintiff's use. Devi Singh v. Kali Ram (No. 27 P. R. 1876), and Mohar Singh v. Sher Singh (No. 42 P. R. 1883,) followed. Makhan Mal v. Maha Singh (No. 16 P. R. 1882), distinguished. SIRDAR SUNDER SINGH v. SAIDA.

123 P R 1883

53. Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 65 (2)—Suit for partition—Determination of plaintiffs' share and right to partition in accordance therewith.

Held, that a suit for partition of common land will lie in the Civil Courts so far as it seeks a determination of the plaintiffs' shares and their right to a partition in accordance with such shares; but if the Civil Court goes further than this and gives detailed directions as to the mode in which the partition should be carried out, it exceeds its jurisdiction and intrudes on the province of the Revenue authorities. Syad Ulla v. Pira (No. 97 P. R. 1876) followed. Ali Buksh v. Shame Khan (No. 14 P. R. 1876,) and Ilahia v. Buta (No. 134 P. R. 1879), referred to. BHIKAM SEIN v. RAM NATH.

125 P R 1883

54. Suit for lands allotted at partition by Revenue Court—Incomplete partition—

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

Possession—Completion of partition-proceedings.

In a suit for possession of certain lands which the plaintiffs alleged had been allotted to them by the Revenue Court in partition-proceedings, it appeared that at the time of the said partition two lists were made out which purported to contain equal shares of the shamilat which had to be divided, and the parties having cast lots for their respective shares, the partition thus made was reported for sanction, and was sanctioned and ordered to be carried out, the Naib Tahsildar subsequently reporting that it had been carried out by entry in the annual papers.

After this the parties carried into effect the partition of certain of the lands divided, but as regards a portion of the lands, which included the land now in suit, and was then mainly waste, no action was taken in accordance with the order of partition, partly, as the plaintiffs alleged, because they were not anxious to cultivate the waste immediately, and partly because the portions of this land which had fallen to each party's share were never pointed out to them on the spot by the Patwari. The defendants gradually brought parts of this land under cultivation, and plaintiffs, seeing that they were thus appropriating all the lands, brought the present suit to recover their own share.

Held, by the Financial Commissioner, that as regards the land in dispute the partition had remained incomplete and inoperative, and could not form the basis of a decree in the Civil Court, though as the land was at the time of partition unappropriated waste, a suit would have been maintainable in the Civil Court, if it had appeared that the order for partition had been followed by any, even formal, taking of possession of their allotments by the plaintiffs.

Held, further, that under all the circumstances of the case, the partition-proceedings could be taken up again and completed by putting plaintiffs in possession of the fields allotted to them in the partition-proceedings by the drawing of lots. Nidhan Singh v. Attur Singh (No. 54 P. R. 1869), and Ilahia v. Buta (No. 134 P. R. 1879) cited. BAKSHA v. DASAUNDHI. 1 P R 1883 Rev

55. Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 65 (2)—Proprietor claiming under agreement in Wajib-ul-arz to recover his share of land gained by alluvion.

Plaintiff, one of the proprietors of the village, sued the other proprietors for certain land which he alleged represented his share of land thrown up by the river and which he was entitled to recover in accordance with a condition in the Wajib-ul-arz to the effect that land gained by alluvion should be divided among the shares in accordance with ancestral shares. Defendants admitted that the clause in the Wajib-ul-arz correctly represented the agreement arrived at between the parties.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

Held, that the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts to hear the suit was barred by clause (2), section 65 of the Land Revenue Act. MAKHE KHAN v. BADRUDDIN. 70 P R 1884

56 Suit by assignee of land revenue against defaulter—Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 42, Rule 3, and section 65, clause 6—Ultra vires.

Held, that a suit by an assignee of land revenue against a defaulter will lie in accordance with the third rule framed under section 43 of the Land Revenue Act, such rule not being ultra vires under clause 6, section 65 of the same Act. Devi Singh v. Kali Ram (No. 27 P. R. 1876), Makhan Mal v. Maha Singh (No. 16 P. R. 1882), and Sirdar Sunder Singh v. Saida (No. 123 P. R. 1883), cited. NAWAB AZMAT ALI KHAN v. KALANDAR BAKHSH. 84 P R 1884

57. Claim by recorded mafidar for mafi dues—Defendant pleading that he is jointly entitled to the mafi—Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871), section 5.

In a suit by plaintiff, the sole recorded mafidar, against the proprietors of the land for his mafi dues, the defendants alleged that they were jointly entitled to the mafi, and had shared in the profits.

Held, that it was not competent to the Civil Courts to declare defendants to be entitled to a share in the bounty, Government had bestowed on another, the defendants' remedy being to apply under section 5 of the Pensions Act to the Deputy Commissioner to have their names jointly recorded as mafidars or else to have a certificate given them to enable them to sue to establish their right in a Civil Court. JAFAR SHAH v. BAHADAR SHAH. 160 P R 1884

58. Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 65 (2)—Suit for partition—Dispute as to principle on which partition should take place.

Plaintiffs' claim was to the following effect:— "There are 279 ghumaos of land in the "village, of which 59 ghumaos are shamilat "leaving 211 ghumaos khewat land. Of the "latter, defendants, who ought to have ¼th, "viz., 52 ghumaos, have 65 ghumaos, or 12 "ghumaos 2 kanals, 6 marlas, in excess of "their proper share. Now that there is going "to be a partition of the 59 ghumaos of the "shamilat, defendants ought to have nothing "at all, because they have already got an "amount of khewat land in excess of their "share, which being of superior quality is "at least equal to the amount of the shami- "lat land which would otherwise have fallen "to their shares."

Held, that the above claim was not excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Court by section 65 (2) of the Land Revenue Act, there being a disputed question of right, viz., the principle on which partition should take place, and whether the fact that defendants had more khewat land than was proper excluded them from a share in the shamilat. Syad Ulla v. Pira (No. 97 P. R.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

1876) cited. DEWA SINGH v. KALA SINGH. 24 P R 1885

59. Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 65 (6)—Claim connected with the collection of land revenue.

Plaintiffs sued to recover from defendant money which they alleged he had improperly collected from them on account of the land revenue due for land held by him. The Lower Courts held that the suit was barred by section 65 (6) of the Land Revenue Act.

Held, that as the suit did not relate to the action taken by the Revenue authorities for the recovery of arrears of land revenue, but to a sum alleged to have been collected by the defendant from the plaintiffs the Civil Courts had jurisdiction. Devi Singh v. Kali Ram (No. 27 P. R. 1876), Mohar Singh v. Sher Singh (No. 42 P. R. 1883), and Sirdar Sunder Singh v. Saida (No. 123 P. R. 1883), cited and followed. KAHAL SHAH v. BARKAT KHAN. 54 P R 1885

60. Partition—Joint estate—Mortgagee's claim to partition—Silence of Wajib-ul-arz.

In a suit by a mortgagee for partition of half the share of several proprietors in a joint estate, held, by the Financial Commissioner, that as the Wajib-ul-arz of the estate made no provision for such cases, the mortgagee must first establish his right to claim such partition by suit in the Civil Court, before the Revenue Courts could separate off the share mortgaged to him. Syad Ulla v. Pira (No. 97 P. R. 1876), and Ranja v. Mussammat Raji (No. 22 P. R. 1878), cited. HARDIAL v. HAKIM. 11 P R 1885 Rev

61. Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 65 (6)—Suit for pachotra—Suit arising out of collection of land revenue.

A suit by one lambardar under a clause in the Wajib-ul-arz to recover from another pachotra, which the latter had taken in excess of his own share, held not to be one arising out of the collection of land revenue, so as to be barred by section 65, Act XXXIII of 1871, as the alleged misfeasance of the defendant was not his collecting the money from the revenue payers, but his subsequent refusal to pay over his surplus percentage to the plaintiff. BAKKAN v. SAHIB SINGH. 50 P R 1886

62. Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), section 45, clause (i)—Suit by co-sharer for profits of estate after payment of land revenue and cesses.

Plaintiffs sued for their share of the profits of a shrine on the allegation that, as proprietors of certain land in the village, paying a certain amount as land r evenue they had always obtained a share of the income of the shrine and shared in the profit and loss. It appeared that the income from offerings at the shrine in question was first devoted to the payment of the Government revenue, the balance being divided among the co-sharers of the village in sums proportionate to their khewat holdings.

Held, that the suit was one by a co-sharer for his share of the profits of part of an estate after payment of land revenue and cesses within the meaning of section 45, clause (i) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884. UDE RAM v. SANDA. 74 P R 1886

63. Suit for right to ply a boat at a public ferry—Northern India Ferries Act (XVII of 1878), section 12—Rules regulating the matter in dispute—Bar to jurisdiction of Civil Court.

In a suit for a declaratory decree of plaintiffs' right to ply a boat at a public ferry, it appeared from the rules made under section 12 of the Northern India Ferries Act, 1878, for the regulation of public ferries in the Division in question, that the arrangements as to the number of boats, and the persons who had a right to ply boats at the ferry rested with the Magistrate of the District, subject to the approval of the Commissioner of the Division.

Held, that the suit as brought would not lie in the Civil Courts, which have no power absolutely to declare rights which the law leaves to be regulated by the Magistrate of the District with reference to the interests of the community at large. SARDAR v. IMAM BAKSH. 82 P R 1886

64. Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871), sections 5, 6—Duty of Deputy Commissioner to take cognizance of claims under section 5 —Jagirdar applying for the collection of the revenue due under his Sanad—Lower Courts refusing application and referring applicant to Civil Courts.

The Deputy Commissioner (whose order was confirmed by the Commissioner on appeal) refused the appellants' application for the collection of the jagir revenue due under their Sanad (in which, in 1853, the Chief Commissioner granted to their predecessors a two-third share (jagir) of the mauza in suit), on the ground that their title as jagirdar was a matter for the decision of the Civil Courts.

Held, by the 2nd Financial Commissioner, that it was not for the Civil Courts to decide whether the grant was valid, at least until the matter had been referred to a Civil Court by a certificate duly issued under section 6 of the Pensions Act, 1871; that it is the duty of the Deputy Commissioner to take prompt cognizance of all disputes and claims of the nature described in section 5 of the Act, and that an enquiry under that section must now be made into the validity of appellants' claims. GOKAL CHAND v. WIRAM DAS. 12 P R 1886 Rev

65. Suit by recorded mafidar of one field for produce of another field—Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871), sections 4, 9.

Plaintiff being the recorded mafidar of field A, sued for the produce of field B, of which plaintiff alleged and defendant denied that he was mafidar.

Held, that the decision of the question whether plaintiff was mafidar of B, was excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Court by section 4 of the Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871), and section 9 of the said Act did not apply, as plaintiff had not offered to prove that the Government now admitted his right to B. DIWAN v. KARM CHAND. 11 P R 1887

66. Act XVIII of 1884, section 45 (d)—Suit for ejectment of tenant.

Plaintiff sued for possession of land, alleging that defendant was his tenant without occupancy rights; that defendant had paid him half the produce yearly, and that as defendant refused to pay any longer, he, plaintiff, sued for possession.

Held, that the suit as laid fell under section 45 (d) of the Punjab Courts Act, and was cognizable only by the Revenue Court. ALLADAD v. GAUHAR. 102 P R 1887

67. Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), section 45 (f)—Suit by owner of canal for a share of the produce of land watered therefrom—Customary dues.

Plaintiff, a superior proprietor of the land cultivated by defendant as tenant of an inferior proprietor, and also owner of a canal from which distributaries were drawn which irrigated the land which defendant cultivated, claimed a certain share of the produce of the land so cultivated, which he alleged he was entitled to by way of repayment for the cost of clearing out and repairing the canal year by year, quite distinct from any "abiana" or water-rate.

Held that the suit was not a revenue suit as described in section 45 (f) of the Punjab Courts Act, the payment claimed not being rent payable by an occupant of land on account of the use or occupation thereof, nor a payment on account of pasturage rights, forest rights, fisheries or the like, within the meaning of the latter part of the same clause, nor could the scope of the said clause be widened so as to include the above suit by reading it with section 47 (b), which refers to "other payments to which there is a recurring claim."

Held, further, that the suit was not one of the nature cognizable by a Court of Small Causes as a suit on an agreement, it not being alleged that there was any covenant between the parties, but that it was rather a claim to enforce a special kind of customary payment in connection with a peculiar local system of canal irrigation, and as such was cognizable by the ordinary Civil Courts. SHAJAWAL v. GHULAM KADIR KHAN. 103 P R 1887

68. Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), section 45 (m)—Boundary suit.

Held that a suit by one of two owners of contiguous agricultural land against the other, alleging that the defendant has encroached upon the land of the plaintiff, is in substance a suit falling within clause (m) of section 45 of the Punjab Courts Act, as being a suit to determine a dispute regarding boundaries of land which have been fixed by a Revenue Officer, and therefore cognizable by the Revenue Court. SOHEL SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT KAHNO. 7 P R 1888

Followed in FAIZ ALI v. NUR MUHAMMAD. 7 P R 1888 Note.

69. Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), section 45 (a) and (b)—Suit to establish claim to right of occupancy—Suit for ejectment of tenant.

Held, by the Full Bench (Plowden, Powell and Roe, JJ.), that a suit in which the plaintiff asks to be placed in possession of land, on the ground that he is entitled to hold such land as a tenant with a right of occupancy, is not one "by a tenant to establish a claim to a right of occupancy," within the meaning of section 45 (a) of Act XVIII of 1884, and so cognizable by the Revenue Courts only, but is a suit the jurisdiction to hear which rests with the Civil Courts. Though it is essential to the obtaining of the relief asked for in such case that plaintiff should "establish his claim to a right of occupancy," this question of title is only raised incidentally, while the cause of action alleged by plaintiff is a being wrongfully deprived of, or kept out of the cultivating possession of certain lands, and the relief he asks for is a restoration to such possession, a relief which the Civil Courts alone can give him.

Held, also by the Division Bench (Plowden and Powell, JJ.), that where the allegation in the plaint is that the defendant took the land from the plaintiff for cultivation on payment of revenue, and paid the revenue to plaintiff, that is the hereditary tenant sublet part of his holding to the proprietor, and in respect of this portion the relation of landlord and tenant existed between them, and now the landlord, the hereditary tenant, asks to eject his tenant, the proprietor, in such case the suit falls within clause (d) of section 45 of the Punjab Courts Act, and is therefore cognizable by the Revenue and not by the Civil Court. NIHAL SINGH v. KAMAN. 9 P R 1888 F B

70. Claim by one village to bring a canal cut across defendants' villages—Act VIII of 1873, sections 21, 23, 24.

Plaintiffs, who were the inhabitants of one village, brought a suit in the Civil Court to have their right decreed to bring a canal cut in a certain line across the lands of the defendants' villages.

Held, that the Civil Courts had no jurisdiction whatever over such a case, the right alleged being a creation of the Canal Act (VIII of 1873), which also provides the manner in which such right is to be acquired, viz. by application to the Divisional Canal Officer under section 21 of the Act. MEHTAB SINGH v. HAKIM. 114 P R 1888

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

71. Act XVIII of 1884, section 45 (i)—Suit for winding up of partnership in land—Co-sharers in agricultural land—Contract Act (IX of 1872), section 265—Place of suing—Suit brought in Delhi, where parties resided to dissolve partnership in land situated in Meerut.

Plaintiff sued the defendants, the representatives of one B. D. deceased, under section 265 of the Contract Act for the winding up of a partnership entered into with B. D., who was lessee of certain land in the Meerut district and for an account. The parties resided in the Delhi district. The lower Appellate Court held, first, that the parties were not partners as contemplated in the Contract Act, but that they were really cosharers in agricultural land, so that the case should be heard by a Revenue Court under sectioh 45, clause (i) of Act XVIII of 1884; secondly, that as the land leased lay in the Meerut district, the suit was cognizable in that district only with reference to section 16, clause (d) of the Civil Procedure Code.

Held, that there was no reason that because the object of the association in question was to work land, the business should not be considered to be a partnership to which the provisions of section 265 of the Contract Act were applicable; that section 45 (i) of the Punjab Courts Act had no application to a case like the present, where two co-sharers in a plot of land were disputing about their shares in the produce, the scope of the section being confined to those cases in which a member of the proprietary body or co-parcener in a village, when the accounts of the whole village are made up, sues to recover from the lambardars or remainder of the proprietary body his share in certain sums which he says have not been properly credited to the joint fund; that the case was therefore triable by the Civil Court under section 265 of the Contract Act and was cognizable by the Delhi Court within whose jurisdiction both parties resided, although the land lay in the Meerut district. KARIM BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT AMAR DEVI.

115 P R 1888

72. Suit for "tambol "—Right to maintain suit.

Held, that a suit for tambol is not one which a Civil Court has jurisdiction to entertain, a claim to tambol being matter of social and moral, but not legal, obligation. LACHMAN DASS v. SOHAN LAL.

141 P R 1888

73. Suit by mafidar for revenue—Act XVIII of 1884, section 45 (j).

A suit by a mafidar claiming the share of produce to which he alleged he was entitled as mafidar, held, to be a suit for revenue and as such cognizable by the Revenue Court under section 45 (j) of Act XVIII of 1884. BAWA AMAR SINGH v. DARSHAN.

1 P R 1888 Rev

74. Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), section 45 (a)—Suit by mukararidar to establish right.

Held that a suit to establish his rights by a mukararidar tenant, who is in actual possession of the land in question is cognizable by the Revenue Court under section 45 (a) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884. Nihal Singh v. Kaman (No. 9 P. R. 1888) referred to. BAISAKHI v. JABBAR KHAN.

11 P R 1888 Rev

75. Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), section 45 (b)—Suit to disprove occupancy rights.

A suit for a declaratory decree that the defendant who had been entered in a recent Settlement as an hereditary tenant under section 5, clause 2 of Act XXVIII of 1868, was not entitled to such rights, held, not to come within the category of any of the suits detailed in section 45 of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884, as cognizable by the Revenue Courts only, but to be one which should be heard by a Civil Court. HARNAM SINGH v. KAMAR-UD-DIN. 12 P R 1888 Rev

76. Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), sections 50, 51, 77 (3) (g)—Suit for recovery of possession by occupancy tenant illegally dispossessed—Suit against person other than landlord.

A suit to recover possession by a plaintiff, alleging that he is a tenant with a right of occupancy, and that he has been illegally dispossessed of his holding, by a person other than the person admitted to be, or recorded as, plaintiff's landlord, held not to be cognizable by the Revenue Court, as falling under section 77 (3) (g) of the Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), inasmuch as that clause and sections 50 and 51 of the same Act refer only to suits between landlord and tenant; but to be cognizable by a Civil Court. MIAN SINGH v. FATHA.

3 P R 1889

77. Land Revenue Act (XVII of 1887), sections 45, 158 (2) (vi)—Suit for correction of Settlement Record—Suit for declaration of right.

Held, that the provision in clause (vi) of section 158 of the Land Revenue Act, 1887, excluding from the cognizance of the C vil Court matters touching the correction of an entry in a record of rights does not in any way affect the jurisdiction of a Civil Court to give a declaration in a suit properly instituted in the manner indicated by section 45 of the same Act by a person who consider himself aggrieved as to a right of which he is in possession by an entry in such record, touching the same. RAJA NUR KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT DARAB KHATUN.

25 P R 1889

78. Section 45 (d)—Ejectment of tenant—Possession—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

In 1886, when Chapter V of Act XVIII of 1884, was in force, a landlord sued his tenant for possession on the ground that after service of a notice of ejectment on the tenant he (the landlord) had been placed in possession of the land, but that subsequently the tenant had forcibly dispossessed him.

Held, assuming these allegations to be true, that the suit was cognisable by a Civil Court. JASSA SINGH v. LEHNA SINGH.

110 P R 1889

79. Punjab Land Revenue Act (XVII of 1887, section 158, clase 2 (17)—Suit for recovery of possession of land allotted to plaintiff on partition — Ejectment.

Plaintiff sued for recovery of possession on the ground that it had fallen to his share on partition but that shortly before suit defendant had ejected him. Defendant replied that the property in dispute had fallen to his share and that he had all along been in possession. The first Court found that the land fell to plaintiff at partition, but that defendant had been cultivating it since. The Divisional Judge held that the suit should have been instituted in a Revenue Court.

Held, that the suit as laid in the plaint was not excluded from the cognisance of the Civil Courts by section 158 of Act XVII of 1887. BHAGWAN SINGH v. DHIYAN SINGH. 31 P R 1890

80. Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), section 77—Suit for damages or the money value of the share of the produce which the plaintiff, muafidar was entitled to receive from the defendant.

Plaintiff stated that as muafidar of certain lands, he was entitled to take from defendants ¾ths of the produce in kind, that the defendant failed to cul tivate the land for certain harvests, and he consequently sued defendants for a certain sum as damages or the money value of the share of the produce which he should have received.

Held, that the suit as laid in the plaint was cognizable by a Revenue Court under section 77 (3), clauses m, n, or p. A mere change of nomenclature as to the relief claimed cannot alter the nature of the suit or the jurisdiction of the Court. PANCHU v. PANA. 52 P R 1890

81. Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871), section 4—Suit relating to land rev enue—Necessity of certificate—Punjab Land Revenue Act (XVII of 1887), section 158, clauses 1 and 9.

The jagirdar of a village sued the proprietors for a declaration that he was entitled during the continuance of the jagir to levy from the latter a share of the produce in lieu of revenue in cash as fixed at settlement.

Held, that the suit was not cognizable by the Civil Court, (1) as it related to land revenue and no certificate had been obtained from the Collector, and (2) as Revenue

Officers had special and exclusive jurisdiction in the matter under section 158 (1) and (2) IX of Act XVII of 1887. MAHANT GANESH DAS v. MAWAZ KHAN.

53 P R 1890

82. Small Cause—Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), section 77 (i)—Suit for value of a tree—Suit arising out of the condition on which a tenancy is held.

The defendants obtained a plot of land from the plaintiff with a view to planting trees therein, and promised that in case any tree or trees were cut, the price thereof would be divided half and half between the parties. Plaintiff sued defendant to recover Rs. 10 half the price of a shisham tree which the latter had cut and sold. Held, that the suit was cognizable by a Revenue Court, section 77 (i), Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887) as it arose out of a condition on which the tenancy was held. GAHNU v. SUNDAR. 65 P R 1890

83. Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), section 77, clause (i), Suit between a landlord and tenant arising out of the conditions on which a tenancy is held.

An occupancy tenant having mortgaged his holding, the landlord sued to set aside the mortgage and obtained possession by decree of Court. The mortgagees then relinquished their charge on the land and the occupancy tenant sued to recover possession on the ground that the reason for the forfeiture had ceased to exist.

Held, that the suit was cognizable by a Revenue Court under section 77 (i) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. It was in consequence of a breach of the conditions against mortgaging that the plaintiff was deprived of the possession which under altered circumstances he now sought to recover. Thus the suit arose indirectly, if not directly, out of the conditions on which the tenancy was held. BAHADAR ALI v. NIHALA. 104 P R 1890

84. Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), section 77 (i)—Suit arising out of the conditions on which a tenancy is held.

A tenant-at-will having cut certain trees, the proprietors sued him for the price thereof. They alleged that by custom the tenant was not entitled to cut timber.

Held, that the suit was cognizable by a Revenue Court under section 77 (i) of the Tenancy Act of 1887, as a suit arising out of the condition on which the tenancy was held. RODA v. KAHNA. 105 P R 1890

85. Suit by co-mortgagee for share of produce—Punjab Tenancy Act (XVII of 1887), section 77, clause (k)—Punjab Land Revenue Act (XVII of 1887), section 3 (2) and (3).

A suit by a co-mortgagee of a holding to recover his share of the produce from another co-mortgagee is cognizable by a Revenue Court under section 77 (k) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. The expression holding in that section bears the same sense as in the Land Revenue Act, 1887, and by the latter Act, a landowner includes a mortgagee. Civil Judgment No. 34 P. R. 1888, distinguished, as being a ruling upon a provision of law in different terms, which has since been repealed. RAM CHAND v. UTTAM CHAND. 106 P R 1890

86. Date revenue in Dera Ghazi Khan.

Date revenue as assessed in the Dera Ghazi Khan district is land revenue within the meaning of the Punjab Tenancy Act, XVI of 1887, and a suit for recovery of the amount due on account thereof is not cognizable by a Civil but by a Revenue Court, under section 77 (p), Tenancy Act. HAIDAR v. LUTF SHAH. 109 P R 1890

87. Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), section 77 (i)—Suit by owner of trees against occupancy tenant of land on which they stand for value of fruit trees.

A suit by the owner of trees against the occupancy tenants of the land on which they stand for value of the fruit thereof collected by the defendants in virtue of an alleged right inherent in themselves is a Civil and not a Revenue suit, the owner of the trees not being a landlord within the meaning of the Tenancy Act, 1887. DEWA v. HIRA SINGH. 119 P R 1890

88. Suit for partition—Question of title—Punjab Land Revenue Act (XVII of 1887), sections 116, 117.

In a claim for partition of land, its liability to partition was denied on the ground of a private division. The plaintiff contended that the so-called division did not sever the joint title or convert the joint property, or any portion of it into severalty.

Held, that the suit was cognizable by a Civil Couat. A question of title had been raised within the meaning of section 116 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, which could only be decided after a regular trial either by a Civil Court or a Revenue Court acting under section 117 as a Court, and not by a Revenue Officer as such.

The expression in section 116 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, "question "of title" and "questions as to the pro-"perty to be divided" considered and explained. RADHU v. MUSSAMMAT NANDO.

150 P R 1890

89. Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), section 77 (e)—Suit to eject a tenant.

In a case where the plaintiff sued to eject the defendants from land on the allegation that the land in suit had been given to defendants for cultivation on payment of certain rent, that they had refused to pay the same and had set up an adverse title and refused to vacate, held that the suit as laid was cognizable by a Revenue Court. The true description of the defendants according to the allegation in the plaint was that of tenants holding over after the expiration of an agricultural year. IBRAHIM v. AZIM. 162 P R 1890

90. Enhancement of rent—Decision as to proprietary right.

In a suit for enhancement of rent defendant pleaded that he was proprietor and not tenant. The Commissioner decreed enhancement leaving the defendant to sue for declaration of proprietary right in the Civil Court. Held, that the Commissioner was bound to decide the question of title.

A Revenue Court has jurisdiction to decide all points necessary to the decision of the questions before it. MUNSHI v. KESAR.

2 P R 1890 Rev

91. Cesses—Hak-buha.

Held, that a suit for the recovery of hak-buha is cognizable by the Revenue and not by the Civil Courts, section 77(j), Tenancy Act, section 3 (10), Land Revenue Act. GOWHRA v. ALI GAUHAR.

11 P R 1890 Rev.

92. Punjab Land Revenue Act (XVII of 1887), sections 117 and 118—Question of title—Procedure—Appeals from orders of Assistant Collectors under section 117 (1) lie to the Collector and not to the Commissioner.

In a case of partition in which a question of title had been raised, held, that the Lower Courts acted ultra vires in deciding upon which party the onus of appealing to the Civil Courts lay, and in directing that the partition proceedings should continue in default of a party suing in the Civil Court within a specified time.

The proper procedure in such a case is for the Revenue Court either to proceed under section 117 (2) or to leave the parties to have the point at issue determined by a competent Court at their pleasure, and till then to decline to grant the application for partition. GUNGA v. JHANDA SINGH.

14 P R 1890 Rev

93. Punjab Land Revenue Act (XVII of 1887), sections 117, 118—Question of title.

In a case relating to partition the right of certain parties to a share in the shamilat was disputed.

The Assistant Collector being of opinion that the dispute affected the mode of partition only made a summary enquiry and passed an order under section 118 (1) of the Punjab Land Revenue Act. On appeal the Commissioner held that the proprietor of land in a patti was obviously entitled to a corresponding share in the shamilat.

Held, that the proceedings of the Courts below were void for want of jurisdiction. The question at issue was purely one of title and should have been disposed of under section 117 (1) or (2), questions as to the property to be divided or the mode of making the partition may be dealt with under section 118 only when they do not involve any question as to title in the property of which partition is sought. CHANDA SINGH v. FATEH SINGH. 15 P R 1890 Rev

94. Possession of land without consent of landlord—Jurisdiction—Civil and Revenue Court.

The plaintiff alleged that he was the mortgagee of certain land under a mortgage from the defendant 2: that he had possession: that the defendants 1, 2, and 4, forcibly dispossessed him and that he sued and recovered Rs. 100 as damages for the harvest of Sawan, Sambat 1945: that subsequently defendants 1 and 2, through defendant 3, and defendant 4 again forcibly cultivated the same land: and he claimed compensation to the amount of Rs. 200.

Held, that the suit fell under section 14 and section 77, sub-section (3) (n) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and was therefore not cognizable by the Civil Courts.

The defendants were according to the allegations of the plaintiff, " in possession of land " occupied without the consent of the plaintiff " who was undoubtedly on his allegations " the landlord " within the meaning of section 14 of the Tenancy Act. BHOLA NATH v. DANA. 19 P R 1891

95. Jurisdiction—Civil or Revenue—Suit by co-sharer for a share of profits.

The plaintiffs sued alleging that he was a joint owner with the defendants in certain specified land: that the land had been cultivated by the defendants and by tenants, the defendants taking all the profits: and plaintiff claimed his share, viz. one-sixth for three years, valued at Rs. 600.

Held, that the suit fell within section 77, sub-section (3) (k), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, as a suit by a co-sharer, in a holding for a share of the profits thereof and was cognizable by a Revenue Court. ISHAR SINGH v. JOWALA SINGH. 38 P R 1891

96. Jurisdiction—Civil or Revenue Courts—Suit by a person out of possession claiming possession on ground of succession as tenant—Punjab Tenancy, Act, 1887, section 77, sub-section (3), clauses (d) and (i).

Held, by the Full Bench, that a suit by a person out of possession claiming the possession of land from the proprietor on the ground that he has a right of succession as a tenant, does not fall either under clause (d) or clause (i) of section 77, sub-section (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.

To establish the complete relation of landlord and tenant between two persons in respect of land within the meaning of the Tenancy Act, it is essential that two things shall concur, viz. (1) a right to enter upon and possess the land, and (2) an entry into possession. Upon entry and not before the person having the right becomes a " tenant " and " holds " the land under the person called the landlord.

The test, under the Tenancy Act, whether a person has or has not become a tenant (with or without a right of occupancy) is whether such peason having the right to enter upon and possess particular land, has or has not entered into possession, in pursuance of that right. If such person has entered, he is a tenant.

If such person has not entered, his suit for entry into possession, whether he claims a right of occupancy or not, is not cognizable by a Revenue Court but by a Civil Court only.

No. 9 P. R. 1888 and No. 105 P. R. 1890, Note referred to. JOTI v. MAYA. 44 P R 1891 F B

97. Jurisdiction—Civil or Revenue Courts—Suit by occupancy tenant to recover possession of land from the proprietor more than one year after dispossession—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77, sub-sectisn (3) clause (i).

Held, by the Full Bench, that a suit by a person who has been dispossessed more than one year before suit to recover possession of land from the proprietor thereof on the ground that he is the occupancy tenant of the land, is not a suit falling within section 77, sub-section (3), clause (i) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and is therefore not cognizable by a Revenue Court.

A tenant who has been dispossessed can for the period of one year from the date of his dispossession claim to be still regarded as a tenant quoad his landlord, his suit for recovery of possession being (as expressly provided in section 50 and section 77, sub-section (3), clause (g) of the Act) cognizable by a Revenue Court.

If the tenant allows the period of one year to elapse without filing a suit he must be taken (subject to any recognized disability) to have relinquished his right to be still regarded as a tenant, and his remedy (if any) must be sought in the Civil and not in the Revenue Court.

No. 104 P. R. 1890 and No. 44 P. R. 1891, referred to. KESAR SINGH AND VIR SINGH v. NIHAL SINGH. 45 P R 1891 F B

98. Share of profits—Suit for jurisdiction—Punjab Tenancy Act, section 77, sub-section (3) (k).

The plaint alleged:

(1). That defendant 1 mortgaged certain land to defendant 2 and plaintiff (who were brothers), and that plaintiff and defendant 2 sued jointly and obtained joint possession of the land:

(2). That defendants notwithstanding the decree, collusively take the whole profits and give the plaintiff nothing, refusing to give him a share.

The plaintiff therefore prayed for a decree for Rs. 120, his share of mesne profits for six harvests,

Held, that the suit fell within section 77, sub-section (3), clause (k), of the Punjab

Tenancy Act, 1887, so far as it was a suit between the plaintiff and defendant 2, and that the jurisdiction of the Revenue Court was not ousted by the addition of defendant 1 as co-defendant. UMAR BAKHSH v. IBRAHIM. 47 P R 1891

99. Kamiana—Non-agriculturist resident in village—Village-cess—Jurisdiction—Civil or Revenue Court.

Held, that the kamiana leviable in the village under the terms of the wajib-ul-arz was a due customarily leviable from the kamins of the classes specified and not a payment for the use of private property or for personal service, nor imposed by any enactment, and that it was therefore "a village-cess" as defined in section 4, sub-section (12) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and this suit being one for kamiana was cognizable by the Revenue Courts under section 77, sub-section (3) (j) of the said Act. It was in fact a due payable by non-agriculturist artizans in respect of the privilege of carrying on their trades in the village by the permission of the proprietary body.

No. 33 P. R. 1887, No. 108 P. R. 1887, and No. 81 P. R. 1888, referred to. FAZAL v. SAMANDAR KHAN. 49 P R 1891

100. Suit by mortgagee for value of profits of mortgaged land—Illegal ejectment of mortgagee by mortgagor—Jurisdiction—Civil and Revenue Courts.

The plaintiff sued alleging that the defendant had mortgaged certain land* to A. R. whom the plaintiff represented, and had delivered possession that mutation had taken place in plaintiff's favour; and that defendant forcibly ejected him. The plaintiff accordingly claimed Rs. 500 for produce for the three years before suit.

Held, that the suit fell under section 14 and section 77, sub-section (3) (n), of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and was therefore not cognizable by the Civil Courts. No. 19 P. R. 1891, followed.

Observations upon the provisions of section 100, Tenancy Act, relative to the validating of proceedings had under a mistake as to jurisdiction. WAZIR KHAN v. RALLIA RAM. 68 P R 1891

101. Jurisdiction of Civil Courts—Declaration—Mode of assessment—Pensions Act, 1871—Jurisdiction of Revenue Courts—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 158, sub-section (2), clauses (ix) and (xiv).

The Civil Courts have no jurisdiction to declare what the Revenue authorities have decided as between the parties that the assessment of the land revenue is to be in the form of a cash payment or a payment in kind.

Per BENTON, J.—The suit was barred under section 4 of the Pensions Act, 1871, as no certificate had been obtained under section 6 of the Act. The suit was also barred under section 158, sub-section (2), clause (xiv), Land Revenue Act, 1887, the matter in dispute being the amount of land revenue to be paid on certain holdings under the Act as land revenue as defined in the Act. Nos. 28 P. R. 1888, and 53 P. R. 1890, referred to.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

Per STOGDON, J.—The plaintiffs' claim to be entitled to discharge an obligation in a particular manner could hardly be called a claim to a right within the meaning of section 42 of the Specific Relief Act: but even if the claim did come within the purview of the section, a Civil Court would exercise wise discretion in refusing to make a declaration explaining its opinion regarding the meaning of orders passed by the Revenue authorities, and on this account the suit should have been dismissed. Further, the suit related to a grant of land revenue made by the British Government, and the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts was barred by section 4 of the Pensions Act, 1871. NAWAB MUHAMMAD RAB NAWAZ KHAN v. NAWAB HAFIZ ABDULLA KHAN.

77 P R 1891

102. Landlord and tenant—Suit for damages—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts.

A suit for damages for wrongful seizure of produce is cognizable by the Civil Courts, even though the plaintiff be a tenant and the defendant a landlord, when the suit is not one for the recovery of an over-payment of rent or land-revenue, or one arising out of the lease or conditions on which the tenancy is held (section 77, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887). UDHAM SINGH v. MAHESHA. 80 P R 1891

103. Civil and Revenue Courts—Suit for land and mesne profits.

The Court of first instance a Civil Court entertained and disposed of a suit in which the possession of land was claimed and also mesne profits. The Court decreed in the plaintiff's favour both for the land and the mesne profits.

Held, that the claim as laid was partly cognizable by the Civil and partly by the Revenue Court.

The first Court should have amended the plaint by striking out the claim for mesne profits, referring the plaintiffs to the Revenue Courts in respect to this portion of their claim, and deciding the suit as one for land only.

The appellate Court's duty was to remedy the error by, in any case, striking out of the decree the portion thereof awarding mesne profits, on the ground that the first Court had no jurisdiction over the matter and to hear and decide the appeal so far as it related to the land.

Observations as to the making of references to the Chief Court under section 617, Civil Procedure Code, in cases in which a further appeal will lie upon a Certificate granted by the Divisional Judge, or in which an application for revision can be preferred under section 622 of the Code. MUSSAMMAT KARMON v. JIWAN MAL.

19 P R 1892

104. Civil Court—Suit for declaration that land was not subject to partition—Jurisdiction.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

The plaintiff sued asking for (1) a declaration that a holding of 52 ghumaos 6 kanals and 19 marlas was not subject to partition; (2) any other relief that the Court might grant.

The lower Courts declined to entertain the suit on the ground that it called in question the order of a Revenue Officer, and that no qnestion of title had been referred to a Civil Court.

Held, that in the absence of an adjudication by the Revenue Officer himself under section 117, Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, the suit was cognizable by the Civil Court. DEWA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT JAWALI. 39 P R 1892

105. Civil and Revenue Courts—Site of watermill—Purpose subservient to agriculture—Jurisdiction.

The plaintiff sued for damages for the unlawful possession of a water-mill.

Held, that the suit was cognizable by the Civil and not by the Revenue Courts, the purpose for which the site of the mill was occupied, viz., the grinding of corn, not being a purpose "subservient to agriculture" within the meaning of section 4 (1), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. MUTSADDI v. SAWAN. 41 P R 1892

106. Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Mortgage by occupancy tenant—Mortgagee to receive half net profits without possession—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (k).

The defendant, a tenant with rights of occupancy, mortgaged his land to the plaintiff on the understanding that the mortgagor should retain possession and the mortgagee receive half the net profits of the tenancy.

The defendant withheld from the plaintiff his share of the profits, hence the present suit.

Held, that the suit was cognizable by the Civil Court, the plaintiff and defendant not being co-sharers "in an estate or holding," and clause (k), sub-section (3), section 77, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, being therefore inapplicable. GANGU v. ASAD.

70 P R 1892

107. Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Section 158 (2) (xvii), Land Revenue Act, 1887—Allegation of error in partition proceedings.

The plaintiffs sued for a declaration that they were owners of certain land contained in three specified khasra numbers of which they alleged that they were in possession under a partition made by the Revenue authorities in 1884.

The final record of the partition showed that the land fell to the defendant's share, but this it was alleged was owing to an error in the preparation of the final papers

Held, thnt the suit distinctly raised a question connected with, or arising out of, proceedings for partition within the meaning of section 158, sub-section (2) (xvii), Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, and that the question was not one "as to title in any of the property of which partition is sought" within the same clause, and that the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts was ousted. AHMAD KHAN v. BAHADUR. 88 P R 1892

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

108. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77—Landlord and tenant—Suit to recover possession from defendant on the basis that plaintiff is the proprietor—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

The plaintiff served the defendant with a notice of ejectment under the provisions of section 45, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, The defendant instituted a suit to contest his liability to be ejected and succeeded.

The plaintiff then sued the defendant to recover possession of the land from the defendant, alleging himself to be proprietor.

Held, that the suit was not excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Courts, the plaintiff making an allegation that the parties occupied the relation of landlord and tenant, but that he (the plaintiff) was proprietor and sought to recover possession from the defendant. GHULAM HUSSAIN v. PIR SHAH. 18 P R 1893

109. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77, sub-section (3) (e)—Suit by landlord to eject tenant—Suit by mortgagee to recover possession on failure of mortgagor to pay rent—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts.

The plaintiffs sued alleging that—

(1) the defendant had mortgaged his land to them, with the condition that he was to retain possession and pay them a certain malikana or rent annually.

(2) with the further condition that in case of a failure by the defendant to pay rent, the plaintiffs were to be placed in possession.

The plaintiff's father alleged a breach by the defendant and sued for possession accordingly.

Held, that the suit fell within the purview of section 77, sub-section (3) (e) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887,—suits by a landlord to eject a tenant—and was cognizable by the Revenue Courts only.

The defendant held for the term of the mortgage, subject to the condition of punctual payment of rent. The ground on which the plaintiffs sued for his ejectment was therefore that stated in section 40 (c) of the Tenancy Act, viz., a failure to pay rent which would justify his ejectment under the contract. GURDITTA v. PANJU SHAH.

19 R P 1893

110. Punjab Courts Act, (1884 as amended)—Suit for declaration of proprietary title to a share in a well—Land suit—Provisions of the law for obtaining a final decision as to whether a suit is cognizable by the Civil or Revenue Courts.

S. K. a Nari Rajput, who had four sons and one daughter, married his daughter in the time of the Sikhs to Sale K., a Bhati Rajput, who came to reside with him.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

N. K., one of S. K.'s sons, died without male issue but leaving a daughter: the descendants of the other three sons of S. K. were defendants in the present suit.

Three sons were the issue of the marriage between Sale K. and S. K.'s daughter, of whom only two, Kesar and Sharfu, had male issue.

Kesar married the daughter of N. K. and the issue of this marriage were also defendants in the present suit.

Sharfu had three sons who were the plaintiffs in the suit.

The plaintiffs' case was that S. K. gave one-fourth share of a well and the land belonging to it to his son-in-law, Sale K. from whom it devolved on his two sons in equal shares; and plaintiffs asked for a declaration as sons of Sharfu, son of Sale K. of their proprietary title to a one-thirteenth share in the well on the ground of gift of a share by S. K. to Sale K.

Held, that this was a land and not an unclassed suit. No 62 P. R. 1891, followed.

Attention drawn to the provisions of the law for obtaining a final decision, in cases of doubt whether a suit is cognizable by the Civil or Revenue Courts, viz.:—

Section 99, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.
Section 44, Punjab Courts Act, 1884 (as amended by Act XIII of 1888)
Section 617, Civil Procedure Code, 1882. DHANI KHAN v. MAHTAB KHAN. 40 P R 1893

111. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77, sub-section (3), clause (n)—Suit by mortgagee to recover sum due by mortgagor who had leased the mortgaged land—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court.

The plaintiff sued in a Civil Court upon a written contract, which, after reciting a previous mortgage of one-third of a well to the plaintiff for Rs. 109, with profits to equal the interest, declared that the defendant (previous mortgagor) agreed to take the said one-third share on lease irom the plaintiff, and pay him Rs. 13-1-0 a year in addition to the revenue.

Held, that the effect of the contract was to make the defendant a tenant under the plaintiff (the mortgagee) and that the suit was one for rent, thus falling under section 77, sub-section (3), clause (n), Puhjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and was cognizable by a Revenue Court only. LACHMAN v. RAHMAN.

41 P R 1893

112. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 4, sub-section 12 and section 77, sub-section (3), clause (j)—Suit for marriage dues—" Village-cess "—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court.

Held, that a suit to recover puch bakri, or dues on marriages payable by non-proprietors was one which fell within the provisions of section 4, sub-section (12) and section 77, sub-section (3), clause (j), of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and was cognizable by a Revenue Court only. DILBAR v. ALI AKBAR. 42 P R 1893

113. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77, sub-section (3), clause (e)—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Suit by landlord to eject tenant—Relationship of landlord and tenant.—Registration of decree in Court having jurisdiction under section 100, Tenancy Act, 1887.

The plaintiff sued for possession of 13 bighas 7½ biswas of land, on the following allegations:—

(1) that the land was the milkyat of themselves and their ancestors;
(2) that the plaintiffs gave the land to the defendants for cultivation for the term of one year, at a date one year previous to the settlement, the arrangement being that the defendants were to pay the revenue only, but that on 6th January 1882, the defendants deceitfully got an entry made in the settlement papers that the land was their own;
(3) that the plaintiffs had constantly called upon the defendant to relinquish the land, but had been as often put off by excuses until fifteen days ago when the defendant absolutely refused to give up the land.

Held, that on the above allegations the suit was one by a landlord to eject a tenant, and fell within section 77, sub-section (3), clause (e) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1877, and was cognizable by a Revenue Court only.

Observations as to the discretion to be exercised by the Chief Court in ordering that a decree be registered in the Court which had jurisdiction under section 100 of the Tenancy Act, 1887, when the decree of the first Court has been reversed on appeal or otherwise.

No. 162 P. R. 1890, and No. 19 P. R. 1891. referred to. AFLATON v. JAI RAM. 53 P R 1893

114. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 4, (12) and 77, sub-section (3), clause (j)—Village-cess—Marriage fees claimed from non-proprietary resident—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court.

The plaintiff, the sole proprietor of the village, sued the defendant, a non-proprietary resident, for Rs. 11 on account of marriage fees alleged to be due according to custom, as recorded in the Wajib-ul-arz, on the marriage of the defendant's two daughters.

The suit was entertained and tried by the Civil Courts.

Held, that the suit was cognizable exclusively by the Revenue Courts under section 77, sub-section (3), clause (j), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. (Suits for sums payable on account of village-cesses or village-expenses). SHARIF-UD-DIN v. SHER KHAN. 55 P R 1893

115. Arbitration—Partition of agricultural and residential land and house property—Suit to enforce terms of award—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts—Section 158 (2) (xvii) and section 123, Land Revenue Act, 1887.

By written agreements the parties to the suit appointed K. L. their arbitrator to partition between them certain joint property, consisting of land and houses, to equalize and adjust the shares by transfer from one party to the other of land exclusively owned by either party and generally to settle between them all disputes whatsoever relating to their joint or exclusive property. An elaborate and comprehensive award was prepared, and the parties after having heard it read signed the document in token of their assent. The defendant, however, refused subsequently to carry out the terms of the award, and the plaintiff sued to enforce them.

For the defendant it was contended, (1) that the agreement did not authorise the arbitrator to declare that previous judicial decrees between the parties were to be deemed ineffectual; (2) that the arbitrator also exceeded his authority in adding a stipulation relating to the revenue of the land assigned rent-free to respondent as ala lambardar.

Held, that the powers expressly conferred upon the arbitrator were wide enough to embrace a decision upon both the matters referred to.

Held, also, that the claim was not excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Court by section 158, sub-section (2) (xvii), Land Revenue Act, 1887, as it was not one which asked the Court to effect a partition, but was for the enforcement of an award by which the partition had already been fully carried out.

Held, also, that the question, whether the liability of land to partition on the ground of a private division was a "queston of title" within the meaning of the Act, was concluded adversely to the contention for the defendant, by the decision reported as No. 150 P. R. 1890. SARDAR WASAWA SINGH v. SARDAR ARUR SINGH. 63 P R 1893

116. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77, sub-section (3) (m)—Jurisdiction of Revenue Court—Suit for land alleged to have been granted to the plaintiff revenue-free, as ala lambardar.

The plaintiff sued to recover certain land of which he had been dispossessed by the defendants and which he alleged had been given to him revenue-free as ala lambardar.

Held, that the suit as laid was one relating to the emoluments of a village officer within the terms of clause (m), sub-section (3), section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and therefore cognizable by the Revenue Court only. KESAR SINGH v. JHANDA SINGH. 66 P R 1893

117. Punjab Tenancg Act, 1877, section 77, sub-section (3) (d)—Suit by tenant to establish claim to a right of accupancy—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts.

The plaintiffs who had been ejected from the land in suit by order of a Revenue Court under the last clause of section 45, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sued in the Civil Court, to be restored to possession on the ground that they had a right of occupancy in the land.

1579

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

Held, following the Full Bench rulings Nos. 44 and 45 P. R. 1891, that the suit was cognizable by the Civil Court, and not by the Revenue Courts. KHARKU v. DITTU.
70 P R 1893

118. Custom, Alienation—Gift of occupancy rights—Jurisdiction of Revenue Court.

G., a Hindu Rajput and a sonless land owner of tahsil Unah in the Hoshiarpur District, shortly before his death made a gift of occupancy rights in his land to S. a collateral kinsman but not an heir. In a suit brought after G.'s death by the plaintiffs, collateral kinsmen and heirs of G. for possession of G.'s land, it was contended for the defendant that the Civil Court had not jurisdiction to hear the suit, and that the grant by G. of occupancy rights was valid.

Held, that as S. has not taken possession of the land as a tenant during the lifetime of G. the suit was properly brought in the Civil Court.

No. 100 P. R. 1886, referred to. SUBA v. MOHRA.
71 P R 1893

119. Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts—Suit for declaration of plaintiff's right to a partition of the village common land without consent of defendant—Question of title—Sections 115 and 117, Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887.

An application for partition of the village common land having been refused by a Revenue Officer on the ground that by the terms of the wajib-ul-arz the consent of all the share-holders was necessary and had not been obtained, the present suit was instituted in order to establish the plaintiffs' title in a certain portion of the common land, and for a declaration of their right to partition the same without the assent of the other co-sharers. The Divisional Judge, being of opinion that the only question involved in the case was whether the land was or was not to be divided and that such a question could be decided by a Revenue Officer alone under section 115 of the Land Revenue Act, dismissed the suit on that ground.

Held, that the question to be determined in the case was, (1) a question as to title in the property of which partition was sought; and (2) not a question as to the property to be divided, or of the mode of making partition; and that the plaintiffs were accordingly entitled to an adjudication in appeal whether, so far as it was a matter of civil right, they were entitled to partition of their shares, notwithstanding the dissent of the defendants.

No. 15 P. R. 1890 Revenue, and No. 150 P. R. 1890 referred to. KHUBI v. AST KHAN.
82 P R 1893

1580

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

120. Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts—Suit for declaration as to the amount of rent payable by one mortgagee, to another mortgagee both mootgagees cultivating and taking the produce according to their mortgage shares—section 77, sub-section (3) (k) and section 4 (5), (b), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.

Held, in a suit by one of two mortgagees of a holding for a declaration as to the amount of produce which he was entitled to receive from the other mortgagee for land cultivated by the latter as a mortgagee, that the Civil Courts had jurisdiction to try the suit. MUHAMMAD KHAN v. ASHIQ MUHAMMAD KHAN.
112 P R 1893

121. Grant of land to office of ala lambardar—Acquisition of occupancy rights in such land—Tenant—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts—Section 5, sub-section (1), (d) and section 77, sub-section (3), (m) Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.

In a suit by the village proprietors to recover from the sons of one G. S. certain lands held by him as ala lambardar, the claim was resisted on the ground that G. S. had before his death acquired by long possession occupancy rights in the land, and that his sons therefore could not be dispossessed without payment of compensation for improvements.

Held, that as the plaintiffs did not seek to recover the lands on the ground that defendants, or any one of them, wrongly claimed to hold them as ala lambardar, nor did defendants resist the suit on such ground the claim did not fall under section 77 (3) (m) of Act XVI of 1887, so as to be excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Couris under the above clause.

Held, further, that the suit was not excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Courts as one for ejectment of tenant, as the history of the acquistion of the land in suit by G. S. negatived the proposition that he held the land under the plaintiff proprietors, and, this being so, his sons clearly could not claim either occupancy rights or compensation.

No. 105 P. R. 1879. and No. 15 P. R. 1892 (Revenue), referred to. SHAM SINGH v. GHULA SINGH.
123 P R 1893

122. Purchaser of growing crop undertaking to clear land of it by stipulated time—Suit by owner of land for damages and value of crop—" Arrears of rent or money equivalent of rent"—Use or occupation of land"—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (n) —Breach of contract—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts.

Held, that a suit by an owner of land for damages from a person who has agreed to buy a growing crop and clear the land of such crop within a stipulated time, and who has failed to do so, is purely one for damages for breach of contract, and is cognizable by a Cfvil Court. SITAL PARSHAD v. RAI GOPI MAL.
14 P R 1894

1581

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

123. Suit for recovery of land from trespasser—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts.

Held, that a suit by a landlord for recovery of certain lands, lately held by a tenant who died "lawaris," from a person who is alleged to have taken possession thereof without any title, is cognizable by a Civil Court as a suit against a trespasser and is not a suit by a landlord to prove that a tenant has not a right of occupancy, notwithstanding that defendants in their answer claim such a right.

No. 44 P. R. 1891, distinguished. MEWA SINGH v. NATHU.
22 P R 1894

124. Lease of "tirni"—Suit by lessee to enforce contribution from co-lessee towards sum paid into treasury—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (p).

The plaintiffs alleged that the defendant was a co-lessee with them of the "tirni" or Government grazing tax' for two years, the defendant's interest being one-third, and that they had paid into the Government Treasury the full price of the lease. The plaintiffs, therefore, sued the defendant for his one-third share of the amount so paid in, and the Munsif, before whom the suit was instituted, granted them a decree for part of the sum claimed. The parties having appealed, the Additional District Judge referred the case to the Chief Court on the ground that the suit appeared to be a revenue suit under section 77 (3) (p) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and cognizable only by a Revenue Court.

Held, that the suit was cognizable by a Civil Court, and not by a Revenue Court as being for a debt due by defendant to the plaintiffs for monies paid by the plaintiffs to the Government on his behalf. MEHRA v. MOGHLA.
33 P R 1894

125. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (e)—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Ejectment suit—Trespasser—Construction of plaint.

The plaint alleged that some seven years before suit defendant had entered on certain land as the tenant-at-will of plaintiffs' predecessors in title; that he had refused to vacate when called upon to do so, and that plaintiffs had sued in a Revenue Court for his ejectment and had been referred to a Civil Court on the ground that the relationship of landlord and tenant, which was denied by the defendant, did not exist between the parties.

Held, that such plaint might fairly be construed as alleging that the plaintiffs were suing to recover land from one who was in wrongful possession thereof and that, so construed, it had rightly been adjudicated upon by a Civil Court. KUSHAL SINGH v. ARJAN SINGH.
41 P R 1894

126. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77, sub-section (3), clause (e)—" Suit by land- lord to eject a tenant"—Suit by mortgagee for possession under the terms of the mortgage —Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

In the first case, plaintiff, mortgagee, sued for possession of certain land mortgaged to him by a deed, dated 15th July 1881, under the terms of which the mortgage was to be with possession, but the plaint alleged that the mortgagee at sometime not stated gave the mortgagor the land to cultivate on payment of Rs. 5 per annum; that the mortgagor continued to pay this sum till his death, when his sons, the defendants, succeeded him and continued to pay the 5 rupees malikana until three years ago, since when they have paid nothing.

In the second case, the plaintiff, mortgagee, sued for possession of the mortgaged land under the terms of the mortgage deed which provided that—

(i) the mortgagee should pay the land revenue;

(ii) the mortgagor should retain possession of the land, paying one "pand" of sugarcane a year as malikana;

(iii) if default were made in this payment in any year, the mortgagee might take possession of the land, and, on his doing so, interest and malikana should be barabar.

In the third case, the plaint recited a mortgage with possession and a payment of malikana by the defendant, mortgagor, up to a stated date, and default in payment after that date, and plaintiff prayed for possession of the mortgaged land under the terms of the deed, which recited that possession had already been given to the mortgagee who would continue in possession as owner until redemption, pay the Government revenue and be proprietor of profit and loss. But the plaintiff. mortgagee, in his deposition contradicted the allegation in the plaint of any receipt of malikana, and admitted that he had never obtained actual possession as provided in the deed.

Held, by the Full Bench, in the first and second cases, that the relation of landlord and tenant existed between the mortgagee and the mortgagor, and both suits fell within the provisions of section 77, sub-section (3), clause (e) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and were cognizable by a Revenue Court.

But, held, in the third case, that the relation of landlord and tenant did not exist between the mortgagee and the mortgagor, inasmuch as reading the plaint with the mortgage deed and the plaintiff's deposition, the allegation in the plaint that plaintiff had received malikana from the defendant up to a certain period was untrue, and the suit was, therefore, cognizable by a Civil Court.

In a suit by a mortgagee to obtain possession of the mortgaged land from the mortgagor, the question whether the suit is, or is not, a revenue suit depends upon whether the plaintiff's claim involves that the defendant, mortgagor, stands in regard to the plaintiff, mortgagee, in the relation of tenant to landlord. When there is a written instrument on which the claim is based, or to which the plaint refers, the instrument will need to be construed to discover the expressed intention of the parties as to their consequent mutual position in respect of the possession of the mortgaged land.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

When a mortgagor derives a title to cultivating possession of the mortgaged land from a mortgagee to whom the right of proprietary possession has been transferred by the mortgagor, the mortgagor "holds the land under" the mortgagee.

When, by the terms of the mortgage, the right of proprietary possession is agreed to be transferred to the mortgagee, without cultivating possession being retained by the mortgagor, and possession of the land is notwithstanding his contract, retained by the mortgagor, so that the mortgagee is driven to a suit for entry, the mortgagor does not "hold the land under" the mortgagee. BUTA SHAH v. KALU.

46 P R 1894 F. B.

127. Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), section 77, clause (e)—Ejectment suit—Suit to establish proprietary right—Landlord and tenant—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts.

Plaintiffs having made an application to the Revenue authorites that the settlement of the land revenue in respect of certain land should be made with them, and the Collector's order thereon being to the effect that as C. through whom plaintiffs claimed, had long been out of possession, the plaintiffs' position as proprietors could not be recognized until it had been established in the Civil Courts, plaintiffs sued in a Civil Court on the allegations that C. was originally proprietor of certain land; that his heirs, who were made pro forma defendants, had assigned their rights to plaintiffs, and that the other defendants held the land under C. and his successors on a lease expiring with the settlement, subject to a payment of one topah per maund. The settlement having expired, plaintiffs claimed possession of the land in dispute from the defendants.

Held, that inasmuch as the Revenue Court had not decided on plaintiffs' original application that the relationship of landlord and tenant did not exist between plaintiffs and defendants, this was a suit for the ejectment of a tenant within the meaning of section 77, clause (e) of the Punjab Tanancy Act, 1887, and therefore, cognizable by a Revenue Court.

No. 18 P. R. 1893, distinguished. SHAHADAT v. GURDITTA MAL. 57 P R 1894

128. Punjab Land Revenue Act (XVII of 1887), sections 121, 122, 158, paras. (xvii) and (xviii)—Suit for possession of land allotted by instrument of partition—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts.

Partition proceedings for partition of certain shamilat land having been commenced in

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

September 1886, the Patwari on the 2nd September 1888 prepared a tabular statement showing the land to be allotted to each proprietor, and, on the 12th September 1888, the Tahsildar made a report upon these proceedings and applied to the Collector for manzuri. On 18th September 1888, the Collector passed an order that, after the usual completion, the papers should be filed, and on the 1st November 1888, after a report had meanwhile been made that the Patwari had taken a copy of the Collector's order for giving effect to the partition, and that entry of sanction to the partition had been made in the tahsil register, the Collector passed an order that the file be sent to the record room. On the 4th of June 1892, the plaintiff, who was one of the proprietors, sued in a Civil Court for possession of the share allotted to him, and his claim was decreed by the first Court. On appeal by the defendant, the Divisional Judge dismissed the plaintiff's suit as being one not cognizable by the Civil Courts. Plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, that, inasmuch as this was a suit by a person alleging himself to be sole owner of a plot of land for possession of the same as against the defendant instituted after more than three years had elapsed from November 1888, the latest date on which the partition could be viewed as taking effect, it was prima facie cognizable by a Civil Court and there was nothing in section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, to give jurisdiction to a Revenue Court, or in sub-section (2), paras. (17) and (18) of section 158 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, to bar the jurisdiction of the Civil Court.

Semble.—If the plaintiff had brought this suit within three years from November 1888, the jurisdiction of the Civil Court would have been barred by sub-section (1) of section 158 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887. GURDIT SINGH v. LABH SINGH.

63 P R 1894

129. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 4, 14, 77 (3) (h)—"Landlord"—Suit for compensation for occupation of land—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts—Mortgage by alleged widow impeached by prima facie heirs of last holder.

Plaintiffs sued in a Civil Court alleging that certain land, the property of one Mussammat H. K., the widow of the deceased proprietor S. S, was mortgaged by her to them with possession; that they had obtained dakhil kharij, and that the defendants in Sambat 1950 prevented the plaintiffs' servant from sowing the land and cultivated it themselves. Plaintiffs' claimed compensation based on the computation of what the crops would have been, had they cultivated the land personally, or, in the alternative, that they might cut the crops and compensate defendants for their seed.

Held, that upon these allegations the plaintiffs were "the landlord" as regards the defendants, inasmuch as they were the persons immediately entitled to the use and occupation of the land of which the defendants were in possession without their consent; that section 14 and section 77, sub-section (3) (n) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, applied to the case, and that the fact that plaintiffs assessed compensation on a wrong principle did not oust the jurisdiction of the Revenue Courts.

It is not a correct interpretation of section 14 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, that it is not intended to apply to trespassers generally. The object of the section is to entitle "the landlord" of land occupied without his consent to recover payment on account of the use and occupation of such land from any person in possession of it, as though such person was for this purpose a tenant, and as though the money payable were for this purpose rent.

Nos. 19 and 68 P. R. 1891, approved. GHUNA MAL v. JHANDA SINGH. 82 P R 1894

130. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Suits for declaratory decree that land has reverted to landlord free of incumbrance —Suit by landlord to set aside transfer of right of occupancy—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 60, 77 (3) (h).

Plaintiff was landlord and one C. was occupancy tenant, under section 6 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, of the land in suit. C. during his lifetime mortgaged his rights in the land to the defendants and afterwards died, leaving no heirs, whereupon plaintiff entered into possession and sued for a declaratory decree that the said land had reverted to him free from any incumbrance Held, that the suit was one "by a landlord to set aside a transfer made of a right of occupancy" within the meaning of clause (h) of section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, and was cognizable only by a Revenue Court.

Clause (h) of section 77 (3) of the Act covers all suits in which the landlord calls in question the validity of a transfer of a right of occupancy, whether the suit is in form merely declaratory or is to dispossess the transferee. GURDIAL v. FARIDA.

88 P R 1894

131. Mortgage—Incomplete transaction, right of mortgagee under—Invalidity of transfer of occupancy rights by tenant—Practice of Civil Courts—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 53, 77, clause (3).

One Ishar, an occupancy tenant, holding under co-proprietors, of whom Ghanaya was one, on the 18th November 1875, mortgaged his holding to the said Ghanaya, who, on the 16th June 1878, obtained a decree for possession as mortgagee, and on the 9th July 1878 duly received possession in execution. On the 16th July 1878 Ishar made another mortgage of his land to one G. M. and on the 18th July 1878 paid money into Court for the purpose of redeeming the former mortgage to Ghanaya. Thereupon Ghanaya objected that redemption could not then take place, and the objection being allowed, Ishar withdrew the money deposited in Court. On the 13th June 1879 another application was made by Ishar to the Court to be allowed to pay the money into Court, but was dismissed, and no further attempt was thereafter made to redeem from Ghanaya, and additional mortgages were executed by Ishar in favour of Ghanaya on the 7th October 1880 and the 22nd May 1890. Meantime G. M. sold his rights under the mortgage of 16th July 1878 to Basan Mal, who, on the 15th July 1890, brought a suit for possession as mortgagee. The first Court dismissed the suit on the ground that the mortgage to G. M. as well as the subsequent transfer of that mortgage by G. M. to plaintiff, was void as made without the consent of the landlord, but the Divisional Judge, on appeal, reversed this decision on the grounds that Ghanaya, as only one out of a body of landlords, could not object to the mortgage and the subsequent transfer being void, as made without the consent of the landlord, and that although the said mortgage was an incomplete transaction, and therefore not entitled to priority over the later mortgages of the 7th October 1880 and 22nd May 1890 Ghanaya could not deny the right of plaintiff to redeem because his right to do so was not denied by Ishar. Ghanaya appealed to the Chief Court, and it was argued on his behalf that plaintiff's suit should have been dismissed (i) because of the want of consent of the landlord to the transfers required by section 53 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and (ii) because the mortgage of the 16th July 1878 was incomplete and full consideration had not passed.

Held, that inasmuch as clause (3) of section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, debars a Civil Court from taking cognizance of any dispute with respect to which a suit might be instituted in a Revenue Court, the Court could not take cognizance of the objection that the transfer in favour of G. M. in July 1878, and the transfer in favour of plaintiff in June 1890, were invalid under the provisions of section 53 of the Act.

Held, further, that Ghanaya's appeal must be dismissed on the ground that the only person who was pecuniarily interested in resisting plaintiff's claim to redeem was Ishar, who had preferred no appeal against the order of the Divisional Judge allowing the claim.

No. 100 P. R. 1889, referred to. GHANAYA v. BASAN MAL. 96 P R 1894

132. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77, clause (m)—Suit for possession of land alleged to have been assigned to plaintiff, "revenue free, as ala-lambardar"—"Emoluments of office of ala-lambardar"—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts.

The plaint alleged that plaintiff was ala-lambardar and, as such, entitled to possession of the land assigned at the previous Settlement for the support of the ala-lambardar, and that the defendants, who were the village proprietors, wrongfully deprived him possession on certain dates specified. It appeared that under the previous Settlement the ala-lambardar was paid, partly by a percentage on the revenue, and partly by the enjoyment of the produce of a particular plot of land, which had originally formed part of the shamilat, but which at the last Settlement had been set aside by the villagers for the partial support of the ala-lambardar, and of which Government had, for the same purpose, remitted the revenue. It further appeared that the appointment and dismissal of the ala-lambardar rested solely with Government, and that it was the Government, and not the village proprietors, who gave him, as a consequence of his appointment, possession and enjoyment of the profits of the assigned land.

Held, that the right to beneficial enjoyment of the land held by the plaintiff by virtue of his office of ala-lambardar was an "emolument" of his office within the meaning of clause (m) of section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and that the present suit was therefore only cognizable by a Revenue Court. GAMMU v. KHUDAYAR.

104 P R 1894

133. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 4 (5) 5, 77 (m)—Land assigned to ala-lambardar in virtue of his office—"Emoluments of village officer"—Village officer holding land as such officer—Landlord and tenant—Holding land under" another—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts.

The village proprietors having set aside a portion of the village shamilat for an endowment of the office of ala-lambardar and Government having appointed one G. S. to the said office, the latter entered into possession of the assigned land. On the death of G. S. some 20 years subsequently, the plaintiffs, who were the village proprietors, sued to recover the assigned land from the defendants, who were the sons of G. S. The defendants pleaded that G. S. had, before his death, acquired, by 20 years' possession, occupancy rights in the land, and that, in any event, they could not be dispossessed without payment of compensation for improvements.

On appeal by the defendants from the order of the Divisional Judge decreeing plaintiff's claim, the appeal was admitted to a Bench by the learned Judge in Chambers, and the question was raised whether the suit was cognizable only by a Revenue Court as falling under section 77, clause (m) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.

Held, that, inasmuch as plaintiffs did not sue to recover the land on the ground that defendants or any one of them wrongly claimed to hold it as ala-lambardar, nor did defendants resist the suit on such grounds, the suit did not fall within clause (m), of section 77, of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.

Held, further, that as defendants claimed occupancy rights under clause (d) of section 5 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, as being the sons of a person who had occupied the land as jagirdar for 20 years it wus necessary for them to show that the said person was not only a jagirdar but also "a tenant" as defined by the Act, and that it could not be said that, under an arrangement whereby the village proprietors assign a portion of land to the endowment of the office of ala-lambardar, to which Government appoints a certain person, the person so appointed and in possession of the assigned land is "tenant" of the village proprietors in the sense of holding land "under" them.

No. 105 P. R. 1879, and No. 15 P. R. 1892, Revenue cited. SHAM SINGH v. GHULA SINGH.

105 P R 1894

134. Suit for possession of land allotted by Revenue Officer on partition to defendants —Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 13—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 115, 116, 117, 122 and 158 (xvii) and (xviii).

On the 22nd December 1888, certain persons applied to the Revenue Office for partition of shamilat land as against certain persons, among whom were the present plaintiffs, alleging that of these defendants some were proprietors and others tenants; that each was in possession of more than his rateable share of the shamilat, and that, though there was a large quantity of such shamilat the whole of it was unculturable, with the exception of the area for partition of which they prayed. The usual proclamations having been issued, several persons objected to the partition, and on the 29th January 1889, plaintiffs presented a petition stating that they were in possession of part of the shamilat which they had brought under cultivation at their own expense, and of which they had obtained a lease at barani rates, and prayed that even if the shamilat were partitioned, the partition might be effected on condition of their being re-imbursed for their outlay in rendering the land culturable. They also joined with others in presenting a petition on the same date praying that partition might not be effected on the ground that the proprietors had, in 1875, agreed not to partition the shamilat and had ratified their agreement before the tahsildar. On the same date, the Revenue Officer passed an order to the effect, that such of the proprietors as had not joined in the agreement of 1875 were entitled to partition and directed the partition to be completed by the 1st March 1889. On the 22nd February 1889, plaintiffs and others presented a further petition praying for the stay of partition proceedings on the ground that they had, at great expense, reclaimed their rateable share of the shamilat and that it had been agreed that any plot reclaimed by a proprietor should be his (usi ka hua) and the other proprietors should have no concern with it. This petition, and an appeal to the Commissioner from the order of the 29th January 1889 having been rejected, the latter as being barred by limitation, partition proceedings went on for about two years, and on their termination, plaintiffs, on the 30th March 1891, again objected to land which had been reclaimed by them being given to others. The partition, however, was finally sanctioned by the same Revenue Officer on the 5th July 1891, and an instrument of partition prepared on the 29th Januaary 1892. On the 14th December 1891, plaintiffs instituted a suit in the Civil Court for possession of certain land, alleging that they were proprietors thereof by reclamation, the sinking of a well and the planting of trees but that it had remained wrongly recorded as shamilat and had at a partition been allotted and made over to defendants. Defendants pleaded that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the claim; and further, that the plaintiffs were not proprietors of the land by reason of having reclaimed it. The District Judge held that the Civil Court had jurisdiction, but that plaintiffs had not established their title, and the Divisional Judge, on appeal by plaintiffs, held that the suit was barred under section 13 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882, plaintiffs appealed to the Chief Court on a certificate granted by the Divisional Judge.

Held that, inasmuch as the Revenue Officer had not tried the question of title involved either as a Civil or as a Revenue Court, but had merely decided the question as to the property to be divided, the suit was not barred under section 13 of the Civil Procedure Code; but held, further, that inasmuch as partition had already been carried into effect and was no longer "sought" when the suit was instituted, the Civil Courts had no jurisdiction under section 158 (2) (xvii) of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, to entertain the suit, despite the fact that there was a question of title in the property partitioned involved. AHMAD GUL v. BOSTAN.

118 P R 1894

135. Suit for compensation of forcibly cutting and carrying away reeds—" Suit by a co-sharer in holding for a share of the profits thereof"—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts—Punjab Tenancy Act, section 77 (3), clause (k)—Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court—Small Cause Court Act, 1887, 2nd Schedule, articles 11 and 31.

Plaintiff sued on the allegations that he and defeudants Nos. 4—8 were co-sharers in certain land; that defendante Nos. 1—3 in Sambat 1949 forcibly cut and carried away certain reeds which grew upon the said land, and of which the total value was Rs. 741-11-0; that plaintiffs' share was Rs. 296-10-9, and that as defendants Nos. 4—8 would not join plaintiff in the claim, they had been impleaded as defendants. The defendants Nos. 5—8 admitted the claim, but defendants Nos. 1—3 contested it. The Munsif having decreed the claim in part, defendant No. 2 appealed to the District Judge, and on his appeal being rejected, applied to the Chief Court on the Revision side, on the ground that the suit was either one cognizable only by a Revenue Court under clause (k) of section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, or an unclaused suit over Rs. 100 in value, and, as such, excluded from the cognizance of the Small Cause Court by article (11) or article (31) of Act IX of 1887.

Held, that inasmuch as plaintiff's co-sharers were merely nominal defendants, and the real defendants were alleged to be trespassers, having no proprietary right in the land, the suit was not one " by a co-sharer in a holding for a share of the profits thereof " within the meaning of clause (k) of section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and further, that the suit did not fall under clause (n) of the same section, as there was no allegation that defendants Nos. 1—3 occupied the land and cultivated it, but that they forcibly took from the lands certain portion of spontaneous growth and that the suit was cognizable by the Civil Courts.

Held, further, that the suit being for damages for the wrongful removal of the produce of immovable property, and not for the enforcement of any right to or interest in the immovable property, was not excluded from the cognizance of the Small Cause Court by article (11) of the 2nd Schedule of Act IX of 1887.

Held, also, that the suit was not excluded from the cognizance of the Small Cause Court as being a suit "for profits of im-" movable property belonging to the plaintiff " which had been wrongfully received by " the defendants" within the meaning of article (31) of the 2nd Schedule of Act IX of 1887.

The final clause of article (31) of the 2nd Schedule of Act IX of 1887 was intended to apply only to " suits for mesne profits of immovable property " in the strict and technical sense of the expression, and the test of the applicability of the article is not so much whether the defendant has received the profits "under some claim of title," as whether he has received them as a person in wrongful possession, it being immaterial whether he has any bona fide claim of title to the land or not.

I. L. R. XVII Calc. 541; I. L. R. XVII Calc. 707, I. L. R. XVIII Calc. 316, I. L. R. XV Mad. 298, I. L. R. XVII Bom. 42 cited. NAZAM v. JOTI MAL.

119 P R 1894

136. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts—Suit to contest liability to ejectment —Landlord and tenant—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 45, 77, (3) (f)—Procedure.

T. G. and others had notices of ejectment, under section 45 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, served upon B and J. who thereupon instituted suits in the Revenue Court in the terms of the notices to contest their liability to ejectment. The Collector, being of opinion that these suits could not be brought in the Revenue Court under section 77 (3) (f) of the Act, because the plaintiffs B. and J. did not hold themselves out as " tenants " but asserted that they were proprietors, referred the question to the Chief Court.

Held, that the word " the tenant " in section 45 of the Act means any such person to whom a notice of ejectment is issued, and that in accordance with the terms of the notice any such person must be allowed to come into the Revenue Court and contest it, whether he admits that he is a tenant or claims some other status the same meaning being assigned to the word "tenant" both in section 45 and in section 77 (3) (f). THAKAR GIR v. BAISAKHI. 3 P R 1895

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

137. Occupancy rights, transfer of, by tenant—Suit by transferee to enforce his rights—Objection raised by landlord by way of defence that transfer was voidable at his instance—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain such objection—Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), sections 53, 60, 77.

Held, by the Full Bench, that a Civil Court is debarred by section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, from taking cognizance of an objection raised by the landlord by way of defence to a suit brought by the transferee that a transfer of his occupancy rights by a tenant was voidable at the instance of such landlord under section 60 of the Act. ASH NAND v. KURA. 11 P R 1895 F. B.

138. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts—Suit by lessee of Government parade ground for money due on account of grazing due.—"Estate"—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77, clause (o), and Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 3—Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court—Small Cause Court Act, 1887, 2nd Schedule (13)—"Interest in immovable property."

Plaintiff in his plaint alleged by implication that he held a lease, under Government, of the grazing rights over a certain parade ground and (apparently) that defendant entered into an agreeement with him under which he was allowed to graze cattle on the land and became liable to pay for so doing the sum of Rs. 7-13-0.

Held, that the parade ground, of which plaintiff held a lease not being an "estate" as defined in section 3 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1877, the suit though one for money due on account of grazing dues, did not fall under clause (o) of section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and was cognizable by the Civil Court.

Held, further, that if plaintiff's allegation was merely that he held a lease of the parade ground, and that by virtue of such lease and apart from any agreement, he was entitled to demand certain dues from all persons grazing cattle on the land, the suit was one for dues payable to plaintiff "by reason of his interest in immovable property" within the meaning of article (13) of the 2nd Schedule of the Small Cause Court Act, 1887, and as such excepted from the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court. Otherwise, if the claim was based on an express agreement by the defendant to pay certain rates. KHUDA BAKHSH v. DANA. 13 P R 1895

139. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts—Suit to eject defendant from land held by him in virtue of his office of ala

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

lambardar—"Emoluments" of village officer—Plea by defendant that he has acquired rights of occupancy, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3), clauses (d), (e) and (m).

Plaintiff sued on the allegation that the subject of the claim was shamilat which had formerly been made over to defendant in remuneration of his services as ala lambardar, but that he was no longer entitled to hold the land as he was now remunerated by a cash allowance. Defendant, while admitting the last fact pleaded that he could not be ejected as he had acquired rights of occupancy in the land. The question was whether the suit was one cognizable by the Civil or the Revenue Court.

Held, that there being no question as to defendant's right to retain the land, in virtue of his office of ala-lambardar, and the only point being whether he had acquired a right of occupancy the suit was not excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Court by clause (m) of section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.

Held, further, that inasmuch as on the admitted facts connected with defendant's acquisition of the land he could not be said to have ever "held under" the plaintiff so as to create the relationship of tenant and landlord between them the suit was not excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Court by reason of the defendant's plea that he was an occupancy tenant, and the provision in the first clause of section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act. SOHNA v. MOSAM. 23 P R 1895

140. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts—Suit for sum recoverable for occupation of land without consent of landlord—Punjab Tenancy Act, XIV of 1887, sections 14, 77 (3) (n).

Plaintiff sued on the allegations that the land in suit was owned by one S. S., that it was sub-mortgaged by S. S.'s mortgagee to H. S. who had again sub-mortgaged it to plaintiff; that plaintiff had obtained possession under his mortgage, but that when he had prepared the land and attempted to sow it defendants, among whom was the said H. S., prevented him by stopping his ploughs and had set up a fictitious lease of a portion of the land from Mussammat M. K., the widow of S. S., plaintiff therefore claimed Rs. 300 as damages.

Held, that the suit as above laid fell under section 14 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and was excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Courts by clause (n) of section 77 (3) of the Act.

No. 82 P. R. 1894, referred to. NIHAL SINGH v. HARI SINGH. 26 P R 1895

141. Suit to recover land from person holding it in virtue of his office as ala lambardar—Plea that muafi has been resumed—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts—Punjab Tenancy Act, XIV of 1887), section 77 (m).

Plaintiff sued to recover possession of certain land as proprietor from the defendant who claimed to hold it, by virtue of his office of ala-lambardar.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

Held, that the only question being whether the muafi had been resumed or not, that is to say, whether the defendant was entitled to continue to enjoy the profits of the land as part of the emoluments of his office, the suit was cognizable only by the Revenue Courts under clause (m) of section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. BULAKA SINGH v. NIHAL SINGH. 28 P R 1895

142. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts—Suit to recover money claimed as due for the enjoyment of the right of pasturage over land—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1897, sections 4 (9) 77 (3) (o) and Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 3 (1) and (2)—"Landowner" and "estate," meaning of—Tirni contractor.

Plaintiff, who was the tirni contractor of the Montgomery district, sued the defendant for Rs. 1,200 on account of grazing dues in respect of certain camels belonging to third parties but employed by defendant, and alleged that defendant had undertaken to pay the tax on behalf of the owners of the said camels.

Held, that the suit was one by "a landowner "to recover moneys claimed as due for the "enjoyment of rights of pasturage over land" within the meaning of clause (o) of section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and as such was cognizable only by a Revenue Court. MALIK WAZIR v. BARKAT KHAN. 30 P R 1895

143. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts—Suit by occupancy tenant against co-sharer in the tenancy for share of produce—"Co-sharer in an estate or holding"—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (k).

Held, by the Full Bench (Roe, S. J., dissenting) that a suit by an occupancy tenant against a co-sharer in the tenancy for a share of the produce is one cognizable by the Civil Courts and does not fall under clause (k) of section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, inasmuch as the plaintiff and defendant are not "co-sharers in an estate or holding" within the meaning of the said clause. RALLA v. RAM DITTA. 44 P R 1895 F. B.

144. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts—Suit for declaratory decree by person aggrieved by entry in a recor of rights—Landlord and tenant—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 45, and Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (i).

Held, that section 45 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, must be read subject to section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and the other provisions of either Act relating to the jurisdiction of the Revenue Courts, and the cases falling within the former section will be cognizable either by the Civil or Revenue Courts according to the nature of the subject-matter of the suit and the rules for the exercise of jurisdiction by the Revenue Courts enacted in the relevant sections of the two Acts. BAHADUR KHAN v. SARDAR. 89 P R 1895

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

145. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (p)—"Suit for sum payable on account of land revenue.

G. H., one of the village proprietors, being indebted for a certain sum by way of land revenue and mutation fees, gave plaintiff, who was a lambardar of the village, a written order or ruka for the amount on one K. who accepted liability thereon, but subsequently refused to pay. Plaintiff, thereupon, brought a suit in the Civil Court against K. and based his claim upon the said ruka. The District Judge, on appeal, thinking that the suit was not cognizable by the Civil Courts, submitted the case to the Chief Court for registration of the decree of the Munsif, who gave plaintiff a decree in a Revenue Court, under section 100 of the Tenancy Act.

Held, that the Civil Court had jurisdiction to entertain the suit. The suit would have been a revenue suit had G. H. been sued, or had money been due under section 77 (3) p of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, by K.: but as it was not so due by K, whose liability was on the ruka, the suit was for money due on the ruka and not as land-revenue. AHMAD KHAN v. GHULAM HUSAIN.

9 P R 1896

146. Jurisdiction—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 116, 117, 158—Partition proceedings—Question of title raised before Revenue Officer but not decided—Completion of partition—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain subsequent suit in respect of the said question of title.

In the course of a partition of village shamilat which was being effected under Act XVII of 1887, a plot of land was allotted as the proportion due on account of a holding of Mussammat K, the mother of the plaintiffs. Defendants alleged that the right to this allotment had passed to them under a sale. This allegation was denied by Mussammat K, who, however, filed a petition asking that the allotment might be left in the hands of defendants and that the partition might proceed, and she added that she intended to bring a suit in the Civil Court to establish her title. This was allowed by the Revenue Officer making the partition, and the proceedings were then continued and completed. Plaintiffs, who were the representatives of Mussammat K. subsequently instituted a suit in the Civil Courts to establish their title and recover the allotment from the defendants. For the latter, it was contended that the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts was barred under section 158 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the Civil Courts had jurisdiction to entertain the suit. ATA MUHAMMAD KHAN v. ARJAN SINGH.

72 P R 1896 F. B.

147. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 312–316, 320, 326, 327—Sale by Collector at instance of Civil Court—Jurisdiction of Civil Court in execution of decree to confirm such sale—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 141—Rule 50 of No. V of "Rules and Orders of the Chief Court.

Where, in execution of the decree of a Civil Court, land belonging to the judgment-debtor has been sold, on the requisition of the Civil Court, by the Collector with the sanction of the Financial Commissioner, the Civil Court executing the decree has jurisdiction to confirm such sale and not the Collector. PARMA NAND v. SOHMA. 83 P R 1896

148. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Mortgagor and mortgagee - Construction of mortgage-deed—Landlord and tenant —Non-transfer of possession by mortgagor.

Previously to the execution of the mortgage-deed in question, the mortgagor's land was cultivated partly by himself and partly by tenants some of whom were occupancy tenants and some tenants-at-will, who paid him one-third share of the produce and certain dues. The mortgage-deed provided that this arrangement should continue, but that the dues should go to the mortgagee, and that out of the one-third share of the produce of the whole land, the mortgagor should deduct two maunds for himself and the remainder should be divided into six shares, of which one share should be reserved to the mortgagor and the rest should go to the mortgagee, the payment of revenue being divided between them in the same proportions.

Held, that as neither proprietary nor cultivating possession was transferred to the mortgagee, the latter could not re-transfer the cultivating possession to the mortgagor; that the mortgagor did not, therefore, h the land " under " the mortgagee; that the said payments were not " rent " and that the relationship of landlord and tenant did not exist between the parties.

Held, therefore, that the Revenue Courts had no jurisdiction to entertain a suit by the mortgagee in respect of his claims under the said mortgage-deed. MEHR CHAND v. LAL,

5 P R 1897 Rev.

149. Suit for partition—Revenue Officer referring question of title to Civil Court, but completing partition without awaiting such decision—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain snbsequent suit regarding such question of title—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 117 (i), 122, 158 (17).

In certain partition proceedings before a Revenue Officer an objection, raising a question of title, was preferred, and the objector was directed to bring a civil suit to establish his title within fifteen days. He failed to do so, whereupon the partition proceeded and was completed. After its completion the objector instituted the present suit in the Civil Court for the purpose of establishing his title. The question referred to the Full Bench was whether under such circumstances the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts was barred by section 158, Punjab Land Revenue Act, or any other law.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts to entertain the present suit was not barred.

When in partition proceedings before a Revenue Officer a question of title is raised, the Revenue Officer is bound, under section 117 of the Land Revenue Act, 1887, to refuse partition until such question is decided by the Civil Court or to decide it himself, and if such Officer completes the partition without the question of title raised before him being settled in one of the two ways provided in the said section, the mere fact that the partition has been completed cannot oust the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts to entertain a subsequent suit regarding such question of title.

No. 118 P. R. 1894, overruled pro tanto. BACHAN SINGH v. MADHAN SINGH.

61 P R 1897 F. B.

150. Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Suit to set aside order made by Collector on a reference by a Canal Officer—Northern India Canal and Drainage Act, 1873, sections 25, 27.

One S. N., defendant 2, having applied to the Canal Officer for the construction of a new water-course, a reference was made to the Collector, who after proceeding in accordance with law, recorded an order putting defendant in possession of certain land belonging to plaintiff. The latter thereupon instituted a suit in the Civil Court to set aside the said order and for recovery of the said land, or for such other relief as the Court might grant.

Held, following No. 71 P. R. 1888, that the order of the Collector, under section 25 of the Northern India Canals and Drainage Act, 1873, was final, and that the Civil Courts had no jurisdiction to interfere therewith. LAKH RAM v. SECRETARY OF STATE.

64 P R 1897

151. Suit including claim to muafi—Sum granted as muafi unascertained because land never assessed to land revenue—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts—Procedure.

The mere fact that the sum remitted or granted as a muafi is unascertained because the land had never been assessed to land revenue does not make such sum any the less "a grant of land revenue" or ipso facto take the case outside section 4 of the Pensions Act, 1871.

Where, therefore, a suit included a claim to a certain muafi, held, that the Civil Courts had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit pro tanto without the certificate required by section 6 of the Act, and none the less so merely because the land in question had never been assessed to land revenue.

In the present case, inasmuch as a large part of the claim was cognizable by the Civil Court, held, that the suit should not have been dismissed but that the plaint should have been returned for amendment, giving the plaintiff an opportunity to withdraw that part of the claim that was not cognizable by the Civil Court without a certificate or to apply for such certificate. GHULAM NABI v. BISHARAT ALI. 25 P R 1900

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

152. Suit by lessee.

Plaintiff filed a suit for the whole income of certain villages less a specific amount alleging that the defendant's predecessors granted the whole income of the villages to his predecessors in consideration of services rendered, the subject to a fixed annual payment, the latter to take all risk of profit and loss.

Held, that the suit filed being for the whole profits less an annual charge did not come under section 77 (3) (k) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, and that it was a civil suit. KIRAT AND OTHERS v. RAJA JAI CHAND. 55 P R 1900

153. Suit for a share of produce and for a share of deceased father's chattels—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts.

The plaintiff and defendant were brothers, the former during the lifetime of his father received a separate portion of the estate for his maintenance, the defendant and the father continuing to cultivate the residue jointly. The father died in September 1897 Mutation in the joint names of plaintiff and defendant was effected on the 25th November 1897 and properly attested, the defendant continued to cultivate all the land he had previously held jointly with his father and took the entire produce. The plaintiff sued for a share of the produce and joined a claim for a share of the deceased father's chattels with it. The case was tried by a Munsif who found the plaintiff's claim as to the chattels unfounded, but gave him a decree of a share of the produce which the defendant had taken in excess of his rights. Both parties appealed to the District Judge, who submitted the case for opinion to the Chief Court, under section 100 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, with a note that the claim for the chattels had been properly adjudicated on, but the claim for the produce was clearly one by a co-sharer in a holding for a share of the profits thereof, and as such was only cognizable by a Revenue Court.

Held, that the parties being recorded as co-sharers in the holding after the death of their father, the plaintiff's claim for his share of the produce was clearly one by a co-sharer in a holding for a share of the profits thereof, and was only cognizable by the Revenue Courts. The District Judge was competent to entertain the appeal as regards the part of the claim which was cognizable by the Civil Court, and as to the other part his only course was to dismiss the claim as one not cognizable by the Munsif. ALAM KHAN v. SHER DIL. 78 P R 1900

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

154. In a suit for the recovery of Rs. 22 on account of rent where the plaintiffs and defendant having agreed to cultivate jointly the plaintiffs' land, on the conditions that the plaintiffs were to give three ploughings and the defendant one, and that the plaintiffs were to receive three-fourths and the defendant one-fourth of the produce, and that defendant was to pay the plaintiffs Rs. 22 as rent of his one-fourth share.

Held, that the agreements were clearly separate, and that the Civil Court could not take cognizance of the dispute about the Rs. 22 even if a suit was brought for damages for breach of the partnership agreement as that was cognizable by the Revenue Courts only. Asa Nand v. Kura (11 P. R. 1895) and Ganaya v. Basau Mal (96 P. R. 1884), followed. UDMI v. KIRPA RAM AND ANOTHER. 106 P R 1900

155. Jurisdiction—Partition proceedings by the Revenue authorities—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain subsequent suit for a declaration that certain land was the plaintiff's exclusive property—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, clauses (1) and (2), XVII of section 158.

Held, that a suit for a declaration of right inconsistent with the allotment of land made by a Revenue Officer can be brought in a Civil Court after a partition has been formally completed, provided that the suit involves a question of title in any of the property affected by the partition proceedings and that Chapter IX of the Land Revenue Act does not bar the jurisdiction of the Civil Court where the point of joint ownership is disputed.

Ahmad Gul v. Bostan (118 P. R. 1894) referred to and Bachan Singh v. Mudhan Singh (61 P. R. 1897) followed. SARWAR v. SADULLA. 29 P R 1901

156. Marriage—Suit for a declaration that the defendant is not the lawful wife of the plaintiff—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts to entertain such a suit when an order for maintenance passed under section 488 of the Criminal Procedure Code is in force against the plaintiff.

Held, that a Civil Court has jurisdiction to decide whether the defendant was or was not the lawful wife of the plaintiff at the time the suit was instituted. An order for maintenance passed by a Magistrate in favour of the defendant is no bar to such suit. WARYAM SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT PREMON. 50 P R 1901

157. Grant of a portion of the village common land to a person holding the office of ala-lambardar rent free—Suit for dispossession—Landlord and tenant—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 4, clause 5.

Defendant having been appointed ala-lambardar by vitue of his office obtained a grant from Government with the consent of the village proprietary body of a portion of the village compmot land as muafi. The muafi was resumed in 1892, and plaintiffs the recorded proprietors of the land, sued for, possession on the allegation that they were the landlords and that the land had been held by defendant as ala-lambardar's muafi, and that on the resumption of the muafi the defendant was not entitled to retain possession. The question referred was whether the suit was one cognizable by the Civil or Revenue Court.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the suit was excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Court, as the arrangement made with the consent of the proprietary body was a transfer to the ala-lambardar of a rent-free cultivating right for a fixed term. and that the ala-lambardar held under the proprietary body, and was their tenant

Sham Singh and others v. Ghula Singh and others (105 P. R. 1894) and Sohna v. Mosam (23 P. R. 1895) overruled. Jhanda Singh v. Dhana Singh (1 P. R. 1896 Rev.), and Lahna Singh and others v. Hira Singh (1 P. R. 1897 Rev.) cited and approved. HIRA SINGH AND OTHERS v. GURMUKH SINGH. 101 P R 1901

158. Jurisdiction—Jurisdiction of Revenue Courts to re-open matters decided by a competent Civil Court.

Held, that the Revenue Courts are not competent to go behind the decision of Civil Courts and re-open matters already decided by competent judicial authority, or where the claim is based on a Civil Court's decree to enter on enquiries which substantially involve the issue as to whether that decree has been rightly given or not. The Revenue Courts should always accept such a decree and act upon it. GURDAS AND ANOTHER v. HASSAN. 13 P R 1901 Rev

159. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 13—Res judicata—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Suit for recovery of land from trespasser—Plea by defendant that he has a right of occupancy—Tenancy Act, 1877, section 77 (3) (b).

Plaintiffs sued in 1896, in the Court of the District Judge, for possession of land from the present defendants who claimed to be the occupancy tenants. The land was formerly held by one Hari Singh as an occupancy tenant, and on his death was inherited by his widow, who got her brother (defendant No. 1) entered as occupancy tenant of one-half, while the other half continued to be recorded in her own name and remained in her possession. On her death her half was mutated in plaintiff's names, but the defendant No. 1 continued in possession of the whole. The District Judge held that the case was triable by a Revenue and not by a Civil Court, and returned the plaint for presentation in the proper Court with the remark that the plaintiffs' proper course was to sue under section 77 (d) of the Punjab Tenancy Act. The plaintiffs acting on this suggestion sued in the Revenue Court for a declaration that the defendant was not, such a tenant under section 77 (3) (d) of the Tenancy Act and obtained a decree. The plaintiffs then brought the present suit for possession of the whole, defendant pleaded inter alia that the Civil Court had no jurisdiction, and the Subordinate Judge dismissed the suit on the ground of res judicata by reason of the previous order of the District Judge.

1600

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

Held, by the Full Bench that as the matter of jurisdiction had not been put in issue and finally decided by the District Judge in 1886, the rule of res judicata had no application to the present case. The mere fact of a Civil Court declining to exercise jurisdiction either by returning the plaint or by dismissing the suit on the ground that the jurisdiction lay in the Revenue Court could not be treated as an adjudication on the point.

Held also, that as the mere fact of the defendants remaining in possession over the half of the land held by the widow after her death did not create the relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties, the suit connected with that part of the claim was therefore cognizable by a Civil Court.

Held further, as to the other half of the land per Chatterji and Johnstone JJ., Rattigan J., dissenting as to this, that—

(i) by reason of the form of the previous suit under section 77 (3) (d) plaintiff had conceded to defendant the status of tenant and his present remedy is therefore a revenue suit for ejectment under section 73 (3) (e) of the Punjab Tenancy Act;

(ii) whether defendant is a tenant or not, he is certainly a transferer under a void or voidable transfer, and therefore plaintiffs' remedy would be a suit in the Revenue Court under section 77 (3) (h), Tenancy Act; and

(iii) that thus in any case the Revenue Court and not the Civil Court had jurisdiction in the matter.

Per Rattigan J., that the suit, as a whole, was one cognizable by the Civil Courts. The question of jurisdiction has to be determined by reference to the plaint, supplemented if necessary by the statements of the plaintiff and judged by the criterion. The present suit as framed was one which the Civil Court was competent to entertain. The plaintiffs by their action in suing in the Revenue Courts for a declaration that the defendant was not an occupancy tenant, and that the entry to that effect in the revenue record was erroneous, should not be held to have thereby conceded that defendant was their tenant, a status which they had consistently denied that he possessed and the mere fact that in that action they might have obtained further relief from the Revenue Court was per se no ground for holding that they could not thereafter obtain that relief from the Civil Court, especially when the defendant has been conclusively declared by the proper authority not to be an occupancy tenant.

1601

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

Joti v. Maya (44 P. R. 1891 F. B.), Ram Singh v. Jowala Singh (55 P. R. 1896), Sultan Habibulla Khan v. Mohabat Khan (68 P. R. 1901), Zamorin of Calicut v. Narayanan Mussad (I. L. R. XXII Mad. 323), Nityananda Gantayet v. Gajabati Vosudeva Deru (I. L. R. XXIV Mad. 681), Ghela Ichha Ram v. Sankatchand Jetha (I. L R. XVIII Bom. 597), Chaman Lal v. Bapubhai (I. L. R. XXII Bom. 669), Mewa Singh v. Nathu (22 P. R. 1894), Sohna v. Mosam (23 P. R. 1895), Ishar Singh v. Lal Singh (39 P. R. 1888), Gurdial v. Farida (88 P. R. 1894), Thakar Gir v. Baisakhi (3 P. R. 1895), Asa Nand v. Kura (11 P. R. 1895, F. B.), and Ghanaya v. Basan Mal (96 P. R. 1894), referred to and considered. MULA v. GANDU.

92 P R 1902 F B

160. Compensation for improvements—Co-sharer—Suit by a co-sharer for compensation for improvements alleged to have been made during the absence of his co-sharer.

An absentee co-sharer in a holding brought a Civil suit to establish his rights, and obtained an unconditional decree subsequently he applied for partition. No question of any claim for compensation was raised by the parties either in the Civil Court or in the partition proceedings, but on the suggestion of the Collector the plaintiff filed a suit for Rs 1,046 on account of compensation for improvements and got a decree for Rs. 90.

Held, that the suit for compensation as between co-sharers was not cognizable by the Revenue Court. The question was one of title, and should have been raised if at all in the Civil Court. DADU AND ANOTHER v. ILAHI AND OTHERS. 3 P R 1902 Rev

161. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Suit for recovery of possession from landlord claiming on ground of succession as tenant—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 50, 77 (3) (g).

A suit by the collateral heir of a deceased occupancy tenant to recover possession of his holding from the landlord on the ground that he had been forcibly dispossessed by the landlord after he had entered into possession is covered by sections 50 and 77 (3) (g) of the Punjab Tenancy Act and is cognizable by a Revenue Court only.

Joti and another v. Maya and others (44 P. R. 1891, F. B.), cited. Wazira and others v. Harjalu and another (160 P. R. 1890), referred to. NABI BAKHSH v. GANESH AND OTHERS. 40 P R 1904

162. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts—Procedure for obtaining a final decision as to whether a suit is cognizable by the Civil or Revenue Courts—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 99.

Where the presiding officer of a Civil or Revenue Court on presentation of a plaint which has already been returned by a Civil or Revenue Court, on the ground of want of jurisdiction, disagrees with the order and considers he is precluded from taking cognizance of the suit, he should at once refer the matter to the Chief Court, under section 99 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, in order to obtain a final decision and should not return it for presentation to the Court which had already declined jurisdiction. KURE AND OTHERS v. GHISA AND OTHERS.

1602

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

63 P R 1904

163. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Suit by landlord for possession of a water-mill—"Purpose subservient to agriculture"—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 4 (1).

Held that a suit by a landlord for entry upon a water-mill against an occupancy tenant by cancellation of an irregular transfer is cognizable by the Civil and not by the Revenue Court, the purpose for which the site of the mill is occupied not being a purpose subservient to agriculture within the meaning of section 4 (1) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, the parties are altogether outside the scope of the Act and are not governed by it.

Mutsadi v. Sawan (41 P. R. 1892), followed. FARMAN ALI v. IMAM DIN.

77 P R 1904

164. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Suit for share of profit—Partnership for cultivation of land—Suit by a co-sharer for share of profit, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (k).

A suit by the plaintiff for his share in the produce of certain land owned by the defendant which he cultivated in partnership with the defendant under an agreement whereby he was to receive one-fourth of the produce, held, to be a suit by a co-sharer for a share in the profits of the holding within the meaning of section 77 (3) (k) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and was cognizable by a Revenue Court. SUNDER SINGH v. KESAR SINGH. 80 P R 1904

165. Suit for mesne profits accrued between the date of decree and of delivery of possession—Suit based on two causes of action, one cognizable by Civil Court, the other cognizable by Revenue Court—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (k).

Plaintiff sued for possession of certain land and obtained a decree against defendants 1—3. He applied for execution, but on the defendants' motion, who had preferred an appeal against the decree the execution was suspended on their furnishing the security of defendant 4 for the due performance of such decree as might be eventually passed in appeal. The case was taken up to the Privy Council, but the judgment-debtors lost it throughout. The plaintiff after obtaining possession of the property sued the defendant for the profits of the estate due to him by the latter by the period during which execution was stayed. The District Judge declined jurisdiction on the ground that the suit being one by a co-sharer in a holding for a share of the profits thereof was cognizable only by a Revenue Court.

1603

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

Held, that the suit as laid was neither cognizable exclusively by a Civil nor by a Revenue Court.

The claim as regards defendants 1—3 was a claim by a co-sharer in a holding for a share of the profits thereof and was cognizable only by the Revenue Courts under clause (k) of section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, while the claim as against defendant 4 (the surety), having been based on a contract was cognizable by a Civil Court.

Held, further, that where a plaintiff brings a suit which comprises two claims on different causes of action, one of which is cognizable by a Civil Court, while the other is cognizable by a Revenue Court, the proper procedure for the presiding Judge is to return the plaint to the plaintiff for amendment by striking out one of the causes of action and bringing his suit in the Civil or Revenue Court or snits in both, as he may think proper.

Mussammat Karmon v. Jiwan Mal (19 P. R. 1892), referred to. MUHAMMAD HASAN v. GHULAM JILANI. 81 P R 1904

166. Kamiana—Suit for a declaration that persons who are owners of their houses and cultivators in the village are not liable to pay the kamiana dues—Village cess—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (j).

Held, that a suit for declaration that kamiana dues are not recoverable from such residents of a village who are owners of their houses and cultivators does not come under clause (j) of section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, and is cognizable by a Civil Court. SHEIKH MUHAMMAD v. HABIB KHAN. 67 P R 1905

167 Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Suit for declaration as to principle of division—Question of title—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 116, 117.

Held, that a suit for a declaration that the common land was the joint property of the parties and was liable to be partitioned according to revenue holdings and not according to ancestral shares was cognizable by a Civil and not by a Revenue Court. The question of the measure of right is clearly one of title within the meaning of sections 116, 117 of Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887.

Ghisa v. Ranjit (120 P. R. 1880), Dalla Singh v. Ala Singh (92 P. R. 1881), Bhai Badan Singh v. Partap Singh (131 P. R. 1882), and Radhu v. Mussammat Nando (150 P. R. 1890), referred to. FAZALDAD KHAN v. ATA MUHAMMAD. 99 P R 1905

168. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Suit for mesne profits—Suit by a

1604

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

mortgagee entitled to possession under his mortgage—Suit by a co-sharer for share of profits—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (k).

A suit by the plaintiff for mesne profits of certain land in possession of the defendants on the allegation that a share of the profits of the estate was due to him under the terms of his mortgage by which the proprietary possession had been agreed to be transferred to him, held to be a suit by a co-sharer for a share in the profits of the holding within the meaning of section 77 (3) (k) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and cognizable by a Revenue Court. MAYA DAS v. JOWALA SAHAI. 9 P R 1905 Rev

169. Sale of occupancy rights to landlord—Suit by mortgagee for possession against the landlord—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77.

In 1899 an occupancy holding was mortgaged with possession to the plaintiff. In 1901 the tenants transferred their rights to their landlords by a sale pretended to be in accordance with the provisions of section 53 of the Punjab Tenancy Act. The value was determined by mutual agreement, a portion of the amount so agreed on was applied in payment of another mortgage, a portion was paid to the tenants, balance being left in deposit with the landlord for payment to plaintiff The plaintiff thereupon instituted the present suit for possession as mortgagee. The defence contended that the suit was not cognizable by a Civil Court, held, that as the plaintiff was not a tenant under the landlord and as his suit was for the restoration of his possession as mortgagee against a trespasser it was cognizable by the Civil and not by the Revenue Court. BHAG MAL v. PIR BAKSH. 32 P R 1906

170. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (i)—Suit by mortgagee to recover money advanced to mortgagor to pay land revenue—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court.

Held, that a suit by a mortgagee against his mortgagor to recover money advanced for payment of land revenue, where the primary relationship between the parties was that of mortgagor and mortgagee, and the relationship of landlord and tenant merely a subsidiary one, was cognizable by a Civil Court.

Section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, which ousts the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts, must be construed strictly. Clause (i) includes suits ejusdem generis with those which are mentioned above it, and must be confined to suits between parties qua landlord and tenant. It does not include a suit, the claim in which arises out of a contract of mortgage merely because between the mortgagee and mortgagor there subsists also the relationship of landlord and tenant. The claim in the suit must be directly referable to the lease on the conditions on which the tenancy is held. JAMIAT MAL v. KHAIR MUHAMMAD. 126 P R 1906

1605

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

171. Occupancy rights—Suit by a tenant for a declaration that he is occupancy tenant by exchange with the original tenant—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (d).

Held, that a suit by an occupancy tenant for a declaration that he is occupancy tenant in respect of a certain occupancy holding for which he has exchanged his original occupancy holding is governed by section 77 (3) (d) of the Punjab Tenancy Act and is cognizable by a Revenue Court only. ATTAR SINGH v. RALA SINGH. 139 P R 1906

172. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 100 and section 77 (3) (d)—Contents of plaint and of plaintiff's allegations.

Plaintiff sued for Rs. 5, value of trees cut by defendants on land alleged to be plaintiff's, with which defendants had no concern whatever. Defendants pleaded that they were occupancy tenants and so entitled to the trees.

Held, that the suit was one for a Civil Court, the test being the contents of the plaint and of the allegations of the plaintiff.

Held, also, in view of the wording of section 77 (3), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, that the Civil Court could not take cognizance of the defendants' plea that they were occupancy tenants, but must ignore that plea, leaving defendants to any remedy that might be open to them by suit in the Revenue Court. FAKIRIA v. DHANI NATH. 24 P R 1907

173. Arrears of rent of land—Suit upon bond given for arrears of rent—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1877, section 77 (3) (n).

Held, that a suit based upon a bond executed for arrears of rent of land, is one cognizable by the Civil Courts, and does not fall under clause (n) of section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. AMRIT LAL v. BHAGWANA. 41 P R 1907

174. Kudhi kamini—Suit for the recovery of—Village cess—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1877, section 77 (3) (j).

Held, that kudhi kamini is a "village cess" within the meaning of section 77 (3) (j) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, and a suit therefore for its recovery is cognizable by the Revenue and not by the Civil Courts.

Fazal v. Samandar Khan (49 P. R. 1891), Gowhra v. Ali Gauhar (11 P. R. 1890 Rev.) and Shahya v. Karam Khan (95 P. R. 1907 Note), followed. RAJ SARUP v. HARDAWARI. 95 P R 1907

175. Common land—Partition—Suit for declaration that land was not subject to partition—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 158 (XVII)—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77, (3) (i).

Held, that a suit by occupancy tenants against the whole of the individuals forming the proprietary body to establish that they, in common with all the residents of the village, are entitled to graze their cattle over the village common land, and that therefore it should be exempted from partition is not barred from the cognizance of the Civil Courts either by clause XVII of section 158 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, or by clause (i) of section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. SUNDAR v. WAZIRA.

144 P R 1907

176. Partition—Question relating to enforcement of entry in Wajib-ul-arz—"Question of title" or "mode of making the partition"—Panjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 116, 117, 158.

Held, that on the partition of a joint holding the question whether a co-sharer who had planted an orchard on a part of the village shamilat by his own individual labour and at his own cost should or should not, according to the rule laid down in the village administration paper, be allotted that area as his share is not, "a question of title" within the meaning of section 116 (a) of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, but is one relating to "the mode of making the partition" within the purview of section 116 (b), and as such is excluded from the cognizance of a Civil Court by a clause XVIII of section 158. DEVI DIAL v. AHMAD KHAN.

4 P R 1908

177. Haq bua—Suit for a declaration that occupancy tenants in the village are not liable to pay haq bua dues—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (j).

Held by the Full Bench that a suit for a declaration that the occupancy tenants are not liable to pay haq bua dues is cognizable by the Revenue and not by the Civil Courts. GAMU v. KARIM KHAN. 33 P R 1908 F B

178. Haq sep—Suit for recovery of—Village cess—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (j).

Held, that a suit for a sum due as haq sep at a rate fixed by the record-of-rights does not come under clause (j) of section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, and is cognisable by a Civil Court. GUJAR v. DULA. 41 P R 1908

179. Suit for declaration of mukarraridari rights—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (d).

Held, that a suit by a person for a declaration that he has mukarraridari rights in certain land does not fall under clause (d) of section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and is cognizable by a Civil Court. NAWAB KHAN v. SEWA DAS. 42 P R 1908

180. Kamiana—Suit for a share of kamiana dues which the defendant ought to have recovered and paid to the plaintiff—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (j).

Held, that a suit to recover a sum of money equal to his share of the kamiana dues if realised, which, according to plaintiff's allegation, the defendant was entitled to collect but had wilfully neglected to do so, fell within the purview of clause (j) of section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and was cognizable by the Revenue and not by the Civil Courts. ABDUL RASUL v. FEROZ DIN. 128 P R 1908

181. Landlord and tenant—Suit by landlord to eject tenant—Suit by mortgagee to recover possession on failure of mortgagor to pay rent—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (e).

Twelve years after the execution of a deed of mortgage the representatives of the mortgagee sued for possession of the mortgaged land under the terms of the mortgage-deed which provided that the mortgagor should retain possession under the mortgagee paying rent at the rate agreed on therein, and that in case of default of such payment he would be liable to pay interest, and in default of redemption in six years, the mortgaged property should be considered as sold. It appeared that neither interest nor rent had ever been paid nor had the mortgagee applied for mutation of names in his favour.

Held, that under the circumstances the relation of landlord and tenant did not exist between the mortgagor's heirs and the mortgagee's heirs, inasmuch as the mere execution of a document of this character not acted upon in any way and not even brought to the notice of the revenue authorities could not be held sufficient to alter the status of owner into that of tenant to the mortgagee, and that the plaintiffs were therefore not entitled to a decree for possession as landlords against the defendants as tenants. NIZAM v. BUDHAN.

1 P R 1908 Rev

182. Jurisdiction—Civil or Revenue Court—Plea raised by defendant in Civil Court in respect of which a suit could be brought in Revenue Courts—Suit against person in possession of occupancy rights under decree of Civil Court—Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), section 77 (3) and (3) (h).

A, an occupancy tenant, mortgaged his occupancy rights in February 1905 to B, one of the landlords. Subsequently A sold his occupancy rights to another landlord C, and in June 1905 C sued B for possession by redemption. In this suit B pleaded that the sale to C was invalid under the provisions of the Tenancy Act, which plea, the Court held, it could not take cognizance of and decreed redemption on the 9th August, 1905. On the 4th August 1905 B brought a suit in the Revenue Court to have the sale set aside, and this was decreed on the 13th January 1906.

In June 1906 C applied for execution of his decree, and was in due course put in possession of the land, B's objection being overruled.

B now sues C for possession on the ground that as the sale to him had been set aside by competent authority (i.e., the Revenue Court) he was not entitled to oust B, the plaintiff. The Divisional Judge was of opinion that the suit fell under section 77 (3) (h) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and was cognisable by a Revenue Court only.

Held, by a Division Bench (Robertson and Rattigan, JJ.) that as the sale had been definitely set aside by the Revenue Court, and defendant was therefore unable to rely upon it, no question could arise as to the validity or otherwise of the transfer in favour of defendant, and the only point in issue was, whether one of two landlords could recover possession of land, from which the other landlord had ousted him, and the suit was therefore cognizable by a Civil Court.

Held by the Full Bench (Robertson, J. dissenting), following Asa Nand v. Kura (No. 11 P. R. 1895, F. B.) and Fakiria v. Dhani Nath (No. 24 P. R. 1907) that no plea raised by a defendant in reply to a civil claim, can be entertained or taken cognizance of by a Civil Court (even incidentally), if that plea relates to any matter in respect of which such defendant would be entitled to bring a suit in a Revenue Court (vide section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887), and that such pleas must be entirely ignored by a Civil Court even if they go to the very root of the case. HAJI MUHAMMAD BAKHSH v. BHAGWAN DAS.

76 P R 1909 F B

183. Held, that Civil Courts have no jurisdiction to convert a mortgage by way of conditional sale into a mortgage prescribed by section 6 (1) (a) of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act. GOPAL DAS v. HARI SINGH. 88 P R 1909

184. Jurisdiction—Civil Court or Revenue Court—Suit by landlord for possession of land left by deceased occupancy tenant against a mortgagee of the occupancy rights.

Held, that a suit by a landlord against the mortgagee for possession of the land left by an occupancy tenant on the ground, that the tenant having died without heirs, the occupancy rights to have been extinguished under section 59 (4) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and the mortgagee's rights ipso facto come to an end, is cognizable by a Civil Court. KADU v. BULAND KHAN. 9 P R 1910

185. Held, that where the facts found do not establish the relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties the Civil Courts have jurisdiction. BAHADAR SHAH v. RAM SINGH. 32 P R 1910

186. Punjab Tenancy Act, XVI of 1887, section 77 (k)—Suit against a co-sharer for share of sale-proceeds of certain trees in a joint holding.

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—contd.

Held, following 119 P. R. 1894 (Nazam v. Joti Mal) that a suit against a co-sharer for a share in the sale-proceeds of certain trees growing in a joint holding, falls under clause (k) of section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and that the Revenue Courts alone, therefore, have jurisdiction and that the fact that the defendants deny plaintiff's title as a co-sharer does not affect the question of jurisdiction. Held also, following 25 P. R. 1909 (Ram Jas v. Ralla) that as the Munsif who happened to be also an Assistant Collector, 2nd grade, had no jurisdiction to try such suits, the decree should be set aside and plaint be registered in the Court of Assistant Collector,—1st grade. SULTAN v. SHER MUHAMMAD.

52 P R 1910

187. Jurisdiction—Suit by occupancy tenant for a declaration under section 45 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, XVII of 1887—Re-enhancement of rent.

The plaintiffs sued under section 45 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, for a declaration that they, as occupancy tenants under section 5 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, were not bound to pay the enhanced rent laid down by a fresh entry in the record of rights, and that such entry was erroneous.

Held, following 25 P. R. 1889 (Raja Nur Khan v. Darab Khatun) and dissenting from 89 P. R. 1885 (Bahadur Khan v. Sardar) that the suit was exclusively cognizable by a Civil Court. RAHMUN v. HASHAM.

73 P R 1910

188. Jurisdiction—Civil or Revenue Court—Suit for value of a tree—Punjab Tenancy Act, XVI of 1887, section 77 (3) (k).

Held, that where the plaint and plaintiff's statement show that the plaintiff sues for the whole value of a tree as its sole owner the Civil Court has jurisdiction to try the suit, although the evidence produced by the parties may show that the tree stood on land which was the joint property of the parties—a suit of this description does not fall within section 77 (3) (k) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, XVI of 1887.

52 P. R. 1910, distinguished. KANWAL v. SRI.

10 P R 1911

189. Jurisdiction—Civil or Revenue Court—Suit for declaration that plaintiffs (Malikan Kabza) are not liable to pay Bakri and Thana patti dues—There being no custom under which they are payable—Punjab Tenancy Act, XVI of 1887, section 77 (3) (j).

Held, following 33 P. R. 1908 (F.B.) that a suit brought by Malikan Kabza and non-proprietary residents of a village and owners of the houses occupied by them for a declaration that they were not liable to pay Bakri and Thana patti dues, there being no custom as to the realization of such dues in their district or village, is not cognizable by a Civil Court.

67 P. R. 1905, distinguished. KARM ILAHI v. SULTAN ALAM.

79 P R 1911

JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS—concld.

190. Alienation of occupancy tenancy set aside—Suit by tenant for possession.

Held, that a suit by an occupancy tenant who has alienated his rights to recover his tenancy from the landlords after the latter have had the alienation declared void and obtained possession from the alienee is cognizable by the Civil and not the Revenue Courts. MAKHAN SINGH v. NANDA SINGH.

1 P R 1911 Rev.

JURISDICTION OF INSOLVENCY COURT.

1. See ADMINISTRATION OF INSOLVENT'S ESTATE. 45 P R 1910
2. See INSOLVENCY.
3. Insolvency Act III of 1907, sections 13 and 16 (2)—Power of Insolvency Court prior to adjudication.

Held that an Insolvency Court has no jurisdiction prior to the orders of adjudication, to order the release of an applicant for insolvency who has, rightly or wrongly, been committed to prison by a Civil Court in execution of a decree. KISHEN CHAND v. SASSOON. 95 P R 1910

JURISDICTION OF SETTLEMENT COURT.

1. Where a man died leaving an estate consisting partly of a jagir or inam, held, that the Settlement Court had no jurisdiction against any part of the estate, except perhaps the inam. MUSSAMMAT SIRDAR BANOO v. ALI MUDUT. 86 P R 1866

2. The special jurisdiction conferred upon the Financial Commissioner under section 22 of Act XIX of 1865 to hear appeals, continues until the settlement of the district is sanctioned, or such special jurisdiction is taken away by the Local Government, under section 17 of Act XXXIII of 1871, upon completion of Settlement operations. RAJA v. SUZAWAR. 50 P R 1873

3. Settlement in progress—Jurisdiction of Financial Commissioner—Act XIX of 1865. Section 22—Act XXXIII of 1871, section 17.

Parganna M. in the Ferozepore district, was put under re-settlement for both re-assessment of revenue and revision of the record of rights; and special jurisdiction was conferred upon the Financial Commissioner under section 22, Act XIX of 1865. The re-assessment was sanctioned by the Local Government in 1872. Held, that until the record of rights was also sanctioned, the Settlement was still "in progress," and the Chief Court's appellate jurisdiction was suspended, FATTA v. KALA.

39 P R 1874

4. Act XIX of 1865, section 21—Kamiana dues.

A suit for Kamiana dues is not a suit for the rent, revenue, or produce of land within the meaning of section 21 of Act

JURISDICTION OF SETTLEMENT COURT—concld.

XIX of 1865. Held, therefore, that such a suit is not cognizable by a Settlement Court. KHUDA BAKSH v. MUHAMMAD BAKSH.

4 P R 1877

5. Hazara Settlement Rules—Suit to correct entry in Settlement Record.

Held, that under the rules made for the Hazara Settlement, a suit is not maintainable in a Civil Court to set aside an entry in the Settlement Record.

The proper mode of correcting an entry (other than an entry made in accordance with a decree) would be either by suit in the Settlement Court, or by proceedings by way of appeal or application for revision. RAJA FEROZ KHAN v. RAJA MAHOMED KHAN.

111 P R 1879

6. Suit for Kamiana—"Rent of land"—Customary right to levy the cess—Jhelum district.

Held, that a suit for Kamiana is a suit for "rent of land" within the meaning of section 21 of Act XIX of 1865, and therefore within the jurisdiction of the Settlement Courts.

Held, further, that the tax was legally demandable by the plaintiffs (proprietors of the village of Tehi in the Jhelum district) from the defendants, who were weavers and residents of the same village. HAYAT v. NUR KHAN. 20 P R 1880

JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT.

See SMALL CAUSE COURTS—JURISDICTION OF.

K.

KADIRI FAQIRS.

See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—W. MISCELLANEOUS.

57 P R 1880

KAMBOH.

—Transfer of house in Khem Karan, Kasur Tahsil, Lahore District—Right of non-proprietor to alienate without consent of Kamboh proprietors.

See COMMON LAND. 38 P R 1895

KAMIANA.

See ATRAFI.

See CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES.

1. Non-agriculturist resident in village—cess.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 49 P R 1891

SMALL CAUSE COURT—JURISDICTION OF. 108 P R 1887

SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1865, SECTION 6.

33 P R 1887 F. B.

2. Suit for a declaration that persons who are owners of their houses and cultivators in the village are not liable to pay the 'kamiana' dues—Jurisdiction.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 67 P R 1905

KAMIANA—concld.

3. Suit for a share of 'kamiana' dues which the defendant ought to have recovered and paid to the plaintiff.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 128 P R 1908

KAMINS.
See CUSTOM I. F.—ALIENATION BY NON-PROPRIETOR.
—User of common lands by kamins—Right to continue the user.
See COMMON LAND. 3 P R 1877
4 P R 1877
73 P R 1883
54 P R 1886

KANUNGO.
1. Under Regulation IV of 1808, held, that a Kanungo could not be removed from one parganah to another for misconduct; if he were unfit for the office, he should have been dismissed altogether. IN RE RCOLDOO MULL. 2 P R 1867 Rev.
2. Punishment—Transfer.
Held, that the proper mode of punishing a Kanungo who misbehaves himself is by admonition, fine, suspension or dismissal, and not by transfer from one parganah to another. IN RE BIHARI LAL.
1 P R 1877 Rev.

KARABATI.
1. Wajib-ul-arz—Karabati—Construction.
See PRE-EMPTION—Wajib-ul-arz.
35 P R 1870
91 P R 1875
PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 36. 47 P R 1877
64 P R 1877
196 P R 1889
2. Karabati.
Karabati means not only a male collateral but a near male collateral. RANJHE KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT KAMAN. 179 P R 1889
MUSSAMMAT JIWAN v. IBRAHIM.
196 P R 1889
3. Observations as to the persons falling within the category of "Karabatis" MUSSAMMAT JIWI v. GAHIYA. 98 P R 1891

KAREWA.
See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.
1. Karewa marriage—Rajpoots—Exclusion of issue from inheritance.
See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION. W.—MISCELLANEOUS.
2 P R 1872
22 R 1873
2. Karewa marriage—Brahmins of Ferozepore District—Exclusion of issue from inheritance.
See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION. W.—MISCELLANEOUS.
22 P R 1873
3. Manhas Rajputs of tahsil Shakargarh, Gurdaspur—Co-widows—Right of Karewa widow to succeed equally with other widow.
See CUSTOM VIII—H.—SUCCESSION OF WIDOW. 22 P R 1884
4. Karewa marriage—Absence of ceremonies—Hindu Jats.
See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.
26 P R 1880

KAREWA—concld.

5. Validity of Karewa marriage during first husband's life-time.
See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.
36 P P 1881
78 P R 1884
6. Brahman agriculturists of Rupar tahsil—Umballa District—Issue by a Rajput woman who occupied the portion of a Karewa wife—Legitamacy.
See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.
48 P R 1890
7. Right of son by a Karewa marriage of Diawania Rajput with a Brahman woman.
See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.
57 P R 1893
8. Re-marriage by Karewa of widow who continues to live in her husband's house—Absence of ceremony—Forfeiture of estate.
See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION. I.—RE-MARRIAGE.
74 P R 1893
9. Validity of Karewa marriage between a Khatri and a Khatrani widow.
See MARRIAGE. 4 P R 1905
61 P R 1905

KAZI.
—Attestation of copy by a Kazi.
See EVIDENCE ACT, SECTION 32.
49 P R 1882

KHANADAMAD.
See CUSTOM I. A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR. (1) (e) GIFTS IN FAVOUR OF DAUGHTERS, &c
See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION. N.—SUCCESSION OF DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND.
Also under OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.
1. A sonless proprietor cannot nominate as khanadamad a man who has not married his daughter and come to live in his house up to the time of his death. HAYAT SHAH v. FAZAL BEGAM 70 P R 1908
2. Appointment of by will—Gujars of District Ludhiana.
Held, that the appointment of a future possible husband of an infant daughter by will to be a khanadamad is invalid among Gujars of the Ludhiana district. NABIA v. MUSSAMMAT FATTO. 2 P R 1910
3. Will in fvour of daughter and son-in-law—Khanadamad—Gujars of Gujrat District.
Held, that among Gujars of the Gujrat District wills in favour of daughters and their husbands are valid only if the latter is a duly appointed and regularly and continuously recognized khanadamad. MUHAMMAD v. LAKHAN. 25 P R 1910
4. Gift to daughter—Arains of Ferozepore District.
Held, that among Arains of mauza Dholewala, tahsil Zira, district Ferozepore, a sonless proprietor has by custom the power to gift a portion of his ancestral land in favour of his daughter, whose husband is the donor's khanadamad. KARM DIN v. MUSSAMMAT JIO, ETC. 13 P R 1911

KHANADAMAD—concld.

5. Kalon Jats of Gurdaspur District—Oral gift to daughter's sons, validity of.
Held, that an oral gift of ancestral land followed by mutation by a sonless proprietor in favour of his daughter's sons, whose father lived in the donor's house since the date of marriage is valid by custom among Kalon Jats of tahsil Shakargarh, District Gurdaspur. HARNAM SINGH v. LACHMAN SINGH.
16 P R 1911

KHANSHIP.
Khanship, Peshawar District—Property not specially attached to, governed by ordinary rules of succession.
Found upon the evidence, that the property in dispute was not permanently attached to a Khanship in the Peshawar District but was subject to the same rules of succession as the other landed property of the Khan. MUHAMMAD SHARIF KHAN v. ABBAS KHAN. 77 P R 1892

KHATRIS.
1. Presumably governed by Hindu Law.
See HINDU LAW—II ALIENATION.
58 P R 1909
2. Sodhi Khatris of mauza Hardo Jhanda, tahsil Batala, District Gurdaspur, and of mauza Bhamipura, tahsil Jagraon, District Ludhiana, are not governed by custom.
See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION. J.—RULE OF DECISION. 79 P R 1909
FOLLOWED IN. 43 P R 1911
28 P R 1911
3. In matters of alienation Bunjahi Khatris of mauza Naro, tahsil Kahuta, district Rawalpindi, do not follow agricultura custom.
See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION. J.—RULE OF DECISION.
88 P R 1910
4. Khatris who are residents of a town are presumably joint.
See HINDU FAMILY. 97 P R 1910

KHULA.
—Agreement to divorce—Khula—Agreement opposed to public policy.
See CUSTODY OF WIFE.
193 P R 1889

KISHTIBANNA.
1 Custom—Kishtibanna—Alteration of Custom by Contract.
See ALLUVION AND DILUVION.
56 P R 1869
2. Kishtibanna custom found not to prevail—Mauzahs Machiwara and Gholam Hosseinwala.
See ALLUVION AND DILUVION.
48 P R 1879
3. Found to prevail in the Una tahsil of the Hoshiarpur District.
See ALLUVION AND DILUVION.
164 P R 1883

KUCH HAKIAT.
See CUSTOM I. A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR. (1) (e (i; GIFTS AND WILLS IN FAVOUR OF DAUGHTERS, &C.
133 P R 1890

KUL HAKIAT.
See CONSTRUCTION OF DOCUMENT.
42 P R 1897

KURESHIS.

Of Sialkot City—Alienations by, not controllable by reversionary heirs.

See CUSTOM I. A.—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR. 3.—SALES, &c., IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS. 63 P R 1911

KURI KAMINI.

—Kuri Kamini dues—Delhi district

See CUSTOM X.—CESSES AND DUES. 74 P R 1879

KUDHI KAMINI.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT—JURISDICTION OF. 108 P R 1887

See SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 21 P R 1888

33 P R 1887 F. B.

Kudhi kamini is a "village cess" within the meaning of section 77 (3) (j) of the Punjab Tenancy Act and a suit therefore for its recovery is cognizable by the Revenue and not by the Civil Court. RAJ SARUP v. HARDAWARI. 95 P R 1907

L.

LAIK BETA.

See LAMBARDAR. 13 P R 1881 Rev.

LAHORE CITY WALL.

See ADVERSE POSSESSION. 56 P R 1871

LAMBARDAR.

1. Disposal of common land by lambardar as lambardar.

See COMMON LAND. 48 P R 1867

2. Suit by one lambardar against another for dues alleged to have been wrongly collected and retained by the defendant.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT—JURISDICTION OF. 2 P R 1887

3. Appointment.

The Settlement Officer in 1860 ordered that on the death of one and then a second of the three lambardars, (K. F. and D.) the place was not to be filled up, but that on the death of the last of the three, one of their descendants should be appointed lambardar. On the death of D, this order was not observed, and his son was appointed. F. then died, and his son, a minor, claimed to succeed. Held, that no lambardar was to be appointed in F's place. IN RE KADIR BUKSH. 10 P R 1867 Rev.

4. Appellant possessed a two-thirds share of the village, and having had it divided off, applied to be appointed lambardar of his own portion of the village. This application having been refused on the ground that the jama of the village was small and there was no necessity to appoint another lambardar or to disturb existing arrangements—ruled, by the Financial Commissioner in appeal, that the application ought to be complied with, two separate pattis having been constituted in the village, of which applicant was sole owner of one, and there being no lands in common, so that the interests of the two parties were completely separate. TELOO MULL v. SOOBHAN. 9 P R 1868 Rev.

5. Re-appointment on redemption of his estate—Power of officer to provide for future appointments.

Lambardar having once lost his office owing to his having mortgaged all his lands, has no right to be re-instated as a matter of course on his redeeming his estate. An officer has no power to bind his successors as to the appointment of lambardars. BUALI BAKHSH v. AMANAT ALI. 2 P R 1873 Rev.

LAMBARDAR—contd.

6. Disqualification—Rules 2 and 4, Punjab Government Notification No. 883 of 25th June 1872.

When a person is entitled to be appointed lambardar as heir of the preceding lambardar, under Rule 4, Punjab Government Notification No. 883, 25th June 1872, he is not disqualified under Rule 2 merely because he cannot read and write. SAYD ALI SHAH v. GULAM YASEEN. 3 P R 1873 Rev.

7. Mortgage—Rule 7, Punjab Government Notification No. 883 of 25th June, 1872.

The fact that a lambardar has mortgaged his property does not justify his dismissal from office; but the mortgagee should act as agent in the Lambardari pending the redemption of the mortgage. GULAB SHAH v TIRKAN MULL. 4 P R 1873 Rev.

8. Disqualification—Conviction of an offence.

A conviction under section 186 of the Penal Code is not sufficient to disqualify a lambardar from holding the post of chief lambardar. AMIRA v WAZIRA. 3 P R 1875 Rev.

9. Uncle and brother.

A. was half-brother of the deceased lambardar and succeeded to his property; B., the uncle of the deceased, was a man of far superior intelligence to A., and had acted as lambardar in the lifetime of the deceased. Held, that B. had a better claim to the office than A, KAPUR SINGH v. KANHA. 5 P R 1876 Rev.

10. Disqualification.

A younger son is not to be preferred to the elder, as successor to the lambardarship, merely because the latter is not so fit for the office as the former, and because the younger son officiated in the lifetime of his father. To exclude the elder son, his absolute disqualification must be shown. SHAM SINGH v. DUNNA SINGH. 7 P R 1876 Rev.

11. Succession—Transferee of land.

The office of lambardar does not follow the gift of land; held, therefore, that a transferee from the ex-lambardar, his adoptive father, was not entitled to succeed. NAUNDA v. NATHAN. 2 P R 1877 Rev.

12. Dismissal of lambardar—Jurisdiction.

Held, that the order of the Deputy Commissioner is necessary for the removal of a lambardar under No. 12 of the Rules made under sections 6 and 65 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1871. UMRA v. MIRAN BAKSH. 5 P R 1880 Rev

13. Succession of widow of deceased lambardar.

LAMBARDAR—contd.

Held, that there is no rule against the appointment of a widow as Lambardar in succession to her husband. ALLA BAKSH v. MUSSAMMAT JINDWADI. 7 P R 1880 Rev

14. Succession—Eldest grandson.

Held, that the son of an eldest son who predeceased his father, if of full age and thoroughly fit, has a better claim to succeed to the lambardarship than the eldest surviving son. IMAMBAKSH v. KASU. 9 P R 1880.

15. Succession—Adopted son.

Held, that the claim of the adopted son of a deceased lambardar is not so strong as to require that it should be respected if the appointment is opposed to custom or to the general feeling in the matter of the men of the village. HIRA SINGH v. JIWAN SINGH. 14 P R 1880 Rev.

16. Succession—Eldest grandson—Eldest surviving son—Custom.

Where the claimants to succeed to the office of lambardar were the minor son of the eldest son of the deceased lambardar, (the eldest son having predeceased his father), and the second or eldest surviving son, held, by the Financial Commissioner, that, though the lower Courts might have appointed the second son if they had thought this advisable on administrative grounds, popular feeling and general custom were in favor of the claim of the son of the eldest son.

The appointment of the son of the eldest son upheld. KESAR SINGH v. ATRA. 1 P R 1881 Rev

17. Dismissal—Indebtedness—Procedure—Mortgage by lambardar of his lands—Release by writing bonds.

A lambardar should not be dismissed by the Deputy Commissioner on a Tahsildar's report, until he has been called before the Deputy Commissioner, and his answer to the report has been taken in writing.

Where a lambardar, who had mortgaged all or almost all his lands, was dismissed by the Deputy Commissioner, whereupon he released the mortgaged lands by writing bonds for his creditors, the Financial Commissioner refused to re-instate him, holding him unfit for the post of lambardar from debt. GHASITA v. MUHAMMAD BAKSH. 2 P R 1881 Rev

18. Dismissal—Mortgage of estate.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that before a lambardar is dismissed because he has mortgaged his estate, he should have some warning and a period of grace within which to redeem. It does not always follow that the mere fact of such a mortgage renders a lambardar unfit to perform his duties, as, for instance, where the mortgage is usufructuary or lekha mukhi, and the mortgagor retains the cultivation. NANAK v. SAID LUTF ALI SHAH. 3 P R 1881 Rev.

LAMBARDAR—contd.

19. Succession—Act XXXIII of 1871, sections 6, 65, Rule 4—Son of former lambardar who failed to succeed his father through minority.

The claimants to succeed to the office of lambardar were (1) the son of the deceased lambardar; (2) one D. who based his claim on the ground that his father was lambardar before the deceased, and that he had only failed to succeed his father, as he was a minor at the time of his father's death. He therefore claimed to succeed under the penultimate clause of No. 4 of the rules made under sections 6 and 65 of the Land Revenue Act. The Commissioner (reversing the order of the Deputy Commissioner) decided in favor of the latter claimant (whom he found to be in every way fit for the post) on the authority of the above rule.

The Financial Commissioner, on appeal, upheld this order. NASAR ALI v. DASOUNDHA.
5 P R 1881 Rev.

20. Succession—Son of deceased lambardar—Son of elder brother of deceased whose father had been passed over.

On the death of a lambardar his eldest son M. was passed over and his second son W. S. was appointed lambardar. On the death of W. S. held, by the Financial Commissioner, confirming the order of the Settlement Commissioner, that in the absence of any special custom, W. S.'s son was entitled to succeed in preference to the son of M. neither of the above candidates being in any way unfit, as the right of a branch of the family once passed over is not usually revived, but the last lambardar's son is appointed. HAMIRA v. RAM SINGH.
7 P R 1881 Rev.

21. Succession—Unfitness of elder son—Act XXXIII of 1871, sections 6, 65, Rule 2.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that in cases of succession to the office of lambardar, before an elder son can be set aside as unfit in the sense of the last two lines of Rule No. 2 of the rules relating to lambardars, framed under the Land Revenue Act, 1871, it must be shown, not merely that the majority of the proprietary body much prefer his younger brother, but that the elder brother is really obnoxious to them from actual defects of character or temper or intellect. PHALLU v. KALU.
9 P R 1881 Rev.

22. Succession—Preferential right of man of same patti as deceased.

In a case of succession to the office of lambardar, it appeared that, though the village was a bhaiachara one, there were distinct tarafs and pattis in it based upon the pedigree tree, and that the lambardari arrangements were based on such division. In the taraf in question there were two pattis, in each of which was a lambardar, and the appellant belonged to the patti represented by the deceased lambardar, while respondent belonged to the other.

LAMBARDAR—contd.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that in such a case votes should be taken in the patti only, and not in the whole village, and that by custom of the village a man of the patti had a preferential right to succeed.

The appointment of appellant ordered accordingly. KALA SINGH v. NIDHAN SINGH.
10 P R 1881 Rev.

23. Succession—Rule of succession where there are no near relations of deceased lambardar.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that in cases of succession to the office of lambardar where there is no son or nephew of the deceased lambardar, it is not usual or necessary for the succession to be guided by mere nearness of relationship by the pedigree-table. In the absence of very near relations fit to succeed, it is usual to appoint by selection or election any member of the brotherhood who belongs to the same patti or sub-division of the village. RUSTAM KHAN v. NAJIB KHAN. 12 P R 1881 Rev.

24. Succession—Wajib-ul-arz—Laik beta,—Appointment of second son for life in preference to eldest grandson, reserving right of latter on death of former.

The claimants to succeed to the office of lambardar were, first, W. S. the son of the eldest son of the deceased lambardar, and secondly, D. S. the second or eldest surviving son of the said deceased. The Wajib-ul-arz of the village contained a condition that the son who was fit (laik) should succeed.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, upholding the order of the Commissioner, that the above entry should be interpreted only as meaning that if the eldest son is much less fit than a younger son, the latter may be appointed, and not as meaning that seniority gave no preferential claim.

In the above case the Commissioner found that D. S., the second son, had been selected 17 years ago to be his father's surburah, since when he had virtually acted as lambardar, and that the objections to his appointment at that time had been overruled in all the Courts. He therefore considered that D. S.'s appointment should be confirmed, but ordered that on his death, W. S., if fit, should succeed in preference to D. S.'s son.

The Financial Commissioner upheld the above order. WARYAM SINGH v. DYAL SINGH.
13 P R 1881 Rev.

25. Succession—Candidate disqualified by small size of his holding—Removal of disqualification by purchase of land.

In a claim for the lambardarship, one of the candidates, the son of the deceased lambardar, on objection being taken to the small size of his holding, asked for time to remove this disqualification by the purchase of more land. This petition was not granted, and the Deputy Commissioner who heard the appeal from the order of the first Court, held that the disqualification had not been removed even if the appellant had fairly bought an additional 10 bighas of land without getting into debt.

LAMBARDAR—contd.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that appellant if not in debt except to a trifling extent, and the owner of 12 bighas, was not disqualified for the lambardarship and should not have been passed over merely because the respondent might be a somewhat richer man. KHUSHALI v. RAMRIKH.
14 P R 1881 Rev.

26. Succession—Rule No. 4 under Land Revenue Act—Revival of lambardarship in favour of son of dismissed lambardar.

Under No. 4 of the rules relating to lambardars framed under the Land Revenue Act, 1871, the claim of the son of a lambardar, who has been dismissed for misconduct, can be considered and revived when a vacancy occurs.

But held by the Financial Commissioner, that in the case of serious crimes against property, e. g. highway robbery, showing criminal tendencies in a family, it is generally right to exclude the son as well as the father. JAI RAM v. RUNJEET.
16 P R 1881 Rev.

27. Succession—Election—Wajib-ul-arz—Rule A. I, 4 under the Land Revenue Act, 1871.

In a case of succession to the lambardarship, where the degree of distance of relationship, between the claimants and the deceased was too small to be of weight, and the Administration-paper of the village provided for votes being taken, held, by the Financial Commissioner, that the case was a proper one for resorting to election, or at least for taking votes in order to ascertain the wishes of the brotherhood and the influence of the candidates.

Held further, that in accordance with the provision in the Wajib-ul-arz the election should go by the number of votes not by the jama of the votes—(see Rule A. I, 4, of the rules framed under the Land Revenue Act, 1871). MURATIB v. NAJIB KHAN.
2 P R 1882 Rev.

28. Succession—Minority of son of deceased lambardar—Unfitness—Act XXXIII of 1871, Rules A. I 4 and 20.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that as a general rule the minority of the son of a deceased lambardar is not an unfitness which will justify his being passed over for the office of lambardar and the next heir being appointed, if he can produce a fit man to do the work as deputy. Nasir Ali v. Dasoundha (No. 5 P.R. 1881, Revenue), and Hamira v. Ram Singh (No. 7 P. R. 1881 Revenue) referred to. SALIG RAM v. JIA RAM.
3 P R 1882 Rev.

29. Succession—Adopted son.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that when a Lambardar takes as adopted son a man of another got, the Courts are not compelled by the rules framed under the Land Revenue Act, 1871, to admit the claims of such adopted son to succeed to the lambardarship. Hira Singh v. Jiwan Singh (No. 14 P. R. 1880, Revenue) followed. NIHAL SINGH v. BHANA. 2 P R 1883 Rev.

LAMBARDAR—contd.

30. Succession—Whole and half-blood.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that as between sons of the same father by different wives a full brother has not by custom or feeling of the country any better right than a half brother to succeed to an office like that of lambardar. JOT RAM v. AMIN LAL. 3 P R 1883 Rev.

31. Succession—Effect of provision in Wajib-ul-arz regulating succession.

In a suit relating to the succession to a lambardarship, the appellant, who was a younger son of the deceased lambardar, relied upon an entry in the Wajib-ul-arz providing for the succession of a younger son in preference to the elder son.

Held by the officiating Financial Commissioner, that effect should not be given to such provision, which was quite out of place in a village administration-paper, which should only deal with such matters connected with the interior economy of villages, as the proprietary body had a right to regulate, the appointment to the post of lambardar not being one of such matters. DHIAN SINGH v. DAL SINGH. 4 P R 1883 Rev.

32. Transfer of lambardarship—Validity of such transfer.

Where it appeared that one B. S., the lambardar of M. Dina in the Moga Tahsil, had transferred his lambardarship to his relative, G. S., on certain conditions, viz., that G. S. should be lambardar for his life only, paying the allowances to B. S. and that after G. S.'s death the post should revert to B. S. or his sons, which transfer was sanctioned by the Deputy Commissioner.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that the arrangement in the form in which it was made was not one which should have been recognized by the Deputy Commissioner, as it is against public policy to recognize a right to traffic in offices of this kind on the part of their holders, and therefore when it was found that conditions were attached to the transfer, the parties should have been told that it could not be ratified. BHAGWAN SINGH v. GURMUKH SINGH.

1 P R 1884 Rev.

33. Succession—Son of elder brother who had been dismissed and succeeded by his younger brother—Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), Rule A. I 4.

Respondent who was the son of a lambardar dismissed in 1871 for a criminal offence, and succeeded by his younger brother, claimed on the death of his uncle to succeed to the post in preference to the appellant, the son of the deceased lambardar.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that respondent was entitled to succeed with reference to the last clause of No. 4 of the rules relating to lambardars, framed under the Land Revenue Act: and that as his father's offence was not a very serious one, it would not be right to permanently deprive the elder branch of the family because one member of it committed a criminal offence. MUTSADDI v. BADAMAN.

LAMBARDAR—contd.

3 P R 1884 Rev.

34. Succession of widow.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, following the former rulings of the Court, that there is no prohibition against the appointment of a woman to the post of lambardar in succession to her husband. Alla Baksh v. Mussammat Jindwaddi (No. 7 P. R. 1880 Revenue) cited. MUSSAMMAT SUKHDEVI v. BHAI RAM DAS. 6 P R 1884 Rev.

35. Dismissal—Grounds for such dismissal.

The appellant and his sons having been sent up by order of the Deputy Commissioner for trial as bad characters under section 118 of the Criminal Procedure Code, the case was tried by the Deputy Commissioner, who held that the appellant's two sons were bad characters and should furnish security, and as regards appellant that "his dismissal from his lambardarship, a necessary result of the conviction of his two sons," would be sufficient punishment for him, and appellant was accordingly discharged, but dismissed from his post of lambardar on the same day.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that sufficient reason had not been shown for dismissing appellant from the lambardarship, as a lambardar may be a good character himself and yet be unable to control his sons who may be bad characters; that nothing short of actual misbehaviour or systematic neglect of his duties on the part of the appellant would have warranted his removal and nothing of this kind being established, he was entitled to be restored to his post, BAZ KHAN v. CROWN. 2 P R 1885 Rev.

36. Dismissal—Mortgage by lambardar of part of his holding—Procedure—Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 65, Rules A. I. 7, 12.

The sole lambardar of the village was dismissed from his post because he had sold some of his land and mortgaged the rest, whereupon on the question of a successor coming up for decision, the Extra Assistant Commissioner appointed the brother of the dismissed lambardar to succeed him but on appeal the Deputy Commissioner appointed the mortgagee, and this order was upheld by the Commissioner.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that the orders of the Revenue officers below were wrong throughout; that if the Deputy Commissioner acted under Rule A. I, 12 of the rules under the Land Revenue Act, he should have given the dismissed lambardar warning and a period of grace within which to redeem his mortgaged land; but that the proper procedure to adopt was that laid down in Rule 7 of the same set of rules, and that all that was necessary was to ascertain if possession of the mortgaged property had been given to the mortgagee, and in that event to have constituted him the agent of the lambardar, so long as he should remain in possession as mortgagee. Nanak v. Said Lutf Ali Shah (No. 3 P. R. 1881, Revenue) cited. JAGAT SINGH v. BAHADUR SINGH. 5 P R 1885 Rev.

LAMBARDAR—contd.

37. Succession—Minority of son of deceased lambardar not an unfitness within the meaning of the rules relating to appointment of lambardars.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that the minority of the son of a deceased lambardar is not an unfitness which would justify his being passed over for the office of lambardar and the next heir being appointed, if the son can produce a fit man to do the work as deputy. Salig Ram v. Jia Ram (No. 3 P. R. 1882, Revenue) followed. AHMAD KHAN v. MUHAMMAD KHAN. 10 P R 1885 Rev.

38. Succession—Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 6, Rule 5.—Inability of local officers to reduce the number of headmen when there is a qualified heir—Right of heir to succeed to the post.

The appellant, on the death without male issue of his younger brother, was recommended by the Tahsildar for appointment to the post of lambardar held by the deceased, but the Deputy Commissioner reduced the post on the ground that the appellant being lambardar in another village would be unable to perform the duties of headman in the deceased's village, and further, that the revenue of the village being only Rs. 600, the remaining lambardars (three in number) were sufficient. The Commissioner for the same reasons confirmed the Deputy Commissioner's order.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that under Rule 5 of the rules framed under section 6 of the Land Revenue Act, the Deputy Commissioner had no authority, even with the consent of the co-sharers (which was not obtained in the present case), to reduce the post when there was an heir qualified to succeed. The post of lambardar being hereditary, the heir of a deceased lambard has a right to succeed, provided he is fitted to discharge the duties, and he cannot be deprived of his right on grounds such as those on which the local officers refused to appoint the appellant. MAULU v. CROWN. 14 P R 1885 Rev

39. Succession—Act XXXIII of 1871, section 6, Rule A I. 5.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that by the words "heir qualified to succeed" used in Rule 5 of the rules under the Land Revenue Act relating to lambardars, is meant some near relative of the deceased fitted for the post, and further, where the same rule speaks of "persuading the pro-"prietors to accept one of the existing

LAMBARDAR—contd.

"headmen as their representative," it clearly refers to the proprietors of the taraf or pattti which has been represented by the deceased lambardar. BHAG SINGH v. HEM SINGH.

2 P R 1886 Rev.

40. Dismissal—Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), sections 6 and 65, Rule 12—Imprisonment.

The respondent, a lambardar, was sentenced to 18 months' rigorous imprisonment on a charge of causing grievous hurt in an affray. While he was in jail his brother, the appellant, was appointed to act as his agent. On his release from jail, respondent resumed his duties and carried them on for more than a year without blame, when the substitute who had been acting for him brought to notice that having been in jail he should have forfeited his appointment under Rule 12 of the rules framed under sections 6 and 65 of the Land Revenue Act. Acting on this representation the Deputy Commissioner removed respondent from his post; but on appeal to the Commissioner the order of removal was reversed.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that the offence for which the respondent was convicted was not one which would ordinarily disqualify a man for the office of lambardar. Under Rule 12 of the rules referred to, the respondent having been sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment, might have been removed, from his post: but as he was not so removed, the Deputy Commissioner should not have ordered his removal a year after he had reverted to his post. SANDHI v. AMIK SINGH. 5 P R 1886 Rev.

41. Dismissal—Security for bad livelihood—Unfitness.

The appellant, on the 21st January 1884, was convicted by the Deputy Commissioner of Lahore of being one of the leaders of a gang of thieves who were for some time engaged in committing thefts from the railway, and was sentenced to one year's rigorous imprisonment. On appeal this conviction was reversed by the Sessions Judge; but in passing the order the Sessions Judge expressed a strong opinion to the effect that appellant had been mixed up as a principal in the gang robberies from the railways, and he directed that proceedings should be taken against him under section 110, Criminal Procedure Code. This was done, and appellant was ordered to furnish security for one year. During the course of these proceedings it transpired that he had once previously (in 1878) been placed on security. The Deputy Commissioner of Lahore therefore decided that appellant was not a fit person to perform the duties of lambardar and dismissed him from the post. The order of dismissal being upheld by the Commissioner on appeal, a second appeal was preferred to the Financial Commissioner when it was held that a man from whom security had been twice taken for bad livelihood was not fitted to exercise the police and fiscal duties which devolve upon a lambardar. SAWAN SINGH v. CROWN.

LAMBARDAR—con

6 P R 1886 Rev.

42. Succession—Claims of cousin of the whole blood and uncle of the half blood—Custom.

In a case of succession to the office of lambardar in which the dispute was between the cousin of the whole blood and the uncle of the half blood of a deceased lambardar:

Held by the Financial Commissioner following Jot Ram v. Amin Lal (No. 3 P. R. 1883, Revenue), that as between sons of the same father by different wives a full brother has not by custom or feeling of the country any better right than a half brother to an office like that of lambardar, On the contrary, the feeling would be in favour of the brothers succeeding to the post in order of age without any distinction of full or half blood. KAMMA KHAN v. PAHLWAN KHAN.

8 P R 1886 Rev.

43. Succession—Right of adopted son of a different 'got' to succeed to his adoptive father's office against the wishes of a large majority of the village proprietors, and in the presence of a near relative of the deceased lambardar.

One G., a lambardar of two-thirds of taraf Jatan in mauza Jandoli in the Gurhshankar tahsil of the Hoshiarpur district, having died without male issue, the respondent, who was the son of G.'s wife by her former husband, and who was adopted by G. as a son, claimed to succeed to the office of lambardar by virtue of his adoption. The claim was opposed by the appellant who was G.'s own brother. On the votes of the proprietors of the taraf being taken, a large majority of them voted in favor of the brother of the deceased lambardar, who was accordingly appointed to the vacant office by the Settlement officer. On appeal the Commissioner held that as it was admitted that by the custom of the village a son must succeed (if otherwise fit) to his father's office before other relatives, and as the status of an adopted son is, to all intents and purposes, that of a son, the respondent, until his adoption was set aside, must be held entitled to succeed to his adoptive father's office as headman, notwithstanding the fact that a majority of proprietors would prefer to have the deceased's brother appointed.

Held, by the Financial Commissioner that as the legal effects of the appointment of an heir by an agriculturist in the Punjab often loosely styled an adoption, are very different from those of a regular adoption according to the rules of Hindu law, the fact that a lambardar chooses to appoint as his heir the son by a former marriage of a woman whom he has made his wife by the karewa form of marriage, does not as of right entitle such son to succeed to his adopted father's office against the wishes of a large majority of the village proprietors, who prefer to be represented by one of their own body who is also a near relative of the former lambardar. Hira Singh v. Jiwan Singh (No. 14 P. R. 1880, Revenue), and Nihal Singh v. Bhana (No. 2 P. R. 1883, Revenue) cited and followed. Dad v. Bagh Singh (No. 34 P. R. 1883, Civil) referred to. SHAM SINGH v. GONDA. 9 P R 1836 Rev.

LAMBARDAR—contd.

44. Succession—Adopted son.

Held by the 2nd Financial Commissioner, that the claim of an adopted son to the office of lambardar should be recognized in cases in which such claim is not opposed to custom, and in which the adopted son is by birth a near kinsman of his adoptive father. Hira Singh v. Jiwan Singh (No. 14 P. R. 1880, Revenue), and Nihal Singh v. Bhana (No. 2 P. R. 1883, Revenue) followed. MAULA DAD v. HAYAT. 14 P R 1886 Rev.

45. Dismissal.

Though a lambardar is liable to dismissal if he fails in the discharge of his police duties, still before an order of dismissal is passed the fact of such failure must be proved by evidence, from which at least it may reasonably be inferred that the accused has been guilty of the alleged culpable neglect of duty. MAYA SUKH v. CROWN.

2 P R 1888 Rev.

46. Succession—Right of heir to be appointed.

Held, that both under the present and the former rules relating to the appointment of lambardars, the heir, if fit, cannot be passed over, but is entitled to be appointed, Maulu v. Crown (No. 14 P. R. 1885, Rev.) cited. SHERZAMAN KHAN v. KHAN BAHADAR. 6 P R 1888 Rev.

47. Succession—Right of heir to succeed—Minority no disqualification—Land Revenue Act, 1887, Rules under Part II, Nos. 34 (i) and 42 (ii).

In a case of succession to a lambardarship, it appeared that the respondent X, had been dismissed from the lambardarship in 1854, when one B. was appointed; that on B.'s death in 1872, his son K. was appointed, X, having failed to obtain re-appointment; and that on the death of K. leaving a minor son, the appellant, the Deputy Commissioner appointed X. who had been dismissed in 1854, the reason being that he had recently done good service in bringing about the apprehension of a criminal, which appointment was upheld by the Commissioner, who justified it, by the remark that it avoided the alternative of the appointment of a minor.

Held, that under Rule 34 (i) of the rules relating to lambardars framed under the Land Revenue Act, 1887, the minor appellant, was entitled to be appointed in succession to his father, and that under Rule 42 (ii) a suitable substitute should be appointed to perform the duties during the appellant's minority. KURE v. BHOJA.

1 P R 1889 Rev.

LAMBARDAR—contd.

48. Succession—Rule 34 (i) "Heir entitled to inherit according to the custom of the village"—Construction.

Held, that Rule 34 (i) of Lambardari rules does not make it absolutely necessary that the heir of a lambardar qua his lambardarship should be the person who is entitled to succeed to his private property. It is quite possible that by the custom of the village another person may be his heir in the office of Lambardar. The word "lambardarship" should be read after "inherit" in Rule 34 (i). LEHNA SINGH v. MANGAL SINGH. 4 P R 1889 Rev.

49. Appeal—Duty of Appellate Court.

The Deputy Commissioner dismissed the petitioner for neglect of duty. The Commissioner rejected the appeal stating that the Deputy Commissioner was the best Judge of such a matter.

Held, that the Commissioner should have come to an independent conclusion of his own, after considering the evidence and the circumstances of the case. RAM SINGH v. UTTAM SINGH. 3 P R 1890 Rev.

50. Rule 34—Succession—Disqualification.

The claims of the heir of a lambardar should be passed over only in cases where his eligibility is affected by disqualification of his predecessor, or on grounds which would justify his dismissal. SAHIB SINGH v. HIRA SINGH. 4 P R 1890 Rev.

51. Succession—Right of heir to succeed—Minority no disqualification—Land Revenue Act XVII of 1887) Rule under Part II, No. 32 (3) (c) and (d) and 34 (c).

Held, that the minority of the son of a deceased lambardar does not justify his being passed over for the office of a lambardar, but that under the rules he is prima facie entitled to be appointed in succession to his father, a suitable deputy being appointed to perform the duties during minority. BIRJ LAL v. GHARIB. 16 P R 1890 Rev.

52. Non-resident lambardar—Substitute—Interest of lambardar.

In appointing a substitute for non-resident lambardar, the interests of Government should be consulted, but at the same time the substitute should, if possible, be a man who is a persona grata to the absent lambardar. SKINNER v. MOTI RAM AND GANGA RAM. 8 P R 1891 Rev.

53. Lambardar, neglect or absence of—Disqualification of son.

Held, that neglect of duty or absence from his post of an old and effete lambardar is not prima facie a sufficient ground for disqualifying a son from succeeding to the lambardarship. RAMJI LAL v. KANWAR SINGH. 10 P R 1891 Rev.

54. Lambardar—Removal of, from office when required by the Criminal Courts to give security for good behaviour—Duty of Collector.

LAMBARDAR—contd.

Lehna Singh, a lambardar in the Sialkot District of sixteen years' standing, was required by a competent Magistrate to give security for good behaviour for one year in a bond for Rs. 500. The Magistrate recorded evidence and held that Lehna Singh was the abettor of thieves and habitually received stolen property: he accordingly made an order against Lehna Singh under sections 110 and 118, Criminal Procedure Code.

Lehna Singh appealed to the District Magistrate, who dismissed the appeal.

Upon the same day, the Collector of the District took up the case on the Revenue side to consider whether Lehna Singh was a fit person to retain the office of lambardar: the Collector dismissed him on the ground that it had been proved that he was a habitual receiver of stolen property, and had been called upon to furnish security for one year.

Lehna Singh then appealed to the Commissioner, who reversed the Collector's order and directed that Lehna Singh be restored to his office on the ground that he had been "mechanically dismissed by the Collector, because the man had been put on security under section 110, Criminal Procedure Code, by a Magistrate."

Held, by the Financial Commissioner, that when a lambardar has been ordered by a Magistrate to give security for good behaviour under the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code and has failed, as Lehna Singh had failed, to get the order set aside either by the District Magistrate on appeal or by the Chief Court in revision, the lambardar is prima facie liable to dismissal from his office.

This, however, is not to be taken to mean that the Revenue authorities have no option in the matter, and are absolutely bound to pass an order of dismissal; but those authorities would ordinarily fail in their duty if they retained such a lambardar in office unless he could show very strong reason why he should not be removed.

Ordinarily, such an order of dismissal should not be made immediately after the rejection of an appeal by the District Magistrate refusing to set aside an order requiring security; a lambardar should first be suspended and the question of his dismissal or otherwise postponed until after the lapse of a reasonable time—say six months—to enable him to contest the order requiring him to give security. IN THE MATTER OF LEHNA SINGH LAMBARDAR.

8 P R 1892 Rev.

55. Lambardar—Claim to office of—Adopted son, being also a sister's son.

The adopted son, who was also a sister's son of the deceased lambardar, claimed to succeed to the vacant office.

The Financial Commissioner, after a remand for inquiry on the question of custom, declined to interfere with the order of the

LAMBARDAR—contd.

Commissioner in which that officer refused to appoint as lambardar the adopted son such adopted son being the sister's son of the deceased and belonging to a different got.

No. 14 P. R. 1886, Rev., referred to

HIRA v. WAZIRA. 9 P R 1892 Rev.

56. Lambardar—Claim to office of—Adopted son, being also a daughter's son.

The adopted son, who was also a daughter's son of the deceased lambardar, claimed to succeed to the vacant office.

The Financial Commissioner, after a remand for inquiry on the question of custom, declined to interfere with the order of the Commissioner in which that officer refused to appoint, as lambardar, the adopted son, such adopted son being the daughter's son of the deceased and belonging to a different got.

No. 9 P. R. 1892, Rev., referred to.

SHER SINGH v. SUBHA. 10 P R 1892 Rev.

57. Lambardar—Claim to office of—Adopted son, being also a sister's son.

The adopted, son who was also a sister's son of the deceased lambardar, claimed to succeed to the vacant office.

The Financial Commissioner declined to interfere with the order of the Commissioner setting aside the appointment of the adopted son, such adopted son being the sister's son of the deceased and belonging to a different got.

Nos. 9 and 10 P. R. 1892, Rev., followed SUCHET SINGH v. BASANT SINGH.

11 P R 1892 Rev.

58. Lambardar—Claim to office of—Adopted son, being also a brother's son.

The adopted son, who was also a brother's son of the deceased lambardar, claimed to succeed to the vacant office in preference to the son of an elder brother of deceased.

Held, upholding the order of the Commissioner, that the adopted son, being otherwise fit and being by birth a nephew of his adoptive father, had a preferential claim.

No. 14 P. R. 1886, Rev., followed. SHAH MUHAMMAD v. DIWAN BAKHSH.

12 P R 1892 Rev.

59. Lambardar—Claim to office of—Adopted son, being also a brother's son.

The adopted son, who was also a brother's son of the deceased lambardar, claimed to succeed to the vacant office.

The Collector and Commissioner appointed the deceased's brother in preference to the adopted son.

The Financial Commissioner upon application for revision, reversed these orders and appointed the adopted son, he being a brother's son and therefore of the same got as the deceased lambardar. RAMJAS v. NIHALA. 13 P R 1892 Rev.

60. Lambardar, appointment of—Nearest heir—Effect of conviction of lambardar for bad livelihood upon claim of his heir—Property qualification of dismissed lambardar's son—Rules Nos. 175 (ii), 177 (ii) (c) 179 and 179 (b) of Rules relating to village officers made under Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887.

Held, that, inasmuch as under Rule No. 179 of the Rules relating to village officers made under the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, on the appointment of a lambardar, the nearest heir, if fit, must succeed to the vacant appointment, the order of a Revenue Officer to the effect that, on the death of a lambardar, the rights of some claimant other than the nearest heir shall be considered, is ultra vires.

Held, further, that with reference to clause (b) of Rule No. 179, the conviction of a lambardar for bad livelihood does not necessarily affect the eligibility of an heir who is himself of good character.

Held, also, that though under Rule No. 175 (ii) a lambardar must be a landowner in the estate, and under rule 177 (ii) (c) a lambardar who ceases, to be a landowner must be dismissed, when the appointment of the son of a dismissed lambardar is unobjectionable or desirable, the difficulty regarding the non-possession of land by the son during the father's life-time may be treated in a liberal way. NARAIN SINGH v. JAIMAL SINGH. 2 P R 1894 Rev.

61. Lambardar, appointment of—Nearest heir—Claim of person who has been legally declared to have claim to be appointed at next vacancy—Rule No. 4 of Rules relating to village officers made under Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1871, and Rule No. 179 of Rules under Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887 —Declaration made under former vacancy occurring under latter rules.

By Rules No. 4 of the Rule applicable to village officers made under the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1871, when on the appointment of a lambardar, the nearest heir was passed over on the ground of youth, he might have a claim to be appointed when the office next became vacant. This provision has not been repeated in the Rules made under the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887.

Held that in the case of a person who had been legally declared under the earlier rules to have a claim to be appointed on the next vacancy, the claim of such person must be taken into consideration together with the claim of the nearest heir on the appointment falling vacant, even though such vacancy occurred under the latter rules. Both claimants having equal claims, the choice should be made in regard to fitness, or on other ground applicable to appointments. AHMAD DIN v. MUHAMMAD ALI. 3 P R 1894 Rev.

62 Lambardar—Succession to post of lambardar—Primogeniture—Rules under Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887*—Rule No.* 179 (i).

Held, that in cases of succession to the post of lambardar, "the heir or nearest heir who, "according to the custom of the village, is "entitled to inherit," within the meaning of clause (i) of the Rule No. 179 of the Rules made under the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, is in all cases the heir according to the rule of primogeniture, unless some other special custom be distinctly proved. YAKUB KHAN v. ALAF KHAN. 5 P R 1894 Rev.

63. Lambardar—Appointment of woman as Lambardar—Rules under Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887*—Rules Nos.* 176, 177, 179.

Held, that the appointment of a female lambardar is always objectionable on the ground of personal unfitness, and that a woman can only be appointed under such circumstances as would also justify the appointment of an unfit man. No. 6 P. R. 1884, Rev. disapproved. MUSSAMMAT SURAJAN v. AMIRULLA. 6 P R 1894 Rev.

64. Lambardari, succession to—Claim of nearest heir overlooked by mistake but asserted at earliest opportunity.

One B. S. a lambardar, died in 1865, leaving him surviving two sons, J. S. and C. S. and a grandson, T. S. by a deceased eldest son. The Superintendent of Settlement in reporting on the case mistook T. S. for the said deceased eldest son I. S. whom he described as the third son of B. S. as still alive and as a minor aged 15. In consequence of this mistake, J. S. the second son of B. S. was appointed lambardar, and the claims of T. S. as the representative of the eldest branch of the family were overlooked. Immediately on the death of J. S. T. S. preferred his claim to succeed as lambardar, and was duly appointed as such by the Collector, whose order was upheld on appeal by the Commissioner. The eldest son of J. S. thereupon applied to the Financial Commissioner for revision of the said orders.

Held, that under Rule A I. 4 of the Rules under the Punjab Land Revenue Act of 1887 in cases where, in the appointment of a successor to a deceased lambardar, the nearest heir is passed over on the ground of youth, the absence of a note by the Revenue Officer to the effect that the claims of such heir are to be considered when the post falls vacant again is very material, but that in a case where the claim of the nearest heir has been overlooked by mistake and the claimant comes forward at the earliest opportunity to seek his remedy by appeal, or, when there was sufficient excuse for his not appealing, when the succession next opened out, his claims should be taken into consideration. WARYAM SINGH v. THARAJ SINGH. 7 P R 1896 Rev.

65. Lambardari, succession to—Rival claims of the deceased lambardar's nephew and his adopted son, who was his daughter's son, but also a distant agnate—Arains of Parji got of mauza Parjian Kalan. Nakodar tahsil —Rules under the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887*—Rule No.* 179*—"Primogeniture."*

On the death of one S., a lambarda of mauza Parjian Kalan, Nakodar tehsil, in the Jullundur District, the vacant office was claimed by (1) the deceased's nephew, and (2) the deceased's adopted son. It appeared that the latter, though he was the deceased's daughter's son, was of the same got as the deceesed and his distant agnatic relation, and was preferred by the other lambardars of the village to Ilahi Bakhsh, the deceased's nephew.

The parties were Arains of the Parji got.

Held, that, under the circumstances of the case and in view of the facts that the adopted son had lived in the village since his birth, had been brought up by S. and treated by him for years as his son, and had also acted as S.'s sarbarah, the adopted son had a better claim to succeed to the vacant office than the deceased's nephew.

When the question arises whether an adopted son, being an agnatic kinsman of the deceased, but not a near agnatic kinsman, is entitled to exclude so near a collateral as a brother's son from succession to the office of lambardar, the whole circumstances of the particular case should be considered, it being impossible to lay down any hard-and-fast rule as to the degree of relationship which would support or bar the claim.

Held, further, that for the purposes of the rule of primogeniture as applied to the office of lambardar (Rule 179 of the Rule under the Punjab Land Revenue Act 1887), an adopted son may, in certain circumstances, be in the same position as a son of the body.

Revenue Judgments Nos. 14 P. R., 1880 2 P. R. 1883, 14 P. R., 1886. and 9, 10, 11, 12, and 13 P. R. 1892. referred to. BARKAT ALI v. ILAHI BAKHSH. 2 P R 1899 Rev.

66. Lambardar—Succession to post of lambardar—Rival claims of the deceased lambardar's paternal grandfather's descendants in the male line whose ancestors had never held the post—" Primogeniture "—Rules under Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887 —Rule No. 179 (i).

In a case where the claimants to succeed to the office of lambardar were the two descendants in the male line of the paternal grandfather of the last incumbent, the Collector appointed the petitioner as he belonged to the elder branch of the family but the Commissioner on appeal reversed the order of the Collector, on the ground that the rule of primogeniture was not applicable to the parties, and appointed the present respondent on the ground that he was the representative of the line which had never left the village, whereas the father of the petitioner was absent for more than twelve years. Held, that the petitioner should not be prejudiced by the temporary absence of his father from the village, and that in doubtful cases it is more expedient to favour the senior branch as it is more in accordance with the stress laid by the present rules on the rule of primogeniture. YADU v. DANI. 5 P R 1901 Rev.

LAMBARDAR—concld.

67. Lambardar—Right of heir to succeed—Disqualification.

Held, that the claim of the heir of a lambardar should not be passed over on the sole ground that his holding in the village is very insignificant, if he has property in another village sufficient to secure the revenue for which he would be responsible.

Under Land Revenue Rule No. 177 (iii) (c) absence from the village is not a disqualification unless the effect of the absence is that he is unable to discharge the duties of the office. CHAHAT v. MURAD ALI.

2 P R 1903 Rev.

68. Lambardar—Dismissal—Removal of cause of disqualification - Right for re-appointment.

Indebtedness is a sound reason for dismissing a lambardar, but where the dismissed person removes the cause of his disqualification before a fresh appointment is made there is no bar to his re-appointment if there may be some advantage in it as it is expedient to avoid changing lambardars.

Semble: Indebtedness of a lambardar does not justify his dismissal where there is sufficient security for the recovery of the revenue for which he is responsible, and the needful security may be provided by gifts of land to the lambardar even if unaccompanied by possession. FAKERIA v. MUNGA.

3 P R 1903 Rev.

69. Lambardar—Disqualification of heir on account of poverty—Rules under the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887—Rules Nos. 177 (iii) (b), 179.

Held, that the claim of the heir of a lambardar should not be entertained if his property is not of sufficient value to serve as security for the revenue for which he would be responsible as lambardar. JADA v. RAJADA. 7 P R 1904 Rev.

LAMBARDAR (ALA-LAMBARDAR).

1. Muafi land held by ala-lambardar by virtue of his office is not precluded from being brought into partition.

See COMMON LAND. 15 P R 1892 Rev.

2. Suit for land alleged to have been granted to the plaintiff, revenue-free, as ala-lambardar.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT 66 P R 1893

3. Grant of land to office of ala-lambardar—Acquisition of occupancy rights in such land.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 123 P R 1893

LAMBARDAR (ALA-LAMBARDAR)—contd.

4. Suit for possession of land alleged to have been assigned to plaintiff revenue-free, as ala-lambardar—Emoluments of office of ala-lambardar.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 104 P R 1894
101 P R 1901

. Land assigned to ala-lambardar in virtue of his office—Emoluments of village officer.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 105 P R 1894

6. Suit to eject defendant from land held by him in virtue of his office of ala-lambardar—Emoluments of village officer.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 23 P R 1895
28 P R 1895

6. (a). Occupancy Rights—Grant of muafi to ala-lambardar in virtue of his office as ala-lambar joint owner of such land.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

1 P R 1897 Rev.

7. Chief headman—Rule 3, Punjab Government Notification No. 883, 25th June 1872.

Upon the death of the chief headman or ala lambardar, the candidates for the office were M. B. (the eldest son of the deceased), H. B. B. and M.—H. B. polled 645 votes; B. polled 562, and M. B. 548. The Deputy Commissioner confirmed the election of H. B. after which B and M. gave in their adhesion to M. B. Held, (reversing the orders of the Deputy Commissioner and Commissioner) that though the office of chief headman was not hereditary, it was desirable to appoint the son if he were not inferior to the other candidates; and that there was not such a preponderance of votes in favour of H. B. as warranted his being appointed over the head of M. B. MIRAN BAKSH v. HAYAT BAKSH. 5 P R 1873 Rev.

8. Chief Lambardar, office of—Grant at Settlement—Rights in land thus allotted.

Plaintiff, the chief lambardar of the village, sued for the produce of certain land set apart at Settlement for his remuneration. The defendants in the suit were the tenants, who cultivated the land on condition of paying half the produce to plaintiff, and the proprietors of the land, to whom such produce had actually been paid, instead of to plaintiff. One of the pleas urged by the defendants was, that the rights of the proprietors were not affected by the grant made at Settlement, which only extended to the revenue assessed on the land.

Held, that the allotment of a plot of common land to a Chief Lambardar by way of remuneration for his services to the village was usually a matter of arrangement by the Settlement Officer in consultation with the village community and with their consent, and that while it was usual to make over the land to the Chief Lambardar and to allow him to cultivate it for his own benefit without payment of revenue or malikana, this was not necessarily always the case, and, therefore, the terms upon which any particular grant was made must be gathered from the circumstances of the particular case.

LAMBARDAR (ALA-LAMBARDAR)—contd.

Held, further, that by the terms of the grant in this case, the Chief Lambardar was entitled to realize from the cultivator what the proprietors could have realized: i.e., he was not merely the mafidar of the land, but also entitled to take the rent or the proprietor's share of the produce.

The office of Chief Lambardar, and the correspondence relating thereto, considered. GURBAKSH SINGH v. QUTBUDDIN.

105 P R 1879

9. Chief Lambardarship—Succession.

The real meaning of Revenue Judgment No. 5 of Punjab Record for 1873 is, that in cases of succession to the Chief Lambardarship where both candidates are equally fit and the votes nearly equal, the preference should be given to a son of the deceased Chief Lambardar.

Where the son of the deceased Chief Lambardar secured the most votes, but it appeared that the other candidate was the older Lambardar and otherwise fit, the Financial Commissioner (reversing the order of the Commissioner, and upholding that of the Deputy Commissioner) maintained the appointment of the latter candidate. JOWAHIR SINGH v. GURDIT SINGH. 6 P R 1880 Rev

10. Chief lambardarship—Procedure where lambardarship and sarpanchship are both vacant—Separate enquiries.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that the questions of the succession to the office of lambardar, and to that of sarpanch or chief headman, are two separate matters for which separate procedures are laid down in the rules, and which, therefore, should not be decided simultaneously. All vacant lambardarships should be separately filled up before a sarpanch is appointed, and there should be a separate file for the appointment of the sarpanch. PHALLU v. KALU

9 P R 1881 Rev.

11. Chief lambardarship—Succession—Questions for consideration when votes are nearly equal.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that in cases of succession to the chief lambardarship, when the votes are nearly equal, the preference should be given to the son of the deceased chief lambardar, provided he is otherwise fit for the post.

The son of the last chief lambardar appointed, in a case where the difference in the number of votes obtained by the rival candidates was not great; where both the parties appeared equally fit, and where it appeared that the full proprietors of the villages 10 in number, all supported the claim of the son of the deceased, while the 14 persons who voted for the other claimant were merely proprietors of their own holdings. ABDULLA v. BUDHA. 4 P R 1884 Rev.

LAMBARDAR (ALA-LAMBARDAR)—contd.

See also MEHR DAD KHAN v. PIR MAHI. 4 P R 1884 Rev. Note.

12. Chief lambardarship—Mode of weighing value of the voting.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that in weighing the votes obtained by rival candidates for a chief lambardarship, regard should always be had to the stake the voters have in the village, and due allowance be made for this. SHER MUHAMMAD v. PIRAN-DITTA. 8 P R 1885 Rev.

13. Chief lambardarship—Succession—Right of claimant who has obtained substantial majority of votes.

In a case relating to the succession to the office of chief lambardar, it appeared that the Commissioner had reversed the order of the Deputy Commissioner, under which the candidate, who obtained 22 votes, representing Rs. 254 of revenue, was appointed and had appointed the rival candidate who obtained 15 votes, representing Rs. 228 of revenue, holding that the difference was slight, and that as the respondent was the son of the late chief lambardar, he should be appointed.

Held, reversing the order of the Commissioner, that a majority of 7 votes over 15 votes was hardly a slight difference, and the difference of revenue was substantial, and that the appellant, who headed the poll by the above majority of votes, and who was described by the Deputy Commissioner as by far the most capable man in the village, and who was also strongly recommended for the post by the Tahsildar, should be appointed.

Jowahir Singh v. Gurdit Singh (No. 6 P. R. 1880, Rev.) and Abdulla v. Budha (No. 4 P. R. 1884, Rev.), cited. WADHAWA v. GUNDA. 8 P R 1888 Rev

14. Chief lambardar—Succession—Preference to be given to son of deceased where votes nearly equal.

In cases of succession to the office of chief lambardar, when the votes are nearly equal, the preference should be given to the son of the deceased chief lambardar, provided he is otherwise fit for the post.

Miran Baksh v. Hayat Baksh (No. 5 P. R. 1873, Rev.), Jowahir Singh v. Gurdit Singh, (No. 6 P. R. 1880, Rev.), and Abdulla v. Budha (No. 4 P. R. 1884, Rev.), cited. ALI GAUHAR v JHANDA. 10 P R 1888 Rev

15 Ala-lambardars—Succession—Question for consideration.

The Commissioner held, revising the order of the Deputy Commissioner, that prima facie the office of chief headman should go to the lambardar of longest standing.

Held that this view was untenable. The considerations to be followed in appointing a chief headman are those stated in Rule 31 subject to this qualification that no special regard should be paid to hereditary claims (Rule 38). LABH SINGH v. JUALA SINGH. 10 P R 1890 Rev.

LAMBARDAR (ALA-LAMBARDAR—concld.

16. Chief lambardar—Minority.

The duties of chief lambardar should be discharged in person and not by deputy, and therefore a minor should not ordinarily be appointed. No. 1 P R. 1886, Rev. followed. MEHR v. CHANNU. 7 P R 1891 Rev.

17. Grant of land to office of ala-lambardar—Suit for dispossession of such ala-lambardar by proprietors—Tenant.

The Lower Courts having granted plaintiff a decree dispossessing defendant from certain land which had at the previous settlement been assigned to him rent free in virtue of his office of ala-lambardar, defendant applied to the Financial Commissioner's Court on the revision side on the ground that his possession of such land not being that of a "tenant" could not be disturbed by the proprietors of the land so long as he remained ala-lambardar.

Held, upholding the orders of the Lower Courts, that an arrangement whereby the village proprietors allow an ala-lambardar in virtue of his office to cultivate, free of rent, a piece of their common land, is one which the proprietors are at liberty to revoke at any time, should they insist on so doing either by taking back their land or demanding rent for it, and at most, could not be held to be binding on them beyond the term of the settlement current at the time.

Civil Judgment No. 123 P. R. 1893, dissented from. JHANDA SINGH v. DHANA SINGH. 1 P R 1896 Rev.

18. Ala-lambardar, appointment of absentee as—Rules under Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887—Rule 187.

Held, that an absentee lambardar is not eligible for appointment as a chief lambardar. MIT SINGH v. BAISAKHA SINGH. 2 P R 1896 Rev.

LAND.

Held, that the word "land" as defined in section 2 (3) of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, includes mortgage rights in land. ASA SINGH v. BUTA. 12 P R 1911

LAND ACQUISITION ACT, 1870.

1. Land Acquisition Act, 1870—Suit by reversioner for apportionment of compensation awarded to Hindu Widow under.

See RIGHT TO SUE. 47 P R 1884

See CAUSE OF ACTION—I.—DISTINCT. 47 P R 1884

—"Court" empowered to exercise jurisdiction under the Act—Notification No. 179,

LAND ACQUISITION ACT, 1870—contd.

dated February 26th, 1885—Ouster of jurisdiction of District Judge—Act XVIII of 1884, section 23 (b).

The proceedings of a District Judge purporting to be held under Land Acquisition Act, 1870, set aside as null and void, and without jurisdiction, on the ground that they were subsequent to the Notification of the Punjab Government, No. 179, dated February 26th, 1885, issued under the provisions of section 23 (b) of the Punjab Courts Act (XVIII of 1884), declaring the Divisional Court to be the principal Court of original civil jurisdiction for the purposes of Act X of 1870. MUSSAMMAT IMAM-UN-NISSA v. SECRETARY OF STATE. 140 P R 1888

Section 29.

—Land Acquisition Act, 1870, section 29—Agreement of Judge and assessors as to compensation—Finality of decision.

In case the Judge and one or both of the assessors agree as to the amount of compensation in a reference made to the Court under the provisions of Part III of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, their decision thereon shall be final, and no appeal lies, even if they differ upon minor points not falling within the scope of their jurisdiction. IMAM BAKSH v. COLLECTOR OF MUZAFFARGARH. 36 P R 1892

Section 35.

See SECTION 58.

Section 40.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT—JURISDICTION OF. 59 P R 1881
8 P R 1883
5 P R 1886

Section 55.

—Land Acquisition Act (X of 1870)—Obligation of Judge to take evidence—Section 55—"Building"—Serai.

Where the Judge under section 30 of Act X of 1870 based his decision merely upon the conflicting opinions of the assessors and a local inspection made by himself, there having been no evidence tendered by either party, held, that the proceedings and award of the Judge were not open to objection; as it was not imperative upon him to call and examine witnesses unless moved so to do by one of the parties, or unless he was without reasonably sufficient material for a fair award. A serai is a building within section 55 of the Act. DEPUTY COMMISSIONER OF DELHI v. OONKUR LALL. 21 P R 1871

Section 58.

—Section 58—"Other proceeding"—Appeal—Notice.

Held, that the words "or other proceeding" in the 2nd clause of section 58 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, were not intended to include appeals under section 35, so as to render the notice provided for in the former section necessary in the case of an appeal under the latter section. President, Municipal Committee, Delhi, v. Harna Mall (No. 10 P. R. 1877), cited. CHIRAGH DIN v. COLLECTOR, MUNICIPAL WATER WORKS, LAHORE.

1639

LAND ACQUISITION ACT, 1870 —contd.

Section 58—concld.

53 P R 1883

LAND ACQUISITION ACT, 1894.

—Proceedings under Land Acquisition Act —Finality.

Held, that in a claim disposed of by the Collector in the course of land acquisition proceedings under the special procedure prescribed by Act I of 1894, the Collector's order or adjudication of the rights of the owners or claimants to the property for which compensation was assessed and awarded cannot be questioned otherwise than by a reference to Court under the provisions of the Act.

The Civil Courts are not competent to re-open and determine matters disposed of in accordance with the Act in a separate suit. SHER KHAN v. SHAMSHER KHAN.
37 P R 1905

Section 6.

—And Sections 7, 11, 12, 18—Declaration of intended acquisition—Nature of enquiry—Award—Official signature—Officer directed to take order for the acquisition should make award under his hand.

Held, that although an officer appointed by virtue of a Notification under sections 6 and 7 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, to take order for the acquisition of property needed for a public purpose is competent to make enquiry through his subordinates and to adopt their reports as his award, yet in such cases it is essential that he should, by unequivocal words, signify that such report has been accepted by him as his award and his full signature should be appended to this declaration.

The award of an officer specially appointed by the Local Government to perform the functions of a Collector under the Land Acquisition Act is not a valid and binding award for the purposes of sections 11, 12 and 18 of the Act, where the Notification issued under sections 6 and 7 directed a Deputy Commissioner to take order for the acquisition unless it is duly approved and signed by the latter with his full official designation.

Held also, that an award under the Act cannot be deemed to be "made" until it is announced and communicated to the person interested. MACDONALD v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA.
123 P R 1908

Section 11.

—And section 12—Award of Collector when to be final—Nature of proceedings before Collector—Competency of owner to question their validity or of Civil Court to determine its correctness.

1640

LAND ACQUISITION ACT, 1894 —contd.

Held, following Ezra v. Secretary of State (I. L. R., XXX Calc., 36; I. L. R.. XXXII Calc., 605), that proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, up to the making of an award are purely administrative and in no way judicial, and that therefore where a specially appointed Collector prepares under this Act a provisional award and refers it under his departmental instructions to the Collector of the District for approval, and the latter having been himself also empowered to make the acquisition, reduces the amount, the final award of the Collector within the meaning of sections 11 and 12 is the award so reduced, and neither the owner of the property nor the Civil Court is entitled to question this on the ground of irregularity in the proceedings of the said Collectors. FARMAN SHAH v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA. 63 P R 1907

Section 18.

1. And section 11—Reference by Collector to Divisional Judge—Denial of claimant's title by Government—Competency of Judge to decline jurisdiction.

Held, that, where a Collector under the Land Acquisition Act finds that certain persons have an assessable interest and makes an award in their favour under section 11 of the Act, and subsequently on the objection of those persons refers the matter under section 18 to the Divisional Judge for determination, the latter is not competent to refuse to entertain or determine such reference merely because the Government denies before him the objector's title to the property in dispute.

Imdad Ali Khan v. The Collecter of Farakhabad (I. L. R. VII All. 817), The Crown Brewery v. The Collector of Dehra Dun (I. L. R. XIX All. 339), Ezra v. The Secretary of State (I. L. R. XXX Calc. 36), considered and explained. AMOLAK SHAH v. COLLECTOR OF LAHORE. 115 P R 1906

Section 18 (2).

2. Limitation Act, 1877, section 12—Applicability of, to application under section 18 (1) of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894—Deduction of time requisite for obtaining copy of award.

Held, that section 12 of the Limitation Act, 1877, does not apply to computing the periods of limitation prescribed for an application under sectiod 18 (1) of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, and therefore the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the award cannot be deducted in computing the periods laid down by sub-section 2 of section 18 of that Act.

Nigahaya v. Ballu Mal (74 P. R. 1890), Umia Shankar Lakhmiram v. Chhotala Vojeram (I. L. R. I Bom. 19), Lallubhai v. Naran (I. L. R. VI Bom. 719), Luchmee Bukhsh Roy v. Ranjeet Ram Panday (20 W. R. 375), Rangan v. Mahbub Chand (55 P. R. 1897), and Sadho Singh v.

1641

LAND ACQUISITION ACT, 1894 —concld.

Section 18 (2)—concld.

Mussammat Kishnee (3 All. H. C. R. 318), referred to. BHAGWAN DAS v. THE COLLECTOR OF LAHORE. 79 P R 1904

Section 23.

1. Land Acquisition Act, 1894, section 23—"Person interested"—Lessee of land entitled to compensation—Matters to be considered in determining compensation.

Held, that for the purposes of the Land Acquisition Act, a lessee with a fixed term to run is a "person interested" within the meaning of section 23 of that Act, and is entitled to compensation for damage sustained by him, and that the loss of profits for the unexpired term of his lease should be taken into consideration in awarding compensation.

Nuzeer-ud-din Ahmad v. Railway Commissioners (1 Hay, 157), and Godadhar Das v. Dhanput Singh (I. L. R. VII Calc. 585), cited. BASSA v. THE COLLECTOR OF LAHORE.
18 P R 1902

2. Compensation—Principles of assessment—Market value of property—Compensation in respect of profits of trade.

When property belonging to private persons is taken by Government for a public object under compulsory power, the Courts in assessing the amount of compensation to be allowed to the person interested therein, where there have been no previous sales out of the property acquired or examples of sales of similar property in the vicinity should ascertain the net annual income of the property and deduce its value by allowihg a certain number of years purchase of such income (after making a fair deduction for repairs and other necessary expenses, according to the nature of property, taking it as laid out in the most advantageous way in which the owner could dispose of it).

In assessing the market value of house property situated in a well frequented part of Anarkali outside the city of Lahore which was something like a bungalow and used as a business premises of a dentist and photographer, the Court allowed a capital value of twenty years' purchase on the rent assessed by the Municipal Commitee.

Under clause 4 of section 23 of the Land Acquisitioh Act, 1894, an owner, whose property had been acquired by Government under statutory powers, is entitled also to be compensated for the loss sustained by him, if any, in his earnings in consequence of such acquisition independent of the purchase money and compensation for the premises so acquired. The observations of Lord Truro in East and West India Docks and Birmingham Railway Company v. Gattke, as to the principle of construing Land Acquisition Acts, approved and followed.

Where a Collector fails under section 31 to tender the amount of compensation awarded by him to the person entitled thereto on or before taking possession of the property or to deposit the same in the Court to which a reference under section 18 would be submitted, the objector is entitled to interest under section 34 of the Act. A mere deposit in the Treasury is not enough to satisfy the requirements of the Land Acquisition Act.

LAND ACQUISITION ACT, 1894, —contd.

Section 23—contd.

Munji Khetsey's case (I. L. R. XV Bom. 279), Prem Chand Burral v. Collector of Calcutta (I. L. R. 11 Calc., 103), Collector of Poona v. Kashinath Khasgiwala (I. L. R. X Bom. 585), and East and West India Docks and Birmingham Railway Company v. Gattke (3 Mag. and G. 155), referred to. PARMA NAND AND OTHERS v. SECRETARY OF STATE.
44 P R 1904

3. Compensation—Principles on which compensation should be determined.

Held, that where Government takes property from private persons, under statutory powers, the Courts in computing the amount of compensation to be awarded to the person interested therein should be guided by the principles that the owner is entitled to have the price of his land fixed in reference to the probable use which will give him the best return and not merely in accordance with its present use or disposition.

Prem Chand Burral v. The Collector of Calcutta (I. L. R. 11 Calc, 103), Collector of Poona v. Kashi Nath Khasgiwala (I. L. R. X Bom. 585), Munji Khetsey (I. L. R. XV Bom. 279), Secretary of State for India v. Shanmugaraya Mudaliar (I. L. R. XVI Mad. 369, P. C.) and Perma Nand v Secretary of State for India (44 P. R. 1904) cited HIRA NAND v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL. 21 P R 1905

4. And section 24—Compensation—Principles of assessment—Prospective or contingent value.

Held, that when property belonging to private persons is taken by Government for a public object under compulsory powers, the amount of compensation to the owner is to be assessed with reference to the probable use which will give him the best return at the time when the property was to be taken but not with reference to its prospective or contingent value in future in consequence of the property having been acquired by the State.

Perma Nand v. Secretary of State (44 P. R. 1904), Hira Nand v. Secretary of State (21 P. R. 1905), and East and West India Docks and Birmingham Railway Company v. Gattke, 3 M. and G. 155, referred to. ZULFIKAR KHAN v. COLLECTOR OF MIANWALI.
90 P R 1905

5. Compensation—Principles on which compensation should be determined—Market value.

Held, that in determining the amount of compensation to be awarded for the property

LAND ACQUISITION ACT, 1894 —concld.

Section 23—concld.

acquired under this Act the "market value" in clause I of section 23 means the value at date of notification which the property would have commanded at that date in the open market had Government never contemplated acquisition. It is not permissible to take into account speculative increase in prices due to the expectation that Government is about to make acquisitions, or even enhanced prices which owners may themselves have paid in excess of "market value" as defined above. FARMAN SHAH v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL. 63 P R 1907

Section 26.

—And sections 30, 54—Award—An award under either sections 26, 30, or 54 is a decree capable of execution—Order directing refund of compensation money paid, how enforcible—Appeal—Appeal from order passed in execution of decree under Rs. 5,000.

Held, that an adjudication made by a Court under either sections 26 or 30 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, or on appeal under section 54 by the Chief Court as to compensation or apportionment of compensation is tantamount to a decree within the meaning of section 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure and capable of execution, and that a party entitled to any benefit under a decree passed in an appeal under section 54, is entitled to recover the same by process of execution through the Court which passed the original decree or award.

Sheo Rattan Rai v. Mohri (I. L. R. XXI All. 354), Mohammad Ali Amjad Khan v. Secretary of State for India (I. L. R. XXX Calc. 501), and Rajah Nilmoni Singh v Ram Bhundoo Roy (L. R. 8 I. A. 90) referred to.

Held further, that in such cases an appeal lies exclusively to the Chief Court against any appealable order of a Court of whatever status passed either on the original side or in execution proceedings, the value of the claim involved being immaterial. ZEMINDARS OF DHAR v. RANA. 53 P R 1906

Section 31.

—Acquisition of mortgaged property for public purposes—Payment of compensation—Person interested.

Held, that where the property acquired for a public purpose under the Land Acquisition Act forms part of an estate which has been mortgaged for an amount larger than the amount awarded as compensation for the acquisition the mortgagee is entitled to receive the whole of the money so awarded. TOPAN DAS v. JASO RAM. 17 P R 1907

LAND REVENUE.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT.

1. Suit for "haq tora"—Rent of land.
See CUSTOM—V. CESSES AND DUES.
80 P R 1890
SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 52 P R 1889

2. Canal water advantage rate.

LAND REVENUE—concld.

See ENHANCEMENT.
3 P R 1900 Rev.

3. Suit for haq mahsal.
See JAGIR. 28 P R 1888

LAND REVENUE ACTS.

See PUNJAB LAND REVENUE ACTS.

LAND REVENUE, ASSIGNMENT OF.

See PENSIONS ACT, SECTION 11.
27 P R 1878

LAND REVENUE, GRANT OF.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 36 P R 1874
9 P R 1875
10 P R 1875

LAND SUIT.

See APPEAL, I CIVIL 40 P R 1893
See APPEAL, II. COMPETENCY OF.
111 P R 1890
1 P R 1892 F B
46 P R 1893
12 P R 1900
See APPEAL, III. COURSE OF.
62 P R 1891
43 P R 1896
See APPEAL, VIII. SECOND.
15 P R 1892 F B
20 P R 1892
48 P R 1898
See FRUIT GARDEN. 111 P R 1890
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 40 P R 1893
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 77. 43 P R 1896

1. A suit to establish title with reference to a mortgage-deed of land and to declare it not to be subject to attachment is a land suit. HIRA MAL v. BHAWANI RAM.
64 P P 1902

2. Ghair-mumkin land outside the abadi and attached to a well upon which khurlies are built and bhusa is stacked is a land suit as defined in section 4, sub-section (1) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. GANDU SINGH v. NATHU SINGH. 12 P R 1907

3. Suit for declaration that plaintiff is the sole owner of an orchard on a portion of the village shamilat—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 3.

Plaintiff sued for a declaration that a certain orchard on a portion of the village shamilat was planted by him alone at his own expense and that he was in sole possession thereof. No claim was made with respect to the land occupied by the orchard or the shamilat as a whole.

Held that the suit was not a "land suit" within the meaning of section 3 of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884. DEVI DIAL v. AHMAD KHAN.
4 P R 1908

LANDHOLDER.

—Explained.
See LANDOWNER.
See PRE-EMPTION.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES. 153 P R 1888
103 P R 1889
169 P R 1889
96 P R 1898
7 P R 1896

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

See Acquiescence. 125 P R 1879
Cantonments. 71 P R 1873
38 P R 1877
Common Land. 3 P R 1877
4 P R 1877
34 P R 1877
Custom I.—Alienation—F. By Non-Proprietor, Passim, and I.—Alienation, I.—Of Occupancy rights, Passim.
Decree—Form of.
6 P R 1891 Rev.
Ejectment. 62 P R 1899
Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court. 102 P R 1887
9 P R 1888 F. B.
110 P R 1889
65 & 104 P R 1890
105 P R 1890
162 P R 1890
2 P R 1890 Rev.
19 P R 1891
45 P R 1891 F. B.
80 P R 1891
18 & 19 P R 1893
53 P R 1893
70 P R 1893
123 P R 1893
46 P R 1894
57 P R 1894
82 & 88 P R 1894
104 & 105 P R 1894
3 P R 1895
11 P R 1895 F.B.
23 & 28 P R 1895
89 P R 1895
5 P R 1897 Rev.

Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II Art. 139, Passim.
Occupancy Rights, Passim.
Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868.
Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.
Small Cause Courts Act, 1865, section 6. 13 P R 1888

1. Tenant's possession adverse to the landlord.

See Adverse Possession.
65 P R 1901

2. Mortgage of house in mohalla Ansarian, city of Jullundur, by a non-proprietary resident—Landlord and tenant—Death of mortgagor—Suit by landlord to eject mortgagee—Structure put up by tenant—Compensation.

See Custom I. F.—Alienation by Non-Proprietor. 75 P R 1897

3. Sale of occupancy rights by widow—Acquiescence on part of landlord.

See Custom I.—I. Alienation of Occupancy Rights.
2 P R 1900 Rev.

4. Suit by proprietor for enhancement of rent—Entry in Wajib-ul-arz of previous settlement—Status of tenants, inquiry as to.

See Enhancement. 5 P R 1895 Rev.

5. Suit for enhancement of rent—Plea that landlord had sold the land to defendants—Written agreement to sell, reciting payment of purchase money—Consideration only partly paid.

LANDLORD AND TENANT—contd.

See Enhancement.
7 P R 1897 Rev.

6. Suit by occupancy tenants for commutation of rent—Rent—Village held in jagir —Dues in kind paid by tenants partly to landlords, partly to jagirdar.

See Jagir. 3 P R 1895 Rev.

7. Mortgagor and mortgagee—Construction of mortgage-deed—Landlord and tenant—Non-transfer of possession by mortgagor.

See Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court. 5 P R 1897 Rev.

8. Grant of a portion of the village common land to a person holding the office of alalambardar rent free—Suit for dispossession by the proprietors of the land—Landlord and tenant—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 4, clause 5.

See Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court. 101 P R 1901

9. Tenant who has involuntarily parted with proprietary right—Right of representative of such tenant—Accrual of right.

See Occupancy Right.
6 P R 1895 Rev.

10. *Sale of rights of occupancy by tenant to landlord—*Locus standi of reversioner—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 53, 56.

See Occupancy Rights
24 P R 1902 F. B.

11. Suit for ejectment of tenant—Right of some of the landlords to maintain such suit—Proper parties.

See Parties. 1 P R 1903 Rev.

12. Enhancement of rent—Suit by a majority of joint proprietors—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 24.

See Parties. 3 P R 1905 Rev.

13. Rent for the time being payable—Extent of Landlord's lien upon produce of tenancy.

See Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 12. 54 P R 1895 F. B.

14. Suit for produce of land—Rival mortgagees alleging possession—Land occupied without the consent of the landlord.

See Punjab Tenancy Act, section 14.
4 P R 1901 Rev.

15. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 14—Status of mortgagee after obtaining formal possession through Civil Court against person in possession of such property—Right to receive payment for use and occupation.

See Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 14. 6 P R 1905 Rev.

16. Suit by tenant who has been served with a notice of ejectment—Suit instituted more than two months after the service of such notice.

See Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 45 (5).
2 P R 1902 Rev.

17. Landlord and tenant—Right of landlord to claim rent from sub-lessee—Attornment by sub-lessee to stranger claiming title to property—Termination of tenancy.

See Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 58. 14 P R 1898

18. Admissibility of unregistered lease determinable at will of landlord but mentioning annual rate of rent in evidence.

LANDLORD AND TENANT—contd.

See Registration Act, section 17.
70 P R 1895

19. Repairs.

A took a house on lease from B at a fixed monthly rent; and it was agreed that if B. neglected to execute necessary repairs, A was at liberty to do so, deducting the cost from the rent. A portion of the house falling in after B had been ineffectually called upon to repair, A sued B for damages. Held, on these facts, that the landlord was not bound to repair, but might leave it to his tenant to do so; and as the latter had the remedy in his own hands, no suit for damages would lie.

Held, further, that the landlord, without an express agreement that he should repair, was not bound to do so. Roopa v. Baness.
14 P R 1868

20. Lease of house—Implied warranty of premises being safe and habitable—Damages—Remoteness.

Plaintiff was lessee of a house belonging to defendant, for a term of six months; and paid Rs. 800 as rent. After four months occupation, the roof of one of the rooms fell in; plaintiff's furniture was injured, and his wife sustained a nervous shock. Plaintiff left the house, and hired another, which did not belong to defendant, for the rest of the term of six months, paying therefor Rs. 250. It was found as a fact that the roof which fell in was in an insecure state when plaintiff became lessee. The Court of first instance, in a suit for damages, decreed Rs. 352 for injury to the plaintiff's furniture, and Rs, 250 as general damages with reference to the shock occasioned to the plaintiff's wife. Held, that the defendant was liable, as there is an implied condition of law that a house, let as a dwelling house, is in a secure and habitable state at the time of the demise. Per Lindsay, J. The general damages (Rs. 250) were not too remote, regard being had to the inconvenience to the plaintiffs and the shock to the female plaintiff. Per Campbell, J. The fact that plaintiff hired another house for Rs. 250 might be considered with respect to the general damages, and be taken to support that part of the decree. Doyle v. Ross. 33 P R 1875

21. Building sites in Delhi city—Tenants occupying under proclamation of 19th September 1858*—Power of assignee of Government to eject such tenants for non-payment of rent.*

Plaintiff, who became in 1860 an assignee of the rights of Government in certain building land in the city of Delhi, of which defendants were occupants under the terms of a proclamation issued on the 19th September 1858 by the Cantonment Joint Magistrate of Delhi, sued to eject defendants in consequence of default in payment of rent.

Held, that as plaintiff became the assignee of the rights of Government, subject to any rights created by Government in third parties prior to such assignment, and as Government could not under the terms of the above proclamation, which reserved no right to eject the purchaser of a site in default of payment of the rent fixed, have ejected the defendants for such default, neither could the plaintiff do so, as no order passed by Government officials in assigning the Government rights to other persons could prejudice persons who had already entered upon possession of the site under the terms of the proclamation of 1858 before such orders were issued. Karim Baksh v. Shahdi Ram (C. A. No. 1279 of 1866), and Karim Baksh v. Nainee Ram (C. A. No. 1080 of 1868) referred to. RAI BALKISHEN v. JASRAM. 52 P R 1881

22. Defendant, a non-proprietor, building house on site given by plaintiff, the village proprietor—Landlord's power to eject—Presumption of defendant's right of permanent occupancy—Custom.

In a suit by plaintiff to recover possession of a house from defendant, it appeared that the plaintiff had given the site occupied by the house to the defendant for the purpose of building a residence there, and that the house had been built by the defendant at his own cost and occupied by him as a tenant rendering service in lieu of rent.

Held, upon the above facts, that the presumption was strongly against the defendant being a tenant liable to ejectment at the will of the landlord, as when a village proprietor gives a vacant site to a non-proprietor in order that the latter may erect a residence thereon at his own cost, the presumption, in the absence of any express stipulation or local custom to the contrary, is that both parties intend that the person buildng the house shall have a permanent right of occupancy. MUHAMMAD ALAM v. AJAB. 34 P R 1882

23. Building sites in Delhi city—Suit to eject defendant occupying under proclamation of 19*th September* 1858.

In a suit to eject as a mere tenant-at-will the defendant, who occupied certain land in the city of Delhi under the terms of the Cantonment Joint Magistrate's proclamation issued on the 19th September 1858, held, that the suit must be dismissed on the principle that former proprietors, whose title was derived by grants from Government subsequent to 1858, took only the same rights as were held by the Government, their assignor, and were bound by all intermediate acts of the Government in respect of the property assigned. Rai Balkishen v. Jasram (No. 52 P. R. 1881, Civil) followed. KARIM BAKHSH v. BALAK RAM. 112 P R 1886

24. Suit for ejectment of tenant—Defendant pleading right of occupancy—Compromise of suit in first Court by some of the plaintiffs only—Appeal by both sets of plaintiffs—Finding as regards the plaintiffs who were not parties to the razinama, that they were not bound thereby—Proper order to pass as regards the other plaintiffs—Remand of case for re-trial as regards all the plaintiffs.

In a suit by seven plaintiffs to oust the defendant from a defined holding on the ground that he was a tenant-at-will, in which the defendant pleaded a right of occupancy it appeared that after issues were fixed and before evidence was taken, four plaintiffs presented a razinama, executed by them alone, two out of the said four plaintiffs undertaking to be responsible for the three plaintiffs who were not parties to the razinama, in accordance with which the first Court dismissed the suit, decreeing in terms of the razinama for defendant. The seven plaintiffs then appealed on different sets of grounds, the four plaintiffs, parties to the razinama, contending that it did not bind them, as it did not express their true intention, which point the lower Appellate Court found against them and dismissed the appeal so far as it related to them; the other three plaintiffs contending that the razinama was made without their authority and did not bind them, and the Appellate Court finding this to be so, accepted their appeal, and remanded the case for trial, giving directions that should the lower Court find for the plaintiffs, they would only be entitled to oust the defendant to the extent of their own shares in the land in dispute.

On further appeal by the four plaintiffs whose appeal had been dismissed in the Court below, held, following Bhagwan Singh v. Alladad Khan (No. 84 P. R. 1881) that the lower Court, in accepting the appeal of the three plaintiffs not parties to the razinama, should have remanded the case for re-trial as to all the plaintiffs, including the four plaintiffs, who were parties thereto, inasmuch as the seven plaintiffs formed collectively but one landlord as regards the defendant, whether he held the land in dispute as an occupancy tenant or a tenant-at-will, and he must be either one or the other as regards the whole of the holding. GHASITA v. KARM SHAH. 16 P R 1887

25. Monthly tenancy—Transfer of Property Act, section 106*—Tenant holding over—Damages.*

Where a tenancy of certain shops was not for agricultural or manufacturing purposes, and the tenant failed to prove a contract for a lease from year to year, held, on the principle laid down in section 106 of the Transfer of Property Act, that the tenancy was monthly, and that a notice of 15 days, terminating with a month of the tenancy, was valid

Held, further, that the damages awardable by the Court against a monthly tenant who wilfully and contumaciously holds over, after notice, should be reasonable in amount. GANGA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT SHIB DEVI. 33 P R 1898

26. Landlord and tenant—Suit by tenant who has been ejected for possession—Suit instituted more than one year after ejectment Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 50, 77 (3) (g)—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

Held, that section 50 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, does not restrict the period of limitation allowed to a dispossessed occupancy tenant when suing for possesion in the Civil Courts.

Where, therefore, plaintiffs who had been ejected from their occupancy holding in 1888, sued in the Civil Court long before the expiry of twelve years.

Held that plaintiffs' suit was not barred by section 50 of the said Act. IMAM DIN v. FEROZ KHAN. 64 P R 1898

27. Landlord and tenant—Share of—In kankar extracted from tenant's holding.

Held, that in the case of batai paying land kankar dug out by an occupancy tenant should be shared between the landlord and tenant in the same proportion as the crop is shared. GHULAM HUSSAIN v. AZIZ BAKHSH. 9 P R 1901 Rev.

28. Landlord and tenant—Notice to quit or to pay higher rate of rent—Tenant holding over after tenancy—Landlord's right to demand enhanced rent—Tenant's obligation to observe fresh terms—Damages for use and occupation.

When a tenant has no right of occupancy and no lease on special terms, he is liable to be ejected upon a reasonable notice to quit, and such notice cannot be held to be bad and insufficient merely because it holds out an offer to the tenant to remain on, on fresh terms, from a given date if the tenant prefers that alternative, but such notice must be clear and definite in its terms, and such as to terminate the current tenancy. In cases where such a notice has been given and the tenant has not vacated and upon the facts disclosed where the tenant is to be presumed to have accepted the terms offered, the rent should be decreed in accordance with such terms, but where no such consent can be presumed, or, owing to insufficient time granted or for other sufficient cause, the tenant has held over but not contumaciously, the Courts should award a reasonable sum for use and occupation, and should it be found that the tenant has held over wilfully and contumaciously the Courts in India would properly award reasonable damages, and the penalty laid down in England by Statute 4, George II, Chapter 28, section 1, of double the rent may sometimes be taken as a fitting standard.

Ganga Singh v. Mussammat Shib Devi (33 P. R. 1898), Coomar Poresh Narain Roy v. Robert Watson & Co. (III Calc. L. R. 543), Prosunno Coomaree Debea v. Sheikh Rutton Bepary (I. L. R. III Calc. 696), Ranee Lalunmoonee v. Rajah Ajoodhya Ram Khan (23 W. R. 61), The Collector of Monghyr v. Hakim Madar Bukhsh (25 W. R. 136), Kylash Chunder Sircar v. Wcomanand Roy (24 W. R. 412) and Kikabhai Gandabhai v. Kalu Ghela (I. L. R. XXII Bom. 241), referred to. PIRBU DIAL v. RAM CHAND. 5 P R 1904

29. Tenancy for immoral purpose—Rent—Suit, for rent of house let to prostitute—Immoral contract—Contract Act, 1872, section 23.

Held, that a landlord cannot recover the rent of a house knowingly let to a prostitute to be used by her as a brothel.

Goureenath Mookerjee v. Modhoomonee Peshakur (18 W. R. 445), and Mussammat Noor Bux v. Mussammat Shibratun (10 P. R. 1872), cited,

Pirthi Mal v. Mussammat Bhagan (2 P. R. 1898), explained. BRINKMAN v. ABDUL GHAFUR. 65 P R 1904

30. Landlord and tenant—Ejectment—Liability to ejectment on the ground of the alteration of the holding from arable to building land—Relief against forfeiture—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 39, 48.

Although when the land of a tenancy has been diverted from its original purpose the tenant is liable to be ejected under section 39 (a) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, but in cases where the property by reason of its situation in the neighbourhood of large cities advancing in prosperity has been converted from its original purpose to land suitable for building purposes and where there is no immediate injury to the landlord, it is by no means necessary to eject the tenant if the rights of the landlord can be recognized in some other way as provided for by section 48 of the Act. In such cases the Revenue Courts should facilitate the process in the interest of the landlord and tenant and the general community.

Daswandhi v. Ghulam (122 P. R. 1888), referred to. KARAM BAKHSH v. GHULAM MUHAMMAD. 3 P R 1904 Rev.

31. Landlord and tenant—Ejectment—Liability to, on the ground of alteration of the holding from arable to building land—Relief against forfeiture.

Held, following Karam Bakhsh v. Ghulam Muhammad (3 P. R. 1904, Rev.) that where land is let by an occupancy tenant for building purposes in the neighbourhood of a town ejectment is not the proper remedy. but in accordance with the provisions of section 48 of the Tenancy Act the landlord should be compensated in the form of enhanced rent, which should be assessed at the rate of one-third of that payable to the tenant so long as the building exists. DOGAR MAL v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL. 4 P R 1904 Rev.

32. Landlord and tenant - Ejectment—Suit by tenant to contest liability to ejectment—Suit withdrawn without permission of Court—Subsequent suit for the same matter—Res-judicata—Punjab Tenancy Act, sections 5, (1) (c) 110 (1).

In a suit by a tenant to contest his liability to be ejected on the ground that he was settled by the founder and otherwise fulfilled the conditions of section 5 (1) (c) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, it appeared that in 1899 the plaintiff had instituted a suit for a similar relief against his landlord which he subsequently withdrew.

Held, that the present suit was not maintainable, as the matter directly and substantially in issue in the suit withdrawn in 1889 was the same as in the present suit.

Section 110 (1) of the Punjab Tenancy Act does not supersede the doctrine of res judicata or the consequences of dismissals in default. SUKH RAM v. MUL CHAND. 6 P R 1904 Rev.

33. Occupancy rights—Landlord and tenant—Right of landlord to cut trees on land held by tenant having rights of occupancy.

Held, that a landlord is not entitled to cut down trees on a tenancy without the consent and contrary to the interests of his tenant.

Nikka v. Lukha (95 P. R. 1867), Kalian Das v. Buta (61 P. R. 1873), Jani v. Gulam Farid Khan (4 P. R. 1875), Mussammat Gur Devi v. Sondha (61 P. R. 1881), cited and followed. GANGA RAM v. MANHI. 9 P R 1904 Rev.

34. Landlord and tenant—Ejectment—Liability to, on the ground of non-payment of rent—Plea of absence of such condition—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 41.

"B" mortgaged his land to "A." The cultivating possession was left with "B." who undertook in lieu thereof to pay "A" a fixed rent, with a proviso that in case of failure to pay the rent the mortgage would be foreclosed. Subsequently "B" mortgaged a portion of the land to "C." "A" suit to eject "B" and "C" on the ground of non-payment of rent. The first Court decreed the claim. On appeal the Collector maintained the decree with respect to "B," but as regards "C" held that he could not be treated as plaintiff's tenant, and that the claim as regards him was therefore not cognizable by a Revenue Court. On further appeal the Commissioner while finding that the relation of landlord and tenant did exist, dismissed the claim on the ground that in the deed of mortgage which secured cultivating possession to "B" there was no condition providing for his ejectment. The plaintiff thereupon applied for revision.

Held, that "C" being only a successor in interest of "B," the relation of landlord and tenant subsisted between A on the one hand, B and C on the other, and that the right to eject a tenant at will, being an inherent right of the tenure, it was not excluded by the special remedy which the deed of mortgage provided. RADHA MAL v. SHERU. 10 P R 1905 Rev.

35. Landlord and tenant—Renunciation of contract by tenant before time for performance—Action for damages for breach of such contract—Measure of damages.

Held, that an action to recover damages for breach of a contract of tenancy to be performed at a future time is maintainable against a lessee upon a wrongful renunciation by him of the contract before the time fixed for its performance had arrived.

The measure of damages in such cases is the loss of rent suffered by the landlord from the non-performance of the contract at the appointed time after deducting such sum as he might by reasonable efforts recover from another tenant.

Frost v. Knight (L. R. 7, Ex. III). LACHMI NARAIN v. VERNON. 137 P R 1906

36. Landlord and Tenant—Suit by land- lord for rent—Denial by tenant of landlord's title—Estoppel of tenant—Evidence Act, 1872, section 116.

Held, that in a suit for rent it is not competent to the tenant to impeach the title of his landlord in whose favour he has executed a lease on the ground that his ostensible landlord was only a benamidar for a third party.

Jai Narain Bose v. Kadimibani Dasi (7 B. L. R. 723), followed. Donzelle v. Kidar Nath (7 B. L. R. 720) and Mussammat Inderbuttee Koer v. Shaik Mahbub Ali (24 W. R. 44), dissented from. BOGAR v. KARAM SINGH. 141 P R 1906

37. Effect of building over adjoining land—Forfeiture of tenancy—Forfeiture confined to covenants of the original lease.

Held, that erection of new buildings by a lessee upon property adjoining to demised premises does not occasion a forfeiture of the original tenancy when the prohibition against erecting new buildings was not a condition for the lease, but one of its terms, and there was no provision for re-entry on breach of any such term.

A forfeiture can be incurred for the breach of such covenants only as are specified in the lease itself. MIRAN BAKHSH v. AZIZ BAKHSH. 53 P R 1908

38. Landlord and tenant—Suit by landlord to eject tenant—Suit by mortgagee to recover possession on failure of mortgagor to pay rent.—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (e).

Twelve years after the execution of a deed of mortgage the representatives of the mortgagee sued for possession of the mortgaged land under the terms of the mortgage-deed which provided that the mortgagor should retain possession under the mortgagee paying rent at the rate agreed on therein, and that in case of default of such payment he would be liable to pay interest, and in default of redemption in six years, the mortgaged property should be considered as sold. It appeared that neither interest nor rent had ever been paid nor had the mortagagee applied for mutation of names in his favour.

Held that under the circumstances the relation of landlord and tenant did not exist between the mortgagor's heirs and the mortgagee's heirs, inasmuch as the mere execution of a document of this character not acted upon in any way and not even brought to the notice of the revenue authorities could not be held sufficient to alter the status of owner into that of tenant to the mortgagee, and that the plaintiffs were therefore not entitled to a decree for possession as landlords against the defendants as tenants. NIZAM v. BUDHAN. 1 P R 1908 Rev

39. Landlord and tenant—Trees to be cut with consent of landlord—Competency of landlord to refuse consent—Wajib-ul-arz.

Held, that a provision in a Wajib-ul-arz to the effect that tenants can, with the consent of, and after informing the landlords, cut trees situated in their courtyards and fields when required for agricultural implements and for the repair of dwelling houses, does not entitle a landlord to refuse his consent unless the exercise of this right by a tenant is unjustifiable or an abuse of such right. SUBHAN v. NIAMAT KHAN.

LANDLORD AND TENANT—concld.

2 P R 1908 Rev.

40. Landlord and tenant—Notice to quit.

Where a tenant gave notice to his landlord that he would vacate on the 31st October 1908, but for some reason was unable to do so, though the landlord took partial possession on the 30th October and after the tenant had vacated re-entered the vacant tenement.

Held, that the landlord was entitled to a new notice or failing this to a month's rent. NIADAR MAL v. LEWAN.
94 P R 1910

41. Landlord and tenant—Suit in ejectment—Notice to quit specified in lease—Denial of landlord's title by defendant before suit.

Held, that in a suit by a landlord for ejectment of a tenant no notice of determination of tenancy is necessary, where the defendant has prior to the suit being brought denied the plaintiff's title as landlord and the validity of the lease, notwithstanding that the lease specifies such notice.

Haidri Begum v. Nathu, (1895) I. L. R. 17 All. 45, followed. ZIA-UD-DIN v. GOBIND RAM.
76 P R 1911

"LANDOWNER"

See PUNJAB LAND REVENUE ACT, 1887, SECTION 37. 4 P R 1888 Rev.
"LANDHOLDER."

1. *Suit to recover moneys claimed, as due for the enjoyment of the right of pasturage overland—"Landowner," and "estate" meaning of—*Tirni Contractor.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 30 P R 1895

2. Right of widow who has succeeded to her husband's interests in joint holding to claim partition—Grant of such prayer by Revenue Officer—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain subsequent suit by co-sharers objecting that widow is by custom not entitled to claim partition—Question as to title—"Owner" "landowner."

See PARTITION. 82 P R 1898 F B

3. Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12—Meaning of "Landholder" or "landowner"—Purchase of small site in abadi.

See PRE-EMPTION—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES. 153 P R 1888

4. Procedure for making record of rights—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 3 (2)—Rule 57 of Rules under the Act, and jamabandi form, column 4—"Owner" and "Landowner."

See PUNJAB LAND REVENUE ACT, 1887, SECTION 36. 7 P R 1895 Rev.

5. Suit for pre-emption—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12, (e)—"Landowner"—

"LANDOWNER"—concld.

Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 3 (2).

Held, that plaintiff as proprietor of certain waste land in the village, had under section 12 (e) of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, a right of pre-emption against the vendee, who was an entire stranger without any interest whatever in the village, although the land of which plaintiff was proprietor was unfit for cultivation and was not assessed with revenue. JASMIR SINGH v. RAHMUTULLA. 7 P R 1896

6. An owner of 1 kanal 1½ marlas of land ghairmumkin chappar is not "landowner" or "landholder" within the meaning of section 12 (d) of Act IV of 1872, so as to be entitled to a right of pre-emption equal to that of plaintiff. MAN SINGH v. DIP SINGH.
96 P R 1898

LAWALD.

The meaning of the term is "without male issue."—Mussammat Hijjoo v. Meer Muhammad (No. 54 P R 1867), Civil, AND MUSSAMMAT MEHR BIBI v. KALU. 41 P R 1874

—"Lawaris wa lawald" means nothing more than "without son and heir" (per LINDSAY J.) but held, by BOULNOIS and MELVILL JJ., that lawaris meant without an heir of either sex. MUSSAMMAT MEHR BIBI v. KALU.
41 P R 1874

LAWS ACT.

See PUNJAB LAWS ACT, 1872.

LEASE.

See LANDLORD AND TENANT.

1. Arrears of revenue—Lease of farm.
See ADVERSE POSSESSION.
63 P R 1875

2. Of house in cantonments—Validity of lease for period exceeding one month.
See CANTONMENTS. 115 P R 1882

3. Of house in cantonments to prostitute—Agreement to pay rent at specified rate—Subsequent refusal to pay at higher rate than that fixed by cantonment committee when permitting landlord to build.
See CANTONMENTS. 72 P R 1883

4. Of rights in common land, validity of.
See COMMON LAND. 148 P R 1882

5. Lease of grazing tax—Limitation for suit for tax.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 6. 3 P R 1875

6. Of shop to defendant by former of opium monopoly—Omission to grant license—Damages.
See OPIUM ACT (I OF 1878).
114 P R 1881

7. For one year certain with option of renewal—Registration.
See REGISTRATION ACT (VIII OF 1871), SECTIONS 18, 19. 68 P R 1886

8. Failure of suit based on unregistered.
See REGISTRATION ACT (III OF 1877), SECTION 49.
139 P R 1883

9. Lease for the term of settlement.
See SETTLEMENT. 41 P R 1870
27 P R 1873
5 P R 1877

10. Lease—Stamp—Rent reserved—Fine or premium.
See STAMP. 102 P R 1882

LEASE—contd.

11. Held, that when the 2 plaintiffs along with 9 other persons (impleaded as defendants) had jointly entered into a lease of certain lands with the defendants-lessors, and held for possession of the land leased, the other lessees having refused to join in the suit, they were not only entitled but obliged to sue for possession of the whole of the land leased. MUHAMMAD ALI v. MUHAMMAD SHAH. 57 P R 1911

12. Held, that a suit for the ejectment of a tenant is maintainable without notice of determination of the tenancy where the tenant has denied the landlord's title. ZIA-UD-DIN v. GOBIND RAM. 76 P R 1911

LEAVE TO APPEAL TO THE PRIVY COUNCIL.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTIONS 109, 110.

LEGACY.

See MAHOMEDAN LAW.
—Non-ademption of demonstrative legacy.
See WILL. 109 P R 1908

LEGAL CHARACTER.

See DECLARATORY DECREE—5. RELATIONSHIP. 148 P R 1884

LEGAL PRACTITIONERS.

—Back fee—Payment to be made contingent on success—Illegal and improper contract—Public policy—Contract Act, 1872, section 23.

Held, by a majority (Chatterji and Lal Chand JJ. dissenting) that agreements between legal practitioners and their clients making the remuneration of the legal practitioner dependent to any extent whatever on the result of the case in which he is retained are illegal as being contrary to public policy and legal practitioners entering into such agreements are therefore guilty of professional misconduct and render themselves liable to the disciplinary action of the Court.

Per Lal Chand and Chatterji JJ. contra that the practice of receiving back fee is neither opposed to public policy nor improper as regards a legal practitioner other than members of the English bar, enrolled under the Legal Practitioners Act, 1879 GANGA RAM v. DEVI DAS. 61 P R 1907 F B

LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ACT XVIII OF 1879.

Section 10.

—Presentation of memo. of appeal by pleader's clerk—"Recognized agent"—Civil Procedure Code, 1881, sections 36, 541.
See APPEAL, VI.—PROCEDURE IN—
6 P R 1896

Section 13.

1. And section 14—Champertous agreement between legal practitioner and client—"Grossly improper conduct in discharge of professional duty."

One A. M. a certificated mukhtar, entered into an agreement with certain clients wherein it was stipulated that A. M. should undertake all the expenses up to final appeal connected with a civil case, to be instituted on behalf of his client in consideration of receiving half the net proceeds of the litigation. The lower courts holding that A. M. had thereby been guilty of "grossly improper "conduct in the discharge of his professional "duty," within the meaning of section 13 of the Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, suspended him from practice under section 14 of the Act.

LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ACT XVII OF 1879—contd.

Section 13—contd.

The matter having been referred by the Divisional Judge to the Chief Court:

Held, that the mere existance of the relation of pleader and client is sufficient for the instant condemnation, as opposed to public policy, of any agreement for the supply of funds for litigation in consideration of a delivery of a share in the property in suit on recovery, and that a legal practitioner entering into such an illegal agreement is, for the same reasons as establish the contract to be opposed to public policy, guilty of "grossly improper conduct in the discharge of his professional duties." In re ALI MUHAMMAD. 111 P R 1894

2. Use of objectionable language—Professional misconduct—"Any other reasonable cause."—Ejusdem generis.

Held, that the use of objectionable language by a Mukhtar retained to draft a letter addressed to the presiding officer of a Court with reference to the supervision of the Courts subordinate to him may constitute grossly improper conduct in the discharge of his professional duty within the terms of clause (b) of section 13 of the Legal Practitioners' Act, 1879, as amended. IN THE MATTER OF A MUKHTAR. 9 P R 1902

3. Professional misconduct.

A Mukhtar advised his client whose witnesses had not reached the Court on the day fixed for the hearing to absent himself in order that the suit should be dismissed in default and not on the merits for lack of evidence.

Held, that the Mukhtar was guilty of grossly improper conduct in the discharge of his professional duty within the meaning of section 13 of the Legal Practitioners Act, as his intention was that a false reason for the absence of his client should be given. IN THE MATTER OF A MUKHTAR. 56 P R 1902

4. Pleader and client—Agreement with client to share in the result of litigation—Professional misconduct—Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, section 13.

A, a pleader of the Chief Court of the Punjab entered into an agreement with his client to conduct certain cases for him as pleader on the condition of receiving a share in the result of litigation. Held, that such conduct on the part of the pleader in the discharge of his professional duties is grossly improper within the meaning of section 13 of the Legal Practitioners Act, and such as renders the offender liable to grave censure and disciplinary action.

In re Ali Muhammad, Mukhtar (111 P. R. 1894). Moung Htoon Oung (21 W. R. 297), In the matter of an Advocate of the Calcutta High Court (IV Calc. W. N. Civ.), and In re Bhandara (III Bom. L. R. 102, F. B). referred to and followed. IN THE MATTER OF A PLEADER OF THE CHIEF COURT OF THE PUNJAB. 63 P R 1904

LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ACT XVIII OF 1879—contd.

Section 13—concld.

Section 28.

1. Pleader and client—Agreement—Vakil of High Court practising as such in the Punjab—Vakil practising as pleader of Chief Court.

Held, that if a vakil of a chartered High Court practises in the Punjab merely by reason of his being a vakil of such Court ordinarily practising therein, his personal privilege attends him in the Punjab, and agreements between him and his clients are not governed by section 28 of the Legal Practitioners Act.

But held, that if a person is practising in the Punjab by reason of his being a pleader admitted and enrolled in the Chief Court, then agreements made by him in the course of his practise as such pleader are agreements to which section 28 of the Act applies: and that section is not inapplicabte to them merely because such person is, in addition to being a pleader of the Chief Court, a vakil of some other Court, and entitled to certain privileges if he were to practise as a vakil. MADAN GOPAL v. SHEO SINGH RAI. 54 P R 1881

2. Pleader and client—Suit for fee—Contract Act (IX of 1872), section 70.

Held, that though section 28 of the Legal Practitioners Act prohibits the recovery of any money under an agreement not recorded in a particular manner, and thus supersedes those provisions of the Contract Act under which agreements can be enforced generally, it does not touch section 70 of the last named Act, which has no relation to express agreements, but is intended especially to deal with cases where remuneration can be claimed in the absence of an agreement. KHAZAN CHAND v. GOBIND SINGH. 160 P R 1888

3. Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, section 28—Indian Contract Act, 1872, section 70.

Held, that where, as in the present instance, a pleader sues upon an alleged oral contract for remuneration for services rendered to a client he cannot succeed, because the contract is not in writing; and because there is a contract, he cannot fall back upon section 70 of the Contract Act and claim reasonable remuneration.

If there is no agreement on the subject of remuneration amounting to a contract under the Contract Act, operating independently of section 28 of the Legal Practitioners Act, the pleader's right to remuneration is measured by section 70 of the Contract Act.

If there is an agreement which amounts to such a contract, the pleader cannot enforce it unless it is reduced to writing and filed in Court as required by section 28, Legal Practitioners Act. If these conditions are fulfilled, the contract can be enforced, subject to the special provisions of sections 29—31 of the Act. If they are not, the pleader is without a remedy.

I. L. R. XII All. 169; I. L. R. IX Mad. 375; and No. 160 P. R. 1888, dissented from. HAZARI LAL v. TILOK CHAND. 136 P R 1893

LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ACT XVIII OF 1879—concld.

Section 28—concld.

4. And section 30.

See PLEADER AND CLIENT.

Held, that a pleader is not debarred by the provisions of the Legal Practitioners Act, 1879 from recovering a fee from his client which is actually allowed on taxation, sections 28—30 of the Act are applicable only to those cases in which agreements made between pleaders and their clients relate to the payment of remuneration in excess of, and apart from, the amount allowed in, the taxation. SARJU PARSHAD v. GIRDHARI LAL. 1 P R 1909

Section 41.

—Contempt of Court by Advocate and Barrister in his individual and private capacity as a suitor—Dismissal or suspension of such Advocate from practice.

See ADVOCATE. 5 P R 1902

LEGAL REPRESENTATIVE.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O.—XXII. P. R. 3 AND 4.
LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLES 171, 178.

—Of deceased debtor, suit against—Proof of receipt of assets.

See RIGHT TO SUE. 11 P R 1881

LEGITIMACY.

See UNDER CUSTOM—IV.—BETROTHAL DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE—MUHAMMADAN LAW.

1. Children born after marriage—Legitimacy of.

See EVIDENCE ACT, 1872, SECTION 112. 79 P R 1907

2. Marriage by 'chadar andazi' between a Khatri and a Khatrani widow—Legitimacy of children of such marriage.

See MARRIAGE. 4 P R 1905

3. Held, that a child born more than 280 days after the disolution of his mother's marriage, but less than 6 months after her second marriage was entitled to inherit the property of his mother's second husband as his legitimate son. NUR-UL-HASAN v. MUHAMMAD HASAN. 78 P R 1910

LEGITIMATION BY ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

See UNDER MUHAMMADAN LAW.

LEKHA MUKHI MORTGAGE.

See UNEER MORTGAGE.

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION.

1. Administration with copy annexed of authenticated copy of will proved abroad—

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION—concld.

Grant to attorney of absent executor—Attorney residing outside the Jurisdiction of the Court to which application is made.

See ADMINISTRATION. 28 P R 1883

2. Grant by District Judge—Jurisdiction of Chief Court to extend the original grant—Just cause for revocation of grant.

See SUCCESSION ACT, 1865, SECTION 234. 1 P R 1902

LEX LOCI CONTRACTUS.

See UNDER JURISDICTION.

LIABILITY OF SONS FOR FATHER'S DEBTS.

See UNDER HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY.

LIBEL.

See DEFAMATION.

LICENSE.

1. To sell or cultivate opium.

See OPIUM ACT, 1878. 114 P R 1881
105 P R 1883

2. Permission to occupy site—Custom—ground of sites to village artizans for residence, &c.

Case where an artizan had permitted others of his trade to work in his workshop along with him distinguished from cases where the village proprietors grant sites to artizans for houses and shops. The latter class of cases is governed by custom and the occupants have a permanent right. Possession in the former is based on mere license which is revocable at pleasure. HAR BHAGAT v. SHEO LAL. 144 P R 1890

LIEN.

1. Of arbitrator on award.

See ARBITRATION. 22 P R 1897

2. Of bailee.

See CONTRACT ACT, (IX OF 1872) SECTION 170. 60 P R 1885

See CUSTOM IX.—MERCANTILE USAGES. 34 P R 1886

3. Of mortgagee to houses built on mortgaged land.

See MORTGAGE. 94 P R 1881

4. Of partners on partnership property.

See PARTNERSHIP. 53 P R 1898

5. Of vendor for unpaid purchase money.

See VENDOR AND PURCHASER. 66 P R 1883

6. Lien on present and future property.

Held, that in equity there could be a valid assignment of property to be subsequently acquired. THE NATIONAL BANK OF INDIA v. THE DELHI COTTON MILLS COMPANY, LIMITED. 57 P R 1902

LIGHT AND AIR.

See EASEMENT.

LIMITATION.

1. Suit by reversioner—Adverse possession—Successive female heirs—Possession adverse to the female adverse to the reversioners.

See ABANDONMENT. 43 P R 1901

2. Abandonment of land—Limitation.

See ABANDONMENT. 32 P R 1868
37 P R 1875
25 P R 1877
114 P R 1880

LIMITATION—contd.

3. Minority—Adverse possession—Limitation.

See ADVERSE POSSESSION. 34 P R 1872

4. Banker and customer—Relationship as debtor and creditor—Limitation.

See BANK. 17 P R 1869

5. Suit for redemption—Plea that suit was barred by limitation—Burden of proof.

See BURDEN OF PROOF. 88 P R 1893
71 P R 1900

6. Recognised agent—Plaint filed by, without power of attorney—Acceptance of plaint—Limitation.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IV., R. 2. 9 P R 1878

7. Decree not in conformity with judgment—Application by decree-holder to amend decree rejected as time-barred—Duty of Court.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 152. 12 P R 1897

8. Twelve years' old decree—Section 230 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882—Meaning of "granted" and "law in force" in above section.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 48. 54 P R 1887

9. Sale to three persons—Share of vendors specified distinctly but purchase-money for all shares mentioned in lump—Joinder of parties—Indivisible contract—Limitation.

See CONTRACTS. 66 P R 1896

10. Divorce Act, 1869—Limitation.

See DIVORCE. 58 P R 1870

11. Protection order granted prior to Act IV of 1872—Cancellation of order by Ludhiana Insolvent Estates' Court in 1873—Limitation.

See INSOLVENCY. 36 P R 1875

12. Starting point of—Under article 2 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, where damages occurred.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 24. 72 P R 1909

13. For a suit by a reversioner for possession of immovable property in possession of defendant under an alleged adoption.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 118. 116 P R 1901

14. No time limit for the foreclosure of a mortgage by conditional sale.

See MORTGAGE. 57 P R 1908

15. Suit against a Municipal Committee—Limitation of.

See MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE. 58 P R 1875
10 P R 1877

16. Hindu family—Right of Hindu widow to sue for husband's share of divided property—Partition—Limitation.

See PARTITION 100 P R 1876

17. Limitation in pre-emption suits under Punjab Pre-emption Act.

See PUNJAB PRE-EMPTION ACT, 1905. 74 P R 1909

18. Indian Railway Act, 1890, section 77—Loss, destruction, or deterioration of goods—Negligent mis-delivery of goods by Railway Company—Liability of common carriers in India.

LIMITATION—contd.

See RAILWAY ACT. 6 P R 1897

19. Absence of one of several parties executing a document—Registration—Limitation.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1866, SECTION 36.

20. Fraud.

Held, before Act XIV of 1859 came into operation, that fraud prevented limitation from running; and if a party by fraud were kept from a knowledge of his right, time ran from the period when the right of action was discovered. KHAZANA v. MAIGHA SINGH. 67 P R 1866

21. Suit for breach of betrothal contract.

Time runs from breach. JODHA v. HYAT 69 P R 1866

22. Plea of limitation when to be raised.

Limitation is a matter of jurisdiction, and the defence of limitation may be taken at any time. But to establish this bar defendant cannot ordinarly bring forward in appeal new facts which are not already disclosed on the record. GOPAL DASS v. RUTHEE RAM. 92 P R 1867

23. Bonâ fide prosecution of a claim (before the introduction of Act XIV of 1859), held, to prevent the operation of the law of limitation. BHAI KESRA SINGH v. BHAI CHIRUNJEET SINGH. 18 P R 1869

24. Admission of some liability—Plaintiff bound by tenor of defendant's admission.

An absolute admissiom of some liability existing held, under Circular Order of 14th March, 1859, to be sufficient to take a debt out of the law of limitation; such admission could be coupled with evidence to prove the amount. The new promise of the defendant, and not the old debt, constituted plaintiff's right, and defendant was only liable according to the tenor of his new promise. FRAMJEE CURTSETJEE v. JAMASJEE. 26 P R 1869

25. Mere ignorance of a right held not sufficient. MUSSAMMAT MAEEA DAVEE v. SUKH DYAL. 29 P R 1869

26. Sale for arrears of revenue—Minors—Act I of 1845.

Held, that section 24 of Act I of 1845, which required suits to set aside sales for arrears of revenue to be brought within one year from the date of the sale becoming final and conclusive, as provided in section 19 of the Act, applied to minors when they were not sole owners. YOOSUF v. THE GOVERNMENT. 62 P R 1869

27. Admission of debt within section 1, para. 6, Part II, Punjab Civil Code—Schedule of bankrupt no such admission—Dividend in bankruptcy not a part payment to revive debt.

LIMITATION—contd.

By section 1, para. 6, Part II, Punjab Civil Code, which was the law applicable to this suit, a debt barred by limitation was revived by an admission of the creditor's demand from the opposite party. Held, that such admission must be in terms so distinct and unqualified, that a promise to pay on request might reasonably be inferred therefrom, and that it must be made to the creditor or his agent.

A bankrupt's schedule of debts verified and filed in Court by him, was not such an admission as would give rise to a new period of limitation; nor was a dividend paid by order of Court under bankruptcy proceedings, such a part payment as would revive stale claims. SHAHZADAH GHOLAM MAHOMED v. BHEEM SEIN. 25 P R 1870

28. Execution.

The period of six years allowed by Circular No. 11 of 1859, for the execution of decrees held to run from the date of the last order in execution, and not from date of decree. PRUB DIAL v. RAM CHAND. 46 P R 1870

29. The plea of limitation can be considered at any stage of the proceedings of a suit. There cannot be a waiver of limitation, for if the plea be valid, the Court has no jurisdiction. (Per LINDSAY AND MELVILL, JJ). MYA SINGH v. GUNESH DASS. 32 P R 1872

30. The objection of limitation may be taken at any time, either by way of defence at the first hearing, or in appeal, regular or special. SHAMA v. AZIM. 2 P R 1875

31. Per SMYTH, J.—The plea of limitation is not a question of jurisdiction within section 622, Act X of 1877. MEHTAB RAI v. NANAK CHAND. 59 P R 1878

32. Act VIII of 1859, section 246—Suit to set aside order under—Omission to adjudicate upon objection.

Held, that where a claim preferred by an objector in execution of decree has not been adjudicated upon by the Court executing the decree, nor any opportunity been given to the objector of producing evidence in support of his claim, the limitation of one year, prescribed for suit to set aside an order under section 246 of Act VIII of 1859, does not apply, the order passed, not being such an order as is contemplated by that section. MUSSAMMAT RAM KOUR v. RAI BHAG SINGH. 73 P R 1880

33. Mortgage—Suit for redemption—Conditional decree—Omission to execute—Cause of action—Judicial Commissioner's Book Circular No. XI of 1859—Period of limitation where definite date is fixed over which mortgage is to extend.

In a suit for redemption of mortgage, it appeared that in 1851 the representative of the present plaintiffs sued the representatives of the present defendants to recover certain land; that arbitartors were appointed, who arranged a compromise, the terms of which were stated in an agreement filed by the then defendents to be that the plaintiff should get immediate possession of half the land, and that in case she paid the defendants Rs. 200 (or as the amount was stated in a supplementary petition, Rs. 210), she should be put in possession of all the land belonging to her: that the said agreement went on to state that as she had not paid the money, the defendants had retained half the land in their possession, giving her possession of half, and that they would give up the rest at once on her paying them the amount awarded by the arbitrators, or if she paid it in four specified instalments on four specified dates, they would give up one-fourth each time; and that a decree was passed giving the plaintiff the land claimed, but allowing the defendants to retain half such land (which was the land now in suit) until payment of Rs. 210, the plaintiff getting possession of the other half according to the arbitrators' award, It was contended that the present suit was barred by limitation, (1) because the transaction was not a mortgage, and the decree not having been executed the circumstance that it was conditional merely entitled the plaintiffs to fall back on the original cause of action, from the date of which limitation would begin to run, and (2) because even if the transaction amounted to a mortgage the limitation, under Judicial Commissioner's Book Circular No. XI of 1859, was twelve years from the end of the two years during which the instalments might be paid, a definite date having been fixed over which the mortgage was to extend.

LIMITATION—contd.

Held, that unless the transaction could be regarded as a mortgage, the claim was barred, as the conditional decree did not in itself constitute a cause of action, and the decree not having been executed, as the condition was not fulfilled, the plaintiffs could only claim to fall back on the original cause of action. Ram Singh v. Nodh Singh (93 P. R. 1879, F. B.), cited.

Held, further, that if the transaction amounted to a mortgage, the terms of the mortgage were those embodied in the above mentioned agreement, and looking at those terms it did not appear that a definite date was fixed over which the mortgage was to extend, the only dates mentioned being those on which the plaintiff would be allowed to redeem portions of the land by payment of the instalments stipulated, and it not being provided that she must redeem within two years, nor that she could not redeem before the lapse of that period; that therefore the limitation of 12 years would not apply, and as the Judicial Commissioner's circular allowed an unlimited period for redemption, the limitation of 60 years under the present law would be applicable.

Held, also, that the before-mentioned agreement embodying the terms on which the defendants would give up the land described as the plaintiffs' property, which they retained in their possession, the consideration for which was the compromise of the suit, amounted to a mortgage of the land for Rs. 210, and that the plaintiffs were entitled to a decree for the land conditional on their paying to the defendants the said sum of Rs. 210. DEWA SINGH v. HARNAM SINGH. 57 P R 1883

LIMITATION—contd.

34. Suit against Municipal Committee—Act IV of 1873, section 19—Act done, or purporting to be done, under the Act.

In a suit brought against a Municipal Committee to recover the value of certain bricks alleged to have been wrongfully seized and appropriated by the Committee the lower Courts held on the authority of section 19, Act IV of 1873, that the suit was barred by limitation, in that it was not instituted until after the expiration of three months from the accrual of the right to sue.

Held, that whether the suit were regard ed as one founded on tort, as the plaintff alleged, or on contract, as the lower Court appeared to have regarded it, it was not barred by limitation under the above section, as it was not alleged, and there was no pretence for alleging, that the defendants took the plaintiff's bricks in the exercise of any powers given to them or to the Municipal Committee by the Municipal Act, or in the belief that they had power under the Act to take the bricks. President Muncipal Committe, Delhi v. Harna Mal (10 P. R. 1877, Civil) and Ganesh Das v. Elliot 160 P. R. 1883, Civil cited. HARBHAGWAN v. HASSAN. 79 P R 1884

Compare Haji Akbar Ali v. Haji Ida. 79 P R 1884 Note (a)

Lalu v. President Muncipal Committee, Amritsar. 79 P R 1884 Note (b)

And Sein Nahin Shah v. President, Municipal Committee, Ludhiana. 79P R 1884 Note (c)

35. Limitation—Reference under section 84 (3) of the Tenancy Act, 1887—Plaintiff's estate under Court of Wards—Delay in making application—Want of leisure on account of plague—Revision—Material irregularity—Occupancy right—Mortgage of—Death of occupancy tenant without heirs—Right of mortgagee as against landlord.

In a suit by the landlords who were minors under the Court of Wards to dispossess the mortgageee on the ground that the occupancy right had become extinguished by the death of the occupancy tenant (mortgagor) without heirs, the first Court (Assistant Collector) dismissed the case as time-barred, on the ground that the limitation began to run from the date of the transfer, which was more than six years before the date of suit. No appeal was preferred from that order Subsequently the Collector was asked to move the Financial Commissioner, under clause 3 of section 84 of the Tenancy Act, to revise the order of the Assistant Collector, and he submitted the case to the Financial Commissioner. The defendants objected that the Financial Commissioner ought not to interfere, as the plaintiffs had not availed themselves of the right of appeal, and that the reference was not made until nine months after the case had been decided by the first Court, and that there was no material irregularity.

LIMITATION—contd.

Held, that the excuse of want of leisure on the part of a public officer (which could not be accepted in the case of a private person) administering the affairs of minors at a time when plague was prevalent in his district, should be accepted as a sufficient cause for the delay.

Held, also, that the application of a rule of limitation, which in fact does not apply to the case at all, amounts to a material irregularity.

Held, further, that the plaintiffs were entitled to a decree, as the interest of the mortgagee could be no greater or last longer than that of the mortgagor, and that the mortgagor's interest having come wholly to an end by reason of his death without heirs the mortgagee's interest ceased with it even if the mortgage was made with the landlord's knowledge. NARINDAR SINGH v. LEHNA SINGH. 6 P R 1901 Rev.

36. Limitation—Change in the law of limitation—Effect of new law on claims barred under the old law—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 120—Punjab Limitation Act, 1900.

In a suit filed in 1900 by a reversioner of a sonless proprietor to have an alienation of ancestral land made in 1889 by such sonless proprietor declared void, the first Court found the claim barred under Article 120, Schedule II of Act XV of 1877. The Divisional Judge on appeal held that the right to use, though barred under Act XV of 1877 at the date of the institution of the suit, was revived by the operation of the Punjab Limitation Act (I of 1900), which was in force at that date.

Held, that the right to sue barred under Act XV of 1877 before the Punjab Limitation Act (I of 1900) came into force was not revived by that Act. TEKA v. SOHNU. 39 P R 1901

37. Limitation—Conditional decree for possession on payment of a sum of money does not create a mortgage or new cause of action—Indian Limitation Act, XV of 1877, section 7 and articles 142 and 144—Minority.

In 1899 plaintiffs sued for possession of the land in suit, which was sold by their mother during their minority in 1886 and obtained a decree setting aside the sale and decreeing possession of the land conditional on payment of Rs. 754—no period being fixed for such payment—plaintiffs did not execute their decree, but brought the present suit for possession in 1907, the youngest of them having attained his majority in 1901.

Held, that the conditional decree did not create a mortgage or "Judicial hypothec" and that it did not in itself constitute a cause of action, and that the decree-holder must fall back on his original cause of action, and as this arose in 1887, the year of dispossession and commencement of adverse possession, the suit is barred either under article 142 or article 144 of the Indian Limitation Act.

LIMITATION—contd.

Held also, that the fact of the plaintiffs being minors at the date of alienation could only extend the period to three years from the date when the youngest of them attained his majority under section 7 of the Act. SHAMIR v. LADHA SINGH. 100 P R 1909

38. Limitation—Starting of, on pleadings—Grant of shamilat land by Government—Succession of, on death of grantee.

By a sanad, dated 10th April 1862 of the Government of the Punjab in favour of K. S. certain land out of the shamilat of village T. was granted to the grantee rent-free for life, and it was stipulated that the proprietary right was to remain in the family of the grantee on his demise subject to assessment. No compensation was paid by Government to the proprietary body and the land continued to be entered in the revenue papers as shamilat, K. S. and his widow after his death being shown only in the cultivating column. The brothers of K. S. had not cultivated any of the land, nor did they form a joint family with K. S. in 1862. On the death of K. S. and his widow the plaintiffs, proprietors in the village, claimed the land as shamilat and the defendants, nephews and grandnephews, claimed it as members of the family of K. S. with whom the proprietary right was to remain after his demise.

Held, that under the circumstances of the case the word "family" as used in the sanad, must be taken to be employed in its restricted sense, i. e., as meaning the wife and children and not all the blood relations of the grantee.

Held also, that as the plaintiffs in their plaint alleged that shortly before the suit they had asked the defendants, who are also members of the proprietary body, to retain possession of the land in suit which is shamilat, only to the extent of their own shares, but that they had refused to do so, and as the defendants did not in their pleas challenge the correctness of this allegation, the plaintiffs' cause of action really accrued, not on the death of K. S. or his widow, but when the defendants were asked to give up the area in excess of their shares in the land, and limitation only ran from that date and not from the death of K. S. or of his widow. JAIMAL SINGH v. GURMUKH SINGH. 20 P R 1910

39. Limitation—Punjab Limitation Act, I of 1900—Suit for possession by collaterals after the death of widow but more than 12 years after the alienation of it by the last male owner.

Held, following 145 P. R. 1907 (Miran Bakhsh v. Admad) and distinguishing Khiali Ram v. Gulab Khan (70 P. W. R. 1908, F. B.) that a suit for possession of land, instituted in 1906 after the death of the widow of the last male owner, by reversioners who had previously obtained a declaratory decree in respect of the gift by her, was not governed by the provisions of the Punjab Limitation Act, I of 1900, and was not barred by efflux of time, mutation in favour of the defendants having taken place on the basis of the gift in 1883, and the last male owner having died in 1886. SOHNU v. LABHA. 62 P R 1910

LIMITATION—contd.

40. Held, that Courts should suo motu see that a suit is within time as a whole or in part, notwithstanding that defendant only pleads limitation in regard to part of the claim. MUSSAMMAT NEHAL DEVI v. KISHORE CHAND. 97 P R 1910

41. Limitation—Suit by reversioners for possession of land mortgaged by male owner more than 12 years before suit and subsequently sold by his widow—merger of mortgage in sale—Punjab Limitation Act, I of 1900, Indian Limitation Act, XV of 1877, article 141.

On 2nd December 1886 R. K. mortgaged to T. 28 bighas of land by way of simple mortgage, the mortgagor retaining possession. R. K. died about 1887. On 7th November 1899 his widow sold the said land and some other land in addition to the said T. for Rs. 2,000 (part of which (Rs. 1,200) consisted of the sum due under the prior mortgage made by R. K.) and delivered possession. On 7th December 1899 T. sold the said land to R. K. R. K.'s widow died about the end of 1901, and on 2nd October 1903 the plaintiff, a reversioner of R. K., brought the present suit for possession against the vendee and his alienee.

Held, by the Full Bench, that inasmuch as the defendants' mortgage from R. K. gave them no right to possession and they had obtained possession solely by virtue of the sale in their favour by R. K.'s widow the suit was governed by the provisions of article 141 of the Second Schedule of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, and not by the Punjab Limitation Act, 1900, and was consequently not barred by limitation.

Held also, that the mortgage by R. K. did not merge in the sale by the widow, and as a suit for a declaration that such mortgage was void except for the lifetime of R. K. would long since have been barred under article 1 of the Schedule to the Punjab Limitation Act, 1900, the plaintiff was also debarred from challenging it in this suit. KHIALI RAM v. GULAB KHAN. 33 P R 1911 F. B

42. Limitation—Suit for possession within 12 years from date of mutation, but more than 12 years from date defendant got possession—Punjab Limitation Act, I of 1900, article 2.

On 9th March 1908 plaintiff, as heir of his deceased father, sued defendants for possession of certain land of his father's in their possession, defendants pleaded that the plaintiff's father had mortgaged the land by deed, dated 16th June 1893, and that the mortgagee had sold his rights to them on he 25th January 1898. There had been no mutation in respect of the mortgage except one after the sale, attested on the 18th August 1898, although the mortgagee and defendants had been in possession since 1893.

LIMITATION—concld.

Held, that as there had been a mutation of names attested within 12 years of suit, the suit was not barred by article 2 of the Punjab Limitation Act, I of 1900, notwithstanding the long possession of the mortgagee. FAZLA v. BADAM SINGH. 48 P R 1911

43. Limitation—Suit for land, which fell to plaintiff's share on partition—adverse possession—Punjab Land Revenue Act, XVII of 1887, section 122.

Held, that when partition of land takes place and a particular field allotted to B. remains in possession of A., the latter holds adverse possession from date of partition. B. can during the first 3 years apply to the Revenue Court under section 122, Punjab Land Revenue Act, to be put in possession and during the following 9 years sue for possession in a Civil Court. FATTEH DIN v. NIKKA. 81 P R 1911

44. Held, following Nabi Bukhsh v. Fakir (25 P. R. 1903), that where, previous to the institution of a suit for pre-emption, the vendee has resold the land to another person and the latter is not made a party to the suit until after the expiration of the period of limitation the suit is barred.

Held also, where limitation has not been pleaded in the first Court nor taken in the grounds of appeal, but only in argument and the plea for its proper decision involved further inquiry into facts, the appellate Court was justified in refusing to entertain it. SHAH MUHAMMAD v. PIARA MAL. 84 P R 1911

LIMITATION ACT (XIV OF 1859).

Section 1.

Filing suit in wrong Court—Date of institution.

Plaintiff filed his suit in the District Court of Hissar within the period of limitation, and his plaint was returned to him for presentation in the proper Court, the Hissar Court not having jurisdiction to entertain the suit. Eight months afterwards, and five months after the period of limitation had expired, plaintiff filed his plaint in the Court at Rohtak. Held, that the date of institution of his suit was not that on which he filed the plaint in the Hissar Court, and that accordingly his claim was barred by limitation. HEERA LALL v. SHEO BUKSH. 64 P R 1871

Section 1, clause 1.

1. Before the extension of Act XIV of 1859, held, that the period for bringing a suit for pre-emption was to be computed from the date of the transaction—i. e. the contract of sale. MEHTAB SINGH v. MUL SINGH. 22 P R 1870

2. After the extension of Act XIV of 1859, and before the operation of Act IX

LIMITATION ACT (XIV OF 1859) —contd.

Section 1, clause 1—concld.

of 1871, held, that the time for bringing a suit for pre-emption was one year from the date the purchaser took possession, notwithstanding section 3 of Act XIV of 1859. That section did not apply to cases where, by the general law of limitation formerly in force, a shorter period of limitation was fixed than that prescribed by the Act. GOORDIT SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT JUSSEE. 27 P R 1870

3. Pre-emption.

M. sold N certain land in February 1868 and the latter enjoyed possession for a short time, when he was evicted by M., who disputed the sale. N. sued for possession upon the contract of sale, and obtained a decree, in execution of which, on the 15th July 1870, he obtained possession of the land. R instituted a suit against M. and N. for pre-emption in August following. Held that the suit was barred under section 1, clause 1, Act XIV of 1859, as the period of one year was to be computed from February 1868, and not from 15th July 1870. RAMSOOKH v. NANOO. 34 P R 1871

Section 1, clause 6.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 44.

1. Settlement award.

In 1866, plaintiff brought a summary suit to be recorded proprietor of certain land thrown up by the river ; his claim was decreed, but he was directed to pay certain dues to the defendant, as provided in the Settlement record. On appeal this decree was affirmed, the Appellate Court referring the plaintiff to a regular suit to correct the Settlement record. More than three years from the date of this order on appeal the plaintiff instituted the regular suit.—Held, that whether the order of the Appellate Court was treated as a summary decision or an award in a contested case, the regular suit was barred by Act XIV of 1859. MUNSA SINGH v. SOOLTAN. 9 P R 1871

2. Settlement award.

In a contested case during the Settlement of 1867, between the plaintiff and R. D., the father of the defendant, the Settlement Officer decided that R. D. should pay as rent to the plaintiff a sum equivalent to the Government revenue payable by him. More than 3 years after this decision, the plaintiff sued for the arrears of the rent so awarded, none of it having been paid.—Held, that the decision of the Settlement Officer was an award which the defendant or R. D. should have contested in a suit brought within three years ; and no such suit having been brought, the plaintiff was entitled to recover the arrears claimed. BUNDE KHAN v. LALL DASS. 68 P R 1871

Section 1, clause 8

—And clause 15—Agistment—Deposit.

Plaintiff, five or six years before suit, made over some camels to the defendant to graze. Defendant refusing to restore the camels, plaintiff sued for their value (rupees 400). The original Court dismissed the suit, holding that it ought to have been brought within three years from the date of plaintiff's making the camels over to defendant. The Commissioner on appeal affirmed this decision. On plaintiff's application for a review of judgment, the Commissioner submitted a statement of the case under section 28, Act XXIII of 1861, to the Chief Court for decision. Held, that if the limitation was three years, the suit would lie, unless there had been a demand and refusal more than three years before action brought : Semble, the defendant being an agister or depositary, the period for suing was 10 years (section 1, clause XV, Act XIV of 1859). GYAN CHUND v. MOHUMDA. 23 P R 1872

LIMITATION ACT (XIV OF 1859) —contd.

Section 1, clause 8—concld.

1. Clauses 9, 10, 15, 16—Act XV of 1877, Schedule II, article 60—Suit for cash deposit—Period from which limitation runs—Suit barred under Act XIV of 1859.

Plaintiff sued on the 17th December 1880 for the amount of two cash deposits made with defendant's father about June 1855. The lower appellate Court held that the suit was within time, as under article 60 of Schedule II, Act XV of 1877, limitation began to run from the date of demand and that the rule was the same under Act IX of 1871, and Act XIV of 1859, section 1. clause 9.

Held, that the suit was barred by limitation : that clause 9 of section 1 of the Act of 1859 clearly has no applicability where there is a written engagement, and clause 15 only applies to suits for the recovery of specific property deposited and not to deposits of money. As therefore under Act XIV of 1859 limitation clearly began to run from the date of the deposit, whether the present claim was regarded as one for money lent (section 1, clause 10), or as one for which no express limitation was provided (section 1, clause 16), the limitation would not exceed 6 years from the date of the loan or deposit and the claim would have become barred while Act XIV of 1859 remained in force. GANESHI LAL v. CHUNNI LAL. 74 P R 1882

Section 1, clause 10.

1. Bond payable by instalments—Judicial Commissioner's Circular No. 83 of 1859.

Where the amount of a bond was payable by instalments, but there was no condition that default in the payment of any instalment should entitle the plaintiff to sue for the whole amount, it was held (over-ruling the circular mentioned above), that plaintiff's cause of action accrued in respect of each instalment on the date on which each became due and not on the date of the bond. The said circular did not acquire the force of law under the Indian Councils' Act. RAM DASS v. MOHUR SINGH. 64 P R 1869

LIMITATION ACT (XIV OF 1859) —contd.

Section 1, clause 10—concld.

2. Debt—Collateral mortgage.

Held, that a suit to recover a debt secured by an instrument, which also mortgaged immoveable property as collateral security, must be brought within the time mentioned in section 1, clause 10, Act XIV of 1859, if the plaint did not ask for a declaration of the creditor's lien on the mortgaged property. ABDOOL HAMID v. GHOLAM.
49 P R 1871

3. Bond payable on demand.

Limitation runs from date of demand, and not from execution of bond, when bond is payable on demand. JEEWUN SINGH v. ANWAR KHAN. 17 P R 1872

4. The first and only demand made for payment, may be with the suit or the suit itself. JIWAN SINGH v. ANWAR KHAN.
26 P R 1873

5 Defendant executed a bond on the 29th April 1869, in favor of the plaintiff for Rs. 492, in consideration of plaintiff's releasing from arrest Mussammat S., against whom plaintiff held a decree. The bond was payable six months after date (on the 29th October 1869), provided that in the meantime Mussammat S. did not pay the amount of the decree, and plaintiff filed his suit against defendant on 5th May 1873. Plaintiff contended that as there was litigation between himself and Mussammat S. until 26th October 1871, in respect of the execution of the decree, the period for suing upon the bond should be taken to run oaly from that date. Held, that the suit should have been brought within three years from 29th October 1869. BHAI SAWAYA SINGH v. HIRA NAND. 58 P R 1874

6. Bond in English form.

The limitation for a suit on a bond in English form, held, to be three years under Act XIV of 1859, and not twelve. Simla Bank v. Garey (72 P R 1873) overruled. SIMLA BANK v. DUDDY.
77 P R 1875

7. "Payment to be made within one year."

Defendant, on the 15th March 1867, executed a bond by which he agreed to repay the loan to the plaintiff within the period of one year. The bond was registered. Plaintiff sued on the 14th March 1874. Held, that limitation ran from the end of the year, and not from the date of execution of the bond, and that the suit was within time. SHER JANG v. PARTAB SINGH. 79 P R 1875

Section 1, clause 12.

—Mortgage as collateral security—Decree for lien granted where defendant is personally discharged by limitation.

Though a creditor be barred from obtaining a money decree, binding the defendant personally and his general property, after the lapse of three years, he is not also precluded from obtaining a decree for a lien upon

LIMITATION ACT (XIV OF 1859) —contd.

Section 1, clause 12—concld.

property mortagaged as security for the debt, if his plaint prays for such lien. SIMLA BANK v. DUDDY. 77 P R 1875

Section 1, clause 13.

—Suit for partition of joint family property —Participation in profits.

In a suit for a share of joint family property, it was found that plaintiff had failed to prove any receipt of payment on account of or any actual possession or enjoyment of the property between 1859 and 1873.

Held, that the suit was barred by limitation under section 1, clause 13 of Act XIV of 1859 the right of suit not being revived by anything contained in Act IX of 1871, or Act XV of 1877. PALA MALL v. NEHAL SINGH. 142 P R 1890

Section 1, clause 15.

See SECTION 1, CLAUSE 8, supra, and ib, CLAUSE 16, infra.

Section 1, clause 16.

1. Moveable property—Ruins of a house.

Defendant removed a portion (consisting of bricks) of the ruins of a house that had fallen during the rains. In a suit for the value of the materials removed, held, that the property must be treated as moveable with regard to the period of limitation applicable. SHAH NEWAZ v. GHULAM ALI.
99 P R 1868

2. Suit for redemption of mortgage—Acknowledgment made after lapse of 60 years from date of mortgage—Effect of such acknowledgment—Suit barred under Act XIV of 1859 not revived under Act IX of 1871.

In a suit for redemption of a mortgage executed about 1780-81 A. D., the plaintiffs relied on an acknowledgment made in 1846 A. D as bringing their suit within limitation.

Held, that the acknowledgment not having been made within 60 years from the date of the mortgage could not avail the plaintiffs, as the correct interpretation of the words "unless in the meantime" in clause 15 of the 1st section of Act XIV of 1859, is to require the acknowledgment to which effect is given to be one made within the period of 60 years ; that the plaintiffs' suit had therefore become barred under Act XIV of 1859 before Act IX of 1871 came into force, and therefore nothing contained in that Act could revive the right to sue which had already been extinguished. SHEODAN v. SURJIT.
109 P R 1884

Section 4.

1. Admission.

Held, before Act IX of 1871 was in operation, that an admission of a debt made after the debt was barred by limitation, did not entitle plaintiff to sue. CLARKE & Co. v. MACLEOD. 95 P R 1868

2. Held, that an acknowledgment that a debt was due, within section 4 of Act XIV of 1859, sufficient to give rise to a new period of limitation, should expressly appear; it was not to be inferred. Therefore, the mere acknowledgment of an account, or admission of its correctness, or the debtor's signing his name or attaching his mark to a balance struck, did not constitute an acknowledgment. The acknowledgment required was one that allowed the ordinary legal implication of a promise to pay. An acknowledgment of a debt under the above section gave a fresh period of three years, not six. NUGER MULL v. OSMAN.

LIMITATION ACT (XIV OF 1859) —contd

Section 4—concld.

45 P R 1870

3. Acknowledgment—Sealing

An acknowledgment of a debt sealed with a seal bearing the name of the debtor, held to be sufficient under section 4 of Act XIV of 1859. HARNAM SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT SHIBBI.
10 P R 1873

4. Acknowledgment obtained by duress is void. HAMILTON v. SHOWERS.
62 P R 1873

5. The following document held not to be a sufficiently unqualified acknowledgment or admission under section 4 of Act XIV of 1859 ; "Rs. 2,300, balance struck on 7th July 1869." "The scribe is A. and this has been written "as at the request of B." (Sealed by B). RUTTUN RAM v. HAKIR. 79 P R 1873

Section 13.

1. Defendant in jail—N deduction from period allowed.

Plaintiff's suit was dismissed under section 110 of Act VIII of 1859, both parties being absent. On application of plaintiff his suit was brought on the file again. In the meantime, defendant had been put in jail: and his father petitioned the Court, that proceed; ings might be stayed till his son's release. The Court ordered "a non-suit until defendant "came out of jail," the plaintiff offering no objection to this order. On defendant's release, plaintiff applied to have his case brought on again. Held, that his course was to bring a fresh suit unless precluded by the rules of limitation, and that no deduction could be made from the period of limitation on account of defendant's imprisonment, there being nothing to prevent a prisoner in jail from being served with a summons in a suit against him. JANEE v. WARIS.
39 P R 1869

2. Act VIII of 1859, section 62,—Substituted service—Suit against Military Officer on furlough.

Section 62 of Act VIII of 1859 doss not provide for the service of a summons on a Military Officer out of the British territories in India, by transmitting a copy of the summons to his Commanding Officer: and therefore the time during which such defendant was absent out of the said territories was excluded from the period of limitation under section 13 of Act XIV of 1859. HOME v. JAMSETJEE. 41 P R 1871

Section 14.

—Act VIII of 1859, section 110 —Deducting time during which suit was pending.

LIMITATION ACT (XIV OF 1859) —contd.

Section 14—concld.

Plaintiff sued on an unregistered bond that fell due on the 18th September 1869. The suit was filed on the 12th August 1872, and on the 20th of the same month was dismissed under section 110 of Act VIII of 1859. On the 5th October 1872, plaintiff applied for a re-trial, and the defendant was re-summoned for the 18th October, on which date the suit was again dismissed for default of prosecution. On the 20th December 1872, plaintiff filed a fresh suit, the Court having refused to issue another summons on the old plaint. Held, that the suit instituted on 20th December was barred by time. LALLU MULL v. SHAHZADA MAHOMED. 17 P R 1873

Section 20.

1. Debt payable by instalments under decree.

Where a debt was decreed to be payable by instalments, an application to enforce payment of an instalment held within time, under section 20 of Act XIV of 1859, if made before the lapse of three years from the date on which the instalment fell due, though made after the lapse of three years from the date of the decree. If the decree directed that in default of any one instalment, the whole amount should be immediately payable, the period of limitation (three years) must be computed from the first default. CHUNDOO LALL v. MUSSAMMAT SURFRAZ MEHAL BEGUM. 52 P R 1870

2. Proceeding to enforce decree.

Where a plaintiff obtained a decree for land in two villages, and obtained possession of the land in one in execution, held, that this was a proceeding to enforce the original decree within section 20, Act XIV of 1859. KURM CHUND v. GOKUL CHUND. 53 P R 1871

3. Proceedings to keep decree in force—Second suit.

Where plaintiff obtained a decree in 1867, and took no steps to execute it, but owing to the suggestion or order of the Court of first instance, dropped the proceedings and brought a second suit,—held, that though the second suit was barred by section 2 of Act VIII of 1859, it should, under the circumstances, be treated as a proceeding under the Limitation Act sufficient to keep the first decree in force. HANSRAJ v. HARBAKSH. 16 P R 1874

4. Execution of decree—Proceedings against one of several judgment-debtors—Release of judgment-debtor by act of decree-holder.

When a decree is passed against several defendants, it is kept alive, as against the rest, by proceedings duly taken in execution against one or more of their number. A decree-holder may by abandoning proceedings in execution against one of several judgment-debtors, lose, under certain circumstances, the right to enforce the decree against the rest. A obtained a decree for Rs. 103-2-0 against B and C, in July 1870; and in July, 1871, sued out execution against B alone, who paid Rs. 32 on the understanding that A should look to C for payment of the balance. In consequence of this compromise, the case was struck off the file on the 7th July, 1871. On the 2nd August, 1873, A applied for execution against C in respect of the balance of the decree. Held, that the proceedings taken by A against B in July, 1871, kept the decree alive as against C, who was not released by the compromise then effected between A and B. SARJAN MAL v. MAMU. 38 P R 1874

LIMITATION ACT (XIV OF 1859) —contd.

Section 20—concld.

Sections 20, 21.

—Execution of decree for money—Act VIII of 1859, section 2.

A decree for money against the respondent having been obtained by the appellant on the 5th October 1866, the former made payments, on account up to October 1869, on the 22nd of which month the appellant made a bonâ fide application to execute the same in respect of the unpaid balance. An order to that effect was refused by the Court which made the decree, but the respondent nevertheless made further payments on account.

On the 4th May 1871, a fresh application for execution was made, which was eventually again refused, the Chief Court of the Punjab holding that the decree having been obtained before the introduction of Act XIV of 1859 into the Punjab, the case must be governed by the provisions of section 21 and not by section 20 of that Act.

Held, by the Privy Council, that the application of 22nd October 1869 was a proceeding to enforce the decree within the meaning of section 20, and having been taken within three years next preceding the application of 4th May 1871, this last application was not barred by section 21.

The prohibition laid down in section 20 does not on the true construction of section 21 apply to judgments in force at the time of passing the Act. THE DELHI AND LONDON BANK v. ORCHARD. 7 P R 1878

Section 21.

1. Keeping decree alive.

Proceedings taken by a judgment-creditor to establish his right to certain attached property of the judgment-debtor, held to be proceedings sufficient to keep the decree alive under section 21 of Act XIV of 1859. RAM SINGH v. BADAN SINGH. 9 P R 1872

2. Plaintiffs obtained a decree in 1866, and on 23rd February 1868 (the defendant having been adjudicated bankrupt) applied to the Bankruptcy Court to be registered as creditors. On the 24th August 1868 they petitioned the same Court for payment of a dividend. In February 1871 their debt being still unsatisfied, they applied for execution. Held, that the proceeding of the plaintiffs taken in the Bankruptcy Court in February and August 1868 kept the decree alive under section 21 of Act XIV of 1859. Billings v. The Bank of Upper India (No. 4 P. R. 1872), followed. SIRDAR JULLAL-UD-DEEN v. KALU MULL. 74 P R 1873

LIMITATION ACT (XIV OF 1859) —concld.

Section 21—concld.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—Acts XV of 1877, IX of 1871, and XIV of 1859—Suit for redemption of mortgage—Acknowledgment by one of several mortgagees.

In a suit for redemption of mortgage, it was found that the mortgage sought to be redeemed took place 69 years before suit, and that therefore the claim was barred by limitation, unless the mortgagors could avail themselves of an acknowledgment made by one of the mortgagees, B. S.

Held, that if the suit was governed by the law contained in Act XIV of 1859, or Act IX of 1871, the said acknowledgment could not avail the plaintiffs, as it was not signed by all the mortgagees in person or by those claiming under them, and it was wholly immaterial whether B. S. could be regarded as the agent of the other mortgagees, an acknowledgment by an agent being wholly inoperative to extend the period of limitation in a suit for redemption governed by either of the above Acts.

Held, further, that the present suit, though instituted after the 1st October 1877, was governed by the provisions of Act XIV of 1859, as the claim was extinct before Act IX of 1871 came into force, and à fortiori before Act XV of 1877 was passed. HAKIM DEVI DYAL v. PRAB DYAL. 85 P R 1880

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871).

Sections 1, 2, 4.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTIONS, 1, 3. 23 P R 1883

Section 5.

Dies non—Holidays.

In a suit for pre-emption brought before Act IX of 1871 came into force, plaintiff's cause of action accrued on the 2nd September 1871, and the plaint was filed on the 1st October 1872. The Civil Courts were closed for a holiday during the month of September 1872. Held, that the days in September could not be treated as dies non, and that the plaintiff's suit was barred by time, one year being the period for suing. BHAGGAT SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT RUPAN. 56 P R 1873

Section 5 (a).

Act IV of 1872, section 23—Pre-emption—Expiry of period fixed for payment on a holiday—Tender of payment to sheriff on a holiday.

The last day fixed by a decree of Court for payment of pre-emption money fell on a holiday. The pre-emptor tendered payment of the money on that day to the sheriff at his house who refused to receive it. On the following day the money was paid into Court.

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Section 5 (a)—concld.

Held (BOULNOIS, J., dissenting) that the payment was in time.

Per LINDSAY, J.—The provisions of section 5 (a) of Act IX of 1871 apply to decrees in pre-emption suits. Where therefore, the last day allowed for payment falls on a holiday, a payment by the pre-emptor on the following day when the Court re-opens is within time.

Per BOULNOIS, J.—Contra.

Per BOULNOIS AND LANSAY, JJ.—The sheriff rightly refused to receive the pre-emption money, tendered at his private residence on a holiday.

Per CAMPBELL., J.—THE sheriff might have received the pre-emption money when tendered, and the tender to him amounted to a payment into Court. SHAMS-UD-DIN v. PIR BAKSH. 31 P R 1877

Section 13.

—Bond—Excluding day on which right to sue accrued.

Defendant on the 23rd December 1868 executed and registered a bond "payable at any time within one year." Held, that taking the latest day for payment to be 22nd December, 1869 plaintiff's right to sue accrued on the 23rd if the bond were not paid on the 22nd; and excluding the 23rd December 1869 (under section 13, Act IX of 1871) from the period, plaintiff's suit filed on the 23rd December 1875, was within time. DULLA MALL v. BOLAKI.

38 P R 1876

Section 15.

1. Prosecuting a former suit in Court unable to try it.

Plaintiff's mother filed a suit in 1864 in respect of the land now in suit; and in 1870, the Appellate Court of Amritsar dismissed the suit on the ground that the mother had no power of attorney from her sons entitling her to sue. She then obtained a power from her sons, who were absent on military service, and in 1871 filed the present suit. Held, that the period from 1864 to 1870 during which the former suit was going on, should be deducted under section 15, Act IX of 1871. SIRDAR BAKSHISH SINGH v. FUTTEH SINGH.

69 P R 1875

2. Deducting time during which a former suit was pending.

Plaintiff sued in the District Court on 25th August 1871, on a bond which fell due on 5th September 1868, the limitation applicable being three years. On 31st October, he obtained an ex parte decree. On 21st October 1874 (the defendant having in the meantime been in jail for a criminal offence, and being during that time possessed of no property), plaintiff applied for execution. Defendant got the ex parte decree set aside, and at the new trial plaintiff made default and his suit was dismissed on 8th March 1875. Plaintiff took proceedings under section 119, Act VIII of 1859, and on the 30th November 1875 the Appellate Court set aside the judgment passed against him for default. On the 3rd January 1876, the District Court dismissed his suit for want of jurisdiction; and on the 14th January 1876, plaintiff filed his suit in the Small Cause Court. Held, that this suit was barred as the time during which he was prosecuting the former suit up to 3rd January 1876, could not be deducted. JYMAL SINGH v. BHAGWAN DASS. 35 P R 1876

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Section 15—concld.

3. And Schedule II, article 165—Award.

The plaintiff filed an application under section 327, Act VIII of 1859, to enforce an award. The application was presented to the Commissioner on 24th November 1876, who kept it till the 5th December 1876, on which date he sent it to the District Court. The limitation prescribed by article 165, Schedule II of the Limitation Act (IX of 1871), expired between those dates.

Held, that the plaintiff was not entitled to deduct the period his application was pending in the Commissioner's Court, under section 15 of Act IX of 1871, the application not being a "suit" within the meaning of that section, and therefore, that the application was barred. ABDUL REHMAN KHAN v. GULAM KADIR KHAN. 79 P R 1877

4. Suit instituted in wrong Court—Proceedings before Revenue Officer.

Plaintiff applied in 1875, in respect to the land in suit, to the Deputy Commissioner as Revenue Officer, to be settled with, on which proceedings were taken which remained pending some time. The present suit for possession was admittedly barred, unless the period during which those proceedings were pending could be excluded under section 15, Act IX of 1871, in computing the period of limitation.

Held, that the application of 1875 was not a suit founded upon the same right to sue as the present and in good faith instituted in a wrong Court, and, therefore, that the time during which the revenue proceedings were pending could not be excluded in computing the period of limitation. KHANA v. HOSSEIN KHAN. 52 P R 1878

Section 16.

—Act IV of 1872, section 29,—Stay of proceedings by injunction—Proceedings in bankruptcy.

By section 16, Act IX of 1871, in computing the period of limitation for any suit, "the commencement of which has been stayed by injunction, the time of the continuation of the injunction shall be excluded."

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Section 16—concld.

Held, that the time occupied by proceedings in bankruptcy must be excluded under that section with regard to the claim of a registered creditor, as section 29 of Act IV of 1872 operates by way of an injunction. WAZIR MAHOMED KHAN v. MAHOMED IMAM KHAN.

66 P R 1874

Section 19.

1. Fraud—Concealment by co-sharer.

The village of J. was divided into three pattis, A, L and B. In 1859, the proprietors of A and L having effected a division of certain lands common to both pattis, proceeded, without consulting the proprietors of patti B, to take up a portion of the shamilat-deh of the village J, and divided it amongst themselves, giving no share to the proprietors of patti B, who were entitled to a fourth share of the entire shamilat-deh. The portion thus appropriated was known by the appropriators to belong to the shamilat, but the proprietors of patti B were then ignorant of that fact and only discovered it in the year 1874, when consulting the village records for another purpose. Plaintiff, a member of patti A, to whose share the portion of the common land in question had fallen, held possession from 1859 until defendants, the proprietors of patti B, in 1874 discovered that the land was shamilat and ejected plaintiff. Held, that plaintiff's possession had not been adverse; that the confidence existing between co-shares, cast upon pattis A and L the duty of acquainting patti B with the fact that the land was shamilat; and that, therefore, there was fraud, which, under section 19 of Act IX of 1871, precluded the operation of the law of limitation as against defendants. HAMIR SINGH v. ROPO. 55 P R 1874

2. Fraud—Pre-emption—Omission to give notice of sale to pre-emptor—Concealment of sale.

N. and others, residents of Shah Ajmal, sold the well and land in suit in mauzah Faruka, which they did not personally cultivate.

In 1872 the entire property was under mortgage, half to K. S. and half to D. D.—D. D. was redeemed, and two-thirds of the well sold to K. S. and S. S. by deed executed on 23rd August and registered on 24th August 1872. The witness to the deed, two in number, were of strange villages (one of them J. K. being the mukhtar of the vendors), and were also witnesses to the registration. The remaining third share in the well was sold by deed in July 1874, and registered the same day, the witnesses both to the deed and registration being J. K. and a stranger from another village.

The yearly papers of 1872 showed as cultivators K. and A. and K. C. son of D. D., and for succeeding years K. and A.—K. C. lost possession in 1872, and K. and A. from that time paid rent to defendants, No visible

1681

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—
—contd.

Section 19—contd.

change of possession took place, except that K. C. ceased to cultivate, if, indeed, he ever actually did cultivate himself.

Plaintiff did not become aware of either sale until dakhil kharij took place, in January 1876, whereupon he instituted the present suit.

Held, that on the above facts, it was not shown that the plaintiff was kept from knowledge of his right to sue by means of fraud within the meaning of section 19 of the Limitation Act, IX of 1871, and, therefore, that the suit was barred.

When a sale of land subject to the right of pre-emption is made without previous notice to the pre-emptor, if the vendor and vendee intentionally conceal the fact of sale, the pre-emptor is kept from the knowledge of his right to sue by a fraud, of which the vendor and vendee are alike guilty; but the mere omission by a vendor to give due notice to a pre-emptor of a proposed sale, is not a fraud, even if the omission is intentional. MURAD v. BHAG SINGH.

46 P R 1879

Section 20.

See SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 62.

1. Where plaintiff sued one of the sureties of a bond, the cause of action on which accrued on 15th September 1868, and relied on a series of letters from defendant extending from June 14th 1870 to June 23rd 1872, as acknowledgments, (the claim against the principal debtor being barred at time of suit) held, that the said letters contained an "unqualified admission of defendant's liability" as still subsisting" within the meaning of section 20, Act IX of 1871, that one letter, dated 16th June 1871, being written within three years from the date on which the cause of action accrued, gave plaintiff a new period of limitation extending to June 16th 1874, whereas two letters of the 21st and 23rd June 1872, as acknowledgments, extended the period over three years more, i.e. to the latter half of June 1875, and therefore the suit having been instituted on 8th June 1875 was within time. MORICE v. THE SIMLA BANK.

2 P R 1878

2. Acknowledgment—Entry in Settlement Record—Mortgage—Redemption—Signature.

The mortgage sought to be redeemed took place in 1817. The suit was brought after the lapse of sixty years, but it was argued that limitation was saved by certain entries in the Settlement record prepared in 1875, i.e. within sixty years of the mortgage, which amounted to acknowledgments within the meaning of section 20, Act IX of 1871, the law in force when they were made.

The entries relied on were (a) in the Muntakhib or register of proprietors and holdings. In this the plaintiffs were described as mortgagors and the defendants as mortgagees of the plots in dispute, and the amount and conditions of the mortgage were

1682

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—
—contd.

Section 20—concld.

given in detail. There was no special signature to this entry, but the Wajib-ul-arz which followed immediately and was very short, bore the signatures of the mortgagors and mortgagees, and was headed with a note that all the proprietors had thoroughly understood and attested the entries of rights; (b) in the pedigree-table. Here it was shown that the village consisted of 5 families; defendants constituting family No. 1, and plaintiffs family No. 11 Under the plaintiffs' holding, the entry of the Muntakhib regarding the mortgage was repeated There was no separate signing of the entries relating to each holding, but there was a general signing at the end, and a special attestation by the defendants that they were responsible for the correctness of the pedigree-table. Opposite plaintiffs' holding there was a note that both proprietors had attested it.

The Divisional Judge held that the signatures were not proved to be of defendants and they did not appear from their position to relate specially to the entries reciting the mortgage. Held on appeal to the Chief Court that—(i) it was not very material whether the actual signatures were defendants' or not, for, if they were not, there could be no doubt that they were made by some official acting for the defendants with their full authority. Even if there were no signatures, the acknowledgment would be sufficient if it were shown that the entry was made by a person duly authorized by defendant; and.

(ii) that the signatures of defendants were intended as attestations of their proprietary rights in their own holdings as well as of their rights in plaintiffs' holdings in their capacity of mortgagees. They were in actual possession. They must have been present when the entries were made, and they could only have been made on their producing the mortgage-deeds. The defendants' family was most intimately connected with plaintiffs. There was the strongest probability that defendants would be perfectly acquainted with the entries relating to both holdings. It was not the case of a large village in the record of which a proprietor could not fairly be presumed to know anything beyond his own special entries, and, therefore, the case was distinguishable from No. 32 P. R. 1880, and 63 P. R. 1888. GUL MUHAMMAD v. AKBAR.

145 P R 1889

Section 21.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTION 20.

1. "Single bond"—Limitation—Interest in kind.

An instrument, after setting forth the consideration, proceeded: "I hereby execute a "bond of Rs. 33 in favour of Haji, with "condition to give him half the produce of "the land situated &c., as long as the sum "of Rs. 40 is not paid." Held, that the

1683

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—
contd.

Section 21—concld.

above instrument was a single bond within 2nd schedule, Act IX of 1871, clause 66, and that the receipt by payee or obligee of a portion of the produce of the land was equivalent to the receipt of interest within section 21 of Act IX of 1871. HAJI v. MUSSAMMAT HASAN.

6 P R 1874

2. Held, that receipt of the produce of mortgaged land is not equivalent to the receipt of interest within the meaning of section 21, Act IX of 1871, so as to keep the mortgage debt alive. RAM KISHEN v. NAWAB.

74 P R 1874

Section 23.

See SCHEDULE II, ARTICLES 41, 42.

Section 27.

—Easement—Right of way.

In a suit for an easement or right of way, the question for decision is whether the way has been openly and peaceably used and as of right without interruption for a period of 20 years ending within two years next before the institution of the suit. (Section 27, Act IX of 1871). Where it was found that the way was not used for more than ten years at most, held that the plaintiff's claim to a right of way failed. FATTEH v. HIMMAT.

25 P R 1878

Schedule II, article 6.

—Lease of grazing tax—Contract by owner of cattle trespassing to pay penalty—Limitation for suit for tax.

Plaintiffs as lessees of a chak were entitled to grazing fees (1 rupee for each male head of cattle and 1 rupee 8 annas for each female for the season) and to impound cattle found trespassing. The lease also provided that the plaintiffs should not impound cattle if three times the amount of the grazing fee were paid. Cattle belonging to defendants were caught trespassing in plaintiff's chak; and instead of impounding the cattle under their lease, the plaintiffs released them on the understanding or agreement that defendants would pay the grazing fee as if the cattle had been regularly grazing. Fourteen months afterwards plaintiffs sued for Rs. 141 under the agreement. Held, that the clause in plaintiffs' lease empowering the levy of an extra fee was a bye-law within the meaning of Schedule II, Article 6, of Act IX of 1871; but that in this case the bye-law had been superseded by a contract. Held also, that the contract was a penal contract, and that under it, according to section 74 of the Indian Contract Act, plaintiffs were entitled to reasonable compensation only, and not to the full amount agreed upon. Rs. 40 decreed accordingly. MERI LAL v. MUKHTA.

3 P R 1875

Schedule II, article 10.

—Pre-emption—Purchaser taking possession of different parts of the property at different times.

Limitation begins to run against a pre-emptor from the time that the purchaser takes possession; but where the purchaser

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Schedule II, article 10—contd.

takes possession of different portions of the land at different dates, limitation begins to run from the last date, when the purchaser is in possession of all the property. The claim of the pre-emptor is one and indivisible and he cannot be held barred as to one portion of the property and within time as to another; while to hold that the time began to run from the date when the first portion of the property was taken possession of, would lead to inconvenience and injustice. DEWA v. DIA RAM. 98 P R 1876

2. Actual possession—Pre-emption.

On 3rd February 1876. B, R. purchased a shop from P. The shop was occupied by a tenant who accepted B. R. as his landlord on the same date, and agreed to pay the rent to him. No formal deed of sale was executed or registered till April 1876, owing to the vendor P being in jail in execution of a decree, but the shop was verbally sold on 3rd February 1876, and a mortgage deed relating to the shop made over to the vendee B. R. In March 1877, the plaintiff instituted his suit for pre-emption.

Held, that the sale was complete on 3rd February 1876, that B. R. took actual possession" on that date within the meaning of article 10, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871, and that accordingly, the claim was barred by limitation. RAM DYAL v. BELI RAM. 28 P R 1878

3. Pre-emption—Actual possession—Sale of share in zamindari village already mortgaged to purchaser.

Where in a suit for pre-emption, the property sold was an undivided share of a zamindari village, which share was already mortgaged to the purchaser, held, that "actual possession," within the meaning of Art. 10, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871, was transferred by the vendor whose possession of the share was undisputed, on the delivery by him to the purchaser of a registered deed of sale which placed him (so far as the vendor could do so) in the same position as the vendor held at the time of the transfer of ownership, that is, in a position to demand in future the profits, which the vendor, but for the sale, would have been entitled to demand. HIMMA MUL v. RIKH LAL 160 P R 1879

4. Pre-emption—Sale of land in possession of lessee—"Actual possession" when taken by purchaser.

In a suit for pre-emption instituted on the 1st December 1880, in respect of a sale dated the 3rd March 1875, the plaintiffs alleged that limitation did not begin to run against them until May 1880, when the purchasers obtained possession, as the land had been in the possession of a lessee up to that date. It was found that it was clearly intended to give such possession as the nature of the thing sold admitted of at the time the sale took place, and that the property was completely conveyed to and vested in the purchaser, and that he obtained such possession as before the sale was enjoyed by the seller.

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Schedule II, article 10—concld.

Held, that "actual possession," within the meaning of art. 10, Schedule II of the Limitation Act of 1871, was given on the date of the deed of sale, and that the period of limitation prescribed by that article had expired before the 1st October 1877. Ram Dyal v. Bali Ram (No. 29 P. R. 1878, Civil) and Himma Mul v. Rikh Lal (No. 160 P. R. 1879, Civil) referred to. RAM SARN v. HIRDE. 65 P R 1883

Schedule II, article 15.

1. Act XX of 1866, section 23—"Proceeding other than a suit".

Held, that proceedings taken under section 53 of Act XX of 1866 to enforce payment of a specially registered obligation, were not a suit; and where such proceedings were taken in 1869, a suit instituted more than a year after the date of the decree in the summary proceedings, was barred by article 15, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871. JAMNA DAS v. MAHOMED ALI KHAN. 23 P R 1874

2. Section 246, Act VIII of 1859, Regular suit.

Plaintiff attached certain property in execution of a decree against K. B. (defendant 2). P. B. (defendant 1) objected under section 246, Civil Procedure Code. The case lasted several months, both sides being very dilatory, and at length the Court struck the case off the file and released the property from attachment on the 24th December 1872. This was done in the presence and with the consent of the decree-holder's vakil on the understanding that the decree-holder could subsequently take action on his decree, who afterwards again attached the property. P. B. again objected, and on the 18th June 1873 the house was released from attachment and the decree-holder was directed to bring a regular suit. The present suit was brought within one year from 18th June 1873.

Held, that the year allowed for the suit (15th Article, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871) began to run from the 18th June 1873, and not December 24th, 1872, and therefore plaintiff's suit was not barred. HYDER BAKSH v. PIR BAKSH. 43 P R 1875

Schedule II, articles 41 and 42, and section 23.

Mahommedan Law—Husband and wife—Suit for restitution of conjugal rights, and for recovery against person detaining wife—Demand and refusal.

Held, by the Full Bench, that, in a suit between Mahomedans, when a husband claims as against his wife restitution of conjugal rights, and as against the person detaining her recovery of his wife, such suit being instituted more than two years after demand and refusal (a) of restitution of conjugal rights, and (b) of possession of his wife, the relation of husband and wife still subsisting, the suit is not barred (a) as against the wife under article 42, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871, by reason of section 23 of that Act, but is barred (b) against the other defendant under article 41.

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Schedule II, articles 41 and 42 and section 23—concld.

In the case of the other defendant, however, it is open to the husband to make a fresh demand of possession of his wife, and if it be not complied with, to institute a fresh suit and enforce his right, notwithstanding the dismissal of the former suit. GHIZNI v. MUSSAMMAT MEHRAN. 60 P R 1879

Schedule II, article 44,

And Articles 143 and 145—Claim on ground of old proprietary right—Discontinuance of possession—Farm—Khana khali estate—Proprietary right granted to farmer under Notification No. 4158 of Govt., N. W. P., dated November 28th, 1851, and under Regulation VII of 1822—Award under Regulation VII of 1822—Limitation in suit to contest such award—Regulations XXXVI of 1803, VII of 1822, and IX of 1825, effect of—Malikana, right to—Effect of omission to fix malikana—Adverse possession by farmer.

Plaintiffs' predecessors in title held the land in suit in the qasba of Rewari, then under the Government of the N. W. P., as a revenue-free tenure up to 1838. In that year regular Settlement proceedings commenced, and the said lands were resumed. Plaintiffs' predecessors assertee no proprietary rights though called upon to do so, and were recorded as hereditary tenants. No offer of Settlement, as far as appeared, was made to them, but Governmnt settled the land as a khana khali estate with a farmer, ignoring the title of the plaintiffs' predecessors. Subseqently in 1853 proprietary rights in the land were granted to the then farmer, the father of the present defendant, by the Collector acting under the provisions of Regulation VII of 1822 and Notification No. 4158 of the Government N. W. P., dated November 28th, 1851.

In a suit by plaintiffs to recover proprietary possession of the above land, held, that assuming plaintiffs' predecessors to have held proprietary possession up to 1838, from the time when the farmer was put into possession under his lease, they discontinued their proprietary possession, and Government was in possession through its leasee, and time began to run against the excluded proprietors within the meaning of Act IX of 1871, Schedule II, article 143, notwithstanding that plaintiffs and their predecessors may have retained the actual occupation of their land, such occupation not being a proprietary possession: and that as more than 12 years had elapsed since such discontinuance of possession, without any intermediate recognition of the plaintiffs' proprietary right, before the institution of the present suit, the suit was barred under the above article, no new cause of action arising under the circumstances of the case to plaintiffs on the expiryof the period of the farm.

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Schedule II, article 44—contd.

When upon the occasion of a Settlement a proprietor is in proprietary possession of his estate, and asserts his proprietary title, and it is formally recognized, but, in consequence of his refusal to engage for the revenue, he is excluded from the enjoyment of his estate, which is therefore transferred by the Government to a farmer for a definite period, there is not such a discontinuance of possession or dispossession as would support a plea of limitation, under article 143 of Schedule II of Act IX of 1871, to a suit brought at the expiration of such period for recovery of proprietary possession.

But when a proprietor in possession of his estate at the time of Settlement omits to assert his proprietary title, and it is in consequence ignored, and when proprietary possession of his land is given to a stranger by the Government, even for a limited period, in consequence of his omission to claim the incidental right of engaging for the revenue assessed upon his land, in such a case there has been such a discontinuance of possession by the owner, accompanied by possession by the farmer, or such a dispossession of the owner as would bar a suit for the recovery of proprietary possession brought by the latter at the expiration of the period of farm.

In the former case no cause of action has accrued upon the exclusion of the owner; in the latter case there has. Although the law of limitation (Act IX of 1871) fixes the date from which the period of limitation is to run upon the assumption that there is a cause of action, that date is not in every class of case identical with the date of the cause of action upon which the particular relief sought became available, as was the case under Act XIV of 1859, section 1, clause 12. The terms of article 143, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871, only require that the plea should ever a dispossession or discontinuance of possesion 12 years before suit, and the plea is not answered by a replication that the plaintiff could not have recovered immediate possession by suit during the period of farm in a case where the discontinuance of possession or dispossession of the plaintiff afforded grounds for an action to protect his title.

When a Collector, acting in exercise of his powers under section 20 of Regulation VII of 1882 has adjudicated upon a claim to proprietary right of lands in a khana khali estate, such adjudication is as between the parties contesting between themselves before the Collector an award by the Collector within the meaning of Act XIII of 1848, or Act XIV of 1859, section 1, clause 6 (re-enacted in Act IX of 1871. Schedule II, article 44), and becomes conclusive between such parties, unless within the period of 3 years prescribed by the above enactments, a suit is instituted in the Civil Courts in order to contest the justice of such award or to recover any property comprised therein. But a declaration by the Collector proprio motu that a farmer is proprietor and an order that he be so registered, or an order declining to investigate a claim is not an award which, unless contested, becomes final.

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Schedule II, article 44—contd.

The provisions of Regulations XXXVI of 1803, VII of 1822, and IX of 1825, so far as they bear upon the present case, discussed.

The brief result of these Regulations is that under them the proprietor of land, whose title is recognized, is primarily entitled to engage for the revenue irrespective of the nature of the grant under which he may have held the estate free of revenue; that in the event of his refusal to engage, he is entitled to malikana, at a percentage on the jama, but under certain circumstances, one of which is the cultivation or leasing of the land by himself while paying revenue to the farmer, he may loss his right to this allowance.

The mere omission to fix malikana is not necessarily conclusive against the owner's right to recover possession on the expiration of the period of farm. When malikana is fixed, it is a clear recognition of the owner's title, whether or not his title has been recognized in any other manner. When malikana has not been fixed, the omission is only part of the evidence that there was a discontinuance or a dispossession sufficient to answer the action. If there was otherwise a recognition of proprietary title, or if the omission is othervise explained, the mere omission to fix malikana is not fatal to the plaintiff's right to recover.

Per Plowden, J.—Semble—Under some circumstances the possession of a farmer may become adverse to the proprietor of the land held by him in farm, provided the proprietor has notice that the farmer claims a proprietary title.

Per Barkely, J.—Assuming that the land claimed were farmed in consequence of the proprietors' refusal to engage, the farm was terminated by the farmers' acceptance of a proprietary title in 1853, which was conferred upon him after an enquiry into the proprietary rights in Rewari, to which every publicity seems to have been given, and in which a number of claimants had come forward. This was an act adverse to the plaintiffs' title, of which it is not shown that they or their predecessors in title or any of them, had not notice, and the circumstance that they not having accepted the Settlement when offered them could not claim to be settled with as proprietors until the expiration of the term of Settlement is not enough to prevent limitation from beginning to run against them from 1853, as they would have been entitled to sue to have the grant of proprietary right declared to convey no title to the lands claimed by them. In this case their suit would have been barred in 1865, under Act XIV of 1859. Phula v. Krishna (No. 10 P. R. 1874, Civil); Sarfaraz

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Schedule II, article 44—concld.

Ali v. Asid Ali No. 63 P R 1875, Civil), Rura v, Bhola C. A. No 261 of 1874), Sheo Singh v. Baj Nath Sahai (C. A. No. 918 of 1876), Ram Chand v. Khushwaqt Rai (C. A. No 463 of 1877), and Imdad Ali v. Amir Khan (C. A. No. 1455 of 1878) referred to. LUTF ALI v. KHUSHWAKAT RAI. 41 P R 1881

Schedule II, article 62.

1. Accounts stated—Contract in writing—Limitation.

Defendants were indebted to A. S. through whom plaintiffs claimed; and on the 11th June, 1864, A. S. being then dead and his widow in possession of his assets, a balance was struck amounting to Rs. 3,782-4-5, and an entry made in the book of the firm of A. S. by one of the defendants (but by which of them was not proved or alleged) as follows: Lekha Bhai "Kanhya Lall, Kothee Mal, Maya "Mal, Baki, deoni kaddi Mithi Jeth Sudi "Ekkam Sumbat 1921, Rs. 3,782-4-6" This account was reduced by payments made from time to time; down to 14th June 1870, amounting in all to about Rs. 2,480. These payments were entered in the book of A. S. by one of the defendants. For the balance, with interest, plaintiffs sued within three years from 14th June 1870, contending that the entry of 11th June 1864 was "a contract in writing," and that the payments down to 14th June 1870 kept the debt alive under section 21, Act IX of 1871, for three years from the last mentioned date.

Held, that the suit was barred as the entry of 11th June 1864 did not constitute a contract in writting, for the reasons that a contract could not be said to be reduced to writting if, in order to prove it, any oral evidence was required (in addition to that required to proved in hand-writting) and that the entry question required oral proof of the persons bound by it and the person entitled to receive payment. NARAIN DASS v. KANHYA LALL.

48 P R 1874

2. Accounts stated—Implied promise to pay.

A balance entered as struck in the books of a creditor, if really struck in the presence of the debtor, although not signed by the latter, is evidence of an account stated on which the law will imply a promise to pay; and the period for suing is three years from the date of striking the balance, under Schedule II, article 62, Act IX of 1871. SHEO DYAL MAL v. SHAMAS-UD-DIN. 61 P R 1874

3. Account stated.

The admission by the defendant to a third party in regard to a debt secured by a mortgage, is not a statement of account constituting a cause of action under article 62, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871. RAM KISHEN v. NAWAB. 74 P R 1874

4 Account stated—Promise to pay.

Held, by BOULNOIS and LINDSAY JJ. (MELVILL J., dissenting,) that the statement of

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Schedule I, article 62—concld.

an account gives a cause of action, to be brought within three years from the stating of the account, but only with regard to those items of account that are within three years prior to striking the balance.

Per MELVILL, J.—It is not open to the Court to go behind the statement of account in order to see whether the items constituting the balance struck were more than three years old when the account was stated; all the items are capable of being included in the stated account. SAWAI v. BADAN SINGH.
14 P R 1875

5. Account stated—Items in account more than 3 years old.

Striking a balance, or stating accounts brings with limitation items that were in themselves beyond limitation. SAWUN v. BALMOKUND. 6 P R 1877

6. Held, that an account stated gives a fresh starting point for limitation under article 62, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, 1871, whether some of the items in that account are or are not more than three years old. ATMA RAM v. JUMMA KHAN. 41 P R 1877

7. Account stated.

Held, by the full Bench, that a statement of account does not give a fresh starting point unless, 1st, it is in writing and satisfies the requirements of section 20, Act IX of 1871, or, 2nd, amounts to a new contract between the parties, in which case it furnishes a new cause of action. RATTA RAM v. MUSSAMMAT NANO. 3 P R 1878

8. Acknowledgment—Items barred by limitation.

A Court of first instance admitted in evidence an acknowledgment of a debt, which embraced items more than 3 years old and consequently barred by limitation. Held, that the Appellate Court was bound to enquire and decide whether only items not then barred by limitation were comprised in the balance struck, which was acknowledged by defendants to be due.

A written acknowledgment is only effectual under section 20, Act IX of 1871, in giving a fresh period of limitation for a debt when it is signed before the expiration of the period prescribed for the debt. DYAL SINGH v. MANGAL MAL. 28 P R 1878

Schedule II, article 66.

—Tamassuk—Money lent under agreement to repay on demand.

Plaintiff sued defendant upon an instrument worded as follows: "Whereas I [defendant] "have borrowed the sum of Rs. 10 at interest "of 2 rupees per cent per mensem from "Lalla Shadi Ram [plaintiff], for the purpose "of sowing melons, I do hereby make this "agreement that I will pay the above sum "with interest on demand without demur,"

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Schedule II, article 66—concld.

&c. Held, that the instrument was a single bond within Art, 66, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871, and that the period for suing upon it was three years from the date of execution of the bond. SHADI RAM v. ABDAL RAHMAN.
3 P R 1874

Schedule II, article 75.

—Instalment bond—Waiver.

Plaintiff sued upon a bond under which defendant was to pay Rs. 75 by monthly instalments of Re. 1 each, and in default of payment of one instalment, the whole amount was to become due. The bond was executed 4th January 1871, and defendant failed to pay the first three instalments as they fell due, but made the following payments:—On 11th April 1871 Rs. 4; on 16th September, 1871, Rs. 4; on 22nd October 1873, Rs. 13; on 23rd May 1874, Rs. 10; and on 28th November, 1874, Rs. 10. Held, that plaintiff had waived the benefit of the provision in the bond, under Art. 75, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871, and that limitation ran from 28th November 1874. MUSSAMMAT GOLAB DEVI v. MUSSAMMAT KISHEN DEVI.
52 P R 1876

Schedule II, article 92.

See PUNAB TENANCY ACT, SECTION 32.

Schedule II, article 95.

Suit to recover value of cattle wrongfully and fraudulently received by defendants.

Plaintiff sued to recover the value of cattle wrongfully and fraudulently received by defendants, representing themselves as agents of S. and appropriated by them to their own use. Held, that the suit was one coming under Art. 95, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871, and that limitation began to run from the time when the alleged fraud became known to the plaintiff. BUDHA SINGH v. HIRA
19 P R 1878

Schedule II, article 117.

1. Contract in writing—Registration—Contract signed by one party only.

Plaintiff and defendant made an agreement in October 1869, for the cutting and carting of wood by the former for the use of the latter. The agreement was reduced to writing and signed by the plaintiff only. It was then registered and delivered over to the defendant, who retained possession of it. In January, 1874, plaintiff sued defendant upon the agreement for certain breaches. It was held by the Lower Courts that the limitation for the suit was three years only, as quoad the defendant the contract was not one "in writing registered," he not having signed it. Held, by the Chief Court, that the contract was as to both parties to it, a "contract in writing registered," and that the limitation for the suit was six years, under Art. 117, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871, SHER MAHOMED v. BERTOLA. 6 P R 1875

2. Bond registered by some of the executants only.

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Schedule II, article 117—concld.

Where a bond is registered by some of the executants but not by all, the period of limitation as against those who were parties to the registration is six years. PANDIT KASHI NATH v. PANJAB SINGH.
13 P R 1876

Schedule II, article 118.

—Suit for correction of Settlement Records—Government necessary party to suit.

Plaintiffs sued on the allegation that they were in possession, as proprietors, of certain lands, which were recorded, erroneously as they alleged, as the property of defendants, and they prayed that the Settlement record might be amended and their own names entered. The Settlement was concluded 15 or 16 years prior to the present suit.

Held, that the limitation for such a suit is, under Act IX of 1871, Schedule II, Art. 118, six years, to be reckoned from the date of the entry, or, having regard to section 20, Act XXXIII of 1871, from the date when the record of rights was sanctioned; and that in either view, the suit was out of time, and the right to the particular relief sought, barred.

Held, further, that Government was a necessary party to the suit as framed. FAZL DAD KHAN v. MEHNDI. 79 P R 1879

Schedule II, article 132.

—Suit for money charged upon immovable property.

A suit "for money charged upon immovable property" (Art. 132, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871), means a suit directed to enforcing the charge and not merely a suit for money due under an instrument which also charges immovable property. The limitation for the former suit is 12 years; for the latter 3 if the instrument is not registered, and 6, if it is registered. SHANKAR DAS v. GHASITA. 73 P R 1876

Schedule II, article 143.

See LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871), SCHEDULE II, ART. 44.
See TENANCY ACT, SECTION 25.

Schedule II, article 143.

1. Ouster suit to recover possession.

The law does not compel a tenant with right of occupancy who has been involuntarily dispossessed or ejected, to sue for recovery of possession within one year of the ouster; he has ordinarily twelve years within which to bring his suit, KHATIL v. SHER ZAMAN; ILAHI BUKSH v. AKBUR; and SAHIB RAI v. KHAIR SHAH.
80 P R 1876
46 P R 1873
19 P R 1876

2. Abandonment of occupancy rights—Recovery of land from which tenant has been illegally ejected, Suit for—Delay in bringing suit

Held, that there is no rule of law that a tenant with rights of occupancy, who has been illegally dispossessed by his landlord, is bound to sue forthwith for recovery of possession, and that, if he does not do so and his landlord makes arrangements for the cultivation, the tenant's right of occupancy is extinguished.

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)— contd.

Schedule II, article 143—concld.

Held, further, following Civil Judgment No. 80, Punjab Record, 1876, that a tenant with rights of occupancy, who has been forcibly ejected, may sue within twelve years for recovery of possession of the land of which he has been dispossessed. JAMAL-UD-DIN v. SADULLA. 54 P R 1879

Schedule II, article 148.

1. Mortgage—Acknowledgment by one of several mortgagees.

Certain property was mortgaged to A. A. M. who took possession under the mortgage. Subsequently, A. A. M's interest in the mortgage descended to M. B. and G. M. in different shares. Before the mortgagor's claim to redeem had become barred by limitation, G. M. gave the mortgagor an acknowledgment of his right to redeem in respect of the whole property. After the period of limitation reckoned from the date of the mortgage had run out, but within 60 years from the date of G. M's. acknowledgment, the mortgagor sued M. B. and G. M. for redemption of the whole property. Held, that the claim was barred by limitation.

Where there is but one single mortgage to a number of persons, an acknowledgment by one of such persons cannot, under article 148, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871, give a new period of limitation in respect to a portion or a share of the mortgaged property. It must be absolutely without effect or give a new period of limitation in respect of the whole property. Held, therefore, that the acknowledgment by G. M. was not sufficient to bring the claim within limitation. The words "by the mortgagee or some "person claiming under him" in Article 148, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871, mean some one of the persons or aggregate of persons who from time to time by purchase, inheritance or otherwise may have been in a position to claim under, i.e., to represent the mortgagee.

Per FITZPATRICK, J.—Semble. Where a single mortgage is really a number of mortgages of different properties to different persons, executed in the same deed, the transaction will be treated as a number of different mortgages, for the purposes of article 148, Schedule II of Act IX of 1871, and an acknowledgment by one of the mortgagees in respect of the property mortgaged to him will enable the mortgagor to take advantage of the acknowledgment for the purposes of limitation as against such mortgagee. MUSSAMMAT MAH BIBI v. MOTAN MAL.

61 P R 1877

2 Redemption of mortgage—Acknowledgment—Signature—Seal—Mark—Signature by

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)— contd.

Schedule II, article 148—contd.

touching the top of a pen—Secondary evidence of acknowledgment.

Held, that secondary evidence is admissible to prove a written acknowledgment by a mortgagee under article 148, Schedule II of the limitation Act, 1871, when such written acknowledgment is lost.

Held, also, that signing does not include sealing, and therefore, that an acknowledgment which was only sealed by the mortgagee would not give a new starting point for limitation under Article 148, Schedule II, of the Limitation Act, 1871.

Held also, that an acknowledgment by a mark or a signature by touching the top of the pen would be a sufficient signature within the meaning of article 148, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, 1871. DEOTA v KESHO. 93 P R 1877

3. Acknowledgment of mortgage—Admission in deposition signed by mortgagee—Elder brother acting on behalf of younger brother.

In a deposition in writing recorded in 1857 in a previous suit, and signed by the mortgagee K. M. he admitted the title of his mortgagor. To that suit, R. co-mortgagee was no party, but it was found that, in accordance with the practice in those days K. M. as head of the family was acting for R. his younger brother. In a suit instituted in 1877, for redemption of mortgage, held, that the admission in the deposition of 1857 signed by K. M. was a sufficient acknowledgment of the title of the mortgagor within the meaning of article 148, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, 1871, and that, as the admission of 1857 was made by K. M. on his own behalf, and as agent of his brother R. the claim was within limitation. KHAIR MUHAMMAD v. AHMUDIN.

78 P R 1878

4. Acknowledgment of mortgage—Entry in Summary Settlement—Person "claiming under" the mortgagee—Sub-mortgagor.

In a suit for redemption of part of the property mentioned in a deed of mortgage, instituted after the lapse of more than 60 years from the date of the mortgage, the plaintiffs relied upon two entries in two separate records of summary Settlements as acknowledgments within the meaning of Art, 148, Schedule II of Act IX of 1871. It appeared that at some date subsequent to the original mortgage a sub-mortgage had been made of the property in suit, which was afterwards redeemed. The first entry relied upon mentioned the property in question as under mortgage to the said sub-mortgagee and though the particular entry was not signed, among the signatures at the end of the Khewat was that of one of the representatives of one of the original mortgagees. With regard to this entry, it appeared from the Khewat that there were other entries in which the person signing as above was interested.

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)— contd.

Schedule II, article 148—contd.

Held, with regard to this entry, that it could not avail the plaintiffs, as the signature above alluded to at the end of the Khewat among a mass of other signatures could not be held to be a signature to the particular entry above described with which it was not apparently in any way connected, and which did not upon the face of it purport to affect the subscriber at all.

The second entry relied upon mentioned the mortgage and the sub-mortgage : the entry itself was not signed, but at the end of the Khewat appeared the signature of the sub-mortgagee.

Held, that this entry also was not an acknowledgment signed by the mortgagee, or a person claiming under him within the meaning of the Limitation Act, as assuming that the signature of the sub-mortgagee related to the entry, a sub-mortgagee could not be said to be " claiming under " the mortgagee, so that an acknowledgment of the original mortgagee's title in writing signed by him would bind the original mortgagee.

The words " or person claiming under " him " in Art. 148, Schedule II of Act IX of 1871, contemplate the extinction of the original mortgagee, and his representation by another person, to whom his rights as mortgagee have been transferred, and who is substituted for the original mortgagee quoad the mortgagor. LALA MAL v. GHULAM MAHOMED. 32 P R 1880

5. Suit for redemption of mortgage—Effect of acknowledgment by one of two mortgagees—Acknowledgment by agent.

In a suit for redemption of mortgage, held, that an acknowledgment by an agent cannot be held to be the acknowledgment by the mortgagee required by Article 148, Schedule II of Act IX of 1871, or the corresponding section of Act XIV of 1859. Hakim Devi Dyal v. Prab Dyal (No. 85 P. R. 1880) followed. Khair Muhammad v. Ahmudin (No. 78 P. R. 1878) doubted.

Held, further, that an acknowledgment made by one of two mortgagees alone is of no effect to save limitation, even in respect of a portion of the mortgaged property, in cases where the mortgage is a single transaction.

Mussammat Mah Bibi v. Motan Mal (No. 61 P. R. 1877) followed. HAKIKAT RAI v GANGA DAS. 157 P R 1888

6. Suit for redemption of mortgage—Acknowledgment of the title of the mortgagor by a person claiming under the mortgagee.

In a suit for the redemption of a mortgage made in 1824 by the ancestor of the plaintiff to the grandfather of the defendants Nos. 1 to 3, the plaintiff contended that the right of redemption was not barred as the father of the defendants Nos. 1 to 3 had acknowledged his right of redemption both in the settlement records of 1854 and 1872, and also in a written statement filed by him in a Civil suit in 1873 The defendants urged that as under Hindu Law they had a vested interest at their birth in the mortgage and were co-parceners with their father, his admission was not sufficient to save the plaintiff's right being barred by limitation under Article 148 of Schedule II of Act IX of 1871.

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Schedule II, article 148—concld.

Held, that the acknowledgment of the father was sufficient to save limitation under article 148 of Schedule II, as he was the sole heir to his father, the original mortgagee, and must therefore be regarded as a person claiming under the mortgagee, and none the less so because his own sons at their birth acquired as against him certain vested rights which, though partaking of a proprietary character, lacked the incident of dominion. BHAWANI DAS AND OTHERS v. MUHAMMAD YUSAF.

62 P R 1900

Schedule II, article 167.

1. Schedule II, article 167—Execution of decree.

A obtained a decree for money lent against B and C in March 1864. In July 1866, a certificate of non-execution of the decree was sent to Calcutta. In December 1868, a suit was brought by A against B and C on the unsatisfied decree of 1864; and on the 15th May, 1869, B's name was removed from the record as he had gone to England. In November 1869, an action was brought at Westminster against B upon the decree of 1864, but A did not go to trial, doubting B's means of paying. On the 15th May 1872, application was made in the Court in India to execute the decree of 1864, against B. The Lower Courts rejected the application as being barred by time. Held, by the Chief Court, that the proceedings taken by A kept the decree alive under Schedule II, Art. 167, Act IX of 1871. DELHI AND LONDON BANK v. PLOWDEN. 5 P R 1875

2. Alteration of decree by agreement.

Plaintiff obtained a money decree in 1860, and in 1868 applied for execution. He and defendant then informed the Court that they had agreed that the decree should be paid by certain instalments: and the case was struck off on March 8th, 1869. In December 1872, plaintiff applied for execution alleging that the instalments had not been paid according to the agreement. This and several subsequent applications were struck off by reason of the plaintiff not pressing them. In December 1874, he again applied for execution. Held, that plaintiff had not taken any steps required by law to keep alive the decree as altered by agreement in 1869, and the application of December 1874 was barred by time. DWARKA DAS v. RAM SARN 46 P R 1876

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—contd.

Schedule II, article 167—contd.

3. Application to enforce decree.—

Per BOULNOIS and LINDSAY, JJ.—An application to the Court that passed the decree for a certificate of non-satisfaction and to transmit a copy of the decree to another Court, under section 285, Act VIII of 1859, is in itself a sufficient application to enforce or keep in force the decree within Art. 167, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871; it is not necessary to bring the process to the knowledge or notice of the judgment-debtor.

Per CAMPBELL, J. The object of the legislature was to bring to the notice of the judgment-debtor that proceedings were being taken against him; and therefore a mere application for a certificate of non-satisfaction does not keep the decree alive. SIMLA BANK v. TEAL.

51 P R 1876

4. Decree was obtained in 1863, and in 1864 the parties filed an agreement, which the Court recognized, that defendant should pay half-yearly instalments, and in default of payment of two consecutive instalments, the whole should be due; the first instalment to be paid on 25th July 1864. Instalments were paid for some time, but on 15th June 1872 plaintiff, applied for execution in respect of the instalment due January 1872; on July 3rd, notice was drawn up under section 216, Act VIII of 1859, on the 9th July, the notice was given to the peon for service; and on 12th July, the Nazir reported failure of service; on 15th July, the case was struck off. On July 12th, 1875, plaintiff applied for execution of the full balance then due, certifying to payments made up to August 1872. Held, that the last para. but one of Art. 167, Schedle II, Act IX of 1871, applied to the case, and that the application of July 12th, 1875, was barred by time. SULEKH CHAND v. AJUDHIA PRESHAD.

89 P R 1876

5. Decree providing that execution shall be stayed for a certain period—Date from which limitation beg ins to run.

On 4th November 1873, M. M. obtained a dercee against R., but the decree provided that execution should be stayed until a cross-suit, lodged by R., should be decided. The su it lodged by R. was finally decided on 7th March 1876, and M. M, on 4th April 1877 (within 3 years from the date of the final decision in the cross-suit, but after 3 years from the date of the decree obtained by M. M.,) applied for execution.

Held by LINDSAY AND PLOWDEN JJ. (SMYTH J. dissenting,) that when a decree is passed which by its terms is not to be executed till a future date, the date of the decree, and not the date when it becomes enforceable is to be taken in computing the period of limitation under Clause I, Article 167, Schedule II. Act IX of 1871, and therefore, that the application of 4th April 1877 was barred.

Per SMYTH, J. contra. In the case of a decree which by its terms is not to be executed till a future date, "the date of the decree," in the sense in which those words are used in Clause I, Article 167, should be taken to be the date on which the decree becomes enforceable, and not the date on which the decree was passed. ROBSON v. MAHOMED MAHSON. 43 P R 1878

LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871)—concld.

Schedule II, article 167—concld.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877).

Sections 1, 3.

1. Act IX of 1871, sections 1, 2, 4—Application for execution made after 1*st October* 1877.

The judgment of the Privy Council in Mangal Parshad Dichit v. Grija Kant Lahiri Chowdhry (L. R. 8 I. A. 123, S. C. I. L. R. 8 Calc. 51) explained.

The principal on which the decision in the above case was based was "that an application "for execution of decree is an application in "the suit in which the decree was obtained." It was therefore held that section 1 of Act IX of 1871, which enacted that nothing contained in section 2 or in Part II should apply to suits instituted before the 1st April 1873, excluded the operation of sections 2 and 4 and of the 2nd Schedule. The word "suit" is, however, now interpreted in section 3 of Act XV of 1877 as not including an appeal or an application and section 1 declares that the Act shall come into force on the 1st day of October 1877, and does not exclude from the operation of any part of the Act applications arising out of suits instituted before that date. The limitation for applications made after 1st October 1877 is therefore, under the terms of section 4, that prescribed in the 2nd Schedule annexed to Act XV of 1877, and the decision of the Judicial Committee does not apply, as in the case before it the question was whether Act XIV of 1859 or Act IX of 1871 was applicable, and the effect of the subsequent alteration of the law by Act XV of 1877 was not considered. BANESS v. TURTON. 23 P R 1883

2. Execution proceedings—Order passed on objection by judgment-debtor—Plea of limitation raised during pendency of same proceedings—Limitation Acts, XIV of 1859, IX of 1871, and XV of 1877—Application for execution filed after 1*st October* 1877 governed by Act of 1877.

Certain proceedings in execution of decree having been struck off on 21st February 1875 a fresh application was brought on 1st February 1878, which, together with a subsequent application, dated 10th March 1880, went off in default. Another application was filed in April 1881, and whilst this was still pending an order for attachment of a house was passed on 28th June 1881, and an objection by the judgment-debtor that he had paid in full was dismissed on the 27th October. While these same proceedings were still pending, the judgment-debtor for the first time filed an objection on 5th December 1881 to the effect that the application of 1st February 1878 was barred as out of limitation.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Sections 1, 3—concld.

Held, that as the first application barred by limitation was made in 1878, after Act XV of 1877 came into force, the definition of "suit" in section 3 of that Act, which excludes applications made it impossible to treat that application as a stage in a suit governed by Act XIV of 1859, and that in consequence of that definition, Act XV of 1877 was the law applicable to the proceedings in question. FATTAH MUHAMMAD v. LALJI MAL. 143 P R 1883

Section 2.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTION 20. 62 P R 1881

Section 3

—And 2nd Schedule, articles 140, 142, 144 —Alienation by sonless proprietor—Starting point of limitation—Plaintiff—Right to sue.

See SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 144 infra. Also RIGHT TO SUE. 18 P R 1895

Section 4.

1. And Sections 5 and 12.—Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), section 541—Appeal presented without required copies of orders—Appeal when instituted.

B. S. presented to the Commissioner of Amritsar, within time, a petition of appeal accompanied by a translation of the judgment of the first Court, but without a copy of the decree or of the original judgment itself, and the appeal was returned to be presented again with the necessary copies required by section 541, Act X of 1877. It was again presented about 15 days out of time, and was rejected as barred by time.

Held, that the presentation of the memorandum of appeal unaccompanied by the requisite copies was not such a presentation as would bring the appeal within time. An appeal under the Civil Procedure Code is not presented within the meaning of section 5 of the Limitation Act, unless it be accompanied by the copies prescribed by the Code. BHAG SINGH v. JHANDA SINGH. 7 P R 1879

2. Appeal when presented.

Held, per Plowden J. (following 7 P. R. 1879) that an appeal is not presented within the meaning of section 4 of the Limitation Act, 1877, unless the memorandum of appeal be accompanied by a copy of the decree and both be presented within the prescribed period. NIHAL SINGH v. ISHAR SINGH. 147 P R 1879

3. Suit for pre-emption—Plaint filed within one year of the date of the sale impeached —Return of plaint to be presented again when a clue to defendants could be found—Effect of such irregular return of plaint.

In a suit for pre-emption in which limitation was pleated, it appeared that the plaint

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 4—contd.

was presented within one year from the date of the sale impeached, but was returned to plaintiff, after summonses had been issued and defendants could not be found with a direction to plaintiff to present it again when a clue to the defendants was found. It was again presented after more than a year had elapsed from the date of the sale

Held, that the suit was within time, the return of the plaint temporarily being an irregularity of the Court not warranted by law, which could not operate to the injury of the plaintiff, inasmuch as the law of limitation does not apply to that which the Legislature did not contemplate, viz., a second presentation of a plaint which had once been received and was irregularly committed to the custody of the plaintiff, not being either rejected or returned for amendment. TORABAZ v. PIR BAKHSH. 22 P R 1887

4. Presentation of appeal unaccompanied by a copy of the decree.

Held, that the presentation of a memorandum of appeal accompanied by a copy of the judgment, but not of the decree of the lower Court, is not a proper presentation of the appeal within the meaning of section 4 of the Limitation Act.

Nihal Singh v. Isher Singh (No. 147 P. R. 1879), followed. AKBAR ALI v. RAM CHAND. 53 P R 1887

5. Limitation—Plaint insufficiently stamped when deemed to have been presented—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 54—Limitation Act, 1877, section 4.

A plaint filed within the prescribed period of limitation was admitted and registered. Subsequently, it was discovered, on objection by defendant, that the claim was undervalued, and that the plaint was not sufficiently stamped, but when this transpired the period of limitation prescribed for the suit had expired. The lower Court therefore dismissed the suit as time-barred.

Held, that this order could not be maintained as it was the duty of the Court, under the above circumstances, to require the plaintiff to correct the valuation of the relief sought within a fixed time in accordance with the provisions of section 54 (a) of the Civil Procedure Code, and that the case must be returned to the lower Court for that purpose.

Held, further, that if the plaintiff complied with such order, the suit would be within time, as the date of the institution of the suit for purposes of limitation must be taken to be the date of the first presentation of the plaint. JHANDA KHAN v. BAHADUR ALI. 3 P R 1893

6. Suit, institution of—"Plaint presented to the proper officer"—Plaint presented to proper officer within limitaiion and returned to plaintiff by such officer with order endors- ed thereon to present it to Subordinate Court deputed to try the suit—No subsequent presentaiion within time of limitation—Limitation Act, 1887, section 4 "Material irregularity."

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877—contd.

Section 4—contd.

Plaintiff on the 25th July 1892, filed his plaint, which was on that date admittedly within time, in the Court of the District Judge, Kangra, who endorsed an order thereon that "the case be made over to the Munsif of Kangra" and returned the plaint to the plaintiff that he might himself take it to the Munsif's Court. Plaintiff, however, did not present the plaint to the Munsif till the 11th November 1892, on which date limitation applicable to the suit had expired. The District Judge, on appeal from the Munsif's order decreeing plaintiff's claim, dismissed the suit on the ground that the claim was time-barred.

Held, that the plaint having been originally presented to the proper officer within limitation was not liable to dismissal Because, having been improperly given back to the plaintiff by that officer, it was not again presented to the Court deputed to try the case until the period of limitation had expired, and that the District Judge had committed "a material irregularity" in applying a rule of limitation not contained in any provision of the Limitation Act. SETH THANDI RAM v. MAHDIA. 7 P R 1895

7. Suit against minor—Appointment of guardian ad litem—Suit when instituted.

Held, that a suit to recover money due on a bond in which two of the defendants were minors and the application for the appointment of a guardian ad litem to the minor defendants was presented two days after the suit was filed, must be deemed to have been instituted against them when the plaint was filed, and not when the application for the appointment of the guardian ad litem was made, as the Code of Civil Procedure does not require that the application should be made with the plaint and from part of it.

In re Moti Ram v. Rupa Chand (11 Bom. H. C. R. 21), and Khem Karan v. Har Dayal (I. L. R. All. 37), followed. IMAMI v. SADDAN AND OTHERS. 18 P R 1901

8. And Section 5.—Application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis—Rejection of application—Extension of time granted for payment of Court-fees—Payment of Court-fees after period of limitation—Sufficient cause for not filing appeal within time.

An application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis was presented by the appellant within the prescribed period of limitation After inquiry as to the alleged pauperism the Judge rejected the petition, but grants. him two months time to pay the Court-feee The Court-fees was duly paid within the period allowed by the Judge and the appeal was admitted. On the date of hearing the respondent pleaded limitation, as at the time the Court-fees was paid the appeal was beyond time.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 4—contd.

Held, that the appeal was not barred by limitation. The prosecution of an application for leave to appeal as a pauper was sufficient cause within the meaning of section 5 of the Limitation Act for not presenting the appeal in time.

Mussammat Intizam Begam v. Mussammat Waziran (47 P. R. 1899), Raja Ram v. Tilok Chand (59 P. R. 1903), Jamnabai v. Vissondas Rattan Chand (I. L. R. XXI Bom. 576), and Bai Ful v. Desai Manorbhai Bhavani Das (I. L. R. XXII Bom. 849) cited and followed.

Bishnath Prasad v. Jagarnath Prasad (I. L. R. XIII All. 305), Abbasi Begam v. Nanhi Begam I. L. R. XVIII All. 206), Keshow Ram Chandra Deshpande v. Krishnarao Vinkatish Inamdar (I. L. R XX Bom. 508), and Aubhoy Churn Dey Roy v. Bissesswari (I. L. R. XXIV Calc. 889), not followed. BUTA v. PARMA NAND.

84 P R 1904

9. Plaint—Presentation of a plaint insufficiently stamped through circumstances beyond control of the plaintiff—Payment of requisite Court-fees after expiration of Limitation—Date of institution of suit—Court Fees Act, 1870, sections 6, 28.—Limitation Act, 1878, section 4.

A plaint insufficiently stamped was presented in the Court of the District Judge on the 14th April 1903, the last day allowed for it by the law of limitation. The reason given was that the treasurer had no stamp of the proper denomination and had informed the plaintiff that he must wait until the Treasury Officer should open the double locks. The District Judge received the plaint and recorded an order making over the case to the Sub-Judge, adding a direction that the deficiency should be made up.

Plaintiff on the same day procured the requisite stamps, but on taking it to the District Judge's Court found that officer had left his Court and was thus unable to file the full stamp duty until the 16th April. The defence pleaded limitation.

Held, by the Full Bench, that in the circumstances of the case the suit should be taken as instituted on the 14th April when the plaint was presented to the District Judge and that the claim was therefore not barred. Lakha v. Munshi Ram (38 P. R. 1900), distinguished. MEHTAB RAI v. GOPAL RAI.

104 P R 1905 F. B.

10. Limitation—Application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis—Subsequent appeal in regular form —Payment of Court-fee on regular appeal no retrospective effect.

The decree of the Divisional Judge now appealed against by plaintiff-appellant was passed on 7th June 1902. The 90 days allowed for an appeal to the Chief Court would ordinarily have expired on 15th September 1902. From 12th August to 12th October 1902 this Court was closed for vacation. Seven days, from 4th to 10th September 1902, were taken up in procuring a copy of the decree appealed against. On 28th September 1902, appellant filed a petition for leave to appeal in forma pauperis with a memorandum of appeal. This petition was dismissed on 22nd October 1902 as barred by limitation. On 7th November 1902 the appellant filed the present appeal with an altered memorandum on a stamp of Rs. 10.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 4—concld.

Held, that the appeal was barred by limitation.

Held, further that the payment of the Court-fee on 7th November 1902 could not relate back to the memorandum of appeal which accompanied the petition for leave to appeal in forma pauperis, the more so because that petition was itself out of time, and could not be regarded as bona fide application. GANESHA SINGH v. ARUR SINGH.

78 P R 1906

11. Plaint—Presentation of insufficiently stamped plaint—Payment of deficiency after the expiry of limitation allowed for the suit —Date of institution of suit—Court Fees Act, 1870, sections 6, 28—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 54 (A).

Where a plaint was presented within the prescribed period of limitation on an insufficient stamp, and on discovery of the mistake the requisite deficiency was made good within the time fixed by the Court, but after the expiration of the limitation allowed for the suit.

Held, that having regard to the provisions of the Explanation to section 4 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, and section 54 of the Civil Procedure Code and 28 of the Court-Fees Act, 1870, the suit should be regarded as having been instituted on the date when the plaint was first presented and that it was therefore in time. SAIF ALI KHAN v. FAZL MEHDI KHAN.

123 P R 1907

Section 4, Explanation.

See COURT-FEES ACT, 1870, SECTION 28

38 P R 1900

See PLAINT, PRESENTATION OF

130 P R 1890

1. Suit by pauper—Application for leave to sue in forma pauperis—Subsequent payment of Court-fee after period of limitation —Date of limitation of suit.

An application for leave to sue as a pauper to set aside an aucion sale in execution of a decree was presented within the prescribed period allowed by Article 12 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act. The defendant disputed the alleged pauperism, and pending the enquiry on that question the plaintiff paid into Court the amount of stamp duty required for the suit.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 4—Explanation—concld.

The defendant pleaded limitation, as at the time the Court-fees was paid the suit was beyond time.

Held, that the suit was not barred. It should be deemed to have been instituted from the date the plaintiff filed his application for leave to sue as a pauper and not when he paid in the necessary Court-fee.

Jonakdhari Sukul v. Janki Kour (I. L. R. XXVIII Calc. 427) and Skinner v. Orde (I. L. R. II, All, 241, P. C.) cited. RAJA RAM v. TELOK CHAND.

59 P R 1903

2. Limitation Act, 1877, section 4—Explanation—Plaint insufficiently stamped—Payment of requisite Court-fee after the expiry of limitation allowed for the suit—Plaint when deemed, to have been presented —Date of institution of suit—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 54.

A suit for pre-emption was filed within the prescribed period of limitation. Subsequently it was discovered that the plaint had been insufficiently stamped and in accordance with the provisions of section 54, Civil Procedure Code, the plaintiff was directed to supply the requisite Court-fee within a fixed time. This order was complied with by the plaintiff at a time when the period of limitation allowed for the suit had expired. The defence contended that the suit was barred by limitation as the deficiency in Court-fee payable on the plaint had not been paid up within the period of one year from the date on which the cause of action arose.

Held, that the suit was not barred. The date of the institution of the suit for purposes of limitation should be taken from the date of the presentation of the plaint and not from the date on which the requisite Court-fees were subsequently put in.

Jhanda Khan v. Bahadur Ali (3 P. R. 1893) Moti Sahu v. Chattri Das (I. L. R. XIX Calc 780), and Skinner v. Orde (I. L. R. II, All. 241 P. C. cited and followed, Jainti Parshad v. Bachhu Singh (I. L. R. XV All, 65, F. B.) Amjad Ali v. Muhammad Israil (I. L. R. XX All. 11 F. B.) Muhammad Ahmad v. Muhammed Siraj-ud-din (I. L. R. XXIII All. 423), Durga Singh v. Basheshar Dayal (I. L. R XXIV All, 218) and Venkatramayya v. Krishnaya (I. L. R. XX Mad. 319), dissented from. TARA SINGH v. MUHAMMAD

74 P R 1903

Section 5.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLES 168 AND 169

Also PARTIES 113 P R 1907

1. Court-fees Act 1870 Schedule I, articles 4, 5 —Application for review presented after 89th day.

Held, that the provisions of section 5 of the Limitation Act cannot be applied to extend the period fixed in Article 4, Schedule I of the Court-fees Act for filing an application for review of judgment on half stamp. RULDU MAL v. SODHA.

39 P R 1879

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 5—contd

2. Application for leave to appeal as pauper—Deduction of time requisite for obtaining copies—Expiry of period while Court was closed.

Where a person applying for leave to appeal as a Pauper had not applied for a copy of the judgment appealed against, until after 30 clear days from the date of such judgment.

Held, that "the period of limitation prescribed for an application for leave to appeal as a pauper" mentioned in section 12 of the Limitation Act, 1877, is the 30 days next following the date of the judgment appealed against, and that as no portion of such period had been accpined in obtaining a copy of such judgment, the time expended in obtaining such copy could not be excluded in computing such period under section 12. JIWAN SINGH v. NAGINA SINGH.

82 P R 1873

3. And sections 2 and 14—Plaintiff whose plaint has been dismissed for want of jurisdiction, re-instituting his suit (after the expiry of the period of appeal) in the same district—Rejection of second plaint—Appeal to Commissioner from both orders of dismissal—Sufficient cause for delay in appealing.

The plaintiff, whose suit was dismissed for want of jurisdiction, an order being subsequently passed directing the plaint to be returned for presentation in the proper Court, presented the same plaint again in the same district (after the period of appeal had expired) with a supplementary petition praying that another person should be added as a co-defendant, and the case re-heard. The plaint as above amended was again rejected on the ground that the question of jurisdiction having been already decided against plaintiff, his proper course was to appeal from that decision. An appeal was then preferred to the Commissioner, which professed to be from both the above orders of rejection, but which was treated by the Commissioner as an appeal from the first of those orders only. The Commissioner, holding the appeal to be in time under section 14 of the Limitation Act, and differing from the first Court on the point of jurisdiction, remanded the case for decision on the merits.

Held, reversing the order of the Commissioner, that section 14 of the Limitation Act had no application to the case, and, further, that, under the circumstances of the case, the plaintiff was not entitled to any extension of the period of appeal under section 5 of the Act, or any relaxation of the law in his favor. NARAIN SINGH v. MUHAMMAD AMIR KHAN.

115 P R 1881

4. Computation of period for appeal—Deduction of period of pendency of review in lower Court—Sufficient cause.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 5—contd.

In computing the period allowed for an appeal, the time during which an application for review of judgment has been pending in the lower Court should be taken into account, as the fact of an application for review having been made is "sufficient cause" within the meaning of section 5 of the Limitation Act for execusing the delay in presenting an appeal, provided that the appeal is preferred as speedily as may be after the proceedings in review have ended. MUSSAMMAT GANGA v. MADHO.

89 P R 1882

5. Appeal presented after time—Sufficient cause—Deputy of Court.

Whenever an Appellate Court is asked to extend the ordinary period for filing an appeal, it should record its reasons for being satisfied that "sufficient cause" existed for the appellant not presenting the appeal within time. SARDARNI RAJ KOUR v. NEHAL SINGH. 4 P R 1883

6. Deduction of time occupied in obtaining copy of translation of judgment—Sufficient cause for extending period for appeal.

Held, that section 12 of the Limitation Act was not intended to authorize the deduction of the time occupied in obtaining a copy of the translation of the judgment appealed against the judgment referred to by that section being the original judgment, but extreme delay in furnishing such translation might be ground for extending the time under section 5. MUSSAMMAT DYA KOUR v. MUSSAMMAT AMRAO KOUR. 145 P R 1883

7. Delay in appealing caused by application for review—"Sufficient cause."

Held, that the proper rule to be applied in cases falling under Act XV of 1877 is that the fact of an application for review having been made is "sufficient cause" for excusing delay in appealing only when the appeal is preferred as speedily as may be after the application has been disposed of. Mussammat Ganga v. Madho (No. 89 P R. 1882 Civil), cited. SAHIBA v. HIRA.

166 P R 1883

8. Presentation of appeal on last day allowed by section 5, clause 1, but after the hour fixed by the Court by rule for taking petitions—Dismissal of appeal as barred by limitation—Validity of such order of dismissal.

There is nothing in section 5 of the Limitation Act to oblige a person entitled to the benefit of that section to present his appeal at any particular period in the day, and in the absence of any restriction in the above section, the day must be taken to include the whole of the day on which the Court re-opens, the said "day" including at least the whole of the period during which the Court is open.

Nor can "the day" thus understood be reduced to any shorter period, unless in the exercise of some authority conferred by law. There being no provision in the law relating to Courts or procedure which empowers the Judge of a subordinate Civil Court to assign by rule certain hours of the working day to certain kinds of business, so as to deprive a suitor of any portion of the period within which he is by law entitled to do a particular act in the course of a legal proceeding, no rule of the above kind could be held to justify a refusal to receive a petition, otherwise duly presented, merely because it is presented after the hour fixed by the Judge. SHIVDIAL v. ALADIA.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 5—contd.

140 P R 1884

9. Appellate Court, jurisdiction of—Lower Court refusing to admit appeal after time—Interference with lower Court's discretion.

Where the tower Court refused to admit an appeal filed 14 days after time, holding that no sufficient cause for the delay had been shown, the Chief Court declined to interfere on appeal from such order, approving the principle laid down by the Bombay High Court (vide I. L. R., 6 Bom. 304), that when the law leaves a matter within the discretion of a Court, and the Court after proper enquiry and due consideration has exercised the discretion in a sound and reasonable manner, the High Court will not interfere with the conclusion arrived at, even though it would itself have arrived at a different conclusion. JOTI PERSHAD v. CHUNI LAL. 106 P R 1885

10. Appeal presented after time—"Sufficient cause" for delay in appealing—Omission to appeal within time owing to mistaken advice of pleader.

In an appeal filed 86 days out of time the explanation put forward for the delay was that an appeal had been filed against an order of remand in the case under section 562, Civil Procedure Code, which order had been carried out by the lower appellate Court, and resulted in the decree against which the present appeal was filed: that the appeal against the said order of remand had been admitted by a Judge in chambers, but was subsequently dismissed by the Court, on the ground that the order of remand had been carried out; and that no appeal was filed in the first instance from the decree, which was passed nine days before the appeal from the order of remand was instituted, owing to the appellant's pleader advising his client that the result of the appeal against the order would probably be favorable and so render an appeal against the decree unnecessary.

Held, that the mistake alleged in the present case could not be held to be sufficient cause for the delay in presenting the appeal; that it did not follow that, if the order remanding the case had been set aside on appeal, a decree passed while the appeal was pending, and which had neither been set aside nor appealed against would ipso facto cease to be binding on the parties, but that whether this would be so or not, an appeal lay from the decree, and might have been instituted and proceeded with, while the appeal from the order was pending, and the fact of the appellant having been wrongly advised in the matter could not be regarded as sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal within the time prescribed. Mussammat Dya Kaur v. Mussammat Amrao Kour (No. 145 P. R. 1883), Civil referred to. BISHAN SINGH v. KISHAN SINGH.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 5—contd.

30 P R 1886

11. Sufficient cause—Discretion of Court admitting appeal after time—Principles on which superior Court will interfere with such discretion.

Though a superior Court should interfere on only very special grounds with a conclusion which has satisfied the Court which had first to determine what was sufficient cause within the meaning of section 5 of the Limitation Act for admitting an appeal after time, yet when such subordinate Court has failed to exercise its discretion in a sound and reasonable way, and an appeal against the order based on facts is given from the subordinate to the superior Court, it is the duty of the superior Court to weigh the facts which formed the basis upon which the subordinate Court proceeded and to arrive at its own independent conclusion.

Where, therefore, the lower Appellate Court admitted an appeal after time, laying stress on the goodness of the appellant's case, and holding that in such a case an appeal could be admitted, " even if there were no special cause " for the delay of two days," and that such " elaborate calculations" are needed for computing the time for appealing, that a mistake in the number of days is excusable, and nothing appeared, apart from the above considerations, which could be deemed adequate cause for the delay in appealing, held, reversing the judgment of the lower Court, that the appeal to that Court must stand dismissed as out of time. GHARIB v. POHLO MAL.

92 P R 1886

12. Appeal filed out of time—Sufficient cause.

An appeal from a decree, dated 1st May 1883, was filed in the Chief Court on 1st June 1887, the appellant's explanation of the delay in appealing being that when the decree had been passed, he intended to bring a second suit for possession which he did bring afterwards, taking this, on the first Court's judgment, to be the proper course.

Held, that this was a sufficient cause for his not having appealed within the period prescribed by law, and further, that as he acted bona fide in bringing the second suit, and as he filed the present appeal on the second day after he discovered the error committed in bringing the second suit, the appeal ought to be admitted. GHULAM HUSSAIN v. SHAHBAZ KHAN. 161 P R 1888

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 5—contd.

13. Sufficient cause for admission of appeal after time—Deduction of time during which review is pending—Reasonable diligence in presenting appeal—Discretion of Court.

Held by the Full Bench, that when an appellant has instituted an application for review of judgment in a lower Court, within the period prescribed for appeal, and after such application has been disposed of, presents an appeal from the first judgment after the period prescribed for appeal, it is not by law necessary to the admission of the appeal that the appeal should be presented as speedily as may be after the proceedings in review had ended. The true guide for a Court in the exercise of its discretion in such case under section 5 of the Limitation Act, is whether the appellant has acted with reasonable diligence in presenting his appeal, and he ought ordinarily to be deemed to have acted with reasonable diligence when the whole period between the date of the decree appealed against and the date of presenting the appeal, does not, after excluding the time spent in prosecuting with due diligence a proper application for review of judgment, exceed the period prescribed by law for presenting the appeal.

Mussammat Ganga v. Madho (No. 89 P. R. 1882) and Sahiba v. Hira (No. 166 P. R. 1883), referred to. KARM BAKHSH v. DAULAT RAM. 183 P R 1888 F. B.

14. Admission of appeal beyond time—Sufficient cause—Appeal filed in wroug Court.

The presentation of an appeal within the period of limitation prescribed therefor to a wrong Court in ignorance of the provisions of law may be a sufficient cause within the meaning of section 5 for admitting the same appeal in the proper Court after the period of limitation prescribed therefor has expired. SARDAR PARTAB SINGH v. LALA KARAM CHAND.

184 P R 1899

15. And section 6—Special limitations under Local and Sepecial acts—Applicability of the general provisions of the Limitation Acts to such acts—Registration Act, III of 1877, section 77.

Held, by the Full Bench that section 5 of the Limitation Act, XV of 1877 is applicable to a suit under section 77 of the Registration Act, III of 1877. NIGAHYA v. BALLU MAL.

74 P R 1890 F. B

16. Appeal in Civil cases—Presentation—Practice—Deposit in a box—Sufficient cause.

Where the practice of an Appellate Court as to the mode of receiving appeals had been altered and it did not appear that the change of practice was known to the appellant, and his appeal was presented within time according to the former practice, but not according to the new practice.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 5—contd.

Held, that sufficient cause was shown for admitting the appeal after the period prescribed by law. SUKHDIAL v. JAY SINGH.

101 P R 1890

17. Chief Court vacation—Civil petitions presented during—Limitation—Civil Procedure Code, section 213.

The order of the Divisional Judge refusing a certificate for a further appeal under section 40 (1) (d), Punjab Courts Act, 1884, was made on 31st July 1898, and the time prescribed for an application for revision to the Chief Court under section 40 (2), viz. 30 days, expired on 30th August 1889. The plaintiffs presented an application for revision to the Chief Court on 7th October 1889. The Chief Court was closed for civil business from 15th August to 15th October, both days inclusive, by a Gazette Notification issued by the Local Government.

Held, that the plaintiffs' application for revision was within time. Either section 5, Limitation Act, 1877, or section 7, General Clauses Act, 1887, operated to permit the application to be presented on the day when the Court re-opened, and it would have been in time if presented on 16th October. All Civil petitions filed during the vacation must, as regards limitation, be taken as filed upon the day when the Court re-opens. GANPAT RAI AND MOTI RAM v. HIRA SINGH AND KHUSHAL SINGH.

29 P R 1891

18. Appeal presented after period prescibed therefor—Sufficient cause.

The plaintiff filed an appeal in the Divisional Court from the decree of the District Judge, and after notice to the respondents it was dismissed. An appeal was then presented to tha Chief Court, when it was discovered that the value of the suit exceeded Rs. 5,000, and that the Divisional Judge should not have entertained the appeal. The Divisional Judge's decree was set aside and the appeal returned to the appellant through the Divisional Court for presentation in the Chief Court which was accordingly done, but beyond the period allowed by law. The plaintiff-appellant was a parda-nashin woman.

Held, that the appellant had sufficient cause for not filing her appeal to the Chief Court within 90 days, and that she had acted with due diligence in presenting it within four days aftev she had received it back from the Divisional Judge.

No. 183 P. R. 1888 (F. B.), followed, MUSSAMMAT GOUHAR v. KHAN MUHAMMAD and MASU KHAN.

66 P R 1891

19. Sufficient cause for not filing appeal within time—Prosecution of application for leave to appeal as a pauper.

Held, that the prosecution of an application for leave to appeal as a pauper, which was rejected, amounts to "sufficient cause," within the meaning of section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1877, for not presenting a regular appeal within time. MUSSAMMAT INTIZAM BEGUM v. MUSSAMMAT WAZIRAN. 47 P R 1899

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 5—contd.

20. Suit dismissed for default—Appeal from order of dismissal—Sufficient case for admitting appeals after time.

Dismissal of an application for an order to set aside a dismissal by default does not affect an appeal from the original order dismissing the suit, such an order having the force of a decree.

Under section 5 of the Limitation Act delay in filing such an appeal can be excused and the period extended, if the Appellate Court is satisfied that the appellant had no notice of the date fixed for the hearing of the original case. SAHIB DITTA v. RODA.
83 P R 1902

21. When an appeal is filed after it is time-barred and the appellant desires to take the benefit of the provisions of section 5 or 5 (a) of the Limitation Act, the cause of the delay should be stated at the time the appeal is filed. C. v. C. AND B.
22 P R 1903

22. Execution of decree—Death of decree-holder—Abatement of execution proceedings—Admission of application to set aside abatement after time—Sufficient cause Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 365, 366, 371, 372 A.

In an execution proceeding the decree-holder having died in September 1898, the judgment-debtor, on the 18th October 1899, obtained an order from the executing Court for the removal of the attachment on the ground that no application in accordance with the provisions of section 365, Civil Procedure Code, had been made by the representatives of the deceased decree-holder within the prescribed period of limitation. The circumstances were that the decree-holder who was a Sikh Jat had died and left a will probate of which having been keenly contested by his heirs was not granted to the executors until April 1900. In May 1900 two out of the three executors filed an application for execution, but the judgment-debtor contended that by section 365 of the Civil Procedure Code the application was time-barred.

Held, that the word "suit" includes all proceeding in a suit including the proceedings in execution, and that the executors were bound to make and capable of making the application at the time of the death of the testator, but that, under the peculiar circumstances of the case, there was sufficient cause preventing them from continuing the execution proceedings originated by the testator within the meaning of section 371, Civil Procedure Code, and that therefore under the provisions of section 372 A, Civil Procedure Code, and of section 5 of the Limitation Act, they were entitled to an extension of the time for making the application to set asaide the abatement order.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 5—contd.

Moosa v. Essa (I. L. R. VIII Bom. 241), Khan Bahadur Nawabzada Shamsher Ali Khan v. *Mussammat Ahmad Alladdi Begam (*9 P. R. 1901), Ram Kirpal v. Rup Kuari (I. L. R. VI All. 269), and J. C. Bose v. Rani Bhagwan Kaur (63 P. R, 1900), referred to PRICE v. GOLAK NATH. 39 P R 1903

23. Appeal—Presentation of appeal beyond time—Sufficient cause for admitting appeals after time—Limitation Act, 1877, section 5.

Plaintiffs, the daughters of defendant No. 2, instituted a suit for a declaration that defendant No. 1 was not and could not be validly adopted by defendant No. 2, and that certain alienations made by the latter in favour of the former would not affect their reversionary rights. The appellant being a minor was represented by his adoptive mother (defendant No. 2) as his guardian, but at the request of a relation of the minor the Nazir of the Court was subsequently appointed guardian who at the first hearing stated his inability to produce any evidence owing to the illness of the minor, and on the adjourned hearing on the ground that again the minor who possessed the necessary information had not been to see him. On 30th November 1900, the District Judge gave judgment for the plaintiff. On the 2nd January following the Nazir made an application under section 108, Civil Procedure Code, to have this decree set aside, giving as his reason for failure to produce evidence that the minor had been ill and unable to instruct him. After notice to the plaintiffs on 20th March 1901 this application was rejected on the ground that the decree not being an ex parte one the petitioner's remedy was either to apply for review of the judgment or appeal to the superior Court. The minor on the 17th June 1901 filed an appeal against the original decree to the Chief Court, and in explanation of the limitation having been allowed to expire contended that the period taken up in conducting the proceedings to set aside the ex parte decree should be deducted under section 5 of the Limitation Act. It was also submitted that he being a ward of the Court was engaged from 1st April to 17th May 1901 in getting an order from the District Judge declaring the termination of his adoptive mother's guardianship and that he was also imprisoned by a Criminal Court at the instance of his adoptive mother's agent and was only released on the 13th June and that therefore he was also entitled to a deduction of the time that had intervened between the date he applied to the District Judge for getting himself declared of age to enable him to act for himself and the date of his release from the prison.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section —contd.

Held, that the appellant had shown sufficient cause within the meaning of section 5 and was fully entitled to claim the benefit of that section, and that the appeal, though filed after the prescribed period, should be admitted to a hearing under the peculiar circumstances of the case. The time occupied in attempting to get the ex parte decree set aside and in conducting proceeding before the District Judge for getting himself declared of age and also the period during which he was imprisoned ought to be deducted in computing the time that had occurred between the date of the judgment and the date on which the appeal was filed.

Karam Bakhsh v. Daulat Ram (183 P. R. 1888) Ranee Birjobuttee v. Partaub Singh 8 Moo. I. A. 160), and Cursandas Natha v. Ladkavahoo I. L. R XX Bom. 104), cited. Ardha Chandra Rai Chawdry v. Matangini Dassi (I. L. R. XXIII Calc. 325), distinguished. MAHARAJ NARAIN v. MUSSAMMAT BANOJI AND OTHERS. 21 P R 1904

24. Review—Second applicatian for—Sufficient cause for delay.

Held, that the Financial Commissioner is competent to receive and entertain a second application for review under the provisions of section 629, Civil Procedure Code, and section 88 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, even when presented long after the period of Limitation prescribed for such purposes, especially where the party seeking redress was prevented from filing his application not by any omission on his part but by the disagreement of the Civil and Revenue Courts. MAYA DAS v. JOWALA SAHAI,
9 P R 1905 Rev.

25. The provisions of this section and that of section 12 are not applicable to the computation of the period of limitation prescribed by section 169 of the Indian Companies Act, 1882. DAULAT RAM v. THE WOOLLEN MILLS COY. LD., DEDHI.
95 P R 1908

26. Appeal—Appeal instituted in wrong Court—Sufficient cause—Carelessness or oversight of appellant or counsel—Limitation Act, 1877, section 5.

Held under the circumstances of the case, that the presentation of the appeal which was of the jurisdictional value of over Rs. 5,000 to the Divisional Court was not a sufficient cause within the meaning of section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1877.

Mere carelessness or oversight of the appellant or his counsel in presenting an appeal in a wrong Court which, by the exercise of due diligence, could have been avoided cannot be recognized as sufficient reason for delay under this section. SANT SINGH v. QAIM. 118 P R 19

27. Indian Limitation Act, XV of 1887, section 5—Appeal—Time taken up with review — Sufficient cause.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 5—concld.

Held, that filing a petition for review is not a "sufficient cause" within the meaning of section 5 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, for not presenting an appeal within time, unless it is shown that there were reasonable grounds for asking for a review. MUSADI LAL v. BADHAWA. 100 P R 1910

Section 6.

Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 40 (2)—Application filed more than 30 days after refusal of certificate—Minority of applicant.

See SECTION 7 infra. 103 P R 1881

Section 7.

1. And Schedule II, article 171—Application by minor sons as legal representatives of deceased appellant—Period for such application.

An application on behalf of the minor sons of a deceased appellant, praying that their names may be entered on the record in place of the deceased, held to be within time with reference to section 7 of the Limitation Act of 1877, though presented more than 60 days after the appellant's death, no final order having been at the date of such application passed on the appeal. MUSSAMMAT SARWAR JAN v. DINA.

103 P R 1881

2. Suit by minor before period of disability has ceased.

Under the provisions of section 7 of Act XV of 1877, a minor is allowed to sue within the same period after his disability has ceased as would otherwise have been allowed from the time prescribed for such suit in the third column of the 2nd schedule, provided that not more than three years from the cessation of disability shall be deemed to be allowed in any case in excess of the ordinary period. But there is no objection in law to a minor suing through his next friend, if a valid ground of action can be made out, and as in such an action the minor is the real plaintiff and the law exempts him from the operation of limitation during the whole period of his minority, it is impossible to hold such a suit barred by time simply because it is brought by a next friend more than three years after the date of the transaction sought to be impeached, but before the full period allowed by law in favor of the minor has expired. GANDA v. JAWAND SINGH. 112 P R 1881

3. Disability of minor—Application of above section in case of order fixing time for payment of pre-emption money.

Held, that section 7 of the Limitation Act only applies to cases in which a period of limitation has been fixed by the law; and does not apply to the case of an order passed in a pre-emption suit that a certain sum of money shall be paid at a certain time. PREMA v. JAWAHIR DASS.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 7—contd.

31 P R 1884

4. Application by guardian of minor during minor's infancy.

Held by the Full Bench, that a guardian of a minor is competent, under the provisions of section 7 of the Limitation Act of 1877, to make an application that the minor be subtituted as an appellant in the room of his father who had died during the pendency of an appeal, but more than 60 days before the application. Mussammat Sarwar Jan v. Dina (No. 103 *P. R.*1881, Civil) approved of. RIHANA v. HARDITTA. 91 P R 1885

5. Disability of minor—Application for execution presented more than 12 years after date of decree—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 230.

Held, that the enactment in section 230 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882, limiting the period during which execution shall be granted of a decree once put in actual execution is one made for the benefit of the judgment-debtor to protect him from being subject, without limit in point of time, to execution proceedings, and as the said section is in absolute and unqualified terms as regards persons, a minor decree-holder is not exempted from its operation by section 7 of the Limitation Act, 1877. I. L. R. XVI Bom. 536, not followed. JHANDU v. MOHAN LAL. 128 P R 1894

6. Suit by minor against guardian for an account and for possession of immovable property—"Trustee"—Parties to suit—Limitation Act, 1877, 2*nd Schedule, articles* 120, 132, 144 147, and sections 7, 22.

Plaintiff, who alleged that she attained the age of majority on the 4th July 1892, sued on the 22nd June 1895 for an account of the affairs of the estate of her father, W. who died in November 1880, and for possession of a certain serai. Plaintiff further prayed that any money found due might be realized from property hypothecated as security by one H. B. who had been appointed on the 3rd March 1881 manager of the estate of the said W. and had been granted a certificate to collect the debts due to the said estate. It appeared that on the 5th March 1881, the said H. B. had executed a bond in favour of the Sarkar, hypothecating property, including the serai now claimed by plaintiff, as part of W.'s estate as security for the due performance of his duties as manager. On the 29th July 1886, H. B. was dismissed from the management of the said estate.

The only defendants originally impleaded were the sons of B. R. and two persons to whom the said serai was alleged to have been sold, but on the 11th May 1896 the widow and two daughters of H. B. one H. to whom a second serai hypothecated by H. B. as security was alleged to have been transferred, and the widow of W. who was alleged to be interested in the estate, were added as defendants, accounts being sought from the widow and daughters of H. B. as well as from H. B.'s said sons. Subsequently on the 5th June 1896, two other daughters of H. B. were impleaded as defendants.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 7—contd.

The District Judge dismissed the suit as barred by limitation (i) as regards the accounts, because, applying Article 120 and section 7 of the Limitation Act, limitation ran till the 4th July 1895, on which date the necessary parties were not impleaded and the whole suit must fail under section 22 of the Act; (ii) as regards the serai, because, under Article 144, limitation would run from the date when H. B.'s possession became adverse—i. e., as stated in the plaint from the date on which H. B. became manager, and that plaintiff's minority would not extend this period further than the 4th July 1895, on which date the necessary parties were not before the Court. Plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, as to the claim for possession of the serai, that the cause of action having accrued during the minority of the plaintiff, plaintiff had three years from the date of attaining the age of majority wherein to sue those actually in possession thereof, and need not implead all the heirs of H. B.

Held, further, that a suit for recovery of money alleged to be due by a guardian out of property hypothecated by him for the due performance of his duties as guardian must be instituted, under Article 132 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act, within twelve years of the termination of his office as guardian.

The property hypothecated by H. B. being admittedly ample for the discharge of liability under the hypothecation deed, and being so charged as to make Article 132 of the Act applicable, the Court held that it was unnecessary, so far as that part of the claim was concerned, to consider how far a personal suit would lie against the sons of H. B. alone, and to ascertain the exact date of plaintiff's majority. MUSSAMMAT FAZLAN NISHAN v. MUHAMMADJI. 33 P R 1897

7. Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 40 (2)—Application filed more than 30 days after refusal of certificate—Minor—Limitation Act, 1877, sections 6, 7.

Held, that a minor is not, by reason of section 7 of the Limitation Act, entitled to have extended the period of 30 days prescribed in section 40 (2) of the Punjab Courts Act. JAN v. ALA BAKHSH.

69 P R 1897

8. A reversioner born subsequent to the date of an alienation which had been made in his father's life-time cannot avail himself of an extension of time under this section to enable him to contest the validity of such an alienation. UMRA v. GHULAM.

22 P R 1907

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 7—concld.

9. Held, that the fact of the plaintiffs being minors at the date of alienation does not prevent defendant from holding adversely and can only extend the period to three years from the date when the youngest of them attains his majority. SHAMIR v. LADHA SINGH. 100 P R 1909

Section 8.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 22.

Limitation Act, 1877, section 8—Contract Act, 1872, sections 37, 38 and 45—Competency of an adult co-owner of a house to grant a valid discharge for rent payable to himself and to minor co-owners jointly, so as to bind the latter.

Three plaintiffs, of whom one was a minor, sued to recover the rent for eleven years of two shops rented by the defendant. Exemption from the ordinary law of limitation was claimed on the ground that one of the plaintiffs had attained majority only about a year before suit, while another was still a minor, and that during their minority there was no one qualified to give a discharge without their concurrence. For the defendant, it was contended that Mussammat Shahzadi Khanam, one of the co-owners, could have given a discharge at any time during the period in question without the concurrence of the minors.

Held, by the Chief Court, that Mussammat Shahzadi Khanam could have received payment of the whole rent during the disability of the minor co-owners and given a valid discharge for the same without their concurrence; that time consequently ran against them all during the period of the said disability; and that three years' rent only was recoverable in the present suit. DAULAT RAM v. SAYAD ABDUL KASIM.

60 P R 1893

Section 9.

1. And section 13—Absence of defendant from British India.

See SECTION 13, infra.

2. This section does not apply to applications but to suits only. BIHARI LAL v. MRS. BANES. 109 P R 1889

Section 10.

1. Vested in trust—Suit for recovery of money misappropriated by khazanchi of Native State—Suit based on void judgment of foreign Court—Defect of jurisdiction or other like cause.

See SECTION 14, infra.

34 P R 1898

2. Suit by person interested in endowed property for dispossession of an assignee of last manager.

See 2ND SCHEDULE, ARTICLE 120.

8 P R 1899

3. And article 120—Trust and trustee—Suit by settler against trustee on failure of the object of a trust to recover trust funds for himself—Starting point of limitation.

Held, that where the author of a trust on failure of its objects sues to recover trust property in the hands of a trustee for his own use and not for the purposes of the trust, section 10 of the Indian Limitation Act is inapplicable.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 10—concld.

Such a suit being a suit to recover trust property by the settler the limitation applicable is that prescribed in article 120 and will commence to run from the date of the failure of the object of the trust. GULZARI MAL v. KISHEN CHAND. 132 P R 1907

Section 12.

1. Time requisite for obtaining copies of judgment and decree—Question of act.

Held that an appellant is entitled under section 12 of the Limitation Act, 1877, to a deduction of the time requisite to obtain copies of the judgment and of the decree, but what time is requisite for such purpose is a question of fact on the circumstances of the particular case. The Appellate Court having decided that in this case a double period was not necessary held, that, whether he was right or wrong, was not a question of law. THANA MAL v. MUSSAMMAT NIHALI.

6 P R 1894

2. Application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis—Exclusion of time requisite for obtaining copy of judgment.

A preliminary objection was taken to a pauper appeal being allowed to proceed upon the ground that the application for leave to appeal was not filed within the period allowed by law. It was conceded that the application was within time if the appellant was allowed the time spent in obtaining a copy of the judgment of the lower Court as well as of the decree: it was contended, however, that section 12 of the Limitation Act, 1877, only permitted the exclusion of the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the judgment in the case of appeals and applications for review of judgment, and not in the case of application for leave to appeal as a pauper.

Held, overruling the objection, that "a decree is appealed against" within the intention of clause (3) of section 12 of the Act as soon as an application for leave to appeal from that decree as a pauper has been preferred and that the provision in the said clause was clearly meant to apply to appeals and applications to appeals as a pauper as well as to applications for review of judgment. MUSSAMMAT MOTI BEGAM v. MUSSAMMAT SATARA BEGAM. 33 P R 1895

3. Applicability of, to application under section 18 (1) of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894—Deduction of time requisite for obtaining copy of award.

Held, that section 12 of the Limitation Act, 1877, does not apply to computing the periods of limitation prescribed for an application under section 18 (1) of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, and therefore the time requisite for obtaining a copy of the award cannot be deducted in computing the periods laid down by sub-section 2 of section 18 of that Act.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 12—concld.

Nigahaya v. Ballu Mal (74 P. R. 1890), Umia Shankar Lakhmiram v. Chhotala Vajeram (I. L. R. I Bom. 19), Lallubhai v. Naran (I. L. R. VI Bom. 719), Luchmee Bakhsh Roy v. Ranjeet Ram Panday (20 W. R. 375), Rangan v. Mahbub Chand (55 P. R. 1897), and Sadho Singh v. Mussammat Kishnee (3 All. H. C. R. 318), referred to. BHAGWAN DASS v. THE COLLECTOR OF LAHORE.

79 P R 1904

4. This section does not apply in computing the periods of limitations prescribed for an application under section 70 (b) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884, and therefore the time requisite for obtaining copies of the judgment and decree of the lower Appellate Court cannot be deducted in computing the periods laid down by clause (i) of section 70 (b) of that Act. KISHEN DIAL v. RAM DITTA

20 P R 1907

N.B.—But this case has since been overruled by No. 114 P. R., 1907, noted below.

5. Section 12 applies to applications under section 70 (b) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884, and that therefore the time requisite for obtaining copies of the judgment and decree of the lower Appellate Court is to be excluded in computing the period laid down by clause (i) of section 70 (b) of that Act.

Kishen Dial v. Ram Ditta (20 P. R. 1907), overruled. KIRPA RAM v. RAKHI.

114 P R 1907

Section 12 (a).

—Attachment and sale of immovable property in execution of decree—Private alienation of property after attachment and sale but prior to confirmation—Confirmation of sale—Suit by the alienee to recover possession from the auction purchaser—Limitation.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 64. 11 P R 1906

Section 13.

1. And Schedule II, articles 142, 144—Alluvion and diluvion—Custom of Bias river—Land taken over by avulsion—Dispossession or discontinuance of possession—Exclusion of time of defendants' absence from British India.

Plaintiffs, the proprietors of a village on the Amritsar side of the Bias, claimed certain land lying between their village and the present deep stream, alleging that the said land originally formed part of their village, but was transferred in Sambat 1923 to the Kapurthala side of the river, returning to the Amritsar side in Sambat 1927-28, but remained part of Kapurthala territory till Sambat 1937 or 1938. The transfer on each occasion was found to be by a sudden change in the course of the river, or what is generally called "avulsion," and it was found by the lower Courts (and the finding was accepted as correct by the Chief Court) that by the custom of the Bias, when land is transferred from one side of the river to another by a sudden change, there is no disturbance of proprietary right; but the lower Courts considered that plaintiffs had lost their rights, because they had not been in possession of the land, or any part of it within twelve years before suit.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 13—contd.

On the question of limitation, held, that the case was governed by article 142 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, as plaintiff's were certainly dispossessed or discontinued possession in Sambat 1923 when the land went over to Kapurthala.

But held, further, that in reckoning limitation, plaintiffs were entitled to deduct the period from Sambat 1923 to Sambat 1937-38, during which the land remained part of the Kapurthala territory, under section 13 of the Limitation Act, as the defendants were certainly absent from British India during that period, and the fact that the subject-matter of the suit was also so absent was rather an additional than a less reason for holding that the section applied. GULAB KHAN v. PIRA. 34 P R 1889

2. Jurisdiction—Absent from British India—Companies Act—Fraud and misrepresentation—Repudiation.

The plaintiff Bank was registered under the Indian Companies Act, 1882, on 10th June 1884, as a limited liability company with a capital of five lakhs of rupees, divided into 2,500 shares of Rs. 200 each.

On 1st September 1884, a general meeting of the shareholders was held, at which six directors including one C., were elected, and one P. was appointed manager. These proceedings were confirmed at a subsequent meeting on 3rd October 1884.

Informal lists appear to have been in circulation in which persons entered their names for the shares they would take; but on 8th October 1884 only 1,111 shares had been formally taken, and 1,389 remained in the hands of the Bank undisposed of.

Between the 8th and 25th October 1884, C. visited Jodhpur with the express purpose of inducing the Princes of that State to take shares in the Bank. He succeeded in inducing them to take 975 shares, giving for them Promissory Notes at the rate of Rs. 125 per share, viz., Rs. 100 the amount called up by the Bank and Rs. 25 premium. In this way the present defendant-appellant, one of the Jodhpur Princes, took 400 shares and gave a Promissory Note for Rs. 50,000.

The remaining shares out of the 2,500 were disposed of by the end of December 1884, in the manner described in the judgment of the Chief Court reported as No. 127 P. R. 1889 (pp. 438, 439).

Upon a suit brought by the Bank to recover the amount due on the Promissory Note given by the defendant for Rs. 50,000.

Held, (1) that as decided in No. 127 P. R. 1889, the District Judge, Delhi, had jurisdiction to entertain the suit.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 13—concld.

(2). That the suit was not barred by limitation. It was not disputed that it was barred unless the plaintiff was entitled under section 13 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, to deduct the period during which the defendant had been "absent from British India." The defendant was not and never had been a resident of British India.

Persons with respect to particular territories are exhaustively divided into two classes —(1) those who are present within, and (2) those who are absent from those territories; and unless it can be affirmed that a person is or has been "present," it must necessarily follow that he is or has been "absent." I. L. R. XIV Calc. 457, followed.

(3). That the defendant's application for shares in October 1884 was made under the influence of fraud and misrepresentation, for which the Bank was responsible, and that he was consequently at liberty to avoid the contract when the fraud and misrepresentation came to his knowledge.

(4). That there had been a proper allotment of shares to defendant. His letters left no doubt that he fully understood that he was both a shareholder in, and a director of, the Bank, and that he accepted the position. The mere fact that the script had not yet been delivered to defendant, or that it was apparently as yet not even ready for delivery did not in any way prove that the shares were not in fact allotted to the defendant. (Buckley's Law and Practice under the Companies Acts, 564).

(5). That although defendant was entitled to repudiate the contract on the fraud and misrepresentation becoming known to him, he was bound to exercise this right within a reasonable time; this he had not done, and, therefore, he must be held to be still the owner of the shares standing in his name and bound to meet the Promissory Note given by him to the Bank in payment for the shares, to the extent of the true price of the shares at the time the Note was given. MAHARAJA SIR PARTAB SINGH v. PROVINCIAL BANK OF INDIA, LIMITED. 72 P R 1891

3. Absence of defendant from British India.

Under section 13 of the Limitation Act, a plaintiff is entitled to have excluded such time as the defendant is absent from British India, the fact that during such time the defendant has paid occasional visits to British India does not render the said section inapplicable.

In computing the period of limitation prescribed for a suit, the time during which the defendant has been absent from British India should be excluded, notwithstanding that time had begun to run against plaintiff previously to defendant leaving British India.

I. L. R. IV All. 530, and I. L. R. VIII Bom. 561, followed; I. L. R. VI Bom. 103, not followed. MUSSAMMAT JANKI v. MANOHAR LAL. 26 P R 1897

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 14.

1. Suit on an award—Previous proceeding to enforce the same award summarily—Exclusion of time occupied in such proceeding—Defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature.

In a suit based upon an award made by an arbitrator appointed by the parties, the plaintiffs in computing the limitation prescribed for the suit claimed to exclude the period during which they had been prosecuting against the same defendant a proceeding under section 525, Civil Procedure Code, the object of which was to procure the conversion of the same award into a decree. In the last named proceeding the first Court and lower Appellate Court assumed to grant the applicants the relief sought by them, but it was finally decided in the Chief Court that the award by reason of its indefiniteness was incapable of being converted into a decree in a summary proceeding under section 525 of the Code.

Held, that though the first Court had jurisdiction to entertain the application that the award should be filed, it was both within the letter and the spirit of section 14 of the Limitation Act to hold that the inability of the Court in a proceeding under section 525, Civil Procedure Code, to convert the award into a decree was an inability in that Court to entertain the proceeding from a cause of a like nature with a defect of jurisdiction in the Court, and that the fact that the plaintiff himself elected the summary remedy did not of itself debar him from claiming the benefit of section 14 of the Limitation Act. DHARM DAS v. ESHRI PERSHAD. 59 P R 1884

2. Suit dismissed for default—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 102—Application for re-admission—Applicant claiming to deduct time occupied in fresh suit eventually dismissed.

Plaintiff's suit having been dismissed for default under section 102 of the Civil Procedure Code, he filed a fresh suit in which he got a decree, which was, however, set aside on appeal on the ground that the suit did not lie. Plaintiff then applied for re-admission of the suit dismissed for default, and in computing the period of limitation claimed to deduct under section 14 of the Limitation Act, the time occupied in conducting the subsequent suit.

Held, that section 14 of the Limitation Act did not apply, the third clause of that section not providing for the deduction of the time during which the plaintiff has been bringing a suit which the Court is not legally empowered to entertain, and the preceding clauses not applying, as the definition of "suit" in section 3 of the Act excludes applications. SHBOJI RAM v. SHEO CHAND RAI. 63 P R 1886

3. And Schedule II, articles 69, 78, 80,—Exclusion of time of proceeding

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 14—contd.

bonâ fide in Court without jurisdiction—Cause of a like nature with want of jurisdiction—Suit upon dishonored hundis—Suit on hundis never presented for acceptance but only for payment.

In a suit based upon two hundis, which were drawn in favour of the plaintiffs by the defendants upon certain parties, who subsequently became insolvents, and which were not paid at maturity, it appeared that in a former suit the present plaintiffs had sued the same defendants upon the same hundis, alleging that they had not been paid at maturity, which suit was ultimately dismissed on the ground that as the plaint did not allege that the hundis had been presented for payment to the drawees and had been dishonoured by them, no cause of action was disclosed, and the suit in the form in which it was instituted was consequently unmaintainable. The plaintiffs supplied the defect which caused the dismissal of their former suit by presenting the hundis for payment, and on their being dishonoured instituted the present suit contending in answer to a plea of limitation set up by the defendants, (1) that article 78 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act (and not article 69 as the defendants contended) was applicable to the suit; (2) that even if article 69 was applicable, the plaintiffs were entitled, under section 14 of the Limitation Act, to deduct the period during which the first suit was pending, because that suit was dismissed upon a ground of a like nature to that of jurisdiction.

Held, that the last contention could not prevail, as the reason why the plaintiffs lost their first suit was, that they had not fulfilled those conditions which alone entitled them to come into Court, and the fault being entirely their own, they could not be held to have been bonâ fide prosecuting a cause with due diligence, when there was such a palpable flaw in their plaint that it had to be dismissed because it failed to disclose a cause of action. Moreover, the Court in which the suit was brought had a perfect right to entertain it, and it was not through "defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature" that the suit ended as it did, but simply because, in the opinion of the Court, the plaintiffs were not then in a position to sue at all. Dharm Das v. Eshri Pershad (No. 59 P. R. 1884) distinguished.

Held, further, that neither of the articles respectively contended for by the parties applied to a suit based, like the present, on a dishonoured hundi, payable at a fixed time after date, but which had never been presented for acceptance, but only for payment, but that article 80 governed the case, and that plaintiffs' suit was therefore barred by time, having been instituted more than three years from the date when the hundis became payable. RAM CHAND v. SHADI RAM. 19 P R 1888

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 14—contd.

4. And Schedule II, articles 113, 120—Suit on award—Deduction of period spent in proceedings to enforce the same award summarily—Cause of action—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 525.

In a suit on an award, it appeared that the plaintiff had originally applied to the Courts to enforce the same award summarily under section 525 of the Civil Procedure Code; that the lower Courts being of opinion that the award was too indefinite to be capable of execution had remitted it to the abitrators for reconsideration, and on receiving an amended award had ordered it to be filed and passed a decree in accordance with it. On appeal the Chief Court held that in a summary proceeding the lower Courts had no power to remit the award for reconsideration; and if they found the award too vague to be enforced, they should have refused the application to have it filed. The lower Court dismissed the regular suit subsequently brought upon the same award as barred by limitation under article 113 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, holding that though plaintiff would be entitled to deduct under section 14 of the Limitation Act the time spent in the previous proceedings if the cause of action was same then as now, the cause of action was not the same as plaintiff then came into Court to enforce the original award, whereas he now sued on that award as amended by a subsequent award or explanation.

Held, that the cause of action was the same in both proceedings, the ground on which plaintiff came into Court in both cases being the alleged settlement of the disputes between him and the defendants by an award made by the arbitrators named in the plaint; the arbitrators and the substantive award being the same in both cases, and the latter award being merely a supplement thereto. NIADAR MAL v. SHANKAR DASS. 67 P R 1898

5. Exclusion of time of proceeding bonâ fide in Court without jurisdiction—Meaning of term jurisdiction.

The plaintiff in the present suit claimed to be entitled to an allowance of time under section 14, Indian Limitation Act, 1877, under the following circumstances: defendant 1 in the present suit had sued defendants 2, 3 and 4 for pre-emption of certain land. The present plaintiff sought to be joined as a co-plaintiff in the prior suit alleging a superior right to the plaintiff (defendant 1 in the present suit), but the application was refused, the order being upheld on appeal.

The plaintiff then instituted the present suit against the same defendants, joining the plaintiff in the former suit (who obtained a decree therein) as an additional defendant. The plaintiff claimed, in computing the period of limitation, to exclude the time occupied in prosecuting his application in the first suit.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 14—contd.

Held, that the plaintiff's contention failed The Court in the first suit was unable to entertain the application to be made a co-plaintiff, in the sense of acting upon it, not for any defect of jurisdiction in the Court or other cause of a like nature, but by reason of the application being one which could not be granted by any Court whatever.

Defect of jurisdiction within the meaning of section 14 means a defect of jurisdiction in the particular Court where the former proceeding is instituted and not an inability shared by that Court in common with all other Courts to entertain the proceeding. SULTAN v. ALA BAKHSH. 45 P R 1893

6. Limitation Act, 1877, sections 10, 14—"Vested in trust"—Suit for recovery of money misappropriated by khazanchi of Native State—"Defect of jurisdiction or other like cause"—Suit based on void judgment of foreign Court.

Section 10 of the Limitatiou Act, 1877, has a limited application, and does not cover a suit brought against the khazanchi of a Native State to recover money said to have been misappropriated by him from the money in his charge, such money not being "vested in trust for any specific purpose," within the meaning of the said section.

Neglect or laches of the plaintiff either in stating his case or prosecuting his suit is not "a defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a "like nature," within the meaning of section 14 of the said Act, and the inability of the Court to entertain the suit must arise from either some unavoidable circumstance over which no one has any control, or something incidental to the Court itself, and unconnected with the acts of the parties.

Where, therefore, a plaintiff sued in a Court of competent jurisdiction, but based his suit on a foreign judgment which was a mere nullity, held, that he was not entitled to any deduction of time, under section 14 of the Act, by reason of such suit. RAJA OF FARIDKOTE v. SARDAR GURDYAL SINGH. 34 P R 1898

7. "Defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature"—Not applicable to defect "in form of suit."

Held, that section 14 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, does not apply to a case in which a plaint was found to be bad by reason of misjoinder of causes of action and of parties and was returned for amendment. And that the words in section 14 "is presented in good faith in a Court which from the defect of jurisdiction or other cause of a like nature is unable to entertain it" cannot be extended to cases in which a Court can entertain a suit, but is unable to pass a decree by reason of defect in the form of a suit.

34 P. R. 1898 (Raja of Faridkote v. Sirdar Gurdyal Singh), Narayanan Chetty v. Kannammai Achi, (1905) I. L. R. 28 Mad. 338

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 14—concld.

and India Publishers, Limited v. Aldridge, (1908) I. L. R. 35 Cal. 728 (F. B.) followed. Mathura Singh v. Bhawani Singh, (1900) I. L. R. 22 All. 248 (F. B.) dissented from. ALLAN KHAN v. DOST MUHAMMAD KHAN.

8 P R 1911

Section 18.

1. Suit for pre-emption—Fraud—Concealment of sale from pre-emptors.

In a suit for pre-emption, where the plaintiff's claim was barred by limitation unless he could establish fraud within the meaning of section 18 of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877), held, that the fact that the sale was not notified was not sufficient to bring the claim within limitation, but it must be shown that there was an industrious and artful concealment of the fact of sale, and the facts must necessarily lead to the inference that there was a design to keep the pre-emptors in the dark. Murad v. Bhag Singh (No. 46 P. R. 1879,) followed. ARSALA v. YAR MUHAMMAD.

32 P R 1881

2. Suit for pre-emption—Fraudulent concealment of sale by purchaser—Defective finding of Appellate Court—Allegation of fraud to be specific—Finding of fraud by Court to be precise.

In a suit for pre-emption of 2 plots of land, which was admittedly barred by limitation as to the plot first sold, unless saved by the provisions of section 18 of the Limitation Act, the finding of the lower Appellate Court was to the effect that the evidence proved that the fact of the sale of the first plot had been kept secret from the plaintiff, that the purchaser was already in possession of the land as mortgagee, and up to the time of the sale of the second plot of land had represented himself as holding only as a mortgagee.

Held, that this finding was not sufficient to sustain the decision that the suit was brought within time, first, because it did not find that the representation of the defendant purchaser was made by him in order that the pre-emptor might be kept from the knowledge of his right of action, and that the plaintiff was kept from such knowledge by this representation; secondly, because it was necessary to find that the fraud was committed while the plaintiff still had a right to institute the suit, that is to say, within one year of the registration of the deed of sale, and also that the suit was brought within one year from the date of the discovery of the fraud.

In all cases where fraud is alleged, it ought to be set forth specifically in particular and in detail, so that the person against whom it is charged may have a fair opportunity of knowing what he has to meet. So also, as fraud is a conclusion of law, the particular acts and intents which a Court considers to constitute fraud should be clearly and specifically found in order that there may be no difficulty in the way of a Court which subsequently has to deal with the same question, as a question of law. NIHAL CHAND v. FOUJDAR SINGH.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 18—contd.

3 P R 1882

3. Suit for pre-emption—Omission to give notice to pre-emptors—Fraudulent concealment.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the proprietor of the land in suit gave the defendant, his tenant-at-will, a right of occupancy in the said land in consideration of a cash payment, by a lease registered on the 31st August 1878, and after the death of the said proprietor, the defendant produced the deed in mutation proceedings before the Tahsildar on 8th October 1879, whereupon on 9th February 1880 the plaintiffs, the heirs of the proprietor, sued for pre-emption. The lower Appellate Courts held inter alia that, as no notice of the sale was given to the pre-emptors, the defendant must be held to have fraudulently kept the sale from which their rights arose a secret, and that therefore, under section 18 of the Limitation Act, limitation only began to run from the 8th October 1879, when the fraud became known to them.

Held, that omission to give notice to the pre-emptors does not amount to keeping them from a knowledge of their rights by fraud, and therefore section 18 of the Limitation Act did not apply; that the deed, which was described as a lease, was duly registered, and nothing indicating a design to deceive the pre-emptors was alleged, either in the plaint or the appeal to the first Appellate Court, and therefore the claim was barred by limitation. Ram Dyal v. Beli Ram (No. 29 P. R. 1878), Murad v. Bhag Singh (No. 46 P. R. 1879), and Arsala v. Yar Muhammad (No. 32 P. R. 1881), followed. GHIBA v. HAYAT.

120 P R 1883

4. Suit for pre-emption—Silence on part of vendor and vendee—Fraud.

In a suit for pre-emption in which limitation was pleaded, held (citing the previous decisions of the Court) that mere silence on the part of the vendor and vendee is not a fraud. To prove fraud within the meaning of section 18 of the Limitation Act, there must be some distinct act done with the intention of deceiving the pre-emptor or concealing the fact of the sale from him. GAUHRI MAL v. JAINTI MAL.

73 P R 1885

5 Act IV of 1872—Pre-emption—Fraud—Section 18, Limitation Act, 1877.

In a suit for pre-emption, which was primâ facie time-barred, the plaintiff relied upon section 18 of the Limitation Act as operating to save the claim. The specific allegations of fraud made in the plaint were found not to be substantiated, but the lower Courts held that the plaintiff was entitled to the benefit of the section upon the grounds :—

(1). That the purchaser was already in possession as mortgagee.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 18—contd.

(2). That the witnesses to the execution of the deed of sale were Hindus and were not taken before the Sub-Registrar.

(3). That the vendor now admits that he agreed with his purchaser to conceal the fact of the sale in order to defeat the right of pre-emptors.

(4). That the plaintiff had no knowledge of the sale.

(5). That great delay occurred in applying for mutation of names, the first intimation to the patwari being given in February 1889, and the proceedings even after that suspiciously hanging fire until August 1890.

Held, that as the plaintiff had failed to substantiate the specific acts relied upon in his plaint as constituting the fraud practised upon him, the Court could not feel satisfied upon the grounds stated that any active concealment of the sale had taken place and that the suit therefore failed.

No. 46 P. R. 1879, No. 3 P. R. 1882, and I. L. R. XV Calc. 533, referred to. ATMA RAM v. MEHARDIL KHAN.

91 P R 1893

6. Pre-emption—Fraudulent concealment of sale—Limitation Act, 1877, section 18, knowledge of facts, presumption as to.

In a suit for pre-emption it appeared that the deed of sale, which was described in two places in itself as a mortgage-deed, was dated 12th December 1876, and was registered on the same date at the tahsil, three or four miles from the village in which the land in suit was situate; that the marginal witnesses were residents of villages other than that in which the vendor and vendee resided, and where the land was situate; that from 1876 till 1895 the vendee continued to be recorded, as before, as tenant of the said land; that on the 19th September 1894, a measurement clerk reported that a sale had taken place, and that the vendee was in possession; that on the 1st October 1895 mutation of names was effected in the vendee's favour by order of the Tahsildar, and that the residents of the village in which the land was situate, as a body, were not aware of the sale. The plaint was filed in February 1896, concealment of the sale being therein alleged, and the pre-emptor, when examined before issues were framed, pleaded fraud by which he had been deceived. The first Court decreed the claim, finding that the fact of the sale became known to plaintiff on the 1st October 1895, and that there had been fraudulent concealment thereof, but the Divisional Judge, on appeal, dismissed the suit as barred by limitation, calculating either from the date of registration or from the 19th September 1894.

1729

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 18—contd.

Plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court, and in addition to the facts above mentioned, on which his allegation of fraudulent concealment was based, further urged in support of such allegation the fact that on the death of the vendor in 1881, his son was recorded as owner in his place.

Held, that though each of the facts above set forth, when taken alone, might be merely suspicious, yet when found to concur, they established fraudulent concealment within the meaning of section 18 of the Limitation Act.

Held, further, that fraudulent concealment having been established, respondent upon whom the onus rested, had not proved that the appellant had knowledge of the sale more than one year before suit, which was therefore within time. ABDUL RAHIM KHAN v. MUHAMMAD YAR. 12 P R 1898

7. Custom—Pre-emption—Limitation—Fraudulent concealment of sale.

Held, that the fact that a sale deed of house property situate in Bhiwani, District Hissar, had been registered at Bombay, where the parties though resident of the former place, were carrying on business, and that for some time the vendees had not obtained physical possession of the property, as it did not admit of physical possession, it being at that time in possession of certain tenants, did not establish a fraudulent concealment within the meaning of section 18 of the Limitation Act, and that under clause 2 of article 10 of that Act limitation began to run from the date the instrument of sale was registered. PANNA LAL v. BHAGWAN DASS AND OTHERS. 16 P R 1902

8. Limitation Act, 1877, section 18—Suit for pre-emption—Fraudulent concealment of sale by purchaser—Fraud—Assignment of immovable property by husband to wife in lieu of dower—Sale.

Held, that the expression " by means of fraud" as used in section 18 of the Limitation Act, means active deceit in defrauding or endeavouring to defraud a person of his rights by some artful device; therefore where the vendor and the vendee had by their acts of omission and commission in point of fact kept the pre-emptor from the knowledge of the sale, but were able to prove that neither of them had any intention to fraudulently conceal the sale from the pre-emptor, and were able to give a reasonable explanation of their conduct and the acts alleged to constitute fraud, held that the pre-emptor was not under the circumstance entitled to the benefit of the provisions of section 18 of the Limitation Act. The fraudulent act which kept from the plaintiff the knowledge of the transfer must in order to extend the period of limitation, be one which occurred, while the plaintiff had a right to institute the suit.

Semble: A transfer of immovable property by a husband to his wife in consideration of her dower must be regarded as a gift by the husband to the wife and not a sale subject to pre-emption.

1730

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 18—concld.

Nihal Chand v. Foujdar Singh (3 P. R. 1882), Ram Dyal v. Beli Ram (29 P. R. 1878), Murad v. Bhag Singh (46 P. R. 1879), Arsala v. Yar Muhammad (32 P. R. 1881), Gauhri Mal v. Jainti Mal (73 P. R. 1875), Atma Ram v. Mehardil Khan (91 P. R. 1893), and Mir Zaman Khan v. Mussammat Ghulam Fatima (88 P. R. 1901), cited.

Abdul Rahim v. Muhammad Yar (12 P. R. 1898), doubted. Fida Ali v. Muzaffar Ali (I. L. R. V All. 65), not followed. GHULAM RAZA v. SARDAR KHAN. 86 P R 1902

9. Pre-emption—Fraudulent concealment of sale—Burden of proving when fraud first became known to the plaintiff.

Where an original transaction is tainted by fraud it lies on the party against whom fraud is found to prove the want of knowledge was not caused by fraud or that the plaintiff had a clear and definite knowledge of the fraud for more than the period of limitation allowed.

Abdul Rahim Khan v. Muhammad Yar and others (12 P. R. 1898), cited. GORDHAN DAS v. AHMAD. 34 P R 1904

Section 19.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 20. 37 P R 1883

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 179. 61 P R 1886

1. And Schedule II, article 64—Suit for balance of account—Account stated—Acknowledgment of subsisting liability—Promise to pay.

In a suit for a balance of account, the plaintiff relied on a statement of account in his account book alleged to have been signed by the defendant within 3 years of the institution of the suit which was to the following effect: " Rs. 1,608-7-3 balance, details as follows— " Rs. 1,580 balance remains money to be receiv- " ed bearing interest Rs. 28-7-3 to be received " in the spring on Jeth budi 2, Sambat 1936."

Held, that the above entry amounted not only to an acknowledgment of a subsisting liability, but to a promise to pay the two items which constituted the total balance of Rs. 1,608-7-3 acknowledged to be due.

It is only a fair and reasonable construction that a memorandum signed by a debtor in the book of a creditor, which acknowledges that one specified sum is to be received by the creditor with interest, and another specified sum is to be received by him on a fixed date, contains a promise, though in an indirect form, that he will pay the sums specified. Ratta Ram v. Mussammat Nano (No. 3 P. R. 1878, F. B.) cited and followed. JYA RAM v. SADA RAM. 33 P R 1882

2 Signature by affixing seal.

Held, that the affixing of a seal or stamp, on which the name of the signatory is impressed, is a sufficient signing within the meaning of section 19 of the Limitation Act of 1877. GUR SAHAI RAM v. SADIK MUHAMMAD. 185 P R 1883

1731

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 19—contd.

3. Acknowledgment of existing liability—Acknowledgment in letter written within limitation when connected with previous correspondence written out of limitation—Evidence Act I of 1872, section 92 (6).

In a suit to recover from the defendant as surety the amount alleged to be due on a bond, together with the amount paid as premia on a policy of insurance which had been pledged by the defendant as security for the loan, the plaintiff relied upon a letter written by the defendant within three years of suit as an acknowledgment sufficient to save limitation under section 19 of the Limitation Act, contending that such letter amounted to a distinct acknowledgment of liability, if read in connection with former correspondence which was not itself within time as an acknowledgment.

Held, that though under the 6th proviso to section 92 of the Evidence Act, the previous correspondence could be referred to for the purpose of explaining any thing in the letter relied upon which required explanation, still this could not be done for the purpose of importing into it any acknowledgment which was not contained by implication at least in the terms of the letter itself, with any explanation which might be necessary to show how they were related to existing facts; and that as the letter in question, though it clearly implied an acknowledgment of the plaintiff's right to hold the policy as security for the debt, contained no acknowledgment of the personal liability for that debt which the plaintiff was now seeking to enforce, nor was there any acknowledgment of liability for premia already paid on the policy by the plaintiff, the plaintiff's plea failed. Morice v Simla Bank (No. 2 P. R. 1878,) cited. SIMLA BANK v BALL. 2 P R 1884

4. Suit for redemption of mortgage—Acknowledgment—Agreement to refer to arbitration.

In a suit for redemption of a mortgage made in 1820, it appeared that in 1876, in a suit between the same parties, the present defendant signed an agreement to refer to arbitration a dispute as to the expenses incurred by him in the property now in suit. That document described the suit as one "to redeem a one-storied house," and in the body of the agreement mentioned the house as the " mortgaged house."

Held, that the above document contained a sufficient acknowledgment for the purpose of section 19 of the Limitation Act of 1877. RAM RAKHA v. KARAM CHAND. 97 P R 1884

5. Application for execution of decree—Application in respect of a "right"—Acknowledgment of decree-holder's right to execute.

Held, following Ramhit Rai v. Satgur Rai (I. L. R. 3 Allahabad, 247), that an application for execution of a decree is an application in respect of a right within the meaning of section 19, Act XV of 1877.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 19—contd.

A deed which acknowledged receipt of certain houses "in part of the money of a "decree which had been passed against him "(the vendor) which is now in course of "execution, on account of my father's debts," held, in subsequent proceedings for execution of the decree which answered to the above description, to contain an acknowledgment of liability in respect of the decree-holder's right to execute his decree within the meaning of the above section of the Limitation Act. BHAGAT RAM v. CHINT RAM. 28 P R 1885

6. Power of guardian to sign acknowledgment of liability—Duly authorised agent—Act XL of 1858.

Held, that guardians appointed under Act XL of 1858 carrying on a family business must be held to be agents duly authorised to sign acknowledgments of liability, within the meaning of section 19 of the Limitation Act, which would bind the minors. BEHARI LAL v. CHATTAN LAL. 25 P R 1886

7. Acknowledgment of liability—Balance struck—Promise to pay—Act IX of 1872, section 25.

A written balance of account, which merely showed that the accounts were balanced and found correct, but contained nothing either expressly or by reasonable and necessary implication binding the debtors to pay, no day being fixed for payment, nor any rate of interest being agreed upon, held, though an admission of liability sufficient to meet the requirements of section 19 of the Limitation Act, not to amount to a promise to pay within the meaning of section 25, clause 3 of the Contract Act, so as to bring within limitation items already barred when the balance was struck. Ladhu Shah v. Fazl Dad (No. 72 P. R. 1879) and Jya Ram v. Sada Ram (No. 33 P. R. 1882), distinguished PANDIT HARKISHEN DAS v. PIR BAKHSH. 36 P R 1886

8. Suit for redemption of mortgage—Acknowledgment of mortgagor's right to redeem.

In a suit for redemption of a mortgage, it appeared that the plaintiff was the heir of a mortgagor who had previously obtained a decree for possession of the same property on payment of a specified sum, which decree the said mortgagor never executed, and as the period for execution had expired the plaintiff as his representative brought the present suit for possession on payment of the amount previously fixed. It was found that the mortgage was more than 60 years old when the suit was instituted, but to save limitation, plaintiff relied on an admission made by the mortgagees in answer to the previous suit as amounting to an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of section 19 of the Limitation Act, XV of 1877. The acknowledgment relied upon was to the following effect: "About fifty years ago K., "the original mortgagor, owed our grand-"father T. Rs. 2,200, and the said K. had "no property except a dwelling house and the "land in dispute. So T. took the house "in mortgage for Rs. 700, and the land for "Rs. 1,500, and the said K. agreed that "whenever any representative of his should "pay Rs. 2,200, he would redeem."

Held, that the above extract from the defendants' written answer contained a distinct acknowledgment of the mortgage, and as it was made before the period of 60 years prescribed for a suit for redemption had expired, the present suit was within time, as a new period of limitation began to run from the date of the acknowledgment. BALMOKAND v. RAMJI LAL. 20 P R 1887

9. Acknowledgment of liability—Set-off.

In a suit for the money alleged to be due under a contract for work done by the plaintiff for the defendants, to which article 56, Schedule II of the Limitation Act was held to apply, and which was primâ facie barred by time under that article, the plaintiff relied upon a letter written after he had sent in his account for work done, and signed by the defendants, as an acknowledgment of liability sufficient to give a new period of limitation under section 19 of the Limitation Act. The letter relied upon was to the following effect: "I find the account against you amounting "to Rs 1,743, and the credits you are entitled "to are Rs. 503, leaving a balance due to "the company (defendants) of Rs. 1,239. I "enclose details of each side of the account "and must request a very early settlement "of the same."

Held, that the above letter was not an acknowledgment of any amount due for work done by the plaintiff accompanied by, or coupled with, a refusal to pay or a set off; but was rather a demand for a sum of money accompanied by an admission of a set-off reducing the amount demanded, that is, not such a document as section 19 allows to save the expiry of the limitation period. MURREE BREWERY CO. v. HAZURA MAL. 60 P R 1887

10. Acknowledgment of mortgagor's right to redeem—Entry in Settlement Record.

Certain entries in a village Settlement Record, viz, certain items in the khewat, read with a clause in the Wajib-ul-arz, held (under the circumstances of the case) not to amount to an acknowledgment in writing such as would, under section 19 of the Limitation Act, save the right of redemption to the representatives of the original owners.

Deota v. Kesho (No. 93 P. R. 1877), cited. Lala Mal v. Gulam Mahomed (No 32 P. R. 1880), and Gugan v. Jawanna (No. 1541 of 1883. unpublished) followed. MAKSUD ALI v. SALAR BAKHSH. 63 P R 1888

11. Acknowledgment—Signature by dictation—Balance struck.

Certain debtors authorised a writer to write the following in the creditor's book of accounts: "Lakeha B. V. and R. (Debtors)," This was followed by what was sufficient as an acknowledgment. The debtors did not sign, seal, or mark the book.

Held, that the fact that the debtors dictated the above to the writer amounted to their signature and acknowledgment, the law not prescribing that the signature should be in any particular form or place. RAM DITTA v. IBRAHIM-UD-DIN. 122 P R 1889

12. And section 21—Acknowledgment by one partner—Liability of other partners.

A firm stopped its business in 1882. In 1883, H., one of the partners, struck a balance in favour of the plaintiff. Held, that as at the time the business was not a going concern, but existed only for winding up its affairs, the balance struck by H. did not bind the other partners. It could not be said that H. was acting as a duly authorized agent of the firm. It was next contended that the acknowledgment by H. was binding on N., another partner, who instigated and advised H. to make the acknowledgment. N. pleaded that H. was authorized to make the acknowledgment by the firm, and that he was ready to pay what might be proved due along with the rest of the partners.

Held, that this admission should not be construed so as to give an effect to it which was never intended. The true effect of N.'s admission was that he would be liable in case the joint liability of the partnership were established as a condition precedent. This having failed, it was clear that H.'s signature was not on behalf of N., and therefore N. was not liable.

All the partners of a firm should be made parties to a suit. NAUBAT RAI v. SEVA RAM. 140 P R 1889

13. Acknowledgment—Duly authorised agent—Sale of goods to firm represented by minors—Appointment of two joint guardians by Court under Act XL of 1858—Power of one guardian to sign acknowledgment on his own behalf and on behalf of his co-guardian.

Defendants (minors) carried on a family business through their guardians J. and D. appointed by the Court under Act XL of 1858. Plaintiffs sold goods to the firm and in due course called upon the guardians to settle accounts. J. who had been left to do the whole work of guardianship by D. signed a balance in favour of the plaintiffs. In a suit to recover the balance limitation was pleaded.

Held, that J. signed the balance as the duly authorized agent of D. The words "duly authorized in that behalf" do not mean specially or expressly authorized. They are merely the proper description of an agent acting within the scope of his powers, ordinary or special. JODH RAJ v. CHUTTAN LAL. 7 P R 1890

14. Acknowledgment in writing—Statement recorded by Court reader—Signature.

In a suit for redemption of mortgage, it appeared that in a similar suit for redemption brought in 1860, one of the present defendants and the father of the other made one statement, in which they acknowledged that they held the land on mortgage. At the end of this statement was a mark of the pen under the words 'alald muzhir,' and the names of the deponents were written at the head of the statement.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 19—contd.

Held, that this was a sufficient acknowledgment in writing signed by the mortgagees within the meaning of section 19, Limitation Act, 1877.

Nos. 122 and 145 P. R. 1889 referred to. JEBA v. CHAMAN. 16 P R 1891

15. Suit for redemption—Entry of mortgagee in proprietor's column in Settlement Record—Signature at foot of administration paper—Acknowledgment.

In the Settlement Records of 1852 and 1865 there was an entry of the defendants in the proprietor's column as mortgagees in possession of the mortgagor's (plaintiff's) land. There were no special signatures to these entries, and the only signature of defendants to the Records at all was that of J. S., a lambardar (presumably the defendant of that name), which appeared with that of four other lambardars at the foot of the Wajib-ul-arz. It did not appear that this signature had any special connection with the entry of the mortgage.

Held, that this was not a sufficient acknowledgment of the mortgage to satisfy the requirements of section 19 of the Limitation Act, 1877, and that the plaintiff's suit for redemption was barred by limitation. JAWALA SINGH v. SHER SINGH. 116 P R 1891

16. Suit for redemption—Plea that suit was barred by limitation—Burden of proof—Entries in Settlement Record—Acknowledgment by defendant—Act IX of 1871, 2nd Schedule, article 148, and Act XV of 1877, section 19.

Held, that in a suit for redemption of land, admittedly mortgaged some considerable time previously, where limitation is pleaded, the burden of proving that the right to redeem is still subsisting, lies in the first instance upon the plaintiff.

The plaintiff to succeed must prove affirmatively either that the suit is filed within 60 years of the date of the mortgage, or that it is within time by reason of some written acknowledgment legally sufficient to save the claim. A failure to prove even the approximate date of the original transaction may be fatal to the claim.

In the case of a mortgage made more than 60 years before the 1st October 1877, in which an acknowledgment on the part of the defendant of plaintiff's right of redemption is alleged, it is necessary to show that the acknowledgment in question was sufficient under article 148 of Act IX of 1871, so as to keep the claim alive until Act XV of 1877 became law, for in that case only could the provisions of section 19 of the later Act be relied upon. GHULAM HASSAN v. HAJI MUHAMMAD. 53 P R 1894

17. Acknowledgment of liability—Mortgage.

Plaintiff instituted a suit on the 19th August 1895 for redemption of a mortgage which was effected in Phagan Sambat 1882. The suit was dismissed by the first Court as barred by limitation, but on appeal the Divisional Judge held that a statement made by certain of the mortgagees in a mortgage deed executed by them on the 18th November 1862, to the effect that the land in suit was mortgaged to them, amounted to an acknowledgment of liability within the scope of section 19 of the Limitation Act, 1877. The said statement was as follows : Jo minjanib Pir Bakhsh pas man mukiran rahn hai. The Divisional Judge having remanded the suit under section 562, Civil Procedure Code, the mortgagees appealed to the Chief Court.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 19—contd.

Held, upholding the order of the Divisional Judge, that the said statement amounted to an acknowledgment of liability within the scope of section 19 of the Limitation Act, 1877, and that, therefore, plaintiff's suit was not barred by limitation. JALLI v. MAHAR PIR BAKHSH. 9 P R 1897

18. And section 20—Guardian and ward—Acknowledgment of debt by Court of Wards as guardian of minor.

Sardar K. S., father of defendant, died in 1881 largely indebted to plaintiffs, and on his death defendant was placed under the guardianship of the Court of Wards. On the 21st December 1881, a list of debts due from defendant's estate was prepared by the Court of Wards, and an item of Rs. 5,344 was placed on the said list as due to plaintiffs. On the 21st March 1882, the Deputy Commissioner, as President of the Court of Wards, informed the plaintiffs that payment of their debt must be deferred until certain mortgage debts upon defendant's estate were settled and accordingly plaintiffs waited for payment of their money, until 1888, when they made an application to the President of the Court of Wards to the effect that, as all the said mortgages had been paid off, the debt due to them should be settled. On the 2nd March 1889 an order was made that Rs. 200 should be paid to plaintiffs, who on the 11th October 1889 again applied for payment of their debt in full. Thereupon, the President called for a report from the General Manager of the Court of Wards, who reported to the effect that "Rs. 700 should "be paid for the present to applicants ; in a "little time the house of Sardarni D. K. will "be auctioned, and from this the debt will be "paid." The order of the President upon this report—was "tajwiz manzur hai ; hasab report General Manager bilfel Rs. 700 diya jawe." This was initialled by the President and bore date 27th January 1890.

On the 27th January 1893 plaintiffs sued for the balance of the debt, and in answer to defendant's objections that the suit was barred by limitation, pleaded that in 1882 when the defendant's estate was taken charge of by the Court of Wards, there was a fresh contract between the Deputy Commissioner, as guardian of defendant, and plaintiffs, whereby the old contract was superseded ; that under the new contract limitation only began to run when the mortgage debts were paid off in 1888 ; that the payments of Rs. 200 in 1889 and Rs. 700 on the 27th January 1890 amounted to an acknowledgment, binding on the minor, that the debt existed, and that, consequently, the suit was within limitation. The Divisional Judge, on appeal, held that the action of the Deputy Commissioner in 1882 amounted to a fresh contract as contended by plaintiffs, and that the payments of Rs. 200 and Rs. 700 were part payments of the debt within the meaning of section 20, Limitation Act. On appeal to the Chief Court, it was contended on behalf of defendant that the findings of the Divisional Judge were wrong, and further that the President of the Court of Wards could not, in any case, bind defendant by any acknowledgment of indebtedness.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 19—contd.

Held, (i) that there was a fresh contract superseding the former contract, between the Deputy Commissioner, as defendant's guardian, and the plaintiffs in 1882 ; (ii) that the payments of Rs. 200 and Rs. 700 were not part payments within the meaning of section 20, Limitation Act, but that the order of the Deputy Commissioner, dated 27th January 1890, directing payment of Rs. 700 to plaintiffs, contained a sufficient acknowledgment of their rights within the meaning of section 19 of the said Act ; and (iii) that such acknowledgment was binding on the defendant and saved limitation, the suit having been brought within three years from the date thereof. SARDAR BACHATTAR SINGH v. JAGANNATH. 1 P R 1897

19. Limitation Act, 1877, section 19—Acknowledgment of mortgage—Entry in Settlement record—Redemption—Signature.

The plaintiff sued to redeem certain agricultural land which they alleged had been mortgaged to the defendants fifty years before suit. The defendants pleaded that the land was mortgaged in 1823 A. D., and that the suit was therefore barred by limitation. The plaintiffs relied upon the following entry in the record of rights of 1872 Settlement as an acknowledgment sufficient to save limitation.

"Aj malikan wa murtahinane asaltan hazir hokar mere samne zar khewat mai raqam sawai taidad-a-kita wa arazi wa zari rahn marhuna ko sunkar tasdik wa taslim kiya chunanche mutabik iske parcha diya gaya."

This document purported to have been drawn up and attested and signed by the Assistant Settlement Officer.

Held, that this was not a sufficient acknowledgment in writing signed by the mortgagees within the meaning of section 19 of the Indian Limitation Act. The Assistant Settlement Officer could not be presumed to be a duly authorised agent of the mortgagees so as to bring the acknowledgment within the purview of that section, and that, therefore, the entry signed by him could not prevent the operation of the Statute of Limitation. Gul Muhammad v. Akbar (145 P. R. 1889, and Jowala Singh v. Sher Singh (116 P. R. 1891) referred to. BAHADUR v. NANKA RAM. 53 P R 1905 F. B.

20. And articles 64, 85—Unsigned statement of account in defendant's books—Acknowledgment—Mutual account—Contract—

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 19—contd.

Contract to pay a debt barred by Limitation Law—Contract Act, 1872, section 25 (c).

Held, that a bare statement of account in a defendant's books in the hand-writing of the plaintiff himself such as "Daskhat (plaintiff) rupia 53,526-5-9 hisab semajki baqi nikali" made up largely of a barred item transferred from another account which had not been signed by the defendant or his authorised agent in that behalf is useless for the purposes of limitation, and does not create a fresh starting point as it neither amounts to an acknowledgment within the provisions of section 19, nor to an account stated under article 64 of the Limitation Act or to a promise to pay within the meaning of section 25 (c) of the Indian Contract Act. In such a case the transfer of the barred item without observation of due formalities to a mutual open and current account even with defendant's consent cannot over-ride the Law of Limitation. GULZARI MAL v. KISHAN CHAND.

132 P R 1907

21. Admission of liability contained in a jawabdawa of one of the debtors cannot bind the other debtors.

Held, that an admission made by one of the judgment-debtors in a jawabdawa that a certain decree was a subsisting decree capable of execution does not amount to an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of section 19 of the Limitation Act, so as to give a fresh starting point for execution of such decree. BHAGWAN SINGH v. MOHAN LAL. 54 P R 1908

22. Suit on balance of account—Acknowledgment of subsisting liability—Promise to pay a barred debt—Contract Act, 1872, section 25 (c).

Plaintiff sued upon a balance of account, dated 7th May 1902, alleged to be attested by the defendant which was to the following effect :—

"Baki rahe lene lekhe uparle de, akhrin 3,760 -Baisakh parvishta 27, Sambat 1959, "Tiket ek anna lagaya gia, zabani Bibi Jaso-" dan, bewa Hukam Chand, zat Khatri, sakin" Qasba Hajipur, Kanungo mablagh 3,760—" rupaya bazima Jasodan ke Shankar Das" Shah ke dene rahe, etc."

The defence having pleaded limitation, it was discovered that the account between the parties ended in 1878, since when nothing was paid or received, but with a view to keep the claim alive for the purposes of limitation eight balances were struck just within three years of one another, i.e., in 1881, 1884, 1887, 1890, 1893, 1899 and 1902. Of these, the first two were signed by a brother of the defendant, and the third, fourth, fifth and sixth by persons alleged to be her agents, of which fact there was no proof at all on the record except the bare statement of the plaintiff himself, and the seventh and eighth were alleged to have been attested by the defendant herself.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 19—contd.

Held, that the entry in suit, i.e., of 1902, neitther amounted to a valid acknowledgment of debt, nor to such a promise to pay as would give a new period of limitation in the one case under section 19 of the Limitation Act, and in the other under section 25 (3) of the Contract Act. It did not amount to an acknowledgment, because the entries of 1887 to 1896 not having been signed by some one duly authorised in this behalf by the defendant the latter acknowledgments referred to a barred debt and were made after the expiration of the period prescribed for its recovery. Similarly, being a bare statement of account and containing none of the ingredients. required by clause 3 of section 25 of the Contract Act, it was not a promise to pay within the meaning of that section. SHANKAR DAS v. JASODHAN.

102 P R 1908

23. And section 14—Acknowledgment—Acknowledgment in case of decree—New period—Exclusion of time of proceeding bonâ fide.

A obtained a decree in 1900 against B with a lien on a tea garden. In 1901 C in execution of a money-decree, which he had obtained in 1893 against B, attached that garden. B wrote two letters to A in March 1901 and October 1903 telling him about the attachment and asking him to inform the executing Court of his lien and to apply for recovery of the amount of his decree out of the sale-proceeds. A accordingly applied twice in 1901 and 1902 and recovered the amount due to him under his decree, but on appeal by B the execution sale was in 1905 set aside on the ground of irregularity, and A was made to refund the amount he had received out of the sale-proceeds. Immediately after A applied for execution of his own decree, B pleaded that the application for execution not having been filed within three years from the date was barred by limitation.

Held, that the letters written by B to A in 1901 and 1903 amounted to an acknowledgment of A's right to execute and obtain satisfaction of the decree within the meaning of section 19 of the Indian Limitation Act, and saved A's application for execution from the bar of limitation.

Held also, that A was entitled under section 14 of the Act to exclude the period, which elapsed between the date of his first application made in 1901 and the date on which he was ordered to refund the amount received by him out of the sale-proceeds of the tea garden.

Query.—Whether the applications of 1901 and 1902 were not "steps in aid of execution" within the purview of article 179 (4) of the Act. PEACHEY v. PUNJAB BANKING COMPANY, LIMITED, LAHORE. 52 P R 1909

24. Indian Limitation Act, XV of 1877, section 19—Acknowledgment—Mortgage entry in settlement record—Signature of one of the mortgagees and of Settlement Officer.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—concld.

Section 19—concld.

Held, that where a suit is brought to redeem a mortgage more than 60 years old, and the plaintiff relies upon an entry in a Settlement record (the signature of one of the two mortgagees being found at the end of the muntakhib khewat papers, in which the entry of mortgage occurs though not on the entry itself) as an acknowledgment within the meaning of section 19 of the Indian Limitation Act, it must be shewn—

(a) that the Settlement Officer, who signed the record, was an agent duly authorised by the two mortgagees to make the entry of the mortgage in the muntakhib khewat or

(b) that the signature (among a mass of other signatures) of one mortgagee at the end of that document, in which it is not denied that these mortgagees are shewn also as proprietors of other holdings in the village, can be properly referred to this mortgage entry.

Held also, that neither of these conditions obtained in the present case. (Question discussed whether section 19, Limitation Act, was intended to apply to cases of acknowledgment of the continued existence of a mortgage). GANGA RAM v. POKHAR DAS.

39 P R 1910

25. And Schedule II, article 56—Acknowledgment by agent.

Held, that a letter addressed to the principal by the agent within 3 years of the completion of the work by the plaintiff was a sufficient acknowledgment of liability in respect of the plaintiff's claim within the meaning of section 19, explanation I. ABDUL ALI v. GOLDSTEIN. 43 P R 1910

26. Held, that under the provisions of section 19, of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, an acknowledgment may be signed by an agent duly authorised and an agent who has authority to receive goods for his principal has also implied authority to sign an acknowledgment of balances due, and that such acknowledgment is good although the correction of the amount is not admitted and is conditional and subject to the principal's approval. SHERU MAL CHUIA MAL v. GOLDSTEIN. 55 P R 1910

Section 20.

1. Payment by agent after death of principal—Act IX of 1872, section 201.

Held, that a payment made by an agent after the death of his principal cannot give a fresh starting point from which to calculate limitation with reference to section 20 of Act XV was still subsisting on the 1st October 1877, when Act XV of 1877 came into force; but that in any case the suit could not be said to have become barred under Act IX of 1871, as the plaintiff, by accepting subsequent instalments after default made had waived the benefit of the provision entitling him to demand payment of the entire debt, and had continued to waive that benefit till within 12 years of suit, as he could do, the law not limiting the number of waivers, and the principal of article 75 of the 2nd Schedule of Act XV of 1877 being applicable by analogy to the case of a bond hypothecating immovable property.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 20—contd.

Held, also that article 63 of the 2nd Schedule of Act XV of 1877, (or article 61, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871) was wholly inapplicable to the suit, as, under the terms of the bond, both interest and principal were chargeable upon the property hypothecated as security, and therefore the same law which applied to the latter applied to the former.

Held, further, per RATTIGAN, J., (BARKELY, J. dissenting as to this), that article 147 of the 2nd Schedule of Act XV of 1877 was applicable to the suit, as a suit for sale within the meaning of that articles includes a suit in which the mortgagee expressly prays to be allowed to realise his debt solely from the mortgaged property; but that, if article 147 were not applicable, article 132 would apply, and the claim for interest, which was for 11 years and 5 days, would still be within time.

Held, per BARKLEY, J. that article 132, and not article 147, was applicable to the suit, as the plaint was not in the form prescribed for a plaint for sale by section 644 of the Civil Procedure Code (4th Schedule, No. 109) and the prayer in the plaint could not be regarded as a prayer for the sale of the property and payment out of the proceeds, such as is provided for by the prescribed form but rather that the sum due should be ascertained and declared a charge on the property. RAM NATH v. MUSSAMMAT JIO. 101 P R 1880

2. And section 2—Act IX of 1871, section 21—Suit on balance of account—Effect of part payment of principal—Contract in writing—Claim barred under Act IX of 1871 not revived by Act XV of 1877.

In a suit on a balance of account alleged to have been struk on the 8th January 1879, but which was not signed by the debtors, it appeared that there were no debit entries in the account for some ten years before suit, but it was urged for the plaintiffs that certain entries of part payments of the principal debt entered in the accounts in one of the defendant's hand-writting, were sufficient to bring the suit within limitation, under section 20 of Act XV of 1877.

Held, that as for more than three years before the 1st October 1877, the defendants had contracted no fresh items of debt, a suit for the balance them due would have been barred; as under the former Limitation Act (IX of 1871) in order that a part payment of a debt recorded in the hand-writting of the debtor should give a fresh starting point for limitation, it was the necessary that the debt should have arisen from a contract in writing which was not the case in the present suit: that therefore on the 1st October 1877, when Act XV of 1877 came into force, the plaintiffs claim upon the account was barred, and under section 2 of that Act could not be revived by the provision contained in section 20 of the new Act. GOBIND RAI v. CHAJJU MAL. 62 P R 1881

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 20—contd.

3. And section 19—Effect of payment of produce by mortgagor to mortgagee—Extension of period for redemption.

Section 20 of the Limitation Act is merely intended to extend the period of liability for a debt or legacy, and a plaintiff suing to enforce the debt secured by a mortgage might avail himself of the payment of produce to bring his suit within Limitation: but the section does not operate to protect the right of a mortgagor to redeem his property or to extend the ordinary period allowed by law for the assertion of that right. The only way that the period for the latter right can be extended is by an acknowledgment in writing fulfilling the requirements of section 19 of the Act. KHILANDA RAM v. JINDA. 37 P R 1883

4. Part payment of principal of debt—Indorsement of part payment not in the hand-writing of the payer but signed by him—Sufficiency of such indorsement to interrupt limitation.

Held, that an indorsement on a bond of part payment of the principal not in the hand-writing of, but signed by, the payer is sufficient to interrupt limitation within the meaning of section 20 of the Limitation Act, as the words "the fact of the payment appears in the hand-writing of the person making the same are satisfied by the payer attaching his signature to a writing setting out the fact of the payment. NARSINGH DAS v. BACHATAR SINGH. 99 P R 1884

5. Part payment of decree—Payments not appearing in hand-writing of judgment-debtor.

Certain payments made by a judgment-debtor out of Court and certified by the decree-holder in an application to the Court held, not to bring the application within time under section 20 of the Limitation Act, as assuming (without deciding) that sections 19 and 20 of the Limitation Act apply to proceedings in execution of decree, the facts of the present case were such as to exclude their operation, as part payment to take effect under section 20 of the Limitation Act must appear in the hand-writing of the person making the payment, which was not the fact in the present case. CHAJJU v. GULAB. 61 P R 1886

6. Part payment of principal—Endorsement by debtor.

Held. following I L R IX Mad., 271, that under section 20 of the Limitation Act, 1877, the fact which must appear in the hand-writing of the person making the payment is the fact that the payment is the part payment of the principal of a debt and that the creditor is not entitled to prove aliunde that the payment of a sum of money by his debtor was made as part payment of the principal of the debt.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 20—contd.

The main object of the proviso attached to section 20 of the Limitation Act, is that there shall be clear and unmistakable evidence in the hand-writing of the person making the payment of the fact that he made it in part payment of principal and thereby impliedly admitted that he was still liable for payment of the balance of principal.

I. L. R., VI Mad., 281, dissented from. DIWAN BUTA SINGH v. HUKAM CHAND.

124 P R 1894

7. And section 19—Guardian and Ward—Acknowledgment of debt by Court of Wards as guardian of minor.

See SECTION 19 supra.

1 P R 1897

8. An acknowledgment of a motgagor's title by a minor is inoperative and cannot give a new starting point for limitation for redemption. ANIS-UL-REHMAN KHAN AND OTHERS BENI RAM AND OTHERS.

59 P R 1901

9. And article 64—Suit for balance of accoun—Account stated—Acknowledgment of liability—Promise to pay—Contract Act, section 25 (c)—Stamp Act, 1899, Schedule I—Article 1.

The striking of a balance in account books may, according to the cases by the particular case, amount merely to an acknowledgment of liablity or of the correctness of the account so stated, or it may constitute a new cause of action. No general rule can be laid down and everything depends upon the facts of each case.

Plaintiff sued upon a statement of account in his account book alleged to have been signed by the defendant which was to the following effect:—

" Lekha Ganpat Nanda Virwala da Sambat
" 1957 Mitti Katak 23 Rs. 51-14-0 baqi adhe
" Rs. 51-14-0 hathi Ganpat di Nanda di
" mawarikhi 23 Katik 1957 mabligh Rs.
51-14-0 rubaru Ibrahim."

This entry bore an anna stamp.

Held, that the above entry contained no promise to pay, nor was it a new contract in substitution of the original cause of action between the parties, but was a mere acknowledgment of liability of the debt then alleged to exist and was rightly stamped with a one anna stamp.

Held, also, that the plaintiff was entitled to prove that at the time of settlement the defendant had agreed by a separate oral contract to pay interest at a given rate on the amount settled by them to be due.

Ratta Ram v. Mussammat Nano (3 P. R. 1878, F. B.), Manjunatha Kamti v. Devamma (I. L. R. XXVI Mad. 186), Ladhu Shah v. Fazal Dad (72 P. R. 1879), Jyu Ram v

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 20—contd.

Sada Ram (33 P. R. 1882), and Pandit Har Kishen Das v. Pir Bakhsh (36 P. R. 1886), cited.

Shankar v. Mukta (I. L. R. XXII Bom. 513), Jamun v. Nand Lal (I. L R. XV All. 1), and Ganga Prasad v. Ram Deyal (I. L. R. XXIII All. 502), not approved. GANPAT v DAULAT RAM. 68 P R 1904

10. Payment of principal—Facts of such payment must appear in writing of person making the payment.

To satisfy the conditions of section 20 of the Indian Limitation Act, it is not necessary that the writing evidencing the payment should contain an explicit statement in the handwriting of the person making the same that it is a payment made in part payment of the debt. It is sufficient if it is in fact a part payment.

Mandardhar Aith v. Secretary of State for India in Council (VI Calc. W. N. 218), Diwan Buta Singh v. Hukam Chand (124 P. R. 1894) cited and followed.

Sardar Bachittar Singh v. Jagan Nath (1 P. R. 1897), Mukhi Haji Rahmattulla v. Coverji Bhuja (I. L. R. XXIII Calc. 546, Joshi Bhaishankar v. Bai Parvati (I. L R. XXVI Bom. 246) Mackenzie v. Tiruvengadathan (I. L. R. IX Mad. 271), and Jada Ankama v. Nadimpale Rama I. L. R. VI Mad. 281), referred to. BUTA v. PARMA NAND. 84 P R 1904

Section 21.

1. Meaning of " only in section 21, Act XV of 1877.

Held, that the meaning of the word " only " in section 21 of the Limitation Act, 1877, is that the partner signing the acknowledgment must also be shown to have had the express or implied authority of the other partners to do so, and that in a going mercantile concern such authority is to be presumed as an ordinary rule. BICHHA LAL v. JAI PARSHAD. 45 P R 1899

Section 22.

1. Suit by minor against guardian for an account and for possession of immorable property—Trustee.

See SECTION 7, supra. 33 P R 1897

2. Pre-emption—Unregistered corporation sued through its manager—Names of members not specified—Plaint returned for addition of such names—Date of institution of suit.

See CORPORATION. 29 P R 1896

4. And sections 8, 9—Suit for balance of account—Institution of suit by managing member of joint family—Waiver by defendant of objection for want of parties—Subsequent addition of other members of the family as co-plaintiffs—Effect of such addition—Suit barred as against added parties—Minors—Power of manager of joint family to give discharge binding on minor member—Power of Manager to sue on behalf of minors where defendant has waived plea of misjoinder—Authority of manager to sue for adult member—Ratification of Manager's acts.

In a suit for a balance of account originally instituted by one B. M. alone, who it afterwards appeared was the managing member of a joint family, no objection for want of parties was taken by the defendent till a late stage of the case and after the suit had been tried as one between the defendant and B. M. alone. Plaintiff then admitted that he had a younger brother, one R. a minor, whose guardian he was, and that one S. S who had died before the suit leaving three sons, two of whom were minors, was a party to the account. On this N. the eldest son of S. S. presented a petition for himself and his minor brothers, to the effect that B. M. as manager of the joint family, was entitled to sue alone, and had instituted the suit with his consent. The first Court held that as B. M. had sued alone without obtaining the leave of the Court under section 30 of the Civil Procedure Code, he was only entitled to a decree for his own share, one-fourth of the amount claimed. After an appeal by B. M. to the Commissioner had been dismissed, the Chief Court remanded the case to the first Court that the proper parties might be joined as co-plaintiffs, and the question of the defendant's liability disposed of once for all. An amended plaint was then filed adding R. the brother of B. M. and N. T. and H. the sons of S. S. as plaintiffs, B. M. representing his brother R. who was a minor and N. representing his two minor brothers, T. and H. It was then contended among other pleas that the claims of all the newly-made plaintiffs were barred under section 22 of the Limitation Act. The 1st Court found that the business was a joint family business, but as the period of limitation for the suit had elapsed when the new plaintiffs were made parties, he dismissed the suit as barred by section 22 of the Limitation Act as against the new parties, and decreed one-fourth of the amount claimed in favour of B. M. as before. The plaintiffs appealed to the Commissioner who held that three of the new plaintiffs being minors no limitation ran against them, and as regards N. he held that the family being an undivided Hindu family, of which B. M. was the managing member, he must be considered to have instituted the suit as manager of the firm, and that therefore all the plaintiffs were entitled to a decree. A decree was accordingly given for the amount found to be due, the Commissioner holding that the account was an open mutual, and current account with reciprocal demands between the parties.

Held, that as regards N. his claim had certainly become barred when he was made a party under section 22 of the Limitation Act: that his minors brothers were in the same position by reason of section 9 of the Limitation Act as though they were minors their father had survived the striking of the balance sued upon, and limitation therefore began to run in his lifetime; and that as regards R. the minor brother of B. M. as a discharge by a managing member of an undivided Hindu family to a debtor to an ancestral business belonging to that family would be valid without the concurrence of the minor, when a discharge under the same circumstances by an adult partner would bind a minor co-partner, therefore with reference to III. (1) to section 8 of the Limitation Act, R.'s claim was also barred when he was made a co-plaintiff.

But held also, that plaintiff, B. M. as managing member of the family, could maintain a suit in his own name on behalf of the minor members of the family, at least where, as in this case, the defendant had waived the objection of non-joinder, and that as regards N. the only other adult member of the family whether express or implied authority had been given to B. M. to sue for him or not, N. having ratified his act in instituting the suit against the defendant by the petition before alluded to, the effect of that suit was the same as if authority to sue for N. existed when it was instituted. B. M. was therefore entitled to a decree for the whole claim. Lachman Das v Sunder Das (No. 124 P. R. 1879, Civil) and Kesar Singh v. Ganga Singh (No. 2 P. R 1882, Civil) referred to. SADULLA KHAN v. BHANA MAL. 58 P R 1882

5. Suit for pre-emption—Suit barred as against one of the defendant purchasers—Dismissal of suit as regards remaining defendants.

Plaintiffs sued for pre-emption in respect of certain property purchased by one M. S. and his brother jointly, the suit being instituted in the first instance against M. S. personally and as representative of his brother who had died before the date on which the suit was brought, the vendor also being joined as a defendant. On the first date on which the defendants were cited to appear for settlement of issues, M. S. took objection to the valuation of the suit, which led to an enquiry, and finally to fresh summonses being issued to the defendants to appear on a subsequent date for settlement of issues. At the last named hearing M. S. for the first time objected that his brother had left a widow who, as one of his heirs, was entitled to one fourth of his estate, and who accordingly should be joined as a defendant in the suit. The Court, considering that the widow should be made a party, passed an order to that effect, whereopon it was objected for the widow that the suit as against her was barred by limitation with reference to section 22 of the Limitation Act, and for M. S. that, as the suit was barred as regards the widow, it could not proceed against the other parties interested.

Held, that if it appeared that the case as against the widow was barred by limitation, the suit must be dismissed as against all the defendants, as the subject-matter of a pre-emption suit, when the property sold is one and subject to the same right of pre-emption being one and indivisible, and it being necessary that the suit should either be decreed as a whole or dismissed as a whole, it was not competent to the Court to decree a part of the claim as against some of the purchasers and dismiss the rest of the claim as against the other purchasers. KHAN MUHAMMAD SHAH v. MUHAMMAD JAN.

1747

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1887)—contd.

Section 22—contd.

104 P R 1882

6. Suit by one of several joint contractors - Addition of other plaintiffs after lapse of period of limitation.

Plaintiff, one D. R. and the defendant, as gomashtas, having entered into a partnership with certain capitalists to carry on a shop, on the terms that, when the business was wound up, the profit or loss should be divided in specified shares, the present suit was originally instituted by the said D. R. on behalf of the firm against the defendant on a balance struck by the latter when he retired from the partnership. Defendant objected to D. R. suing alone, two of the other persons interested having also already petitioned to be made co-plaintiffs, whereupon the other plaintiffs were ordered to be joined. Defendant then raised the plea of limitation, as more than 3 years had elapsed from the date of the balance when the other plaintiffs were made parties.

Held, that the plaintiffs being joint contractors with the defendant, it was clear that when the objection was taken the suit could not go on without joining all the parties entitled, and the result of section 22 of the Limitation Act being that limitation continued to run against the added plaintiffs until they were joined in the suit, the suit became barred as regards them, and consequently as regards D. R. who could not sue without them. Thakur Dass v. Golam Mohyuddin (No. 20 P R. 1882, Civil) and Sadulla Khan v. Bhana Mal (No. 58 P. R. 1882, Civil) referred to. DALLU RAM v. NIBAHU MAL.

8 P R 1886

7. Necessary parties—Effect of addition of new defendant.

Held, that where on the objection of the defendant it was found that a necessary party had been omitted without whose presence on the record the suit could not be adjudicated upon, and such party was added after the period of limitation had expired, the suit was barred against all the defendants under section 22 of the Limitation Act. RAM CHAND v. SUBHAN BAKHSH AND ANOTHER.

69 P R 1902

8. Section 22 of the Limitation Act applies even where a Court of its own motion adds party to a suit. NABI BAKHSH v. FAKIR MUHAMMAD.

25 P R 1903

9. Joint Hindu family—Suit by the managing member for debt due to the family—

1748

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 22—contd.

Joinder of other members interested in the family as defendants after the period of limitation.

Held, by the Full Bench, that when one out of several persons jointly entitled, either as partners, members of a Joint Hindu faimly, or otherwise, to sue, brings a suit in his own name within the period of limitation and subsequently after the period of limitation has expired joins those who were entitled to sue with him as defendants, such joinder does not render his suit liable to dismissal by reason of section 22 of the Limitation Act as against the original of real defendants, as that section does not apply where there is no community of interest between the two sets of defendants and the fresh parties are merely joined for the purpose of safeguarding the original defendant.

Roydonath Roy v. Grish Chunder Roy (I. L. R. III Cal. 26), Kale Khan v. Sera Ram (156 P. R. 1889 F. B)- Gururayya Gonda v. Dattatraya Anant (I. L. R. XXVIII Bom. 11), approved.

Ram Chand v. Subhan Bakhsh (69 P. R. 1902), Fakera Pasban v. Bibi Azimunnissa (I. L. R. XXVII Cal. 540), distinguished.

Ramsebuk v. Ram Lal Kundu (I. L. R. VI Cal. 815), Kalidas Kevaldas v. Nathir Bhagwan (I. L. R. VII Bom. 217), Alagappa Chetti v. Vellian Chetii (I. L. R. XVIII Mad. 33), Anjamuthu Pillai v. Kolandve'u Pillai (I. L. R. XXIII Mad. 190), and Sadulla Khan v. Bhana Mal (58 P. R. 1882), referred to. LABHU RAM v. KANSHI RAM.

57 P R 1905

10. Limitation Act, 1877, section 22—Suit for money against some of the representatives of a deceased debtor—Addition of other representatives after period of limitation.

In a suit for the recovery of a debt due to him on a contract from A. and B. the plaintiff brought his action within the period of limitation prescribed by law against A. and the two sons of B. Upon objection being taken that a necessary party had been omitted, the Court ordered a third son of B. to be impleaded as a defendant after the period of limitation had expired. Thereupon the defence pleaded limitation.

Held, that the suit against the original defendants was not barred by limitation in consequence of the provisions of section 22 of the Limitation Act

The benefit of section 22 extends only to the particular parties who are added after institution of a suit, and a plaintiff's suit cannot fail merely because he may have lost his remedy against an added defendant unless where this is a necessary result from the nature of the subject-matter of the suit.

Rao Ghulam Muhammad Khan v. Nahar Ali (53 P. R., 1896) referred to, JAWAHRI v. HARI SINGH.

81 P R 1905

11. Parties—Suit by one of two brothers for money due to them jointly on book account

1749

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 22—contd.

—Addition of other brother as co-plaintiff after period of limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, section 22.

A suit for the recovery of a debt due on a balance struck by the defendant was brought by one of two brothers jointly entitled to the amount due thereon. Upon objection being taken that a necessary party had been omitted the other brother was added as a co-plaintiff, but the claim at that time was barred by limitation.

Held, that as the original agreement or dealings were with both the brothers, they were both necessary parties to the suit, and that therefore, under section 22 of the Limitation Act, the suit was barred by limitation.

Rattan Chand v. Ram Purshad (69 P. R. 1906), followed. MOTAN MAL v. KIRPA MAL.

79 P R 1906

12. Pre-emption—Suit for pre-emption—Assignment by vendee pendente lite—Addition of assignee as co-defendant after period of limitation—Limitation.

The plaintiff brought an action to enforce a right of pre-emption within the period of limitation prescribed by law. The defendant-vendee assigned over his interest to a third party after the institution of the suit. On the application of the plaintiff, after the period of limitation had expired, the Court ordered the assignee to be impleaded as a co-defendant. Thereupon the defence pleaded limitation.

Held, that the suit was not barred by limitation in consequence of the joinder of the assignee. The provisions of section 22 of the Limitation Act do not apply when the original suit is continued against the added defendant who derives his title from the original defendant by an assignment pending the suit. FATTEH MUHAMMAD v. SAID AHMAD.

3 P R 1907

13. Pre-emption—Sale to two persons—Shares of vendee and price specified—Divisible contract—Assignment by one of the vendees—Addition of assignee after period of limitation—Effect of such addition—Limitation Act, 1877, section 22.

On 18th October 1900 B and C purchased certain land in proportion of two-thirds and one-third, the price paid by them was fully specified in the deed of sale. The plaintiff brought an action against both of the vendees to enforce a right of pre-emption in respect of the whole sale within the period of limitation prescribed by law. It having been proved that C had assigned over the interest to a third party long before the institution of the suit, the Court, on the application of the plaintiff after the period of limitation had expired, ordered the assignee to be impleaded as a co-defendant Thereupon the defence pleaded limitation The Court allowed the plea in favour of the assignee, but decreed the suit for two-thirds of the claim against B. The latter appealed on the ground that part of the claim being dismissed as barred by limitation, the whole suit ought to have been dismissed as barred—Held, that the price and shares being distinctly specified the sale was divisible, and the plaintiff was consequently not debarred from claiming the two-thirds shares sold to B by reason of dismissal of his suit in respect to the one-third share sold to C.—BRIJ LAL v. MASSAN. 6 P R 1909.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Section 22—concld.

14. Joint Hindu family—suit for recovery of a debt due to—Joinder of a co-parcener as defendant after the period of limitation.

Held, that where in a suit for recovery of a debt due to a joint Hindu family an alleged co-parcener is on the objection of the defendant added as a co-defendant to the suit after the expiry of the period of limitation, no question of limitation arises and such joinder does not render the suit liable to dismissal by reason of section 22 of the Limitation Act as against the real defendant. GOHRU v. AMIRA.

20 P R 1909

Section 23.

1. Continuing breach of contract.

See FOREST ACT, 1878. 16 P R 1899

2. Suit for custody of wife—Third person harbouring wife—Continuing wrong.

See ARTICLE 34, infra. 80 P R 1892

3. Suit by proprietors to compel occupancy tenants to reside in their village—Wajib-ul-arz—Lapse of more than 12 years from date when alleged forfeiture was incurred—Continuing breach of contract.

Plaintiffs, who were proprietors in the village of M., sued the defendants, for the purpose of either ejecting them from their occupancy holding or compelling them to reside in the village of M., basing their claim upon a provision in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village, which was to the effect that "if a resident of this village shall "leave his residence and go to and settle "in another village, he shall not be entitled "to cultivation and possession." It appeared that the defendants' father, who was an occupancy tenant in M., left that village more than 12 years before suit and settled in another village, at a distance of some 6 kos, in which he had proprietary rights, arranging during his life-time for the cultivation of the land in M., which was similarly cultivated by the defendants after the death of their father, which occurred 9 years before suit.

Held, that there could not be said to be a continuing breach of contract in the present case so as to render section 23 of the Limitation Act applicable, as there was no real relation of contract between the plaintiffs or their predecessors in title on the one hand as proprietors, and the father of the defendants or the defendants on the other hand as hereditary cultivators of the land in suit, such agreement as there was between all the proprietors of the village on the one hand and all the tenants on the other, not being one of which it could be said that it was a contract capable of breach, and of continuing breach within the meaning of the above section. DHIAN SINGH v. MEHAN SINGH.

180 P R 1883

4. Foreclosure of mortgage—Notice—Regulation XVII of 1806, sections 6, 8—Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, articles 135, 143, and section 23—Failure to pay interest under mortgage deed—Continuing breach of contract—Waiver.

A motgage-deed, which was executed on the 26th March 1878 for a period of six years, provided that if interest for any year was not paid, the mortgagee might eject the mortgagor and take possession. Plaintiff contended that his suit, which was instituted on 4th December 1894, was within time under either article 135 or article 143 of the Limitation Act, 1877, on the ground that limitation ran from the last failure to pay interest in 1893 or 1884, and not from the date of the first default, which was more than 15 years before suit.

Held, that the obligation to pay interest annually was of "a recurring kind," and that the failure to do so did not amount to a continuing breach of the contract within the meaning of section 23 of the Limitation Act, 1877

Held, therefore, that plaintiff's cause of action arose on the date of the first default in paying interest, and that the suit was barred. ACHHAR MAL v. HUKMAN.

28 P R 1897

Section 24.

—And Second Schedule, articles 2 and 36, Limitation—Suit for compensation against Municipal Corporation—starting point of limitation.

Held, that the provisions of article 2 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, are not merely applicable to those cases in which the defendant at the time of doing the act informs the other party in so many words that he is acting under such and such a provision of law; it is sufficient for him to show that in doing the act he was at the time under the honest belief that his act was authorised by Statute.

Held also, that the omission by a Municipal Corporation to give the other party the Statutory notice prescribed by section 120 C of the Municipal Act does not take the case out of the operation of article 2.

Held, also, that if damage is caused to a person by an act alleged to be in pursuance of an enactment, article 2 of the Limitation Act is applicable, nowithstanding the damage resulted to plaintiff's property not immediately but after the lapse of some time, though it does postpone the accrual of the cause of action under section 24 until such time as the damage occurred, and limitation will run against him only from the date of such accrual.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877—contd.

Section 24—concld.

Second Schedule, articles 2 and 36—concld.

Held therefore, that when a plaintiff seeks compensation for damages in respect, not of the original act done by a public body, who purport to have acted in pursuance of Statutory powers, but of the consequences of such act which has resulted in injury to himself, he must under article 2 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, sue within 90 days from the date when such injury occurred. RICHARD WATSON v. THE MUNICIPAL CORPORATION OF SIMLA. 72 P R 1909

Section 26.

1. Acquisition of easement—Use of water from natural stream.

See EASEMENT. 35 P R 1895

2. User of road by public for less than 20 years—Presumption as to dedication.

See EASEMENT. 62 P R 1898

3. Easement—Abandonment—Discontinuance of right.

In a suit brought by plaintiff to close certain water-spouts belonging to the defendant, the facts found were that the defendant had formerly two water-spouts on the roof of his house, the rain-fall of which was thereby discharged on to land, which now belonged to the plaintiff; that about 40 years ago, the part of the roof from which the rain-fall was thus discharged fell in, and continued a ruin, until recently the defendant having restored it, set two new water-spouts (the subject of this suit) in the very position where the old ones existed. It further appeared that during the period the defendant's house remained unroofed, plaintiff made erections on his own land which would suffer by the defendant's restored spouts.

Held, that the question for decision on the above facts was, whether or no there had been an abandonment by defendant of the easement which once existed, and the point to be determined was whether the long period that the site remained in a dismantled condition was enough to show either that the defendant abandoned at a former time the intention to rebuild or gave the plaintiff reasonable cause for believing he had so done. Churrut Singh v. Simboo (No. 68 P. R. 1880, Civil) cited. GHULAM MUHAMMAD v. GULSHER MUHAMMAD KHAN.

38 P R 1886

4. Easement—Obstruction—Meaning of "interruption."

Held, that a suit to establish a claim to an easement brought more than two years after the claimant of the easement had discontinued the enjoyment of his rights by reason of the obstruction created by the defendant is barred by limitation under section 26 of the Indian Limitation Act, notwithstanding the plaintiff did not "acquiesce in" the obstruction. The word "interruption" used and explained in the section does not apply to the final period

1753

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—
contd.

Section 26—concld.

of cessation of enjoyment of the easement lasting until the institution of the suit, but only to a period of cessation of enjoyment followed by a further period of enjoyment. AMIR HAIDAR SHAH v. FAJJA AND OTHERS.
73 P R 1905

Section 28.

1. And articles 142, 144—absentee—Adverse possession.
See ABANDONMENT. 29 P R 1910

2. Suit for recovery of possession of common waste land encroached upon by a trespasser—Limitation.
See COMMON LAND. 105 P R 1901

3. Adverse possession—Widow in possession of life interest in her husband's property—Reversioners.

A widow, while she herself retains possession of property in which she has a life interest, cannot by merely asserting an absolute proprietary title in course of time acquire such title by prescription against the reversionary heirs of her husband who are not entitled to receive possession till the widow's death. MUSSAMMAT ANAND KOUR v. SODI NARINDAN SINGH. 83 P R 1881

4. And Schedule II, articles 91, 135, 147 —Extinction of mortgagee's rights—Suit for foreclosure—Act X of 1877, Schedule IV, No. 109—Form of decree.

Plaintiff sued to have it declared that two mortgages in favour of the defendant executed by the previous owner of land subsequently bought by the plaintiff were invalid against him. The suit was brought upwards of 12 years after the dates of the transactions relating to the land, the reason for suing being that the defendant had caused a notice of foreclosure to be served on the plaintiff. The sale did not purport to be of the equity of redemption but of the property, but it was admitted that the plaintiff purchased with notice of the mortgages.

Held, that though the mortgagee could no longer sue for possession under artcle 135 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, and the only suit open to him was one for foreclosure under article 147, still as such a suit in the form provided by the 4th Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, No. 109, would include a prayer for possession, if the mortgage debt were not satisfied on some day to be named by the Court, this was sufficient to prevent the operation of section 28 of the Limitation Act to extinguish the rights of the mortgagee.

Held, also, that as the limitation for a suit to cancel the mortgage deeds was that prescribed by article 91, the plaintiff, if he could prove his case, would not be entitled to a decree cancelling the deeds, but only to a decree declaring that they did not bind the property in his hands, his title having been completed by 12 years' adverse possession. RALLIA RAM v. SUNDAR. 83 P R 1883

1754

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1377)—
contd.

Section 28—contd.

5. And Schedule II, article 131—Abstention for 12 years from right to graze—Extinction of right—Demand and refusal.

Defendants, who had established by suit their right to graze their flocks in certain woods, after exercising such right for several years, abstained from doing so for 12 years.

Held, that the mere fact of such abstention was not sufficient to warrant the inference that the defendants had abandoned their right of grazing: nor was mere non-user for 12 years sufficient to extinguish their right; though if the defendants had claimed to exercise the right and been refused, then limitation would have begun to run against them, and under section 28, and article 131, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, their right would have been extinguished on the expiration of 12 years from the date of such refusal. DURGA v. BHONATU. 106 P R 1883

Compare BILLU v. MAMON.
106 P R 1883 Note.

6. Adverse possession—Title.

The rule laid down by the Privy Council in Gunga Gobind Mandal v. The Collector of the 24 Pargunnahs (12 Moo. I. A. 345) decided in 1867, that as between private owners the law has established a limitation of 12 years after which time it declares not simply that the remedy is barred, but that the title is extinct in favour of the possessor, is consistent with the law as contained in the Limitation Act of 1877, and applies equally to cases where the possession still continues and where it has been terminated. DAYA RAM v. BADRI MAL. 16 P R 1886

7. Decree whose execution has become barred by limitation—Extinguishment of right—" Property"—Judgment-debt—Suit by mortgagee for possession of mortgaged property after allowing money-decree obtained on the same mortgage to become barred by time

In a suit by a mortgagee for possession of the mortgaged property under the terms of the mortgage-deed, in which it was found that the plaintiff had been in constructive possession of the property within 12 years of the institution of the suit, it appeared that the said plaintiff had already sued for and obtained a simple money-decree on his mortgage, but had allowed the execution of such decree to become barred by lapse of time.

Held, that it could not on that account be rightly contended that the mortgage-debt was extinguished by operation of law and the mortgage-deed, there being no provision in the Limitation Act, that a decree whose execution is time-barred is therefore extinguished, the provision in section 28 of the Act not extending to the case of a debt, and much less to that of a judgment-debt; and that therefore although the decree could no longer be executed, the mortgage-debt, and consequently the plaintiff's right to take possession of the mortgaged property until the mortgage was paid off, survived. Morice

1755

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—
contd.

Section 28—concld.

v. Simla Bank (No. 2 P. R. 1878), referred to. GANDA MAL v. NANAK CHAND.
3 P R 1887

8. And article 148—Mortgage—Birt—Enjoyment of birt by one heir of mortgagee adversely to other heirs—Extinguishment of title of rival heirs.

Held that inasmuch as a mortgage of birt rights is a mortgage of immovable property, its enjoyment adversely in his own right for more than twelve years by a representative of the original mortgagee extinguishes the title of the rival claimants to the subject matter of the mortgage and debars them from claiming any share of the sum payable on redemption. MOHAN LAL v. JANKI. 34 P R 1908

Second Schedule, article 2.

See under SECTION 24, supra.
72 P R 1909

1. "Act alleged to be in pursuance of any enactment" explained.

Held, that the words "alleged to be in pursuance of any enactment" in article 2, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, must be reasonably construed, and that the person who seeks to take advantage of the shorter period of limitation must show that he had reasonable grounds for justifying his action under the particular enactment which he then relied upon, and not simply that he arbitrarily asserted or thought so. He must, in short, have assumed to act in the honest exercise of a supposed statutory power. GANESH DASS v. ELLIOTT. 124 P R 1881

2. Act alleged to be in pursuance of any enactment in force for the time being in British India.

The meaning of the words "alleged to be "in pursuance of any enactment in force for "the time being in British India," which occur in article 2, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, discussed and explained.

Per SMYTH, J.—Where there is a provision of law limiting the time or regulating the procedure for bringing actions for things done in pursuance of an enactment, the defendant is entitled to the benefit of the protection of such provision if he honestly believed in the existence of a state of facts which, if it had existed, would have justified him under the enactment to do the thing complained of. The reasonableness of the belief is immaterial if the belief be honest, though it is an important element in determining the question of honesty. Ganesh Dass v. Elliott (No. 124 P. R. 1881), referred to. GANESH DASS v. ELLIOTT.
160 P R 1883

3. Suit for refund of tools—Act XVII of 1878—Illegal levy ofto lls by lessee—Lessee honestly believing that he was acting in pursuance of the enactment—Suit for compensation.

Plaintiffs sued to recover certain tolls which they alleged the defendant, who was the lessee and collector of tolls at a public ferry managed under Act XVII of 1878, had taken from them 2½ years before suit under an incorrect construction which he put on his rights under his lease.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 2—contd.

Held, that the suit was governed as regards limitation, by article 2, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, and was out of time.

To bring a suit for a refund under the above article, it is requisite for the defendant to show that he took the money in what he, acting with ordinary care and intelligence, believed, and honestly might believe, to be by an act in pursuance of an enactment for the time being in force in British India, and also that the relief sought falls under the term "compensation" as used in the schedule, both of which conditions had been fulfilled in the present case. Umra v. Hira Nand (No. 55 P. R 1876), and Ganesh Dass v. Elliott (No. 160 P. R. 1883), cited. NARPAT RAI v. SIRDAR KIRPAL SINGH. 65 P R 1886

4. Act alleged to be in pursuance of an enactment for the time being in force in British India.

Held, that when a defendant, seeking the aid of article 2, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, pleads as a bar to an action that the acts complained of by the plaintiff were done in pursuance of an Act of the Legislature, the plea necessarily imports an averment that the Act was in force at the time and place when and where the acts complained of were done, and it is not enough for him to plead that the acts were done in pursuance of an Act which he honestly believed to be in force. JAI RAM v. GURMUKH SINGH. 105 P R 1886

5. And articles 62, 96—Suit for refund of ferry tolls levied in excess of powers given to lessee under Act XVII of 1878—Lessee acting under honest mistake as to the extent of his statutory power—Defendant entitled to the benefit of article 2, even though suit would also answer the description given in article 62 or 96.

Defendant, who was a lessee of certain ferry tolls under Act XVII of 1878, levied tolls from the plaintiff between November 1881 and March 1882 to an amount exceeding that which, according to the true construction of his lease, he ought to have levied. Plaintiff sued in 1885 to recover this amount, alleging that, on demand for a refund, the defendant refused to refund. It was found as a fact that the excess levied by the defendant was levied under an honest mistake as to the extent of his statutory power.

Held, that the plaintiff's suit was barred by limitation under article 2, Schedule II, Act XV of 1877, and that for purposes of limitation the defendant was none the less entitled to rely upon the suit being in substance of the description given in article 2, and to insist upon the benefit of the provisions of that article, because the suit might in form also fall within the description given in article 62 or article 96 of the same schedule, and be in other respects

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 2—concld.

maintainable in either of these forms. Narpat Rai v. Sirdar Kirpal Singh (No. 65 P. R. 1886) followed. SETH KARIMJI v. SARDAR KIRPA SINGH. 123 P R 1886

Second Schedule, article 10.

See PRE-EMPTION.

—Pre-emption—Oral sale of joint share in an undivided holding—Physical possession.

See ARTICLE 120, infra. 14 P R 1904

—Pre-emption suit—Limitation.

See ARTICLE 120, infra.

25 P R 1899, 37 P R 1899

1. Pre-emption—Sale of share of well and share of common land—Physical possession—Date of registration of instrument how determined.

In a suit for pre-emption where the property sold was a ¼ share of a well, and an undivided share of the common land, held, that as the whole of the property did not admit of physical possession being taken, the period of limitation ran from the date when the instrument of sale was registered under Act XV of 1877, Schedule II, article 10.

The deed in question was presented for registration on the 9th July 1878, but was not copied into the book, nor was the certificate of registration endorsed, till the 16th July.

Held, that the instrument was not "registered" within the meaning of the Act till the latter date, and that therefore plaintiff's suit, which was filed on the 12th July 1879, was in time. KARM v. FAZL.

10 P R 1881

2. "Physical Possession"—Sale of undivided share of holding—Pre-emption.

In a suit for pre-emption, where it appeared from the deed of sale, that what was sold was one-sixth of an undivided holding, no fields being specified, held, that the sale was not one which admitted of physical possession, and that the period of limitation must accordingly be calculated, under article 10, Schedule II, of Act XV of 1877, from the date when the instrument of sale was registered. JOWALA SINGH v. TEK CHAND.

23 P R 1882

3. Suit for pre-emption—Computation of limitation when the whole of the subject of the sale does not admit of physical possession.

Held, that where the whole of the subject of the sale does not admit of physical possession, the period of limitation in a pre-emption suit must be reckoned from the date on which the instrument of sale was registered. Karm v. Fazl (No. 10 P. R. 1881), followed. UMAR BAKSH v. CHOGATTA.

156 P R 1882

4. Sale of property in possession of tenant—Suit for pre-emption—Physical possession.

Held, that where property sold is at the time of sale in the possession of a tenant under a lease from month to month or for an unexpired term, the purchaser cannot take physical possession under the sale in the sense contemplated by article 10, Schedule II, of the Limitation Act, unless he takes such possession as will enable him to exercise complete physical control over the property. To constitute physical possession it is not sufficient that notice of the sale should be given to the tenant and that the tenant should accept the purchaser as his landlord and agree to pay him the rent, an agreement to hold as a tenant not being equivalent to a delivery of physical possession. Kalan Khan v. Ram Sarn Das (No. 97 P. R. 1880) cited. BISHEN SINGH v. SAMDU.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 10—contd.

48 P R 1884

Followed in BAKHU v. RAMDIAL.

48 P R 1884 Note.

5. Suit for pre-emption—Sale of share in undivided holding—Partition—Physical possession—Mortgagee in possession.

In a suit for pre-emption, it was contended by the defendant that the plaintiff's case was barred by limitation, as it was not brought within one year from the registration of the instrument of sale, and the property being a share in an undivided holding and including rights in the common land, did not admit of physical possession. It was alleged in reply that the whole of the common land had already been divided, and that though the sale was nominally of ⅓rd share of the holding, the vendor's share had in fact been separated off and was in his exclusive possession before the sale, and that this was the subject of the sale.

Held, that if the above allegations were correct, the circumstance that the land was still recorded as an undivided holding would be no obstacle to the purchaser getting physical possession of the whole of the property sold.

It appeared, however, in the above case that the land sold was at the time of sale in the possession of a mortgagee, with a right to retain possession until redeemed, and moreover that the mortgage could not be redeemed at the date of sale, but only at the close of the agricultural year.

Held, that the purchaser could not be put in physical possession of the land at the date of sale: that his purchase made him owner merely of the equity of redemption—an incorporeal right which did not admit of physical possession, though it put him in a position to obtain physical possession of the land when the mortgage was redeemed; that limitation, therefore, began to run from the date of registering the deed of sale, and the plaintiff's claim was barred, as he did not sue till nearly 14 months after that date. Kalan Khan v. Ram Sarn Das (No. 97 P. R. 1880) cited. BHAWANI PERSHAD v. ATTAR SINGH. 68 P R 1884

6. Suit for pre-emption—"Physical possession"—Sale of definite share in a khata together with a share in the shamilat and other manorial rights.

1759

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 10—contd.

In a suit for pre-emption in which limitation was pleaded, it appeared that the property sold consisted of an ascertained and definite share in a certain khata together with a share in the shamilat and other manorial rights.

Held, following the previous rulings of the Court, that the property sold was of such a nature that "physical possession" could not be taken of the whole of it, within the meaning of article 10 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act of 1877, and consequently limitation ran from the date of registration of the deed of sale. Kalan Khan v. Ram Sarn Das (No. 97 P. R. 1880), Karm v. Fazl (No. 10 P. R. 1881), Jowala Singh v. Tek Chand (No. 23 P. R. 1882), and Umar Baksh v. Chogatta (No. 156 P. R. 1882 cited. SOHAN v. HIMMAT.

61 P R 1885

7. Pre-emption—Physical possession—Fraud.

Where, in a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the house which formed the subject of the sale was a shop in the sole possession of a third party as tenant, held, that the property was not capable of being taken into physical possession in the sense contemplated by the Limitation Act, nor did the giving notice of the sale to the tenant and the acceptance by him of the purchaser as his landlord constitute such physical possession, and therefore the period of limitation ran from the date of the registration of the deed of sale, and the suit having been instituted after the expiry of such period was barred, unless it could be proved that knowledge of the sale was withheld by "fraud" within the meaning of section 18 of the Limitation Act, and further that the fraud took place within one year from the date of limitation. Kalan Khan v. Ram Sarn Das (No. 97 P. R 1880), and Bishan Singh v. Samdu (No. 48 P. R. 1884), cited and followed.

Held further, that mere silence on the part of the vendor is not a fraud. To prove fraud within the meaning of the section quoted above there must be some distinct act done with the intention of deceiving the pre-emptor or concealing the fact of the sale. Murad v. Bhag Singh (No. 46 P. R. 1879), Arsala v. Yar Muhammad (No. 32 P. R. 1881), Nihal Chand v. Foujdar Singh (No. 3 P. R. 1882), and Ghiba v. Hayat (No. 120 P. R. 1883), cited.

GAURI MAL v. JAINTI MAL. 73 P R 1885

8. And article 120—Suit for pre-emption based on mortgage.

Held, that a suit for pre-emption based upon a mortgage is governed by the limitation provided by article 120 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877, and not by article 10 of the same schedule. UTTAM SINGH v. FATEH SINGH.

103 P R 1885

1760

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 10—contd.

9. And article 120—Pre-emption of house sold by unregistered deed and not capable of physical possession.

In a suit for pre-emption of a house, it appeared that the property in suit was purchased by the defendants by two unregistered deeds for under Rs. 100 each, and that at the time of purchase the house was in the possession of certain mortgagees, from whom the purchasers, after a lengthy litigation lasting nearly three years, at length obtained possession in execution of decree, whereupon the present suit for pre-emption was instituted.

Held, that such suit was not barred by time: that all that the owners could sell at the time of sale was their equity of redemption, an incorporeal right which did not admit of physical possession at the time of the sale, though it put the purchaser in a position to obtain physical possession when the property was redeemed [vide Bhawani Pershad v. Attar Singh (No. 68 P. R. 1884), : that as the purchasers could not acquire physical possession at the time of sale and the deed was not registered, article 10 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act did not apply, but the suit was governed by article 120 of the same schedule, and having been brought within six years of the date when the right to sue accrued, (i. e., when the house was sold), was within time. JAWALA SAHAI v. ALA DITTA. 90 P R 1886

10. Suit for pre-emption—Sale of separate holding with share of shamilat—"Physical possession."

In a suit for pre-emption, held (following the previous rulings of the Court) that where the sale in question includes a share in the shamilat, even though the greater part of the property sold may consist of a separate holding, the whole subject-matter of the sale is not capable of physical possession within the meaning of Schedule II, article 10 of the Limitation Act, and the period of limitation in such a case is one year from the date of registration of the deed of sale. MALUK SINGH v MUHAMMAD. 65 P R 1889

11. And article 120—Suit for pre-emption—Sale to mortgagee in possession.

Where in a suit for pre-emption it appeared that the property desired to be pre-empted had been purchased by the mortgagee in possession by an unregistered deed of sale.

Held, that as regards limitation the article of the Limitation Act applicable to the suit was article 120, and not article 10. The purchase was merely of the equity of redemption—an incorporeal right which did not admit of physical possession, and as the deed of sale had not been registered, the period of limitation was six years from the date of the deed.

I. L. R. IX All. 234 approved. GAFFAR KHAN v. SATTAR.

160 P R 1889

1761

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 10—contd.

12. And article 120—Mortgage by conditional sale—Foreclosure proceedings and suit for possession—Pre-emption.

The limitation applicable to a suit for pre-emption of an undivided share in a joint holding which does not admit of physical possession being taken, and in which the purchaser acquires his title by foreclosure proceedings under Regulation XVII of 1806 and a subsequent suit for possession, is six years under article 120, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, 1887, article 10 having no application to such a state of facts. ALI GAUHAR v. JOWAHIR.

30 P R 1892

13. And article 120—Suit for pre-emption between rival pre-emptors—Necessary parties to such a suit.

On 11th June 1889, S. sold to Haku and others the land now in dispute.

On 10th June 1890, M. S. filed the present suit for pre-emption against the vendor and purchasers above named.

On 7th July 1890, Hamira and eight others instituted a similar suit.

Both suits came before the same Court for trial, and it ordered on 6th August 1890, that M. S. should be impleaded as a co-defendant in the suit brought by Hamira and his party; a similar order was made that Hamira and his party should be impleaded in M. S.'s suit.

On 16th October 1890, Hamira appeared in the suit in which he was plaintiff and stated that it had been settled by the original vendees (Haku and others) having re-sold to him and his co-plaintiffs the property in a suit and asking for permission to withdraw. The suit was accordingly dismissed on 20th October 1890.

On 23rd December 1890, M. S. obtained a decree for pre-emption against all the defendants.

Hamira and his party alone appealed against this decree to the Divisional Judge, the original vendor and vendees (S. and Haku and his party) not joining in the appeal.

The Divisional Judge decided that the suit as against Hamira and his party was barred by limitation by reason of section 22 and article 10, Schedule II, Limitation Act, 1877, and that the suit must therefore be dismissed as against the appealing defendants.

M. S. preferred a further appeal to the Chief Court.

Held per curiam, that as regards Hamira and others the suit must be deemed to have been instituted when Hamira was made a party (6th August 1890), but that the provision of the Limitation Act applicable was not article 10 but article 120 of the Second Schedule.

Per RIVAZ, J.—The suit against Hamira did not seek to enforce any right of pre-emption as against him, but merely to establish that he had no right of pre-emption superior to that of the plaintiff, and to bind him (Hamira) by the decree eventually to be passed in favour of the plaintiff, if he succeeded in establishing his right of pre-emption as against the other defendants, and further caused it to appear that Hamira had no superior right to which the Court could be asked to give effect.

1762

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 10—contd.

Held, also, per RIVAZ, J.—That the true ground upon which Hamira was impleaded (and that rightly) in the suit brought by M. S. was not merely because Hamira was a rival claimant for pre-emption, but because he was a claimant who had himself filed a suit for pre-emption and thus asserted his claim.

It thus became necessary, while both suits were still alive, to adjudicate between the claims of the rival plaintiffs inter se as well as between their claims and those of the original vendees. MUTSADDA SINGH v HAMIRA. 11 P R 1893

14. And article 120—Punjab Laws Act, 1872—Pre-emption—Benami sale to escape pre-emption.

In 1857 mauza Jamalpur in the Hissar District, which was then owned by Ranghars, was confiscated by Government owing to the misconduct of the proprietary body. All the proprietors lost their rights except five biswadars, A, B, C, D and E. Excluding their shares, the rest of the village was put up to auction and purchased by two banias, Rishak Lal and Ram Lal.

In 1883 a strenuous effort was made to restore the village lands to their original owners, Ram Lal being persuaded to part with his rights, but Rishak Lal (or his sons and successors) refusing to sell his share.

In February 1883, Ram Lal executed and registered a deed of sale of some 4,000 bighas for Rs. 9,700 in favour of A, B, C, D and E, who alone of the original proprieters retained their rights in the village. Soon after the sale Rishak Lal's sons, who are the plaintiffs in the present suit, brought a suit, for pre-emption, on the allegation that the sale by Ram Lal, though nominally to A, B, C, D and E, was in reality to outsiders, viz., the ejected biswadars. This being denied by A and his companions the suit failed.

In or about 1888, A, B, C, D and E, instituted a series of mutation proceedings the object of which was to obtain a dakhil kharij of various plots of land in favour of a large number of the excluded biswadars, it being recited in each case that the real sale took place in 1883 and was followed immediately by proprietary possession, but that mutation had been deferred for reasons which were not given.

These mutation proceedings led to a long series of suits for pre-emption, the plaintiffs in all the cases being the sons or representatives of Rishak Lal; the vendor-defendants in each case being two or more of A, B, C, D and E, the vendees being one or other of the old biswadars whose rights had been confiscated for misconduct in the mutiny.

1763

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 10—contd.

In the two particular cases now under consideration the mutation of names was granted in 1888, but the suits were not instituted until 1891.

The defendants pleaded limitation.

The Divisional Judge dismissed the two suits as barred not because the real sale took place in 1883, but because he held that assuming the lands to have been sold in 1888, the suits were barred under article 10, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, one year having elapsed from the date of mutation.

Held, that the suits were within time. The whole of the property sold did not admit of physical possession, a share of the shamilat being included, there was no registered deed of sale in 1888, and the period of limitation was therefore six years under article 120, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, commencing from the date of the accrual of the right to sue.

Held, also, that the plaintiffs had succeeded in proving a transaction of sale in 1888 which gave rise to a right of pre-emption, and that they were entitled to succeed, they being landowners in Jamalpur at the date of the sale, which the vendee-defendants were not. KALU v. BHUPA. 30 P R 1893

15. And article 120—Pre-emption—Conditional sale of undivided share in a village—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Limitation.

The defendants, mortgagees, by way of conditional sale of a three biswas share in the village, foreclosed under Regulation XVII of 1806, and finally obtained joint possession of their share on 22nd August 1887. In a suit for pre-emption filed on 18th June 1889, it was contended for the defendants and held by the Courts below, that article 10 of the Limitation Act, 1877, was applicable to the suit, and that it was barred.

Held, by the Chief Court, that the subject of the sale being an undivided share of an estate did not admit of physical possession, and therefore article 120, Schedule II, Limitation Act, 1877, was the provision applicable and the suit was within time.

Semble.—Article 10 may apply to conditional sales, if the subject of sale admits of physical possession or the sale is by registered deed. KHUNDA v. CHUNI LAL. 87 P R 1893

16. Pre-emption—Construction of deed—colorable mortgage for purpose of evading law of pre-emption—Fraud—"Question of law involved"—Appeal.

On the 6th August 1888, one B. R. executed and registered a deed, whereby he mortgaged a house with possession to one T. R. The terms of the said deed were to the following effect: the mortgage was for Rs. 550 and for a period of thirty years; interest on a sum of Rs. 150 was to be set-off against rent, the balance of the principal to carry interest at the rate of 8 annas; the mortgagee was to effect whatever improvements he liked and the costs thereof with interest at the same rate was to be paid by the mortgagor before redemption. At the time aforesaid the house was already mortgaged for five years to one J. R., from whom, it was alleged, T. R. redeemed it in July 1891. On the 16th August 1892, plaintiff sued B. R. and T. R. for pre-emption of the house on the ground that the so-called deed of mortgage was in reality a deed of sale which had been written in the form of a mortgage-deed in order to stave off pre-emptors. He further alleged that defendants had fraudulently concealed the sale from him, and that he had only recently come to know of it. The lower Courts held that the transaction was in reality a sale, that there had been fraud, and that the suit was within time and gave plaintiff a decree for pre-emption. T. R. appealed to the Chief Court.

1764

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 10—contd.

Held, that whether the transaction of the 6th August 1888 was in reality a mortgage or a sale, plaintiff's suit must in either event be dismissed: if a mortgage, on the ground that the right of pre-emption did not exist in respect of mortgages; if a sale on the ground that, as the property when sold was in possession of a mortgagee (J. R.) whose mortgage could not be redeemed for three years, it was incapable of possession and the suit was therefore barred under article 10 of the 1st Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877.

STOGDON, J.—It is no fraud on the part of either or both parties to a deed to resort to any legitimate means whereby to defeat the law of pre-emption, and it is not open to the Court in construing a deed which is in terms one of mortgage to attribute to such terms meanings other than those plain on the face of them, on the ground that the transaction, though certainly a mortgage, would probably eventually have the same effect as a sale.

ROE, S. J. contra.—It is open to the Court o judge of the nature of a transaction, that is, of the intention of the parties, not merely from the use of any particular word in the deed recording their contract, but from a fair and reasonable view of the nature of the terms agreed upon and to declare that if these terms show clearly that the transfer was intended to be permanent, the transaction was in reality a sale even though it was called a mortgage. TIKAYA RAM v. DHARM CHAND.

45 P R 1895

17. And article 120—Mortgage by conditional sale—Foreclosure—Pre-emption.

Held, that, as regards limitation, suits for pre-emption arising out of the conditional sales, which have been converted into absolute sales, if the whole of the subject of the sale admits of physical possession, are governed by article 10 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877, the said article not being restricted in its operation to sales having immediate effect.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 10—contd.

I. L. R. IV All. 218 referred to. GUNGA RAM v. BAHAL SINGH. 76 P R 1895

18. Pre-emption—Limitation—Sale without delivery of possession.

On the 13th of September 1892, Jiwan and Hussain Bakhsh in consideration of Rs. 1,500 advanced for costs sold to one Mast, a ⅛th share of 2,853 kanals, 4 marlas of land for which they had sued (as heirs of Ram Chand), possession was to be given on obtaining a decree. On the 10th October 1895 Mast sold his right, under the deed of 13th September 1892, to Nabi Bakhsh, defendant. As Jiwan and Hussain Bakhsh did not deliver possession of the land on the 7th December 1895, the present defendants sued for possession. On 4th January 1896, a compromise was agreed to between the parties, and Jiwan and Hussain Bakhsh agreed to make over ⅛th of the land to the present defendants, a decree of the 31st January 1896 followed in terms of the compromise. On the 26th of January 1897 the present suit was instituted for pre-emption of the 745 kanals 5 marlas decreed as above-mentioned.

Held, that limitation began to run against the pre-emptor from the date of the original deed of the 13th September 1892, which was a sale out and out, delivery of possession being necessarily postponed until decree. That possession not being with the vendors at the time of sale did not prevent the sale being complete, and that the compromise of 1896 was not a new contract giving a fresh starting point for limitation.

Lachmi Narain and another v. Manag Dat (I. L. R. VII All. 291) and Chief Court R. A. No. 1140 of 1897 decided on 19th February 1900, approved and followed. MANSABDAR v. NABI BAKHSH AND OTHERS.

43 P R 1900

19. And article 120—Mortgage by conditional sale—Foreclosure—Suit for pre-emption—Time from which period begins to run.

Held, by the Full Bench, that right of pre-emption accrues and limitation begins to run against a pre-emptor in the case of foreclosure of a mortgage by conditional sale from the date of the expiration of the year of grace allowed to mortgagor under Regulation XVII of 1806.

Sher Singh v. Imamulla (82 P. R. 1880) dissented from. Harnam Das v. Kanwar Singh (103 P. R. 1893), Bur Singh v. Sohel Singh (121 P. R. 1894), Ali Abbas v. Kalka Parsad (I. L. R. XIV All. 405), and Batul Begam v. Mansur Ali Khan (I. L. R. XX All. 315, F. B.) approved. Alu Prasad v.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 10—contd.

Sukhan (I. L. R. III All. 610), distinguished. Jeora Khun Singh v. Hookum Singh (4 H. C. R, N. W. P. 358), Forbes v. Ameeroonissa (5 W. R. 47 P. C.), Ali Gauhar v. Jowahir 30 P. R. 1892), and Kunda v. Chuni Lal (87 P. R. 1893), referred to. ATAR SINGH v. RALLA RAM. 103 P R 1901

20. Where a plaintiff has to seek to enforce his right of pre-emption against the transferree of an original vendee the provision of the Limitation Act applicable is article 10 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act. NABI BAKHSH v. FAKIR MUHAMMAD.

25 P R 1903

21. Pre-emption—Sale of shop property in possession of tenant—Suit for pre-emption—Starting point of limitation.

Held, that where property capable of physical possession in the occupation of a tenant is sold and possession is transferred to the purchaser merely by the tenants executing a lease in his favour, the limitation applicable is that prescribed in the first clause of article 10 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act, and will not commence to run against the pre-emptor until the purchaser takes physical possession of the whole of the property purchased by him.

Batul Begam v. Mansur Ali Khan (5 Calc. W. N. 888, P. C.), Kalan Khan v. Ram Saran Das (97 P. R. 1880), Bishen Singh v. Samdu (48 P. R. 1884), and Gauhri Mal v. Jamti Mal (73 P. R. 1885), cited and followed. SHARIF HUSSAIN v. MUHAMMAD YOUSAF.

88 P R 1905

22. Suit to enforce right of pre-emption—Date of registration of instrument of sale, meaning of—Time from which period begins to run—Registration Act, 1877, sections 52, 58, 59, 60.

Held, that the limitation provided for a suit to enforce a right of a pre-emption depending on registration under this article begins to run from the date when the instrument of sale is registered within the meaning of section 60 of the Registration Act and not from the date of the presentation for registration.

Karm v. Fazl (10 P. R. 1881), followed. BHANJAN RAM v. GOPALA. 92 P R 1906

23. Pre-emption—Rival claimants with equal rights—Claimant suing subsequently cannot defeat the other by obtaining a consent decree during the pendency of the prior suit—Limitation for suits as between rival claimants—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, articles 10, 120.

Held that a rival claimant of the right of pre-emption, cannot by obtaining a consent decree in a subsequently instituted suit to which the first claimant was not a party, defeat another with equal rights who by first filing his suit has shown superior diligence in enforcing his right.

Held, also, that the period of limitation as between rival pre-emptors is that prescribed by article 120 of the Second Schedule to the Limitation Act and not that prescribed by Article 10, and that one pre-emptor can therefore be impleaded as a co-defendant in the suit of the other within the period prescribed by article 120. RAM PARSHAD v. GANGA DATT. 20 P R 1908

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 10—concld

24. Pre-emption—Sale of property in possession of tenant—Suit for pre-emption—Starting p int of limitation.

Held by the Full Bench that where property sold is at the time of sale in the possession of a tenant the limitation applicable to a suit for pre-emption of such a sale is that provided by clause 2 of article 10 of the Second Schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877.

The term "physical possession" in article 10 of the Limitation Act means personal and immediate possession.

Sharif Hussian v. Muhammad Yusaf (88 P. R. 1905) overruled. GHULAM MUSTAFA v. SHAHAB-UD-DIN. 49 P R 1908 F B

25. Sale of immovable property in execution of decree—Registration of sale certificate under section 89 of the Registration Act—Suit for pre-emption—Limitation—Applicability of second part of article 10 of the Limitation Act, 1877—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 316—Registration Act, 1887, sections 51, 89.

Held by the Full Bench (Robertson, J., dissenting), that a sale certificate granted by a Court under section 316 of the Code of Civil Procedure, of which a copy has been forwarded to the Registering Officer in accordance with section 89 of the Registration Act, 1877, and duly filed in register of non-testamentary documents relating to immovable property prescribed in section 51 of the Act by the Registering Officer is not a registered document within the meaning of article 10 of the Second Schedule of the Limitation Act. FATTEH SINGH v. DAROPADI.

142 P R 1908

Second Schedule, article 11.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. 60. 28 P R 1910

1. And article 13—Suit by decree-holder, against whom an order has been passed under section 332, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, to establish his right—Limitation.

Plaintiff, in execution of a decree for possession as mortgagee against his mortgagor, obtained formal possession of certain land on the 11th August 1891, and on the 17th August 1891 P. and M. alleging that they were in actual possession of the said land as mortgagees and had been illegally dispossessed by plaintiff in execution, petitioned the Court to be restored to possession. The Court allowed their objection on the 3rd December 1891. More than a year thereafter plaintiff brought a regular suit to establish his right, but the Divisional Judge, on appeal, dismissed the suit as barred by limitation under article (11) of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1887.

Second Schedule, article 11—contd.

Held, that the order of the Court allowing the objection of P. and M. was one under section 332, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, and that neither article (11) nor article (13) of the 2nd Schedule of Act XV of 1877 applied to suits brought by a person against whom an order had been passed under that section to establish his right, no special period of limitation being prescribed for such suits. NIHALA MAL v. KHAIRA. 125 P R 1894

2. And articles 120, 125—Mortgage—Mortgage by Hindu widow—Attachment in execution of decree obtained on the mortgage—Claim by collateral to attached property—Order passed against claimant—Suit by claimant to establish his title—Limitation—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 278—283.

In 1888 B., a Hindu widow, mortgaged certain property to the defendant. In 1900 the defendant obtained a decree on the mortgage, and in execution attached the property. Plaintiff, collateral, intervened under section 278, Civil Procedure Code. The Court overruled the objection on the ground that the objector had no present right to possession. Plaintiff instituted a suit, within one year of the date of the order disallowing his objections for a declaration that the attachment of the property would not affect his rights after the death of the mortgagor. This suit was dismissed by the Divisional Judge as barred by article 125 of the Limitation Act.

Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to object under section 278 of the Civil Procedure Code in spite of 12 years having expired since the execution of the mortgage, and his suit to establish his right to the property attached was within limitation under article 11 of the Indian Limitation Act.

A collateral may well be content to await the death of a female mortgagor before suing for possession, but where the mortgagee takes steps to oust the mortgagor in execution of a decree obtained on the mortgage and to effect the sale of the property mortgaged, the collateral has a cause of action distinct from that afforded by the mortgage.

Devi Ditta v. Pareman (71 P. R. 1898), referred to. SANT RAM v. GANGA RAM. 32 P R 1904

3. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 278, 283—Attachment—Application by third party for removal of attachment—Default of claimant—Claim disallowed—Suit by claimant to establish right to attached property—Limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II—

In a suit brought by the plaintiff to recover possession of a dwelling house which had been sold at an auction sale in execution of a money decree against the plaintiff's brother more than a year before the institution of the suit, it appeared that in the course of the execution proceedings the plaintiff had intervened and applied to have the attachment removed on the ground that the property was his and not of his brother, but that owing to default of prosecution the plaintiff's claim was disallowed.

Second Schedule, article 11—concld.

Held, that the order in the execution proceedings dismissing the plaintiff's objections to the attachment on account of default of prosecution was not a judicial investigation under section 281, Civil Procedure Code, and that therefore the suit was not barred under article" 11 of the Limitation Act.

An order cannot be held to be an order under section 281, Civil Procedure Code, unless it is passed after an investigation into the facts of the case and an opinion expressed and judgment given on the merits.

Kalu Mal v. Brown (I. L. R. III All. 504), Munisami Reddi v. Arunachala Reddi (I. L. R. XVIII Mad. 265), Chandra Bhusan Gangopadhya v Ram Kanth Banerji (I. L. R. XII Calc. 108), Sardari Lal v. Ambika Pershad (I. L. R. XV Calc. 521, P. C.), and Kallar Singh v. Toril Mahton and another (1 Calc. W. N. 24), cited and followed. SAJAN RAM v. RAM RATTAN. 87 P R 1904

4. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 278, 283—Attachment—Application for removal of attachment—Omission of Judge to give decision with respect to a part of the property under attachment—Suit by claimant to establish right regarding the part so omitted—Limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 11.

Held, that when an executing Court under some misapprehension has omitted in its order to express an opinion or to give judgment on the merits with respect to some of the properties mentioned in the claim preferred by a judgment-debtor under section 278 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the order cannot be treated regarding those properties as an order within the meaning of section 283 to which article 11 of the 2nd Schedule of the Indian Limitation Act would apply. BHAGWANTI v. GOMAN. 42 P R 1909

Second Schedule, article 12.

Suit to set aside a sale—Applicability of article 12, where sale is null and void—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 43—Splitting cause of action—Sections 250, 251, 274, 287, 290, 311 and 312—Material irregularities in publishing or conducting the sale—Fatal defects—Non-compliance with the provisions of the code as regards attachment.

H. and D. obtained an ex parte decree against K. in the Court at Peshawar on the 17th December 1883. In May 1884 application was made and granted for transfer of this decree for execution to the Court at Rawalpindi. The latter Court fixed the 6th of October 1884 for sale of certain property (a house situate on revenue-paying land and the land attached thereto), belonging to the judgment-debtor. On the same date, however, the Court passed an order for stay of execution on an application made by K.'s mother as his guardian to the effect that K. was a minor and the decree void in consequence. This order did not reach the sheriff in time and the sale took place as advertised on the date fixed. On the 22nd December 1884 the sale was confirmed. On the 4th July 1885 the ex parte decree was set aside on appeal, but the auction purchaser was no party to this proceeding. On the 7th April 1887 K. instituted two suits simultaneously; the first for a declaration that the sale of the house was void and for possession thereof, and the second for recovery of certain revenue-paying lands of which it was alleged that the defendants had taken forcible possession.

Second Schedule, article 12—contd.

The contentions raised on behalf of the plaintiff were—

(i) that the decree was void, having been passed against a minor without the appointment of a guardian ad litem;

(ii) that there was no lawful attachment, that no notices and warrants had been issued under sections 250 and 251, Civil Procedure Code; that no attachment was made at the spot by proclamation nor had any publication been made at the Court house or the Collector's office; that no boundaries had been specified; that no proclamation was issued under section 287; that no time for sale was notified as provided in section 290, Civil Procedure Code; and

(iii) that the sale was illegal, having taken place after the order to sell had been withdrawn.

The auction purchaser contended on the other hand that (i) section 43, Civil Procedure Code, barred the one or the other of the two suits, (ii) that both suits were barred by article 12, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, (iii) that the auction purchaser was under no obligation to go behind the decree and to inquire how it had been obtained or whether the sale had been rightly ordered, and (iv) that the suits were not maintainable, vide section 312, Civil Procedure Code.

Held, (i) that section 43 did not apply that even if there were no necessity or justification for bringing two suits, yet as both had been instituted simultaneously, one suit could not be said to have priority over the other in point of time, that there was no relinquishment and no question of a subsequent suit in respect of the portion relinquished.

I. L. R. I All. 650 and W. N. All. 1888 p. 147, followed in preference to the decision in I. L. R. IX Mad. 279;

(ii) that the onus of proving that the plaintiff was a minor at the date of the ex parte decree was on plaintiff, that he had failed to discharge it; and that consequently the decree must be held to be valid and binding;

1771

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 12—concld.

(iii) that the suits were maintainable. Their object was not to attack the sale on account of irregularities in publishing or conducting it, but for defects of such a nature as made the sale void ab initio, having been made without jurisdiction, and therefore a nullity;

(iv) that the formalities laid down in the code as preliminary to a valid sale had not been complied with and that the sale was therefore de facto void; and

(v) that article 12 of the Limitation Act did not apply as the suit was based on the allegation that the so-called sale was no sale at all.

I. L. R. XI Bom. 119 and 130 and I. L. R. XII. Bom. 18 followed. The observations in I. L. R. XIV Cal. 18 explained. LALA SEVA RAM v. KANSHI RAM. 76 P R 1890

Second Schedule, article 13.

1. Suit by decree-holder against whom an order has been passed under section 332, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, to establish his right—Limitation.

See ARTICLE 11, supra. 125 P R 1894

2. Mortgage—Suit for refund of sale-proceeds paid in accordance with order for distribution under section 295, Civil Procedure Code, 1882—Suit by puisne mortgage to enforce his lien—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 13—Doctrine of marshalling.

Defendant was the first mortgagee of two houses under a deed, dated 28th September 1888, for Rs. 195, while plaintiff was the puisne mortgagee of one of the houses for Rs. 150. Plaintiff sued on his deed and obtained a decree for Rs. 155 and costs, to be recovered from the hypothecated house which he got attached in execution. The defendant had a simple money decree for Rs. 102 and had both houses sold—apparently free of his mortgage lien—by auction for Rs. 315 on the 7th January 1892. Plaintiff tried to assert his claim for part of the sale-proceeds on his mortgage, but failed, and on the 9th April 1892 defendant realized the whole amount, crediting Rs. 195 to the mortgage-money due to him, and the rest to his money decree. On the 17th April 1893 plaintiff sued to recover this balance on the ground that his second mortgage gave him a better title to it. Defendant pleaded inter alia that the claim was barred under article 13 of the Second Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877, inasmuch as the original order of the execution Court rejecting plaintiff's claim to share in the sale-proceeds of the two houses was one under section 295, Civil Procedure Code, and that the present suit was filed more than one year after the date of that order.

Held, that the present suit was not one to set aside an order under section 195 of the Code, but to recover money on the strength of plaintiff's superior title, and that, therefore, article 13 of the Limitation Act was not applicable.

1772

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd

Second Schedule, article 13—concld.

Held, further, that plaintiff was entitled, in accordance with the rule of marshalling of mortgages, to insist that defendant should first realize the amount due to him on his own mortgage from the house not mortgaged to plaintiff,—and only the deficiency from that mortgaged to him, and that plaintiff's mortgage deed took precedence, as regards the balance, over defendant's simple money decree.

I. L. R. XV Bom. 438 and W. N. 1894 78, followed; I. L. R. XIII Calc. 159 not followed. SOHAN LAL v. BALDEO SAHAI. 65 P R 1895

Second Schedule, article 14.

—Northern India Canal and Drainage Act, 1873, section 68—Finality of order as to the use or distribution of water for any crop sown or growing at the time when such order is made—Setting aside order by civil suit—Limitation.

The provisions of section 68, Northern India Canal and Drainage Act, 1873, can only mean that the order made thereunder is binding unless and until set aside by a decree of Court in a suit brought for the express purpose of challenging the validity of the order; and such suit must be instituted within one year of the date of the order under article 14, Schedule II, Indian Limitation Act, 1877.

Failing such suit the adjudication of the Canal Officer or Collector (as the case may be) will settle finally the matter in dispute between the parties which was dealt with under the section and will not be open to question directly or indirectly in a Civil Court.

[Cf. No. 71 P. R. 1888.] NAWAB GHOLAM MAHBUB SUBHANI v. PREM NARAIN. 25 P R 1893

Second Schedule, article 29.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 42. 40 P R 1881

Second Schedule, article 31.

—Limitation—Suit against a carrier for compensation for non-delivery of goods—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 31.

Held, that a suit against a Railway Company for compensation for non-delivery of goods is governed by article 31 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act, 1867 (as amended by Act X of 1899).

British Indian Steam Navigation Company v. Hajee Muhammad (I. L. R. III Mad. 107), Kalu Ram v. Madras Railway Company (I. L. R. III Mad. 240), and Danmul v. British India Steam Navigation Company (I. L. R. XII Calc. 477), dissented from.

Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company v. Raisett (I. L. R. XIX Bom. 165), and Haji Ajam Goolam Hossain v. Bombay and Persia Steam Navigation Company (I. L. R. XXVI

1773

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 31—concld.

Bom. 562), followed. MOTI RAM v. EAST INDIAN RAILWAY COMPANY. 108 P R 1906 F B

Second Schedule, article 34.

—And article 35—Suit for custody of wife—Third person harbouring wife—Continuing wrong.

A third person who harbours a runaway wife is guilty of a continuing wrong, and under the operation of section 23, Indian Limitation Act, 1877, a fresh period of limitation begins to run at every moment of time during which the wrong continues, the section being more comprehensive in this respect than the corresponding provision of the Act of 1871.

The limitation applicable to a suit by a husband for the custody of his wife is to be found in articles 34, 35, Schedule II, Limitation Act, 1877.

No. 60 P. R., 1896 (F. B.), followed. KHAIR-UD-DIN v. MUSSAMMAT BUDHI. 80 P R 1892

Second Schedule, article 35.

See ARTICLE 34, supra. 80 P R 1892

Second Schedule, article 42.

—And article 29—Damages for wrongful attachment—Injury caused by wrongful injunction.

Plaintiffs sued to recover damages for injury caused to certain moveable property, while under attachment. After defendant had attached the property, plaintiffs, on the 3rd July 1878, obtained an order removing the attachment under section 230 of the Civil Procedure Code. Defendant then brought a suit under section 283 to maintain the attachment whereupon on the 26th July the Court issued an injunction maintaining the attachment till the civil suit was decided. That suit was decided against defendant on the 13th November 1878, and on the 25th August 1879, plaintiff brought the present suit.

Held, reversing the order of the lower Appellate Court, that article 42 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877), and not article 29, applied to the suit, which was accordingly within limitation. HAJI PIR MUHAMMAD v. THAKUR DASS. 40 P R 1881

Second Schedule, article 44.

1. Suit for possession of land—Suit involving cancellation of document—Period of limitation applicable.

See ARTICLE 91, infra. 76 P R 1890

2. And articles 91 and 92—Minor, suit by, after attaining majority to recover land sold by his guardian—Nature of purchaser's title—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, articles 44, 91 and 92.

The plaintiff was a minor: U. K. (his elder brother) who was his surbarah and actually managing his land, sold in 1874 to G. R the plaintiff's share of the joint property in addition to his own, and also the share of another brother.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule article 44—contd.

The plaintiff now sued to recover possession, alleging that the sale of 1874 was inoperative as against him as not having been made for necessity. The lower Courts agreed that plaintiff's age exceeded 21 years when the suit was filed, and this finding was not further contested.

The lower Courts differed as to the limitation governing the suit, the District Judge applying article 44, Schedule II, Limitation Act, 1877, and dismissing the suit while the Divisional Judge regarded the suit as within time, because it was a suit for possession of immovable property and brought within 12 years of the commencement of the purchaser's (G. R.'s) possession.

Held, that the suit was governed either by article 44 or 91, and was barred. The principle applicable is that when a person sues for immovable property and is met by a defendant in possession founded upon a title which, as between him and that defendant, is null and void, the plaintiff may be at liberty to ignore the transaction and to get the benefit of 12 years' limitation; but if he is not at liberty to treat the title or the transaction in which it originated as a nullity, then one of the shorter periods of limitation is applicable, such as articles 44, 91, 92 and others, according to the circumstances of the particular case.

Quære.—Whether article 44 applies to a guardian de facto, as well as to a guardian de facto and de jure, I. L. R. XII Calc. 69, I. L. R. XIII Calc. (P. C.), 308, I. L. R. XV Calc. (P. C.), 58, followed. GHULAM RASUM v. AJAB GUL. 57 P R 1891

3 Guardian and ward—Suit by minor on attaining majority to set aside a sale by person purporting to act as guardian.

Article 44, Schedule II, Limitation Act, 1877, held inapplicable to a suit by a minor after attaining his majority for possession of immovable property conveyed away during his minority by a person purporting to act as his guardian, where it appeared that such person was not really the minor's guardian, in fact or in law. CHANDU LAL v. ANANT RAM 135 P R 1892

4. Limitation—Suit by minor on attaining majority to set aside a sale by his guardian.

Held, that the limitation governing a suit by a minor, after attaining his majority for the recovery of possession of immovable property conveyed away during his minority by his guardian is provided for by article 44 of the Second Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877.

Where a special period of limitation for the removal of an obstacle to a plaintiff's possession is provided, he cannot ignore that provision and come in within twelve years of the act complained of with a suit for possession.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 44—concld.

Ghulam Rasul v. Ajab Gul (57 P. R. 1891), Gujan Singh v. Puran (71 P. R. 1901) and Malkarjun v. Narhari (I. L. R. XXV Bom. 337, P. C.), cited. Umar Bakhsh v. Muhabbat Khan (66 P. R. 1899) and Chandu Lal v. Annant Ram (135 P. R. 1892), distinguished. SAID SHAH v. ABDULLA SHAH AND OTHERS. 19 P R 1902

5. And articles 91, 144—Guardian and ward—Alienation by de facto guardian—Contract void—Suit by ward for recovery of property so alienated—Limitation for such suit.

Held, that an alienation by a Muhammadan uncle as a de facto guardian of his nephew's property is void ab initio, and consequently a suit for the recovery of the property against the alienee in such a case is governed by article 144 and not by articles 44 and 91, as he is not bound to set aside the alienation or to sue under either of those articles.

Held also, that instances of acquiescence in transfers by uncles of their minor nephews' property do not prove a custom empowering an uncle to alienate his minor nephew's property. SARDAR SHAH v. HAJI. 28 P R 1909

Second Schedule, article 46.

—"Award," meaning of, in above article.

The words "such award" used in article 46, Schedule II, of the Limitation Act, clearly indicate that the award referred to is one of the description mentioned in the preceding article, viz., one passed under Reg. VII of 1822, or Reg. IX of 1825, or Reg. IX of 1833. An award passed in the course of a civil suit is clearly not of the description contemplated in article 45 or 46 of the above schedule. LACHMAN v. ATMA. 25 P R 1883

Second Schedule, article 48.

—And articles 49 and 123—Claim by widow against co-widow who had obtained succession certificate—Succession Certificate Act, 1889—Assets not realized at time of suit—Cause of action—Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, articles 48, 49, 123—Deed of gift—Registration—Admissibility of deed to prove collateral fact—Evidence of marriage.

Upon the death of one A. A. on the 17th of January 1891, plaintiff and defendant, claiming to be his wives, applied separately for certificates under the Succession Certificate Act, 1889, and on the 22nd July 1891, the District Judge granted defendants a certificate subject to the condition that she should give security, with three sureties, equal to the amount of the debts and securities in respect of which the certificate was applied for. On the 22nd August 1893, one A. R. gave security to the extent of Rs.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule article 48—concld.

2,000, but according to plaintiff's allegation, the truth of which was not denied by defendant, the certificate was granted for the realization of sums aggregating Rs. 35,586 deposited by A. A. in certain Banks. On the 22nd May 1894, plaintiff sued Mussammat Satara Begam, the said Banks and A. R. in respect of the said sum of Rs. 35,586, her suit being founded on the allegations that she was the wife of A. A., and that he had gifted the whole of his property to her by deed, dated 6th January 1881. The suit was dismissed as against the Banks and A. R., but the District Judge gave plaintiff a decree for half the amount claimed against Mussammat Satara Begam, defendant No. 1, who thereupon, appealed to the Chief Court. For appellant it was contended (i) that at the date of institution of the suit no portion of the sums claimed had been realized by her, and as she was not in possession of the money, there was no cause of action against her; (ii) that the suit was barred under either article 48 or 49 of the Limitation Act, having been brought more than three years after the death of A. A.; (iii) that the deed of gift, being unregistered, was inadmissible in evidence; (iv) that plaintiff was not the wife of A. A., but only his mistress.

Held, as to the first contention, that as defendant was bound under the certificate to realize the said sum of Rs. 35,586 and to account to plaintiff for her share, plaintiff had a good cause of action against defendant in respect of such share which defendant could have realized prior to the suit, but wilfully failed to realize; as to the second contention that the suit was not barred by limitation; as to the third contention, that plaintiff had failed to prove that the deed of gift was ever acted upon, and, therefore, could not claim anything under it; and as to the fourth contention, that the lower Court had rightly held upon the evidence that plaintiff was the wife of A. A.

Marriage may be presumed presumptively by the statement of the parties, or their general conduct towards each other. MUSSAMMAT SATARA BEGAM v. MUSSAMMAT HUSAINI KHANAM. 16 P R 1897

Second Schedule, article 49.

See ARTICLE 48, supra.

16 P R 1897

Second Schedule article 55.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877) SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 144.

112 P R 1884

Second Schedule, article 57.

—And article 120—Act IX of 1872, section 176—Suit by pawnee for money lent, and for sale of property pawned—Suit barred as against defendant personally but in time as against the pawned property.

Plaintiff, who was the pawnee of certain jewellery pledged by the defendant to secure a loan of money, sued to recover the principal and interest of the loan, and to obtain a decree against the defendant for the debt, and an order for the sale of the jewels. The suit was brought more than three years, but less than six years, from the date when limitation began to run.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 57—concld.

Held per Smyth, J., that the whole suit was governed, as to limitation, by article 120 of Schedule II of Act XV of 1877.

But held by a majority of the Full Court, (Smyth J., dissenting as to this), that the suit was barred as regards the claim against the defendant personally by article 57 of the same schedule, though not barred (by article 120) as to the claim against the ornaments pledged.

In a suit brought upon a personal obligation, and a security for the performance of that obligation, the suit may be barred as to the personal remedy and not barred as to the remedy against the property by the provisions of the law of limitation contained in Act XV of 1877. Shankar Das v. Ghasita (No. 73 P.R. 1876, Civil) cited. DOWLAT RAM v. JIWAN MAL. 116 P R 1881

Second Schedule, articles 59, 60.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 116. 86 P R 1881

1. And section 2—Act IX of 1871, Schedule II, articles 58, 66—Bond—Tamassuk—Suit for which period prescribed by Act XV of 1877 is shorter than that prescribed by Act IX of 1871.

Plaintiffs sued to recover Rs. 99-12 on a Punjabi bond or tamassuk executed by defendants on 22nd January 1875, and payable on demand. The suit was instituted on 25th April 1878, and plaintiffs sought, under section 2 of the Limitation Act, XV of 1877, to take the case out of the operation of article 59, Schedule II of that Act, on the ground that under article 58, Schedule II, of the Limitation Act, IX of 1871, a longer period of limitation was allowed for a suit like the present than that allowed by article 59 of the new Act—limitation in the one case running from the date of demand and in the other from the date of the loan; and therefore, under section 2 of the new Act, plaintiffs claimed to be entitled to avail themselves of the longer term prescribed by Act IX of 1871, until the expiry of two years from 1st October 1877, when the new Act came into operation.

Held by PLOWDEN AND ELSMIE, JJ.—(SMYTH, J., dissenting), that assuming that the suit fell under article 66, Schedule II, Act IX of 1871, it also fell under article 58 of the Schedule, and was within limitation under the saving clause of section 2, Act XV of 1877. Shadi Ram v. Abdul Rahman, No. 3 P. R. 1874, Civil, overruled

Per SMYTH, J.—That the suit fell under article 66 of the old Act, and that as under that Act if still in force, the suit would have been barred, section 2, Act XV of 1877, was not applicable. NATHU v. DARBARI. 77 P R 1879

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, articles 59, 60—concld.

2. Deposit repayable on demand—Banker and customer.

From the case stated it appeared that one M. opened an account with the defendants on 9th October 1873. From that date to 29th May 1876 he drew out Rs 133-5-0 leaving a balance of Rs. 179-11-0 in his favour. From that date up to the 7th October 1877 M. paid to the defendants Rs 73-12-0 making the balance at his credit in defendants' hands Rs. 253-7-0. On M.'s death this balance was transferred in defendants' books on 28th June 1878 to the name of his brother L. Between the 19th October 1878 and the 1st June 1880 L. paid into defendants' hands sums aggregating Rs. 129, thus increasing the balance at his credit to Rs. 382-7-0. In the dealings between M. and the defendants, no interest appeared to have been paid or agreed to be paid by the defendants until the striking of the balance for Rs. 179-11 on the 29th May 1876. Interest was then entered as payable to M., and some payments on account of interest were subsequently credited to M. in defendants' books, but when the balance at M's credit was transferred on 28th June 1878 to the name of L no mention was made of any interest being payable, and no interest was paid or credited in the account to L. since the 1st June 1880. The present suit was instituted on the 6th February 1885 by the legal representatives of L. to recover the balance of Rs. 382-7 standing to L.'s credit in the defendants' books. The defence raised was, that the claim was barred by limitation under article 59, Schedule II of Act XV of 1877. For the plaintiff it was contended that article 60, and not article 59, governed the case.

Held, that the relationship existing between M. and L. and the defendants must be regarded as that of banker and customer; that the monies paid in by M. and L., though called "deposits," were in point of law "loans" made by them to the defendants, repayable on demand, and that article 59 of Act XV of 1877 applied, and the present suit was barred by time, as the last payment by L. to the credit of his account was made more than three years before the institution of the suit, and no payment of interest by the defendants was proved, which could operate under section 20 of the Act to give a fresh starting point. Ganeshi Lal v. Chuni Lal (No. 74 P. R. 1882, Civil) cited. CHANDU v. CHANDA MAL. 95 P R 1885

Second Schedule, article 60.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1859, SECTION 1, CLAUSES 8 AND 15. 74 P R 1882

Second Schedule, article 61.

—Reimbursement of person paying money due by another—Suit for money paid—Contract Act, 1872, sections 69, 70—Starting point of limitation.

The plaintiff alleged that in 1890 he was in the service of the defendant and gave a promissory note to K to secure the repayment of moneys advanced to the defendant. In 1893 K sued the plaintiff and obtained a decree, in satisfaction of which the plaintiff executed a mortgage of his property in favour of the lender on the 10th November 1896. In 1899, within three years of the date, of the mortgage, the present suit was instituted to recover the money expressed in the mortgage-deed. The suit was defended on the ground that it was barred by limitation.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 61—concld.

Held, that the suit was not barred by limitation, and was governed by article 61 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877, the plaintiff's cause of action having arisen on the 10th November 1896 when the alleged transfer for the benefit of the defendant was effected.

An undertaking to pay is not actual payment and the cause of action for suits contemplated by sections 69 and 70 of the Contract Act does not arise until the money or its equivalent is actually paid.

Maxwell v. Jameson (2 B. and A. 51) Taylor v. Higgins (3 East, 169), Power v. Butcher (10 B. and C. 329), and Torab Ali Khan v. Nilruttun Lal (I. L. R. XIII Calc 155), cited and followed. Sunkur Pershad v. Goury Pershad (I. L. R. V Calc. 321), Aghor Nath Mukhopadhya v. Grish Chunder Mukhopadhya (I. L. R. XX Calc. 18) and Ram Kristo Roy v. Muddun Gopal Roy (12 W. R. 194), distingutshed. FITZGERALD v. MUSA. 31 P R 1904

Second Schedule, article 62.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 2. 123 P R 1886

1. Money received by the defendants for the plaintiff's use.

In a suit brought to recover advances made to the defendant on a grain contract of the kind known as badni, in which no deliveries were intended, and which was purely a gambling transaction, depending on the rise and fall of the market, held, that the limitation applicable was that provided by article 62 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, and that as in the present case the money was advanced more than three years from the date of the suit the claim was barred by limitation. GANGA RAM v. BALDAWA. 194 P R 1882

2. And article 120—Suit against guardian for specific sums received during plaintiff's minority.

Plaintiff sued his uncle, the defendant, for the proceeds of certain movable property sold by him, and for the amount of debts and rent, less expenses, incurred on the houses, collected by him on the plaintiff's account during his minority. It was contended that the suit being against a guardian for an account the limitation was six years under article 120 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 62— concld.

Held, that the suit as framed could not be held to be a suit for an account, as though the defendant was sued as having managed plaintiff's affairs during his minority, the suit was for specific sums received by him to the plaintiff's use, and fell under article 62. SURJAN SINGH v. CHARN DASS.

56 P R 1883

3. And article 120—Suit against representative of deceased agent for account—Money received to plaintiff's use.

Plaintiff sued on the allegation that one S M. who was his agent and as such agent had property of his (plainttff's) for which he was accountable, died on the 24th December 1880 without accounting; that the balance on that date in plaintiff's favour was estimated at Rs. 3,700; and that the defendant was the son, and in possession of the property of the deceased S. M. The plaintiff also desired that an account might be taken of the amount recoverable by him, and a decree be made for that amount in his favour.

As regards limitation, held, that the suit having been brought within three years from the date of the agent's death was within time, whether it was governed by article 62 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, being a suit for money received by the defendant in the suit to the use of the plaintiff, the date of such receipt being certainly within three years of suit, as the money was not received by defendant till after the death of S. M.; or whether article 120 applied, in which case the suit was undoubtedly within time. SETH CHAND MAL v. KALIAN MAL.

96 P R 1886

Second Schedule, article 64.

See SECTION 19, supra.

P R 1882
132 P R 1907

SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 115.

20 P R 1883
51 P R 1885

Second Schedule, article 66.

1. And article 67.

A second unregistered deed of hypothecation, dated 16th December 1880, after referring to a prior deed, dated March 3rd, 1869, provided that the amount secured by it will be paid when the mortgagors redeem the original mortgage. The mortgagee sued to recover money on both documents after the lapse of 3 years from the date of the latter.

Held, that the suit was barred under article 67. It was contended that the phrase "we will pay when we redeem" amounted to specifying a day for payment within the meaning of article 66.

Held, that this contention was not correct. BAHADUR LAL v. GAMAN.

139 P R 1889

2. And articles 67, 68 and 80—Single bond—Bond with a condition—Period of limitation applicable.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 66—concld.

By a written instrument A. agreed to pay B. a certain sum with interest at a specified rate at the kharif harvest of Sambat 1943, and in default to pay interest at the specified rate up to the day of payment.

Held, (i) that the document was not a single bond within the meaning of articles 66 and 67; (ii) that the limitation applicable was that prescribed by articles 68, or 80 of the limitation Act, and that time commenced to run from the date when default was made in payment, i.e., the end of the kharif harvest Sambat 1943, which, according to local usage, meant the end of Magar. SUNDUR SINGH v. BUR SINGH.

138 P R 1890

3. And articles 67, 68, and 80—Single bond.

The intention of the Limitation Act is to contrast a "single" or unconditional bond (articles 66, 67) with a bond "subject to a condition" (article 68).

A "single" bond means a simple bond without alternative conditions, or penalty attached, an absolute engagement in writing for the payment of money. No. 138 P. R. 1890 followed. GURDITTA MAL v. PAL SINGH.

26 P R 1892

Second Schedule, article .

See ARTICLE 66, supra.

Second Schedule, article 68.

See ARTICLE 66, supra.

Second Schedule, article 69.

See SECTION 14, supra.

19 P R 1888

Second Schedule article 74.

—And article 75—Limitation—Suit on instalment bond.

Held, that the limitation for a suit on an instalment bond is provided for by article 74 of the Second Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877, unless it can be brought under article 75, the essential requisites of which are that (1) the penalty should be attached to a single default and (2) that the whole bond shonld then fall due, the absence of either of these conditions rendering that article inapplicable. SOBHA AND OTHERS v. RAM PARTAB AND ANOTHER.

74 P R 1901

Second Schedule, article 75.

1. Suit on instalment bond—Provision that in case of default the creditor "should be at liberty" to recover the whole amount by suit—Forbearance to sue—Waiver—Acceptance after default by creditor of payments not corresponding with the instalments overdue.

In a suit brought on the 20th January 1881 on a bond dated the 20th March 1877, it appeared that by the terms of the bond the defendant bound himself to pay the principal sum and interest at 2 per cent. per mensem within two years from the date of the bond in monthly instalments of Rs. 25 each, it being provided that in case of default the creditor should be at liberty (akhtayar hai) to recover the whole amount in one sum by suit in Court. The debtor from the first made default in the payment of the instalments, but the creditor accepted payment of four sums of Rs. 20, Rs. 10, Rs. 20 and Rs. 10. subsequently to the date of default, viz., in August and December 1877, and January and March 1878, respectively. It was contended that the debtor having made default in payment of the instalments more than three years before suit the claim was barred under article 75 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 75— contd.

Held, by the Full Bench that the true construction of the bond was that on default in payment of one instalment the whole sum should become due, and should be recoverable by suit in Court if the obligee chose to sue, the clause in the bond declaring the liberty to sue necessarily importing that the whole sum, which the obligee was to be at liberty to recover, was to become due in default, within the meanion of article 75, Schedule II of the Limitation Act.

Held also, by the Full Bench, that forbearance to sue could not under the above circumstances be regarded as a waiver of the benefit of the proviso within the meaning of the same article, as no stipulation between the parties reserving an option to the obligee as to bringing a suit for money due could exclude the operation of the provisions of the Limitation Act as to the time from which the limitation for a suit falling under article 75 was to be reckoned, and a mere forbearance to sue, or mere inaction on the part of the obligee, was not a waiver within the meaning of that article.

Held, further, by the Division Bench (Smyth and Elsmie, JJ.), that the creditor by accepting subsequently to the date of default the payments above specified, none of which corresponded with the amount of any instalment, could not be held to have accepted these sums in payment of any particular instalments, nor could any inference be drawn from such acceptance that he waived the right to sue for the whole amount which had accrued due to him on the occurrence of the first default. Rambhaj v. Devia (No. 123 P.R 1881,Civil), referred to. KHAIR-UD-DIN v. ATU MAL.

188 P R 1883

2. Waiver.

Held, that the acceptance of an overdue instalment in full and as such constitutes a waiver within the meaning of article 75, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, No. 188 P. R. 1883, distinguished. DHARAM DAS v. NIAMAT SINGH.

78 P R 1890

3. And articles 116 and 132—General Clauses Act (I of 1868), section 2—"Immovable property"—"Benefit to arise out of land"—Jagir income.

A suit was filed on the 4th January 1892, based on a bond, dated the 13th June 1883, hypothecating certain jagir income. The lower Courts dismissed the claim as barred by limitation, according to the first Court under article 75, and according to the Divisional Court, under article 116 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act.

1783

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 75— concld.

Held, that looking at the definition of immovable property given in section 2 of the General Clauses Act, jagir income is a "benefit to arise out of land" within the meaning of that definition, and that, therefore, the suit was within time under article 132 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act. RAM PERSHAD v. KISHEN SINGH.

4 P R 1894

4. And articles 132, 147—Construction of mortgage deed—Limitation—Suit after 12 years of the default in payment.

The mortgage-deed in question provided as follows :—"The mortgagees shall pay the "mortgage-money by instalments of Rs. 60 "a year, together with interest at the rate "of 8 annas per cent. without raising any "objection or dispute. In case of default of "payment of an annual instalment, together "with interest at the aforesaid rate, the "mortgagors will put the mortgagee in "possession of the mortgaged share of the "house. If the mortgagors raise any "objection, the mortgagee will be at liberty "to at once get possession by bringing a "regular suit. Afterwards the mortgagors "will redeem and get released the mort-"gaged share on payment of the mortgage-"money, together with the fixed amount of "interest."

The deed was executed in 1881, and the first default in payment of the instalments took place in 1882. In 1897 the mortgagee sued for Rs. 797-6-0 principal and interest due on the mortgage, and prayed for attachment and sale of the mortgaged property.

Held, with reference to the language of the deed, that the intention of the parties, was to hypothecate the property in the first instance, giving the mortgagee the power of taking steps for assuming possession and so converting the mortgage into a purely usufructuary one, but, as the mortgagee failed to so convert it, the transaction remained no more than a promise to pay by the obligor who had hypothecated his property as a collateral security.

Held, therefore that, as the plaintiff had failed to enforce payment within twelve years of the first default in payment by taking possession and so carying out and developing the contract, the suit was barred under article 132 of the Limitation Act, 1877. MILKHI RAM v. ACHHRU MAL.

23 P R 1900

Second Schedule, article 78.

See SECTION 14. 19 P R 1888

Second Schedule, article 80.

See SECTION 14. 19 P R 1888

See ARTICLE 66, supra.

138 P R 1890

26 P R 1892

1784

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 80—concld.

—Bond fixing term of 3 years after which payment might be enforced—Provision that in default of payment of interest plaintiff might demand payment at once—Period from which limitation would run in default of such demand—Waiver.

In a suit brought in a Small Cause Court to enforce the defendant's personal liability on a bond for Rs. 200 which purported to mortgage certain house property for the debt, but which was unregistered, it appeared from the instrument that after setting forth the mortgage of the property for Rs. 200, it went on to provide that the debt should bear interest at 1 per cent. per month, that Rs. 2 should be paid monthly, the rent being deducted, that if the interest were not paid month by month, the obligor would pay the whole sum at once whenever the mortgagee demanded it, that the mortgagor would redeem the property at the end of three years by paying the principal, and that if on the lapse of this term the debt were not discharged the mortgagee should be at liberty to enforce payment of the debt in whatever manner he thought proper.

Held, that as by the terms of the instrument a term of 3 years was fixed after which the plaintiff could enforce payment in whatever way he thought proper, and as, though it was at his option to demand payment at an earlier date, on default in payment of interest, he did not avail himself of this option. and it could not be said that he was bound to do so, therefore, as he made no demand, the bond was not payable until the expiration of the 3 years, and the limitation provided by article 80 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act ran from that date.

Held also, that no question of waiver arose in the above case, both because the whole sum did not become due on default in payment of interest unless the plaintiff chose to demand it, and because the time from which the period began to run was regulated by article 80, which is silent as to waiver. Rambhaj v. Devia (No. 123 P.R. 1881, Civil) referred to. PREM SINGH v. MULA MAL.

10 P R 1883

Second Schedule, articles 81, 83.

—Suit by surety against principal debtor—Suit by co-surety to recover from principal debtor sum paid to a co-surety as contribution towards amount paid by him to the creditor.

Article 81 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act of 1877, which gives three years as the period for a suit by a surety against his principal debtor, running from the time when the surety pays the creditor, should be construed as restricted to sureties who have paid the creditor and not as extending to sureties who have not paid the creditor, but have been compelled to pay contribution to a co-surety, who has paid the creditor.

Article 83 would apply to the case of a co-surety, seeking to recover from the principal debtor a sum paid by the plaintiff to a co-surety as contribution towards the amount paid by him to the creditor. MADAR BAKSH v. AHMED ALI. 98 P R 1881

1785

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, articles 81, 83 —concld.

Second Schedule, article 85.

See SECTION 19, supra. 132 P R 1907

. And section 19—Suit for balance of account—Debtor and creditor—Mutual, open, and current account—Acknowledgment.

In a suit for a balance of account, the lower Court gave a decree for the amount found to be due, holding inter alia that the account was an open, mutual and current account with reciprocal demands between the parties, within the meaning of article 85 of the Limitation Act.

On appeal to the Chief Court, held, that the lower Court was clearly in error in calling the account a mutual, open, and current account with reciprocal demands between the parties, it being an ordinary debtor and creditor account in which defendant never had any demand against the plaintiff to whom he was indebted, but that this error did not affect the decision as the balance sued upon having been signed by the defendant amounted to an acknowledgment of liability within the meaning of section 19 of the Limitation Act, and it did not appear, nor had it been pleaded in the first Court, that any of the items included in the said balance were barred by limitation when the balance was struck SADULLA KHAN v. BHANA MAL.

58 P R 1882

2. Mutual, open, and current account—Reciprocal demands.

Article 85 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877, held to be applicable to a case of a banking transaction where the balance was sometimes on one side and sometimes on the other, the change not appearing to arise from a merely accidental and passing overpayment. Sadulla Khan v Bhana Mal (No. 58 P.R. 1882, Civil) cited. SEWA RAM v. MOHAN SINGH.

44 P R 1886

Second Schedule, article 89.

I. Suti against representative of deceased agent for an account.

Plaintiff sued the defendant as the son and representative of one S. M., deceased, who had been his agent, praying that an account might be taken of the amount recoverable by him, and a decree be made for that amount in his favour.

Held, that article 89 had no application to the suit, as it was not one against an agent for an account, nor against the defendant upon a cause of action, which arose against the agent, for an account, and the terms of that article show it to be inapplicable to a case where the agency is terminated by death. SETH CHAND MAL v. KALIAN MAL. 96 P R 1886

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 89—concld.

2. Principal and agent—Suit against agent for movable property received and not accounted for.

The plaintiff was one of the partners of a firm of which defendant was manager with six-twentieths of the profits instead of salary. The plaintiff further alleged and proved that as between each partner and the manager, the latter was responsible for profit and loss.

In a suit by the plaintiff against the manager for:

(1) money borrowed from the firm by the manager (the defendant) for his personal expenses;

(2) the manager's (defendant's) share of the losses;

Held, that as regards both items the suit was governed by article 89, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, 1877, it being substantially a suit by a principal against his agent for movable property received by the latter and not accounted for, and that time began to run from the date when the agency terminated. GANESH DAS v. SHANKER DAS.

31 P R 1891

Second Schedule, article 91.

1. See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 28. 83 P R 1883

LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 120. 19 P R 1883

2. Minor—Suit by—After attaining majority to recover land sold by his guardian—Nature of purchaser's title.

See ARTICLE 44, supra. 57 P R 1891
19 P R 1902
28 P R 1902

3. And articles 140, 144—Cancellation of mortgage—Suit for possession of immovable property—Reversioner.

Plaintiff claimed possession of a house and land on the ground that a mortgage effected by the late owner in 1875, under which the defendant claimed to hold, was without consideration and therefore not binding on him.

Held, that so far as the mortgage related to the house and land, the plaintiff's claim was not barred under article 91, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, being really a suit for possession, which would fail if the mortgage was found to be valid against him, but must otherwise succeed; that article 140 would apply, unless the term "remainder-man," "reversioner," and "devisee" therein used, are used as technical terms of English law, which is perhaps the true interpretation of the article; but anyhow article 144 would apply, and under that article the claim to possession of the immovable property would be in time. BALA v. JATI. 155 P R 1883

4. And article 120—Suit for conceilation of instrument—Suit for declaration that a transaction of sale (to which plaintiff is not a party) is void—Sale by occupancy tenant—Suit for declaratory decree not otherwise provided for.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 91—contd.

Plaintiffs sued in November 1884 to set aside sale on the allegation that defendants 1—3 who were occupancy tenants under section 6 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, had sold certain lands of their tenure to defendant 4 by registered deed, dated 17th May 1877: that defendant 4 had sued the vendors for possession, and got a decree in April 1884 but the vendors were still in possession; that the vendors were not competent to sell, as they had done, without the consent of the plaintiffs, the proprietors of the land, who therefore sued to have the sale set aside.

Held, that the suit was not one to cancel or set aside an instrument not otherwise provided for, to which article 91 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act was applicable, but a suit for declaration that the transaction of sale was void, as between the plaintiffs, who were not parties to it, and the defendants who were parties to it, and as between whom it was valid by a decree of Court; and that such a suit fell under article 120 of the above schedule as a suit for a declaratory decree, and that the limitation was six years from the time when the right to sue accrued which was when the deed was executed, subject to proof of such fraud as is provided for in section 18 of the Limitation Act. RAM CHAND v. MUHAMMAD KHAN. 135 P R 1888

5. And articles 127, 144.—Muhammadan Law—Gift to one heir to the prejudice of the other heirs—Death-bed gift—" Death-illness " —Limitation Act (XV of 1877), 2nd Schedule, articles 91, 127, 144.

In a suit, the parties to which were Muhammedans, governed by the Muhammadan Law, plaintiff sued on the allegations, inter alia that one K. B, father of himself and defendants I, III and IV, and husband of defendant II, died in October 1875, leaving certain property, the greater portion of which was in the possession of defendant 1, that plaintiff was entitled to $\frac{11}{48}$ths of the said entire property, together with a proportionate share of mesne profits from the date of K. B.'s death to the date of suit and that plaintiff came of age only two years previously to the institution of the suit, and had been refused partition in spite of repeated demand's.

Defendants II, III and IV admitted plantiffs right and claimed for themselves specific shares in accordance with Muhammadan Law. Defendant I pleaded, inter alia that the greater part of the property referred to in lists filed by plaintiff was his own individual property, and that of the remainder certain immovable property had been gifted to him by a deed, executed by K. B. on the 5th September 1875, which gave him an additional and independent title; and that plaintiff was not competent to challenge the said deed, inasmuch as any right he might have had to do so was barred (1) by limitation, (2) by acquiescence and acceptance, and (3) by ratification by plaintiff himself on attaining his majority not less than four years before suit.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 91—contd.

The evidence showed that at the time when the deed of gift was executed, K. B. was over seventy years of age; that he was suffering from venal colic and diabetes in consequence of which he was confined to his bed, and that he died about one month after the execution of the deed, and also that there was interval of seventeen days between the execution and the registration of the deed. The lower Court found that the claim was not barred by limitation; that the gift by K. B in favour of defeudant I was bad on the ground of undue influence and as having been made on a death bed, and that neither plaintiff's nor his guardian's conduct precluded him from suing to set it aside, and gave plaintiff a decree in respect of a proportionate share of the property in possession of defendants, together with mesne profits to be ascertained in execution, and dismissed the rest of the claim, Defendant I appealed to the Chief Court, raising substantially the same contentions as in the Court below, and it was argued, on his behalf, that no undue influence was in fact proved, and that the suit being in reality one to cancel an instrument, was barred under article 91 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1875.

Held, with respect to the deed of gift, that the plea of undue influence was not proved.

But held, further (i) that inasmuch as the said deed was executed during a "death-illness," within the meaning of Muhammadan Law, and was made in favour of one heir to the prejudice of the other heirs, it could only be valid, as a will, to the extent of one-third if consented to by the other heirs; (ii) that treated as a will it had not been validated by the consent of plaintiff or of any one competent to bind him, and was, therefore, a mere nullity: (iii) that the deed being a nullity, plaintiff's suit could not be regarded as one "to cancel an instrument" so as to be barred under article 91 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877, and (iv) that plaintiff was not barred from suing by acceptance of, or acquiescence in the gift by his guardian, or by ratification of it by himself after attaining majority. HAFIZ KARIM BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT BEGAM JAN. 52 P R 1895

6. And articles 44 and 144—Suit for possession of land—Suit involving cancellation of a deed—Period of limitation applicable.

Held, that where it is essential to set aside a document before any other relief can be granted, the plaintiff is barred unless he is in time to ask for the cancellation of such document.

I. L. R. XII Calc. 69; No. 57 P. R. 1891, and No. 52 P. R. 1895, followed; I. L. R. XVI Bom. 186; I. L. R. XVI Mad. 311, not followed. AMIR v. MUSSAMMAT ATTAR-UN-NISSA. 75 P R 1896

7. And articles 118, 140—Suit for possession of immovable property against an alleged adopted son—Suit instituted more than six years after alleged adoption but within 12 years from date of estate falling into possession—Period of limitation applicable.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 91—contd.

On the 17th February 1885, one H. executed a deed of adoption in favour of defendant, a previous adoption in infancy being alleged and on the 18th December 1887, mutation of names was made in defendant's favour. H. died in 1890, and on the 5th February 1895 plaintiffs instituted the present suit against defendant for possession of H.'s estate. Both lower Courts found that the adoption had, in fact, taken place, and dismissed plaintiffs' suit as barred by limitation.

Held, that the suit having been brought within 12 years from the date of the estate falling into possession, was within time under article 140 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877, and was not barred under articles 91 or 118 by reason of plaintiffs' failure or omission to have the adoption set aside or declared invalid within the shorter period of limitation prescribed by those articles.

The principles of the law of limitation discussed and explained by Chatterji J. RANGAN v. MAHTAB CHAND. 55 P R 1897

8. Limitation—Suit by a reversioner for possession of immovable property—Defendant in possession under an alleged gift—Time from which period begins to run.

One M., who in 1874 executed a deed of gift of his property under which possession was taken by the donees, died in 1880, leaving a widow who died in 1891. In 1898 the other collaterals of M. in equal degree with the donees sued them claiming a share in the donor's estate by right of inheritance.

Held, that the suit was barred under article 91 of the Limitation Act by reason of plaintiffs having failed to apply for cancellation of the gift within the shorter period of limitation prescribed for that article.

Gujar Singh v. Puran (71 P. R. 1901), Malkarjun v. Narhari (V Calc. W. N. 10; I. L. R. XXV Bom. 337), and Ganesha Singh v. Nathu (20 P. R. 1902), cited. Rangan v. Mahbub Chand (55 P. R. 1897), not followed. Saidulla v. Mussammat Laila (74 P. R. 1895), Bhagwan Singh v. Khushala (53 P. R. 1900) and Budhe Khan v. Makhe Khan (31 P. R. 1892), referred to. NANAK AND OTHERS v. DEVI DITTA AND OTHERS. 23 P R 1902

9. Suit by a reversioner for possession of immovable property—Defendant in possession under will made by testator without title—Reversioner not barred by reason of his having failed to contest the will within three years.

Held, that a suit by a reversioner to recover possession of immovable property in the hands of a defendant under an alleged will cannot (where the testator had no power to dispose of the property by will) be barred by reason of his (reversioner) having failed to contest the validity of such will within a period of three years. HAYAT MUHAMMAD v. ALA BAKHSH. 19 P R 1903

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 91—contd.

10. A suit by reversioner of a childless male proprietor governed by Customary Law for a declaration of the invalidty of an alienation made by him as respects such reversioner's interest is not governed by article 91. DHERU v. SIDHU. 56 P R 1903 F. B.

11. Limitation—Minor—Suit by minor on attaining majority to recover land mortgaged by his guardian—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 91.

Held, that the limitation applicable to a suit by a minor after attaining his majority for the recovery of possesion of immovable property mortgaged during his minority by a defacto guardian is provided for by article 91 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877.

Ghulam Rasul v. Ajab Gul (57 P. R. 1891), Said Shah v. Abdulla (19 P. R. 1892), and Dheru v. Sidhu (56 P. R. 1893), referred to. MOTI SINGH v. GASITA SINGH, &c. 23 P R 1904

12. And article 144—Gift of acquired immovable property to one son without consent of the other sons—Suit for possession by other sons—Suit involving cancellation of document—Period of limitation applicable.

Although in suits where it is essential to set aside a document before any other relief can be granted, article 91 of the Indian Limitation Act applies even if cancellation of the document is not in express terms prayed for, yet where a plaintiff sued for possession of his share of the immovable acquired property left by his father on the ground that the gift made by him of his estate under which the defendant claimed to hold was invalid under the special custom of his tribe and therefore not binding on him.

Held, that he would not be precluded from the longer period of limitation prescribed by article 144 for the recovery of immovable property, provided he could show that the document which he neglected to challenge was null and void as against him.

Feroz Khan v. Amir Muhammad Khan and others (53 P. R. 1902), Raghubardyal Sahu v. Bhikya Lal Misser (I. L. R. XII Calc. 74), followed. Ghulam Rasul v. Ajab Gul (57 P. R. 1891), Hafiz Karim Bakhsh v. Mussammat Begam Jan and others (52 P. R. 1895), Amir v. Mussammat Attar-un-nissa (75 P. R. 1896), Chunder Nath Bose and others v. Ram Nidh, Pall and another (6 Calc. W. N. 863), Bijoi, Gopal Mukerji v. Nil Ratan Mukerji (I. L. R. XXX Calc. 990), Hasan Ali and another v. Nazo and another (I. L. R. XI All. 456) Rodha v. Harnam (18 P. R. 1895 F. B.) and Dheru v. Sidhu (56 P. R. 1903, F. B.) referred to. MURAD BAKHSH v. HUSAIN BAKHSH. 74 P R 1904

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 91—concld.

13 And article 144.—Suit by reversioner for possession of immovable property—Defendant in possession under an alleged gift or will—Reversioner not barred by reason othis having failed to contest such gift or will within three years—Period of limitation applicable.

Held, that article 91, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, does not apply to a suit by a reversioner claiming a childless owner's ancestral immovable property in the hands of a defendant under an alleged gift or will, though it may be necessary for the plaintiff to prove the invalidity of such an instrument. The limitation applicable to such a suit is that provided by article 144 and the reversioner's cause of action accrues on the death of the alienor or of his widow. KARM KULLI v. KARMDAD. 79 P R 1905

Second Schedule, article 92.

—And articles 44, 91—Minor—Suit by, after attaining majority to recover land sold by his guardian— Limitation.

See ARTICLE 44, supra. 57 P R 1891
19 P R 1902
28 P R 1909

Second Schedule, article 93.

—Suit for declaration that an alleged will was a forgery and that testator had no power to make such will—Custom—Succession of daughter.

On the death in 1866 of one M. M. who left a widow and three daughters, mutation of names in respect of his property was effected in favour of the widow, who applied in 1877 to have mutation in respect of three-fourths of the said property effected in favour of the daughters, in virtue of a will purporting to have been executed in their favour by M. M. shortly before his death. This application was resisted by the present plaintiffs, collaterals of M. M., and rejected on the ground that the will was probably a forgery. In 1872 and 1887 the widow dealt with the property in suit as her own, and on the second occasion plaintiffs obtaining a decree declaring that her dealings with the property did not affect their reversionary rights. In 1894 the daughters sued the widow for possession of three-fourths of the said estate and obtained a decree on a confession of judgment. Plaintiffs, who were no parties to the said suit, in November 1894, instituted the present suit for a declaration that (i) the said will was a forgery; (ii) M. M. had no power to make such a will, and that, if genuine, it was never acted on and was inoperative; and (iii) that the decree in favour of the daughters was collusive and inoperative against their rights as reversioners. Defendants pleaded that plaintiffs' suit was barred by limitation; that the will was genuine; and that, in any event, the daughters were entitled to succeed in preference to male collaterals such as the plaintiffs.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 93—concld.

Held, that the proceedings in 1894 gave rise to a fresh cause of action, and that the suit was within limitation. MUSSAMMAT GULAB KHATUN v. MIAN MUHAMMAD.

5 P R 1898

Second Schedule, article 95.

—Suit for rectification of a deed on the ground of fraud.

Held, that the limitation for a suit for rectification of a deed on the ground that the defendant induced the plaintiff to allow certain conditions to be entered in it by fraud, is provided for in article 95 of the Second Schedule of the Limitation Act.

The Advocate-General of Bombay v. Bai Punjabai (I. L R. XVIII Bom. 551) distinguished. GOPAL SHAH v. ARURA.

62 P R 1901

Second Schedule, article 96.

1. See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 2. 123 P R 1886

2.—Schedule II, article 96—Suit for declaration of proprietary title by correction of Settlement record.

Held, that a suit which is in substance a suit for a declaration of the proprietary title to certain property, as well as for the correction of the Settlement record, is not governed by the limitation prescribed in article 96 of the 2nd Schedule of Act XV of 1877.

Held, further, that even if the right to demand a correction of the Settlement record is lost by lapse of time, a party may be entitled to a declaration of his proprietary title to the land claimed. TAJA v. GULAM.

35 P R 1880

Second Schedule, article 97.

1. Suit for money paid upon an existing consideration which afterwards fails.

Plaintiff sued on the 9th April 1887 to recover Rs. 764 due to him from the defendant, alleging that on October 29th, 1883, the defendant signed a balance for that amount, and on the same day executed a mortgage by which the plaintiff was to be put into possession of a certain house until the debt was paid. The deed however was not registered, and in December 1886 the debtor took advantage of the non-registration to turn the plaintiff out of possession of the property.

Held, that the plaintiff's suit was in time under article 97, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, as in effect one for money paid on an existing consideration, viz., the creation of a possessory mortgage, which consideration subsequently failed by the possession being taken away by the defendant standing on his legal right of denying that any mortgage had been created. GURMUKH SINGH v. CHANDU SHAH. 193 P R 1888

2. And article 115—Suit to recover amount paid out of Court in execution of decree.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 97—concld.

The defendant K. L. obtained a decree against plaintiff for Rs. 2,347, and employed the other defendant, K. R., to execute the decree as his agent under a formal power of attorney.

The plaintiff in the present suit alleged a payment of Rs. 900 in cash to the agent on 3rd February 1885.

On 2nd November 1887, execution of the decree was sued out without credit being given for the Rs. 900, and on 28th February 1888 K. L. denied the receipt of the money through his agent and declined to give credit for the amount.

On 22nd April 1889, the plaintiff (in the present suit) sued to recover the Rs. 900 alleged to have been paid.

Held, that the suit would lie and was governed either by article 97 or 115, Schedule II of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, and was within time. GANPAT v. KIRPA RAM

79 P R 1892

Second Schedule, article 103

—Dower—Demand and refusal, nature of.

The demand and refusal to pay dower must be made in clear and unambiguous language, otherwise article 103, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, 1877, will not come into operation cf. 15 B. L. R. 306. MUSSAMMAT HAJARA v. MEHR ALI BEG. 63 P R 1892

Second Schedule, article 106.

1. And article 126—Suit for dissolution of partnership and for rendition of account—Suit by adopted son of widow of deceased partner—Joint Hindu family—Hindu Law—Devolution of ancestral trade.

See ARTICLE 126, infra. 20 P R 1897

2. Partnership—Insolvency of firm—Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 109 Contract Act, 1872, sections 253, 254, 255—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 25—Limitation Act, 1877, article 106.

A certain firm was declared insolvent on the 9th April 1890 by the Judge of the Small Cause Court, Amritsar, who thereupon proceeded to administer the estate. On the 25th March 1891, a composition deed was executed to the effect that the creditors had already been paid $\frac{5}{16}$ths of their claims, that the insolvents would pay $\frac{3}{16}$ths more through the Court within a month, and that after such payment their property should be released from attachment. On the 17th May 1892, the Court ordered that effect should be given to the composition, and, on the subsequent payment into Court of the $\frac{3}{16}$ths as agreed, directed that the insolvent's property should be released from attachment. The case was struck off the file on the 7th August 1891.

On the 8th July 1893 plaintiff, who was one of the partners in the said firm, sued for dissolution of partnership and for an account, but his suit was dismissed as barred under article 106, Limitation Act, on the ground, according to the first Court, that the partnership was dissolved by the very fact that the firm had been declared insolvent and its estate administered by the Insolvency Court, and according to the Divisional Court that the partnership was dissolved under section 255, Contract Act, inasmuch as attempts by the firm to trade after being declared insolvent and while the estate was being administered by the Insolvency Court would have amounted to misconduct punishable under section 25, Punjab Laws Act, and "therefore prohibited by law."

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule II, article 106—concld.

Held, that under section 109, Evidence Act, the onus of proving that the partners had ceased to stand to each other in the relationship of partners was upon defendants, and that it was not a sufficient discharge of such onus to merely prove that their firm had been declared insolvent.

Held, therefore, that the suit was not barred under article 106, Limitation Act.

Section 25 of the Punjab Laws Act applies only to misconduct committed by a person previously to his being adjudicated an insolvent, and bankruptcy of a firm does not necessarily involve the prohibition by law of its business. The partners themselves are thereby prevented from carrying on the business, but it does not necessarily follow that the business itself is prohibited by law. MAHARAJ MAL v. HIRA MAL. 37 P R 1897

3. Partnership—Suit for dissolution of partnership and for an account—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 106.

Held, that a partnership entered into for a fixed term where the business was not continued after such term had expired, should be considered as terminated on the date of the expiry of such term, and a suit by a partner for an accouut of such partnership business is governed by article 106 of the second Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877. RAM CHAND v. SUBHAN BAKHSH AND ANOTHER.

69 P R 1902

4. Partnership—Suit for contribution after dissolution of partnership—Limitation in respect of such suit—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 106.

Held, that a suit by a surviving partner against the representatives of a deceased partner for contribution in respect of losses of a dissolved partnership being virtually a suit for an account and payment of the sum found due is subject to the limitation prescribed by article 106 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act, 1877. AMIN CHAND v. GUJAR MAL. 73 P R 1906

Held, article 106 governs suits substantially for an account of a dissolved partnership and for a share in the partnership property and assets, and if barred the suit is equally barred in regard to claims for a share in specific assets of the partnership acquired within 3 years of institution of suit. MUSSAMMAT NEHAL DEVI v. KISHORE CHAND.

97 P R 1910

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 110.
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 115.
170 P R 1883

Second Schedule article 113.
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 135,
134 P R 1883
AND ARTICLE 144 18 P R 1911

1. Section 14 and article 120–Suit on award—Deduction of period spent in proceedings to enforce the same award summarily—Cause of action.
See SECTION 14, supra 67 P R 1889

2. And article 135—Suit by mortgagee for possession on default of payment of mortgage money.

A mortgage deed stipulated that the mortgage money would be repaid on the 14th May 1875, or in default the mortgagee should get possession. The mortgagee sued for possession on the 10th May 1887. His suit was dismissed as barred by limitation under article 113, Schedule II of the Limitation Act.

Held, that article 135 applied and that the suit was within time. KANHYA LAL v. MOHRU. 96 P R 1890

Second Schedule, article 114.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 141. 141 P R 1882

Second Schedule, article 115.

1. And article 97—Suit to recover amount paid out of Court in execution of decree.
See ARTICLE 97, supra. 79 P R 1892

2. Continuing breach of contract.
See FOREST ACT, 1878. 16 P R 1899

3. And article 64—Accounts stated—Oral agreement—Consideration.

In a suit for a sum of money alleged to be due on an oral agreement entered into by the parties after accounts had been stated, held, that if, as a matter of fact, after examination of accounts, the defendant did orally contract to pay to plaintiffs the balance found to be due, with interest thereon, and if there was consideration for the contract, plaintiff would be entitled to bring a suit for recovery of the amount agreed to be paid within three years from the date of the breach of the contract, under article 115, Schedule II of the Limitation Act. BALDEO SINGH v. SHEODAN. 20 P R 1883
Cited in SIRDAR AMAR SINGH v. BASAWA MAL. 51 P R 1885

4. Suit for compensation for breach of contract to deliver kankar—Act IX of 1872, sections 73, 74.

In a suit by plaintiff to recover the difference between the sums alleged to have been advanced on a written contract for the supply of kankar, and the value of the kankar alleged to have been delivered, in which the defendant pleaded that the suit was barred by limitation, held, that the claim fell under article 115, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, it being based on a breach of contract to deliver kankar, and such a claim, with reference to the provisions of sections 73 and 74 of the Indian Contract Act, being to all intents and purposes, a claim for compensation for loss or damage caused by the breach of contract. SETH EDULJEE BYRAMJI v. ARJAN DAS.
22 P R 1883

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule II, article 115—concld.

5. And article 110—Suit for hire of water—"Rent"—Compensation for breach of contract.

Plaintiffs, who claimed to be proprietors of a certain canal, sued the defendant for water-rate, alleging that his lands were watered by the canal, and that he had agreed to pay them water-rate at a specified sum per acre. Defendant pleaded inter alia that the claim was party barred by limitation.

Held, that the suit could not be said to be one for "rent," that term, though not defined in the Limitation Act, being ordinarily taken to represent that which is paid by the occupier of immovable property for the use of it, and therefore not including the hire of water paid by the owner of land to the owner of the water; but that the suit being based on contract, the claim came under article 115 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act as one for compensation for breach of contract, and therefore all items claimed which were of longer standing than three years would be barred. Baldeo Singh v. Sheodan (No. 20 P. R. 1883, Civil) referred to. ALA v. SODHI INDAR SINGH.
171 P R 1883

Second Schedule, article 116.

1. See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 132. 90 P R 1881
4 P R 1894

2.—"Immovablo property"—"Benefit to arise out of land"—Jagir income.
See ARTICLE 75, supra. 4 P R 1894

1. Schedule II, article 116–Suit on registered ond.

Held, that a suit to enforce a registered bond is a suit for compensation for breach of a contract in writing registered within the meaning of article 116, Schedule II, Act XV of 1877. TIRKHA RAM v. PURAN.
51 P R 1880

2. Schedule II, article 116—Suit on registered bond.

Held, following the decision in Tirkha Ram v. Puran, (No. 51 P. R. 1880, Civil), that article 116 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act of 1877 is applicable to a suit for the principal and interest due on a registered bond, such suit being one for compensation for breach of the contract therein contained. RAMA MAL v. SAIDA.
110 P R 1880

3. And article 59—Suit on a registered bond—Compensation for breach of contract.

Plaintiff sued for the principal and interest due upon a written agreement to pay

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule II, article 116—concld

Rs. 600 on demand, dated 8th February 1874, and registered. The plaint, which was filed on 3rd February 1880, alleged a demand and refusal to pay upon 1st January 1880.

Held, reversing the orders of the lower Courts, that the suit was one for compensation for breach of a contract in writing registered, and not a suit for performance of such contract; and therefore fell within articles 116 and 59 of Schedule II of Act XV of 1877, and was within time. Tirkha Ram v. Puran (No. 51 P. R. 1880, Civil) followed. RAM BAKSH v. MAGHAR SINGH.
86 P R 1881

4. And Article 110—Suit to recover arrears of rent based on a registered lease—Limitation.

In 1888 the respondent's father took from the petitioner's father some land on lease for seven years commencing from 11th August 1888, and executed a registered deed. The lessee died before the expiry of the lease and his son has remained in possession ever since. In 1898 the petitioner, his father, also then being dead, sued the respondent for arrears of rent for 1892, 1893, and 1894, on the basis of the registered lease. Both the lower Courts found that the claim being for arrears of rent the limitation was governed by article 110 of the Limitation Act, and that the suit was therefore barred by limitation.

Held, that article 110 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act was not applicable. A suit to recover arrears of rent upon a registered lease was governed by article 116 and therefore the suit was not barred by limitation. JESA RAM v. DAULAT SHAH.
4 P R 1902 Rev

Second Schedule, article 118.
See ARTICLE 144. 44 P R 1911

1. Suit far possession of immovable property against an alleged adopted son—Suit instituted more than six years atter alleged adoption but within 12 years from date of estate falling into possession—Period of limitation applicable.
See ARTICLE 91, supra. 55 P R 1897

2. And article 125—Alienation by Muhammadan widow—Widow handing over property to her deceased husband's adopted son.

The plaintiffs sued for a declaration, after cancellation of an adoption that an alienation made on the 2nd May 1883, by the widow of one K. who died fourteen years ago, leaving a widow and daughters, would not affect their (the daughters') rights after the widow's death.

The suit was purely a declaratory one, the widow being still alive and admittedly entitled to give possession during her lifetime to whom she pleased.

Held, that the suit must be taken to be in substance the one referred to in article 118

Second Schedule, article 118—contd.

Schedule II, Limitation Act, 1877, and not that contemplated by article 125, and was, therefore, barred by time.

There was, in fact, no alienation by the widow, in the true sense of the term, to which the plaintiffs could or need take exception. What the widow purported to do in 1883 was to hand over to K.'s rightful heir and adopted son, the property to which he should have been recorded the successor on K.'s death. MUSSAMMAT BEGAM v. MUSSAMMAT NUR BIBI. 45 P R 1892

3. Suit to declare an adoption invalid or as having never in fact taken place.

Semble.—The "alleged adoption" memtioned in Schedule II, article 118, Limitation Act, 1877, must be a transaction by a person with some inherent right to adopt, and which is either denied as a fact by the plaintiff or challenged as being invalid upon some ground of law or custom, which does not go the length of asserting that the adoption, as an adoption, is wholly impossible. BHAGAT RAM v. TULSI RAM. 144 P R 1892

4. "Declaration that an alleged adoption is invalid or never in fact took place"—Suit for possession of immovable property.

Held, by the Full Bench that a suit which would fall under article 118 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877, cannot be barred under that article when it is found on the evidence that the alleged adoption never in fact took place or that there is not prima facie evidence that it did take place.

Per PLOWDEN, S. J.—Inasmuch as there can be no adoption known to the law, whether the parties be governed by Hindu Law or by customary law, unless the adoptor has manifested an intention to exercise his power to adopt, and as there must be in every valid adoption some external and visible act, or series of acts done by the adoptor, or under express authority from him, which act or series of acts give effect to his intention, the mere fact that an allegation by the defendant that there had been an adoption had come to the knowledge of the plaintiff more than six years before suit is not sufficient to bar plaintiff's suit for possession of immovable property under article 118 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877. In such cases plaintiff's right to sue is based not on the mere fact that an assertion of adoption has been made, but on the implied denial of plaintiff's title as heir, whether lineal or collateral, and where the defendant does not contest this title, there is no right to sue remaining upon which the law of limitation can operate.

I. L. R. XIII. Calc. 308 (P. C.) and I. L. R. XX Calc. 487 (P C.) distinguished. SULTAN v. ILAHI BAKHSH.

73 P R 1894 F. B.

5. Article 118 of the Second Schedule of the Limitation Act of 1877 is not applicable to a suit to declare an adoption invalid, where the adoptor has no inherent power to adopt. MUHAMMAD DIN v. SADAR DIN.

Second Schedule, article 118—contd.

67 P R 1901

6. And article 141—Suit by a reversioner for possession of immovable roperty—Defendant in possession under an alleged adoption.

A suit by a reversicner to recover possession of immovable property in the hands of a defendant under an alleged adoption, if not brought within the period prescribed in article 118 of the Limitation Act, held barred.

Shrinivas Murar v. Hanwant Chaodo Deshapande and others (I. L. R. XXIV Bom. 260), Malkrajun Bin Shidramappa Pasare v. Narhari Bin Shivappa and another (V Calc. W. N. 10), and Jagadamba Chaodhrani v. Dakhina Mohun Roy Chaodhri (I. L. R. XIII Calc. 308), followed. GUJAR SINGH AND ANOTHER v. PURAN. 71 P R 1901

7. Suit to obtain a declaration that an alleged adoption was invalid or had never taken place—Limitation from which period begins to run.

On the 28th August 1884, one K. executed a deed of adoption in favor of his daughter's son. In 1894, after the death of K. his widow assented to mutation of names being effected in favor of the adopted son. In 1897 the plaintiffs, who are the male collaterals of K. instituted a suit to obtain a declaration that the alleged adoption was invalid, and that it never took place. The first Court found that the plaintiffs' claim was barred by limitation, that the defendant was adopted by K. and that the adoption was not invalid. The Divisional Judge reversed the decree of the first Court on the grounds that the suit was not barred, that the fact of the widow of K. allowing mutation in favour of the adopted son gave plaintiff a fresh cause of action.

Held, that as the title of the adopted son to the property was created by the adoption, and not by any subsequent admission on the part of the widow of the adoptive father that the title existed, such an admission did not give plaintiffs any fresh cause of action, and as the plaintiffs had knowledge of the adoption more than six years previous to the institution of the suit their claim was barred under article 118 of the Second Schedule to the Limitaiion Act of 1877. HEM RAJ AND ANOTHER v. SAHIBA AND OTHERS.

116 P R 1901

8. Suit by a reversioner for possession of immovable property—Defendant in possession under an alleged adoption—Limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 118.

Held, that whenever in a suit filed for whatever purpose the validity or invalidity of on adoption comes into question that point can only be raised within six years from the date when the alleged adoption became known to the plaintiff and that such period cannot be extended by the fact that a suit for possession or other relief with the annulment of the adoption is sought.

Second Schedule, article 118—contd.

Mahammad Din v. Sadar Din (67 P. R. 1901, Mastu v. Nand Lal (78 P. R. 1890, F. B.) Bhagat Ram v. Tulsi Ram (144 P. R. 1892), Fazal Ilahi v. Yakub Mirza (192 P. R. 1889), Anant Ram v. Nazir Hussain (144 P. R. 1883), Dharm Singh v. Syad Zahurul Hussain (58 P. R. 1891), Ismail v. Kishen Singh (71 P. R. 1894), Dad v. Golu Ram (45 P. R. 1889), and Natha Singh v. Sujan Singh (34 P. R. 1899, referred to. Gujar Singh v. Puran (71 P. R. 1901), Parwathi Ammal v. Saminatha Gurukal (I. L. R. XX Mad. 40), Shrinivas Murar v. Hanmant (I. L. R. XXIV Bom. 260) Barot Naran v, Barot Jesang (I. L. R. XXV Bom. 26) and Maikurjun v. Nahari (I. L. R. XXV Bom. 337, P. C.) followed. GANESHA SINGH v. NATHU AND OTHERS. 20 P R 1902

9. Alienation by Jat proprietor—Gift in favour of sister's son—Suit by a reversioner to declare the gift invalid and not to be binding after the donor's death—Donee setting up his own adoption as a bar to the suit—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 118.

Held, that the term "adoption" in article 118 of Limitation Act includes a customary appointment of an heir and that the failure to sue within the period provided by that article for a declaration that an alleged adoption was invalid or had never taken place is fatal to a suit in which the validity of such adoption comes into question.

The knowledge of the factum of an adoption by the father or ancestors of the reversioner objecting to it, and his or their omission to sue within limitation, prevents the reversioners from again raising the question of its invalidity.

Jagan Nath Prasad Gupta v. Ranjit Singh (I. L. R. XXV Calc 354) and Lali v. Murli Dhar (I. L. R. XXIV All. 195) dissented from. Shrinivas Murar v. Hanmant (I. L. R. XXIV Bom. 260), Paroathi Ammal v. Sami natha Gurukal (I. L. R. XX Mad. 40), Gujar Singh v. Puran (79 P. R. 1901), Hemraj v. Sahiba (116 P. R. 1901), and Ganesha Singh v. Nathu (20 P. R. 1902), followed. Roda v. Harnam (18 P. R. 1895), Valiappu Nayer v. Paru Nethiar (IX Mad. L. J. R. 196), and Dad v. Bagh Singh (34 P. R. 1883, F. B.) distinguished.

Mussammat Lorindi v. Mussammat Kishen Kour (149 P. R. 1888), Mussammat Fakirunnissa v. Malik Rahim Bakhsh (23 P. R. 1897), and Sodhi Kartar Singh v. Sher Singh (50 P. R. 1895), referred to. BHUPA v. NAGAHIA. 68 P R 1903

10. Suit by a reversioner for possession of immovable property—Defendant's title based on an alleged adoption—Limitation—

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—
contd.

Second Schedule, article 118—
concld.

Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 118.

In a suit brought by the plaintiff to recover possession of certain immovable property as the nearest reversionary heir of a deceased sonless male proprietor, the defendant in possession set up his adoption by the widow of the deceased and contended that the suit was barred under article 118, Schedule II of the Limitation Act. It was found that the widow in making the appointment acted without any authority from her husband.

Held, by the Full Bench, that this was not a suit to which article 118, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, was applicable.

Article 118 applies only to those cases where the validity of an adoption is questioned and not to those where the adoptor has no inherent power to adopt. KARAM DAD v. NATHU. 86 P R 1905 Rev.

11. Article 118 of the Indian Limitation Act applies to every case where the validity of an adoption is the substantial question whether it arises on plaint or on defendant's pleas, and the fact that it was alleged to be invalid or inherently invalid makes no difference in this matter.

Muhammad Din v. Sadar Din (67 P. R. 1901) not followed. MUHAMMAD NIAZ-UD-DIN KHAN v MUHAMMAD UMAR KHAN.

1 P R 1907

12. Suit by a reversioner for possession of immovable property—Defendant in possession under an alleged adoption—Starting point of limitation.

Held, that article 118 applies to every suit filed for whatever purpose where the validity or invalidity of an adoption comes into question, and the time begins to run from the date the alleged adoption became known to the plaintiff. ISHAR v. PARTAP SINGH.

38 P R 1907

13. Applicability of, to cases where adoption is not allowed.

Held that article 118 of the Indian Limitation Act is not applicable to those cases in which adoption is a thing unknown to the personal law of the adoptor. NIZAM v. BHANA. 71 P R 1908

14. Suit by a reversioner for possession of immovable property—Defendant in possession under an alleged adoption—Limitation.

Held following Tribhuwan Bahadur Singh v. Rameshar Bakhsh Singh (I. L. R. XXVIII All. 727), that article 118 of the Second Schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, is not applicable to a suit by a reversioner to recover possession of immovable property in the hands of a defendant under an alleged adoption, and that the proper limitation for a suit of this nature is twelve years under article 144 of the Act. SUBJAN SINGH v. KHARAK SINGH. 96 P R 1908

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—
contd.

Second Schedule, article 119.

—Suit by adopted son to contest alienation by Hindu widow—Possession of widow adverse to the adopted son—Suit by the adopted son more than six years after interference with his rights—Suit to obtain declaration of the validity of an adoption—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 119.

In 1900 the plaintiff, who claimed to have been adopted by A, in 1871, sued to obtain a declaration that certain alienations of immovable property made by the widow of his adopted father were invalid as against his interests. It was admitted that on A.'s death, which took place in 1879, his widow had contested and denied plaintiff's rights as an adopted son and had insisted on her own succession, and that she had ever since been allowed to retain undisturbed possession of the property. The plaintiff's contention was that her possession was not adverse, as it was the result of a family arrangement by which his possession was postponed by consent, and that she had admitted the plaintiff's adoption and was allowed to hold as a widow for life.

Held, on the facts that the plaintiff has failed to prove an arrangement by which his alleged adoption was recognized by the widow, and that she had been allowed to succeed to her husband's estate for life. Moreover, as the widow had no title to succeed as such in the presence of the plaintiff holding the character of an adopted son of her deceased husband, her possession was adverse to him to the fullest extent of ownership, which having continued for more than twelve years, the plaintiff had no right of succession to the property belonging to her.

Held, also, that the suit was barred under article 119 of the Limitation Act, as it involved the establishment of the validity of plaintiff's adoption as the basis of his title, the period of limitation having commenced to run from 1879, the date when his rights as an adopted son were interfered with.

Article 119 applies to every suit filed for whatever purpose where it is necessary for the plaintiff to prove the validity of an adoption and the time begins to run from the date when the rights of the adopted son are interfered with.

Jagadamba Chaodhrani and another v. Dakhina Mohan Roy Chaodhri and others (I. L R. XIII Calc. 308, P. C.) Mohesh Narain Munshi v. Taruck Nath Moitra (I. L R. XX Calc. 487, P. C.) Gujar Singh v. Puran (71 P. R. 1901), Hem Raj v. Sahib (116 P. R. 1901), Gunesha Singh v. Nathu (20 P. R. 1902), Lachhman Kunwar and others v. Manorath Ram (I. L. R. XXII Calc. 445, P. C.) and Sham Koer v. Dah Koer (I. L. R. XXIX Calc. 664, P. C.) cited and followed.

Mahadu Ganu v. Bayaji Sidu (I. L. R. XIX Bom. 239), distinguished.

Venkatasamy v. Ramauna and another (6 Mad. L. J. R. 188), not followed. RAM NARAIN V. MAHARAJ NARAIN. 3 P R 1904

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—
contd.

Second Schedule, article 120.

See LIMITATION. 39 P R 1901
See SECTION 10, supra.
132 P R 1907
See SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 10, supra.
90 P R 1886
103 P R 1895
See SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 57, supra.
116 P R 1881
See SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 62, supra.
56 P R 1883
96 P R 1886

1. Suit by minor against guardian for an account and for possession of immovable property—"Trustee"—Parties to suit.
See SECTION 7, supra. 33 P R 1897

2. Suit on award—Deduction of period spent in proceedings to enforce the same award summarily—Cause of action.
See SECTION 14, supra. 67 P R 1889

3. Suit for pre-emption—Sale to mortgagee in possession.
See ARTICLE 10, supra. 160 P R 1889

4. Mortgage by conditional sale—Foreclosure - Pre-emption.
See ARTICLE 10, supra. 30 P R 1892
76 P R 1895
103 P R 1901

5. Suit for pre-emption between rival pre-emptors—Necessary parties to such a suit.
See ARTICLE 10, supra. 11 P R 1893

6. Conditional sale of undivided share in a village—Foreclosure—Limitation.
See ARTICLE 10, supra. 37 P R 1893

7. Benami sale to escape pre-emption—Limitation.
See ARTICLE 10, supra. 30 P R 1893

8. Limitation for suits as between rival claimants.
See ARTICLE 10, supra.
20 P R 1908

9. Suit for dissolution of partnership and for rendition of accounts—Suit by adopted son of deceased partner's widow—Joint Hindu family.
See ARTICLE 126, infra. 20 P R 1897

10. Suit for declaration of title—Adverse entry in Revenue Papers.
See CAUSE OF ACTION, IV.—MISCELLANEOUS. 20 P R 1900

11. Suit for correction of Settlement record—Defendant challenging plaintiff's title—Declaration of right.

In a suit for correction of the Settlement record, where the plaint alleged that plaintiff was in proprietary possession of the land claimed, but disclosed a cause of action in the defendant's challenging plaintiff's title to the land, held that, though the suit was barred by time so far as it prayed for a correction of the Settlement record, the Courts should have tried and decided the question of plaintiff's proprietary title, and have given him a decree declaratory of such title if it were proved. NATHU v. BUTA

27 P R 1881

12. Suit by party in possession for declaration of title to immovable property—Accrual of right to sue.

1804

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Shcedule, article 120—contd.

Plaintiff alleged that he had been put in actual possession of a share of certain property which he had purchased, and sued for a decree declaring his title to the land, as the defendant had been recorded as owner, and disputed his title.

Held, that the limitation applicable to the suit was that provided by article 120 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, and only began to run when the right to sue accrued that is, if the plaintiff had been in possession as proprietor, when the defendant did the first act prejudicial to his title. FUTTEH SINGH v. KHARAK SINGH. 88 P R 1882

13. And article 91—Suit by reversioner for declaratory decree that an alienation will not bind his interests.

A suit brought by a nephew to have it declared that a certain deed of sale executed by his sonless uncle will not bind his reversionary interests on the uncle's death, held to be a suit not governed by article 91 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, but one to which the limitation applicable is that provided for in article 120, as there is no other article which expressly provides for a suit brought during the lifetime of a male proprietor in possession by the presumptive heir to obtain such a declaration as that above stated. MANGAL v. BUTA. 19 P R 1883

14. Suit for declaratory decree—Accrual of right to sue.

Plaintiff, the reversionary heir of one B. sued for a declaration that a mortgage effected by B. on his land in 1873 would not bind the estate against the reversioners.

Held, that the limitation applicable to the suit was that provided by article 120 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, and as the right on which the suit was based must be held to have accrued in 1873, when the mortgage was effected, the suit was barred by limitation under the above article. Futteh Singh v. Kharak Singh (No. 88 P. R. 1882), and Mangal v. Buta (No. 19 P. R. 1883), cited. CHAITH SINGH v. JIWAN. 111 P R 1834

15. And articles 14, 36, 49, 62—Suit for money awarded by Magistrate to Government by order under Criminal Procedure Code—Suit not otherwise provided for.

Plaintiff sued to recover a sum of money from Government alleging that he had received the amount claimed in May 1881, from one B. in payment of a debt, but made it over in June to a Police Sergeant, on the latter's representation that it was a part of money alleged in a criminal case then pending to have been stolen from a Government treasury over which a son of B, one of the accused in that case, had been on guard as sentry, and that the said money had been eventually awarded by the Magistrate by an order under the Criminal

1805

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 120—contd.

Procedure Code to the Government, the complainant in the criminal case, as part of the stolen property. The lower Court dismissed the plaintiff's suit, which was instituted in 1884, or within 3 years from either taking of the money by the constable or its award to Government by the Magistrate, as barred by limitation under article 36, Schedule II of the Limitation Act.

Held, that the suit was not barred either by article 36, or by article 14 (as further contended for the defendant), and as it did not appear that any article with less than a three years' limitation could be applied to the suit, it was not necessary to decide whether article 49 or 62 governed the suit, it being for the defendant to show (which he had failed to do) what article other than article 120 was applicable. KASHI RAM v. SECRETARY OF STATE. 59 P R 1888

16. Guardian and ward—Suit by ward after attaining majority for account.

The limitation governing a suit by a ward, after he has attained majority to call his guardian to account for the profits made by him while he was guardian and the plaintiff was a minor, is six years under article 120, Schedule II, Indian Limitation Act, 1877.

No. 56 P. R. 1883 referred to. SHER ALI KHAN v. KHAWAJA MUHAMMAD KHAN. 84 P R 1891

17. And article 10—Pre-emption—Suit by owner of a distinct share in joint property—Court granting decree in favour of plaintiff jointly with another owner of a distinct share in the same property who did not sue.

On the 22nd March 1878 one G. A. mortgaged half his shares in the village of Himmatpura in favour of one B. the mortgagee to be placed in possession and the mortgage to be redeemed in three years or to become a sale. On the 31st May 1878 G. A. mortgaged the remaining half of his shares to the same mortgagee, the mortgage in this case being without possession and if not redeemed within five years to become a sale. B. obtained a decree for foreclosure on the first mortgage in July 1885, and on the second in July 1888. On the 4th August 1888 plaintiff instituted both his present suits for pre-emption and obtained a decree in December 1888, but some six days previously to such decree being obtained B. executed deeds of sale of the property in suit in favour of G. M. This transaction was not brought to the notice of the first Court, but on the appeal coming before the Divisional Judge he held that G. M should be impleaded as a defendant and remanded the case under section 562, Civil Procedure Code, for that purpose. Thereupon the first Court held that G. M. had a joint right of pre-emption with plaintiff and that consequently plaintiff was entitled to a decree for half the land only. The Divisional Judge, on appeal, having concurred with the lower Court, the plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court on the ground that G. M. had no such joint right of pre-emption, and, that, even if he had, it could not be decreed to him without his suing to enforce it in the regular way. For the respondents it was urged that the claim as regards the first mortgage was barred by limitation.

1806

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Shcedule, article 120—contd.

Held, that the claim was not barred because the suit fell under article 120 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877, and not under article 10.

Held, further, that although G. M. and plaintiff both held shares in a joint property, such shares were distinct, and that there was no presumption that plaintiff, in claiming pre-emption, did so on behalf of any other sharer than himself and that as G. M. had not claimed pre-emption independently, the transfer to him by B. could not affect plaintiff's right. KAMAR-UD-DIN v. BAKHTAWAR. 37 P R 1894

18. And articles 134 and 144—Limitation—Will, suit for cancellation of—Immovable property, suit for possession of—Period of Limitation applicable.

Plaintiff sued for certain house properties which he alleged that one G. S., his father, who was Mahant of a certain shrine in Lahore and who had died in 1883, had left by will, dated 1st November 1879, to defendants who were now in possession. Plaintiff based his claim on the ground that G. S. had no right to dispose of the property in question by will, inasmuch as it formed part of the endowment of the shrine of which plaintiff was the head. He further prayed for a declaration of the invalidity of the will.

The first Court having declared the will null and void in respect of the property devised to defendants Nos. I and III, the Divisional Judge on appeal dismissed plaintiff's suit on the ground that it had from the first been treated as one to have the will declared void, and, inasmuch as plaintiff had allowed the said will to be acted on for seven years, he was barred from questioning its validity now, under article 120 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act. Plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, following the Full Bench ruling reported as No. 116 P. R. 1890, that plaintiff's omission to sue, within the period allowed under article 120 either for cancellation of the will or for a declaration that it was null and void, was no bar to his suit for possession of the immovable property comprised in the said will, the suit having been instituted within the period allowed under article 144 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act.

L. R. VI Ind. App. 160, I. L. R. XII Calc. 69, I. L. R. XIII Calc. 308, I. L. R. XIX

1807

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 120—contd.

Calc. 629, I. L. R. XX Calc. 487, I. L. R. XI Mad. 26, I. L. R. XVI Bom., 186, I. L. R. XI All. 456, Nos. 116 P. R. 1890, 54 P.R. 1891, and 57 P. R. 1891, cited. BHAI ASA RAM v. ATTAR SINGH. 56 P R 1894

19. And section 10—Suit by person interested in endowed property for dispossession of an assign of last manager—Limitation Act, 1877, section 10, and 2nd Schedule, articles 120, 142, 144.

Held, that a suit for dispossession of an assign of a third person in favour of the third person is not a suit for possession within the meaning of article 142 or article 144 of the Limitation Act, but is a suit for the declaration of the right of the third person, and, not being provided for by any article of the Limitation Act other than article 120, is governed by that article, and that the applicability of article 120 is not affected by the fact that the plaintiff is interested in endowed property which is the subject of the suit. NARAIN SINGH v. ISHAR SINGH. 8 P R 1899

20. Suit for pre-emption on sale—Decree for possession—Subsequent suit by rival pre-emptor against original vendee and former plaintiff—Cause of action—Limitation.

On the 29th June 1891 the patwari recorded in his register an oral transfer of the property in dispute by the owners to one Wiru in whose favour mutation was effected on the 8th February 1892. On the 23rd June 1897, Ganga Ram sued Wiru for possession by pre-emption and obtained a decree on the 21st August 1897. On the 2nd November 1897, Ganga Ram obtained possession in execution and on the 10th December 1897, he was sued by the present plaintiff (Waryam) for possession by pre-emption, Wiru, the original vendee, being impleaded as a co-defendant.

Held, that plaintiff's cause of action arose on the date of the sale to Wiru, viz in June 1891, and that his suit instituted in December 1897 was barred under article 120 of the Second Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877. GANGA RAM v. WARYAM. 25 P R 1899

21. It is not necessary for the reversioner of a holder of ancestral agricultural land to sue during his lifetime for declaration of the invalidity of an alienation made by him as respects such reversioner's interest, and in the event of his failing to do so such reversioner is not precluded from suing for possession on the death of the alienor after the lapse of the period prescribed for such declaratory suits.

The proper limitation for a declaratory suit of this nature is six years under article 120 of the Limitation Act. DHERU v. SIDHU. 56 P R 1903 F B

22. Public Company—Suit by liquidator for money due to the Company in respect of unpaid calls on shares—Limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 120.

1808

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 120—contd.

Held, thal the period of limitation applicable to a suit brought by liquidator of a Public Company to recover the unpaid amount of calls from a share-holder is six years from the date of default under article 120 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act,

The Parell Spinning and Weaving Company v. Manek Haji (I. L. R. X Bom. 483) cited. In re Duckworths (L. R. 2 Ch. 578), In re Stockens (L. R. 3 Ch. 412), Waterhouse v. Jamieson (L. R. 2 H. L. (Sc.) 29), In re Whitehouse & Co. (L. R. 9 Ch. D. 595), In re National Funds Assurance Co. (L. R. 10 Ch. D. 118), Sukho Bibi v. Ram Sukh Das (I. L. R. V All. 263), Raghubar Dial v. Modan Mohan Lal (I. L. R. XVI All. 3), Sorabji Jamsetji v. Ishwar Das Jugjiwan Das (I. L. R. XX Bom. 654), In re Ram Sunkar Bhadoori (3 Calc. L. R. 440), Manekji Framji v. Rustomji Naserwanji Mistry (I L. R. XIV Bom. 269). and Parashram Jethmal v. Rakhma (I. L. R. XV Bom. 299), referred to. HARCHAND RAI v. RANG LAL. 70 P R 1903

23. Religious institution—Suit by person interested in endowed property for dispossession of an assignee of the last manager—Limitation.

In 1899 plaintiff brought a suit as a worshipper to contest an alienation made in 1899 by the last manager of the endowed property and asked for the dispossession of the assignee in favour of the endowment, held, that the limitation applicable to such suit was that prescribed by article 120 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act, and that time began to run for the purposes of limitation from the date of the alienation.

Narain Singh v. Ishar Singh (8 P. R. 1899), Behari Lal v. Muhummad Muttaki (I. L R. XX All. 482), and Chukkun Lal v. Lalit Mohan Roy (I. L. R. XX Calc. 906), referred to. ASA RAM v. PARAS RAM. 9 P R 1904

24. And article 10—Pre-emption—Oral sale of joint share in an undivided holding—Physical possession.

Held, that the limitation applicable to a suit brought to declare a right of pre-emption in respect of a sale not by registered instrument, of an undivided share in a joint holding which does not admit of physical possession being taken, is six years under article 120, Schedule II of the Limitation Act.

Batul Begam v. Mansur Ali Khan (I. L. R. XXIV All. 17, P. C.) Ali Gauhar v. Jowahir (30 P. R. 1892), Kalu v. Bhupa (30 P. R. 1893), Unkar Das v. Narain (I. L. R. IV All. 24, F. B.), Bholi v. Imam Ali (I. L. R. IV All. 179), Batul Begam v. Mansur Ali Khan (I. L. R. XX All. 315, F. B.) and Ganga Ram v. Bahal Singh (76 P. R. 1895), referred to. KISHEN CHAND AND OTHERS v. KEHR SINGH. 14 P R 1904

1809

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 120—contd.

25. Limitation—Suit by reversioner for declaration—Defendant's title based on an alleged adoption—Invalidity of adoption.

Held, that a suit by a reversioner for a declaratory decree where the defendant's title was based on an adoption the factum of which was established is governed by article 120 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act, and such a suit cannot be excluded from the operation of the article merely by reason of the validity of the adoption being called in question.

Malkarjun v. Narhari (I. L. R. XXV Bom. 337, P. C.) Shrinivas Murar v. Hanmant Chavdo Deshapande (I. L. R. XXIV Bom. 260, F. B.) Ganesha Singh v. Natu and others (20 P. R. 1902), Bhupa and another v. Nagahi and others (68 P. R. 1903), and Dehru and others v. Sidhu and others (56 P. R. 1903, F. B.) referred to. PIR MUHAMMAD v. FAUJA. 35 P R 1904

26. Limitation—Irregular transfer of right of occupancy—Suit by landlord for possession after cancellation of sale—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 60.

Held, that the period of limitation applicable to a suit under section 60 of the Punjab Tenancy Act for the cancelment of a voidable transfer of a right of occupancy is six years under article 120 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877. KURIA v. NANAK. 7 P R 1905 Rev.

27. Custom—Alienation—Alienation of ancestral property by Jat proprietor—Suit by after born son of the alienor to contest such alienation—Limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 120.

In 1904, plaintiff, who was born in 1900 brought a suit for declaration that an alienation of ancestral land made by his father in 1893 would not affect his reversionary interests.

Held that the claim was barred by limitation under article 120 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act. The cause of action giving the right to sue commenced from the date of the alienation, and limitation had finally expired before the plaintiff's birth and was not revived in favour of plaintiff on his birth in 1900.

Harwans Singh v. Harnam Singh (84 P. R. 1898 F B.) and Jowala v. Hira Singh (55 P. R. 1903 F. B.), referred to. GANPAT v. DHANI RAM. 73 P R 1906

23. And article 131—Jagir—Suit to recover arrears of jagir by grants from Government—Periodically recurring rights—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, articles ation —120, 131.

Held, that the period of limitation applicable to a suit to recover arrears of jagir which was payable by Government annually from the defendant who claimed to receive it under a decree obtained by him against a former grantee was that prescribed by article 120 of the second Schedule to the

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 120—contd.

Limitation Act and not that prescribed by article 131 which applies to a suit where the plaintiff seeks only to establish his periodically recurring right.

Alubi v. Kanhi Bai (I. L. R. X Mad. 115) dissented from.

Kamman v. Budh Singh (146 P. R. 1882), Gahna v. Ikhlas Khan (154 P. R. 1889), and Mussammat Zinat v. Murtaza Khan (108 P. R. 1901), distinguished. DOST MUHAMMAD KHAN v. SOHAN SINGH. 83 P R 1906

29. Suit for pre-emption arising out of mortgage by conditional sale—Starting point of limitation.

Held, that the limitation applicable to a suit to enforce a right of pre-emption in respect of a conditional sale of share in a joint khata is that contained in article 120 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act, and it begins to run against a pre-emptor from the date of the expiration of the year of grace allowed under Regulation XVII of 1806. SHEOJI SINGH v. SHEOJI SINGH. 129 P R 1906

30. Declaration decree—Suit by a person in possession for a declaration of title in immoveable property—Cause of action against defendant—Adverse entry in revenue papers.

Held, that a suit for a declaration of his title to immovable property by a person in possession as proprietor is not barred if brought within six years from the time when the defendant attempts to oust him from the land although a right to sue the defendant who had been recorded as owner of the property in the settlement record had already accrued and become barred. HAKIM SINGH v. WARYAMAN. 140 P R 1907

31. Limitation—Suit for a declaration of title to, and possession in, immovable property by a vendee in actual possession—Starting point of Limitation.

Held that a suit by a vendee, in possession of the property purchased, for a declaration of title as such, is governed by article 120 of the Second Schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, and that the period of limitation begins to run from the date on which the vendor denies the plaintiff's title. MUNSHI RAM v. HAMMI. 61 P R 1908

32. Religious Institution—Suit for removal of a Mutwalli and Imam by reason of a change in his religious views—Limitation for such suit—Starting point of limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 120.

Held, that the limitation applicable to a suit for a declaration, that the Mutwalli and Imam of a certain mosque by reason of a change in his religious views at variance with the beliefs of the founders of the institution, is liable to be dismissed from his office, is that contained in article 120 of the Second Schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, and the period begins to run from the date when such change takes place. YAD ALI v. MUBARAK ALI. 53 P R 1909

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 120—concld.

33. And section 28—Limitation—Declaratory suit contesting alienation—Punjab Limitation Act, I of 1900, article 1—Indian Limitation Act, XV of 1877, article 120 and section 28.

Held, that the provisions of section 28, Indian Limitation Act of 1877, being expressly limited to suits for possession do not apply to suits for declarations, and that a person in possession has no vested right to the benefit of any specific period of limitation, not in force when the suit was instituted.

Held therefore, that a suit instituted in January 1907 for a declaration, that a sale-deed executed in January 1897 did not affect the reversionary rights of the plaintiffs, was within limitation being governed by article 1 of the Schedule to the Punjab Limitation Act of 1900 and not by article 120, Schedule II, of the Indian Limitation Act of 1877. ARURA MAL v. KESAR SINGH. 69 P R 1909

Second Schedule, article 123.

1. And articles 48, 49—Claim by widow against co-widows who had obtained succession certificate—Assets not realized at time of suit—Cause of action.

See ARTICLE 48. 16 P R 1897

2. And articles 127, 144 and 142—Devolution of estate upon several persons jointly—Entry of one on behalf of all.

C, the common ancestor of the parties died between 20 and 14 years before the institution of the suit. Plaintiff sued defendant for his share of the estates of C. on the allegation that he had obtained possession on the death of C. and had subsequently entrusted it to defendant, who refused to restore it on demand. It was found that the plaintiff had never had actual possession, and that there was no trust.

Held, that the suit was barred under article 144, Limitation Act. Under the circumstances of the case it could not properly be held that the entry of the defendant on the death of C. was an entry which vested the possession in the plaintiff. LACHMAN SINGH v. SOHAN SINGH. 97 P R 1890

Second Schedule, article 125.

1. Alienation by Muhammadan widow—Widow handing over property to her deceased husband's adopted son.

See ARTICLE 118. 45 P R 1892

2. Sale of land by female entitled thereto for her life—Subsequent alienation by vendee more than twelve years after previous sale—

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 125—contd.

Suit for declaratory decree by reversioners of the female in respect of the second alienation—Limitation Act, 1877, article 125—Estoppel Misjoinder.

Plaintiffs sued on the allegations that certain lands, which were originally the property of their grandfather, Sirdar Deva Singh, deceased, were on the Sirdar's death given to his grand, daughter, Mussammat T. D. by his widow, for her maintenance; that on the 19th August 1874, Mussammat T. D., without lawful necessity, sold the said land to one P. S. defendant 2, under a fictitious deed of sale, plaintiffs being entitled to reversionary rights therein; that on 18th April 1895, P. S. by a registered deed, gave part of the said land to defendants 3, 4 and 5, who claimed to be collaterals of the said Sirdar and reversionary heirs of Mussammat T. D., and part to his own grandson; that defendants 3, 4 and 5 were not such reversionary heirs in the presence of plaintiffs; that the sale by Mussammat T. D. to P. S. was invalid as made without necessity and that as defendants, donees of P. S. contemplated a sale of the said lands by auction which would prejudicially affect plaintiffs' rights, and would put plaintiffs to great difficulty in recovering the said lands when their rights accrued, plaintiffs prayed that a declaratory decree might be passed in their favour to the effect that after Mussammat T. D.'s death, they were the reversionary heirs entitled to the said property. In this suit plaintiffs impleaded Mussammat T. D. as co-defendant together with P. S. and the donees of P. S.

In the Chief Court it was admitted by plaintiffs that their right to sue in respect of the sale by Mussammat T. D. to P. S. was barred by limitation, but it was contended that inasmuch as P. S. had, by the deed of 18th April 1895, set up other reversioners to Mussammat T. D. and thus denied plaintiffs' rights as such by implication, plaintiffs had a new cause of action to ask for the declaration prayed for.

Held, that such contention was untenable. The suit which plaintiffs might have brought under section 42 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, at any time within twelve years from the date of the sale by Mussammat T. D. to P. S. to have the said sale declared void after Mussammat T. D.'s death, would have been maintainable only on the assumption that plaintiffs were the reversionary heirs of Mussammat T. D. as respects the land sold, and that their rights had been denied, actually or by implication, such as by the act of alienation itself. Plaintiffs' right to sue on that cause of action having been lost under article 125 of the Limitation Act, 1877, the subsequent reiteration of the denial of their rights gave the plaintiffs no fresh right to sue for a declaration in respect of the property included in the alienation.

Held, further, that plaintiffs' previous failure to sue for a declaration in respect of the sale by Mussammat T. D. to P. S. precluded them from challenging it during the lifetime of Mussammat T. D.

1813

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 125—concld.

Held, also, that Mussammat T. D. having admittedly done nothing since the sale in 1874, to prejudice the plaintiffs' rights, had been improperly impleaded as co-defendant in the present suit. MUSSAMMAT THAKAR DEVI v. PARTAB SINGH. 26 P R 1896

Second Schedule, article 126.

1. And articles 106, 120, 127—Suit for dissolution of partnership and for rendition of accounts—Suit by adopted son of widow of deceased partner—Joint Hindu Family—Limitation Act of 1877, 2nd Schedule, articles 106, 120.

The parties were Jain Saraogis of the Karnal District, and plaintiff, who alleged that he was adopted to one M. L. by the widow of the said M. L. sued for rendition of accounts, dissolution of partnership existing between himself and the late M. L. and defendants, and for a decree for half the total assets of the said firm. The lower Court having decreed the claim, defendants appealed to the Chief Court, and contended, that the suit was barred by limitation; that on the death of M. L. his estate devolved on the surviving members of the firm, and could not be diverted by the alleged subsequent adoption: and that, in any event, plaintiff's adoption gave him no right to the ancestral property of the deceased M. L.

Held, that inasmuch as by Hindu Law an ancestral trade may descend, like other inheritable property, upon the members of a Hindu undivided family, the partnership was not dissolved by the death of M. L.

Held, further that a valid adoption by a widow to her husband has the effect of placing the adopted son in the position which he would have occupied had he been adopted by that husband or been a posthumous child of that husband; and that the adopted son must be received to the joint family partnership on adoption, and is entitled to all the rights of an ordinary member of that partnership, which has continued to exist in spite of the death of the deceased partner.

Held, therefore, that plaintiff's suit, which was instituted within six years of the date of adoption was within time under article 126 or 127, Limitation Act, the partnership not having been dissolved by the death of M. L., and no dissolution subsequent to his death and before adoption having been proved.

Held, further, that the adoption by the widow, if valid, divested any estate which was not superior to that of the adopted son, and that plaintiff on adoption become ipso facto a member of the family partnership.

Found upon the evidence, without laying down a general rule, that the adoption was valid and had the effect of vesting in the adopted son the share of the deceased in the joint family property of every description. KAPUR CHAND v. NARINJAN LAL. 20 P R 1897

1814

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 126—concld.

Second Schedule, article 127.

See ARTICLE 126, supra.

1. Muhammedan Law—Gift to one heir to the prejudice of other heirs—Death-bed gift. Limitation.

See ARTICLE 91, supra. 52 P R 1895

2. Devolution of estate upon several persons jointly—Entry of one on behalf of all.

See ARTICLE 123. 97 P R 1890

3. Exclusion from joint family property.

The garden in dispute was recorded in 1861 as the property jointly of the plaintiff and defendants, who formed a joint Hindu family. In 1861, plaintiff mortgaged to a third party some house property belonging to the family, and entered in the deed a clause to the effect that if the defendants were to redeem it, he, plaintiff, would have no further claim to it. In the same year plaintiff left the village and went into foreign territory, where he married and settled, taking no further interest in the property or its management for 21 years, when hearing that at the new Settlement the defendants had recorded their own names as owners and excluded his, he returned and brought the present suit for possession of the garden.

Held, that as regards limitation the case fell under article 127, Schedule II, of the Limitation Act, and that it could not be said that plaintiff was excluded from possession of the joint family property till the recent entry was made in the Settlement papers. MEHR CHAND v. DUNI CHAND. 18 P R 1886

4. And article 144—Exclusion from joint family property—Adverse possession—Exclusion need not be from the whole family property.

An exclusion from all ancestral property is not necessary to give rise to a bar by limitation. So long as the property continues to be held as undivided family property, limitation will not run against a member who has not been excluded from his share, but when the question is whether the property was in fact so held, there is no reason why limitation should not begin to run from the earliest date when the property can be shown to have been actually held by the person in possession adversely to the other members of the family. The circumstance that they may hold other property which, if they claim a partition, they must allow to be brought into the partition, would not be material, what has to be considered being the property out of the plaintiff's possession in which he claims a share. BUDHA MAL v. BHAGWAN DAS. 86 P R 1886

1815

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 127—concld.

5. Sucession of daughters—Muhammadan law—Limitation Act XV of 1877, Schedule II articles 127, 144—Joint Family—Adverse possession—Minority.

Held, in a case, in which two daughters were claiming their shares under Muhammadan Law that there being no joint family proved to exist, and each sharer therefore being entitled to claim on the death of the owner whose estate was in dispute, and whose death occurred more than 12 years prior to suit, limitation ran against each plaintiff from the date of such owner's death, and though the youngest daughter, having claimed within 3 years of attaining her majority, was entitled to her whole share, the other plaintiff was barred by 12 years' adverse possession, save as to her share in a small portion of the estate, the claim to which was within time. NASIR-UD-DIN SHAH v. MUSSAMMAT LAL BIBI. 89 P R 1888

Second Schedule, article 131.

See ARTICLE 120, supra. 83 P R 1903

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTION 28. 106 P R 1883

1. Suit for kamiana—Time from which period begins to run.

Held, per Smyth, J., that in a suit for kamiana, where the right to levy such dues formerly existed, limitation would not begin to run against the plaintiffs simply from their refraining to exercise the right, but from the time when they were first refused enjoyment of the right (Article 131, Schedule II, Act XV of 1877). KAMMAN v. BUDH SINGH. 146 P R 1882

2. Non-user—Talukdari dues.

In 1849, the defendants obtained a decree establishing their right to levy talukdari dues from the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs now sued for a declaration that they were not liable to pay the said dues, no payment having been made since the date of the decree, and the defendants having lost their right by non-user.

Held, that assuming that defendant had not collected the dues from plaintiffs as alleged, this right fell under article 131, Schedule II, Limitation Act, and to defeat a claim to enforce it, plaintiffs must prove not merely non-user but a demand and refusal 12 years before suit. GAHNA v. IKHLAS KHAN. 154 P R 1889

3. Jagir—Succession—Grant of Government revenue for life to parties' family in specific shares—Death of one sharer—Suit by the surviving sharer against the son of the deceased for certain instalments wrongfully enjoyed by the latter—Limitation.

A jagir was granted to the family of the parties for life without any express provisions for survivorship. The jagir was to be divided into ten shares in three separate groups, the defendant's father and the plaintiff being two out of five sharers in group No. 2. The former died in 1868 and his share was peaceably enjoyed by his son until 1898, when the plaintiff filed a suit against the defendant on the allegation that two annual instalments proportionate to the defendant's share had been wrongfully enjoyed by the defendant, who pleaded limitation, and argued that in his presence the plaintiff was not an heir to his father. Held, that as no demand was made prior to those which immediately preceded this suit the suit was within limitation under article 131 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act. Gahna v. Ikylas Khan (154 P R. 1889) cited. MUSSAMMAT ZINAT v. MURTAZA KHAN. 108 P R 1901

Second Schedule, article 131—concld.

Second Schedule, article 132.

1. Suit by minor against guardian for an account and for possession of immovable property—" Trustee "—Limitation.

See SECTION 7, supra. 33 R P 1897

2. " Immovable property "—" Benefit to arise out of land jagir income.

See ARTICLE 75, supra. 4 P R 1894

2 (a). And article 147—Suit for foreclosure or Sale—Mortgage—Charge.

See ARTICLE 147. 151 P R 1888

3. Schedule II, article 132—Suit on Mortgage bond—Declaration of lien on immovable property.

Where a plaintiff seeks to realize money due on a bond by obtaining a declaration of his lien on immovable property mortgaged by the bond, held, that the suit is not barred by limitation because it is brought later than three years from the time when the money became repayable, such suit being governed by the limitation provided for in article 132, Schedule II of Act XV of 1877, viz., 12 years. KALA SHAH v. FAZL. 69 P R 1880

4. And article 116—Suit on mortgage barred as regards defendant's personal liability, but maintainable as against mortgaged property.

Held, per Brandreth, J. in a suit to recover the sum alleged to be due on a mortgage, which prayed also for the said amount to be decreed against the mortgaged property, that the suit, so far as it prayed for a decree against the debtor personally, was barred by limitation, more than six years having elapsed since payments were refused, and the two parts of the claim being separable; though the suit was in time so far as it was one to enforce a charge against immovable property, the period of limitation being 12 years for this part of the suit. Shankar Das v. Ghasita (No. 73 of 1876, Civil) cited and followed. GAHI MAL v. SHERA. 90 P R 1881

Second Schedule, article 132—contd.

5. Suit to enforce payment of money charged upon immovable property—Suit by mortgagee to obtain a mere money decree

Held by a majority of the Full Bench, Smith, J. dissenting, that the limitation of 12 years provided by article 132, Schedule II of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877) for suits to enforce payment of money charged upon immovable property, is not applicable to a suit by a mortgagee ot obtain a decree merely for the mortgage-money against the motgagor. Abdul Hamid v. Gholam (No. 49 of 1871 Civil), Shankar Das v. Ghasita (No. 73 of 1876 Civil) and Dowlat Ram v. Jiwan Mal (No. 116 of 1881, Civil) approved of. Kishen Singh v. Shah Partab Shah (No. 55 of 1884, Civil, Note) overruled. DEVI DAS v. ISHAR DAS. 55 P R 1884

6. And article 63—Suit for redemption of mortgage—Defendant's right to interest due under the mortgage—Right to treat such interest as a charge on the estate.

In a suit for redemption of a mortgage of certain land, it appeared that the mortgage was originally by way of collateral security, but that it was stipulated that if interest, which was payable year by year at a specified rate per mensem, were not paid in any one year as agreed upon, the mortgagee was to be placed in possession of the land; and that in consequence of a default having occurred in the payment of interest, the mortgagee had on a former occasion, sued to enforce the condition of deed as to the transfer of possession, and had obtained a decree to that effect since when he had continued in possession of the mortgaged land. The defendant, while admitting the plaintiff's right to redeem, claimed to receive interest under the terms of the deed from the date of execution of the instrument until the date of his decree for possession, but the lower Appellate Court refused to award such interest, holding that the claim thereto had become barred under arlicle 63 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act.

Held, that (in the absence of any contract to the contrary) the mortgagee was entitled, in a settlement of his account with his mortgagor, to treat the interest due under the mortgage as a charge on the estate; that article 132 of the Limitation Act therefore applied, and the mortgagee was entitled to all interest due under the mortgage within twelve years from the date of suit. Ram Nath v. Mussammat Jio. (No. 101 P. R. 1880). RADHA KISHEN v. MUHAMDU. 57 P R 1883

7. And article 147—Suit on a mortgage bond—English mortgage.

Held, by the Full Bench (Benton J. dissenting) that a suit to recover the principal and interest due upon a deed of single mortgage by sale of the mortgaged property is governed as regards limitation by article 132, and not by article 147 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act of 1877.

Second Schedule, article 132—contd.

I. L. R. XIV Calc. 730 followed. 151 P. R. 1888 overruled. RAM SARAN DAS v. MEHTAB. 112 P R 1890, F. B.

8. Suit for redemption of mortgage—Interest treated as a charge on mortgaged estate—Limit to such charge.

In a suit for redemption of a mortgage in which the principal and interest are made a charge upon the mortgaged land, and interest is due for a period exceeding twelve years, the mortgagor cannot avail himself of the provisions of article 132 of the Limitation Act so as to obtain redemption on payment of the principal and so much of the interest only as has accrued during the twelve years immediately before the suit.

57 P. R. 1888, overruled. 8 P. R. 1890, approved. KAMRA v. BISHAMBAR DAS. 147 P R 1890 F. B.

9. Limitation Act (XV of 1877), 2nd Schedule, articles 75, 116 and 132—General Clauses Act, (I of 1868), section 2—" Immovable property "—" Benefit to arise out of land."—Jagir income.

A suit was filed on the 4th January 1892, based on a bond, dated the 13th June 1883, hypothecating certain jagir income. The lower Courts dismissed the claim as barred by limitation, according to the first Court under article 75, and according to the Divisional Court, under article 116, of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act.

Held, that looking at the definition of immovable property given in section 2 of the General Clauses Act, jagir income is a "benefit to arise out of land" within the meaning of that definition and that, therefore, the suit was within time under article 132 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act. RAM PARSHAD v. KISHEN SINGH. 4 P R 1894

10. Construction of mortgage-deed—Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, articles 75, 132, 147.

The mortgage-deed in question provided as follows:—" The mortgagees shall pay the " mortgage-money by instalments of Rs. 60 " a year, together with interest at the rate of " 8 annas per cent. without raising any ob- " jection or dispute. In case of default of " payment of an annual instalment, together " with interest at the aforesaid rate, the " mortgagors will put the mortgagee in posses- " sion of the mortgaged share of the house. " If the mortgagors raise any objection, the " mortgagee will be at liberty to at once get " possession by bringing a regular suit. " Afterwards the mortgagors will redeem

1819

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 132—concld.

"and get released the mortgaged share on "payment of the mortgage-money together "with the fixed amount of interest."

The deed was executed in 1881, and the first default in payment of the instalments took place in 1892. In 1897 the mortgagee sued for Rs. 797-6-0 principal and interest due on the mortgage, and prayed for attachment and sale of the mortgaged property.

Held, with reference to the language of the deed, that the intention of the parties was to hypothecate the property in the first instance, giving the mortgagee the power of taking steps for assuming possession and so converting the mortgage into a purely usufructuary one, but, as the mortgagee failed to so convert it, the transaction remain- no more than a promise to pay by the obligor who had hypothecated his property as a collateral security.

Held, therefore, that as the plaintiff had failed to enforce payment within twelve years of the first default in payment by taking possession and so carrying out and developing the contract the suit was barred under article 132 of the Limitation Act, 1877. MILKHI RAM v. ACHHRU MAL. 23 P R 1900

11. Builder's lien—Charges created by act of parties—Limitation applicable—Limitation Act, 1877, articles 52, 56, 120, 132.

Held, that a claim for the balance of money due to a builder who undertook the erection of a building on an express understanding that all the sums due to him where to be a charge upon the buildings until paid is a claim for money charged upon immovable property and the period of limitation to enforce such charge is twelve years under article 132 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act. DAULAT RAM v. THE WOOLEN MILLS CO., LD., DELHI.

95 P R 1908

12. Benami transaction—Benami mortgage—Assignment by Benamidar—Right of beneficiary against the property and the benamidar—Limitation.

Held, that a person who takes a mortgage of immovable property in the name of another, loses his lien on the security, if a bonâ fide transferee acquires it for value from the benamidar, but has a remedy against the latter for the money wrongfully received and retained by him, and it being charged on immovable property, the limitation for such a claim is that which is provided by article 132 of the Second Schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877. SHAM LAL v. JOHRI MAL.

37 P R 1909

Second Schedule, article 134.

1. Will, suit for cancellation of—Immovable property, suit for possession of—Period of limitation applicable.

1820

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 134—contd.

See ARTICLE 120.

56 P R 1894

2. And article 148—Redemption of mortgage—Party not really interested in equity of redemption redeeming from mortgagee in possession—Subsequent possession by such person for more than 12 years—Adverse possession—Right of party so redeeming to defeat suit for redemption by representative of mortgagor by plea of 12 years adverse possession.

The facts found by the lower Courts, and accepted in second appeal by the Chief Court, with regard to the plot of land which was the subject of the appeal, were that the land was part of the estate of one I. B. when he died about 30 years ago; that it was then, or shortly afterwards, by his widow, mortgaged to one L. for Rs. 20: that it was redeemed more than 12 years ago by the defendant, and that the plaintiff was I. B.'s heir, and entitled as such to redeem unless he was barred by the law of limitation. The defendant-appellant relied on article 134 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act in support of his plea that plaintiff's suit was barred.

Held, per Rattigan and Barkley, JJ. (Elsmie, J. dissenting), that as the defendant knew that the land had been mortgaged by I. B. or his widow, and obtained possession by redeeming the mortgage, he was in the same position as an assignee of the mortgage, and was not a "purchaser for valuable consideration" within the meaning of article 134 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, and could not take advantage of the provisions of that article to abridge the period within which the plaintiff as the legal representative of the original mortgagor was entitled to claim redemption under article 148; and further that it was immaterial whether or no the defendant at the time of redeeming the mortgage claimed to be himself the owner of the property.

Per Elsmie, J.—That the position taken by the defendant being that he claimed and took the land in his own right, and not as heir of the original mortgagor, that is, took it by assertion of a right adverse to the heir of the original mortgagor, paying off a charge which had been created by the life-tenant; and as, if he did so, whatever defects there might have been in his title originally would have been cured by long adverse possession, the case should be remanded for re-decision after a finding as to whether defendant took possession of the land as heir of I. B. or in his own right as heir of the original owner. AZIM v. MAHMUD.

124 P R 1883

3. And article 144—Religious Institution—Mortgage of property attached to religious institution—Suit by mahant to set aside various mortgages made by his predecessor in office to several persons—Limitation for such suit—Starting point of Limitation.

1821

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 134—concld.

Held by the Full Bench that the limitation applicable to a suit by a mahant to set aside a mortgage of waqaf property attached to a religious institution by his predecessor in office on the ground that the alienor had no power to alienate such property is that prescribed by article 144 of the Second Schedule to the Limitation Act and not that prescribed by article 134, and that it begins to run from the date of the plaintiff's appointment as mahant, i. e., the date on which he becomes entitled to possession by virtue of his appointment. BASHESHAR LAL v. NATHA SINGH. 30 P R 1908, F B

4. Religious Institution—Sale by mahant of immovable property belonging to his shrine — Suit by his successor to recover property—Limitation for such suit—Starting point of limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 134.

Held by the Full Bench that where immovable property conveyed, in trust to a mahant of a religious institution for the time being for the benefit of the institution is sold by his successor in office to recover the property so alienated is governed by article 134 of the Indian Limitation Act, and is barred if the purchaser has been in possession of such property for more than twelve years from the date of his purchase. HAR GIAN DEO v. BALDEO DAS. 127 P R 1908, F B

Second Schedule, article 135.

1. Foreclosure of mortgages—Notice—Failure to pay interest under mortgage-deed —Continuing breach of contract—Waiver.

See SECTION 23, supra.
See SECTION 28, supra.

2. Suit by mortgagee for possession on default of payment of mortgage-money.

See ARTICLE 113, supra.

3. And article 113—Suit for possession of property mortgaged—Specific performance.

Plaintiff sued in 1881 to obtain possession of certain land mortgaged to him in 1876 by a registered deed, by the terms of which he was to a hold possession of and cultivate the land, paying the Government revenue. It was recited in the deed that possession had been given to the mortgagee from the date of the deed, but in point of fact possession was not given. The lower Appellate Court held that the suit was barred by limitation on the ground that it was one for specific performance of a contract of mortgage, and more than three years had elapsed since the date of execution of the deed.

Held, that the suit was not barred; that it was not a suit brought by the plaintiff to compel the owner of the land to convey a right of possession, as that had already been done, but to obtain possession of the land the right to which was conveyed by the deed of 1876, and the period of limitation for such a suit was twelve years from the date of execution of the deed under article 135, Schedule II, Act XV of 1877. RAM CHAND v. GYAN CHAND. 134 P R 1883

Second Schedule, article 135—contd.

4. And article 144—Mortgage—Mortgagor and mortgagee—Landlord and tenant—Adverse possession.

S. mortgaged a house to G. in 1815. The mortgage was with possession with right to the mortgagee to live in the house himself or to let it to tenants, but as a matter of fact the mortgagors and his descendants continued in possession till the commencement of the present litigation. The period of limitation for redemption expired in 1875. In 1881 the mortgagee obtained a decree for rent against the mortgagors. In 1882 the mortgagors sued for a declaration that they were proprietors by adverse possession or in default, for redemption. It was found that they had paid rent and that there had been no adverse possession. The claim for redemption was found to be time-barred. In 1888 the legal heir of the mortgagee sold the house to plaintiff, who sued defendants as tenants for ejectment. Defendants pleaded that the suit was barred by articles 135 and 144 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act (XV of 1877), and that they had been in adverse possession for more than 12 years.

Held, (i) that the suit was not barred. Article 135 applies only to cases where the mortgagee is not in actual or constructive possession of the property. The present suit was not by a mortgagee out of possession to recover possession from a mortgagor in possession, but was based on the allegation that the mortgagor continued in possession as tenant of the mortgagee;

(ii) that there had been no adverse possession. The judgment of 1882 was a clear authority for holding that the mortgagors had paid rent, and it was res judicata as to the character of possession till then. Since 1882, sufficient time had not elapsed to entitle them to claim ownership by adverse possession. Adverse possession not having been proved, the defendants must be held to be still tenants and liable to ejectment. GANPAT RAI v. JEWAN LALL. 114 P R 1890

5. And article 144—Suit for possession by mortgagee who has foreclosed.

Plaintiff sued on the allegations that on 27th January 1877 defendant executed in his favour a mortgage, by the terms of which plaintiff was to be placed in immediate possession of certain land as mortgagee and receive the produce in lieu of interest, and defendant was to redeem in three years, in Jeth, and, if he failed to do so, the mortgage was to become a sale.

Second Schedule, article 135—contd.

Plaintiff never received possession as mortgagee; but on the 1st June 1889, he got notice of foreclosure served under the Regulation, and in January 1892 he instituted a suit for proprietary possession of the land. Defendant pleaded, inter alia, that the suit was barred by limitation under article 135 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the suit was within time—(1) that though plaintiff's right to sue for physical cultivating possession as mortgagee probably determined in 1889, the omission to sue for such possession did not amount to a waiver of his right to foreclose; (2) that plaintiff's right to foreclose first accrued in 1880, and that he had at least twelve years from that date within which to foreclose the mortgage; (3) that plaintiff, having foreclosed in 1889-90, had twelve years within which to institute his suit for proprietary possession, running from the date of the expiry of the year of grace, when the mortgagor's right to possession of the character sought for in the suit first determined.

The authorities considered and discussed by Rivaz, J. BHANDARI v. MUSSAMMAT JASODHAN. 90 P R 1895 F B

6. Mortgage by way of conditional sale—Foreclosure proceedings instituted more than 12 years after determination of mortgagor's right to possession—Suit for possession—Limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, articles 135, 144, 147—Regulation XVII of 1806.

Plaintiffs sued for possession of certain land on the allegation that defendants' father had executed a mortgage thereof by way of conditional sale on the 24th March 1871, the condition being that, if not redeemed within seven years, the land was to become the mortgagee's property by sale; that a foreclosure notice was issued to the defendants, and served on them on the 10th April 1895 and 12th May 1895, and that the year of grace had expired without the defendants paying off the mortgage, and that plaintiffs had consequently become owners of the mortgaged property.

Held, that the suit not having been instituted within 12 years of the date fixed in the mortgage-deed for repayment of the mortgage-money, was barred by limitation, either under article 135 or article 144 of the Limitation Act. MOMAN v. ISHRI PERSHAD. 35 P R 1899

7. And article 144—Mortgage—Conditional sale—Suit for possession by mortgagee after foreclosure—Cause of action—Starting point of limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, articles 135, 144

On 16th August 1904 plaintiff instituted a suit for possession as absolute owner under a mortgage, dated 26th July 1889, which stipulated redemption within two years. It appeared that on default having been made the mortgagee in 1897 foreclosed the mortgage under Regulation XVII of 1806, the year of grace expiring on 17th July 1898. Both the lower Courts found the suit barred by limitation on the ground that the period of twelve years began to run from the date of the cause of action, i.e., in 1891, and that the foreclosure proceedings taken in 1897 could not extend the time.

Second Schedule, article 135—concld.

Held, that the suit was not barred as the right to possession did not accrue until after the expiry of the year of grace.

Bhandari v. Jasodhan (90 P. R. 1895 F. B.) cited and followed

Moman v. Ishri Pershad (35 P. R. 1899) distinguished. TEK CHAND v. SOHEL SINGH. 65 P R 1903

8. Mortgage—Suit by mortgagee for possession on default of payment of mortgage money.

Held that a suit by a mortgagee for possession on failure by the mortgagors to pay instalments contracted for in the mortgage deed must be filed under article 135 of the Limitation Act, within 12 years of date of failure which terminates the mortgagor's right to possession. BISHAN LAL v. KHUSHALI. 91 P R 1908

Second Schedule, article 136.

Suit for possession of immovable property by a purchaser of equity of redemption—Starting point of limitation.

Held, that article 136 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act governs a suit by a purchaser of the equity of redemption for possession of immovable property purchased, and that the period begins to run from the date of redemption, i.e., the date on which the purchaser becomes entitled to possession. BADRI MAL v. GOPAL. 130 P R 1903

Second Schedule, article 139.

See ARTICLE 144, infra. 90 P R 1903

1. Adverse possession—Landlord and tenant—Non-payment of rent—Repudiation of landlord's title—Acquiescence by landlord.

Held, that where, in a suit for immovable property, the defendant is found to have originally obtained permissive possession of such property, and to have agreed to pay the plaintiff certain dues in recognition of his right as the proprietor, the relation of landlord and tenant, which would arise from such an agreement, would not be necessarily determined by the mere non-payment of the dues, nor even by a mere repudiation of the title of the landlord, unless under circumstances which showed that the landlord had acquiesced in his act of repudiation. In the latter case it would be the acquiescence of the landlord and not the mere denial of his title by the tenant which would put an end to the original relation of the parties. TOTA v. SAKOTIA. 18 P R 1888

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 139—concld.

2. Landlord and tenant—Adverse possession—Acquiescence—Agreement.

The possession of a tenant cultivating under a landlord is presumed to continue in the same character, and in the absence of any agreement between the tenant and the landlord, or of some unequivocal act of acquiescence on the part of the latter in any adverse title asserted by the former, to be clothed with the same incidents of tenure as previously existed. It is not open to the tenant by any unilateral act on his part to alter the character of his original title as tenant, in opposition to the well-known rule of law nemo sibi causam possessionis mutare potest.

Tota v. Sakotia (No. 18 P. R. 1888,) cited. TULSI RAM v. JHANDU.

186 P R 1888

Second Schedule, article 140.

1. Alienation by sonless proprietor—Starting point for Limitation.

See ARTICLE 142, infra. 10 P R 1890

ARTICLE 144, infra.

18 P R 1895, F. B.

2. Suit for possession of immovable property against an alleged adopted son—Suit instituted more than six years after alleged adoption, but within 12 years from date of estate falling into possession—Period of limitation applicable.

See ARTICLE 91, supra. 55 P R 1897

Second Schedule, article 141.

And article 142—Abandonment of land—Extinguishment of proprietary rights—Limitation—Reversioners, suit by—Adverse possession—Successive female heirs—Possession adverse to the female adverse to the reversioners.

See ABANDONMENT OF LAND.

See ARTICLE 144, infra.

90 P R 1906

1. Plaintiff claiming as heir after death of widow—Defendant setting up title by purchase from widow effected 18 years ago—Accrual of plaintiff's right to sue.

In a suit for possession of immovable property by plaintiff claiming as heir after the death of the widow of his collateral relative, who died less than 12 years before suit, the defendant set up a title derived by purchase from the widow over 12 years before suit, and followed by possession up to the date of suit.

Held, reversing the order of the lower Appellate Court, that plaintiff's suit was not barred by limitation, as his title to possession accrued on the widow's death, and time began to run against him from that date only, as between him and the defendant, who derived his title from the widow. JAWAHIR SINGH v. GUSAIN LAL. 15 P R 1882

2. And article 114—Suit to succeed to occupancy tenure on death of the widow, the last occupant—Defendant setting up title by purchase from the widow—Rescission of contract.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 141—contd.

In a suit to recover possession of a plot of land on an occupancy tenure to which the plaintiff claimed to succeed as the nearest collateral heir of the husband of one Mussammat P., the last occupant, who was alleged to have died 7 or 8 years ago, the defendant pleaded that the said Mussammat P., who was his mother-in-law, had sold the tenure to him ten years ago, and that the suit was barred under article 114 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act.

Held that, that article had no application to the suit, which was not brought with the object of rescinding a contract, but for the recovery of an occupancy tenure to which the plaintiff contended he was entitled to succeed on the widow's death; and that the proper limitation was that laid down in article 141 of the Act, and the suit was within time. BUDDA v. KHAN.

141 P R 1882

3. Suit by Hindu or Muhammadan entitled to the possession of immovable property on death of a female.

A. K. on 14th April 1877, executed and registered a deed of gift of his immovable property to his sister's son, possession being given.

A. K. died in 1882.

A. K. left a widow surviving him, who died in 1888 without having, apparently, ever obtained possession of her husband's property.

In May 1890, the collaterals of A. K. sued for possession of his immovable property.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the suit was within limitation, being governed by article 141, Schedule II, Limitation Act, 1877.

Whatever may be the exact scope of this article, it is clearly applicable to the case of a plaintiff claiming a childless owner's estate on the death of his widow in spite of an alienation made by the male owner, at least where twelve years have not elapsed between the said alienation and the owner's death or that of his widow.

[Cf. Nos. 10 and 116, P. R. 1890]. BUDHE KHAN v. MAKHE KHAN. 31 P R 1892, F. B.

4. And article 144—Suit by reversioner to contest alienation by Hindu widow, made when in possession of her deceased husband's property.

When a Hindu widow has been in possession of her deceased husband's immovable property on the usual widow's estate, the article governing a suit by a reversioner suing after the widow's death to contest an alienation made by her as being without necessity, is article 141 and not article 144, Schedule II, Limitation Act, 1877. HAR KISHEN DAS v. ALLAH BAKHSH.

110 P R 1892

5. Possession adverse to widow—Suit by reversioners on death of widow, but more than twelve years after commencement of such adverse possession—Limitation Act, IX of 1871 and XIV of 1859.

LIMITATION (ACT XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 141—contd.

On the death of one A. his three widows, Mussammat J., Mussammat N. J. and Mussammat S. held his estate in equal shares until the death of Mussammat J. whose share fell to Mussammat N. J. Thereafter, some twenty-two years ago, Mussammat S. remarried, whereupon her share was taken possession of by her daughter, Mussammat L. married to one N., a collateral of A. and admittedly heir to one-eighth of A.'s estate. Mussammat L. retained possession of Mussammat S.'s share, but on the death of Mussammat N. J. the reversionary heirs of A. sued to recover the whole of the estate, with the exception of the one-eighth to which N. was entitled. The lower Courts held that the plaintiffs were entitled to recover the whole of the land sued for, with the exception of that portion which was in the possession of Mussammat L. as regards which their claim was time-barred, on the ground that Mussammat L. had been in adverse possession thereof for more than twelve years previous to Mussammat N. J.'s death.

Held, that Mussammat L.'s possession should (in the absence of evidence to the contrary) be taken to be derived from the widow, rather than hostile to her and against her wishes, and that, therefore, plaintiffs' claim to it, on the death of the said widow, was not time-barred.

The scope of article 141, 2nd Schedule, Limitation Act, 1877, and the question whether it is open to the reversionary heirs to sue on the death of a widow, for possession of land belonging to her deceased husband, which had never come into her possession, and had for more than twelve years previous to her death been held adversely to her, discussed by Rivaz, J. SAIDULLA v. MUSSAMMAT LAILA. 74 P R 1895

6. Mortgage by widow—Decree of foreclosure against widow—Suit by reversioner for recovery of land after death of widow.

Held, that as against a person in possession of land under a title created by a widow, or in virtue of a decree for possession obtained against a widow the reversioners have, under article 141 of the Limitation Act, twelve years from the date of the widow's death within which they can sue for recovery of the land. HIRA SINGH v. SHER SINGH.

29 P R 1898

7. And article 142—Adverse possession—Suit by reversioners on death of widow.

In a case in which it was proved that adverse possession had begun against a certain widow, in 1882, that the said widow died in 1883, and that her reversioners sued in 1895 for possession.

Held, that the reversioner's cause of action accrued on the death of the said widow, and that their suit, instituted within twelve years of that event, was within time.

Vundravandas v. Carsondas, I. L. R. XXI Bom. 646, approved. CHIRAGHA v. MAHTABA.

79 P R 1898

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 141—contd.

8. Custom—Alienation by widow—Subsequent surrender of her life estate by widow in favour of reversioner—Right of reversioner to oust alienee—Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, article 141.

Held, that a transferree from a widow, who would ordinarily retain possession till the death of the widow, cannot be ousted before her death by a reversioner in whose favour she has surrendered her life estate, and that, therefore, the reversioner's cause of action for a suit for possession does not arise until the death of the widow. MOHAN LAL v. DEVI DAS. 43 P R 1899

9. Possession adverse to widow—Suit by reversioner on death of widow, but more than twelve years after the death of widow's husband.

Wazir Singh died in 1865, leaving a widow, Mussammat Kesran, who died in 1895. On the death of Wazir Singh, his land was mutated in favour of Wadhawa Singh, the brother of Mussammat Kesran, as an adopted son of Wazir Singh. Wadhawa Singh and his son have been in possession since the death of Wazir Singh.

Held, that Wadhawa Singh being the widow's own brother, there was a strong unrebutted presumption that the possession was permissive on her part, and as it was not adverse to the widow, the plaintiff's claim was not barred by limitation.

Saidula and others v. Mussammat Laila (No. 74 P. R. 1895), approved and followed. BHAGWAN SINGH v. KHUSHALA. 53 P R 1900

10. And article 91—Suit by reversioner for possession of immovable property held by a female—Suit instituted more than three years after an alleged mortgage executed by such female but within twelve years from date of her death.

Held, that where a reversioner sues after the death of a widow of an agriculturist governed by the Punjab Customary Law for possession of immovable property lately held by her on the ordinary life tenure of a widow, and is confronted with a deed of mortgage said to have been executed by such widow the period of limitation for the suit is twelve years from the date of the widow's death as provided by article 141 of the Limitation Act.

Article 91 does not apply to such a case as such an instrument is presumptively in valid, though the presumption may be rebutted, and the reversioners of the executant's husband are justified in regarding it as in no way affecting their reversionary rights.

Ghulam Rasul v. Ajab Gul (57 P. R. 1891) Amir v. Mussammat Attar-un-nissa (75 P. R. 1896), Gujar Singh v. Puran (71 P. R. 1901). Nanak v. Devi Ditta (23 P. R. 1902), Shriniwas Murar v. Hanmant Chaodo Deshapande (I. L. R. XXIV Bom. 260) Malkraju v. Narhari (I. L. R. XXV Bom. 337), Raghu-

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—concld.

Second Schedule, article 141—concld.

ber Dial Sahu v. Bhikya Lal Missar (I. L. R. XII Calc. 69), Janki Kumoar v. Ajit Singh (I. L. R. XV Calc. 58 P. C.), Mohesh Narain Munshi v. Taruck Nath Moitra (I. L. R. XX Calc. 487), Ganesh Singh v. Nathu (20 P. R. 1902), Rallia Ram v. Sundar (83 P. R. 1883) Sultan v. Ilahi Bakhsh (73 P. R. 1894), Hafiz Karim Bakhsh v. Mussammat Begam Jan (52 P. R. 1895), Rangan v. Mahbub Chand (55 P. R. 1897), Abdul Rahim v. Kirpa Ram Daji (I. L. R. XVI Bom. 186), Nuni v. Kemchi Amma (I. L. R. XIV Mad. 26), Sunda Ram v Sithammal (I. L. R. XVI Mad. 311), and Din Dial v. Harnarain (I. L. R. XVI All. 73), referred to. ATAR KAUR v. SOHAN SINGH 84 P R 1902

11. And articles 142, 144—Limitation—Suit by reversioner on death of widow—Possession adverse to the female adverse to the reversioner.

Held, that in the Punjab adverse possession of a widow's estate by a trespasser during her life, no matter whatever the circumstances may be by which the adverse possession was obtained and continued, cannot be adverse against a reversioner or an effectual bar to his claim, and that limitation will begin to run against such reversioner only from the death of the female under article 141 of Act XV of 1877, and not from the date of the commencement of such adverse possession.

Chiragha v. Mahtaba (79 P. R. 1898), Baz Khan v. Sultan Malik (43 P. R 1901), Tika Ram v. Shama Charan (I. L R. XX All. 42), Vundavandas Purshotamdas v. Cursondas Govindji (I L. R. XXI Bom. 646), and Runchordas Vundravandas v. Parratibai (I. L. R. XXIII Bom. 725 P. C.) cited. Hanuman Prasad Singh v. Bhagwanti Prashad (I. L. R. XIX All. 357), Srinath Kur v. Prosunno Kumar (I. L. R. IX Calc. 934), Azam Bhuyan v. Faiz ud-din Ahmad (I. L. R. XII Calc. 594,) Koolappa Naik v. Koolappa Naik (I. L. R. XVII Mad. 34), Lachhan Kunwar v. Manorath Ram (I. L. R. XXII, Calc. 445), referred to. Saidulla v. Mussammat Laila. (74 P. R. 1895) dissented from. RULIA v. RULIA. 41 P R 1903

12. Limitation—Suit by a reversioner of a male proprietor entitled to possession of ancestral land on the death of the widow of such proprietor.—Punjab Limitation Act, 1900, article 2.

Held, that a suit on the death of the widow of the last male proprietor by a reversioner for possession of ancestral land alienated by the husband of the widow is governed by article 141 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, and not by article 2 of the Punjab Limitation Act, 1900. MIRAN BAKHSH v AHMAD, 145 P R 1907

13. Held, that a suit by reversioners for possession of land mortgaged by male owner more than 12 years before suit and subsequently sold by his widow, is governed by article 141. KHIALI RAM v. GULAB KHAN. 33 P R 1911, F. B.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 142.

1. Alluvion and diluvion—Land taken over by avulsion—Dispossession or discontinuance of possession—Exclusion of time of defendant's absence from British India.

See SECTION 13, supra. 34 P R 1889

2. Suit by person interested in endowed property for dispossession of an assign of last manager.

See ARTICLE 120, supra. 9 P R 1904

3. Devolution of estate upon several persons jointly—Entry of one on behalf of all.

See ARTICLE 123, supra. 97 P R 1890

4. Adverse possession—Suit by reversioners on death of widow.

See ARTICLE 141, supra. 79 P R 1898

5. Alienation by sonless proprietor—Starting point of limitation.

See ARTICLE 144, infra. 18 P R 1895 F B

5(a). Adverse possession—Joint owners, landlord and tenant—Non-payment of rent—Burden of proof.

See ADVERSE POSSESSION. 65 P R 1901

5(b). Absentee—Adverse possession in joint holdings.

See ADVERSE POSSESSION. 86 P R 1909

6. Document, construction of—Partnership or co-ownership - Abandonment.

See REGISTRATION ACT, SECTION 17. 51 P R 1898

7. And article 144—Dispossession and discontinuance of possession—Adverse possession—Waste land—Burden of proof.

Plaintiff sued on the 8th December 1881 for possession of certain land said to have been purchased from one Mussammat B. on the 12th November 1881, it being alleged that the land had lain waste until two years before, when the defendant had wrongfully taken possession. Defendant pleaded a purchase by himself from Mussammat B. 18 years ago. The lower appellate Court held that the land had lain waste, that the evidence did not establish adverse possession for even 12 years before suit, and that as the defendant had admitted the title of Mussammat B. in 1862, it was for him to show when he took adverse possession of the ground,

Held, that the mere fact that Mussammat B. had allowed the land to lie waste, as she was living with her husband elsewhere would not amount to discontinuance of possession within the meaning of article 142, Schedule II of the Limitation Act.

Held, further, that if the land as found by the lower appellate Court was allowed to lie waste after Mussammat B.'s title to it was admitted in 1862, there could scarcely be aid to have been any act of dispossession, and the case would fall rather under article 144 than under article 142 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, and that the plaintiff was not therefore obliged to prove his vendor's possession within 12 years before suit, but only that it was brought within 12 years from the time when the possession of the defendant or of some person under whom he claimed became adverse, and that the finding that the land lay waste was sufficient to shift the burden of proof as to when possession became adverse on to the defendant. MUHAMMAD YAR v. GHULAM. 49 P R 1884

1831

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 142—contd.

8. And article 144—Suit for possession—Dispossession of plaintiffs while land was in farm—Plaintiffs possession that of tenants—Adverse possession.

In a suit for possession of certain lands, it appeared that at the time when the plaintiff was dispossessed or gave up possession of the land, the proprietary rights in the village were in abeyance, it having been farmed to one S. which farm came to an end less than 12 years before suit. The lower Court dismissed the suit as barred by limitation under articles 142, 144 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act.

Held, that, assuming that the farm was in existence when plaintiff was dispossessed or discontinued possession, the possession which the plaintiff then gave up or was deprived of was not as owner but as a tenant holding under the farmer, and it was in the same capacity that the defendant got possession; that even if the farmer's right had been transferred to the defendant which was not alleged), the plaintiff could not have claimed proprietary possession until the farm came to an end, and he would have been entitled to assert his title then: that the case could not therefore be brought under article 142, but was governed by article 144 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, and the defendant's possession could not be regarded as having become adverse to the plaintiff, within the meaning of that article, until the farm came to an end. Phula v. Krishna (No. 10 P. R 1874), and Lutf Ali v. Khushwakt Rai (No. 41 P. R. 1881), cited. SHEOJI v. DHAN SINGH. 36 P R 1885

9. Cause of action—Alienation by a sonless proprietor—Starting point of limitation.

A sonless proprietor alienated his land with possession to the defendant in 1870, the plaintiffs, heirs of A. having full knowledge of the sale. Six months after the death of A. in 1888 the plaintiffs sued defendant for possession of the land sold by A.

Held, that the suit was barred by limitation, no new cause of action accruing to the plaintiffs on the death of A.

Jagadamba Chaudhrian v. Dakhin Mohun Roy Choudhri (I. L. R. XIII Calc. 308, cited. BAGGU v. DULLA. 10 P R 1890

OVERRULED BY. 18 P R 1895

1832

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 142—contd.

10. Suit for recovery of land—Dispossession—Discontinuance of possession—Refusal by proprietors to engage—Settlement with others—Effect to lapse of time.

If upon the occasion of a settlement a claimant's proprietary title to an estate is formally recognized, but he is excluded from possession on account of his refusal to engage for payment of the revenue and he after the expiration of the term of settlement sues to recover possession, the period of limitation begins to run from the date of such refusal or discontinuance of possession. NAWAB MUHAMMAD AMANULLA KHAN v. BADAR SINGH. 23 P R 1890 P. C.

11. Limitation—Sonless proprietor—Suit for possession of land of.

A, a sonless proprietor, conveyed certain land by deed, dated 30th April 1880, to the defendants, who took possession. A died about 1884. In November 1888, that is more than 6 years after the sale, but less than 12 years after delivery of possession, the plaintiffs, claiming to be co-heirs with defendants, sued for possession of their share of the land sold by him.

Held, that the suit was not barred by limitation.

No. 116 P. R. 1890, followed. RANGA v. MAKHI KHAN. 54 P R 1891

12. Abandonment of land—Extinguishment of proprietary rights.

Held, by the Full Bench, that an owner of land who has abandoned it within twelve years previously to the institution by him of a suit for possession thereof, does not by such mere act of abandonment lose his proprietary rights. His title will prevail, provided that it has not been extinguished by the operation of the law of limitation. SAIN DITTA v. GHULAMAN. 85 P R 1892 F. B.

13. Suit for possession of land—Previous dispossession.—Abandonment.

The plaintiff sued on 6th November 1890 for possession of certain land in Palwal in the Gurgaon District, alleging it to be the ancestral property of his father, who had left Palwal some time before the year 1854, and died in 1880, in a village in the ilaka of Jhansi without having returned to Palwal.

Held, that the suit was barred by limitation. The article of the Limitation Act, 1877, applicable was article 142 under which the deceased owner, or any one claiming under him, had twelve years within which to sue for possession to be reckoned from the date upon which the said owner discontinued possession. He had discontinued possession in 1844 and left Palwal for good.

The Privy Council decision reported as I. L. R. XVII. Calc. 137 [s. c. No. 23 P. R. 1890] referred to and followed. ILAHI BAKHSH v. SHAMAS-UD-DIN. 109 P R 1892

1833

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 142—contd.

14. Mortgage—Mortgagee in possession—Farm of land by Collector for non-payment of revenue—Suit by assignee of mortgagee for possession, on expiry of term of farm.

A mortgagee of two-thirds of certain lands obtained possession under his mortgage.

The proprietors having made default in payment of the land revenue on the other share of the land, and the mortgagee also refusing to pay the said revenue, the land was farmed by the Collector under the revenue law to H. S. for a term of ten years. The farm continued from 1875 to 1885 when the representative of the mortgagors obtained possession.

On 17th August 1889 the assignee of the mortgagee sued for possession under the mortgage.

Held, that the plaintiff's suit was barred by limitation under article 142, Schedule II, Limitation Act, 1877, and that H. S. was not in possession on behalf of the mortgagee but on his own account. NARAIN DAS v KHAIR SHAH. 121 P R 1892

15. Alienation by deceased sonless proprietor—Discontinuance of possession—Date on which cause of action arises.

In a suit brought in 1890 by the plaintiffs for their share by inheritance in the estate of K., a childless proprietor, who died $2\frac{1}{2}$ years before suit, it appeared that in 1874, K., had transferred his rights in the disputed land to defendant's father, and given him possession, which had continued with defendants and their father up to the time of suit.

Held, that the claim was barred by limitation under article 142 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, as K. from whom plaintiffs derived their right to sue, had discontinued possession in 1874, and more than twelve years had elapsed between that date and the filing of the present suit.

No. 48 P. R. 1885, and Nos 10 and 116 P. R. 1890, referred to. DINA v. DANA. 141 P R 1892

OVERRULED BY 18 P R 1895

16. And articles 144 and 118—Suit for possession of land—Adoption—Limitation—Act IX of 1871, Schedule II, article 129—Jaj Jats of Garhshankar tahsil, Hoshiarpur District—Sonless proprietor—Factum of adoption.

The plaintiffs sued as heirs to recover from the defendants possession of the estate of K. who had died about a year before suit. It was pleaded as an answer to the suit that the third defendant, N. S. had been adopted by K. in June 1877, and that no suit having been brought to set aside such adoption, the present suit was barred by article 118 of the Second Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877.

Held, that the plaintiffs were not bound in a suit for possession to seek any direct relief by way of cancellation of the adoption; that the limitation applicable to the suit was provided for under article 142 or article 144, Schedule II, Act XV of 1877, and that the suit was within limitation.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 142—contd.

Held, also, on the evidence, that no genuine adoption of N. S. had been proved to have taken place, the real transaction, viewed as a whole, being the appointment of three persons as heirs which was not permitted by custom.

No. 116 P. R. 1890 (F. B.), referred to and distinguished. WAZIRA v. FATHU.

96 P R 1893

17. Uncultivated village lands farmed by Government to a stranger for term of Settlement—" Discontinuance of possession."

About 1858, the land in suit, which had been left uncultivated by the proprietors, was farmed to K., the lambardar of a neighhouring village, to cultivate and hold for the period of settlement.

On the 20th April 1859, reciprocal agreements were executed by K. and the proprietors, whereby the latter agreed to relinquish and the former to accept the land and be responsible for the revenue assessed thereon during the term of settlement; and entries to the above effect were made in the Revenue Records. In 1861, and again in 1864, attempts were made by some of the proprietors to regain possession of their shares of the land, but their applications were disallowed on the ground that the term of settlement had not then expired. Other proceedings with reference to the land took place at the revision of settlement in 1868-69, but during both the first regular and also the revised settlements the original proprietors continued to be recorded as maliks.

The old settlement having expired and a new settlement being in progress, the old proprietors applied to be restored to their ancient rights. The plaintiffs, representatives of K. and his associates in the farm, now sued for a declaration that they (the plaintiffs) are entitled to retain proprietary possession of the land on the ground that the defendants had lost their rights by a "discontinuance of possession" within the meaning of article 142 of the Second Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877, such discontinuance of possession having lasted over twelve years.

Held, that the terms "dispossession" or "discontinuance of possession" did not apply to the case of a permissive occupation by another, or an occupation which recognized the proprietary right of another, such occupation being made with the view of holding in lieu of that other for a stated period, on the expiry of which it was contemplated that possession shall be restored to the original owner.

Held, also, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove such discontinuance of possession by the defendants for over twelve years as was contemplated by article 142 of the Second Schedule of the Limitation Act, and that their suit had been rightly dismissed by the lower Courts.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 142—concld.

No. 41 P. R. 1881, and I. L. R. XVII Calc. 137 (P. C.) distinguished. SUNDAR v. MUSSAMMAT ROHONSU. 104 P R 1893

18. Cause of action—Alienation by sonless proprietor—Starting point of limitation—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), section 3, and 2nd Schedule, articles 140, 142 and 144—Plaintiff—" Right to sue."

Plaintiffs, who were the collateral heirs of a sonless proprietor whose power of disposition of ancestral land was liable to be controlled by his heirs in accordance with the customary law of the Province, sued, within twelve years of the death of the said proprietor, for possession of his ancestral land which had been in the possession of strangers for more than twelve years before suit under a gift created by the said deceased proprietor. The question referred to the Full Bench was whether the suit was within limitation.

Held, overruling No. 10 P. R. 1890, and No. 141 P. R. 1892, that the suit was governed by article 144 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877, and was within time, inasmuch as it was brought within twelve years of the date when the defendants' possession became adverse to the plaintiff, such date being the date of the death of the donor and no earlier. RODA v. HARNAM. 18 P R 1895 F. B.

19. " Date of the dispossession or discontinuance."

Held, that under article 142 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877, where a person discontinues his possession on one date, and on a subsequent date another person enters into possession, the date from which limitation begins to run against the quondam possessor is the former, and not the latter event. If, therefore, at the time when the suit is instituted, the period of twelve years has elapsed from the date when the plaintiff (or those from whom he derives a right to sue) discontinued possession, the suit must fail irrespective of the period that has elapsed since the entry of the defendant. RAM LAL v. KHUDA BAKHSH.

6 P R 1896

Second Schedule, article 143.

—Foreclosure of mortgage—Notice—Failure to pay interest under mortgage deed—Continuing breach of contract—Waiver.

See SECTION 23, supra. 28 P R 1897

*—Suit by proprietors to compel occupancy tenants to reside in their village—Wajib-ul-arz—Forefeiture or breach of condition.*

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 143—concld.

Plaintiffs, who were proprietors in the village of M., sued the defendants for the purpose of either ejecting them from their occupancy holding or compelling them to reside in the village of M. basing their claim upon a provision in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village, which was to the effect that "if a resident of this village shall leave his residence, and go to and settle in another village, he shall not be entitled to cultivation and possession." It appeared that the defendants' father, who was an occupancy tenant in M. left that village more than 12 years before suit and settled in another village at a distance of some six kos in which he had proprietary rights, arranging during his lifetime for the cultivation of the land in M. which was similarly cultivated by the defendants after the death of their father, which occurred 9 years before suit.

Held that, assuming that the provision in the Wajib-ul-arz entitled the proprietors to resume possession of the land of a hereditary tenant who ceased to reside in the village and settled in another village, the suit was barred by limitation under article 143 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, more than 12 years having elapsed since the forfeiture was incurred or the condition broken, viz., when defendant's father left the village. DHIAN SINGH v. MAHAN SINGH. 180 P R 1883

Second Schedule, article 144.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLES 91, 118, 120, 127, 142.

1. Suit by minor against guardian for an account and for possession of immovable property—Trustee—Limitation.

See SECTION 7, supra. 33 P R 1897

2. Alluvion and diluvion—Land taken over by avulsion—Dispossession or discontinuance of possession—Exclusion of time of defendant's absence from British India.

See SECTION 13, supra. 34 P R 1889

3. Muhammadan Law—Gift to one heir to the prejudice of other heir—Death-bed gift.

See ARTICLE 91, supra. 52 P R 1895

4. Suit for possession of land—Suit involving cancellation of a deed—Period of limitation applicable.

See ARTICLE 91, supra. 74 P R 1904

5. Will, suit for cancellation of—Immovable property, suit for possession of—Period of limitation applicable.

See ARTICLE 120, supra. 56 P R 1894

6. Suit by person interested in endowed property for dispossession of an assign of last manager.

See ARTICLE 120, supra. 8 P R 1899

1837

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 144—contd.

7. Devolution of estate upon several persons jointly—Entry of one on behalf of all.
See ARTICLE 123, supra.
97 P R 1890

8. Mortgage—Mortgagor and mortgagee—Landlord and tenant—Adverse possession.
See ARTICLE 135, supra.
114 P R 1890

9. Suit for possession by mortgagee who has foreclosed.
See ARTICLE 135, supra.
65 P R 1906

10. Mortgage by way of conditional sale——Foreclosure proceedings instituted more than 12 years after determination of mortgagors right to possession—Suit for possession Limitation.
See ARTICLE 135, supra.
35 P R 1899

11. Suit by reversioner to contest alienation by Hindu widow, made when in possession of her deceased husband's property.
See ARTICLE 141, supra.
110 P R 1892

12. Suit for possession of land—Factum of adoption—Limitation.
See ARTICLE 142, supra.
96 P R 1893

12 (a) Possession of a widow in lieu of maintenance cannot be adverse possession.
See POSSESSION.
102 P R 1907

13. Construction of document—Partnership or co-ownership—Abandonment—Estoppel.
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17.
51 P R 1898

14. Suit for possession—Necessity for finding when defendants' possession became adverse.

In a suit for possession of a house, the lower appellate Court dismissed the plaintiff's suit, holding that the widow of the last owner, whose heir the plaintiff was, died in 1867, that the house in suit had become a ruin before she died, that the plaintiff had been indisputably out of possession for four or five years before suit, and that it was not proved that he had at any period within 12 years before suit reduced this part of the inheritance into possession, so as to be able now to recover it by suit.

Held, that the case must be remanded for a fresh decision after a finding when the defendants' possession became adverse to the plaintiff, as, under article 144 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act of 1877, this was the question to be considered, the said article allowing a suit like the present to be brought within 12 years from the time when the possession of the defendant or some person under whom he claims became adverse to the plaintiff. BUTA SHAH v. SOBHA SINGH.
122 P R 1883

1838

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule article 144—contd.

15. Adverse possession—Onus of proving time when possession originally permissive became adverse.

In a suit for possession of certain land, it appeared that the plaintiff, who was a minor at the time of Settlement, had been then recorded as owner of the land in dispute, but as having gone to reside with his parents in another village, and that certain collateral relations of his (now represented by the present defendants) held the land as his Sarbarahs. It was also found that since the plaintiff left the village he had not been in possession of the land, though he ceased to be a minor about 17 years before suit. The lower appellate Court dismissed the suit as barred by limitation.

Held, that the onus was on the defendants to show that their possession had become adverse: that the possession having commenced with the plaintiff's consent, and being therefore permissive, it would continue to be of that character until something occurred to make it adverse; and as the defendants contended that it was not now permissive, it was for them to show how and when it ceased to be permissive, which duty they had failed to discharge, as the mere fact that the plaintiff attained his majority some 17 years before suit, was not sufficient of itself to convert the defendants' previously permissive into adverse possession. BELA SINGH v. BUTA.
94 P R 1884

16. And article 55—Suit for possession of a tree—Immovable property—Act I of 1868, section 5.

In a suit for possession of a tree which the defendant was alleged to have prevented the plaintiffs from felling, it was contended that the claim was barred by article 55 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act.

Held, that as the plaintiffs were not suing for the price of the tree, but for possession, that article was clearly inapplicable; that the tree being attached to the earth was, until cut, "immovable property," within the definition in Act I of 1868, there being nothing in the Limitation Act repugnant to that definition, and the suit therefore fell under article 144 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act. JAIMAL SINGH v. LADHA.
112 P R 1884

17. Suit for possession of land by collaterals of a sonless proprietor—Period of limitation applicable.

R. S., a childless proprietor, sold his land by a deed, dated August 12th, 1880, and gave possession to the vendees. On August 8th, 1884, he died, and on October 6th, 1887, the plaintiffs, collateral heirs of Ram Singh, sued the vendees for possession.

Held, that the suit was not barred by limitation and that it was not necessary to the maintenance of the suit to ask for a declaration that the deed of sale did not bind the heirs.

1839

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 144—contd.

No. 10 P. R. 1890, distinguished. IDAHIYA v. GANDA SINGH
116 P R 1890 F B.

18. And articles 140 and 142—Cause of action—Alienation by sonless proprietor—Starting point of limitation—Plaintiff—"Right to sue."

Plaintiffs, who were the collateral heirs of a sonless proprietor whose power of disposition of ancestral land was liable to be controlled by his heirs in accordance with the customary law of the Province, sued within twelve years of the death of the said proprietor, for possession of his ancestral land, which had been in the possession of strangers for more than twelve years before suit under a gift created by the said deceased proprietor. The question referred to the Full Bench was whether the suit was within limitation.

Held, overruling No. 10 P. R. 1890, and No. 141 P. R. 1892, that the suit was governed by article 144 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877, and was within time, inasmuch as it was brought within twelve years of the date when the defendants' possession became adverse to the plaintiff, such date being the date of the death of the donor and no earlier. RODA v. HARNAM.
18 P R 1895 F. B.

19. Suit for declaration of ownership—Co-sharers—Adverse possession—Burden of proof—Allegation of error in partition proceedings—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.

Plaintiffs and defendants were declared co-sharers in certain land in a revenue suit at the time of settlement in 1874, and their shares were defined. In 1887 a partition took place in which plaintiffs were allotted certain khasra numbers to make up the total amount of land which was their share, but, owing to some clerical mistakes in the papers, these numbers were not mutated in their names like those of other co-sharers. An instrument of partition was ordered to be drawn up, but was not prepared. In November 1895 plaintiffs having been refused mutation and referred to the Civil Court brought the present suit for a declaration of their title to the fields allotted to them at partition of which they were in possession. The defendants pleaded inter alia that they had held adverse possession beyond limitation, and that plaintiffs were never allotted the lands claimed. The first Court dismissed the claim and plaintiffs appealed to the Chief Court in which the defendants raised another plea in their reply, viz., that the want of an instrument of partition rendered the partition void and was fatal to the claim.

Held, that the parties having been co-sharers in 1874, it was for the defendants to establish their adverse possession, which they had failed to do. That the partition, having been fully carried into effect and sanctioned by the proper Revenue authority the want of a formal instrument of partition was not fatal to it nor ousted the jurisdiction of the Civil Court to give plaintiffs the declaration of title to their lands which they sought.

Second Schedule, article 144—contd.

Ahmad Khan and others v. Bahadur and others (No. 88 P. R. 1892), Arjan Singh v. Sochet Singh and others (No. 52 P. R. 1898) distinguished. Gurdit Singh v. Labh Singh (No. 63 *P. R.*1894) followed. KHUIDAD AND OTHERS v. ALAMGIR AND OTHERS.

116 P R 1900

20. Adverse possession.

By a mortgage entered into between the plaintiff's ancestors and defendant, Kaka, in 1879, it was agreed that the whole amount should be repaid by instalments, and in default of payment of any instalments, the possession of the mortgaged property was to be taken by the mortgagee. In 1885 the mortgagor sold a certain portion of the mortgaged property to defendants Nos. 1 and 2, and in 1886, the mortgagee sued the morgagor for possession without making the first two defendants parties to that suit and obtained a decree in 1886 for possession, but never got actual possession. Subsequent to the decree the mortgagor sold the remainder of the mortgaged property to the other defendants In 1895, the mortgagee's heirs filed the present suit for possession of the land. Held, that as the period for plaintiff's claim as regards the first two defendants could only be reckoned from the date of the original default in payment of instalment under the mortgage-deed of 1879, which could not have been later than 1882, and they having been in possession at the time of the prior suit to which they were not made parties and were therefore not bound by that decree and as with respect to that portion of the land, the mortgagor had no right, title or interest left in it subsequent to their sale in 1895, the suit was barred by limitation. But as regards those defendants who acquired their title subsequent to the decree of 1886 against the mortgagor that decree stands against them and they can claim no title by adverse possession, the suit having been instituted within twelve years from their obtaining possession. KESAR SINGH AND OTHERS v. THAKAR DAS.

10 P R 1901

21. Limitation—Article 144—Suit for possession of immovable property—Adverse possession—Burden of proof.

A plaintiff who had sued for possession of his share of certain immovable property left by his paternal grandfather having no right of inheritance under his personal law (his father having predeceased his grandfather) relied on a testamentary document under which his title, together with the defendants, originated some twenty-eight years before suit, but was unable to prove any possession of the property in dispute, either actual or constructive, held, that the onus of proof that his claim was within time being on him, and he having failed to prove jointness of possession, the suit must be held barred under article 144 of the Limitation Act.

Khuidad v. Alamgir (116 P. R. 1900) and Lachman Singh v. Sohan Singh (97 P. R. 1890), referred to. DIN MUHAMMAD v. MEHR BAKHSH AND OTHERS.

30 P R 1902

22. And articles 91, 120, 140, 142—Limitation—Alienation of ancestral immovable property by sonless proprietor—Suit for possession by collaterals—Period of limitation applicable—Starting point of limitation.

Held, by the Full Bench—

(1). It is not necessary for the reversioner of a holder of ancestral agricultural land to sue during his lifetime for a declaration of the invalidity of an alienation made by him as respects such reversioner's interest, and, in the event of his failing to do so, such reversioner is not precluded from suing for possession on the death of the alienor after the lapse of the period prescribed for such declaratory suits.

(2). The proper limitation for a declaratory suit of this nature is six years under article 120 of the Limitation Act.

(3). In the case of a gift of ancestral agricultural land by a sonless proprietor to which the Punjab Limitation Act does not apply a suit by the heirs for possession is maintainable at any time within twelve years after the death of the donor.

Nanak v. Devi Ditta (23 P. R. 1902), overruled. Roda v. Harnam (18 P. R 1895, F. B.) and Ilahiya v. Ganda Singh (116 P. R. 1890) followed. DHERU v. SIDHU.

56 P R 1903 F. B.

23. Limitation—Suit by reversioner on death of widow against her tenant—Adverse possession—Starting point of limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, articles 139, 141, 144.

Held, that the possession of a tenant-at-will holding over the estate of a widow after her death is not adverse to her reversioners until the expiration of his tenancy and that in such cases time begins to run against the reversioners from the date when an adverse title is set up by the tenant. GHUDU SINGH v. KHUSHAL SINGH.

90 P R 1906

24. Adverse possession—Possession adverse to reversioner—Suit by more remote reversioners on death of such reversioner—Cause of action—Starting point of limitation.

Held, that a person who has held possession of agricultural land adversely against the next reversioner of a deceased proprietor is competent in a suit for possession to set up such adverse possession against the more remote reversioners: the cause of action in such a case accrues on the death of the deceased proprietor and not on the death of the next reversioner.

Roda v. Harnam (18 P. R. 1895, F. B.) distinguished. KAKA v. LABH CHAND.

106 P R 1906

25. Held, that in a suit against the vendor and vendee of a right of occupancy for dispossession of the vendee, article 144 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, applies. HAR LAL v. MUSSAMMAT GOHR.

3 P R 1910 Rev.

26. And article 113.

Held, that a suit for possession of part of land, purchased by plaintiff from defendant, but not delivered when the rest of the land purchased was delivered, is not governed by article 113 of the Limitation Act, 1877, but by article 144 of the Act. BHANJAN RAM v. SOHAURA.

18 P R 1911

27. And article 118.

Held, that suits for possession in which adoption is set up in defence, are governed by article 144 of Limitation Act, 1877, and not by article 118 of the Act. NATHU v. RAHMAN.

44 P R 1911

Second Schedule, article 145.

Banker and customer—Deposit.

Held, that article 145 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act of 1877 does not apply to a deposit by a customer of money with a banker to be placed to the customer's credit in account current. PARTAB SHAH v. MUSSAMMAT JUALADIN.

74 P R 1882 Note

Second Schedule, article 147

1. Suit by minor against guardian for an account and for possession of immovable property—"Trustee"—Parties to suit.

See SECTION 7, supra. 33 P R 1897

1 (a). Extinction of mortgagee's rights—Suit for foreclosure—Form of decree.—

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTION 28. 83 P R 1883

2. Suit on a mortgage bond—English mortgage.

See ARTICLE 132, supra.

112 P R 1890 F. B.

3. And article 132—Suit to recover money due on mortgage from mortgaged property—Suit for sale.

A suit for the money due under a mortgage deed which was one of simple mortgage with delivery of possession to the mortgagee, in which the plaintiff sought enforcement of the deed against the mortgaged property, held to be in effect a suit by a mortgagee for sale, notwithstanding that the plaint did not in so many words ask for sale, and as such governed by the limitation provided in article 147 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act of 1877, and not by article 132. Ram Nath v. Mussammat Jio (No. 101 P. R. of 1880,) and Devi Das v. Ishar Das (No. 55 P. R. 1884, F. B.) cited. GUJAR MALL v. ILAICHI RAM. 19 P R 1885

1843

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 147—concld.

4. And article 132—Suit for foreclosure or sale—Mortgage—Charge.

Held by the Full Bench, that the question whether a particular suit is governed by article 132 or article 147 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act, 1877, depends in general upon whether the transaction upon which the suit is founded, and by which the charge sought to be enforced was created, is a transaction amounting to a mortgage, or is not. Both articles apply to the enforcement of charges upon immovable property by proceedings against the property, but article 147 applies only to the enforcement of such charges by foreclosure or sale when created by a transaction which is s mortgage, that is. to suits by a mortgagee suing as such and article 132 to the enforcement of such charges when created by a transaction not amounting to a mortgage, that is, to suits by a creditor not suing as a mortgagee for foreclosure of or sale under a mortgage.

Ram Nath v. Mussammat Jio (No. 101 P. R. 1880) and Gujar Mall v. Ilaichi Ram (No. 19 P. R. 1885, cited. SURKHRU v. RAM SINGH. 151 P R 1888 F. B.

5. Mortgage by way of conditional sale—Foreclosure proceedings instituted moro than 12 years after determination of mortgagor's right to possession—Suit for possession—Limitation.

See ARTICLE 135, supra. 35 P R 1899

6. Hypothecation of immovable property as a collateral security—Limitation to enforce payment after 12 years.

See ARTICLE 132. 23 P R 1900

Second Schedule, article 148.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877) SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 134.

—Mortgagee in possession denying mortgagor's title—Adverse possession.

Held, that when a mortgage is proved, the mortgagee cannot, by merely denying the plaintiff's title, oblige him to come into Court to prove it within 12 years, as under article 148 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act the mortgagee has 60 years in which to sue to redeem or recover possession, and in the case of a usufructuary mortgage he can only recover possession upon payment of the mortgage-debt TEJU MAL v. ZULFIKAR SHAH, 49 P R 1882

1844

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 158.

—Objection to award—Fraud.

Held, per BRANDRETH, J. that if the parties to an award accept such award and do not file any objection within the period allowed (see Act XV of 1877, Schedule II, article 158), an objection even on the ground of fraud cannot legally be heard afterwards. METHA KASHI RAM v. DADABHOY. 124 P R 1880

Second Schedule, article 163.

1. The Courts have no power to extend the time prescribed by the above article. MAHI v. JIWAN. 141 P R 1879

2. Suit dismissed by default—Application for review made more than 30 days after date of dismissal—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 103—Limitation Act, 1877, Second Schedule, article 163.

In a suit instituted by petitioner the defendant was summoned for and duly appeared on the 11th May 1894, but petitioner himself did not appear. As the claim was denied, petitioner's suit was dismissed by default, and on the 2nd July 1894, petitioner applied for review of judgment, without, however, being able to show that the order attacked was other than the only order which the Court could have passed under the circumstances.

Held, that article 163 of the Second Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877, applied, and that the application was barred thereunder. NUR MUHAMMAD v. DINA. 15 P R 1897

3 Suit dismissed for default—Application for an order to set aside a dismissal by default.

By article 163 an application under section 103 of the Civil Procedure Code must be made within thirty days of the date of the order dismissing the suit, and the Courts have no alternative to dismissing the application if not presented within that period, as they have no power to extend the period allowed by this article. SAHIB DITTA v. RODA. 83 P R 1902

Second Schedule, article 164.

1. Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, article 164—Application by respondent for rehearing of appeal decided ex-parte—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, Sections 274, 560.

The lower Appellate Court accepted an appeal by the decree-holder, in execution of decree, in the absence of the judgment debtor on whom notice of the appeal had been served by affixing it on the outer door of his house. The case was fixed for the 24th July 1895, but was postponed to the 30th without a fresh summons being issued to the judgment debtor and was decided on the date last mentioned. On the 2nd January 1896, while the judgment-deblor was still absent, his land was attached by proclaiming the order in the village by beat of drum and by affixing a copy of it on the outer door of his house, a copy being also affixed at the Court-house. On the 1st May 1895 the judgment-debtor applied under section 560, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, to have the ex-parte decree of the lower Appellate Court set aside, but his application was rejected as barred under article 164 of the Limitation Act, having been filed more than thirty days after process for enforcing the judgment had been executed.

1845

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 164—concld.

Held, that the order rejecting the application as barred by limitation was wrong, and must be reversed.

The stringent provisions of article 164 of the Limitation Act must be strictly construed, and before they can be applied to an application to set aside an ex-parte judgment, it must be clearly found that there was a proper and valid attachment of the applicant's land in conformity with section 274, Civil Procedure Code, the omission in the present Case to put up a copy of the order of attachment at a conspicuous part of the land to be attached being a fatal defect and vitiating the attachment.

No. 32 P. R. 1878, followed: IX Calc. L. Rep. 114, cited. ISHRA SINGH v. JHANDA. 5 P R 1897

2. Article 164, Limitation Act, held inapplicable where the process for enforcing judgment issued under section 268, Civil Procedure Code, was found to be materially defective. SADHA RAM v. KARAM CHAND. 118 P R 1906

Second Schedule, article 166.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE. 40 P R 1910

Second Schedule, article 168.

1. And section 5—Act X of 1877, sections 556, 558—Application made after expiry of thirty days for re-admission of appeal dismissed for default—Invalidity of all proceedings subsequent to such re-admission.

The plaintiff-appellant, whose appeal had been dismissed by the Judicial Assistant for want of prosecution, made an application for re-admission under section 558 of the Code, which was granted and the appeal re-heard and decided in plaintiff's favour. The Commissioner, on defendants appealing, accepted the appeal on the merits and without reference to the order re-admitting the appeal dismissed for default. Plantiff appealed to the Chief Court, where it appeared that the application made for re-admission of the appeal was made after 30 days from the date of the order dismissing the appeal for default.

Held, that the defendant was entitled to contend in the Chief Court that all the proceedings of the Judicial Assistant upon the application for re-admission must be set aside as invalid, as at the end of 30 days from the date of the dismissal of plantiff's appeal for default, no application having been presented by him for its re-admission, the order of dismissal became absolutely final. KABIR v. KHAWAJA MUHAMMAD KHAN.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 168— concld.

44 P R 1882

2. Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), sections 551, 556—Dismissal for default—Application for re-admission.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the limitation of 30 days prescribed by article 168 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, which is applicable to appeals dismissed under section 556 of the Civil Procedure Code, is not applicable to a petition by an appellant whose appeal has been dismissed in consequence of his absence on the date fixed for hearing him under section 551. BUTA v. RATTAN SINGH. 76 P R 1882

Second Schedule, article 169.

—And section 5—Application for re-hearing of appeal heard ex-parte*—Power to extend prescribed period.*

Held, that a Court has no discretion to extend the period of 30 days prescribed by article 169, Schedule II of the Limitation Act for an application or re-hearing of an appeal heard ex-parte in the absence of the respondent. SHER v. MOHAN SINGH.

66 P R 1885

Second Schedule, article 171.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 7

—And 178. Application by legal representative of deceased appellant.

Held, by a majority of the Full Bench (LINDSAY J. dissenting) that the limitation of 60 days provided by article 171, Schedule II of Act XV of 1877, does not apply to an application made in an appellate Court by a person who claims to be the legal representative of a deceased plaintiff who is appellant but that the period of limitation for such an application is three years under the general provisions of article 178. Per Lindsay J. contra.—NETH RAM v. HET RAM.

154 P R 1879

Second Schedule, article 171 B.

See ABATEMENT OF APPEAL.

1. And article 178—Application to have representative of deceased respondent made a respondent.

Where, during the pendency of an appeal in the Chief Court, the defendant-respondent died and the appellant, after the lapse of over a year, applied to have the representative of the said deceased substituted for him on the record, held, that such application was barred by limitation, as the words of article 171 B. of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act were in themselves sufficient to cover the present case, the application being to have the representative of a deceased defendant made the defendant in place of his father, deceased, and the application being made under section 368 of the Civil Procedure Code, which is made applicable to appeals by section 582.

LIMITATION ACT XV OF 1877— contd.

Second Schedule, article 171 B— contd.

But held further, that there is no article in the Limitation Act expressly providing for an application to have the representative of a deceased respondent, who is a plaintiff, placed on the record, and that therefore in such a case the application would come under the general provision of article 178, which provides a limitation of 3 years. Neth Ram v. Het Ram (154 P. R. 1879,) and Sheo Gopal v. Bishen Singh (No. 30 P. R. 1880,) cited. LORINDA MAL v. INAYAT.

113 P R 1882

See also MUSSAMMAT MEWAN v. FAKIRIA.

113 P R 1882 Note

2. And article 178—Application to substitute heirs of deceased plaintiff-respondent.

Held, that as the Limitation Act has not distinctly provided for the case of an application to substitute the heirs of a deceased plaintiff-respondent, such an application is consequently governed by article 178 of the 2nd Schedule of the Act, which provides a limitation of 3 years for all applications for which no period of limitation is elsewhere provided in the same schedule. Neth Ram v. Het Ram (No. 154 P. R. 1879,) and Sheo Gopal v. Bishen Singh (No. 30 P. R. 1880,) cited. GOPAL SINGH v. NAURANG SINGH. 165 P R 1882

3. Death of respondent during pendency of appeal—Limitation for application to place legal representative on record—Abatement of appeal—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), sections 368, 582.

Held, that since the passing of the Civil Procedure Coder of 1882, article 171 B. of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act must be held to govern all applications to have the representative of a deceased respondent made a respondent, as the force of section 582 of the Code of 1882 read with section 368 is to cause the word "defendant" in the last named section to comprise a respondent as well as a defendant, and the reference in article 171 B. of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act to a deceased defendant in the said section 368 of the Code must be understood to mean "defendant" as the word is defined in the Code at the time being, and therefore in cases governed by the Code of 1882 to comprise a respondent as well as a defendant proper. Sheo Gopal v. Bishen Singh (No. 30 P. R. 1880,) and Gopal Singh v. Naurang Singh (No. 165 P. R. 1882), referred to. HAFIZ GHULAM MUHAMMAD KHAN v. MOHAN LAL. 133 P R 1884

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— contd.

Second Schedule, article 171 B— concld.

4. Application to place representative of deceased respondent upon the record.

Held, that, in the case of appeals instituted after Act XIV of 1882 came into force, the limitation provided by article 171 B. of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act is applichble to an application to have the representative of a deceased respondent made a respondent, even though the deceased was plaintiff in the orginal suit. Hafiz Ghulam Muhammad Khan v. Mohan Lal (No. 133 P R. 1884, Civil) followed. Jafar v. Jowaya (No. 76 P. R. 1884.) and Alladitta v. Ziadat (No. 39 P. R. 1885,) referred to. GHULAM SHAH v. MALLIK MUZAFFAR KHAN. 81 P R 1886

5. Application to have the representative of a deceased respondent made a respondent.

Held, that article 171 B. of Schedule II of the Limitation Act applies to an application made during the pendency of an appeal to have the representative of a deceased plaintiff-respondent made a respondent. Hafiz Ghulam Muhammad Khan v. Mohan Lal (No. 133 P. R. 1884), followed. DASOUNDHA SINGH v. KANHYA LAL.

103 P R 1886

6. Application to place legal representative of deceased defendant-respondent on the record—Sufficient cause for not applying within prescribed period—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882, section 368.

Held, that the period for applying in the case of a deceased defendant-respondent to place his legal representative upon the record is 60 days under article 171 B of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, Hafiiz Ghulam Muhammad Khan v. Mohan Lal (No. 133 P. R. 1884, and Dasoundha Singh v. Kanhya Lal (No. 133 P. R. 1886) followed.

Held, further, that ignorance by an appellant of the fact of a reapondent's death may be a sufficient excuse for not applying within 60 days' within the meaning of the last clause of section 368 of the Civil Procedure Code. GAMAN v. BAKSHA.

42 P R 1887

Second Schedule, article 175,

—Execution of decree—Payment by instalments—Agreement to give time for satisfaction of judgment debt.

See ARTICLE 179, infra. 61 P R 1886

Second Schedule, article 178.

1. Execution of decree—Payment by instalments—Agreement to give time for satisfaction of judgment debt.

See ARTICLE 179, infra. 61 P R 1886

2. Execution of decree—Attachment and sale—Sale subsequently set aside for irregu- larity—Resale without fresh attachment—Limitation—Application for execution of decree or for revival of suspended proceedings.

1849

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 178—contd.

See ARTICLE 179, infra. 103 P R 1894

See ABATEMENT OF APPEAL.
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 171 B.

3. And article 179 (4)—Execution of decree—Application for attachment of house-property—Release of property from attachment on summary objection—Decree-holder bringing regular suit to declare the property liable to attachment—Dismissal of such suit—Fresh application for attachment of movables afterlapse of more than 3 years—Application to revive or continue the former application.

In a case of an application for execution of decree, it appeared that a previous application had been presented by the decree-holder on the 28th February 1876, praying for realization of the amount decreed by attachment and sale of the judgment-debtor's property. In accordance with the order passed on this application, certain house property was attached, but was subsequently, on the 15th May 1876, released on a summary objection made by the judgment-debtor's mother. The decree-holder then brought a regular suit to declare the property liable to attachment, which was finally dismissed by the Chief Court on the 9th November 1877. No further steps were taken by the decree-holder till the 9th November 1880, when the decree-holder presented the present application praying for attachment and sale of the debtor's moveable property.

Held, per Curiam, that the application in question was barred by limitation under clause 4 of article 179 of the 2nd Schedule of Act XV of 1877.

Per Elsmie, J.—The present application could not be regarded as one in continuance of or to revive the previous application, as, on the face of it, it had no reference to the previous proceedings; though, semble, had the decree-holder been successful in his claim for right of attachment and had he preferred a fresh application for the sale of the house-property within three years of his obtaining a declaratory decree, he would have been within time.

Per Smyth, J.—The property which the decree-holder had caused to be attached was at once released from attachment by summary proceeding. There was thus nothing to prevent him from proceeding against other property of the judgment-debtor's, either by way of fresh application or by revival of the former application, or for applying for execution in some other mode; and if, instead of doing so, he chose to persevere in his efforts to execute his decree against the mortgaged house and to institute proceedings for that purpose in another Court, he did so at his own risk. As the result of these proceedings was to show that the house did not belong to the debtors, and was not liable to be taken in execution of the decree against them, the decree-holder was not entitled to have the period of limitation prescribed for the execution of his decree extended by the time during which his abortive proceedings lasted. Whether therefore the application of 9th November 1880 were regarded as one to revive the former proceedings which were struck off on 15th May 1876 or as a fresh application for execution, it was barred. GANPAT RAI v. MEHRA.

1850

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 178—contd.

30 P R 1882

4. Insolvency—Application by registered creditor for balance of registered debt.

The petitioner, registered creditor of the bankrupt defendants, applied in March 1880 to enforce payment of the balance of his registeted debt. It appeared that the insolvents had agreed to pay yearly instalments, but that since 1874 nothing had been paid by them.

Held, that as the applicant had a right to apply in 1875 on the failure to pay the instalment due in that year, but made no application till March 1880, his application was barred under article 178, Schedule II of the Limitation Act of 1877. MUHAMMAD ASHRAF v. LACHU. 52 P R 1882

5. And article 179—Execution of decree—Application by transferee of decree—Act X of 1877, section 232—Application to revive former application.

A decree-holder, who had obtained a decree in August 1872, put his decree in execution on the 1st August 1873, and asked for the attachment and sale of certain houses and shops. These were attached, and in November 1873 three objectors came forward, but their objections were struck off on the 22nd December 1873. Meanwhile on the 11th December the decree-holder had brought a regular suit against one of these objectors and the judgment-debtors to obtain possession of the shops, and finally obtained a decree which declared his right to attach and sell the shops in execution of his decree. Meanwhile one of the shops attached on the original application of August 1873 had been sold and the sale proceeds placed with the Nazir of the Court. Subsequently the Court, after remarking that as the decree-holder, though informed, had ommitted to take the money out of Court, directed the Nazir to lodge the money in the Treasury and to report that he had done so, in order that the execution-proceedings might be struck off the file On the 8th October 1874 the Nazir reported that he had deposited the money in the Treesury, and though no order was passed on this report, the case was treated as struck off the file and was lodged in the record room. On the 23rd November 1878 one G. M. applied to be substituted on the record for the original decree-holder alleging that the decree had been transferred to him on 2nd November 1874, but that the transfer had not hitherto been notified to the Court, and this being confirmed by the original decree-holder the Court ordered the substitution of G. M.'s name.

1851

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 178—contd.

Held, that G. M.'s application of the 23rd November 1878 was barred by limitation. It was barred if considered as an application under section 232 of the Civil Procedure Code because it was made more than 3 years after the decree had been transferred to him in November 1874 (article 178, Schedule II of the Limitation Act); it was also barred if considered as a fresh application for execution of decree, because more than 3 years had elapsed from the date of the former application in August 1873, and it could not be regarded as an application to revive or keep in force the application of August 1873, because that application must be considered to have been struck off the file in October 1874. MUSSAMMAT AZIZ BIBI v. GANDA MAL.

151 P R 1882

6. And article 179—Execution of decree—Application to revive suspended prooceedings—Application to bring attached property to sale—Postponement of sale—Period when right to apply accrues.

A decree-holder, after obtaining partial satisfaction of his decree, finally obtained the attachment of some lands belonging to his debtor, which called forth an objection from a third party who claimed the lands as his. The objection was disallowed, and the objector referred to a civil suit to establish his right, which was eventually dimissed on the 19th October 1877. Pending the decision of this suit the sale of the lands was suspended by an order dated 14th August 1875, and on the 18th March 1876 the decree-holder again applied for attachment and sale of the lands in question, alleging that the suit brought by the objector had been thrown out. This application was rejected, but on appeal to the Commissioner that officer set aside the order of the lower Court, and recognized the decree-holder's right to bring the lands to sale. The lands were then re-attached, and on the 7th July 1877 the executing Court, after reciting that the case had been postponed till the decision of the suit brought by the objector, ordered that the papers connected with the execution of the decree were to be consigned to the office, as the result of the decision of the suit relating to the land had not been reported to the Court, directing further that the attachments of the lands should continue to subsist. Finally the decree-holder filed an application on the 24th July 1880, praying that the attached lands should be sold, which was resisted by the judgment-debtor on the ground that the decree had become extinct by expiry of time.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 178—contd.

Held, that the attachment must under the above circumstances be considered to have all along continued in force, and that therefore the application of the 24th July 1880 was properly worded as an application to revive suspended proceedings, and could not be regarded as a new application to which the provisions of article 179 of Act XV of 1877 were applicable : the mere fact that the execution case was struck off the file would not by itself put an end to the previons attachment, more especially when the order striking off the case expressly directed that the attachment should continue to subsist, nor would the re-attachment necessarily involve an abandonment of the former attachment.

Held, further, that if it was correct to hold that article 178 was applicable to the application of the 24th July 1880, that application would still be within time, as the sale of the attached property having been postponed till after the decision of the suit instituted by the objector and that suit not having been finally disposed of till the 19th October 1877, it was then that the decree-holder acquired a right to apply for the sale of the property, and his application having been made within 3 years of that date was within time.

But held, semble, that an application to bring attached property to sale is not governed by article 178 of the Limitation Act, as it is not necessary to make any formal application for that purpose, and if such application be made it should be regarded as analagous to that made in a pending suit, the right to make which would accrue from day to day. PHIRAYA MAL v. ADU RAM.
179 P R 1882

7. And article 179—Application for execution of decree—Application to revive application upon which passing of orders has been suspended.

On November 15th 1878, a decree-holder applied for execution of his decree, and, the judgment-debtor having appeared and represented that the decree was ex parte, and that he was applying for a new trial, the hearing of the case was adjourned, and on January 23rd, 1879 it was ordered that the case should remain postponed until decision of the case pending between the same parties ; and finally, on May 3rd, 1879, the Court directed the decree-holder's application to be filed, mentioning that when the regular suit had been decided the decree-holder would be at liberty again to execute. No order granting or refusing the application of November 15th, 1878 was passed before the decree-holder made an application to the same effect on the 3rd January 1882.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 178—contd.

Held, that the last named application was not one falling under article 179 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act, but was in substance one made, in pursuance of the Court's order of the 3rd May 1879, to revive the application made in November 1878, upon which the passing of orders had been indefinitely suspended ; that the limitation applicable was that prescribed by article 178 of the same schedule, and the period would be three years from the date when the right to apply accrued, that is, from the date when the proceedings instituted by the judgment-debtor to set aside the ex parte decree came to an end. MUSSAMMET ESHAR KOUR v. GHASITA.
168 P R 1883

8. And article 179.—Postponement of execution proceedings for one year—Application to re-open proceedings after lapse of more than 3 years—New application barred.

Where during execution proceedings the parties agreed before the Court that payment should be postponed for one year from the 23rd May 1879, whereupon on that date the Court ordered that the proceedings should be filed for the present, and subsequently on the 15th May 1883 an application was made to re-open the execution-proceedings, held, that the last named application could not be held to be one under article 178, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, for which no period of limitation was elsewhere prescribed, but it was a new application under article 179 for execution of the decree, and accordingly the three years' limitation ran from the date of issuing a notice under section 248 (a) of the Civil Procedure Code, which was the latest step taken in the former proceedings to further execution of the decree, and the application was barred. Mussammat Eshar Kour v. Ghasta (No. 168 P. R. 1883), distinguished. KURTA RAM v. KAITHLI MAL.
77 P R 1884

9. And article 179—Decree providing that execution shall take place after expiry of a certain period—Date from which limitation begins to run.

The decree in the present case was passed on the 6th August 1883, in favour of certain mortgagees, for possession of certain land mortgaged to them on the expiry of a lease under which it was held from the mortgagor, and for costs. Execution for costs was applied for in 1886, and subsequently to the expiry of the lease on 18th December 1895, application was made by the decree-holders for execution by delivery of possession of the land. The question referred to the Full Court was, whether an application for execution of a decree, which could not under its very terms be executed within three years from the date of the decree, was barred by limitation under article 179 of the Limitation

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 178—contd.

Act, on the ground that it had not been made within three years from such date.

Held, by the Full Court, that the application for execution of the said decree was not barred.

No. 126 P. R. 1892, overruled. HANWANTA v. BHAGIRATH.
65 P R 1897 F. B.

—And article 179—Decree in suit for partition—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 396—Application for effecting partition—Execution of decree—Competency of judgment-debtor on a subsequent application for execution to raise objection on ground that a preceding application was barred—Res judicata.

See PARTITION.
47 P R 1906

Second Schedule, article 179.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 48.
109 P R 1889
159 P R 1889
40 P R 1898.

1. Decree providing that execution shall take place after expiry of a certain period—Date from which limitation begins to run.

See ARTICLE 178, supra.
65 P R 1897 F B

2. *Money paid into Court—*Ex parte decree upheld—Application by decree-holder for payment of deposit—Execution of decree—Limitation.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 13.
8 P R 1898

3. Execution of decree—Payment by instalments—Agreement to give time for satisfaction of judgment-debt—Limitation.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XX, R. 11.
26 P R 1894

4. Execution of decree—Steps in aid of execution—Limitation.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 48.
40 P R 1898

5. Application for execution of decree in accordance with law—Absence of certificate under the Succession Certificate Act, 1889.

See SUCCESSION CERTIFICATE ACT, 1889, SECTION 4.
54 P R 1893

—Decree payable by instalments—Default in payment of instalments—Execution of Decree—Limitation.

See DECREE—CONSTRUCTION OF.
100 P R 1902

6. Application to enforce decree or take a step in aid of execution—Application for payment to decree-holder of money deposited in Court—Application for certificate of non-satisfaction and transfer of the decree to a foreign Court.

An application for the payment out to the decree holder of a sum of money which had been deposited in Court, which application was granted and the money paid out, held, not to be an application to enforce the decree, or to take a step in aid of execution of the decree within the meaning of article 179, Schedule II, Act XV of 1877.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 179—contd.

Held further, that an application, either under section 285 of Act VIII of 1859, or section 223 of Act X of 1877, for a certificate of non-satisfaction and transfer of the decree to a foreign Court, is not an application for execution of the decree, nor an application in accordance with law, to the proper Court to take some step in aid of execution of the decree, as the latter words refer to steps in aid of execution of the decree which may be taken under the Code of Civil Procedure or any other provision of law in force in British India regulating the execution of decrees; and there is no provision of the law which enables a British Court to send its decree for execution to the Courts of another State, nor, further, if a British Court does so send it, is this a step in aid of execution of the decree, but in aid of realization of the monies decreed otherwise than by execution of the decree. NAWAB SAADAT ALI KHAN v. NAWAB MUHAMMAD ALI KHAN.

107 P R 1881

7 Clause (6)—Decree directing payment at a certain date—Provision enabling decree-holder to realize a portion of the decree on failure by judgment-debtor to pay interest—Effect of such provision.

In a suit to recover a sum of money secured by the mortgage of a house, a compromise was come to by the parties, whereby the plaintiff agreed to accept Rs. 1,650 in full satisfaction of the claim. It was arranged that the payment of this amount should be deferred for 5 years: that as regards Rs. 1,200 the house should remain in the possession of the plaintiff as mortgagee, the rent being taken by him in lieu of interest, and that as regards the remainder, viz., Rs. 450, the defendant should pay interest year by year at the rate of 8 annas per cent. per mensem, it being further provided that if default was made in payment of such interest, so that at the end of any year the interest for that year remained unpaid it would be competent to the plaintiff to enforce payment of the principal sum of Rs. 450 and any interest remaining due thereon by execution of decree. It was further provided that though the defendant should have paid the interest on the Rs. 450 regularly year by year, if he failed to pay the Rs. 1,650 at the end of the five years, it would be competent to the decree-holder to put the decree in execution and realize the amount from the mortgaged and other property of the judgment-debtor. The Court having given judgment in accordance with this compromise and a decree having followed, dated the 15th August 1872, an application for execution was made on the 7th May 1880, in which it was stated that the judgment-debtor had paid interest for 5 years, but not for the last 3 years, with regard to which it was contended that default of payment of the interest occurred 2 years after the date of the decree and more than 3 years before the making of the application.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 179—contd.

Held, that as the decree, when read with the judgment, directed that the amount decreed should be paid on the expiration of 5 years, the application for execution having been made within 3 years from that time, that is within 8 years from the date of the decree, was within time under the 6th clause of article 179, Schedule II, Act XV of 1877, as the provision enabling the decree-holder to realize portions of the amount decreed on failure by the judgment-debtor to pay the stipulated interest on that portion at the stipulated time did not amount to a direction in the decree, within the meaning of the clause above cited, that the said portion was to be paid on the failure of the judgment-debtor to pay interest, and limitation therefore did not begin to run when such failure occured assuming it did occur. RAM LAL v. NATHA SINGH.

45 R P 1882

8. Application for execution presented under defective power of attorney—Material defect or irregularity—Application whether "in accordance with law"—Application for attachment—Step in aid of execution.

It was contended that an application for execution of decree was barred by limitation because inter alia the previous applications were not made in accordance with law, not having been made by the decree-holder himself, but by a person acting for him under a power of attorney which was not given for the express purpose of the execution-proceedings. With regard to this objection, it appeared to have been first taken (though with reference only to the power of attorney accompanying the present application) in appeal to the Commissioner, in whose Court the decree-holder by defending the appeal adopted and ratified all the acts of his agent in the executing Court.

Held that, assuming that the power of attorney was defective, the defect was cured by the action of the decree-holder in defending the appeal, and if there was any defect in the powers of attorney under which the previous applications were made, the objection should have been taken while those applications were pending and not in subsequent proceedings, such a defect, when no objection was taken, being no ground for holding that the application was not in accordance with law.

Held further, that an application to attach property, when not itself the application for execution of decree, is an application to take a step in aid of execution within the meaning of article 197, Schedule II, Act XV of 1877. LAKMI DAS v. GOBIND RAM.

105 P R 1882

9. Execution of decree—Application for execution or to take some step in aid of execution—Receipt of payments through Court—Agreement to pay by instalments not embodied in decree—Effect of such agreement.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 179—contd.

In an application for execution of decree, dated 17th April 1880, which was held by the lower Court to be barred by limitation, the decree-holder in second appeal relied upon certain payments received by him under the terms of an agreement alleged to have been substituted for the decree, and upon an application, dated 26th October 1879, as keeping he decree alive, urging that the effect of the agreement was to make the original decree payable by annual instalments, and that therefore he was entitled to execute for such instalments as were not three years overdue. It appeared that the application relied upon was made to the Tahsildar as Revenue Officer, the annual payments having been received through him.

Held, that such an applicantion could not be regarded as an application in accordance with law to the proper Court for execution or to take some step in aid of execution, so as to give a new period of limitation under article 179 (4) of the Limitation Act, and that the receipt of payments, even had they been made through the Court itself, would not have been enough to keep the decree alive.

As regards the claim to execute for instalments not three years overdue, it appeared that these instalments were not provided for in the decree nor was there even a subsequent agreement that the amount of the decree and that only should be payable by instalments, which agreement had been treated in the execution-proceedings as having taken the place of the original decree, as the agreement relied upon included, besides the amount of the decree other sums which were not decreed, provided for the payment of the whole by instalments.

Held, that such agreement could not be enforced in the execution-proceedings and that all that it was open to the decree-holder to do was to treat the agreement as rescinded by the defendants breach, and to fall back upon his original decree, subject to giving the debtor credit for all sums realized under the rescinded agreement as payments in discharge of the decree, and that as there was no application within three years before the date of the present application, execution of the decree was barred by limitation. Sirdar Amir Singh v. Jowahir Singh (No. 48 P R. 1880), and Nawab Sadat Ali Khan v. Nawab Muhammad Ali Khan (No. 107 P. R. 1881), referred to. BASAWA MAL v. SIRDAR AMAR SINGH.

190 P R 1882

10. Application for execution "in accordance with law"—Effect of application which omits to specify the reilef asked for—Effect of application filed merely to keep the decree alive—Act X of 1877, sections 235—238, 245.

An application for execution which the Court apparently regarded as a sufficient application under section 235 of the Civil Procedure Code, but which was defective in not specifying the relief asked for, held, in a subsequent proceeding not to be ineffectual to keep the decree alive because not "in accordance with law within the meaning of article 179 of Schedule II, of Act XV of 1877 as the defect was one which should have been discovered by the Court to which the application was made and dealt with in the manner provided by section 245 of the Civil Procedure Code. The words "in accordance with law" were not introduced into the above article to make it necessary for the Court, in order to determine whether a particular application is within limitation, to examine previous applications to ascertain whether they fulfiled the requirements of section 235—238 of the Code as that is the duty of the Court to which the application is made, and if that Court saw no reason to reject it under section 245, or order its amendment, it should be assumed in subsequent proceedings that it was a sufficient application to satisfy the requirements of the law.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 179—contd.

Held, further that there is nothing in the law, as contained in Act XV of 1877, to support the view that, because an application is filed merely with the object of keeping the decree alive and not in the expectation that any effectual steps could be taken to execute it against an absent judgment-debtor, it should not be held to be an application in accordance with law. Nawab Saadat Ali Khan v. Nawab Muhammad Ali Khan. (No. 107 P. R. 1881,) referred to. BANESS v. TURTON.

23 P R 1883

11. Execution of decree—Application to execute the decree or to take same step in aid of execution—Application to keep the decree in force.

Held, that an application which is merely made to keep a decree in force, and is not an application to the Court to execute the decree, nor to take any step in aid of execution, gives no fresh starting point for limitation under clause (4), article 179 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act of 1877. KALLU MAL v. ALAF KHAN.

41 P R 1884

12. "Step in aid of execution"—Receipt given by decree-holder—Application for permission to bid at auction sale.

Held, that a receipt given by a decree-holder cannot be held to be an application to the Court to take any step in aid of execution within the meaning of article 179 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, nor can an application for permission to bid at the auction sale of certain property be held to be an application to the Court to take any step in aid of execution within the same article. Nawab Saadat Ali Khan v. Nawab Muhammad Ali Khan (No 107 P. R. 1881) followed. MAULVI MUHAMMAD SHAFEE v. BUDRI MAL.

88 P R 1884

13. Application by judgment-creditor that the date fixed for "the hearing may be communicated to him—"Step in aid of execution."

A written application made by the judgment creditor in the course of execution proceedings to have the date fixed for the hearing communicated to him, held, not to be an application to take some step in aid of execution of the decree within the meaning of article 179 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act of 1877. KHUSHALA MAL v. GAMIN.

29 P R 1885

14. And article 175—Execution of decree—Adjustment of decree—Agreement to make payments at a certain date—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), sections 210, 258.

A decree was passed in May 1877: the first application for execution was made in June 1877, and was infructuous: the second application was made in March 1880, and was followed in April 1880 by an application made by the judgment-debtor setting forth an arrangement arrived at between him, and the decree-holder, by which the former was to pay a certain sum within ten days, and the balance of the decree by specified instalments, and in case of default 8 annas per cent. interest. The application prayed for instalments to be fixed. On this the Court after examining the parties, ordered the proceedings to be filed without quoting any section of the Code, admonishing the parties to act up to their agreement, and warning the judgment-debtor that if he did not, he would have to pay interest. The next application for execution was made in December 1883, or more than three years from the last mentioned proceedings.

Held, that the application of December 1883 was barred by time under article 179 (3) of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act; that the order of the Court passed in April 1880 was not intended to be one under section 210 of the Code, amending the decree and directing payments to be made at a certain date, so as to render clause 5 of article 179, Schedule II of the Limitation Act applicable, but was meant to be passed under section 258 of the Code, as an order recording an adjustment of the decree made by the parties and certified by the judgment-debtor with the assent of the decree-holder, which view was confirmed by the fact that the application if regarded as one under section 210, was barred by time under article 175 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act. CHAJJU v. GULAB.

61 P R 1886

15. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 230—Twelve years old decree—Application for share of sale proceeds—"Step in aid" of execution.

Section 230 of the Civil Procedure Code fixes an extreme limit after which execution shall not be granted (in the absence of fraud or force on the part of the judgment-debtor) but does not override the provisions of the Limitation Act under which execution may be barred by time at a much earlier date than is fixed by the Code.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 179—contd.

Held, that applying for money lying in Court, and taking it out, is not taking a "step in aid of execution" within the meaning of article 179 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act. Nawab Saadat Ali Khan v. Nawab Muhammad Ali Khan (No. 107 P. R. 1881), and Maulvi Muhammad Shaffi v. Badri Mal (No. 88 P R. 1884) followed. MUL CHAND v. KOUR SINGH.

27 P R 1888

16. Execution of decree—Revival of suspended proceedings.

In 1853 D. S. got a decree, which continued under execution till 1864, in which year (the judgment-debtor and his son having in the meantime died) the Deputy Commissioner directed that three houses should be reserved to the two widows of the judgment-debtor's son for their lives, and be consequently exempted from the auction of the attached property. On the death of the said ladies in 1886, the son of the late decree-holder applied to execute the balance of his decree by selling the exempted houses.

Held, that the application was barred by limitation, such application falling not under article 178, but under article 179 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, inasmuch as execution was not suspended by the order of the Deputy Commissioner, exempting from attachment and sale the ladies' life interest in the houses, the residue not being protected by such order, as the decree-holder while accepting that order fully could have brought the houses to sale, subject to the right of the two ladies to occupy them for their lives. SARDARNI DYA KAUR v. KANWAR SINGH.

129 P R 1888

17. Execution of decree—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882, section 223—Application to Court to which decree has been transmitted after that Court has made its return to the original Court—Application to the "proper Court."

Held, that when a decree has been sent for execution to another district under section 223 of the Civil Procedure Code, and a return has been made to the Court which passed the decree, an application subsequently made to the Court to which it had been sent by the Court which passed it, but without a further certificate from the latter Court, is an application made to the "proper Court" as defined in Explanation II to article 179, Schedule II of the Limitation Act, and sufficient to keep the decree alive when its execution would be otherwise barred by limitation. HARBHAJ RAI v. MAKAND LAL.

168 P R 1888

18. Step in aid of execution—Revival of previous application.

The decree in this case bore date the 9th June 1883. The first application for execution was made on 6th October 1883, and a house was attached. One A objected to the attachment, but his objection was disallowed on 28th December 1883. He brought a suit in January 1884, which was dismissed on 31st May 1886. A second application for execution was made on 15th January 1886, and the third beyond three years on the 14th March 1889. The judgment-creditor contended that up to the 31st May 1886, when the suit was finally decided, he was taking steps in aid of execution, and that time commenced running against him from that date, and that therefore his application was within time.

Held, that the time during which the suit was pending could not be deducted under section 14 of the Limitation Act, and the application was barred under article 179 of Schedule II. MIHR JANG KHAN v. FAIZULLA KHAN. 154 P R 1890

19. Civil Procedure Code, section 230, —Execution of decree—Limitation.

Section 230, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, does not contain the law of limitation for application to execute a decree, but gives a period after which such an application, though not barred by the law of limitation shall not be granted.

No. 27 P. R. 1888, and No. 109 P. R. 1889, followed. GHOLAM JILANI v. GANGA RAM. 9 P R 1891

20. Decree made on a compromise that after expiration of fifteen years plaintiff would be entitled to possession.

A decree was made in a suit in accordance with a compromise between the parties: the defendants were to remain in possession of the land in suit for fifteen years as mortgagees in lieu of their expenditure and losses during the plaintiff's absence, and on the expiration of the fifteen years the plaintiff was to obtain possession.

On the expiry of the fifteen years the plaintiff applied for execution of decree, asking for possession of the land.

Held, that the application for execution was governed by article 179, Schedule II, Limitation Act, 1877, and was barred, the time beginning to run from the date of the decree.

No. 43 P. R. 1878 (F. B.), referred to and followed. JALLA v. DOOLA.

126 P R 1892

OVERRULED BY 65 P R 1897

21. Execution of decree—Limitation—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 230—"Subsequent order"—Modification or alteration of original decree—Interlocutory decision of lower Court not reversed on appeal, how far binding on Appellate Court on appeal from a final order in same proceeding.

The original decree in this case was dated 22nd March 1870, and was for a sum of Rs. 2,252 payable in two instalments. On the 30th March 1874 an application by the decree-holder for execution set out that part only of the debt had been realized up to date, but the judgment-debtor, to whom notice had issued filed an application on the 30th April 1874, stating that a further sum had been paid by him, and that it had been agreed between him and the decree-holders that the balance still remaining due should be paid in twenty-one six-monthly instalments of Rs. 50 each, running from the 1st Sawan, Sambat 1931, to the 10th Bysakhi, Sambat 1941. If default were made interest was to be charged at a specified rate. The order of the Court upon this application was as follows:—"Sardar (judgment-debtor) has filed "this application. As the decree-holders "agree to it, it is ordered that the petition "for instalments remain with the record." Subsequently applications by the decree-holders for execution of the decree were made on 5th April 1879, 10th May 1882, 8th June 1883, 26th June 1883, and 8th May 1884, the last two applications "being granted," and the proceedings under the latter application being filed on the 23rd May 1884. On the 3rd July 1884 another application for execution was made. This was dismissed on the 3rd April 1885, but was restored on appeal, and finally terminated on 31st August 1888. Between the filing of the appeal from the order dismissing this application and the 31st August 1888 no application was made by the decree-holders, except one, dated 14th October 1886, which merely asked the Court to alter the date fixed for the next hearing. The next application for execution was made on the 25th April 1889, and the proceedings under it remained pending until the 27th February 1893, when an order was passed sanctioning an arrangement proposed by the Collector. This order having been upheld by the Divisional Judge the judgment-debtor appealed to the Chief Court on the ground (which had been urged in both the lower Courts) that the execution of the decree was time-barred. For the respondents it was argued, inter alia, that the question as to whether the application for execution was time-barred was res judicata, inasmuch as the lower Court had ruled, in its orders of 15th May 1887 and 18th December 1891 that the application was within time, and these orders had not been reversed on appeal. It was also argued that the judgment-debtor was estopped from pleading that the original decree had not been modified by the arrangement of 1874, and altered into a decree payable by instalments.

Held, that inasmuch as the original decree, of the 22nd March 1870 had not been subsequently modified or altered by any "subsequent order" directing that it should be liquidated by payments at certain dates other than those specified in the orginal decree, and as more than twelve years had elapsed from the date of default in making payment according to its terms, and more than one application for execution had been made and granted after the said lapse of twelve years, the application dated 25th April 1889 was barred under section 230 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882.

Held, also, that the said application was barred under article 179 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877, inasmuch as the application for execution next preceding the application in question was dated 3rd July 1884, and no "step-in-aid of execution" had been taken within three years of the 25th Appil 1889. SARDAR v. FATTEH CHAND.

89 P R 1894

22. Execution of decree—attachment and sale—Sale subsequently set aside for irregularity—Re-sale without fresh attachment—Limitation—Application for execution of decree or for revival of suspended proceedings—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 230, 235.

On the 14th January 1884 defendants obtained a decree against plaintiffs, and in execution thereof applied, on the 1st May 1884, for attachment and sale of certain properties belonging to the judgment-debtors. This application having been granted, the properties were attached, but the proceedings were stayed owing to the judgment-debtors having lodged a regular suit for cancellation of the decree. On the 8th December 1885, upon the decree-holders' application, the proceedings re-commenced, and the sale took place and was confirmed on the 10th April 1886. On the 17th March 1886 the judgment-debtors applied to the executing Court to set aside the sale on the ground of certain specified irregularities. This application was rejected, but the Chief Court, on appeal by the judgment-debtors, passed an order on the 30th November 1887 setting aside the sale, and on the 8th February 1888 ordered the decree-holders to make a refund to the auction-purchasers of the purchase-money paid to the former in satisfaction of their decree. On the 16th April 1888 the decree-holders again applied to the executing Court, setting out the previous proceedings, and submitting that th property must still be regarded as und attachment, and prayed for a fresh proclamet tion for sale of the same properties ao issue. This application was granted, bɥu before a re-sale could take place the Chief Court, on appeal by the judgment-debtors, on the 31st January 1889, ordered that further execution of the decree could not proceed until restoration of the properties had been made to the judgment-debtors, and that the order of the lower Court must be set aside. The executing Court. therefore, on the 8th May 1889, ordered that in accordance with the directions of the Chief Court, the execution case could not proceed and must be struck off. The judgment-debtors having applied on the 28th August 1891 for restitution of the properties an order for restitution was made on the 8th March 1892 and executed the following day. As the judgment-debtors had recovered possession of the properties the decree-holders applied to the executing Court on the 13th June 1892, setting out the circumstances which led to the suspension of execution, and asked for the proceedings to be again revived. They also recited that they regarded the attachment of the properties as still subsisting, and prayed for fresh order to issue for sale thereof. This order having been granted the judgment-debtors appealed to the Chief Court, and it was argued on their behalf, inter alia, (i) that the attachment of the properties in dispute having come to an end, at least when the sale was confirmed and satisfaction of the decree was entered up, and there having been no application for any re-attachment since the sale was set aside, the order in appeal directing a re-sale to take place was bad in law, not having been preceded by any valid attachment; and (ii) that in any case the application for execution of the 13th June 1892, was time-barred under articte 179 of the Second Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 179—contd.

Held, that the application of the 16th April 1888, which asked merely for a fresh order for sale to issue, was in order, and correctly assumed that the old attachment was still subsisting.

Held, also, that the order of the 8th May 1889, with due advertence to its language and to the circumstances which preceded it, was not intended to dispose finally of the application of the 10th April 1888, but was in effect an order "to file for the present," with leave to revive the old proceedings when the obstacle to their further progress had been removed.

Held, therefore, that the application of the 13th June 1892, was rightly framed as one to reanimate the suspended proceedings, and being an application, not for execution of the decree but to take some step in aid of execution was governed by article 178 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, and was within time.

The question whether in a particular case an application is one for execution of the decree or to revive proceedings, suspended but not finally disposed of must be decided in each case with reference to the antecedent proceedings and the order passed thereon. GHULAM JILANI v. YUSAF SHAH.

106 P R 1894

23. Execution of decree—"Applying in accordance with law"—Application for attachment of property bona fide believed to belong to the judgment-debtor but not so in fact

Held, that an application for attachment of property which the decree-holder reasonably and bonâ fide believes to belong to the judgment-debtor, but which is on enquiry found not to belong to the latter is an application "in accordance with law," within the meaning and for the purposes of article 179 of the 2nd Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 179—contd.

I. L. R. XII All. 64; I. L. R. XX Calc. 388, and I. L. R. XII Bom. 427 referred to. PARABH SINGH v. BAL KISHEN.

6 P R 1895

24. Limitation Act, 1877, 2*nd Schedule, articles* 178, 179—Decree providing that execution shall take place after expiry of a certain period—Date from which limitation begins to run.

The decree in the present case was passed on the 6th August 1883, in favour of certain mortgagees, for possession of certain land mortgaged to them on the expiry of a lease under which it was held from the mortgagor, and for costs. Execution for costs was applied for in 1886, and subsequently to the expiry of the lease on 18th December 1895, application was made by the decree-holders for execution by delivery of possession of the land. The question referred to the Full Court was, whether an application for execution of a decree, which could not under its very terms be executed within three years from the date of the decree, was barred by limitation under article 179 of the Limitation Act, on the ground that it had not been made within three years from such date.

Held, by the Full Court, that the application for execution of the said decree was not barred. No. 126 P. R. 1892, overruled. HANWANTA v. BHAGIRATH.

65 P R 1897 F B

25. Civil Procedure Code, 1882 section 108—Money paid into Court—Ex-parte decree upheld—Application by decree-holder for payment of deposit—Execution of decree—Limitation Act, 1877, 2*nd Schedule, article* 179.

When a sum of money is paid into Court under section 108, Civil Procedure Code, in order to be delivered to plaintiffs, should the ex-parte decree be upheld, such sum becomes the decree holder's money as soon as the ex-parte decree is upheld, and it is not necessary for him to apply for execution of the decree in order to obtain payment of the money.

Where, therefore, in such a case the decree holder applied for payment of the deposit more than three years after the decree was passed.

Held, that such application could not be considered an application for execution of decree, and was not barred under article 179 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act. INAYAT ALI v. LACHAMAN SINGH.

8 P R 1898

26. Pre-emption—Decree directing money to be paid into Court by certain date but not stating consequences of non-compliance—Execution of decree—Limitation Act, 1877, 2*nd Schedule, article* 179.

LIMITATION ACT(XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 179—contd.

Where a decree in a suit for pre-emption directed that the sum for which pre-emption was decreed should be paid into Court by a certain date, but omitted to declare that if such sum was not paid on or before the said date the suit should stand dismissed. Held, that such omission in the decree did not extend the time within which the plaintiff could pay the money, the plaintiff being bound, nevertheless, to pay the amount into Court within the time fixed.

In such a case when the plaintiff failed to pay the amount into Court within the specified time.

Held, that the decree had become one incapable of execution and was not governed by article 179 of the Limitation Act, which only applies to decrees capable of execution. BUTA SINGH v. CHANDA SINGH. 47 P R 1898

27. Decree payable by instalments—No condition as to default.

In July 1891 a decree was passed in favour of the appellant payable by instalments of Rs. 90 a year, the first instalment being payable in August 1891. This decree was based on a compromise at the time of the attestation of which the parties stated before the Court that in case of failure to pay an instalment the whole sum then due would be realizable at once, but this was not entered in the compromise or in the judgment or in the decree. On two subsequent occasions, viz., in June 1893 and July 1896, the decree-holder sought to enforce the condition as to default, but withdrew his applications admitting realization of part. In March 1898 the decree-holder again applied for execution for the whole balance due on account of the decree and not merely the over-due instalments. The judgment-debtor pleaded limitation, which was overruled by the first Court, which granted execution for the amount due for instalments which had fallen due. The Divisional Judge on appeal held that the decree was barred as default had been committed, in consequence of which the whole decree had become payable more than three years before the application, and that the previous application having proceeded on this basis precluded the Court from deciding otherwise.

Held, that as the decree did not contain any provision as to default the present application was not barred by limitation, notwithstanding the fact that the decree-holder had twice sued out execution as if such a provision had existed because no execution had issued on that basis, nor had the judgment-debtor ever appeared or objected to the execution, nor had the executing Court ever exercised a judicial mind on that point.

Vankatanarasimha Naidu v. Papammah (I. L. R. XIX Mad. p. 54), distinguished. KANHAYA LAL v. FATTA AND ANOTHER.

48 P R 1900

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 179—contd.

28. Execution of decree—Application for execution not in accordance with law—Step in aid of execution—Limitation.

An application for execution of a decree not in accordance with the terms of the decree is not a step in aid of execution, as contemplated by clause 4, article 179 of the second Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877. SRI RAM AND ANOTHER v. MAJID-UD DIN AND OTHERS. 98 P R 1901

29. Execution of decree—Application by decree-holder to be put in possession of the property which he purchased in execution of his decree—"Step-in-aid" of execution.

Held, that an application by a decree-holder to be put in possession of the property he had purchased in execution of his decree is a "step in aid of execution of that decree within the meaning of article 179 of the second Schedule of the Limitation Act.

Sariatoola Molla v. Raj Kumar Roy (I. L. R. XXVII Calc. 709), followed.

Mul Chand v. Kour Singh (27 P. R. 1888) referred to. MUSSAMMAT LAL DEVI v. KARIM BAKHSH AND OTHERS. 18 P R 1904

30. Execution of decree—Application by decree-holder for transfer of decree—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 223—Step in aid of execution.

Held, that an application by a decree-holder to the Court passing the decree to send it to another Court for execution under the provisions of section 223, Civil Procedure Code, is a step-in aid of execution within the meaning of article 179, Schedule II of the Limitation Act.

Chundra Nath Gossami v. Guroo Prosuno Ghose (I. L. R. XXII Calc. 375), cited. BALDEO DAS AND ANOTHER v. CHUNI LAL AND ANOTHER. 55 P R 1904

31. Execution of decree—Limitation—Starting point for limitation where an application for revision was admitted.

A brought a suit against B for the possession of a house and obtained a decree on the 28th April 1898. The defendant Preferred an appeal which was dismissed by the Divisional Judge on 7th October 1898. He then filed an application for revision to the Chief Court which was admitted as a further appeal, but was finally rejected on 29th July 1901. On an application on the 10th February 1903 by the decreeholder to execute the said decree an objection was raised by the judgment-debtor that execution was barred by lapse of time.

Held, that the order passed by the Chief Court rejecting the application for revision must be treated as the "final order or decree of the Appellate Court" within the meaning of clause 2, article 179 of the second Schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, and that the application of the 10th February 1903 for execution was therefore within time. RALLA MAL v. MUSSAMMAT MALAN.

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 179—contd.

8 P R 1905

32. Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 179, Clauses (4) and (5)—Application by the decree holder asking for notice to be issued—Step in aid of execution—Limitation.

Held, that an application by the decree-holder under section 248 of the Code of Civil Procedure asking for notice to be issued to the judgment-debtor is an application to the Court to take a step in aid of execution of the decree within the meaning of article 179 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act, and the issuing of the notice contemplated by that section allows a fresh starting point for Limitation under clause 5 of that article.

Dhonkal Singh v. Phakhar Singh I. L. R. XV All. 84), Behari Lal v. Salik Ram (I. L. R. I All 675). Baness v. Turton (23 P. R. 1883). and Gopal Chander Manna v. Gosain Das Kalay (I. L. R. XXV Calc. 594), cited.

Gopal Sah v. Janki Koer (I. L. R. XXIII Calc. 217), referred to. MUHAMMAD NAWAZ KHAN v. RAM DAS.

22 P R 1905

33. Limitation—Decree against several defendants—Appeal by some of the defendants against part of the decree only—Execution of decree—Starting point of limitation from date of appellate decree against all the defendants.

The plaintiff sued nine defendants jointly for possession by partition of two houses, Nos. 1 and 2, and obtained a decree for certain specific shares in house No. 1 against defendants Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 7, and in house No. 2 against defendants Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5. Defendants Nos. 6, 8 and 9 appealed in respect of house No. 1, but their appeal was dismissed by the Appellate Court. On a subsequent remand (on further appeal by the Chief Court) this order was after a further inquiry again affirmed. The plaintiff applied for execution in respect of house No. 2 after the expiration of three years from the date of the original decree but within three years from the date of the appellate decree, whereupon defendant No. 4, who had not joined in the appeal but was a party to all the proceedings pleaded limitation on the ground that there having been no appeal on his behalf the original decree still existed.

Held, that the limitation for execution in respect to the properties found to belong to plaintiff by a single decree began to run against all the defendants from the date of the final decree of the Appellate Court irrespective of the fact that some of the judgment-debtors were not interested in the appeal.

Clause 2 of article 179 of the Indian Limitation Act applies to all such decrees against which an appeal has been preferred by any of the parties to the litigation in the original suit.

LIMITATION ACT XV OF 1877)—contd.

Second Schedule, article 179—contd.

Abdul Rahiman v. Mai Din Saiba (I. L. R. XXII Bom 500), Gopal Chand Manna v. Gosain Das Kelay (I. L. R. XXV Calc. 594) followed.

Mashiat-un-Nissa v. Rani (I. L. R. XIII All. 1, F. B.) distinguished and not approved. ANWAR ALI v. INAYAT ALI. 32 P R 1907

34. Execution of decree—Defective application for—Step in aid of execution.

Held, that if an application defective in form as an application for execution of a decree contains a prayer for the issue of a notice under section 248 of the Code of Civil Procedure and such notice is issued, it should be treated as an application to take some step-in-aid of execution within the meaning of article 179 of the second schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877. SHANKAR LAL v. ZORAWAR SINGH.

116 P R 1907

35. Appeal—Withdrawal of appeal—Execution of decree—Starting point of limitation.

Held that an order granting an application for the withdrawal of an appeal is not the "final order or decree of the Appellate Court" within the meaning of clause (2) of article 179 of the Second Schedule to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877, and therefore limitation runs from the date of the original decree. BHAGWAN SINGH v. MOHAN LAL.

54 P R 1908

36. Execution of decree—Application by decree-holder for the payment of money paid into Court—Step in aid of execution.

Held by the Full Bench that an application by a decree-holder to the executing Court for payment to him of a certain sum of money deposited in Court in partial satisfaction of the decree does not ordinarily amount to an application to take some step-in-aid of execution within the meaning of article 179 (4) of Act XV of 1877. KASU v. ATAR SINGH.

103 P R 1908 F. B.

37. Execution of decree—Release of property—Suit by decree-holder to establish right to attached property—Step in aid of execution—Revival of previous application.—Limitation Act, 1877, article 179 (4)—Revision—Material irregularity—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 70 (1) (a).

Held, that where execution proceedings had been so obstructed that the decree-holder, through no fault of his own, was prevented from proceeding against the property attached, a subsequent application by him for execution against the same property, after the removal of the obstruction, must be treated as a continuance of his former application.

Held also, that misapplication of a ruling is material irregularity within the meaning of section 70 (1) (a) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884. MUL CHAND v. MUHAMMAD. 45 P R 1909

LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877)— concld.

Second Schedule, article 179—concld.

LIMITATION ACT, 1908.

Section 2.

1. Indian Limitation Act, IX of 1908, section 2 (8), Schedule II, articles 140, 141, 142, and 144—Adverse possession—Alienation by widow not challenged by nearest reversioner—Suit for possession by remote reversioner after death of nearest reversioner.

The last male owner of agricultural land died leaving a widow, who died in 1876, and a mother, who died in 1892. The widow had alienated part of the land and had placed the alienee in possession. The alienation was not for necessity. The nearest reversioner B., great-grandson of K., the great grandfather of the last male owner, died in 1903, without challenging the alienation or expressly assenting to it. The descendants of the brother of K. sued in 1909 the heirs of the alienee for possession of the land alienated. The question submitted to the Full Bench was whether plaintiffs' suit was within time.

Held, following the principles underlying No. 18 P. R. 1895 (F. B.), and dissenting from No. 106 P. R 1906, that the claim was not barred under article 144 of the Limitation Act, 1908, inasmuch as the plaintiff's right to sue for possession was not derived from or through B (vide definition of "plaintiff" in section 2 (8) of the Act), and consequently the defendant's possession, though adverse to B could not be adverse to the plaintiffs until after his death, when their right to possession accrued.

Held also, that articles 140 and 141 had no application to the case. SUNDAR v. SALIG RAM. 26 P R 1911 F. B.

Section 3.

How Courts should treat belated pleas of limitation and when the Lower Appellate Court is justified in not entertaining the plea.

See PRE-EMPTION. 84 P R 1911

Section 18.

—Fraudulent concealment of actual vendee—deed in favour of a benamidar—Suit against actual vendee within period of limitation from date when actual vendee became known.

Plaintiff sued M. S. for pre-emption on the 2nd March 1908 (the 1st being a holiday) in respect of a sale in favour of B. L. by registered deed, dated 26th November 1906, which appeared from the mutation proceedings, held on 1st March 1907, to have been benami for M. S., the real purchaser, whose name had been fraudulently concealed from plaintiff until then.

Held, that section 18 of Limitation Act applied, the suit being against the person guilty of the fraud, that it was immaterial that a possibly infructuous suit against the ostensible purchaser might have been instituted before the fraud became known to the plaintiff and that consequently the suit was within limitation. ISMAIL v. MUSSAMMAT BOJE. 89 P R 1911

LIMITATION ACT, 1908—contd.

Section 18—concld.

Section 22.

Where previous to suit for pre-emption the vendee has resold the land to another person who is not made a party till after expiry of limitation, the suit is barred.

See PRE-EMPTION. 84 P R 1911

Second Schedule, article 85.

1. Indian Limitation Act, IX of 1908, article 85—Reciprocal demands—Bahi account.

I. L. and others used to supply L. C. with capital by means of hundis and L. C. supplied them with goods. Up to the year 1954 Sambat the balance was sometimes in favour of I. L. and sometimes in favour of L. C. but after Sambat 1954 the balance was always in favour of I. L. though I. L. went on supplying cash and L. C. in turn supplied goods. Each year the balance was ascertained and carried over, but in Sambat 1959 a regular balance was struck and signed by L. C. It was contended by L. C. that after Sambat 1954 at any rate there was no mutuality, and that article 85 of the Indian Limitation Act, IX of 1908 was therefore inapplicable.

Held, by the Chief Court, that the suit was governed by article 85 of the Indian Limitation Act. IMRAT LAL v. LAL CHAND. 75 P R 1910

Second Schedule, article 144.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 144.

See SECTION 2 supra. 26 P R 1911 F. B.

—Adverse possession—When.

On partition of land a particular field remains in possession of A though allotted to B.

See LIMITATION. 81 P R 1911

Second Schedule, article 181.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 178.

2. Indian Limitation Act, IX of 1908—revision—Limitation for.

On the 25th April 1905 the Small Cause Court, Sialkot, dismissed plaintiff's suit for birt. On appeal the District Judge remanded the case and the Small Cause Court then decreed the claim, which however was dismissed on appeal to the District Judge. On revision the Chief Court held that no appeal lay to the District Judge and restored the order of the first Court. Plaintiffs then applied to the Chief Court for revision of the order of the first Court so restored and was met by the objection that his revision was long barred by time.

Held, by the Chief Court, that the situation was anomalous, but that revision was LIMITATION ACT, 1908—concld.

Second Schedule, article 181—concld.

barred by time under article 181 of the new Limitation Act, 1908, as also article 178 of the old Act. BEHARI LAL v. KALU. 92 P R 1910

LIMITATION ACT, I OF 1900 PUNJAB.

See PUNJAB LIMITATION ACT, 1900.

—Application of Punjab Loans Limitation Act, 1904, to rights already barred under the Limitation Act.

See PUNJAB LOANS LIMITATION ACT, 1904. 97 P R 1905

LINEAL MALE DESCENDANTS.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

40 P R 1894
43 P R 1895 F. B.
22 P R 1896 F. B.

LIQUIDATED DAMAGES.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 74.

1. Penalty—Interest.

See DAMAGES. 150 P R 1883
55 P R 1885

2. The defendant agreed to sell to plaintiff a plot of land, and bound himself in the contract of sale to pay Rs. 500 if he failed to perform his part of the agreement—Breach by defendant.

Held, that although the plaintiff had not sustained any special damage by the defendant's refusal to sell, the sum of Rs. 500 was to be considered as liquidated damages, and not as a penalty only. JOTI MULL v. MEHTAB SINGH. 23 P R 1871

3. Plaintiff purchased certain land from defendant and it was agreed amongst other things that if the defendant refused dakhil kharij he should pay plaintiff, "by way of "damages, without objection, the sum of "Rs. 500." Defendant afterwards refused to give up possession of the land or to effect dakhil kharij, on the false ground that plaintiff had not paid the whole of the purchase money. Plaintiff was compelled to sue for possession, and obtained a decree. He subsequently sued for the sum of Rs. 500, under the agreement above mentioned. Held, that plaintiff was entitled to recover the full sum of Rs. 500, as the agreement expressed that amount as being payable by way of liquidated damages and not as a penalty only; and that considering the loss plaintiff must have sustained by being kept so long out of possession, and the general circumstances of the case, Rs. 500 would be proper compensation. TELU MULL v. MUHKAM KHAN. 69 P R 1873

LIQUIDATION OF COMPANY.

See COMPANIES. 67 P R 1911

LIQUIDATOR.

—Of Company—Suit by—For call upon shares.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT—JURISDICTION OF. 97 P R 1881

LIS PENDENS.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. 2, R. 2.

1. Mortgage—Redemption of mortgage during pendency of suit Lis pendens.

While a suit for pre-emption of a mortgage with possession was pending, the mortgagor executed a simple bond for the same amount in substitution of the usufructuary mortgage-deed upon which the plaintiff was claiming pre-emption. The bond was written in December, whereas the mortgage-deed expressly stipulated that redemption could only take place in the month of Jeth.

Held, that the doctrine of lis pendens must be held to apply so as to prevent the defendants, in the action then pending, from doing anything which would defeat the object of that suit: that assuming that the plaintiff was entitled to claim pre-emption with respect to the mortgage, which the decree subsequently obtained by him and not appealed against must be held conclusively to have established, he acquired a right to have the mortgage transferred to him subject to all the terms and conditions of the original transaction, which right, when once he came forward to publicly assert it, could not be defeated without his consent by any act on the part of the mortgagor and mortgagee. Kharak Singh v. Bhup Chand (No. 27 P. R. 1874) and Kahna v. Dewa Singh (No. 62 P. R. 1879) cited. Mandu Khan v Sandhi.

102 P R 1888

2. Termination of litigation—Temporary injunction—Civil Procedure Code, section 492 —Effect of alienation in contravention of injunction.

A sued B for partition of certain ancestral property—Village X being one of those claimed. He also applied and obtained a temporary injunction under section 492, Civil Procedure Code, prohibiting the alienation of the property in dispute till the decision of the case. On 23rd August 1886 his claim to X was dismissed, but a decree was passed in his favour as to other property and for mesne profits, which were to be ascertained in execution of decree. Before the mesne profits had been ascertained, B mortgaged X to C, A attached X in execution. C sued A to establish his mortgage. A pleaded that the mortgage was invalid, having been made pendente lite as mesne profits had not then been ascertained, and the suit must consequently be taken as pending, and also because it was made in contravention of the injunction, Held, (i), that the litigation as respects X ended on the date when the claim to X was dismissed, and that the mortgage was not therefore made pendente lite.

(ii) That whatever penalty the party disobeying the injunction might be liable to, the alienation was not void on that ground. Kale Khan v. Kirpal Singh.

144 P R 1889

LIS PENDENS—contd.

3. Lis pendens—Contentious suit—Property.

On 16th November 1885 K. S. obtained a decree against V. M. (the plaintiff in the present suit), declaring that certain land was his and not the property of V. M.

On 4th January 1886 V M. filed an appeal from the above decree in the Divisional Court. The preliminary hearing of the appeal took place on 5th January 1886, when the files were called for.

On 27th January 1886 the appeal was admitted, and notice of appeal ordered to issue to the respondent, K. S.

On 5th May 1886 the Divisional Judge accepted V. M.'s appeal, and dismissed K. S.'s suit, and this decree was upheld on appeal to the Chief Court on 23rd July 1886.

Meanwhile, on 8th January 1886, that is to say after the appeal to the Divisional Court had been filed, but before notice thereof had been served upon him, K. S. sold to C. S. (the defendant in the present suit), by registered deed, the whole of the land for which he K. S. had obtained a declaratory decree on 16th November 1885.

After the final dismissal of K. S.'s suit by the Chief Court, V. M. filed the present suit to recover from C. S. a portion of the land which K. S. purported to sell to C. S. on 8th January 1886.

Held, that the doctrine of lis pendens did not apply to the sale of 8th January 1886, such sale having taken place after the appeal to the Divisional Court was filed, but before notice of the appeal issued to the respondent, and that C. S.'s registered deed of that date must prevail, and formed a complete answer to V. M.'s present suit for possession.

I. L. R. XV Calc. 647 and I. L. R. XII Mad. 180 followed. Chet Singh v. Vadhawa Mal.

30 P R 1891

Overruled by 80 P R 1903 F B

4. Lis pendens—Mortgage—Mortgagor's title based on ex parte decree—Ex parte decree subsequently set aside—Rights of mortgagee.

One J., whose title was based on an ex parte decree in his favour, mortgaged certain land in favour of one I. D., the predecessor in interest of the defendants. Subsequently to the said mortgage the present plaintiffs succeeded in having the ex parte decree set aside, and thereafter sued to recover the land. The present defendants, in reply, set up the mortgage in favour of I. D., but plaintiffs denied its validity. The lower Courts decreed plaintiffs' claim on the ground that J.'s title was based on the ex parte decree and was defeated when the said decree was set aside. Defendants appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, that the mortgage was valid and binding on plaintiffs. The mortgage having been effected by J. at a time when his title had been established by the decree of a competent Court, the mortgagee's right to the land mortgaged became on the transfer completely vested in him and could not be divested from him on the ex parte decree being set aside.

LIS PENDENS—contd.

The rule of lis pendens has no more application to proceedings for setting aside an ex parate decree than to proceedings in review or on a bill of error, and none of those proceedings are a continuation of the suit so far as the said rule is concerned. Muhammad Ashiq v. Pars Ram.

56 P R 1896

Overruled by 80 P R 1903 F B

5. Lis pendens—Registered and unregistered deeds—Registration Act, 1877, section 50.

Section 50 of the Registration Act, 1877, gives priority to registered documents of certain specified classes, as regards property comprised therein, over unregistered documents relating to the same property, not being decrees or orders, provided, in the latter case, that such decrees or orders are prior in point of date to the registered document.

Where, however, an unregistered mortgagee had already brought his suit to enforce his mortgage, held, that a mortgage, by registered deed, of the same property made during the litigation must, in accordance with the principles of lis pendens, be treated as subject to the result of the suit. Pir Bakhsh v. Kadir Bakhsh.

32 P R 1893

6. Suit for pre-emption—Sale by vendee after institution of suit to rival pre-emptor—Fraudulent transaction—" superior diligence"—Lis pendens.

On the 3rd May 1894 one M sold certain premises in Delhi to defendant No. 2 for a sum of Rs. 6,000, and on the 1st December 1894 the latter sold the same premises to defendant No. 3 for Rs. 7,000. Plaintiff thereupon instituted a suit for pre-emption, and immediately after the institution of the suit defendant No. 3 sold the premises for Rs. 12,000 to defendant No. 4, who within a fortnight, sold them to defendant No. 5 at the same figure. It was found by the Chief Court, on appeal, (a) that defendant No. 5 had rights of pre-emption in respect of the premises, but that plaintiff's pre-emptive rights were not inferior; (b) that the sales by defendants Nos. 3 and 4 were colourable transactions intended to defeat plaintiff's claim; and (c) that defendant No. 5, though a pre-emptor, had not acted bonâ fide and had joined in an intrigue for fictitiously raising the price against plaintiff and adding to the difficulties of the latter in the matter of proving his claim. On these findings it was Held, that issues not having been fixed in plaintiff's suit, the doctrine of lis pendens was not strictly applicable.

But held (without questioning the right of defendant No. 3 to transfer the property, if he thought fit to do so, before a decree for pre-emption had been passed against him), that as the price of the sales by defendants Nos. 3 and 4 had been fixed in bad faith, plaintiff, a bonâ fide pre-emptor with rights of pre-emption not inferior to those of defendant No. 5, had taken such action as showed superior diligence on his part, and was therefore entitled to a decree for pre-emption on payment of the amount fixed by the lower Court. RAM CHAND v. M. ABDUL HAK.

LIS PENDENS—contd.

32 P R 1899

7. Lis pendens—Alienation of property pending suit relating thereto—Transfer of Property Act, 1882, section 54.

Held, that dealings with the property in suit effected after notice of suit brought in the Court of first instance and before the decision in appeal by the final Court of Appeal, at whatever time between these two periods they may occur, are dealings effected pendente lite and subject to the doctrine of lis pendens.

Chet Singh v. Vadhawa Mal (30 P. R. 1891) and Muhammad Ashiq v. Pars Ram (56 P. R. 1896) overruled. Bellamy v. Sabine (L. R. 26 L. J. Ch. 797), Sada Sivayyar v. Muttu Sabapathi Chetti (I. L. R. V Mad. 106), Sri-Sri-Sri-Gajapathi Radhika Patta Mahadevi Garu v. Sri Gajopati Radhamani Mahadevi Garu (I. L. R. VII Mad. 96), Aboo v. Annamalai (I. L. R. XII Mad. 180), Jagendra Chunder Ghose v. Fulkumari Dassi and others (I. L. R. XXVII Calc. 77), Venkatis Govind v. Maruti (I. L. R. XII Bom. 217), Gobind Chander Roy v. Guru Charan Kurmokar (I. L. R. XV Calc. 94), Radhasyam Mahopattra v. Sibu Panda and another (I. L. R. XV Calc. 647). and Deno Nath Ghose v. Shama Bibi (I. L. R. XXVIII Calc. 23), referred to and considered. HAKIM SINGH v. CHARAN DAS.
80 P R 1903 F B

8. Lis pendens—Suit for pre-emption—Consent decree in a subsequent suit brought during the pendency of the original suit—Right of decree-holder against original) pre-emptor.

During the pendency of a pre-emption suit the original vendee allowed a consent pre-emption decree to be passed against him in favour of a person who had notice of the original suit and wished the sale to the original vendee to be maintained, held, that the latter transaction must be deemed to be a sale reduced into the form of a decree and subject to the law of lis pendens and therefore ineffectual against the original pre-emptor.

Nathu Ram v. Kalian Das (I. L. R. XXVI All. 522), referred to. HARNAM SINGH v. JIWAN.
7 P R 1906

9. Suit for pre-emption—Sale by the original vendee to a pre-emptor with superior rights during the pendency of a prior suit by other claimants with inferior right—Doctrine of lis pendens, applicability of.

Held, that the doctrine of lis pendens does not apply to a sale of immovable property subject to a right of pre-emption by the original vendee in favour of a pre-emptor with superior rights, who had instituted a suit to enforce his rights during the pendency of similar suits by other claimants with inferior rights.

LIS PENDENS—concld.

Amirullah Shah v. Tabe Hussain (138 P. R. 1884), Mahtab-ud-din v. Karam Ilahi (73 P. R. 1898), Sarb Mal v. Hukam Singh (I. L. R. XX All. 100) referred to.

Harnam Singh v. Jiwan doubted. MUHAMMAD KHAN v. KHUDA BAKHSH. 26 P R 1908

10. Held, that a sale to one pre-emptor during the pendency of a suit by another pre-emptor does not place the former in a superior position to the latter. MUHAMMAD KHAN v. SARDAR. 7 P R 1910

11. Lis pendens—Pre-emption—Exchange of land during pendency of suit in favour of a pre-emptor having superior rights, after expiry of period of limitation.

Held, that the doctrine of lis pendens applies to an exchange of land made during the pendency of a suit for pre-emption, in favour of a person who had a superior right to pre-empt but who had not enforced that right and whose right to sue had become barred by lapse of time before the land was exchanged.

Muhammad Khan v. Khuda Bakhsh (26 P. R. 1908) distinguished. KARAM ALI v. SULTAN
30 P R 1911

12. Resale of property to another pre-emptor during pendency of pre-emption suit—Lis pendens.

Held, that where after the institution of a suit for pre-emption another pre-emptor asserted his right of pre-emption privately and the vendee, in recognition of his right, transferred the property to him, the doctrine of lis pendens did not apply to such transfer and tha tthe same would bar plaintiff's suit, unless plaintiff had superior rights of pre-emption to the transferee.

Narain Singh v. Parbat Singh (I. L. R. 23 All. 247) and Ghasitey v. Gobind Dass (I. L. R. 30 All. 467) not followed.

Muhammad Khan v. Khuda Bakhsh (26 P. R. 1908) and Muhammad Khan v. Sardar (7 P. R. 1910) concurred in. SUNDUR DAS v. SAJJAN SINGH. 53 P R 1911

LITIGATING UNDER THE SAME TITLE.

See RES JUDICATA. 6 P R 1886

LOCAL ENQUIRY.

—Omission to file record of evidence with report—Irregularity not affecting merits or jurisdiction.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE 1908, O. 26, R. 10. 161 P R 1882

LOCAL COMMISSIONER.

—Cannot administer oath referred to in sections 8, 9 and 10 of Indian Oaths Act, 1873.

See INDIAN OATHS ACT, 1874.
89 P R 1909

LOCUS STANDI OF AFTER-BORN SON.

—Alienation by Jat proprietor without male issue at the date of the alienation—Right of after-born son to contest such alienation on the ground of necessity.

See CUSTOM I. A. ALIENATION. 7. LOCUS STANDI OF REVERSIONERS —AND WIDOWS. 55 P R 1903 F B

LOCUS STANDI OF THIRD PARTIES.

—Oral gift of immovable property creating charitable trust—Trust of immovable property—Indian Trust Act, 1882, section 5—Locus standi of third parties to contest gift.

See TRUST. 75 P R 1903

LOCUS STANDI.

1. Of collaterals in eighth degree to contest gift by childless proprietor to a pichhlag.

See CUSTOM—I. A. ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETORS. (j) STRANGER
63 P R 1909

2. Status of alienee of reversionary right to contest an alienation.

See CUSTOM—I. A. ALIENATION—7. LOCUS STANDI OF REVERSIONERS AND WIDOWS. 67 P R 1909

3. Reversioners of son-in-law, to whom land was gifted for benefit of daughter and her issue, have no locus standi to contest alienation of it.

See CUSTOM—I. A. ALIENATION—7. LOCUS STANDI OF REVERSIONERS AND WIDOWS. 102 P R 1909

4. Of collaterals to contest gift made by a widow in favour of her daughter—Sayyad of Chuena, District Gurgaon.

See CUSTOM—I. ALIENATION—B. ALIENATION BY WIDOW. (a) GIFTS.
58 P R 1910

5. Of sister of last male owner to contest gift by widow.

See CUSTOM—I. ALIENATION. B. ALIENATION BY WIDOWS. (b) SALES AND MORTGAGES. 60 P R 1910

6. Of collateral residing in another village to contest an alienation by mother and widow.

See CUSTOM—I. ALIENATION. B. ALIENATION BY WIDOW. (b) SALES AND MORTGAGES. 71 P R 1910

LOCUS STANDI OF REVERSIONER.

1. To contest adoption.

See CUSTOM—III APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—ADOPTION—LOCUS STANDI OF REVERSIONER AND OTHERS TO CONTEST ADOPTION.

2. To contest alienation by a male proprietor.

See CUSTOM—I. A. ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—LOCUS STANDI OF REVERSIONER AND WIDOW.

3. To contest alienation by widow.

See CUSTOM—B. ALIENATION BY WIDOW.

4. To contest alienation of occupancy rights.

See CUSTOM—I. ALIENATION OF OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

LUGGAGE.

—Luggage in charge of passenger—Liability of Railway for the loss thereof.

See RAILWAY ACT, 1890.
56 P R 1897

LUNACY ACT, 1858.
Section 3.

Held, that the term "relative" in section 3 of the Lunacy Act, XXXV of 1858, does not include a person who is merely a member of the alleged lunatic's tribe. Such person is therefore incapable of making an application for an inquiry into the matter of lunacy under that Act. MUHAMMAD YAR v. ILAHI BAKHSH. 94 P R 1906

1879

LUNACY ACT, 1858—contd.

Section 3—concld.

Section 22.

Held, that an appeal from an order passed by a District Judge under the Lunacy Act, XXXV of 1858, where the property involved exceeds Rs. 5,000 in value, lies to the Chief Court. MUHAMMAD YAR v. ILAHI BAKHSH. 94 P R 1906

LUNATIC.

—Suit by next friend of—

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII. R. 15. 13 P R 1896

IDIOT.

—Inquiry as to lunacy on application by a relative—Appeal, course of.

See LUNACY ACT, 1858, SECTIONS 3, 22. 94 P R 1906

—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 463 —Suit on behalf of alleged lunatic not so adjudged—Appointment by Court of guardian ad litem—Practice—Act XXXV of 1858.

Held, that where a person is alleged to be of unsound mind, although he has not been adjudged to be so under Act XXXV of 1858 or by any other law for the time in force, he should be allowed, after ascertaining that he is in fact of unsound mind, to sue through his next friend. The Civil Courts are competent to order an enquiry and to appoint next friends or guardians ad litem in the case of lunatic plaintiffs and defendants.

Nabu Khan v. Sita (I. L. R. XX All. 2), Pran Sukhram v. Bhai Ladkor (I. L. R. XXIII Bom. 653 , Kadala Reddi v. Narisi (I. L. R. XXIV Mad. 504 , Cohen ex parte L. R. 10 Ch. Dn. 183 , and Uma Sundri Dasi v. Ramji Holdar (I. L. R. VII Calc. 242), cited and followed.

Kanwal Ram v. Bhawani Ram (13 P. R. 1896 dissented from. Muhammad Kalu Khan v. Saifulla Khan (91 P. R. 1887), referred to JANBA v. JOGA. 31 P R 1905

LUTHBUND.

See TENANCY ACT, SECTION 8.

M.

MAFIDAR.

1. Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), sections 30, 41—Settlement of mafi plots—Respective rights of mafidar and proprietor to be settled with.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that section 30 of the Land Revenue Act, 1871, applies to the Settlement of estates made in ordinary course when a district is under Settlement, but does not compel the Officer in charge of the Settlement to offer the assessment he puts upon mafi plots to the recorded proprietors. The assessments of mafi plots, which under departmental rules it is the duty of the Officer in charge of a Settlement to make in order to determine the nominal jama or land revenue demand upon which local rates and cesses will be payable, are made separately for each mafi plot in a summary way, and are separate processes from the assessment of the village or estate : they are not final, and are often set aside when a mafi is resumed and revenue has actually to be paid, and such assessments should not be brought into force in supersession of existing arrangements between mafidars and cultivators of mafi plots.

1880

MAFIDAR—contd.

Where a proprietor petitions the Settlement Officer to make the Settlement of a mafi plot with him and to determine what he is to pay to the mafidar, the Settlement Officer should, in deciding the case, be guided by the principles of the rules for the Settlement of mafi lands and other isolated portions of land made by the Local Government under section 41 of the Land Revenue Act. The intention of that section and of the rules made under it is to maintain in respect to the Settlement of mafi plots the principles which have all along prevailed in the Punjab, whereby at resumption the late mafidar or his heirs are under certain circumstances considered to have a better right to get the Settlement than the proprietors. BABA DHERA v. SHERA. 17 P R 1881 Rev

2. Suit by ex-mafidar with whom Settlement has been made to eject proprietors from land in their occupation—Right of mafidar to control cultivation merely by virtue of Settlement having been made with him—Mafidar's interest in the land during and after period of the mafi the real point for determination.

In a suit to eject the defendants from certain land in their occupation, it appeared that the plaintiff was the representative of certain persons formerly recorded as milki mafidars of certain land, including the land in suit, which was recorded as "shamilat deh" owned by all the proprietors, including the defendants, and which was under the cultivation of the defendants. In the recent Settlement, the Settlement for the land formerly mafi of the milki mafidars, was made with plaintiff, and mainly on this ground the lower Court decided that plaintiff was entitled to a decree, holding that plaintiff as the person responsible to Government for the revenue was entitled to treat defendants as his tenants, and to oust them unless they could show themselves entitled to occupancy rights against their landlord.

Held, that the question for decision really was, "Had the ex-mafidar any, and if so what interest in the land, which would entitle him to eject the defendants, and did that interest continue to exist after the land was assessed, and that no inference whatever could be drawn from the circumstance that the Settlement had been made with the ex-mafidar as to his rights prior to such Settlement, nor did such Settlement confer on the ex-mafidar any new rights over the management of the land." RAMJAS v. SANGAN LAL. 184 P R 1883

1881

MAFIDAR—contd.

3. Settlement of resumed mafi—Right of heirs of ex-mafidar—Cancellation of tenure created in favour of such heirs.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that a sub-Settlement of a resumed mafi, made with the heirs of the ex mafidar, should ordinarily be taken to enure, not only for the term of Settlement, but for the lives of the persons settled with : and therefore when a district is put under Settlement, the Settlement Officer in dealing with such holdings should not ordinarily re-open the question which was decided at the resumption of the mafi, but it should be assumed that the heirs of the mafidar have the status of sub-proprietors, or of mukarraridars (as described in para. 134 of Barkley's Directions to Settlement Officers), and a sub-Settlement of the plot should be made with them as before. Baba Dhera v. Shera (No. 17 P. R. 1881, Rev.) referred to. SURJAN SINGH v. GOPAL SINGH. 2 P R 1884 Rev

4. Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 30—Settlement of mafi plots—Assessment—Commutation of payments in kind into cash.

Baba Dhera v. Shera (No. 17 of 1881, Rev.) cited and followed by the Financial Commissioner.

A Settlement Officer is not bound to make a cash Settlement of a mafi plot between the recorded proprietors and the mafidar, nor is it just or fair to do so, where the actual cultivators are not parties to the case, and the mafidar has for two or three generations been taking his dues by "batai." Pundit Motee Lall v. Uttra (No. 7 P. R. 1867, Rev.) referred to. BABA TEJ NATH v. MUL RAJ. 1 P R 1885 Rev

5. Sub-Settlement—Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), Rule D-1-3, I—Cash and grain rates.

Held by the 2nd Financial Commissioner, that a sub-Settlement cannot be given to a mafidar or to a mafidar's heir unless his previous connection with the land has been of a proprietary character (as explained in Land Revenue Act, Rule D, I, 3, I,) nor can such a sub-Settlement be given if the owner is in cultivating possession or has otherwise had full proprietary control of the land. If the claim of the mafidar or his heir to a sub-Settlement cannot be established, the owner is entitled to an assessment at the rates sanctioned under the Land Revenue Act ; and no assignee of Government revenue is, as such, entitled to levy revenue in the form of a share of the produce. In short, the right of a mafidar to exclude an owner who desires to engage for assessment of land turns on the question whether the mafidar has enjoyed the proprietary management of the land to the exclusion of the owner. The mere receipt by the mafidar of a share of the produce is not sufficient to decide this issue in favour of the mafidar, because that share has been levied merely as revenue. If, over and above the receipt of that share, a considerable portion of the privileges of an owner as defined in Land Revenue Act, Rule D, I, 3, have been enjoyed by the mafidar, his claim to be continued in those privileges should be supported. If, on the other hand, he has not had any possession of the above nature, then the persons in proprietary possession are entitled, as of right, to a cash assesssment at the rates, and on the conditions, sanctioned by Government for each district, and the claim of the owner to such an assessment cannot be resisted merely on the ground that by agreement or custom a share of the produce has hitherto been received by the mafidar. Mullik Futteh Sher Khan v. Mullik SherBahadoor Khan (No. 6 P. R. 1868, Rev.), Balram Dass v. Gunga Ram (No. 1 P. R. 1869, Rev.), Baba Dhera v. Shera (No. 17 P. R. 1881, Rev.), and Baba Tej Nath v. Mul Raj (No. 1 P. R. 1885 Rev.) cited. SAIN HASHIM ALI v. FATTEH HAIDAR SHAH. 10 P R 1886 Rev.

MAFIDAR—contd.

6. Commutation of payment in kind into payment in cash.

In a claim by the proprietors of the village against the mafidar for commutation of the payment of their mafi dues in kind into payment in cash, it appeared that the mafidars did not own the tarafs to which the dispute related, and that the owners cultivated the said tarafs, partly themselves, and partly by tenants holding under them, and paying them half produce, the mafidars having nothing to do with the management of the land of the tarafs.

Held, by the second Financial Commissioner that under the above circumstances the mafidars could not compel the owners of the said taraf to continue to pay to them batai for the term of the new Settlement as they did under the expired Settlement. JAWAHIR SINGH v. TORRA. 4 P R 1887 Rev.

7. Death of mafidar—Resumption of mafi—Settlement made with heir or mafidar—Right of heir to retain possession against the owners

In a reference under section 617, Civil Procedure Code, the Divisional Judge stated the point referred (with a full explanation) as follows:—"When a mafidar not being an owner of land, has during the continuance of his mafi grant a right (otherwise than as tenant) to retain possession of the mafi land against the owners and such mafidar has died and the mafi has been resumed but the settlement has been made with an heir of the mafidar, has such heir the right (otherwise than tenant) to retain possession against the owners?"

Held, that the answer to the question, whether the heir is entitled to retain possession against the (original) owners after he has been settled with, depends entirely on the terms of the original grant to him by the owners, and is unaffected by Settlement operations SANTA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT BUDHWANTI

108 P R 1892

MAFIDAR—concld.

1. Suit by—Jurisdiction.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT.

16 P R 1882
131 P R 1882
123 P R 1883
84 P R 1884
160 P R 1884
12 P R 1886 Rev.

2. Suit by recorded mafidar of one field for produce of another field in which his right as mafidar was denied.

Plaintiff being the recorded mafidar of field A, sued for the produce of field B, of which the plaintiff alleged and defendant denied that he was mafidar.

Held, that the decision of the question whether plaintiff was mafidar of B. was excluded from the cognizance of the Civil Court by section 4 of the Pensions Act (XXIII of 1871) and section 9 of the said Act did not apply, as plaintiff had not offered to prove that the Government now admitted his right to B. DIWAN v. KARM CHAND. 11 P R 1887

3. Suit for revenue by.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 1 P R 1888

4. Suit including claim to mafi—Sum granted as mafi was unascertained because land never assessed to land revenue—Procedure.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 25 P R 1900

5. Resumption of mafi—Settlement made with heir of mafidar—Rights of heir—Acquisition of occupancy rights by tenants who were some of the joint owners of the holding as against such heir.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

3 P R 1908 Rev.

6. Claim to occupancy rights—Ex-mafidar.

See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 5. 73 P R 1887
110 P R 1887

MAHANT.

See APPEAL, CIVIL. 56 P R 1895
See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION.

1. Suit for removal of mahant and declaration of right to appoint a successor, and to enforce the provisions of a will.

See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, SECTION 7 (iv) c. 58 P R 1893

2. Right of sewaks or worshippers to remove a mahant for alleged misconduct.

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION.

122 P R 1890

3. Nirmla Sadhs—Mahant—Nomination of chela by, as his successor—Consent of gurbhai.

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION.

37 P R 1891

4. Appointment or deposition of mahant —Powers of Bhekh—Chitta Akhara, Amritsar City.

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION.

3 P R 1899

5. Power of, to alienate immovable property belonging to a shrine.

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION.

3 P R 1902

MAHANT.—concld.

6. Liability of Religious Institution for debts incurred by Mahant—Duty of lender when advancing money to heads of Religious Institutions—Necessity

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION.

45 P R 1903

7. Right of supporters or worshippers of a Religious Institution to remove a mahant for immorality.

In a suit by a person claiming as the lawful mahant of a dera for recovery of possession thereof and of the lands attached thereto where it appeared that the plaintiff enticed away a young widow from the village and had gone off with such property belonging to the dera as he was able to seize, and deserted the dera which had been entirely supported by the villagers, and in the arrangements for which they had always taken a predominant part, and had after the plaintiff's desertion installed another mahant in his place, and to which appointment the bhekh had taken no exception, either as to the rejection of plaintiff or as to the appointment of the substitute in his place.

Held, that the plaintiff's conduct being unworthy of his office, the worshippers of the dera were fully justified in removing and competent to remove him and to appoint his successor.

Bawa Sukhram Das v. Barhampuri (122 P. R. 1890) and Giyan Parkash v. Hazura Singh (3 P. R. 1899), referred to. ASA RAM v. HARI SINGH AND OTHERS. 53 P R 1904

MAHAZ

—Rule of.

See ALLUVION AND DILUVION.

45 P R 1888

MUHOMMADAN LAW.

1. ACKNOWLEDGMENT.
2. ADOPTION.
3. ALIENATION OTHER THAN GIFT.
4. DIVORCE.
5. DOWER.
6. GIFT.
7. GUARDIAN.
8. IDDAT.
9. INHERITANCE.
10. JOINT FAMILY.
11. LEGITIMACY.
12. MARRIAGE.
13. MINORITY.
14. WAKF.
15. WIDOW.
16. WILL.
17. RULE OF MUHAMMADAN LAW WHEN SUPERSEDED.

See ADULTERY.
CONJUGAL RIGHTS.
CUSTOM—VIII. MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION.
" —III. APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—(o). RULE OF DECISION.
" I—ALIENATION—J. RULE OF DECISION.

1. ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

1. Inheritance—Son of Hindu by Muhammadan—Apostacy of father.

MUHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

1. ACKNOWLEDGMENT—contd.

G. S., a Hindu, cohabited with a Muhammadan woman by whom he had a son, the defendant. After defendant's birth, G. S. turned Muhammadan and married defendant's mother. G. S. always acknowledged defendant as his son. Held, that defendant was entitled to inherit G. S.'s property. GURMUKH SINGH v. MALLA. 12 P R 1872

2. Legitimacy—Presumption of marriage—Custom of Mandal family—Rights of widow—Jagir.

Per BOULNOIS, J.—The acknowledgment of a son renders that person the legitimate son of the acknowledger under Muhammadan Law, although the person acknowledged was born out of wedlock. The acknowledgment of a son raises a presumption of marriage between the acknowledger and mother of the person acknowledged; but the presumption is one of fact only, and may be rebutted, the burden of proof lying on those who allege that there was no marriage. Per LINDSAY, J.—The acknowledgment of a boy as a son, coupled with continued co-habitation with the boy's mother, raises by Muhammadan Law a presumption of marriage when such marriage is not illegal and not absolutely impossible. The boy acknowledged is the son and heir of the acknowledger. The burden of proving that a custom prevails overriding the law, is on those who desire to have the case decided according to such custom. Found, that in the Mandal Family there was no custom contrary to the Muhammadan Law of legitimation by acknowledgment, and that in that family sons acknowledged share equally with sons born in wedlock. Found, that in the Mandal Family a widow was excluded by custom from inheriting any portion of her husband's estate. Where a jagir was limited to A and "the heirs male of his body lawfully begotten," held, that sons made legitimate by acknowledgment were included in the words of limitation. MUSSAMMAT LALLI BEGAM v. NAWAB MUHAMMAD AZMAT ALI KHAN. 13 P R 1875

3. Presumption of marriage.

Plaintiff, alleging herself to be the lawful widow of Hyder Ali, deceased, sued for her share in his property. In a former suit her son, Azim Ali, was declared the legitimate son by acknowledgment of Hyder Ali deceased. The court of first instance held that the acknowledgment by Hyder Ali of Azim Ali as his son, raised a legal presumption of the plaintiff having been married to Hyder Ali, rebuttable only on the ground of legal impossibility, which impossibility was not shown to exist. It accordingly held plaintiff to have been the lawful wife of Hyder Ali, and gave plaintiff a decree.

The additional Commissioner on appeal disagreed with the first Court, holding the presumption to be only one of fact, and not of law, and went into independent evidence on the point as to whether plaintiff was or was not acknowledged as wife by Hyder Ali. Finding plaintiff had been so acknowledged, the Additional Commissioner maintained the first Court's decree.

MUHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

1. ACKNOWLEDGMENT—concld.

Held, that by Muhammadan Law, the acknowledgment by Hyder Ali of Azim Ali as his son, entitled plaintiff, the mother of Azim Ali, to claim the status of a wife. MUSSAMMAT JANI BEGAM v. MUSSAMMAT MUNNI. 71 P R 1877

4. Acknowledgment of son—Legitimation—Legal obstacle to marriage.

D., an undivorced woman, left her husband K., who was still living, and went and lived continuously with one J. by whom she had three children.

Held, assuming there was a marriage between J. and D. that D. being undivorced the marriage could not legally have taken place and that, therefore, the offspring of the connection, even if the paternity was acknowledged by J., was incapable of being legitimated according to Muhammadan Law. Mussammat Lali Begam v. Nawab Mahomed Azmat Ali Khan (No. 13 P. R. 1875), distinguished. MUSSAMMAT DHAMMI v. MEHTAB KHAN. 71 P R 1878

5. Muhammadan Law—Acknowledgment—Child born more than 280 days after the dissolution of his mother's marriage, but less than 6 months after second marriage—Legitimacy of—Indian Evidence Act, I of 1872, section 112.

One Mussammat R. was divorced by her first husband on the 1st October 1895. She married G. N. on the 4th February 1896 and bore a child on the 17th July 1896, the child was thus born more than 280 days after the dissolution of his mother's marriage with her first husband but less than 6 months after her marriage with G. N. The plaintiff contended that under Muhammadan Law no acknowledgment of paternity by G. N. could legitimise the child, and it was found that the iddat of repudiation had terminated before the marriage with G. N. although the child must have been procreated before the termination of that iddat G. N. acknowledged the child and treated it as his own.

Held, that the marriage of Mussammat R, with G. N. though irregular, was not void, that when the child was born a marriage between his mother and G. N. subsisted; that section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, was applicable to the case and the child was entitled to inherit to G. N. as his legitimate son. NUR-UL-HASAN v. MUHAMMAD HASAN. 78 P R 1910

2. ADOPTION.

See CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR

An adopted son under Muhammadan Law, has only such rights as the adoptive father may expressly confer on him. ELHYA v. KANHA. 12 P R 1871

3. ALIENATION (OTHER THAN GIFT)

See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION.

1 In matters of alienation the Koreshis of mauza Kareli, Pind Dadan Khan tahsil in the Jhelum District, notwithstanding the fact that they were notified as an agricultural tribe for the purposes of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900, were found to be governed by the principles of their personal law. JOWAHIR SINGH v. YAQUB SHAH. 5 P R 1906

MUHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

3. ALIENATION (OTHER THAN GIFT)—concld.

But the Sayads of mauza Khanpur in the Hoshiarpur District who were not so notified under section 4 of that Act were held to be governed by the general custom prevailing amongst agricutural tribes of the Province. FAQIR MUHAMMAD v. FAZAL MUHAMMAD. 16 P R 1906

2. Lohars of Kotli Loharan, Sialkot District, who are generally a manufacturing class, were held in matters of Alienation to be governed by Muhammaadan Law. UMAR DIN v. JANTO. 101 P R 1906

4. DIVORCE.

See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL—DOWER—MARRIAGE—DIVORCE.
CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 23.
DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE.
DIVORCE.

1. Divorce—Act XXI of 1850.

By Muhamamdan Law, apostacy from Islam by one of a married pair, cancels the marriage ipso facto without a judicial decree. Penitence or returning to the faith does not restore the marriage tie: nothing short of a re-marriage can effect that. Reviling or speaking blasphemously of the prophet Muhammad is an act of apostacy, Act XXI of 1850 has not altered or affected the Muhammadan Law in respect of cancellation of marriage by apostacy (LINDSAY J. dissenting as to this) NOWROZ ALI v. MUSSAMMAT AZIZ BIBI. 124 P R 1876

2. Conversion to Christianity—Apostacy from Islam—Dissolution of marriage.

Held, that according to Muhammadan Law when one of the parties to a Muhammadan marriage adopts bonâ fide the Christian religion that party renounces. Islam, and such renunciation ipso facto terminates the relation of husband and wife. Nowroz Ali v. Mussammat Aziz Bibi (No. 124 P. R 1876, F. B.) referred to. MUSSAMMAT KHAN BIBI v. PIR SHAH. 132 P R 1884

3. Custody of wife—Agreement to divorce—Khula—Agreement opposed to public policy.

A., a Muhammadan husband, took unto himself a second wife C. whereupon his first wife, B., left him. A. followed her and in order to induce her to return to him executed an agreement by which he agreed to divorce C. in four months, and promised that in default he should have no claim on B., who might then marry any one she liked. B. on her part executed a deed agreeing to renounce all claim to her dower in case A. did not divorce C. On the expiration of four months, A did not divorce C. B. continued to live in the same house with A. for some time, after which she left. A. then sued for custody of B. B. pleaded that she had been irrevocably divorced by Khula.

MUHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

4. DIVORCE—concld.

Held, that there had been no "Khula." Neither party wished for a divorce absolute. B. only wished for one in case A. did not divorce C. within four months. There was only an agreement to divorce, no actual repudiation, but a suspension of repudiation on acceptance by B. which acceptance had to be notified by her on the termination of four months. As B did not signify her acceptance at the proper time, there was no divorce.

Held, also, that the agreement was void, its object and consideration being unlawful and opposed to public policy. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT SAHIB JAN. 193 P R 1889

4. Muhammadan Law—Husband and wife—Divorce—Apostacy.

The parties were husband and wife and subject to Muhammadan Law. The husband in a fit of anger uttered disrespectful language regarding the law and the prophet, but there was nothing toshow that he intended thereby it was to be understood that he had no belief in Muhammad with respect to all that came down to him from Almighty God, or that there was any intention on his part to apostatise.

Held, that the marriage between the parties was not dissolved.

No. 124 P. R. 1876, and I. L. R. II All. 71, referred to. MUSSAMMAT NANI JAN v. HUSSAIN BAKHSH. 106 P R 1891

5. Dissolution of marriage by reason of wife's apostacy.

Held, that under Muhammadan Law, the deliberate repudiation of the Muhammadan religion by one of the parties to a marriage effects a dissolution of such marriage. ALLAH BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT AMIR BEGAM.

61 P R 1899

6. Muhammadan Law—Marriage—Wife's conversion to Christianity—Dissolution of marriage.

Held, that according to Muhammadan Law, a wife's conversion from Islam to Christianity effects a complete dissolution of her existing marriage with her Muhammadan husband.

Mussammat Khan Bibi v. Pir Shah (134 P. R. 1884), Allah Bakhsh v. Mussammat Amir Begam (61 P. R. 1899), Zuburdast Khan In re (2 N.-W. P. 370), and Nowroz Ali v. Mussammat Aziz Bibi (124 P. R. 1876, F. B. cited and followed. IMAM DIN v. HASAN BIBI.

85 P R 1906

7. Husband and wife—Divorce—Remarriage of divorced couple—Illegality of such marriage.

Held, that among Muhammadans of the Hanafi sect a husband cannot contract a valid marriage with his divorced wife, unless and until the latter has been married to another man and separated from him either by death or divorce. BARKAT BIBI v. JALAL DIN.

97 P R 1903

MUHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

5.—DOWER.

See DOWER,
See CUSTODY OF WIFE.

1. By Muhammadan Law, a husband cannot maintain a suit for restitution of conjugal rights until he pays the prompt dower fixed at the time of marriage. MUSSAMMAT ZEBO v. JEWAN KHAN. 35 P R 1873

2. Charge on estate—Heir's power of alienation—Liability for debts of deceased.

In a suit by a Muhammadan widow to obtain a declaration of her lien for dower on a house, the property of the deceased husband, mortgaged by the sons of the deceased to the defendants and attached by them in execution of a decree for the mortgage debt, it not being shown that the house was held by the plaintiff on account of her dower, held, that the widow's claim to dower could not be regarded as constituting a lien upon the property or upon any particular portion of it, though if the husband's estate was divided through the agency of the Courts, it would be necessary to provide for dower and other debts before setting apart the the shares of the several heirs.

Held, further, that it is not correct to say that no right by inheritance accrued till all the deceased's debts were paid, as the heirs took the estate subject to the liability for all debts payable out of it, and the dower in the present case, not being a charge, but merely a debt payable out of the deceased's estate, was no obstacle to a mortgage or other alienation of part of the estate. MUSSAMMAT MAKHT BIBI v. GULAM MUHAMMAD. 96 P R 1880

3. Custom—Muajjal and Muwajjal.

Plaintiff sued her husband, the defendant, for Rs. 100 as prompt dower, producing a deed of settlement in which a dower of Rs. 300 was recorded, out of which plaintiff made defendant a present of Rs. 100. One of defendant's pleas was that the Rs. 200 was only due to plaintiff if he divorced her, i. e., that the whole sum was deferred dower. No custom was proved under which the whole of the dower in such cases would be regarded as deferred when no part of it had been expressly made prompt.

Held, with reference to the above plea, reversing the orders of the lower Courts, that plaintiff was entitled to recover ⅓rd of Rs. 200, as prompt dower.

Case remanded to dispose of defendant's plea of payment. MUSSAMMAT KARIM BIBI v. VILAYAT ALI SHAH. 109 P R 1880

4. Reduction of amount fixed—Custom—Intention of parties to contract—"Proper dower."

In a suit by a Muhammadan lady for Rs. 50,000 as dower, held, that the Court has no jurisdiction to reduce the amount of dower fixed to what it considers a reasonable amount, except on proof of custom allowing such reduction, or unless it finds that the amount fixed was merely nominal, and that neither of the parties intended that Kabin-ama should be acted upon. In the latter case the woman would be entitled to her "proper dower" to be determined according to the principles laid down by the Muhammadan Law. MUSSAMMAT SAHIBZADI BEGAM v. MUSSAMMAT SAID-UL-NISSA BEGAM. 123 P R 1880

MUHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

5. DOWER—concld.

5. Reduction of dower—Reasonable amount.

In a suit for dower plaintiff claimed Rs. 4,000 from the heirs of her deceased husband out of a fixed dower of Rs. 7,000. The lower appellate Court gave plaintiff a decree for Rs. 3,045 and costs, out of which. Rs. 1,045 was allowed on account of the penalty plaintiff had to pay as the deed of dower was unstamped considering that a net sum of Rs. 2,000 was a reasonable amount for plaintiff to recover.

Held, by the Chief Court on defendants' appeal, that this amount was not unreasonable or improper under the circumstances of the case. MUHAMMAD WAZIR BEG v. MUSSAMMAT FATIMA BEGUM. 7 P R 1881

6. Capacity of minor to contract to pay dower.

Quære, whether a Muhammadan minor can validly contract to pay dower. KHUDA BAKSH v. MUSSAMMAT ABADI. 155 P R 1884

6. GIFT.

See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION.

1. Death-bed gift—Hiba-bil-iwaz.
See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 25.
61 P R 1893
LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 91.
52 P R 1895
DEATH-BED GIFT. 15 P R 1895

2. Gift of undivided share of joint holding—Mushaa—Gift with condition attached—Voidability of gift.

See CUSTOM I. ALIENATION B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW (a) GIFTS.
91 P R 1894

3 A Muhammadan can in his lifetime give away the whole of his property if there be no custom to the contrary. HAJEE v. GHAZEE (No. 102 P. R. 1866), ; and KURM v. JOOMA. 16 P R 1867 Rev.

4. A gift to a lunatic is, by Muhammadan law, valid. Delivery to a son or lunatic niece, is not necessary to complete a gift.—MIRZA MAHOMED BEG v. MUSSAMMAT HOOSAINEE KHANUM. 74 P R 1867

5. Possession.

By Muhammadan Law, possession is generally necessary to complete a gift. B, a short time before his death, executed and registered a deed of gift of his land to F, and assembling the tenants, declared F, proprietor in place of himself. After B's death his son A, disputed the validity of the gift. Held, that as the donor remained in possession and managed the estate and acted as proprietor up to the date of his death, the gift failed, not having been followed by possession. FUTTEH KHAN v. ALLAYAR KHAN. 107 P R 1868

MUHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

6. GIFT—contd.

6. By Muhammadan Law, a gift made inter vivos by a father to his married daughter, followed by possession, is valid, provided it be not made in a death-disease. A death-disease is not necessarily a disease of which a man dies, but a disease which is generally looked upon as fatal, or from which he is in daily expectation of death. MEERAN BUKSH v. PEEROO. 29 P R 1868

7. A Shiah wife, living separately from her husband and supporting herself, is at liberty during her lifetime to gift away the whole of her property. MUSSAMMAT MEHROOL-NISSA v. WAZEER ALI. 75 P R 1868

8. Property in the possession of a mortgagee cannot, under Muhammadan Law, be made the subject of a gift to any one but the mortgagee, as actual possession is essential to the validity of a gift. But where the heirs of the donor acknowledged a gift of a share in mortgaged property by allowing the donee to join with them in suing for redemption, held, that the donee was entitled to the share which the donor intended to pass under the gift. NUJEEB ALI v. HYDER ALI. 61 P R 1871

9. Death-bed gift and legacy—Consent of some of the heirs—Revocation.

A death-bed gift or a legacy, under Muhammamdan Law, does not require the consent of all the heirs : if some consent and the rest dissent, the gift or legacy is valid quoad the shares of the former. Such consent cannot be revoked, if given after the donor's or testator's death. FUZL AHMED v. ROSHUN DIN. 37 P R 1872

10 "Mooshâ."

Mussammat M and another were possessed of a house and piece of land which they held in undivided shares. Mussammat M. gave her half share to defendant. Plaintiffs her heirs, after death sued to set aside the gift. The parties were Muhammadans. Held, that if the house and land admitted of partition consistently with the preservation of all the uses which might be made of it before partition, the gift was invalid. MUHAMMAD KHAN v. MUHAMMAD IBRAHIM. 53 P R 1873

11 In 1860, H. a Muhammadan, who had then five sons, of whom plaintiff was the eldest and the defendant the fifth, executed a deed purporting to give a small portion of his property to each of his four elder sons and the remainder to the defendant. The plaintiff and his father were on bad terms at the time ; the defendant was a minor The property wa not divided off according to the terms of the deed, and H. remained in possession till his death in 1873, the defendant acting as his manager. H. left eight sons in 1873. Held, that though under certain circumstances the non-delivery of possession to a donee does not invalidate a gift under the Muhammdan Law, yet in the present case the circumstances generally showed an incomplete gift a deed executed rather by way of a threat to one of the executant's sons than as an instrument intended to pass property by way of a gift. NIZAM-UD-DIN v. MAHOMED NUR. 76 P R 1875

12. Delivery of possession—Minor— Mushaa.

One H., a childless Muhammadan Jat proprietor, took the defendant, his daughter's son and a minor, to live with him, and executed a deed of gift of his land in the boy's favour, which was followed by mutation of names in the donor's lifetime. In a suit brought by the nephews of H. after H.'s death, to eject the defendant, the lower Courts held the gift to the defendant invalid, (1) because it was not followed by the exclusive possession of the donee, and (2) because it was of a portion of a joint holding, and therefore the Muhammadan law of mushaa applied.

Held, by the Chief Court (1) that the gift was not incomplete because exclusive possession was not given to the donee, and, further, that the possession of the donor on behalf of the minor donee was under the Muhammadan law equivalent to the possession of the donee.

Held (2), that as the donor's share in the estate was definite and capable of being dealt with as separate property, a gift of that share was not a gift of an undivided part of a thing and therefore was not subject to the Muhammadan law relating to mushaa, even if the application of that law to the holdings of agriculturists was not excluded by village custom.

Held further, that even if the gift were invalid under the mushaa rule, the defect was cured in the present case by the donor having done all that was possible to render his own possession that of the minor donee. Mirza Mahomed Beg v. Mussammat Hoosainee Khanum (No. 74 P. R. 1867), cited. HYAT MUHAMMAD v. DINA. 19 P R 1881

13. Death-bed gift, validity of—Custom —Mode of enjoyment by widow of her husband's property among Moghals—Widow's right to separate possession.

A gift found to have been made on his death-bed by a Muhammadan proprietor of all his property to his nephew to the exclusion of the widow, held to be valid to the extent of ⅓rd of the property only under the rule of Muhammadan law, no custom having been established rendering the gift thus made operative to the full extent of the donor's property.

Held further, there being no special custom established among the parties (Moghals of the Rawalpindi district) as to the mode of enjoyment by the widow of her husband's property, that she was entitled in the present case to a declaration of her right to the estate jointly with the nephew, their respective shares being ⅔rds and ⅓rd, and the widow being entitled to separate possession of ⅔rds of the estate for her life, the specific lands to be enjoyed by her being ascertained as usual by the Revenue authorities. Nupa Singh v. Mussammat Sobrai (No. 116 P. R. 1879), and Mussammat Hussan Bibi v. Fatteh Mahomed (No. 156 P. R 1879), cited. MUSSAMMAT BAKHT BEGUM v. FAJA KHAN. 104 P R 1881

14. Gift made to two donees, without defining their shares—Possession—Validity of gift.

According to Muhammadan law, though there is a difference of opinion between the Doctors as to the validity of a gift to two persons or more of property that admits of partition such a gift is not void, and possession cures the defect arising from the shares of the donees not being defined. TARA v. JODHA. 57 P R 1882

15. Gift to minor by father or guardian—Possession—Intention.

Where the validity of a gift under Muhammadan law is impugned, and it appears that the donees were at the time of the gift minors, and that the donor was their father and guardian, the point which has to be considered is whether there was on the part of the father and guardian a real and bonâ fide intention to make a gift, for if that is made out the law will be satisfied without change of possession, and will presume the subsequent holding of the property to be on behalf of the minors. GULAM MUHAMMAD v. MUHAMMAD AMIN. 86 P R 1882

16. Gift in lieu of dower—Hibah-bil-iwaz—Validity of gift—Possession—Mushaa

Where it appeared that a Muhammadan husband shortly before his death made a gift of certain land to his wife in lieu of the dower fixed at the time of her marriage with him, held that the gift being of the kind known as hibah-bil-iwaz, and gifts of that kind being really of the nature of sales the validity of such gift was not affected by the fact that the donee did not take immediate possession under the gift, or by the fact that the gift apeared to have been of an undivided share in property which was capable of division. NAWAB MUHAMMAD ALI KHAN v WAZIR KHAN. 87 P R 1882

17. Gift to donee with reversion to donee's son—Gift with condition—Gift valid though condition void—Possession.

Where a deed of gift purported to give certain property to F. K. for his life and on his death to his son H. K. held, that the above limitation of the gift was, in the sense in which the word is used in the Muhammadan law, a condition, which must therefore fail, though it did not affect the validity of the gift.

It is not merely reservations in favour of the donor which are treated by the Muhammadan law as void conditions : reservations in favour of a third party, or anything which restricts the right of the donee over the property given, though the donor has absolutely parted with the dominion over it, are equally regarded as void conditions.

6. GIFT—contd.

Held, further, that the gift of the reversionary interest to H. K. on F. K.'s death could convey no rights in the property to H. K., as such a gift could not be completed by delivery of possession to the donee. MUHAMMAD AKBAR KHAN v. HUSAIN KHAN. 120 P R 1882

18. Gift—Hiba-bil-iwaz—Gift made in consideration of services rendered—Revocation by decree of Kazi—Function and powers of Judge.

A. executed a deed of gift of land in favour of B. in consideration of past services. The donee was already in possession as a cultivator. Two years after the gift the donor sued to cancel it and to recover possession. The donee pleaded that the gift was in the nature of a hiba-bil-iwaz, made in consideration for, and in exchange of, services rendered and was therefore irrevocable.

Held, following I. L. R. XI Allahabad, 1, that Hiba-bil-iwaz did not include the case of a gift in consideration of services rendered.

Held, further, that on a proper construction of the rule of Muhammadan Law which required the decree of a Judge to validate a revocation of gift by the donee, the Judge in exercising his functions was not a mere mandatory of the donor simply to register his fiat, but was empowered to adjudicate on the right of revocation according to the merits of each case.

Held, also, that considering the equities of this case the revocation of the gift by the defendant could not be permitted. SAMAND KHAN v. MUNAWAR KHAN. 188 P R 1889

19. Gift—Muhammadan Law—Gift of undivided share of joint holding—Mushaa—Gift with condition attached—Voidability of gift—Consideration—Custom.

Plaintiff, a widow in possession of her deceased husband's estate which consisted of a seven sixty-fourth share of certain land, admitted in her plaint that, in December 1889, she made a gift of a one-eighth share of the property to the defendant on condition that the defendant would thereafter render her service, but sued for possession of the gifted share and also to have the said gift declared null and void, on the grounds (1) that there had been no division of the joint holding when the gift was made, and (2) that the gift was conditional on the rendering of service by the defendant and was therefore revocable. The defendant replied that the gift being for consideration—viz., the marriage of defendant with plaintiff's daughter, and the rendering of service both in the past and for the future,—and being followed by possession could not be cancelled. The defendant, therefore, pleaded that the gift was not conditional, and was not void either by Muhammadan Law or by custom and could not be set aside. The first Court finding that the gift was a hiba-ba-shart-i-iwaz and revocable; that it did not even include the whole of the donor's share in an undivided holding and was, therefore, bad in accordance with the principle of mushaa; that its invalidity could not be cured by delivery of possession, and finally, that it was a conditional gift, void ab initio and revocable at pleasure, decreed plaintiff's claim. On appeal by the defendant and after a remand for the purpose of ascertaining whether the donee had obtained possession the Divisional Judge reversed the decision of the first Court on the grounds that the principle of mushaa was not applicable to the case; that it was possible to make a gift of an undivided share of a joint holding, and that the gift was not revocable. The plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court, and the appeal was argued on her behalf, in accordance with Muhammadan Law.

6. GIFT—contd.

Held, in accordance with the ruling of the Privy Council in I. L. R. XI All., 460, that inasmuch as the doctrine of Muhammadan Law as to the invalidity of gifts of mushaa has no application when possession of an undivided share has been obtained by the donee, the present gift, having been followed by possession, was good and valid, and could not be cancelled on the ground of invalidity.

Held, further, that the gift in question being for consideration—viz., for services rendered and to be rendered—could not in accordance with the doctrines of the Hanafi School of Muhammadan Law, be revoked except upon an adjudication by a Judge or Kazi upon the merits of the case.

It appeared, however, to the Court, that the law applicable to the case was more probably agricultural custom than Muhammadan law, but that there was nothing to show that a gift once completed and delivered was defeasible at the discretion of the donor.

I. L. R., XI All., 1, and No. 188 P. R., 1889, cited. MUSSAMMAT MURAD KHATUN v. AHMAD ALI. 91 P R 1894

20. Gift by sonless proprietor to daughter's son—Gift not completed by possession—Muhammadan Awans of mauza Pachnand, Talagang tahsil, Jhelum District—Gift made in contemplation of death—Muhammadan Law.

One S., a sonless Muhammadan Awan of mauza Pachnand in the Talagang tahsil of the Jhelum District, executed and registered on the 19th December 1891 a deed of gift of the whole of his ancestral property in favour of his daughter's minor son. The deed was executed at a time when the donor was seriously ill, and was not followed by possession during his lifetime, he dying ten days after its execution. Plaintiffs, who were the donor's nephews, sued for a declaration that the said deed of gift should not affect their reversionary rights after the death of the donor's widow.

6. GIFT—contd.

Held, that it being an essential element to the validity of the gift, both according to the Riwaj-i-am and the decided cases, that it should be completed by a delivery of possession during the donor's lifetime, the validity of the gift in the present case was rightly impeached upon the ground that no possession followed during the lifetime of S.

Held, further, that even if viewed as a will (which it did not purport to be) the deed was equally inoperative, even to the extent of one-third of the property, as it was obviously made in contemplation of death within the meaning of the Muhammadan Law relating to death-bed dispositions, by which, according to the Riwaj-i-am, the parties were to be governed as regards wills.

Nos. 59 P. R. 1881, 53 P. R., 1884, 93 P. R., 1885, 132 P. R., 1890, 7 and 108 P. R., 1891, 22 P. R., 1892, 107 and 108 P. R., 1893, and 81 P. R., 1894 referred to. FATTA v. BAKHRA. 15 P R 1895

21. Muhammadan Law—Gift made in contemplation of death—Death illness.

Held, that a gift made by a sick person aged eighty-three days before his death must be regarded as made in contemplation of death within the meaning of Muhammadan Law relating to death-bed dispositions and is therefore inoperative as such. AHMED BAKHSH v. HUSSAIN BIBI. 135 P R 1907

22. Mortgage by conditional sale—Gift of equity of redemption prior to the expiry of mortgage term—Validity of such gift under Muhammadan Law—Notice of foreclosure to original mortgagor—Necessity of notice to donee.

The plaintiffs instituted the present suit against the defendant for possession of certain land as absolute owners, alleging that the land was mortgaged by the father of defendants with condition of foreclosure if the entire land or a part thereof was not redeemed within six years. The land was not redeemed and the plaintiffs on 7th December 1898 served defendant's father with a notice of foreclosure. The year of grace expired on 16th December 1899, and plaintiffs became absolute owners. The defence was that the original mortgagor on whom the notice was served had no right of ownership at the time, as the land in dispute was gifted by him to defendants on 30th January 1897 by a registered deed of gift which was witnessed by J. S., one of the mortgagees, and therefore the proceedings in connection with the notice of foreclosure were ineffective and void, as it should have been issued to the donees. In reply plaintiffs contested the gift alleging that the gift was not completed by delivery of possession. Both Courts below found in favour of defendants and dismissed the suit. On appeal the Chief Court—

6. GIFT—contd.

Held, dissenting from Muhi-ud din v. Manohar Shah, (1882) I. L. R. 6 Bom. 650 and Ismail v. Ramji, 1889) I. L. R. 23 Bom. 682, that under Muhammadan Law a gift by a mortgagor of immovable property of the equity of redemption was valid, placed the donee in the shoes of the donor and necessitated notice to the donee of foreclosure although the donor was still alive. HARNAM SINGH v. SAJAWAL. 26 P R 1910

7. GUARDIAN.

See MINOR.
CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION.
WITHDRAWAL OF SUIT.
3 P R 1905

Under Muhammaden Law the father of a girl who has not attained the age of puberty is not her lawful guardian in the presence of her maternal grandmother, and is not entitled to appoint a guardian by his will in supersession of the grandmother.

See GUARDIAN AND WARDS ACT, 1890.
48 P R 1910

8. IDDAT.

—Marriage contracted before expiry of period of iddat—Legality of such marriage.
See BIGAMY. 43 P R 1882 Cr.

1. Iddat.

Where a Muhammadan woman was divorced, and remarried without observing an iddat, the Court declared her second marriage null and void, and consequently dismissed a suit instituted by her second husband for restitution of conjugal rights. MUSSAMMAT SHURF BIBI v. BAHADUR. 31 P R 1871

2. Period of "iddat."

The ordinary period of iddat for a widow under the Muhammadan Law applicable to Sunis is four months and ten days ; the ordinary period for a divorced wife who is under obligation to observe iddat being three lunar months. NATHU v. MUSSAMMAT BIBO. 38 P R 1887

3. Marriage of widow during her iddat—Legality of such marriage.

Held, that a marriage contracted by a widow before the expiry of the period of her iddat is unlawful and void, and the mere fact that prior to the expiry of her iddat she has been delivered of the child, with which she was pregnant at the date of her late husband's death, cannot validate a marriage illegally solemnised before that period had elapsed. ILAHIA v. IMAM DIN. 29 P R 1909

9. INHERITANCE.

See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION.

1. Kanchans of Delhi—Brothers and sisters.

See CUSTOM VIII.—INHERITANCE—PROSTITUTES. 166 P R 1883
52 P R 1893 P. C.

2. Married and unmarried daughters—Kanjars of Lahore.

See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION V.—SUCCESSION AMONG PROSTITUTES. 148 P R 1889

3. Prostitutes of Lahore.

See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND

9. INHERITANCE—contd.

SUCCESSION V.—SUCCESSION AMONG PROSTITUTES. 62 P R 1892

4. Succession to unpaid dower of a deceased female.

See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION. 43 P R 1908

5. Custom governing particular cases.

See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION. 45 P R 1908

47 P R 1908

6. In a suit between Muhammadans, A. died leaving a son B., a widow C., a brother D., and E., the son of a deceased brother. His estate was distributable thus :—seven-eighths to B, and one-eighth to C. Subsequently B, died an infant: whereon one-third of his share passed to C, and two-thirds to D. Thus of A's original estate C., took five-twelfths and D., seven-twelfths ; E., was excluded, there being no right of representation. SHAHAMUD v. MUSSAMMAT DOWLUT. 105 P R 1866

7. Held, that Muhammadan daughters succeed in the absence of near male heirs. WUZEERA v. HAKOO. 31 P R 1867

8. With regard to Muhammadans, it was held, that unless there was a well-established custom to the contrary, the estate of a person deceased devolved on a full uterine brother in preference to a half-brother by the same father ; nor could the half-brother take any share in the presence of the former. KUMALA v. JUMALA. 63 P R 1867

9. Muhammadan's right to his wife's estate.

In a suit by a Shiah to inherit a share of the estate of his deceased wife (who had been on bad terms with him, and had lived separately and supported herself for many years before her death)—held, that both according to Shiah law and to usage, (1) the husband was entitled to inherit half the estate left by his wife ; and (2) the wife was at liberty during her life-time to alienate the whole of her property. MUSSAMMAT MEHROOLNISSA v. WAZEER ALI. 75 P R 1868

10. Children—Punjab Civil Code.

Held, that the Punjab Civil Code, section IV, paragraph 9, which excluded brothers and sisters when there were children, did not differ from the Muhammadan Law ; and that "children" meant male descendants only. MUSSAMMAT HAFIZAN v. MUSSAMMAT MENDHOO. 7 P R 1869

11. G. S., a Hindu, cohabited with a Muhammadan woman, by whom he had a son (the defendant). After defendant's birth, G. S. turned Muhammadan and married defendant's mother. G. S. always acknowledged defendant as his son. Held, that defendant was entitled to inherit G. S.'s property. GURMUKH SINGH v. MALLA. 12 P R 1872

12. Distant kindred—Propinquity to ancestor.

By Muhammadan Law, the succession of distant kindred (among whom the parties ranked) is regulated by nearness of degree. Where

9. INHERITANCE—contd.

plaintiff, son of a father's sister, and defendants, grandsons of a father's other sister, claimed the land of S., deceased, plaintiff being one step nearer S. than the defendants, held, that plaintiff was entitled to succeed S. to the exclusion of the defendants FATEH v. AZIMA. 80 P R 1874

13. Sister's son—Collaterals.

Held, that, by Muhammadan Law, collaterals descended in the male line from a male ancestor common to them and the deceased are entitled to succeed to the property of the said deceased in preference to a sister's son. GHULAM v. UMRA 18 P R 1881

14. Survivorship.

In a suit for pre-emption of certain property purchased by one M. S. and his brother jointly, it was contended inter alia that on the brother's death his right in the property passed to M. S. by survivorship, to the exclusion of the widow of the deceased.

Held, that the parties being Muhammadans and governed by Muhammadan Law, and there being no provision of Muhammadan Law under which M. S. would take by survivorship the share of his deceased brother in the land which they had purchased jointly, the widow was entitled to succeed as heir to one-fourth of that share KHAN MUHAMMAD SHAH v. MUHAMMAD JAN. 104 P R 1882

15. Residuaries and distant kindred.

The plaintiff claimed redemption of a house mortgaged to the defendant by her half brother, Muhamdi. The Courts gave her a decree, holding that, according to Muhammadan Law she was heir to the greater part of the property. Muhamdi (the mortgagor) his son Ghasita, and his son's daughter Mussammat Jhundo having died since the mortgage, it was contended by the defendant that the plaintiff was not the heir either to Ghasita, or Mussammat Jhundo.

Held, the question being as to the succession to Ghasita and Mussammat Jhundo, that as on the death of Ghasita his widow and daughter became entitled to their legal shares, the residue going to the nearest residuaries and similarly, on Mussummat Jhundo's death, her mother was entitled to her legal share, and the residue fell to the residuaries and as the plaintiff who was paternal aunt of Ghasita, was merely one of the distant kindred, and therefore not one of the heirs, she was not entitled to redeem. JOWAYA v. MUSSAMMAT RAHMAN BIBI. 87 P R 1885

16. Exclusion of unchaste wife from inheritance in absence of divorce or proved custom.

By Muhammadan Law the wife is one of those heirs who are not liable to exclusion under any circumstances ; the facility of divorce which is permitted by that law gives the husband a complete remedy against an unfaithful wife which a Hindu does not possess : but if the husband chooses not to avail himself of that power, the marriage relationship continues, and the wife cannot be deprived after her husband's death (in the absence of a proved custom of exclusion) of the share which the law allows her by right of inheritance Karam Dad v. Mussummat Begam (No. 118 P. R. 1884), referred to. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH v. HAYAT KHAN.

MAHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

9. INHERITANCE—contd.

37 P R 1888

17. Gilani Syads of Mooltan—Succession of daughters—Muhammadan Law—Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Schedule II, articles 127, 144—Joint family—Adverse possessisn—Minority.

Found that among the Gilani Syads of Mooltan there is no definite customary rule regarding the succession of daughters modifying the Muhammadan Law, and that therefore in cases of dispute the said Muhammadan Law must be followed. Mussammat Sardar Bibi v. Sayad Ali Shah (No. 4 P. R. 1888) cited.

But held on the facts of the present case in which two daughters were claiming their shares under Muhammadan Law, that there being no joint family proved to exist and each sharer therefore being entitled to claim on the death of the owner whose estate was in dispute, and whose death occurred more than 12 years prior to suit, limitation ran against each plaintiff from the date of such owner's death, and though the youngest daughter having claimed within 3 years of attaining her majority was entitled to her whole share, the other plaintiff was barred by 12 years' adverse possession save as to her share in a small portion of the estate, the claim to which was within time. NASIR-UD-DIN SHAH v. MUSSAMMAT LAL BIBI.

89 P R 1888

18. Sayads of Kharar, Umballa District—Non-agriculturists owning land—Custom—Succession.

In a suit the parties to which were Sayads of Kharar in the Umballa District, not agriculturists in the strict sense of the term though owning land but not cultivating themselves, found, that though by custom sons exclude daughters, there was no well-established custom by virtue of which collaterals can claim to exclude them. The rules of Muhammadan Law therefore applied. No. 4 P. R. 1888, referred to. KASIM ALI v. MUSSAMMAT ZINAT-UN-NISSA.

35 P R 1891

19. Muhammadan Law—Custom—Inheritance—Granddaughters whose father predeceased his father.

In a suit the parties to which were Muhammadans of mauza Bindi, tahsil Sanghar in the Dera Ghazi Khan District, found that no custom was proved by which grand-daughters inherited when their father had predeceased his father, and that in the absence of such custom the Muhammadan Law must prevail according to which, in the absence of sons, daughters and son's sons, son's daughters being two or more in number, are sharers in the grandfather's estate, the shares being two-thirds. The grand-daughter suing, therefore, showed a title by Muhammadan Law, and the Settlement Record, which must be presumed to be correct, showed the extent of her share as one-half MUSSAMMAT GOWHAR v. KHAN MUHAMMAD AND MASSU KHAN.

66 P R 1891

20. *Succession—Sons and daughters—Custom—Muhammadan Law—Punjabi Arains of Sabzi Mandi, Delhi—Non-agriculturists—*Onus probandi—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 5, clause (a)—Two suits tried together by consent of parties—No appeal from decree in one suit—Res judicata.

One Malik Karim Baksh of Sabzi Mandi, a suburb of Delhi, died on the 5th March 1890, leaving a large property in land house and moveables, and the following descendants (i) by his first wife, three sons, and two daughters and (ii) by his second wife one son and four daughters. After his death one of his sons by the first wife brought a suit for partition and possession of a one-fourth share in the deceased's property, first, in terms of an award made by one A. D. to which all the descendants were alleged to have agreed, and failing that under a custom by which daughters were, excluded from inheritance, and lastly, if no such custom was proved, for two out of fourteen shares under Muhammadan Law. The present plaintiff, who was one of the daughters by the second wife, was made a party in order to have all the questions relating to succession to the deceased's property finally decided, though it was admitted in the plaint that the entire property in dispute was in the possession of the four sons. Shortly after the institution of the above suit, the present plaintiff also instituted a suit in the same Court claiming to be entitled to one-fourteenth share of the said property under Muhammadan Law. By consent of all the parties the suits were tried together and a full judgment disposing of all the issues was written in the first case, and a short one in the second, deciding it in accordance therewith. Present plaintiff appealed from the decree in her suit, but there was no appeal from the decree in the first suit, which, therefore, had become final at the date of hearing of plaintiff's appeal. A preliminary objection having been taken by respondents to the effect that, there having been no appeal in the first suit, the questions involved in plaintiff's appeal were res judicata, and could not be adjudicated on by the Chief Court.

Held, following I. L. R. XVI Calc, 233, that on the facts of the present litigation, plaintiff's appeal was barred neither under Section 13 of the Civil Procedure Code, nor on the general principles of res judicata, and that respondent's objection must be overruled.

In a case where the parties, though originally of Punjabi Arain descent, had, for many generations lived amongst, and given themselves out as, Muhummadan Sheikhs of Sabzi Mandi, a suburb of Delhi, and though owning land did so rather as market-gardeners and capitalists than as true agriculturists, held that the onus of proving that in matters of succession they were governed by a family custom whereby sons excluded daughters and not by their personal law—in the present case Muhammadan Law—was upon defendants who asserted it; and found upon the evidence and the facts of the case, that defendants had failed to establish the existence of any such family custom, or to prove that the parties were not governed by Muhammadan Law

Section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, does not require it to be presumed that in matters therein specified a custom governs the parties to the exclusion of their personal law, but merely prescribes that it shall govern them in such matters in the first instance. All that the said section lays down is that an inquiry should first be directed to ascertain whether there is any custom applicable to the parties in respect of those matters, and if one is established, that it shall furnish the rule of decision to the supersession of their personal law. When, therefore, a person alleges a custom contrary to some precept of his personal law he is primâ facie bound to prove that custom. MUSSAMMAT FAKHAR-UN-NISSA v. MALIK RAHIM BAKHSH.

23 P R 1897

21. Custom—Inheritance—Jatoi Biloch of the Muzaffargarh District—Right of sister in presence of daughter Muhammadan Law.

In a case in which the parties were Jatoi Biloch of the Muzaffargarh District held that the parties were governed by Muhammadan Law, and not by custom, and that a sister of a sonless proprietor was entitled to inherit half of the property as a residuary, the other half going to the daughter as a sharer. MUSSAMMAT BAKHT WADI v. SAYAD KHAN.

66 P R 1902

22. *Custom—Inheritance—*Shia Sayads of Umballa City—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 5—Muhammadan Law.

In a suit the parties to which were non-agriculturist Shia Sayads residing in the Kazi mohalla of Umballa City and owning little land outside, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to estabish that they were governed by agricultural custom under which collaterals related in the fifth degree have a right to succeed to non-ancestral house property situated in the Umballa City or cantonment to the exclusion of a grandmother succeeding her grandson, or a married daughter succeeding her mother.

Held, further, that in matters of succession under dispute the parties were governed by the Muhammadan Law and being Shia Sayads by the Imamia Code.

As the Punjab Laws Act gives equal protection to those governed by their personal law as well as to those governed by custom there can be no legal pesumption in any case coming before a Court in the Punjab that it is to be governed by custom rather than the personal Law of the parties. But in every case where a custom is set up, it is the duty of the person alleging it to prove where it is not admitted that it exists and is applicable to the points in issue. MUHAMMAD HUSSAIN v. SULTAN ALI.

1903

MAHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

9. INHERITANCE—concld.

54 P R 1903

23. Muhammadan Law—Inheritance—Distant kindred—Right of distant relation to succeed in preference to stranger.

A distant relation, however remote is, by Muhammadan Law, entitled to succeed as a "distant kindred" in preference to a stranger. The enumeration of "distant kindred" given in the text-books on Muhammadan Law is not exhaustive and the term includes all relations who are related to the deceased through them.

Abdul Serang v. Putte Bibi (I. L. R. XXIX Calc. 738), followed.

Dhuni and others v. Khara and others (54 P. R. 1890) dissented from. UMAR DIN v. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH. 27 P R 1904

24 Muhammadan Kashmiris of the city of Lahore who were engaged in trade and manufacture were held to be governed by Muhammadan Law. MAULA BAKHSH v. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH. 54 P R 1906

10. JOINT FAMILY.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—INHERITANCE. 89 P R 1888

1. Insanity—Disqualification—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882) sections 27, 32, 463—Plaintiff suing in his own name in his father's lifetime on ground of father's insanity—Power to substitute or add name of true plaintiff—Guardian ad litem of person of unsound mind—Act XXXV of 1858—Custom of Gandapur family—Acquisitions by members of undivided Muhammadan family—Liability of property so acquired to partition—Onus of proving separate acquistions—Managing member possessed of a considerable separate income purchasing property—Question whether such property was separate or family property.

In a suit for a share of certain family property (the parties to which were a Muhammadan family of the Gandapur tribe, resident in the Kulachi tahsil of the Dera Ismail Khan District), an objection was taken in an appeal to the Chief Court by the defendant, that one of the plaintiffs was not entitled to sue in his own name in his father's life-time. This objection was overruled by the Court below on the ground that the father of the said plaintiff was not of sound mind.

Held (by Barkley and Burney, JJ.), that as under Muhammadan Law insanity is no impediment to inheritance, the suit should have been brought in the name of the father and on his behalf, and, further, that the name of the father could not at the then stage of the proceedings be put upon the record, either in substitution for that of his son under section 27, Civil Procedure Code, inasmuch as there was nothing to show that he authorized the suit, so that its being brought in his son's name and not in his own could be regarded as a bonâ fide mistake such as could be corrected under section 27: nor could his name be added as plaintiff under section 32 of the Code without his own consent, and if he were insane and therefore could not consent, section 463 of the Code did not apply until he had been adjudicated a lunatic according to law.

1904

Subsequently and after the case had been remanded to the lower Court for a further enquiry, the said father having been duly declared of unsound mind under Act XXXV of 1858, his son was permitted to sue for him as next friend, and the Chief Court (Plowden and Burney,) JJ. at the further hearing of the appeal refused to interfere with such permission.

It was also contended in the above case that the plaintiffs had established a special family custom under which, until partition, all property acquired by any member of the family even without the aid of the family funds or the other members of the family, must be regarded as family property and liable to partition.

Held (by Plowden and Burney, JJ.) after a remand for further investigation of the question, that no such custom as above alleged had been proved to exist.

It appeared in the above case that the father of the parties to the suit left property which was not divided after his death and which remained under the management of the defendant on behalf of the family, and that while this nucleus of family property was under the defendant's management, he had also a considerable separate income. On the question on whom the burden of proof rested as to whether property purchased by the defendant was purchased with family funds or from his own private means, held (per Barkley and Burney, JJ.) that it could not be presumed that all acquisitions were made by means of the family funds; that all that could fairly be held was that it was the defendant's duty, as manager of the family property, not to mix up the family income with his own so as to render it impossible to distinguish between them, and if he was unable to account satisfactorily for the income of the family property, and it appeared that he had made purchases with money in part derived from the family income and in part from his own private funds, it was for him to show how far such purchases had been made with his own funds, and so far as he was unable to do so, the property must be regarded as family property. It was for the defendant to prove that any property which he alleged was acquired by means of his private funds was so acquired (vide sections 102, 103 and 106 of the Evidence Act); and he might do so, either by proving that there was no surplus family income at all, or by showing, if he could, how that income was applied, or in case he was by custom not liable to account for the expenditure of that income, by direct proof that the price was paid from his private funds; or, if he could not shew that any particular property was purchased wholly from his private funds, he might still show that it was in part so purchased and so far as he was able to prove that this was the case, but no further, he would be entitled to be considered the owner of a corresponding share in the property.

1905

MAHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

10. JOINT FAMILY—concld.

Per Plowden, J.—That the manager of joint ancestral estate should be liabl to account to his co-heirs for the property received by him as manager, and for investments of the income and accumulations, is proper and just; but that the mere circumstance that he is a member of the same family with the co-heirs should make him liable to account for all sums earned by his individual and independent exertions and the investments made of income and accumulations is not in accordance with general usage, and is on the face of it not in accordance with the generally received notions of natural justice. MUHAMMAD KALU KHAN v. SAIFULLA KHAN. 91 P R 1887

2. Pledge of joint family property by elder brothers, how far binding on minor brothers—Presumption.

Held, that in the case of a Muhammadan family living even in commensality, there is no presumption that alienation of joint family property by some members are made for the benefit of the family jointly so as to be binding on the other members.

Held, upon the facts of the present case, that the plaintiff had failed to prove that the elder brothers of a joint Muhammadan family were justified, either as managing members of the family business or as de facto guardians of their minor brothers, in pledging certain of the family property as they had done, and that consequently the said pledge was not binding on the minors. UMAR BAKHSH v. MUHABBAT KHAN.

66 P R 1899

11. LEGITIMACY.

See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION. 17 P R 1882

—Maximum period of gestation—Presumption of legitimacy of child born within 2 years of the alleged father's death—Evidence Act (I of 1872), sections 2, 112—Act IV of 1872, section 5—"Rule of evidence."

Under the Muhammadan law of the Hanifiya school, two years is fixed as the maximum period of gestation, and when there is no presumption that another man is the father, as in the case of a second marriage, or when the mother has declared the expiration of her iddat more than six months before, the Muhammadan law, as expounded by that school, would lean very strongly to supporting the legitimacy of a child born within that period.

But the above rule held to be a "rule of "evidence" within the meaning of those words in section 2 of the Evidence Act, though also a part of the substantive Muhammadan law, so that the effect of that section, when read with section 5 of the Punjab

MAHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

11. LEGITIMACY—concld.

Laws Act, is that the Courts are not bound by the said rule under the last named Act.

Held further, that section 112 of the Evidence Act does not lay down a maximum period of gestation, and therefore does not bar the proof of the legitimacy of a child born more than 280 days after dissolution of marriage the effect of the section being merely that no presumption in favour of legitimacy is raised, and the question must be decided simply upon the evidence for and against legitimacy. RAHMAT ALI v. MUSSAMMAT ALLAHDI. 1 P R 1884

12. MARRIAGE.

See CUSTODY OF WIFE.

CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE, DIVORCE.

See MARRIAGE.

1. Custody of wife—Agreement to Divorce—Khula—Agreement opposed to public policy.

See CUSTODY OF WIFE.

193 P R 1889

2. Validity of marriage—Consent of adult female necessary.

See MARRIAGE. 73 P R 1909

3. Contract of Marriage—Guardian.

In the absence of the father, the mother is by Mahomedan Law, the guardian ad litem of a married daughter who is under age and has not joined her husband. By Mahomedan Law, a contract of marriage made on behalf of an infant by a father or grandfather, is binding, and cannot be annulled by the infant on obtaining majority, but if the contract be made by any other guardian, the infant may refuse to be bound by it on coming of age. Where there is no paternal guardian, the maternal kindred may dispose of an infant in marriage. MUSSAMMAT SULTAN BIBI v. NIHALA. 53 P R 1875

4. Marriage of infant—Near and distant guardians—Acquiescence by infant on attaining majority—Duty of Court.

According to the Muhammadan Law a valid marriage cannot be contracted by infants without discretion, as the latter are incapable of giving consent to the contract. A contract of marriage entered into by a father or grandfather on behalf of an infant is valid and binding, and the infant has not the option of annulling it on attaining maturity; if the contract is made by a more distant guardian while nearer is present and competent to the guardianship, the contract is dependent on the sanction of the nearer. If the contract is entered into by a guardian other than the father or grandfather, the infant so contracted may dissolve the marriage on coming of age provided that such delay does not take place as may be construed into acquiescence. Acquiescence is presumed in the case of a virgin from silence on the first suitable occasion when repudiation is practicable.

A question of expediency or policy must not be allowed to interfere with the strict administration of the law by which the parties o a suit are governed. KULLAN v. MUSSAMMAT PIARI. 157 P R 1879

MAHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

12. MARRIAGE—concld.

5. Guardians for marriage—Marriage contracted by mother in life-time of father—Effect of delegation of his right by nearer to more remote guardian—Power of minor female whose marriage has been contracted by guardian other than father to repudiate the marriage on attaining puberty—Ratification.

In a suit by a Muhammadan for the custody of the defendant as his wife, it appeared that the father of the defendant having turned faqir some 8 or 9 years ago, divorced his wife, the mother of the defendant, making the defendant over to her mother in lieu of dower, and relinquishing all claim to her as her father. The girl thereafter lived with her mother, and was married by her about a year before suit to the plaintiff, with whom she apparently lived as a wife till a few months before the present suit, when she was taken away by her father and married to the second defendant.

Held that, under the above circumstances, the plaintiff's marriage was a valid marriage according to Muhammadan Law, which in the absence of custom must be held to govern the parties : that the conduct of the father in turning faqir and making over the child to the mother, showed clearly that he intended to commit the guardianship of the child to the mother, and that this delegation of his right empowered the mother to contract a valid marriage on behalf of her daughter and that, though by Muhammadan Law a minor female, whose marriage has been contracted by any guardian other than the father or grandfather, has the option on arriving at puberty of either ratifying the contract entered into during her minority, or of cancelling it, such option must be exercised immediately upon attaining puberty, and if the marriage is not then repudiated it will be deemed to be ratified.

Such ratification was found as a fact in the above case. BAKSHA v. MIRBAZ.

51 P R 1888

6. Muhammadan Law—Marriage with a fifth woman—Legality of such marriage—Legitimacy of children of an invalid marriage.

Held that according to Muhammadan Law the marriage with a fifth wife in presence of four living wives is invalid but not void and consequently the children of such marriage are legitimate and entitled to succeed as the lawful heirs to their father. KHURSHAID JAN v. ABDUL HAMID KHAN. 6 P R 1908

13. MINORITY.

1. By Muhammadan Law, the period when minority ceases is the conclusion of the 16th year, both for males and females. CHOWGUTTA v. RANJHU. 54 P R 1873

2. The judgment in Chowgutta v. Ranjhu (No. 54 P. R. 1873) explained. The observation of the learned Judges in that case that "by Muhammadan Law persons of both "sexes are minors until the expiration of "the 16th year," was not necessary to the decision of that case, and is obiter dictum. KHUDA BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT ABADI.

155 P R 1884

MAHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

14. WAKF.

See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION.

1. Will.

Held, that according to the Muhammadan Law a valid endowment for religious or charitable purposes can be created by a testamentary instrument.

Where an appropriation by an instrument in writing makes an immediate dedication of immoveable property to religious purposes the dedication takes effect at once as to the whole property, but if the dedication is not to take effect till after the death of the donor, the instrument operates as a will, and takes effect only to the extent of one-third of the testator's property. MAHOMED YAKUB v. MUSSAMMAT SHAMS-UL-NISSA BEGUM.

2 P R 1880

2. Muhammadan Law—Wakf—Settlement in perpetuity for aggrandisement of settler's family—Shiah Law.

By deed of settlement, dated 11th May 1871, one Mussammat U. B. settled a house in Delhi and two villages on her four sons and their issue in perpetuity with the object of obviating disputes, providing for the sons, protecting future rights, and preserving the property. She appointed one Sirdar M. trustee, or mutawali, with directions to divide the net income into five equal shares between herself and the four beneficiaries, and, after her death, into four shares among the beneficiaries and their heirs in accordance with Muhammadan Law. The said deed further defined the powers of the matawali, provided for the appointment of a successor on the death of the said Sirdar M. and prohibited and declared invalid alienations of any kind which might be made by the beneficiaries. The parties were governed by the Shiah system of Muhammadan Law.

Held, upon the principle laid down by the Privy Council in I. L. R XXII Calc. 619, that the said settlement, being a purely family one in perpetuity, was as invalid under the Shiah system as it would have been under the Hanafi system of law. SAIYAD SULTAN MIRZA v. MADAN MOHAN.

84 P R 1896

15. WIDOW.

See PARTITION.

—By Muhammadan Law, a widow succeeds to her husband's property absolutely, and not on a life tenure. MUSSAMMAT RANEE v. GHOLAM GHOUS. 3 P R 1867

16. WILL.

See WILL

1.—Bequest "bama sarif indulla."

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTIONS 92, 93. 50 P R 1882

2.—Will in favor of one heir.

See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION.

121 P R 1886

3.—Wasiyatnamah—Trust for benefit of family—Effect of introduction of a stranger—Transfer under mistake of fact.

Mahomed Tuckee, by wasiyatnamah, appointed his eldest son, Mahomed Shuffee, executor and trustee for the benefit of the whole family; and directed that Mahomed Shuffee "shall not alienate any of my

1909

MAHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

16. WILL—contd.

"moveable or immoveable property. Should "my said agent attempt to effect a sale, he "shall in no wise be competent to do so; "and in that case I appoint Mahomed "Ruffee, my younger son, in his place as "possessor and agent of all my above men- "tioned property, and he will act as pre- "scribed above," i. e., as Mahomed Shuffee was directed to act. "And if any of the "aforesaid heirs," i. e., Mahomed Tuckee's wife, two sons, and daughter, "should wish "to have his share separated, then the "aforesaid manager should make the following "distribution: To a son, Rs. 40,000; to "my daughter, Rs. 20,000; to my wife "Rs. 12,000. Having made these distribu- "tions, he should take a deed of acquittance "from each of the heirs, to the effect that "they have obtained the whole of their "share of my estate." Mahomed Shuffee was appointed by this instrument to act as trustee or agent during Mahomed Tuckee's lifetime, paying a fixed allowance to each member of the family, and conducting Mahomed Tuckee's business. During Mahomed Tuckee's lifetime, Mahomed Ruffee, distrusting Mahomed Shuffee, caused Rs. 46,000 in notes out of the property to be lodged with K. in Mahomed Ruffee's behalf, and Mahomed Ruffee signed an agreement acknowledging the transfer "in respect of his share of the inheritance." During the mutiny, these notes were stolen, but were afterwards recovered, less Rs. 3,000 worth, and given to Mahomed Shuffee. An account was opened between Mahomed Ruffee and Mahomed Shuffee relating to a hide business between the two, and the notes were deposited as security for advances made by Mahomed Shuffee to Mahomed Ruffee, and were marked ف, as belonging to Mahomed Ruffee. In 1864, after Mahomed Tuckee's death, Mahomed Shuffee was convicted, under section 121 of the Indian Penal Code, and his property was sentenced to be confiscated to Government. Mahomed Ruffee at that time claimed the notes marked ف, and notes to the value of Rs. 51,300 so marked, were made over to him by Government. The rest of the property was seized by Government under Mahomed Shuffee's sentence of forfeiture.

In a suit by Mahomed Ruffee to be declared trustee in place of Mahomed Shuffee, and for other rights under the wasiyatnamah, it was held, that by the alienation of the family property by Mahomed Shuffee to Government, the trust created by the wasiyatnamah came to an end: that it was not in the contemplation of the instrument that when by operation of law the interest of one of the family passed to a third person, the business should be carried on for the benefit of the remaining members of the family in union with the stranger; and that, as the trust was of a personal nature, and could not be taken up strictly under the instrument, it was not incumbent on the Court to provide for its continuance. Held, also, as regards Mahomed Ruffee's claim to the office of trustee, that the involuntary nature of the alienation by Mahomed Shuffee to Government would not have prevented the operation of the instrument in Mahomed Ruffee's favour; sed quære—Did Mahomed Tuckee intend that the trust management should be carried on after the succession of any one of the family by the seceding member? Held, also, that Mahomed Ruffee had elected to take his share (Rs. 40,000) under the will; and that he had no further claim under Muhammadan Law, upon a subsequent distribution of the property amongst those members who had not taken their shares under the will. Held, also, that the wife and daughter of Mahomed Tuckee, having made transfers of their shares to Mahomed Ruffee under a mistake of fact, that Government had seized their interests in the property, the transferors were entitled to relief from the effect of the instruments of transfer. SHEIKH MAHOMED RUFFEE v. SECY. OF STATE.

1910

MAHAMMADAN LAW—contd.

16. WILL—concld.

6 P R 1869

17. RULE OF MUHAMMADAN LAW WHEN SUPERSEDED.

1. Muhammadan Law—Legitimacy—Period of gestation—Evidence.

The rule of Muhammadan Law which fixes two years as the period of gestation is a "rule of evidence" within the meaning of section 2, Indian Evidence Act, 1872: the effect of the section, when read with section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, is that, under the latter Act the Courts are not bound by the rule of Muhammadan Law.

No. 1 P. R. 1884 followed. WARAS MUHAMMAD v. ALI BAKHSH. 76 P R 1891

2. Presumption of death—Rule of Muhammadan Law superseded by Evidence Act.

The rule of Muhammadan Law which refuses to presume a person dead until ninety years from the date of his birth, is a rule of evidence, and not of substantive law, and is superseded in all cases in which the question of the presumption whether a man is alive or dead arises under section 108, Indian Evidence Act (cf. also section 2 of the Act). IMDAD ALI v. GHULAM JILANI. 42 P R 1892

3. Pre-emption—Death of claimant pendente lite—Abatement of suit—Muhammadan Law—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 5.

The plaintiff in a suit for pre-emption died pendente lite, whereupon his sons were brought on the record and obtained a decree. On appeal the Divisional Judge proprio motu dismissed the suit on the ground that by Muhammadan Law, which was the personal law of the parties, the death of a person who claimed pre-emption caused the abatement of the suit.

Held, that under section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, Muhammadan Law, even though the parties were Muhammadans, was inapplicable to a claim for pre-emption in respect of agricultural land, and that a suit for pre-emption brought by a landowner respecting village lands should not be regarded as a merely personal action which must terminate on the death of the original plaintiff, and does not survive to his representatives. FATEH KHAN v. MUHAMMAD.

1911

MAHAMMADAN LAW—concld.

17. RULE OF MUHAMMADAN LAW WHEN SUPERSEDED—concld.

98 P R 1898

MAINTENANCE.

1. Widows, right to.

See CUSTOM I—ALIENATION—A. ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—LOCUS STANDI OF REVERSIONER AND WIDOW.

CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—B. ALIENATION BY WIDOW—GIFTS.

CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION.

11 P R 1882
89 P R 1886
107 P R 1886
30 P R 1905

CUSTOM VIII.—I. REMARRIAGE OR UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW.

HINDU LAW, WIDOW.

SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887 SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 38.

123 P R 1889

2. Of wife.

See HINDU LAW, MAINTENANCE.

84 P R 1883

3. Of widow.

See HINDU LAW, MAINTENANCE.

144 P R 1884

4. Arrears of—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 5 and 6—Muhammadan Law—Justice, equity, and good conscience.

Held, (i) that the maintenance of a wife is a question relating to marriage and governed by the personal law of the parties as laid down in section 5, Punjab Laws Act; (ii) that the Muhammadan Law by which the parties were governed does not permit of a claim being made for arrears of maintenance unless the same has been previously determined or agreed to by the parties. MIRZA SURAYA JAH v. MUSSAMMAT HAJRA SULTAN ZAMANI BEGAM. 57 P R 1890

5. Custom—Unmarried daughter—Maintenance out of or succession to deceased father's estate—Hindu Jats, Ludhiana District.

Found, that among Hindu Jats of the Ludhiana District, custom recognises the right of the unmarried daughters to be maintained out of the estate of the deceased father, and even in some cases a right to possession of the estate until marriage. MUSSAMMATS KISHNO AND PARTAPA v. RAMAN.

50 P R 1892

6. Custom—Awans of Doudzai tahsil, Peshawar District.—Right of daughter to inherit in presence of near male collaterals.

By custom prevailing among the Awans of Doaba Daudzai tahsil of the Peshawar

1912

MAINTENANCE—concld.

District a daughter, in the presence of near male collaterals, is only entitled to maintenance and not to possession of her father's land, provided that the collaterals are willing to maintain and marry her. MUSSAMMAT MIRJAN v. RAHMAT. 31 P R 1893

7. Right of illegitimate children to maintenance from natural father.

The presumption that children born of a married woman during the lifetime of her husband are the legitimate offsprings of that woman and her husband is not conclusive proof of their legitimacy and must be regarded as fully rebutted where the woman admittedly lived for years with another person and they both asserted such children to be the offsprings of their union. In such a case the children thus begotten though illegitimate are entitled to receive maintenance from their natural father. BAHADAR SINGH v. WIRU. 23 P R 1906

8. Under the Riwaj-i-am of Rawalpindi District a barren widow is entitled to a definite portion of her husband's estate for life by way of maintenance in presence of her step-son.

See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION. 49 P R 1910

MAJORITY ACT, 1875.

Section 3.

—De facto guardian obtaining letters of administration—Declaration of guardianship—Age of majority—Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, sections 7 (1), 52.

Where a de facto guardian of a minor applied for and obtained letters of administration under section 13 of the Probate and Administration Act, 1881, to an estate to which that minor was heir, and described himself as wali of the minor, held that the order thereupon of the Court granting the letters was not a declaration of guardianship within the meaning of section 7 (1) of the Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, and was not sufficient to make the minor subject to section 3 of the Majority Act of 1875. GANESHI LAL v. SURAJ MAL. 89 P R 1906

MALE LINEAL DESCENDANTS

See LINEAL MALE DESCENDANT.

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

40 P R 1894
43 P R 1895
22 P R 1896

See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1887, SECTION 59.

10 P R 1893

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION.

See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT.

1. In an action for damages for malicious prosecution, plaintiff must show either express malice or absence of reasonable and probable cause for the charge brought; and the fact that plaintiff was acquitted is not even primâ facie evidence that the charge was unreasonable and false. NUND KISHORE v. KISHEN DYAL. 4 P R 1868

1913

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION—contd.

2. Suit for damages—Reasonable and probable cause—Malice when to be inferred.

In a suit for damages for malicious prosecution, held, that it would be dangerous in this country to hold that a man acts without reasonable or probable cause who launches a criminal prosecution without having obtained good advice as to whether the facts amount to the offence charged. When he has stated the facts accurately, without any attempt to mislead the Court, there is no reason for presuming that he has acted without reasonable or probable cause, because the facts do not support the charge laid.

With regard to malice, held that the law will not imply malice when no malice existed, but when facts are proved which give rise to a presumption that malice existed, the Courts may infer that there was malice, that is, that the defendant acted from some other motive than an honest desire to bring a man whom he believed to have offended against the criminal law to justice.

In the present case the absence of any intention on the part of the defendant to do a wrongful act being clearly proved, held, that malice could not be inferred. MAYA MAL v. MADHO MAL. 40 P R 1884

3. Suit for damages for—Cause of action accruing in Foreign State, but suit instituted in British India—Discharge of plaintiff in former proceedings—Death of defendant pending appeal—Abatement of appeal—Reasonable and probable cause.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXII, R. 4. 4 P R 1897

4. Suit for damages for.

See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 11 P R 1886

5. Suit for damages for malicious prosecution.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, ARTICLE 35 (c). 30 P R 1889

6. Suit for malicious prosecution—Reasonable and probable cause—Malice—Conviction of plaintiff by two Courts—Damages—Measure and assessment of damages.

Where the charge was brought by a defendant upon untrue facts which were entirely within his own knowledge and the plaintiff was convicted by two Courts upon what was held by the Chief Court (while holding the plaintiff's action also to have been actuated solely by malice) to be a wrong view of the law as applied to the facts found.

Held, that the defendant had no reasonable and probable cause for the charge, which was malicious in the legal sense, and that the plaintiff's action having been also actuated solely by malice, the measure of damages awarded should be under such circumstances of the smallest possible dimensions.

1914

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION—concld.

Bhagwant Singh v. Pandit Joti Sarup (4 P. R. 1897), Hira Chand Bannerji v. Banee Madhub Chatterji (6 W. R. 29), Ganga Parshad v. Ramphul Sahoo (20 W. R. 177), and Johnstone v. Sutton (1 R. R. 269), cited. Hal v. Venkata Krishna (I. L. R. XIII Mad. 394), distinguished. BADRI DAS v. NATHU MAL. 112 P R 1901

7. Malicious prosecution—Suit for damages for malicious prosecution—Reasonable and probable cause—Malice—Burden of proof.

In an action for malicious prosecution it does not invariably rest entirely on the defendant to rebut the primâ facie evidence arising from the finding of a Criminal Court in favour of accused by showing that he had reasonable and probable cause, but it is for the plaintiff to prove express malice as well as the want of probable cause and its non-existence—therefore where a stamp collector sent through the post under a registered cover certain stamps, and on being informed that they had not safely reached their destination reported the matter to the Police and related all the circumstances within his knowledge, wherein no specific charge was made against the plaintiff and the Police, after searching another man named by the defendant, also searched the plaintiff, who was the Registration Clerk of the Post Office in which the packet had been registered, and arrested and sent him up for trial. Held, that there was reasonable and probable cause for such action as was taken by defendant, and that no malice in law had been shown on the part of the defendant to entitle plaintiff to a decree. FEROZSHAH DOSSABHOY DARRAH v. WAUTERSZ. 60 P R 1902

MALIK KHUDKASHT.

See MALIK QABZA.

MALIK QABZA.

See COMMON LAND.

1. Sale of residence.

A proprietor in an imperfect pattidar village who possesses a residence in it, has full right of property in that dwelling house, although some of the village lands and the unoccupied parts of the abadi and the portion of the abadi in which cultivators reside remain joint. There is no distinction between such a proprietor and a "Malik qabza," whose dwelling house follows the tenure of his land. KIRPAL SINGH v. KESREE. 67 P R 1869

2. Occupation of site without payment of malikana—Chowkidari dues—Suit for, by proprietor other than lambardar.

The defendant, a Malik Qabza, 18 years ago built a house on the common land of the village (shamilat deh) and resided in it ever since without being called upon to pay malikana for it. Eight years ago the common land was divided, and the portion on which defendant's house stood fell to the share of plaintiff. Plaintiff having recently discovered this, brought a suit to recover from defendant hakbua or malikana, tirni or grazing dues and chowkidari dues.

1915

MALIK QABZA—concld.

Held that, under the circumstances, the defendant was not liable to pay malikana for the site on which his house stood, and that the interest acquired in the land by plaintiff on partition was subject to the defendant's right to continue in occupation of it without payment of malikana.

Held, further, that the plaintiff, not being lambardar of the village, could not maintain a suit for chowkidari dues leviable from the defendant. MUHAMMAD KHAN v. NUR KHAN.
11 P R 1879

3. Right of Malik Qabza *to share of common lands—*Onus of proof.

The status of Malik Khudkasht or Malik Qabza does not ordinarily confer a right to share in the common lands of a village. Where, therefore, plaintiffs occupying that status sued for a declaration of their right to such share, held, that the burden of proving that they were entitled to it lay upon them.

The fact that a Malik Khudkasht or Malik Qabza has been allowed to break up and cultivate portions of the common lands, without being called upon to pay anything more than the revenue and cesses assessed n such land, is not ordinarily sufficient to show that he holds the land as of right in virtue of his status as such Malik Khudkasht or Malik Qabza. SEWA SINGH v. GANESHA.
53 P R 1879

See ROOSTUM KHAN v. AZEEMOOLLAH.
5 P R 1867 Rev

4. Claim to pre-emption by. 34.
See ALLUVION AND DILUVION.
14 P R 1882
13 P R 1885

MALIKANA.

1. Construction of term, as used in mortgage deed.
See MORTGAGE. 68 P R 1883

2. Suit for enhancement—Rent.
See ENHANCEMENT.
JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 62 P R 1890 Rev.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 2. 110 P R 1887
73 P R 1887
9 P R 1888 Rev.
3 P R 1889 Rev.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 11. 9 P R 1887 Rev.
10 P R 1887 Rev.
11 P R 1887 Rev
24 P R 888

MANAGER.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXI, R. R. 12, 29.

JOINT FAMILY AND JOINT PROPERTY.

MANAGER OF RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.

—Alienation by.
See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.

1916

MANAGING MEMBER OF JOINT HINDU FAMILY.

See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY.
33 P R 1892
53 P R 1893
45 P R 1899

Power to give discharge binding on minor.
See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY.
58 P R 1882
63 P R 1883

Power to sue on behalf of other members.
See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY.
58 P R 1882

MARK, SIGNATURE BY AFFIXING.

See LIMITATION ACT (XIV OF 1859), SECTION 4.
LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871) SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 148.

MARKET OVERT.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 108.
STOLEN PROPERTY.

MARKET-VALUE

See PRE-EMPTION. 69 P R 1882
See PRE-EMPTION—PURCHASE MONEY.

MARRIAGE.

1. Children of dharel mother.
See CUSTOM IV. 21 P R 1882

2. Of Bajju Rajput and Brahmin woman.
See CUSTOM IV. 29 P R 1883

3. "Jhanjrara" marriage.
See CUSTOM IV. 113 P R 1885

4. Of Saiyad and Panja Shahi.
See CUSTOM IV. 101 P R 1886

5. Remarriage of widow—Forfeiture of estate.
See CUSTOM IV. 137 P R 1883
123 P R 1884
80 P R 1885
81 P R 1885

6 By Karewa during lifetime of first husband.
See CUSTOM, IV. 36 P R 1881
78 P R 1884

7. Breach of promise—Suit for damages.
See BETROTHAL. 43 P R 1887

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, JURISDICTION OF.
SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, 2ND SCHEDULE, ARTICLE 35 (g).

8. Guardian for marriage—Delegation of powers—Repudiation by minor female on attaining puberty—Ratification.
See MUHAMMADAN LAW—MARRIAGE.
51 P R 1888

9. Of minor—Right to custody of girl.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR.
113 P R 1888
163 P R 1889

10. Dissolution of—
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 23.
CUSTODY OF WIFE.
193 P R 1889

1917

MARRIAGE—contd.

11. Essentials of—
See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR—GIFTS AND WILLS IN FAVOUR OF SISTER AND THEIR SONS. 69 P R 1890
CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

12. Essentials of marriage—What does not amount to marriage.

Held, that a statement made by a Muhammadan father in his will that he had accepted a certain person as husband for his daughter is not equivalent to marriage. MUSSAMMAT GHULAM FATMA v. MUSSAMMAT MAKSUDAN. 69 P R 1890

13. Between Muhammadan woman and Sikh Guru—Validity of.
See ANCESTRAL PROPERTY.
50 P R 1895

14. Evidence of—Statement of parties.

Marriage may be presumed presumptively by the statement of the parties, or their general conduct towards each other. MUSSAMMAT SATARA BEGAM v. MUSSAMMAT HUSAINI KHANAM. 16 P R 1897

15. Minor given in marriage by person other than her guardians—Suit by guardians for custody of minor.
See CUSTODY OF WIFE.
24 P R 1897

16. Marriage of minor without consent of paternal relations—Respective rights of minor's husband and paternal uncle.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR.
26 P R 1898

17. Suit for a declaration that the defendant is not the lawful wife of the plaintiff—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain such a suit when an order for maintenance passed under section 488 of the Criminal Procedure Code is in force against the plaintiff.
See HUSBAND AND WIFE.
26 P R 1903
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT.
50 P R 1901

18. Betrothal—Barter of one girl in marriage for another—Breach of promise of marriage—Void agreement—Public policy—Measure of damages.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 23.
50 P R 1903

19. Suit to establish right to betrothal and marriage of minor—Suit by collaterals against the natural guardian—Guardian and Wards Act, 1890.

Held, that the provisions of the Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, do not bar a suit against the natural or appointed guardian for the establishment of the right to betroth or give in marriage a minor by the person who claims that right. There is nothing in that Act which deprives collaterals of their rights in these matters under Hindu Law, and the Act does not provide that these rights can be established only by proceedings under it.

Brohmomoyee and another v. Kashi Chunder Sen (I. L. R. VIII Calc. 266), Sham Kuar v. Mohanunda Sahoy (I. L. R. XIX Calc.

MARRIAGE—contd.

301), Harendra Nath Chowdhury v. Brinda Rani Dassi (2 Calc. W. N. 521), Jairam Luxmon (I. L. R. XVI Bom. 634), Ghasita v. Wazira (10 P. R. 1897), and Khushal Chand Lal Chand v. Bai Mani (I. L. R. XI Bom. 247), referred to. MUSSAMMAT UTTAM DEVI AND OTHERS v. MAYA RAM AND ANOTHER. 10 P R 1904

20. Marriage—Marriage by chadar andazi between a Khatri and a Khatrani widow—Legitimacy of children of such marriage—Act XV of 1856.

Held, that a marriage by the chadar andazi form between a Khatri and a Khatrani widow is valid and legal under the provisions of Act XV of 1856 as a form of marriage giving the status to the woman of a lawful wife and making the offspring legitimate and entitled to inherit.

Lal Chand v. Thakar Devi (49 P. R. 1903) cited and followed. NATHU v. RAM DAS.
4 P R 1905

21. Marriage—Validity of karewa marriage between a Khatri and a Khatrani widow—Legitimacy of children of such marriage—Act XV of 1856.

Held, that a karewa marriage between a Khatri and a Khatrani widow is lawful and valid under the provisions of Act XV of 1856, and the offspring of such marriage is legitimate and capable of inheriting property.

Lal Chand v. Thakar Devi (49 P. R. 1903) and Nathu v. Ram Das (4 P. R. 1905), cited and followed.

Mussammat Dakho v. Mussammat Gaus (22 P. R 1889), Mussammat Devi v. Lehna Singh (46 P. R. 1891, F. B.), and Dina v. Karam Chand (52 P. R. 1899), referred to. NARAIN DAS V. GUJAR MAL.
61 P R 1905

22. Suit for dissolution of—Death of respondent pendente lite—Abatement of suit.

See ABATEMENT OF SUIT.
69 P R 1906

23. A wife's conversion from Islam to Christianity effects a complete dissolution of her existing marriage with her Muhammadan husband. IMAM DIN v, HASAN BIBI.
85 P R 1906

24. Hindu Law—Marriage—Wife's conversion to Islam—Dissolution of marriage.

Held, that apostacy of one of the parties does not in the case of Hindus per se dissolve their marriage, and a Hindu wife cannot therefore deprive her husband of the legal rights which accrued to him at marriage by simply renouncing Hinduism in favour of Islam. JAMNA DEVI v. MUL RAJ.
49 P R 1907

25. Husband and wife—Legitimacy of children—Presumption as to legitimacy of child born after marriage—Evidence Act, 1872, section 112.

MARRIAGE—contd.

Held, that on the birth of a child during marriage the presumption of legitimacy is conclusive, no matter how soon the birth occurs after the marriage. UMRA v. MUHAMMAD HAYAT. 79 P R 1907

26. Legality of a marriage with a fifth wife under Muhammadan Law.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—MARRIAGE.
6 P R 1908

27. Marriage—Repudiation by a Jat husband—Revocation—Declaratory decree—Suit by a wife for a declaration that by reason of certain acts her husband had lost his conjugal rights against her.

Plaintiff sued for a declaration that neither her husband, defendant No. 1, nor the defendant No. 2, to whom he had sold her, have conjugal rights against her. Defendant No. 1 pleaded that he had arranged to divorce her in favour of defendant No. 2, but as a fact the divorce was not completed and that an action like this did not lie. It appeared that the plaintiff was married to defendant No. 1. Some time after she left the house of her husband who instituted a complaint under section 498, Indian Penal Code, which was dismissed in consequence of his failure to trace her whereabouts. Immediately after, he executed a deed of repudiation by which he gave her to defendant No. 2, but which on cooler consideration he subsequently tore up.

Held, that the suit did lie, and the plaintiff was entitled to a decree as prayed against defendant No. 2, but that the so-called repudiation being neither clear nor public, and having been given hastily in the excitement of the moment and subsequently revoked, it was not effective, and consequently the marriage between plaintiff and the defendant No. 1 was not dissolved. ISHRI v. WADHAWA. 31 P R 1903

28. Marriage—Validity of marriage between a Rajput and a Khatrani—Legitimacy of children of such marriage.

Held, that a marriage between a Vadhyar Rajput of the Kangra District and a Khatrani is valid and legal, and the offspring of such a marriage legitimate. HARIA v. KANHYA. 72 P R 1908

29. Remarriage of divorced couple—Illegality of such marriage.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—DIVORCE.
97 P R 1908

30. Marriage of widow during her iddat —Legality of such marriage.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW, IDDAT.
29 P R 1909

31. Marriage—Chadar-andazi marriage between Minhas Rajput and a Mahajan woman.

See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.
57 P R 1909

32. Muhammadan Law—Marriage—Necessity of free consent by adult female—Acquiescence.

MARRIAGE—concld.

Held, that among Muhammadans marriage is a civil contract and that as is the case with other contracts freedom of consent in the contracting parties is one of the essential conditions of its validity.

Held also, that when a Muhammadan female attains the age of puberty she becomes sui juris in the eyes of her personal law, and a contract of marriage, to which she does not thereafter consent of her own free will, will not be binding upon her.

Held, further, that mere silence on the part of the plaintiff for two years after the marriage unaccompanied by any overt act such as would involve an unequivocal recognition by her of the subsistence of the matrimonial alliance did not under the circumstances of the case amount to acquiescence, so as to debar her form obtaining relief in the shape of a declaration of invalidity of marriage. BINDU v. MUSSAMMAT BUGLI. 73 P R 1909

33. Period of iddat.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—IDDAT.
33 P R 1887

34. Dissolution of, by conversion to Christianity.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—DIVORCE.

35. Remarriage of widow.

See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.
CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION.—I.—REMARRIAGE OR UNCHASTITY OF WIDOW.
DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE
MUHAMMADAN LAW—DIVORCE.

36. Right of offspring of permanent union to succeed as legitimate—No formal marriage.

See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

37. Of daughter by mother without father's consent.

See HINDU LAW, MARRIAGE.
64 P R 1884

38. Marriage of a minor Hindu widow by chadar andazi—Consent of lawful guardian to such marriage necessary—Presumption of legality of marriage—Khatris of Lahore—Act XV of 1856.

See HINDU LAW, MARRIAGE.
49 P R 1903

39. Validity of Karewa marriage between a Jat and Koli woman.

See CUSTOM IV.—BETROTHAL, DOWER, MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.
79 P R 1910

MARRIAGE BROCAGE CONTRACTS.

See BETROTHAL.

—Marriage brocage contract.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 23.
128 P R 1889
112 P R 1892

MARRIAGE, EFFECT OF INFORMAL, AMONG JATS.

See CUSTOM VIII. MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION.

MARRIAGE DUES.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 31 P R 1887
52 P R 1887

See SMALL CASUE COURT ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 33 P R 1887
125 P R 1888

1. Right of lambardar to levy—Wajib-ul-arz.
See CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES.

30 P R 1888

2. Suit for.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 42 P R 1893
55 P R 1893

SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1865. SECTION 6. 125 P R 1888
33 P R 1887 F. B.

3. Suit for sum payable as " dhart" and for marriage dues—Jurisdiction of Civil and Revenue Courts—Claim based on two causes of action, one cognizable by Civil Court, the other cognizable by Revenue Court,—Power of Chief Court to deal with part of decree—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (j) and section 100.

See CAUSE OF ACTION. 28 P R 1894

MARRIAGE FEES.

See CUSTOM, CESSES. 140 P R 1883
7 P R 1884
20 P R 1884
31 P R 1885

See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 166 P R 1883
75 P R 1885

MARRIED WOMAN'S PROPERTY ACT (III OF 1874).

—Married woman having no separate property—Contract entered into by—Suit instituted against married woman.

Plaintiff sued to recover from defendant, a married woman living apart from her husband, wages due for 6 months. It did not appear that the defendant had separate property. Held, therefore, that the case was not one coming within the provisions of Act III of 1874, and that being so, that the defendant was not liable upon the contract which she purported to make with the plaintiff. RAMDHAN v. CULBARD. 35 P R 1879

MARRIED WOMAN.

—Competency of, to represent a minor in an Appellate Court.

See GUARDIAN. 8 P R 1908

MATRIMONIAL JURISDICTION (Chief Court).

—Matrimonial jurisdiction—Appeal from order of single Judge of Chief Court sitting on original side—Divorce Act (IV of 1869), section 55—Punjab Courts Act XVIII of 1884), section 9 (a)—Civil Procedure Code, section 2.

Held, that an order by a single Judge of the Chief Court sitting on the original side refusing to strike off the record the name of a person impleaded as a co-respondent to a petition for dissolution of marriage and damages, is not appealable. T. v. B.

98 P R 1909

"MARSHALLING."

—Doctrine of.

See MORTGAGE—MARSHALLING.

MASANI.

—Quære—Whether masani income is "immovable property" within the definition of that term contained in Section 3, Registration Act, 1877. RAM SINGH v. HAR GOBIND.

83 P R 1891

MASTER AND SERVANT.

See CONTRACTS.
EXCISE.

1. A master can summarily dismiss a servant for gross misconduct, although there is a written agreement of employment for a specified term. BRASSEY v. MUTT.

22 P R 1868

2. Master and Servant—Dismissal.
Defendant engaged plaintiff as editor of a newspaper for a period of 12 months on a stipulated monthly salary; three months afterwards, defendants dismissed plaintiff without just cause. Plaintiff claimed to sue defendants month by month for his stipulated salary during the remaining nine months as each month's salary fell due. Held, that the suit was one for damages for breach of contract that plaintiff need not wait until the expration of the 12 months for which the contract was to run, but might sue at once—but that he could not divide the sum claimable by way of damages into periodical claims. FENWICK v. HURSOOKH RAI.

36 P R 1868

3. Complaint by master on behalf of servant.

Held, that a master could not, under Act XXV of 1861, lodge a criminal complaint for an assault upon his servant. CORBYN v. AMEER KHAN. 24 P R 1869 Cr.

MASTER AND SERVANT—concld.

4. —Wrongful dismissal—Damages.
To justify the summary dismissal of servant his misconduct must be of a marked character rendering it impossible that the relation of master and servant should continue; for instance, disobedience of lawful order, or grossly improper conduct. A skilled servant (e g. a professional bandmaster serving with a regiment) employed in India without any fixed term of service, but on the understanding that his engagement would be for a long period Held, under the circumstances of his case, entitled to six months wages in lieu of notice. RODOLPHSEN v. ROWLANDS.

43 P R 1886

5. —Master and servant—Injury to master's property—Liability of servant.
A servant broke a lamp belonging to his master. There was no special contract between the master and servant as to liabily for breakages.
Held, that the servant was not liable. A servant, in the performance of his duties, is bound to exercise reasonable care and diligence (such as an ordinarily careful person would use in the management of his own affairs) and when loss happens from mere accident, such as will occur at any time in ordinary life as was found in the present case, he (the servant) is not liable to make it good. STEIBERT v. KAMMA.

3 P R 1891

6. Master and servant—Monthly service—Consequence of leaving employment without giving sufficient notice—Right to wages.
Monthly servants are expected to give a month's notice of their intention to leave their service, therefore where a servant who was employed on a monthly engagement, and left after giving a written notice that he would leave in seven days, and would not work after the expiry of his notice. Held, that the servant was not entitled to any pay for the portion of the month during which he left his service.
Ramji Manor v. Little (10 Bom. H. C. R. 57) and Dhamee Behara v. Sevenoaks I. L. R. XIII Calc. 80), cited. KENNELLY v. ABDUL HAQ. 118 P R 1901

MATERIAL IRREGULARITY.

See APPEAL, CIVIL. 54 P R 1896
See ARBITRATION. 58 P R 1889
See BURDEN OF PROOF.
89 P R 1893
41 P R 1898
66 P R 1898
See CAUSE OF ACTION
189 P R 1888

1. In publishing or conducting sale in execution of decree
See CAUSE OF ACTION.

76 P R 1890

MATERIAL IRREGULARITY—concld.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908.
104 P R 1888
105 P R 1889
65 P R 1891
92 P R 1893
130 P R 1894
37 P R 1895
20 P R 1898

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.
3 P R 1898

See REVISION. 27 P R 1908
106 P R 1908
45 P R 1909

2. Lower Appellate Court taking wholly erroneous view of the frame of case and of plaintiff's real claim.
See REVISION. 13 P R 1910

MATTER IN ISSUE.

1. Matter which might and ought to have been made ground of attack in former suit.
See RES JUDICATA 96 P R 1881
24 P R 1882
59 P R 1882
108 P R 1882
142 P R 1884
6 P R 1886

2. Decision in former suit of matter necessary for decision of that suit—Same matter again in issue in subsequent suit.
See RES JUDICATA. 118 P R 1882

3. Dismissal of previous suit for same relief as res judicata.
See RES JUDICATA. 95 P R 1883

4. Decision of matter not essential to decision of case.
See RES JUDICATA. 29 P R 1884

5. Decision in former suit of question of plaintiff's locus standi as reversioner—Same question raised in subsequent suit.
See RES JUDICATA. 95 P R 1885

MEASURE OF DAMAGES.

See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 73, DAMAGES. 20 P R 1889
See PATENT. 115 P R 1889

MEDICAL FEES.

See FEES FOR MEDICAL ATTENDANCE.

MEMORANDUM OF APPEAL.

—Presentation by Pleader's Clerk.
See APPEAL, CIVIL. 6 P R 1896

MENIALS.

See CUSTOM XII.—VILLAGE MENIALS.

MERCANTILE USAGE.

See CUSTOM IX.—MERCANTILE USAGE.
34 P R 1886
79 P R 1895

MERGER.

1. Of mortgage in previous money decree.
See ESTOPPEL. 32 P R 1910

2. Of mortgage in sale.
See EVIDENCE. 30 P R 1884

3. Of decree in subsequent arrangement—Arrangement enforceable by suit and not by execution.
See EXECUTION OF DECREE.
51 P R 1885

4. Of prior in subsequent mortgage.
See MORTGAGE. 173 P R 1882

5. Of mortgage in sale.
See MORTGAGE—MERGER.

6. Of old liability in new contract.
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 49. 17 P R 1881

7. Of tort in felony.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 26 P R 1883

8. Held, that when a mortgagee purchases the equity of redemption in respect of the land mortgaged the mortgagee rights merge in the rights of ownership.
See SRI RAM v. RAMJI DASS.
59 P R 1909

MESNE PROFITS.

1. Second suit for mesne profits when they were not claimed in first suit.

Unless the decree declares mesne profits to be payable, the Court acting in the execution of the decree cannot decide the amount of mesne profits ; and neither mesne profits before nor after the institution of the suit nor after date of decree, can be given by such Court. But where the decree is silent on the subject, mesne profits may be recovered by separate action, section 196 of Act VIII of 1859 does not bar a separate suit where mesne profits have not been asked for in the plaint ; and section 11 of Act XXIII of 1861, while forbidding a suit for that which is declarable in a miscellaneous order, does not prohibit a distinct suit, which a suit for mesne profits is expressly declared to be by section 10 of Act VIII of 1859 NAWAB MAHOMED KOOTUB-OOD-DEEN v. MAHOMED NIJABUT ALI KHAN. 44 P R 1869

2. Second suit for mesne profits from date of decree in first suit to recovery of possession.

Plaintiff obtained a decree for possession of land and mesne profits to date of decree. He afterwards sued for mesne profits from that date up to the time of obtaining possession. Held, that the suit would not lie, but that the question of mesne profits up to time of plaintiff's obtaining possession should have been disposed of by the Court executing the decree in the first suit, under section 11, Act XXIII of 1861. SADID-UD-DIN v. SALIM-UD-DIN. 72 P R 1875

3. Suit for possession—Previous suit for mesne profits.
See SPLITTING CAUSE OF ACTION.
138 P R 1882

4. Suit for profits of land alleged to be due from defendant as agent—Subsequent suit for possession.
See SPLITTING CAUSE OF ACTION.
59 P R 1883

MESNE PROFITS—contd.

5. Dismissal of suit for, on ground of non-accrual of right till redemption of land—Subsequent suit after redemption.
See RES JUDICATA. 69 P R 1883

6. Suit for recovery of mesne profits which accrued between date of obtaining possession under first decree and payment under final decree.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 60 P R 1890

7. Suit for mesne profits against co-sharer—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 47 P R 1891

8. Suit for land and mesne profits.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 19 P R 1892

9. Suit for mesne profits realised by a receiver—Value of suit—Course of appeal.
See APPEAL, CIVIL. 40 P R 1892

10. Suit for possession of land and for damages by way of mesne profits—Joint holding—Amendment of plaint in the Chief Court into a suit for a declaratory decree only.
See PLAINT—AMENDMENT OF.
103 P R 1893

11. Suit for compensation for forcibly cutting and carrying away reeds—Suit by a co-sharer in holding for a share of the profits thereof.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 119 P R 1894

12. Execution of decree—Appellate Court—Restoration of land to party dispossessed—Award of mesne profits for period of dispossession.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 141 (1). 23 P R 1896

13. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 244—Application for recovery of mesne profits which accrued between the date of decree and of delivery of possession—Jurisdiction—Value of suit—Course of appeal—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 39.

Held, that section 244 (c) of the Code of Civil Procedure does not empower an executing Court to determine the amount of mesne profits due to a decree-holder in a case in which the decree does not mention mesne profits.

Held, also, that when an appeal from the decree in the original suit lay to the Divisional Court, the appeal from an order in execution of that decree lay to the same Court, and the fact that the decree-holder wrongfully claimed in execution proceedings mesne profits in excess of the appellate jurisdiction of that Court does not oust that Court's jurisdiction.

Jamayat Singh v Nihal Chand (60 P. R. 1890). Ram Ghulam v. Dyarka Rai (I. L. R. VII All. 170), Man Mohan v. The Secretary of State for India (I. L. R. XVII Calc. 968), Kalka Singh v Paras Ram (I. L. R. XXII Calc. 434, P. C.), Tola Ram v. Daviditta (55 P. R. 1887), and Sardar Kirpal Singh v. Nawab Khan (40 P. R. 1892), cited. KHAZAN SINGH AND OTHERS v. KHUSHAL SINGH AND OTHERS. 29 P R 1902

MESNE PROFITS—concld.

14. Course of appeal in a suit for mesne profits where the value of the subject matter in dispute is less than Rs. 500—Provincial Small Cause Court Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 31.

See APPEAL, CIVIL. 35 P R 1902

MILITARY LAW.

—Persons subject to—Jurisdiction over.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, JURISDICTION OF. 21 P R 1887
111 P R 1887 F. B.
110 P R 1890
1 P R 1893 F. B.
48 P R 1893

MILITARY OFFICER.

1. Suit for debts and personal actions against, when not residing within the jurisdiction of Court where the cause of action arose.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 20. 93 P R 1900

2. Suit against—Jurisdiction—Court of Requests.

See SMALL CAUSE COURT, JURISDICTION OF. 21 P R 1887
111 P R 1887 F. B.
110 P R 1890
1 P R 1893 F. B.
48 P R 1893

MISREPRESENTATION.

See BANK CONTRACT. 41 P R 1886
ESTOPPEL—FRAUD. 150 P R 1908
JURISDICTION. 72 P R 1891

—Of age by minor—Vendee acting in good faith—Refund of purchase money.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT. 76 P R 1910

MUNSIFF, SUBORDINATION OF TO DEPUTY COMMISSIONER.

See SANCTION FOR PROSECUTION.

—Power to revise order of Divisional Judge relating to.

See PUNJAB COURTS ACT, 1884, SECTION 13. 42 P R 1888

MINOR.

1. Succession of son of former lambardar, who failed to succeed his father through minority.

See LAMBARDARS. 5 P R 1881

2. Donee, gift to.

See CUSTOM, ALIENATION. 101 P R 1881
177 P R 1883
106 P R 1886

See MUHAMMADAN LAW, GIFT. 19 P R 1881
86 P R 1882

3.—Disability of—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 7. 103 P R 1881
31 P R 1884
91 P R 1885
128 P R 1894

4. Suit by minor through his mother to contest alienation assented to by the mother—Inability of guardian to repudiate her own acts—Remedy of minor.

MINOR—contd.

In a suit brought on behalf of a minor by his mother, as his natural guardian, to recover possesssion of a plot of land, which the defendant pleaded had been mortgaged to him with the mother's free consent by the minor's uncle who described himself as the "sarbarah" or manager of the minor's estate, held, that it is a well recognized principle of law that no one should be permitted to avoid his own deliberate act unless upon some special and equitable ground, as, for instance, that fraud or deception was practised upon him, and that the same principle should be equally applied to debar a minor's guardian from repudiating his own acts, though it would be open to the minor to challenge such acts on attaining his majority, and it would also be open to any person having an interest in the minor to sue as his next friend while he was still a minor, where the nearest relation happened to be the person who either withheld the right claimed, or, as in the present case, where he had debarred himself from contesting the particular transaction which was deemed injurious. GANDA v. JAWAND SINGH. 112 P R 1881

5. Minority of son of deceased lambardar —Unfitness.

See LAMBARDAR. 3 P R 1882
10 P R 1885

6. Custody of minor—Act IX of 1861, sections 3, 4—Rival claimants for guardianship—Question of fitness of guardian—Muhammadan law—Reference to arbitration —Power of Court to delegate the exercise of its discretion.

In a suit for custody of a minor brought by the grandfather of the boy (his father being dead) against the mother, in which each of the claimants objected to the other as an unfit person, the Court drew an issue as to which party was under Muhammadan law entitled to the custody of the boy's person, and having allowed the parties to appoint an arbitrator to determine this question, decreed according to the award in favor of the grandfather.

Held, that as the suit was one of the nature described in section 1 of Act IX of 1861, and therefore under section 3 the Court was not bound to decide according to Muhammadan law, it was bound to consider the fitness of the claimants, and to appoint no one who was not in its judgment a fit person to take charge of the minor. If, according to its judgment, both were equally fit, it might then be proper to consider which would be the guardian under Muhammadan law.

Held further, that section 4 of Act IX of 1861 did not render the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code as to arbitration applicable to the present case, as the person really interested in the result was the minor on whose behalf, and not for any interest of their own, both parties professed to claim; and further, that as the appointment of a fit persen was a matter resting in the discretion of the Court, it was not entitled to delegate the exercise of its discretion to an arbitrator. MUSSAMMAT FAZLAN v. MURAD. 42 P R 1882

MINOR—contd.

7. Member of undivided family—Power of manager to sue on behalf of.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTION 22. 58 P R 1882

8. Defendant—Omission to appoint guardian ad litem.

—Application for review on behalf of—Guardian ad litem must institute.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. 3. 100 P R 1882

9. Suing by next friend—Removal of next friend for misconduct—Omission to appoint another guardian.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. 1. 125 P R 1882

10. Liability of guardian of, for breach of betrothal contract.

See BETROTHAL. 197 P R 1882

11. Suit against guardian for specified sums received during plaintiff's minority—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECOND SCHEDULE, ART. 62, 56 P R 1883

12. Member of undivided family—Power of manager to give discharge binding on.

See HINDU LAW VIII.—JOINT FAMILY. 63 P R 1883

13. Members of undivided family—Suit for debt against elder brother alone—Absence of proof that elder brother was sued in representative capacity—Power to go behind decree.

See HINDU LAW VIII.—JOINT FAMILY. 70 P R 1883

14. Alienation by guardian—Punjab Laws Act, section 5—Muhammadan law—Custom—Validity of mortgage—Near guardian—Minor benefitting by invalid acts of guardian —Compensation.

In a suit for possession of certain land mortgaged to the plaintiff by the step-mother of the infant son of the deceased owner, it was urged in the appeal to the Chief Court that the lower appellate Court was wrong in holding that the case was governed by Muhammadan law, as under section 5 of the Punjab Laws Act the Muhammadan law is only made applicable where the parties are Muhammadans, while the plaintiff in the present case was a Hindu; and further, that before the Muhammadan law was applied it was necessary to ascertain whether there was any custom applicable, which should be the rule of decision under the said section, and which either modified the Muhammadan law or excluded its operation

Held, that the plaintiff, though a party to the suit, was only so far concerned that he was suing to enforce the alienation, and as he could only take what the person who made the alienation had the power to convey, the question what her powers were could only be determined by the personal law applicable to the guardianship of a Muhammadan minor.

MINOR—contd.

Held further, that no custom either modifying or excluding the Muhammadan law having been pleaded, and there being nothing to show that there was the remotest probability of any such custom being proved if the case were remanded for the purpose, the Court would not be justified in ordering a remand for enquiry whether any such custom existed, especially as it was not alleged that the plaintiff would be able to prove that there was such a custom.

It appeared that the consideration for the mortgage in the above case was the principal and interest due on a prior mortgage by way of collateral security executed by the minor defendant's father, the mortgage sued on being one with possession, not carrying interest, the mortgagee being entitled to take the income of the land in lieu of interest, the transaction therefore not being on the face of it disadvantageous to the minor's estate, and, so far as appeared, entered into in good faith for the benefit of the minor : but it was admitted that the persons who effected the mortgage were neither near guardians, as defined by Muhammadan law, nor testamentary guardians, and had therefore no right to the management of the minor's property, and did not possess even the restricted power of alienation of immovable property given by that law to near guardians.

Held, therefore, that the mortgage sued upon must be held to be invalid.

It was further contended that, though the plaintiff could not enforce the mortgage, the Court had an equitable power of obliging the defendant who had benefited by it to restore or make compensation for the advantage he had received, by paying to the plaintiff the principal and interest due on his father's mortgage.

Held, that though where a plaintiff has had to come into Court to get the acts of his guardian during his minority set aside, and is found to have benefited from those acts to some extent, such a condition has been attached to the decree in his favor, there was no authority for holding that a person, suing to enforce a mortgage made by a person who had no authority to mortgage the property, was entitled to a decree against the owner of the property, who resisted his claim, for compensation for any advantage the owner might have derived from the transaction. Alla Ditta v. Himmat (No. 52 P. R. 1872, Civil), Devi Sahai v. Mangal Sein (No. 81 P. R., 1874, Civil, F. B.) Mussammat Lalli Begam v. Nawab Mahomed Azmat Ali Khan (No. 13 P. R., 1875, Civil), and Nawab Mahammad Azmat Ali Khan v. Mussammat Lalli Begam (No. 17 P. R., 1882, Civil P. C.) cited. ANANT RAM v. NAZIR HUSSAIN. 144 P R 1883

15. Contract Act (IX of 1872), sections 2, 11, 68—Contract made by minor—Void agreement—Advance to minor for benefit of his estate—" Necessaries suited to his condition in life"—Reimbursement.

MINOR—contd.

A minor being, with reference to section 11 of the Contract Act, absolutely incompetent to enter into a contract, a mortgage by a minor held to be not merely a " voidable contract " but a " void agreement " within the definition in section 2 of the Act.

But, it having been found that the loan in question was given to save a valuable estate belonging to the minor from sale in execution of decree, held, that the said loan must be taken to have been supplied for " necessaries suited to the minor's condition in life " within the meaning of section 68 of the Contract Act, and that, therefore, though the mortgage was void the mortgagee might fairly be held to have a lien on the property of which he was put in possession as consideration for the advance of the money, which was required for the benefit of the minor's estate.

Held, therefore, that though the plaintiff was not bound by the mortgage, his claim, which was one to recover possession of the property mortgaged, must be dismissed, on the ground that he had not offered to make compensation for the benefit that he had received, and that, until he did so, he was not entitled to recover possession from the defendant. KIDAR NATH v. AJUDHIA PERSHAD. 165 P R 1883

16. —Capacity of, to contract to pay dower.
See MUHAMMADAN LAW—DOWER.
155 P R 1884

17. —Abandonment of occupancy tenure by.
156 P R 1884

18. —Power of next friend of, to refer to arbitration.
See ARBITRATION 92 P R 1885

19. Acknowledgment by guardian of—Duly authorised agent.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19.
25 P R 1886

20. Sale of goods to firm represented by—Liability of assets of business for such debt—Act XL of 1858.

Plaintiffs sued to recover the value of certain goods sold to a firm after the death of its owner leaving two minor sons (the business being in the meanwhile continued by gomashtas), and before the appointment of guardians of the minors and managers of their property had been made under Act XL of 1858.

Held, that all the assets of the business were liable for such debts, but any property of the minors inherited from their father and not belonging to the business could not be held liable ; nor were the persons of the minors liable to arrest for the business debts. BEHARI LAL v. CHATTAN LAL.
25 P R 1886

21. Act IX of 1861, section 3—Custody of minor—Discretion of Court.

Under section 3 of Act IX of 1861, the Court has a very wide discretion in cases relating to the custody of minors, but such discretion should be exercised with reference to what appears to be the arrangement most likely to be for the minor's benefit. NIZAM v. ALAYAR. 26 P R 1886

MINOR—contd.

22. Guardianship of minor—Application by mother who had previously entrusted her children to a third party under an agreement not to take them back during their minority without repaying the outlay incurred—Mother's right to an unconditional order notwithstanding such agreement.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR.
15 P R 1887

23. Custody of minor—Division of guardianship between two guardians.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR.
44 P R 1887

24. Sale made by minor—Void contract—Benefit of section 65 not claimable where contract is void ab initio.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 11.
23 P R 1888

25. Suit by ward after attaining majority for accounts—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, 2ND SCHEDULE, ARTICLE 120.
59 P R 1888

26. Bond excuted by defendant after attaining majority for money advanced to him by plaintiff during his minority—Agreement—Consideration.
See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 25.
86 P R 1888

27. Contract with minor—Mortgage—Suit for possession—Mortgagee aware of mortgagor's minority—Mortgage not beneficial to minor's interests—Agreement discovered to be void—Obligation of person who has received advantage—Restoration to possession conditional on repayment of consideration applied to benefit of estate.
See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 11.
96 P R 1888

28. Application by father for custody of minor girl—Defendant setting up marriage with the girl performed in absence of father by authority of her mother—Defendant's right to inquiry as to validity of marriage set up by him—Summary proceeding—Separate suit—Custom of Kapur Khatris of Amritsar—Right to custody of girl.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR.
113 P R 1888

29. Power to appoint two managers of property of minor.
See GUARDIAN. 181 P R 1888

30. Certificate—Specification of property of minor.
See GUARDIAN. 15 P R 1889

31. Next friend of a minor offering to be bound by the oath of his adversary—Agreement without leave of Court not binding on minor—Inquiry into minor's benefit.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII R. 7 18 P R 1889

32. Mode of appointment of a guardian of a minor.
See GUARDIAN. 105 P R 1889

33. Compromise by guardian ad litem without the sanction of the Court in which the suit was pending.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, R. 3. 105 P R 1889

34. Revocation of certificate granted to guardian—Making over the property to

1933

MINOR—contd.

successor—Accounting for money received and disbursed.
See GUARDIAN. 117 P R 1889

35. Guardianship of landholder minor.
See GUARDIAN. 124 P R 1889

36. Guardianship of minor for purposes of marriage—Discretion of Court under Act IX of 1861—Principles on which such discretion should be exercised.
See CUSTODY OF MINOR. 163 P R 1889

37. Suit by next friend of minor—Absence of certificate—Omission to record a formal order granting permission to sue—Irregularity.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. R. 1, 4 (2). 166 P R 1889

38. Next friend of a minor offering to be bound by the oath of his adversary—Agreement without leave of Court not binding on minor—Inquiry into minor's benefit—Necessity of express sanction.
See CIVIL PROCRDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. 7. 186 P R 1889

39. Guardianship of minor's property.
See GUARDIAN. 202 P R 1889

40. Acknowledgment—Duly authorized agent—Sale of goods to firm represented by minors—Appointment of two joint guardians by Court under Act XL of 1858—Power of one guardian to sign acknowledgment on his own behalf and on behalf of his co-guardian.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19. 7 P R 1890

41. Sale of minor's property by a certificated guardian with sanction of Court.
See GUARDIAN. 56 P R 1890

42. Suit by minor on attaining majority to set aside a sale by persons purporting to act as guardian.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 44. 51 P R 1891

43. Lease of ward's property to guardian—Introduction of outsider into management of ancestral holding.
See GUARDIAN. 78 P R 1892

44. Regulation XVII of 1806—Application to foreclose—Minor—Notice how to be served.

Held, that the presentation of a written petition under section 8, Regulation XVII of 1806, by a person acting under a general power of attorney from the holder of a deed of mortgage, was a valid one.

Held, further, that the copy of the application and parwana referred to in the section in question were sufficiently served on a minor mortgagee, for whom no guardian had been appointed under the Act, by service on his brother with whom he lived.

2 N. W. P. Reps., 444, followed. LAL SINGH v. GOPAL DAS. 94 P R 1892

45. Suit by minor on attaining majority to set aside a sale by persons purporting to act as guardian.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 44. 135 P R 1892

1934

MINOR—contd.

46. Setting aside decree passed on a compromise—Minor—Guardian ad litem—Fraud in equity—Knowledge.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, R. 3. 24 P R 1893

47. Disability of minor—Application for execution presented more than 12 years after date of decree—Minor not exempted from operation of law of limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 7. 128 P R 1894

48. Conduct of natural guardian—Application by father who had changed his religion for the guardianship of his minor sons.
See GUARDIAN. 84 P R 1894

49. Suit for custody of wife—Minors—Reference to arbitrators—Sanction of Court.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. 7. 37 P R 1895

50. Suit on behalf of minor for partition of joint family property.
See HINDU LAW—PARTITION. 104 P R 1895

51. Acknowledgment of debt by Court of Wards as guardian of minor.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19. 1 P R 1897

52. Application by guardian for custody of minor—Appeal—Revision.
See REVISION IN CIVIL CASES. 13 P R 1897

53. Suit by minor against guardian for an account and for possession of immovable property.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 7. 33 P R 1897

54. Suit against minor—No formal order appointing guardian ad litem—Informal sanction of Court.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. R. 3 (1), 4 (2). 67 P R 1897

55. Disability of minor—Application for execution presented more than 12 years after date of decree—Minor not exempted from operation of law of limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 7. 69 P R 1897

56 A minor should not be made a ward of his heir—but there is no objection to the appointment of such a person as guardian of the minor's property as distinct from the minor's person.
See GUARDIAN. 137 P R 1893
54 P R 1898

57. *Suit by minor to set aside decree—*Bona fides of previous guardian ad litem.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 85 P R 1898

58. Creditor—Liability of minor on balance struck by de facto guardian.

Held, that a balance struck by a de facto guardian on behalf of a minor should be strictly examined. The minor will not be bound unless great care and caution are shown by the guardian and the transaction is proved to be for the minor's benefit. HIRA SINGH v. CHETU. 97 P R 1898

1935

MINOR—contd.

59. Minor—Compromise of suit—Sanction of Court—Statement of minor at mutation proceedings—Estoppel.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXXII, R. 7 17 P R 1899

60. Preliminary issue as to whether defendant was a minor at time of suit—Issue decided against defendant by first Court, but suit dismissed on the merits—Finding by lower Appellate Court that defendant was a minor—Case remanded for trial after appointment of guardian ad litem—Procedure.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XLI, R. 23. 23 P R 1899

61. Period of minority where guardian has once been appointed but appointment considered improper by Appellate Court—Indian Majority Act (IX of 1875), section 3—Guardian and Wards Act (VIII of 1890), section 52.

The District Judge, on 11th July 1898, appointed one Jowahir Lal guardian of the property and person of the present respondent, that appointment was set aside by the Chief Court on 14th February 1899, the case being remanded to the original Court with a direction that some other reliable person should be appointed. After the remand the respondent alleged that as he had attained his age of 18 on the 25th March 1899, he was no longer a minor, the lower Court finding that statement correct, refused to appoint a guardian. On appeal to the Chief Court on the ground, among others, that when once a guardian had been appointed by Court of Justice the age of majority is extended to 21 years.

Held, per Anderson and Robertson, JJ, that the respondent's allegation as to his attaining the age of 18 on 25th March 1899 was substantially true.

Held, per Clark, C. J., and Robertson J., (Anderson, J. dissenting), that no guardian for the minor can be said to have been appointed or declared when the appointment itself was set aside on appeal as improper, and that the order of appointment of a guardian under those circumstances did not extend period of minority from 18 to 21 years.

Gordhandas Jadowji v. Harivalubhdas Bhaidas (I. L. R. XXI Bom. 281), distinguished. MUSSAMMAT CHUNDAN v. MINA MAL. 45 P R 1900 F. B.

62. Suit against minor—Appointment of guardian ad litem Suit when instituted.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 4. 18 P R 1901

63. Suit by minor on attaining majority to set aside a sale by his guardian—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 44. 19 P R 1902

64. Suit to recover money spent in connection with the guardianship of a minor—Suit relating to a trust- Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT, JURISDICTION, OF. 58 P R 1903

MINOR—contd.

65. Minor—Suit to establish right to betrothal and marriage of minor—Suit by collaterals against the natural guardian—Guardian and Wards Act, 1890.

Held, that the provisions of the Guardian and Wards Act, 1890, do not bar a suit against the natural or appointed guardian for the establishment of the right to betroth or give in marriage a minor by the person who claims that right. There is nothing in that Act, which deprives collaterals of their rights in these matters under Hindu Law and the Act does not provide that these rights can be established only by proceedings under it.

Brohmomoyee and another v. Kashi Chunder Sen (I. L. R. VIII Calc. 266), Sham Kuar v. Mohanunda Sahoy (I. L. R. XIX Calc. 301), Harendra Nath Chowdhury v. Brinda Rani Dassi (2 Calc. W. N. 521), Jairam Luxmon (I. L. R. XVI Bom. 634), Ghasita v. Wazira (10 P.R. 1897), and Khushal Chand Lal Chand v. Bai Mani (I. L. R. XI Bom. 247), referred to. MUSSAMMAT UTTAM DEVI AND OTHERS v. MAYA RAM AND ANOTHER. 10 P R 1904

66. Limitation—Minor—Suit by minor on attaining majority to recover land mortgaged by his guardian—Limitation Act, Schedule II, article 91.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, 2ND SCHEDULE, ARTICLE 91 23 P R 1904

67. Minor—Sale of minor's property by next friend—Validity of sale—Necessity—Sale not beneficial to minor's interest—Refund of purchase money paid to minor with knowledge of minority—Liability of minor in equity—Contract Act, 1872, sections 11, 65—Specific Relief Act, 1877, sections 39, 41.

Held, that a sale of minor's property by a brother who was neither a guardian legally constituted nor a natural guardian under the minor's personal law is void ab initio and cannot be upheld except on the ground of its being justified by the necessities of the minor or of his estate or beneficial to his interests.

When a person deals with a minor with full knowledge of his minority he is not entitled to claim from him equity when compelled to restore matters to the status quo. It is not just to compel a person to pay any money in respect of a transaction which against him is void

Mohori Bibee v. Dharmodas Ghose (I. L. R. XXX Calc. 539, P. C), and Thurston v. Nottingham Permanent Benefit Building Society (L. R. 1. Ch. 1902, 1). INDER SINGH v. NARINDAR SINGH. 33 P R 1904

68. Minor—Mortgage of minor's property by de facto guardian—Validity of mortgage—Necessity—Mortgage beneficial to minor's interests—Liability of minor in equity—Specific Relief Act, 1877, sections 38, 41.

The mother and de facto guardian of a Muhammadan minor mortgaged the property of her minor son in order to discharge ordinary debts incurred mostly by his father for the support of the family. After attaining majority the minor filed a suit to avoid the mortgage on the ground that the contract being void ab initio he was entitled to be put in possession without recognizing the defendant at all.

MINOR—contd.

Held, that although the plaintiff's mother was not legally authorised to act as his guardian, the money advanced must be taken to have been borrowed for necessaries and the alienation beneficial to his interest, and that therefore under sections 38 and 41 of the Specific Relief Act, a Court administering equitable principles is justified in exercising its discretion to compel the plaintiff to restore matters to the status quo, which should not have been interfered with by the Appellate Court without giving reason.

Mohori Bibee v. Dharmodas Ghose (I. L. R. XXX Calc. 539 P. C.) and Thurston v. Nottingham Permanent Benefit Building Society (L. R. 1 Ch. (1902) 1), explained and distinguished.

Dharm Singh v. Sayad Zohur-ul-Hussain (53 P. R. 1891), Mastu v. Nand Lal (73 P R. 1890 F. B.), Jowhir v. Mussammat Chandi (90 P. R. 1899), and Devi Ditta v. Soudagar Singh (65 P. R. 1900, F. B.) referred to. ALLAH DAD v. BUDHA. 52 P R 1904

69. Minor—Settlement on behalf of a Muhammadan minor by his brothers—Competency of minor to repudiate through a next friend such settlement without restoring other party to position he occupied at time of arrangement—Maintainability of suit.

Held, that no suit can be maintained on behalf of a minor to set aside a settlement which has been made on his behalf by his brother during his minority and had been acted upon by the other party thereto, even on the ground that under Muhammadan Law the brothers had no power to contract on behalf of their minor brother, without first restoring that party to the position which he occupied at the time the settlement was made. NUR MUHAMMAD v. AIMNA.

91 P R 1907

70. Competency of a married woman to represent a minor in an Appellate Court.

See GUARDIAN.

8 P R 1908

71. Competency of, to sue for breach of his betrothal made by his father.

See RIGHT OF SUIT.

3 P R 1909
83 P R 1909

72. Minority at the date of alienation can only extend the period of limitation to three years from the date when the youngest of the plaintiffs attains his majority.

See LIMITATION.

100 P R 1909

73. Age of majority among Muhammadans.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—AGE OF MAJORITY.

74. Marriage of a minor Hindu widow by chadar andazi—Consent of lawful guardian to such marriage necessary—Presumption of legality of marriage—Khatris of Lahore—Act XV of 1856.

MINOR—contd.

See HINDU LAW, MARRIAGE.

75. Pledge of joint family property by elder brothers, how far binding on minor brothers—Muhammadan Law.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—JOINT FAMILY.

76. Marriage of minor contracted by mother in lifetime of father—Effect of delegation of his right by nearer to more remote guardian—Power of minor female whose marriage has been contracted by guardian other than father to repudiate on attaining puberty—Ratification.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—MARRIAGE.

77. Lease of a portion of the property by guardian—Inability of minor to claim pre-emption—Estoppel.

See ESTOPPEL. 2 P R 1903

78. Minor—appearance by—Guardian ad litem—Effect of decree against minor.

Where in the Lower Appellate Court one of the respondents, a girl who was a minor was described merely as being plaintiff's wife and not as a minor, and the appeal was decided without any guardian ad litem having been appointed to her.

Held, that the girl, not having been represented by a guardian, could not be treated as having appeared, though actually present in Court, and that the decree could not be treated merely as an ex parte decree, and must be set aside. MUSSAMMAT IDO v. RULIA.

35 P R 1910

79. Sale by minor—Misrepresentation—Vendee acting in good faith—Refund of purchase money.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT.

76 P R 1910

80. Alienation by guardion—Muhammadan Law.

See CUSTOM—ALIENATION.

81. The occupancy rights of minors are not lost, if they fail to manage the cultivation, their minority being a sufficient cause for their failure to cultivate.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

3 P R 1910

82. Minor and guardian—Appointment of guardian of person of a minor—Joint Hindu family—jointness—separation.

Held, following Gharibullah v. Khalak Singh (1903) I. L. R. 25 All. 407 that the fact that a Hindu minor and his uncle are joint in property as members of a joint Hindu family, does not bar the appointment of a third person as guardian of the minor's person, but does bar the appointment of such person as guardian of the minor's property.

Held, also, that the fact that a Hindu minor is under the care of a person not interested as an heir does not of itself terminate the relations of the minor and his uncle inter se as members of a joint Hindu family—and that a suit by the uncle against the minor, to establish the fact that a mortgage transaction effected by the minor's father was on behalf of the joint family, does not effect a separation.

MINOR—concld.

Held, further, that there is no inconsistency in a guardian of the minor's person being appointed without any appointment of a guardian of the joint property, of which he is a co-parcener. RAM KISHEN v. BELI RAM.

23 P R 1910

83. Minor—Mortgage by—after attaining majority, for consideration received during minority—Validity of—Indian Contract Act, IX of 1872, section 25 (2)—Rule laid down in 59 P. R. 1907 (F.B.), as to necessity of full consideration for a mortgage, explained.

Held, that it is not open to a mortgagor who had to his own knowledge received the whole of the money which is the actual consideration for the contract and had to receive nothing more, to plead subsequently that the mortgage was incomplete and void simply because the deed of mortgage recited more consideration than was actually paid. The rule laid down in No. 59 P. R. 1907 (F. B). (Gokal Chand v. Rahman), is not applicable to such a case, the consideration for the mortgage relating not to a future payment, but to an alleged payment in the past.

Held also, that although it was now settled law that a promise by an infant is a mere nullity and void, yet an agreement made by a person of full age to compensate wholly or in part a promisor who had already voluntarily done something for the promisor even at a time when the promisor was a minor, did fall within the terms of section 25, clause (2) of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, and consequently a mortgage made for this purpose was binding on the representatives in interest of the mortgagor, but merely to the extent of compensating the mortgagee for moneys and articles actually supplied to the mortgagor during his minority as well as after he came of age.

Indram Ramaswami v. Authappa—(1906) 16 Mad. L. J. 422, differed from.

31 P R 1911

MISCONDUCT OF ARBITRATORS.

See APPEAL, CIVIL. 72 P R 1881
184 P R 1882
17 P R 1883

See ARBITRATION.

MISCONDUCT OF PLEADER.

See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ACT (XVIII OF 1879).

24 P R 1881

MISJOINDER.

See CAUSE OF ACTION.
JOINDER OF PARTIES.

MISJOINDER—concld.

1. Hindu Law—Custom—Succession of adopted son to share of birt—Panjzati Brahmins of Amritsar city—Suit for declaratory decree and for a sum of money—Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), section 42, proviso.

Plaintiff, one of the sons of R. K. sued the other descendants of R. K. and of D. for a declaration that he was the adopted son of N. C., a brother of R. K. and D., and as such was entitled to succeed to N. C.'s one-third share of the family birt, and also for a money decree for one-third of the birt alleged to be in the hands of defendants at the time of the institution of the suit. The parties were Panjzati Brahmins of Amritsar city. The first Court found that plaintiff was in fact the adopted son of N. C. and gave him the declaratory decree prayed for and also a money decree for part of the amount claimed. On appeal by one of the defendants, the plaintiff was informed by the Divisional Judge that he could not in the same suit ask for a declaratory decree and for a money decree for birt. Plaintiff thereupon elected to proceed with his claim for a money decree for a birt only, and the Divisional Judge confirmed the decree of the first Court as a whole. On appeal to the Chief Court, it was contended on behalf of the appellant that the suit having been reduced in the lower Appellate Court to one for a money decree for birt only became a small cause, and that neither of the lower Courts had jurisdiction to try it.

Held, that having regard to the proviso to section 42 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, the plaintiff was entitled to institute the suit as laid, and, as laid, both Courts had jurisdiction to try it.

Held, further, that plaintiff's election to proceed for the suit for a money decree only having been forced on him by a ruling or expression of opinion by the Court, plaintiff was not bound thereby. BHAGAT RAM v. SHIV DATT. 141 P R 1894

2. Joinder of plaintiffs—Persons jointly interested in a suit—Claims not antagonistic—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 26, 27, 31.

See PARTIES. 38 P R 1903

3. Of causes of action—where plaintiffs as reversioners sue for a declaration in one suit in regard to several alienations.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908.

93 P R 1909 P. C.

MISJOINDER OF CAUSES OF ACTION.

See MULTIFARIOUSNESS.

MISREPRESENTATION.

See BANK.
JURISDICTION.

MISTAKE.

1. Money paid under mistake—Act IX of 1872, section 72.

A. obtained a decree against plaintiff in the Meerut Court; defendants (Delhi Bank)

MISTAKE—concld.

obtained a decree against A. in the Delhi Court Under an order of the Delhi Court, plaintiff paid defendants the amount of their decree against A. Execution was then taken out in the Meerut Court by A. against plaintiff, who pleaded that he had paid the amount to the Delhi Bank. The Court over-ruled the objection, holding that it could not recognize the payment at Delhi; whereupon plaintiff paid A. the amount of his decree. Plaintiff sued defendants to recover back the money paid by him at Delhi in satisfaction of the defendants' decree against A. Held, that plaintiff was entitled to recover the money from the defendants under section 72 of Act IX of 1872; the payment having been made under a mistake. THE DELHI and LONDON BANK v. SKINNER. 11 P R 1873

2. Money paid—Knowledge of facts.

Money paid voluntarily and with a full knowledge of all the facts, to satisfy a claim which the plaintiff could have successfully resisted, cannot be afterwards recovered; but there must be actual knowledge, and not merely the means of acquiring a knowledge of the facts. A man who pays money under a mistake of fact after a superficial examination, may, on making a more thorough examination and discovering his mistake, maintain an action to recover his money. PERTAB SINGH v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE.

94 P R 1876

3. Mistake of law or fact—Voluntary payment—Suit to recover—Construction of document.

Where A. misconstruing the terms of a lease, made payments or granted remissions of money to B. and subsequently sued B. to recover back the money on the ground that it had been paid or remitted by mistake. Held, that such mistake was one of law, or ignorance of a particular right, and not a mistake of fact, and, therefore, that A. was not entitled to recover. KHAZAN SINGH v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE. 33 P R 1878

4. Liability of person to whom money is paid under mistake of fact.

A. was a tenant holding under B. On B.'s death he was induced to take a lease of the same property from B.'s widow to whom he regularly paid rent. Subsequently the executors of B. sued A. and obtained a decree for the full amount of the rent due from him since B.'s death.

Held, that as the parties entered into the agreement under a mistake of fact, A. was entitled under the provisions of section 72 of the Indian Contract Act to recover back the whole amount he paid as rent to B.'s widow.

Cooper v. Phipps (L. R. 2 H. L. 149), and Ragnath Sahai v. Mam Raj (80 P. R. 1895), followed. RAM KISHEN v. RANI BHAGWAN KAUR. 131 P R 1906

MONEY PAID OUT OF COURT IN SATISFACTION OF DECREE, AND NOT CERTIFIED.

1. Suit to recover.

See RIGHT TO SUE. 47 P R 1881
182 P R 1882
11 P R 1883
83 P R 1884

1942

MONEY PAID OUT OF COURT IN SATISFACTION OF DECREE AND NOT CERTIFIED—concld.

2. Suit for—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 132.
90 P R 1881
55 P R 1884

MONEY

1. Had and received to plaintiff's use.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURTS
123 P R 1883

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877).
194 P R 1882
56 P R 1883
96 P R 1886

See SMALL CAUSE COURT—JURISDICTION OF.
51 P R 1882
50 P R 1887
51 P R 1887

2. Suit for money paid in consideration of illegal contract.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 23.
46 P R 1887

3 Paid under unlawful agreement, recovery of.
See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 65.
66 P R 1895

4. Paid to agent for unlawful purpose—Recovery of.
See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 23.
63 P R 1898

MONEY CHARGED UPON IMMOVABLE PROPERTY.

See LIMITATION ACT (IX OF 1871), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 132.

MONEY IMPROPERLY ATTACHED IN EXECUTION.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE.

MONEY DECREE.

See MORTGAGE.

MONTHLY TENANT HOLDING OVER.

See LANDLORD AND TENANT.
1 P R 1896

MOTHER.

—Alienation by.
See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—D.—ALIENATION BY MOTHER.

—Gift to.
See HINDU LAW, GIFT.
153 P R 1883
135 P R 1884

—Succession of.
See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—V.—SUCCESSION OF MOTHER.

1943

MOVEABLE PROPERTY.

See EXECUTION OF DECREE.
JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT.
28 P R 1881
167 P R 1882
4 P R 1883
97 P R 1883
35 P R 1886
91 P R 1886

See LIMITATION ACT (XIV OF 1859), SECTION 1, CLAUSE 16.

—" Fruit upon trees.
See REGISTRATION ACT (III OF 1877), SECTION 17.
72 P R 1884

MUHTARFA.

See CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES.
53 P R 1881

MUKHTAR.

1. Use of objectionable language—Professional misconduct—" Any other reasonable cause "—Ejusdem generis.
See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS' ACT, SECTION 13.
9 P R 1902

2. Advising false reason to a client—Professional misconduct.
See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS' ACT, 1879, SECTION 13.
56 P R 1902

See COSTS.
PLEADER AND CLIENT.

MUKARRARIDAR.

1 The status of a mukarraridar is no higher than that of a tenant with rights of occupancy under the Tenancy Act. LATEEF KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT GOOLZADEE. 5 P R 1873

2. Mukarraridar holding land in Rawalpindi District—Enhancement of rent.

A mukarraridar in the Rawalpindi District belongs to a class of tenants holding at fixed and immutable rates for the term of settlement. Held, therefore that defendants being mukarraridars were liable only for the rents heretofore payable by them which were fixed at Settlement, and were not liable to enhancement till the expiry of the term of Settlement. KALA v. NAWAB KHAN.
47 P R 1879

3. Suit by to establish right.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 11 P R 1888

4. Rawalpindi District—Status.

A mukarraridar in the Rawalpindi District held to be a tenant with occupancy rights holding at certain rates and not an inferior proprietor MALIK AULYA KHAN v. BELI RAM.
67 P R 1890

5. Application by ex-revenue assignee to have settlement of village made with him—Mukarraridari—Recorded proprietors—Revenue Circular No. 37.

The predecessor in interest of appellants obtained in Sikh times an assignment of a village, which had been founded by the predecessors in interest of the respondents, who were the present recorded owners, and finding it in a very unprosperous condition, he made arrangements for extending the cultivation in it and effecting improvements. His successors in interest continued to make improvements and arrange for cultivation, and realized their dues in kind until the assignment to them of the revenue of the estate was recently resumed. They applied to the Settlement Collector to have the settlement of the village made with them, but their application was rejected and it was ordered that settlement be made with the recorded proprietors. On appeal the Commissioner reversed the order of the Collector and ordered settlement to be made with the plaintiffs in respect of part of the land on the ground that they as ex-assignees had fully established their rights to be accorded the status of mukarraridari. Plaintiffs appealed to the Financial Commissioner with respect to the rest of the land.

1944

MUKARRARIDAR—concld.

Held, that inasmuch as the status of mukarraridar is not acquirable where a whole village is held in assignment and the assignee in exercising any rights beyond those of revenue receiver, exercises them in subordinating the village proprietary body to himself and not himself to the village proprietary body, the plaintiffs in the present case had acquired the rights, not of mukarraridari, but of (if anything) talukadari, and were not entitled as such to have settlement made with them instead of the inferior landowners. MAHANT SHANKAR DAS v. NAWAB.
1 P R 1894 Rev.

6. Succession to childless mukarraridar in Pindigheb tahsil, Rawalpindi District—Claim by collaterals whose common ancestor never held the lands—Customary right of succession—Status of mukarraridar in the said district.
See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—A.—RULE OF DECISION. 10 P R 1896 Rev.

7. Sale of, to landlord—Suit by cosharer in holding—Preferential right.
See PRE-EMPTION. 16 P R 1905

MUKARRARIDARI RIGHTS.

1. Suit for declaration of—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 42 P R 1908

2. Creation of mukarraridari rights amounts to a permanent alienation.
See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—B.—ALIENATION BY WIDOW—(b). SALES AND MORTGAGES. 85 P R 1910

MULTIFARIOUSNESS.

See CAUSE OF ACTION.
JOINDER OF PARTIES.

1 Alienation by a widow—Suit for declaration by reversioner against the widow and various alienees claiming under distinct titles—Misjoinder of causes of action—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 28, 45.

The plaintiffs as next reversioners brought a suit against a Hindu widow and a number of alienees to whom she had alienated separate and distinct portions of a certain property at different times, to obtain a declaration that all the alienations were void and inoperative as against their interests after the death of the alienor.

1945

MULTIFARIOUSNESS—concld.

Held, that the suit as framed was bad for misjoinder of causes of action. The joinder of all the alienees in a claim for a declaration by a reversioner when each alienation was independent and separate is not permissible under the provisions of Section 45 of the Code of Civil Procedure. MUSSAMMAT GOPAL DEVI v. JAI NARAIN. 1 P R 1905

2. Suit by mahant of a religious institution to set aside various mortgages made by his predecessor in office to several persons—Misjoinder of causes of action and parties—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 28, 45.

Held, by the Full Bench, that a suit by the mahant of a religious institution for possession of waqaf property alienated by his predecessor in office and also for a sum of money realized by the alienees as rent from persons to whom the said property had been leased, is not bad for misjoinder of causes of action. BASHESHAR LAL v. NATHA SINGH. 30 P R 1908 F. B.

MUNICIPAL ACT.

See PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACT, 1891.

MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE.

1. Octroi—Breach of contract.

The farmer sued Government for damages for not being permitted to collect the tax before the goods passed into the city (Amritsar). The practice before plaintiff bought the farm was, instead of levying the tax by the stoppage of all carts laden with taxable goods at the gates of the town, or prohibiting the entrance of goods until the tax had been secured, to levy the tax within the town, the goods not being stopped outside, but only watched into the town and to the place where the collections took place. In some cases by arrangement with the importers, valuable goods went straight to their destination. The plaintiff's lease did not clearly show that the tax was to be taken before the goods were brought into the town. For three months, he took a house inside the city for the collection, and raised no objection; he then resigned, and sued for damages on the ground that defendant permitted traders to take their goods into the city without first paying the tax. Suit dismissed. SECUNDER KHAN v. THE GOVERNMENT. 10 P R 1867

2. Articles liable to taxation.

Held, that the Choongee tax could only be levied upon articles brought into or manufactured for sale or consumption in a town; it could not be levied upon goods manufactured in the town for sale or consumption elsewhere, or upon goods merely in transit through a town. GAMAN v. SULUKHUN MULL. 49 P R 1868

3. Act XXVI of 1850.

1946

MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE—contd.

A rule of a Municipal Committee that land not built upon within two years should be forfeited, was not within the powers conferred by Act XXVI of 1850, that Act relating to improvements of towns and limiting the penalty for breach of municipal rules to Rs. 50. POWELL v. JEHANGEER. 36 P R 1869

4. Act XXVI of 1850—Rule for removal of buildings which obstruct or encroach.

Section 6, Act XXVI of 1850, empowered Commissioners to "prepare rules for more "effectually accomplishing the purposes for "which they are appointed"; and section 7 provided for the "imposition of reason-"able penalties for breach of any rule, not "exceeding fifty rupees." Held, that a rule which ordered the removal of certain houses and buildings as being encroachments or obstructions, and which provided for their demolition by the Commissioners, was not ultra vires under section 7, but came within the scope of section 6. BEHAREE LALL v. THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, DELHI. 39 P R 1870

5. Financial Commissioner's Circular No. 10 of 1868—Legality of partnership between octroi lessee and another.

By Financial Commissioner's Circular No. 10 of 27th January 1868, the holder of an octroi lease could not sub-let the lease or any part thereof without the written consent of the Municipal Committee Held, that this Circular did not prevent the lessee from entering into a partnership agreement in respect of the octroi lease. NARAIN DASS v. SUNT LALL. 79 P R 1870

6. Limitation.

To enable a plaintiff to maintain a suit for breach of contract, against a Municipal Committee appointed under Act XV of 1867, it was necessary that he should give one month's notice in writing to the Committee that he intended to file a suit, and the suit must be brought within three months from the accrual of the cause of action. CHAND MULL v. PRESIDENT, AMRITSAR MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE. 59 P R 1872

7. Act IV of 1873—Bye law—Nuisance

Plaintiff sued for a declaration of her right to maintain a chujja, which the Municipal Committee (Delhi) had ordered her to demolish. Under the bye-laws of the Committee, the erection of a chujja without the sanction of the Committee, was declared to be a nuisance. Held, that the Civil Courts were bound to take the bye-law as conclusive that the chujja was a nuisance. MUSSAMMAT SUBHANI v. PRESIDENT, MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, DELHI. 8 P R 1875

8. Limitation.

A suit against a Municipal Committee, whether based upon a wrong or contract, for any thing done or purporting to be done under Act IV of 1873, must be brought within three months after the accrual of the right to sue. TIKKU SUDH v. PRESIDENT, MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, SIMLA. 58 P R 1875

1947

MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE—contd.

9. Goods in transit—Bonded ware-house—Sanction of Government.

Plaintiff sued for the refund of money illegally caused to be levied from him for octroi, alleging that the goods were in transit and not subject to duty The defence was that duty was leviable on goods in transit, unless they were deposited in a bonded warehouse, and that plaintiff had not deposited the goods in question as required by the Municipal rule. By Government Resolution No, 74 of December 20th, 1870, no octroi was to be levied on goods in transit "unless "it could be certified that adequate arrange-"ments were made by means of bonded "ware-houses or otherwise for exempting "from duty articles declared to be in transit "through a town or which the owners had "no immediate intention of selling for local "consumption. This was followed by a Municipal rule that "no duty should be "levied on articles in transit unless it had "been certified to the satisfaction of the "Local Government" that adequate arrangements had been made by means of bonded ware-houses, &c. for exempting from duty articles declared to be in transit, &c. The defendant failing to show that the bonded ware-house system at Peshawar had been certified to, and expressly sanctioned by, the local Government, held, that plaintiff was entitled to a decree for the refund claimed. Semble, had the sanction of Government been obtained, the duty would have been leviable, though recoverable by the owner of the goods on proof that they were actually through goods and actually re-exported. AHMED BUKSH v. PRESIDENT, MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, PESHAWAR. 31 P R 1876

10. Suit by lessee—articles made in a town and sold elsewhere.

A lessee or farmer of octroi can sue in a Civil Court for unpaid dues. Octroi cannot be levied on articles or goods made within the boundary of a municipality, but sold outside. UMRA v. HIRA NAND. 55 P R 1876

11. Suit against Municipal Committee.—Title to land—Limitation.

A suit founded upon title, and brought to question an alleged proprietary right in a Municipal Committee, does not fall within section 19, Act IV of 1873, which gives three months' limitation for a suit. PRESIDENT, MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, DELHI v. HARNA MALL. 10 P R 1877

12. Octroi—Rules regarding levy of Octroi on Government stores—Government of India No. 2-99, dated 22*nd December* 1875—Failure of importer to comply with rules—Refund.

Where plaintiff, a contractor to the Military Works department, sued defendants, who were the farmers of the cantonment octroi duties, for the refund of a sum of money paid as duty on certain articles imported for the use of Government, and it appeared that the terms of Rule II regarding the levy of octroi on Government stores passing a municipal barrier (contained in Government of India No. 2-99, dated 22nd December 1875) had not been complied with, as no declaration was made by the importer, when the said stores were imported, that they were intended for the use of Government, held, that in the absence of a special agreement between the plaintiff and the octroi contractors, the plaintiff could not claim the refund sought, nor did the practice observed in previous years by other octroi contractors bind the defendants. CHUHAR SINGH v. GOKAL CHAND.

MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE—contd.

97 P R 1882

13. Suit against—Limitation.
See LIMITATION. 79 P R 1884

14. Responsibility of, for negligence of contractor.
See NEGLIGENCE.

15. Statutory powers.
See NUISANCE. 106 P R 1888
103 P R 1892

16. Statutory powers.
See PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACT.
103 P R 1892

17. Building a house without receiving any order from the Municipal Committee after six weeks of the receipt of a valid notice under sub-section 1) of section 92 of the Punjab Municipal Act.
See PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACT, 1891, SECTION 92. 9 P R 1901

18. Sanction to build—Punjab Municipal Act, 1891, sections 92 and 95—Conditional sanction.

Held that the Municipal Committee, while acknowledging that there was no objection to the erection of a building, was not empowered to compel the applicant to do something quite foreign to the object of the application and to the purpose and object for which the power of sanction was given. DAMODAR DAS v. MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, DELHI. 27 P R 1901

19. Competency of, to protect its private rights when dealing with public matters.
See PUNJAB MUNICIPAL ACT, 1891, SECTION 92. 45 P R 1905

20. Discretion of, to take action under section 92, Punjab Municipal Act, 1891—Power of Civil Courts to interfere with such discretion.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT.
45 P R 1905

21. Suit against, for damages for malicious prosecution

Held, that a suit for damages for malicious prosecution will lie against a Municipal Committee. AMAR NATH v. MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, KARTARPUR. 86 P R 1906

22. Municipal Committee—Discretion of, to take action under section 120 E—Suit by person aggrieved for injunction—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to restrain action of Municipality—Punjab Municipal Act, 1891, section 120 E.

MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE—concld.

Although under the powers given by the Legislature a Local Body may act perfectly bona fide and intra vires in issuing a certain order, still, if that order injuriously affects the rights of any person, the latter can undoubtedly appeal to the Civil Courts for protection, and to that protection he will be entitled if he can prove that the order in question was made wantonly or without any reasonable justification. Therefore, where a Municipal Committee, at the instance of a discontented neighbour, issued a notice under section 120 E of Act XX of 1891, directing the plaintiff to close his old drain and to make a new one in its place along a different alignment. without any proper enquiry as to whether the existing drain was a menace to the health of the people surrounding it or the general public.

Held, that the Civil Court should under such circnmstances interfere by injunction to restrain the Committee from carrying out its order which was inequitable and pretended to proceed on an alleged danger to health which was in no way proved. GHULAM MUHAMMAD v. JANGBAZ.

58 P R 1907

MUNICIPAL LIMITS.

See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 125 P R 1881

MUNICIPAL REGISTER OF DEATHS.

In a case where the question of age of a person at a certain time was disputed the Municipal Register of Deaths was held relevant under section 35 of the Evidence Act and being a public document within the meaning of clause (iii) (1) of section 74 of that Act and produced from proper custody presumed to be genuine. ANIS-UL-REHMAN KHAN AND OTHERS v. BENI RAM AND OTHERS. 59 P R 1901

MUSHA A.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW. 19 P R 1881
87 P R 1882
See MUHAMMADAN LAW—GIFT.
91 P R 1894

MUTATION.

—Mutation of names—Punjab Land Revenue Acts of 1871 and 1887—Scope of mutation under the Act of 1887.

The ancient tradition of the revenue system of North-Western India, that mutation of names (dakhil kharij) is simply the registration of actual existing possession and in no way an adjudication as to rights, is not departed from by the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887. MIAN KHAN v. ALAM KHAN AND MEHAR KHAN. 1 P R 1891 Rev.
See PUNJAB LAND REVENUE ACT, 1887, SECTION 37. 1 P R 1901
11 P R 1901
14 P R 1901
See DAKHIL KHARIJ.

MUTWALI.

1. Of mosque, right of, to exercise right of pre-emption.
See PRE-EMPTION. 153 P R 1884

MUTWALI—concld.

2. —Suit by.
See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION.
28 P R 1900

MUTINY ACT.

1. Suits under Rs. 300—Protection from arrest.

Defendant was a Sergeant in the Royal Artillery, quartered at the Kasauli Depot, and was sued in the Small Cause Court of Simla, for a debt under Rs. 300. He was also called upon under sections 74 and 75, Act VIII of 1859, to show cause why he should not give security or bail. Held, that a suit for an amount under Rs. 300 will lie against a soldier or non-commissioned officer, under section 40 of the Mutiny Act, provided the plaintiff shall have given notice in writing of the cause of action to such soldier or non-commissioned officer, or have left it at his last quarters. Execution, however, of the decree cannot be had against the body of the soldier or non-commissioned officer, nor can he be committed to custody in default of giving security under section 78 of Act VIII of 1859. SUTTAROO v. CARTER.

94 P R 1868

2. Suits up to Rs. 400.

The District Court of Sialkote passed a money decree for Rs. 53-9-6 against an officer in one of Her Majesty's Regiments, who at the time of the institution of the suit was serving with his regiment at Peshawar: Held, that the Court at Peshawar to which the decree had been transferred for execution, properly refused to execute the decree under section 288, Civil Procedure Code, as having been made without jurisdiction. Suits to the value of Rs. 400 against persons amenable to the Mutiny Act are cognizable only by Courts of Requests; but the jurisdiction of such Courts is barred in places where there are Courts of Small Causes empowered to try suits amounting to Rs. 400 or upwards. JAMSETJEE v. NELSON.

1 P R 1871

3. Jurisdiction.

No Civil Court (except a Court of Small Causes where there is one) has jurisdiction to entertain a suit for an amount less than Rs. 400 against a Military officer residing in a cantonment. INDUR JEET v. MORGAN.

58 P R 1872

4. Section 99—Court to award stoppage of defendant's pay is the Court passing the decree.

Held, by BOULNOIS and LINDSAY, JJ., (CAMPBELL, J. dissenting), that the only Court which has power to make an order stopping a defendant's pay under section 99 of the Mutiny Act, is the Court which passes the decree. Semble, the order stopping the pay must be made at the time of passing the decree and form part of the decree. BANESS v. TURTON. 83 P R 1875

5. Small Cause Court—Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877) section 17—Mutiny Act, section 99—Suit against Military Officer.

The defendant, a Military Officer doing duty at Dehra Dun, was sued for Rs. 148-3-0 in the Mian Mir Cantonment Small Cause Court upon a promissory note executed at Mian Mir where the cause of action arose. Held, that the Mian Mir Small Cause Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit.

The provisions of the Mutiny Act, section 99, are in no way affected by the Civil Procedure Code, section 17. A Small Cause Court therefore continues only to have jurisdiction over a Military officer, when such officer resides within the local jurisdiction of the Court. JAMSETJI'S SONS v. MACTURK.
33 P R 1879

MUTUAL, OPEN AND CURRENT ACCOUNT.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 85.
58 P R 1882
44 P R 1886

MUTUAL ACCOUNTS.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19.
132 P R 1907

MORTGAGE.

I.—CONSTRUCTION.
II.—POSSESSION UNDER.
III. BY DE FACTO GUARDIAN.
IV.—BY SONLESS PROPRIETOR.
V.—BY SONLESS ADNA MALIK.
VI.—BY WIDOW.
VII.—BY DAUGHTERS.
VIII.—BY MOTHER
IX.—BY HEADS OF RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.
X.—BY NON-PROPRIETORS.
XI.—OF OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.
XII.—MERGER.
XIII.—MARSHALLING.
XIV.—TACKING.
XV.—REDEMPTION.
XVI.—FORECLOSURE.
XVII.—INTEREST.
XVIII.—NON-PAYMENT OF CONSIDERATION ACCORDING TO AGREEMENT.
XIX.—COMPENSATION FOR IMPROVEMENTS OR REPAIRS.
XX.—ACCOUNTS.
XXI.—LIMITATION.
XXII.—EFFECT OF ALIENATION OF LAND ACT.
XXIII.—PRE-EMPTION.
XIV.—MORTGAGES IN JOINT ESTATES.
XXV.—MISCELLANEOUS.

I.—CONSTRUCTION.

1 Property must be specified.

An instrument purporting to be a mortgage deed, but referring only generally to the debtor's property without specifying what property is intended to be incumbered by the instrument, is void as a mortgage deed. MULLICK KURREEM BUKSH v. UMMEE (No. 17 P. R. 1866 and RAM NARAIN v. PURTAL.
20 P R 1866

2. Objection to sale of attached property.

Certain land having been attached in execution of decree, D., who held a mortgage on the land urged his prior claim and objected to the sale, under section 246, Civil Procedure Code. Held, that (the mortgage having been established) the proper course was to sell the lands subject to the mortgagee's lien. DEVA v. HUR NARAIN. 76 P R 1 68

3. Usufructuary mortgage—Deed—Construction—Whether the usufruct was meant for interest only.

In the case of a pure usufructuary mortgage, the deed of mortgage gave the mortgagee the right of holding and enjoying the property till the debt should be paid off. Held that the proper construction of the deed did not restrict the appropriation of the usufruct to the satisfaction of the interest only. RAMJEE DASS v. BABA KAKA NAND.
81 P R 1870

4. Power of sale.

When there is a mortgage deed in English form with a power of sale, the parties acting according to English law, the mortgagee can sell without the consent of the mortgagor and such sale is not void under section 240, Act VIII of 1859, though effected after attachment of the property by a third party, a judgment-creditor of the mortgagor. BYRNE v. BAIN. 68 P R 1875

5. Mortgage as collateral security—Money decree only obtained by mortgagee—Sale of mortgaged property to third party—Rights of mortgagee and purchaser.

Where a creditor holding a mortgage by way of collateral security, obtains a money decree only, and the property sold to a bona fide purchaser for value the creditor cannot follow the property except by regular suit against the party in possession ; he cannot attach the property and bring it to sale in execution of his decree. KHUSHALI MALL v. GOPAL MALL. 82 P R 1875

6. Usufructuary mortgage—Proprietary rights distinct from cultivating rights.

Held, by BOULNOIS and THORNTON, JJ. (MELVILL, J., dissenting) that when a proprietor effects a usufructuary mortgage of his khudkasht lands he is not to be presumed, in the absence of an express stipulation to the contrary, to have reserved to himself the right of cultivating the land. NARAIN SINGH v. DYA RAM. 44 P R 1874

Followed in. SHEOJI SINGH v. TARA.
29 P R 1876

7. General hypothecation—Bond.

A bond which does not specify the property alleged to be hypothecated, but merely engages that the debt may be realized from the movable and immovable property of the debtor, held, not to operate as a mortgage. MAHAMADJU v. JAI RAM.
74 P R 1878

8 Conditional Sale—Suit by mortgagee for declaration of absolute title—Duties of mortgagee before instituting such suit—Want of jurisdiction in Court passing order under Regulation XVII of 1806—Dismissal of plaintiff's suit on ground of such irregularity.

In order that a mortgagee under a mortgage by way of conditional sale may maintain a suit to have the sale declared absolute, he must prove that all legal formalities have been complied with, and amongst other things, that notice was issued from the proper Court, and this must be done whether or no the defendant pleads irregularity or other defect; where, therefore, it was clear that the Court who had passed the order under Regulation XVII of 1806 had no jurisdiction to pass such order, the Chief Court dismissed plaintiff's suit holding that the year of grace had never begun to run.

No. 21 P. R. 1870, approved. JAMITA v. SHADA. 91 P R 1880

9. Lekha mukhi mortgage—Suit to recover mortgage-debt—Remedy of mortgagee.

Plaintiff brought the present suit to recover the sum alleged to be due under a mortgage of certain land, the plaint also containing a prayer that the amount found to be due should be decreed against the mortgaged property.

Held, that the suit was not maintainable (inter alia) because the mortgage was a usufructuary one of the kind known as lekha mukhi, the land being made over to the mortgagee, and he having to look to its produce for the payment of the mortgage-debt, the mortgagors undertaking no personal liability, and there being no provision in the deed entitling the mortgagee to sue for the debt. GAHI MAL v. SHERA. 90 P R 1881

10. Purchase of mortgagor's interest in mortgaged land—Purchaser building houses on mortgaged land—Extension of mortgagee's lien to such houses.

Where a purchaser of the mortgagor's interest in mortgaged land takes possession of the land under his purchase, and there being nothing in the original agreement between the mortgagor and mortgagee to prevent him, builds houses upon the land, the mortgagee's lien cannot be held to extend to such houses, especially where the mortgagee, though he knew that the houses were being built on the mortgaged land, offered no objection at the time. Faiz Muhammad Jan v. Kazi Muhammad Amir Jan (No. 10 P R. 1879), referred to. MUHAMMAD NAWAZ v. UTTAM SINGH.
94 P R 1881

11. Conditional sale—Usufructuary mortgage where mortgagor undertakes no personal liability—Right of mortgagee to sue for principal debt.

In a suit by the mortgagee to recover the principal and interest due upon a deed of mortgage, it appeared from the terms of the deed that in consideration of the receipt of a certain sum by the defendant from the plaintiff, the defendant mortgaged certain land to the plaintiff, agreeing to cultivate the land, pay the Government revenue, and be responsible for profit and loss It was further agreed that the mortgagee should take the produce of the land in lieu of interest, and it was added that the mortgagor should be at liberty to redeem whenever he paid the principal and interest in full.

MORTGAGE—contd.

I.—CONSTRUCTION—contd.

Held, that the mortgage being essentially an usufructuary one, the mortgagor undertaking no personal liability for the money, and there being no stipulation that the mortgagee might sue for the principal whenever he chose, while there was a stipulation securing to the mortgagor the right to redeem at pleasure, the plaintiff's suit for the principal did not lie, his proper remedy being to sue for the produce of the land. Soman Mull v. Kanh Chand (No. 15 P. R. 1870), and Gulam Hosein v. Mehtab (No. 57 P. R. 1873), cited and followed. GIAN SINGH v. MAHAN SINGH. 127 P R 1881

12. Third party paying off original mortgagee Equitable mortgage—Presumption.

Plaintiff sued to recover a sum alleged to be due for interest on a mortgage originally entered into by the defendant with one S., the benefit of which was alleged to have been transferred by defendant to her brother-in-law, the present plaintiff, in consideration of his having paid to S. the principal sum secured by the mortgage. It was found as a fact that plaintiff had paid the mortgage-money out of his own funds to S., and it was therefore contended that he held the position of an equitable mortgagee and succeeded to all the rights possessed by S. under his mortgage.

Held that, as plaintiff paid the amount due under the mortgage to S. there was a very strong presumption that it was the intention of the parties that he was to hold the same position as that held by S. as mortgagee, and that this presumption was strengthened by the fact that the mortgage-deed was transferred to the plaintiff, and was allowed to remain in his possession; that it was extremely improbable that he made the payment simply for the benefit of the defendant and as a matter of pure benevolence to her; and therefore, the defendant having failed to produce any evidence to rebut the strong presumption which arose upon the facts stated in favor of plaintiff, the plaintiff must be held to have acquired S.'s rights under the mortgage and to be entitled to the interest claimed on the principal sum secured by the mortgage. SHEIKH MEHR ALI v. MUSSAMMAT AZIM BIBI. 59 P R 1882

13. Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Construction of Regulation Defects in notice issued under section 8—Result of such defects.

In order to entitle a mortgagee to avail himself of foreclosure proceedings so as to defeat the mortgagor's right of redemption, it is necessary for him to show that the requirements of the law have been strictly complied with.

Where, therefore, a notice issued under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806 did not bear the seal or signature of the District Judge, but only his initials, and merely notified to the mortgagor the principal sum due n the mortgage without any mention of the interest also due thereon, held, that there were such defects in the validity of the notice as to vitiate the foreclosure proceedings, and to prevent the mortgagee from maintaining a suit based upon such proceedings. Saindass v. Jehangeer (No. 21 P. R. 1870, cited, Fatteh v. Sainditta (No. 76 P. R. 1877), distinguished. MEHRO v. SUJA. 84 P R 1882

MORTGAGE—contd.

I.—CONSTRUCTION—contd.

14. Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8—Validity of notice—Notice to purchaser of mortgagor's rights.

Where a mortgagor by way of conditional sale has sold his equity of redemption before an application for foreclosure has been made, such application is not effectual unless the purchaser is served with it: and the same principle applies where only part of the mortgaged property has been sold. Mahmud Khan v. Bhai Balkishen (No. 76 P. R. 1878, Civil) referred to. MULRAJ v. SOBHA RAM. 31 P R 1883

15. Stipulation to pay fixed rate of interest for period of mortgage—Agreement by mortgagor to pay on demand principal and interest if he did not redeem atend of stipulated period—Implied agreement for continuance of same rate of interest till payment—Construction of stipulation that "malikana" of land should be credited to mortgagor.

In a suit for redemption of land mortgaged by plaintiff to defendant by two separate deeds of mortgage, it appeared that the deeds stipulated that possession should be given to the mortgagee; that interest at the rate of 2 per cent. per mensem should be paid by the mortgagor, and that "malikana" realized by the mortgagee should be credited to the mortgagor. It was further stipulated that the mortgagor might redeem at the end of 7 years, after which if he did not redeem he undertook to pay the mortgagee on demand the principal and interest due.

Held, that the last mentioned stipulation might fairly be construed to amount to a contract for the continuance of the same rate of interest until payment. Ram Nath v. Mussammat Jio (No. 101 P. R. 1880), distinguished.

Held, further, that the term "malikana" was intended to include all net proprietary income from the land received by the mortgagee, and not to signify a fixed annual payment, no such payment being made in respect of the mortgaged land to which the term would be applicable. BHAG SINGH v. GHASITA. 68 P R 1883

16. Subsequent mortgage of same land to another party—First mortgagee's right to possession—Failure to pay consideration—Remedy of mortgagor.

The first defendant having executed and registered a deed of mortgage in plaintiff's favor in consideration of a sum of Rs. 3,500, ten days afterwards (as Rs. 100 only of the consideration money had been paid, and the money secured by the mortgage was urgently needed) executed and registered a second deed of mortgage of the same land for a like sum in favor of defendant II.

MORTGAGE—contd.

I.—CONSTRUCTION—contd.

In a suit by plaintiff for possession of the mortgaged land under the terms of the mortgage, in which he tendered with his plaint payment of Rs. 3,400, the balance of the mortgage-money, held, that the plaintiff was entitled to succeed in his suit; that the mortgagor was not entitled to treat the first mortgage as null and void owing to the plaintiff's default in prompt payment of the balance of the mortgage-money, as in the absence of any contract between the plaintiff and the mortgagor, that in the event of the plaintiff not paying to the mortgagor the whole balance due within a specified or a reaosnable time the mortgage should be void, the only consequence of non-payment by the plaintiff would be that the mortgagor would have a right to sue for damages for breach of the agreement to pay such balance, but the mortgage would still subsist. Ala Baksh v. Shama (No. 153 P. R., 1882, Civil) distinguished. GOMESS v. MELA RAM. 16 P R 1884

17. Share in undivided holding—Validity of mortgage—Necessity.

In a suit to recover the amount due on a mortgage of land, held, that the circumstance that the land was part of an undivided holding, the mortgagor's interest being ascertained and not like that of a member of an undivided family, did not render the mortgage invalid. The mortgage in the above case, being found to be for valuable consideration and for necessity, was upheld. TEHLA RAM v. ATAR SINGH. P149 R 1884

18. Redemption—Condition in deed that mortgagee should continue in possesson after redemption.

In a suit for redemption of a mortgage of a house, the defendants, while admitting the mortgage, pleaded inter alia, that plaintiff was not entitled to possession, because by the terms of the mortgage.deed defendants were even after redemption entitled to continue in possession on payment of a specified yearly rent.

Held, that the above condition, if it meant any thing of a definite nature, amounted to an obligation to accept the mortgagee as a perpetual tenant of the property, and was one which ought not to be enforced. RAMZAN v. NUR ALI. 32 P R 1886

19. Mortgage or Sale.

See PRE-EMPTION—

20. Construction of instrument—Personal liability of mortgagor.

The question for decision was whether under the terms of the mortgage-deed upon which the suit was based, the plaintiffs were entitled to enforce a personal liability against the defendants, the mortgagors. It appeared from the terms of the instrument that there was in the first place a stipulation for payment within a year and also a stipulation for payment of interest at a given rate, for the endorsement of all payment on the back of the instrument and against alienation of the property until payment of the debt the concluding clause of the instrument being to the following effect : "Should it happen that "I am unable to effect redemption within the "period above specified, then in that event "I will renew the document held by the mort- "gagees without any objection."

Held, that on the true interpretation of the above instrument the personal liability of the mortgagors was not excluded.

Sayad Muhammad Khan v. Jaisukh (No. 88 P. R. 1880), Jaisukh v. Sayad Muhammad Khan (No. 89 ibid), and Khuddu Mal v. Kunj Lal (No. 80 P. R. 1881), referred to. RAM PERSHAD v. CHATAR. 20 P R 1888

21. Validity of condition in mortgage-deed that mortgagee will not mortgage his interest.

A clause in a deed of mortgage prohibiting the mortgagee from doing any act by which the mortgaged land should be mortgaged to any other person, held not to be void, whether it be regarded as a condition or as a contract.

Chuni Lal v. Bodar Mal (No. 2 P. R. 1886), distinguished. SULTAN KHAN v. JAWALA DAS. 131 P R 1888

22. Mortgage—Cash credit—Consideration.

The instrument of mortgage stated that the mortgagors had mortgaged two houses to the plaintiffs for the sum of Rs. 800 and that credit had been taken for the mortgage-money "babat hisab bahi khata," page 42.

The mortgagees were to have possession, interest was to be charged at 12 annas per cent. per mensem, the rent was to be credited to the mortgagors in the account of interest and they were to pay the balance month by month.

The account at page 42 showed that up to the date of the mortgage there was due to the mortgagees Rs. 343-2-0, and there was no entry in the account of a credit of Rs. 800.

Held, that the mortgage was a valid transaction for consideration. The true construction of the instrument was that the houses should be a security for the amount due on the account for the time being up to Rs. 800, the mortgagors being entitled to credit up to that amount. It was immaterial that no actual entry of Rs. 800 was made at the time in the account book—equity regards that as done which ought to have been done. SHEO LAL AND BADAN CHAND v. RAM RATTAN AND BASHI RAM. 28 P R 1891

23. Mortgage—Construction of mortgage-deed—Satisfaction of judgment-debt—Uncertified adjustment of decree —Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 257 A, 258.

Plaintiff sued upon two mortgage-deeds executed on the 19th January 1890 and the 5th March 1890, respectively.

In the case of the second mortgage of the consideration money of Rs. 1,300, Rs 1,000 were on account of principal and Rs. 144 on account of interest on two decrees passed in favour of plaintiff against defendant, and the Divisional Judge, finding that interest was not allowed on one of the said decrees, which was for Rs. 738, and that no sanction of the issuing Court had been given, held that the agreement in the mortgage-deed to pay interest was invalid under section 257 A of the Civil Procedure Code.

Held, that the section applicable to the case was section 258, and not section 257 A of the Code, inasmuch as the judgment-debt had been adjusted in whole to the satisfaction of the decree-holder, and that though such adjustment had not been certified to the Court whose duty it was to execute the decree, it could be recognized as an adjustment by a Civil Court except in execution. Rulings regarding the scope of section 257 A, Civil Procedure Code, referred to. KALU RAM v. KHUDA BAKHSH. 54 P R 1894

24. Mortgage—Lands specifically mortgaged allotted on partition to co-sharers of mortgagor—Liability to mortgage lien of lands allotted to mortgagor.

Certain specified lands, out of a joint holding, were mortgaged to plaintiffs by defendant, but, on a partition taking place between defendant and the other co-sharers in the holding, most of the specific lands mortgaged to plaintiffs fell to the shares of the co-sharers other than the defendant. Plaintiffs thereupon sued defendant for possession of an area out of the lands allotted to her at partition equivalent to that which she had conveyed to them by the mortgage-deed. The lower Courts having decreed plaintiffs' possession merely of such khasra numbers as were both conveyed to them specifically by the mortgage-deed and had fallen to defendant's share at partition, and having dismissed the claim as to other lands, plaintiffs appealed the Chief Court.

Held, following the ruling of the Privy Council reported as L. R. Ind. App. p. 106 of Vol. I, that though plaintiffs could not proceed against the mortgaged property, which had been allotted on partition to the other co-sharers, they should be allowed, in lieu thereof, to proceed against those lands, which had been allotted in substitution to the defendant-mortgagor.

I. L. R. XX Calc. 533 referred to. BELI RAM v. MUSSAMMAT SHAHZADA BEGUM. 101 P R 1894

25. Document, construction of—Mortgage or sale—Conditions restricting equity of redemption.

The successors of one G. R. sued to redeem certain premises alleged to have been mortgaged by a deed of conditional sale, the terms of which were to the following effect, viz., that the mortgagee should be at liberty to demolish the premises entirely and rebuild them as he thought fit ; that redemption could only be effected within 2 years and with the mortgagor's own means ; that after the lapse of 2 years the transaction was to become a sale without the year of grace allowed for redemption ; that the collaterals and other heirs of the mortgagor should be debarred from redeeming, and that the mortgagee should be entitled, on redemption taking place in accordance with the document, to recover his principal and expenditure on rebuilding. The deed, which was executed at a time when G. R. was hard pressed to pay a judgment-debt, was attested by G. R.'s relations, the present plaintiffs, who were also present when the deed was registered. For the defendant it was argued (inter alia) that the transaction entered into was in reality a sale with a condition for re-purchase and not a mortgage, and that the plaintiffs were debarred from suing for redemption either by the terms of the deed, or, if such terms were not binding, by their conduct in countenancing the transaction.

Held, as to the first contention, that the transaction, which was admittedly in its inception a mortgage and had so continued for 2 years, if not for the mortgagor's lifetime, was a mortgage and not a sale with a condition for re-purchase on certain terms, and, as to the second contention, that the conditions with regard to redemption were of an inequitable and onerous character and could not be enforced against either the mortgagor or his successors in title.

I. L. R. X Calc. 30, I. L. R. XIV Mad. 170, I. L. R. II Bom. 113 and 231, distinguished; I. L. R. III All. 359, I. L. R. VII Mad. 395, I. L. R. IX Bom. 524, referred to. SUKH DIAL v. ANANT RAM. 131 P R 1894

26. Mortgage—Mortgage mortgaging his rights to third party—Right of such third party to receive payment of mortgage-money from original mortgagor—Payment by mortgagor to original mortgagee.

R. and others mortgaged certain lands to G. S. and others, who subsequently executed a registered deed sub-mortgaging their rights as mortgagees in favour of plaintiffs. Plaintiffs sued for possession of the lands by virtue of their sub-mortgage, although the mortgagors had paid off the original mortgagees.

Held, that as the original mortgagees had not made a complete assignment of their rights, but had merely mortgaged those rights, to plaintiffs, the mutual rights and liabilities of the original mortgagors and mortgagees continued to exist, and that the payment of the mortgage-money by the former to the latter operated to redeem the mortgaged lands notwithstanding the existence of the previous sub-mortgage in favour of plaintiffs. RAMAN v. DEWA SINGH. 12 P R 1895

27. Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Mortgagor and mortgagee—Construction of mortgage-deed—Landlord and tenant—Non-transfer of possession by mortgagor.

Previously to the execution of the mortgage-deed in question, the mortgagor's land was partly cultivated by himself, and partly by tenants, some of whom were occupancy tenants and some tenants-at-will who paid him one-third share of the produce and certain dues. The mortgage-deed provided that this arrangement should continue, but that the dues should go to the mortgagee, and that out of the one-third share of the produce of the whole land, the mortgagor should deduct two maunds for himself and the remainder should be divided into six shares, of which one share should be reserved to the mortgagor and the rest should go to the mortgagee, the payment of revenue being divided between them in the same proportions.

1960

MORTGAGE—contd.

I.—CONSTRUCTION—contd.

Held, that as neither proprietary nor cultivating possession was transferred to the mortgagee, the latter could not re-transfer the cultivating possession to the mortgagor; that the mortgagor did not, therefore, hold the land "under" the mortgagee; that the said payments were not "rent," and that the relationship of landlord and tenant did not exist between the parties.

Held, therefore, that Revenue Courts had no jurisdiction to entertain a suit by the mortgagee in respect of his claims under the said mortgage-deed. MEHR CHAND v. LAL. 5 P R 1897 Rev.

28 Construction of document—Provision in mortgage-deed regarding interest.

In the case of a mortgage-deed in which there is a rate of interest fixed, without any specific condition that its payment shall cease on a certain contingency, and a clause specifying a date of redemption and conditional sale, it is generally to be held on a consideration of all the terms of the deed taken together, in the absence of clear intention to the contrary, that the contract does not contemplate the cessation of interest from the date when the payment of the capital sum becomes due.

When, therefore, a mortgage-deed provided that the mortgagor was to remain in possession, paying interest on the mortgage-money at 6 per cent. per annum half-yearly; that on default of payment of interest compound interest was to be charged; that on default of payment of interest for four successive half years, possession was to be given to the mortgagee and the produce of the land was to be taken in lieu of interest; that the mortgaged property was to be redeemed, within six years, and if not then redeemed, the mortgage was to become ipso facto a sale; and it appeared that there had been no breach of the condition regarding the failure to pay interest for four successive half years previous to the end of the six years allowed for redemption, but that subsequently to the expiry of the said period, there had been a failure to pay interest for four successive half years.

Held, that as there was no condition that interest should cease to run on the terms stated after the expiry of six years, defendant's failure to pay interest for four successive half years after the expiry of the six years allowed for redemption was a clear breach of the terms of the contract, and entitled plaintiff to obtain possession of the land as mortgagee, and that he was not bound to resort to the other relief, which he might have claimed of foreclosure. SARDAR UMRAO SINGH v. SARDAR THAKAR SINGH.

77 P R 1898

29. Mortgage of share of joint holding—Part of mortgaged land already alienated at date of mortgage—Liability of mortgagor to make good deficit from remainder of holding to which he has subsequently succeeded.

Held, that a co-sharer in a joint holding who has mortgaged his own share thereof, a portion of which had been already alienated by him previously to the mortgage, is not bound to make good the amount of the deficiency out of the other share in the holding to which he has subsequently succeeded and which was in no way mortgaged by the deed or transaction in question, merely because at the time of the mortgage the latter share happened to be held jointly with the former.

In a joint holding each sharer has a right to a share in each and every plot and parcel of land, and can only transfer such rights in regard to specific numbers as he himself possesses if the other co-sharer acquiesces in the alienation of specific plots, in which case such acquiescence would bind the latter at partition to the extent of the alienor's share. If at partition the particular numbers do not fall to the mortgagor, the mortgagor would be bound to compensate the mortgagee by substituting other land which did fall to his share. BABU RAI v. NATHU. 32 P R 1900

30 Mortgage or sale—Oral evidence to prove that an apparent sale was a mortgage—Admissibility of parol evidence to vary a written contract.

See EVIDENCE ACT, 1872, SECTION 92.

72 P R 1901

31. Inequitable conditions affixed to a mortgage should not be enforced by Courts against the mortgagor or his successors in title. SHER MUHAMMAD v. FATTEH DIN.

6 P R 1902

32. Power to revise mortgage made in form not permitted by the Alienation of Land Act, 1900.

See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT, 1900, SECTION 9. 7 P R 1903

33. Suit for possession under the terms of a registered mortgage-deed, wherein in addition to that condition other clauses intended to operate by way of conditional sale existed—Application of section 9 (3) of Punjab Alienation of Land Act to such cases—Duty of Appellate Court—Procedure.

See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT, 1900, SECTION 9. 20 P R 1903

34. Mortgage—Payment of mortgage-debt—Unregistered receipt—Extinction of mortgage—Oral evidence

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17

39 P R 1904

1962

35. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 9, 57—Mortgage of occupancy rights—Right of mortgagee after death of mortgagor—Right of occupancy cannot be acquired by mere lapse of time.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

8 P R 1905 Rev.

36. Mortgage—Failure of mortgagee to fulfil his part of the agreement—Incomplete transaction—Mortgage incapable of enforcement.

A. mortgaged his property, a portion of which was already encumbered to B. who undertook to redeem it from the prior mortgagees and retained a sufficient portion of the consideration for that purpose. B. did not pay the money so retained to the prior mortgagees and failed to redeem. The former mortgagees sued A. on his mortgages and obtained decrees against him. Thereupon A. redeemed both the former encumbrances himself. On a suit instituted by B. for the possession of the property under the terms of his mortgage-deed.

Held, that owing to B.'s failure to fulfil his part of the agreement to the mortgage contract, as agreed to was never completed and as such was incapable of enforcement.

Ala Bakhsh v. Shama (153 P. R. 1882) followed. SAUDAGAR SINGH v. SANT RAM.

103 P R 1906

37. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 43—Mortgage—Separate covenants for the payment of principal and interest—Distinct causes of action—Competency of mortgagee to institute separate suits for principal and interest when both have fallen due. All claims on same cause to be included.

Held, that when under a mortgage bond both principal and interest have become due, the mortgagee must sue for both together; otherwise he will be debarred under section 43 of the Code of Civil Procedure from claiming in a subsequent suit what was not claimed in the prior suit.

The principle of section 43 is that where several breaches of covenants made under one contract have occurred the cause of action of the various breaches merges into one and renders it obligatory upon a plaintiff to include all claims to which he is entitled under his contract in one action. GANGA RAM v. ABDUL RAHMAN. 28 P R 1907

38. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Agreement by instalments or in default the mortgage would become a sale—Applicability of Regulation XVII of 1806 to such agreements—Regulation XVII of 1806—Stipulated period.

Held, that a deed of mortgage whereby money was borrowed on the security of landed property upon a stipulation that the sum borrowed would be repaid by annual instalments and in case of default as to any instalment the mortgage would become a sale for the balance due at the time of default could not be treated as a mortgage by conditional sale subject to the provisions of Regulation

1963

MORTGAGE—contd.

I.—CONSTRUCTION—concld.

XVII of 1806 and is not liable to the conditions and incidents applicable under the Regulation to such sales.

Bagh Singh v Baswa Singh (50 P. R. 1906) followed.

Held, also, that the term "stipulated period" in section 8 of the Regulation means the full term on the expiry of which the mortgage money is payable notwithstanding that under its terms the mortgagee might, on a default being made, be entitled to foreclose at an earlier period.

Kishori Mohan Roy v. Ganga Balm Debi (I. L. R. XXIII Calc. 228, P. C.) followed. HAR GOPAL v. BHAGWAN SAHAI. 70 P R 1907

39. Execution of mortgage in liquidation of a money decree while under arrest in the execution—Undue influence—Contract Act, 1872, section 16

Held, that the mere fact that a mortgage bond was executed by the defendant in liquidation of a money decree while under arrest would not alone avoid the transaction on the ground of undue influence.

Banda Ali v. Banspat Singh (I. L. R. IV All 352). doubted. MUL CHAND v. IMAM BAKHSH. 51 P R 1908

40. A mortgage debt secured by a lien on land is not immoveable but moveable property for the purposes of section 268 of the Code of Civil Procedure. BANTU v. GANDA SINGH. 18 P R 1909

41. A conditional decree for possession on payment of certain sum of money does not create a mortgage or judicial hypothec.

See LIMITATION (3). 100 P R 1909

II.—POSSESSION UNDER.

1. Ejectment of tenants put in by mortgagee.

Where A mortgaged his house to B, who admitted certain tenants as tenants-at-will or on sufferance, and the owner, A, afterwards sold the house to C, and redeemed the property from mortgage by paying his debt to B, held, that C, could at once eject the tenants put in by B. BULDEO v. MOHUR SINGH. 18 P R 1866

2 Usufructuary mortgage—Right of mortgagee to sue for debt.

In the case of a pure usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagee cannot sue for payment of his debt; he is only entitled to remain in possession of the mortgaged property till the principal and interest of the mortgage debt are defrayed according to the terms of the agreement. SOMAN MULL v. KANH CHAND. 15 P R 1870

3. Agreement to mortgage—Suit for possession.

Plaintiff sued for possession of land as mortgagee, under an agreement whereby defendant promised on his father's death to mortgage the land falling to his share. Held, that a suit for possession under the terms of the agreement would lie, the defendant having refused to execute the mortgage. JAMEYAT RAI v. SULTANA. 59 P R 1873

1964

MORTGAGE—contd.

II.—POSSESSION UNDER—contd.

4. Mortgage of personal property not followed by possession—Subsequent pledge with possession—Act IX of 1872, section 178.

A, as security for a debt, mortgaged by deed a horse and cart to B, A retaining possession. Subsequently A pledged the horse and cart to C, for a loan, and gave possession to C, who was ignorant of the prior mortgage. A failed to pay either B or C. Held, that under section 178 of Act IX of 1872, C was entitled to the horse and cart in satisfaction of the debt, in preference to B. CHUMMAN KHAN v. MODY. 70 P R 1874

5. Possession—Unregistered agreement for further charge—Subsequent registered sale—Suit for possesssion by bonâ fide purchaser on payment of original mortgage-debt.

One P. mortgaged his land with possession to the defendant (mortgagee) by a registered deed. Afterwards an unregistered agreement was executed, creating a further charge on the mortgaged property. Subsequently P. sold by registered deed of sale his remaining interest in the property to the present plaintiff.

Held, in a suit by the vendee to recover possession of the land from the defendant (mortgagee) on payment of the sum mentioned in the registered mortgage deed, that plaintiff was entitled to succeed, as the defendant (mortgagee) could derive no benefit from the fact of his possession under a registered mortgage deed, when he sought to enforce a further charge, on the strength of an unregistered subsequent agreement (which was inadmissible in evidence for want of registration) against a bonâ fide purchaser, whose title was perfected by a registered deed of sale.

Chowgatta v. Chatar Singh, (No. 18 P. R. 1878, Civil), cited and followed. RALLA RAM v. HARJI MAL. 70 P R 1880

6. Suit against mortgagee for possession by heir of deceased mortgagor—Failure by mortgagee to prove consideration for mortgage—Plaintiff's title to recover.

Plaintiff claimed the land in suit as heir of the deceased owner. Defendant pleaded possession under a mortgage in his favour from the deceased by virtue of which he claimed a lien upon the estae for Rs. 920. It was found as a fact by the Court that no consideration for the mtrtgage passed, but as it was also found thao by the custom applicable to the parties at childless proprietor could alienate his landed property without control on the part of his male collaterals, it was contended for the defendant, that he was entitled to retain possession of the land, since plaintiff as heir of the deceased could not derogate from the acts of the person through whom he claimed.

Held, (distinguishing Kanhya Singh v. Dewa Singh, No. 27 P. R. 1879, Civil), that this contention could not prevail in the present case, as defendant having merely set up the limited interest possessed by a mortgagee, was therefore compelled to admit the right of the mortgagor's heirs to redeem the land upon payment of such sum as might be proved by the mortgagee in possession (on whom the onus lay) to be fairly due to him, and that, in the present case, no such charge being proved the defendant had no valid title to retain possession as against the heir, the plaintiff. LAL SINGH v. ALA SINGH. 86 P R 1880

1965

MORTGAGE—contd.

II.—POSSESSION UNDER—contd.

7. Mortgagee in possession denying mortgagor's title—Adverse possession.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 148. 49 P R 1882

8. Mortgage of land of absentee owner by person in possession for his own benefit—Mortgage setting up his mortgagee as a bar to a suit for possession by the owner—Plaintiff's right to recover his land without redeeming the mortgage.

In a suit by plaintiff to recover possession of certain land, in which the defendants set up a mortgage as a bar, it appeared that one G. who had held possession of plaintiff's land during his absence, had mortgaged it to the defendants with possession but that at the time of dakhil kharij it was pointed out to the mortgagees that the land mortgaged was land of an absentee, and could not be mortgaged; whereupon the mortgagees agreed to stand in the shoes of G. as regards the land, and to recover the mortgage-money from him. It also appeared that the mortgage-debt was not raised for the benefit of the land, but that G. merely made use of the land to raise money for his own benefit.

Held, that the plaintiff was in no way bound to ratify G.'s act, nor was he bound by it, and could recover possession of his land without redeeming the mortgage. HIRA SINGH v. JOWALA SINGH. 187 P R 1888

9. Suit by mortgagee for possesssion on default of payment of mortgage-money.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 113. 46 P R 1890

10. Mortgage—Mortgagor and mortgagee—Landlord and tenant—Adverse poesession.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 135. 114 P R 1890

11. Jurisdiction—Valuation of suit—Suit by mortgagee for possession against mortgagor and certain third persons alleged to be trespasers.

The value of a suit by a mortgagee for possession of land mortgaged to him is the value of his interest therein as mortgagee, and not the value of the land.

The mere fact that the mortgagee joins certain persons as defendants, not upon the basis of the mortgage, but upon the allegation that they are in possession as trespassers, does not affect or modify this rule.

No. 1 P R. 1887 followed. DHERU MALL v. THAKAR DAS. 1 P R 1891

12. Execution of decree—Attachment of mortgaged property—Suit by mortgagee under section 283, Civil Procedure Code—Subsequent suit for possession.

MORTGAGE—contd.

II—POSSESSION UNDER—contd.

Certain mortgaged property was attached in execution of a decree against mortgagor, he being at the time in possession. The mortgagee intervened unsuccessfully, and then instituted a suit under section 283, Civil Procedure Code. Held, that he was not bound in that suit to ask for possession, and that a subsequent suit for possession was not barred under section 43 of the Code. GANPAT RAI v. HIRA SINGH. 29 P R 1891

13. Suit by landlord to eject tenant—Suit by mortgagee to recover possession on failure of mortgagor to pay rent.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 19 P R 1893

14. Suit by mortgagee for possession of land—Value of suit for purposes of jurisdiction.

See COURT-FEES ACT, 1870, SECTION 7. 20 P R 1893

15. Suit by mortgagee for possession under the terms of the mortgage—Landlord and tenant.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 46 P R 1894

16. Suit by reversioner for declaration that deed of mortgage should not affect his rights—Mortgagor and mortgagees co-defendants—Reversioners claim decreed—Subsequent suit by mortgagees against mortgagor for possession.

See RES JUDICATA. 77 P R 1894

17. Suit for possession by mortgagee who has foreclosed.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 135. 90 P R 1895

18. Mortgage and sub-mortgage—Right of sub-mortgagee to retain possession against original mortgagor until payment of amount due under sub-mortgage—Privity of contract.

Held, by the Full Bench that the purchasers of a sub-mortgage of property are entitled to retain possession of it against the original mortgagors's representatives until the amount due under the sub-mortgage is paid off, and are not obliged to seek their remedy against their own transferer, i. e., the original mortgagee.

The principles of law relating to sub-mortgages discussed by Chatterji, J. CHELA RAM v. WALIDAD. 31 P R 1900 F. B.

19. Mortgage—Authority of mortgagor to impose any easement on the property mortgaged whereby the security is rendered insufficient Validity of such act—Burden of proof.

Held, that a mortgagor in possession has no authority without the consent of the mortgagee to do an act which is likely to prove destructive or permanently injurious to the property mortgaged. The onus of proving the validity of such act, and that the security was not thereby rendered insufficient, rests on the mortgagor or his representative in interest. BHAGWAN DEVI v. BUNYADI KHANUM. 85 P R 1902

20. Suit for possession under the terms of a mortgage deed containing clauses intended to operate by way of conditional sale—Duty of Civil Court under section 9 (3) of the Alienation of Land Act.

MORTGAGE—contd.

II.—POSSESSION UNDER—contd.

See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT, 1900, SECTION 9. 91 P R 1908

21. Suit by mortgagee for possession on default of payment of mortgage-money—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 135. 91 P R 1908

22. Mortgage—Simple usufructuary—Sale of mortgaged property in execution of decree for instalments due—validity of—Transfer of Property Act, IV of 1882, sections 67 and 99.

Where a mortgage deed of a house for Rs. 600 contained no condition for right of entry in default of payment and no undertaking to repay the principal, the sole conditions being for payment by the mortgagor of Rs. 45 per annum as rent for the occupation of the house and in default of payment of rent for one year for payment of interest at 2 per cent. per mensem on the rent due and for recovery by the mortgagees of interest from year to year from the mortgaged property and from the other property of the mortgagor and the mortgagee in 1897 sued and obtained a compromise decree for Rs. 200, recoverable first from the mortgaged property and then from the other property of the mortgagor and in 1898 the mortgagees applied for execution of their decree by sale of the mortgaged property and, on obtaining permission to bid at the sale, purchased the property in 1899, and received possession in 1903 by a certificate signed by the mortgagor who remained in possession as tenant, and on refusal to vacate, the present suit for possession was filed by the mortgagees in 1909 and dismissed by both the Courts on the ground that the sale was void under section 99 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882.

Held, by the Chief Court on further appeal—

(1) that the mortgage was a simple mortgage usufructuary as defined in Macpherson on Mortgages, Ed. IV, p. 14.

(2) that the suit of 1897 was of the nature described in section 67 of the Transfer of Property Act as a suit for an order that the property mortgaged be sold, (the remedy prescribed for a simple mortgage) and clause (a) of the section was not applicable and did not bar the suit for sale,

(3) that the rule contained in section 99 of the Act was inapplicable, the compromise decree having specifically provided for recovery of the amount due by sale.

(4) that moreover section 99 of the Act had not been extended to the Punjab, and had been disapproved of as a legislative mistake by the Select Committee appointed to consider the amendment of the Code of Civil Procedure, and

(5) that the purchase by the mortgagees was consequently valid and conveyed a good title to them, entitling them to a decree for

MORTGAGE—contd.

II.—POSSESSION UNDER—concld.

possession on the mortgagor declining to vacate and denying their title. 15 P R 1911

23. Mortgage—only in part for necessity—Mortgagee not entitled to possession of fraction of mortgaged property.

The mortgagees of one Mussammat Akki sued the defendant-reversioner of this widow for possession of the mortgaged land. It was found that Rs. 228 out of Rs. 1,000 mortgage-money was not for necessity.

Held, that a reversioner against whom part only of the mortagage-consideration is binding is in the position of a mortgagor to whom part only of the consideration has passed and he can resist, on the ground of partial absence of consideration, the mortgagee's suit for possession.

Held, therefore, that the mortgagees in this suit were not entitled to possession of a fraction of the property mortgaged, in proportion to the amount of mortgage-money found to have been for necessity. 49 P R 1911.

III.—BY DE FACTO GUARDIAN

Minor—Mortgage of minor's property by de facto guardian—Validity of mortgage—Necessity—Mortgage beneficial to minor's interests—Liability of minor in equity—Specific Relief Act, 1877, sections 38, 41.

The mother and de facto guardian of a Muhammadan minor mortgaged the property of her minor son in order to discharge ordinary debts incurred mostly by his father for the support of the family. After attaining majority the minor filed a suit to avoid the mortgage on the ground that the contract being void ab initio he was entitled to be put in possession without recognizing the defendant at all

Held, that although the plaintiff's mother was not legally authorised to act as his guardian the money advanced must be taken to have been borrowed for necessaries and the alienation beneficial to his interest, and that therefore under sections 38 and 41 of the Specific Relief Act a Court administering equitable principles is justified in exrecising its discretion to compel the plaintiff to restore matters to the status quo, which should not have been interfered with by the Appellate Court without giving reasons.

Mohori Bibee v. Dharmodhas Ghose (I. L. R. XXX Calc. 539, P. C.) and Thurston v. Nottingham Permanent Benefit Building Society (R. 1 Ch. 1902, 1) explained and distinguished.

Dharm Singh v. Sayad Zohur-ul-Hassan (58 P. R 1891), Mastu v Nand Lal (73 P. R. 1890, F. B.), Jowahir v. Mussammat Chandi (90 P. R. 1890), Sardari Mal v. Khan Bahadur Khan (11 P. R. 1899), and Deri Ditta v. Soudagar Singh (65 P. R. 1900, F. B.), referred to ALLAH DAD v. BUDHA. 52 P R 1904

IV.—BY SONLESS PROPRIETOR.

1. Of ancestral property

See HINDU LAW, ALIENATION OF ANCESTRAL PROPERTY. 166 P R 1882

MORTGAGE—contd.

IV.—BY SONLESS PROPRIETOR—concld.

2. By sonless proprietor.

See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION.

16 P R 1883
3 P R 1884
163 P R 1884
53 P R 1885
120 P R 1886

3. To one son to the prejudice of the other sons.

See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION.

26 P R 1885

V.—BY SONLESS ADNA MALIK.

—"Ala and adna malik"—Mortgage by sonless "adna malik"—Such charge not binding on "ala malik" after death of mortgagor without heirs.

Held, that a charge created by mortgage by a sonless "adna malik" on the land comprising the "adna milkiat" is not binding on the "ala malik" after the death of the "adna malik" without heirs, and after the holding has therefore passed, relieved from its encumbrance, to the "ala malik" all that could be pledged to the mortgagee being the "adna milkiat, so that when that ceased to exist the mortgage itself necessarily came to an end also.

Sher Khan v. Pir Bakhsh (No. 79 P. R. 1878) approved. SURJAN v. LALU.

175 P R 1888

VI.—BY WIDOW.

1. Where a Hindu widow with authority mortgaged her widow's estate, held that the incumbrance was binding on the heirs of her deceased husband, but that they did not contract to pay the mortgage debt. SHER SINGH v. SHIB SINGH.

69 P R 1874

2. Alienation by widow of her rights as mortgagee.

See DECLARATORY DECREE.

144 P R 1882

3. Mortgage by Hindu widow—Attachment in execution of decree obtained on the mortgage—Claim by collateral to attached property—Order passed against claimant—Suit by claimant to establish his title—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 11.

32 P R 1904

VII.—BY DAUGHTERS.

See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION.

VIII.—BY MOTHER.

—By mother as guardian of minor son—Suit by mortgagee against mother for money-decree—Subsequent suit against son, the latter having attained his majority, to enforce lien.

See SPLITTING CAUSE OF ACTION.

41 P R 1883

See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION BY MOTHER. 71 P R 1894

See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION.

192 P R 1889
58 P R 1891

IX.—BY HEADS OF RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.

1. Of property attached to religious institution—Suit by Mahant to set aside various mortgages made by his predecessor in office to several persons—Limitation for such suit—Starting point of Limitation.

MORTGAGE—contd.

IX.—BY HEADS OF RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS—concld.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 134.

30 P R 1908 F. B.

2. Suit on—Omission by defendant to plead that the mortgaged property was waqf—Subsequent suit to release mortgaged property from attachment as waqf.

See RES JUDICATA. 89 P R 1881

X.—BY NON-PROPRIETORS.

See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION—ALIENATION BY NON-PROPRIETOR.

102 P R 1891
75 P R 1897

See COMMON LAND.

102 P R 1891

XI.—OF OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

1. By occupancy tenant.

See TENANCY ACT (XXVIII OF 1868), SECTION 34. 82 P R 1881

. By occupancy tenant.

See TENANCY ACT (XXVIII OF 1868), SECTION 34. 35 P R 1883

3. By occupancy tenant.

See TENANCY ACT (XXVIII OF 1868), SECTION 34. 138 P R 1883

See MORTGAGE, NON-PAYMENT OF CONSIDERATION ACCORDING TO AGREEMENT. 96 P R 1894

See CUSTOM I.—ALIENATION.

3 P R 1897 Rev.
4 P R 1900 Rev.

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

8 P R 1905 Rev.

XII.—MERGER.

1. Covenant not to alienate.

Plaintiff advanced money to Ghasee Ram upon a mortgage, with a condition not to alienate, and a short time after the loan Ghasee Ram sold the property to defendants (appellants). In a suit by plaintiff against appellants to cancel the sale the appellants pleaded a mortgage of the same property, with a condition, not to alienate, of a prior date to that of plaintiff's mortgage. Held, that the mortgage to the appellants, if proved, rendered the subsequent mortgage to the plaintiff invalid. SHUNKER DASS v. PRIBHU DIYAL. 35 P R 1869

2. Subsequent mortgage of same property—Merger—Intention—Registered and unregistered mortgage.

The question whether a subsequent mortgage of the same property for the same debt merges a prior mortgage is one of intention.

A subsequent mortgage which expressly included a prior registered mortgage for Rs. 350 with another debt, and increased the annual payments to the mortgagee, but was itself inadmissible for want of registration under section 49 of the Registration

MORTGAGE—contd.

XII.—MERGER—contd.

Act, held (it further appearing that the later mortgage did not declare the former one to be at an end, and moreover that the first mortgage was retained by the mortgagee, which tended to show that he did not intend to surrender the security given by it), not to merge the former mortgage, which, so far as it constituted a charge of Rs. 350 upon the property, was held to remain in force. KHUSHAL MAL v. MUL CHAND. 173 P R 1882

3. Suit by second mortgagee for possession against mortgagor and prior mortgagee.

See JURISDICTION. 1 P R 1887

4. Mortgage—Effect of payment of prior mortgage by subsequent incumbrancer as against intermediate Charge—Cause of action—Limitation.

G., an occupancy tenant of a one-eighth share of land, on the 19th January 1869, mortgaged five-sixths of his share to one G. R. In June 1871 default having been made in the payment of interest by the mortgagor, G. R. under the terms of his mortgage sued for, and obtained possession of, the mortgaged land both as against G. and one S. R., who claimed to be in possession of the whole one-eighth share of the holding under a mortgage, dated the 1st June 1870. S. R. was left in possession of the remaining one-sixth of the said share. On the 10th June 1882 G.'s son—G. himself being dead—mortgaged the same five-sixths of the share to one Gh., the previous mortgage to G. R. being recited, and it being stipulated that Gh. should pay the consideration money to G. R., and take possession from the latter after redemption. The sons of S. R.—S. R. having died meanwhile—sued in March 1891, both G.'s son and Gh., and claimed, by virtue of the intermediate mortgage to S. R., to recover from Gh., possession of the land mortgaged, first to G. R. in 1869, and subsequently to Gh., in 1882. The defendants pleaded, inter alia, that the suit was barred by limitation, and that, in any event, Gh. had, by redeeming G. R.'s mortgage, acquired all the rights of G. R. in the land.

The first Court dismissed the suit as barred by limitation, but the Divisional Judge, on appeal, held that the suit was within time, and, further, that G. R.'s mortgage having been extinguished by the payment in 1882, was of no avail to Gh., and decreed plaintiffs' claim. Gh. appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, in accordance with the ruling of the Privy Council reported in I. L. R I All. 325, that inasmuch as limitation did not begin to run against the plaintiffs until the redemption of G. R.'s mortgage in 1882, the suit, being filed in 1891, was within time.

But held, in accordance with the ruling of the Privy Council reported in I. L. R. X Calc. 1035, that as Gh. had a right to extinguish the prior mortgage to G. R. or to keep it alive, the presumption, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, was that he intended, when paying off G. R.'s mortgage, to keep the prior charge alive for his own benefit, and that, standing in the place of G. R., he could successfully set up G. R.'s mortgage as a defence to plaintiff's claim for unconditional possession of the land.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XII.—MERGER—contd.

I. L. R. IX Calc., 961, distinguished. GHANAYA v. PANDIT CHAJJU RAM.

38 P R 1894

5. Suit to contest validity of sale—Right of plaintiffs to attack mortgage made in favour of vendee more than 12 years before suit—Merger of mortgage in sale—Limitation Act, 1877.

In a suit in which plaintiff prayed for a declaration that a certain sale of land would not affect his reversionary rights, and it appeared that the said land had been mortgaged to the subsequent vendee more than 12 years before suit.

Held, that there was nothing in the provisions of the Indian Limitation Act of 1877, which prevented the plaintiff in such suit from attacking the said previous mortgage, and that it could not be held in a suit regarding the subsequent sale, that the title of the mortgagee had acquired validity by prescription.

But held, that there was a presumption, which had not been rebutted, that the mortgagee intended to keep alive the charge created by the previous mortgage-deed, and that it was not merged in the subsequent sale.

Held, therefore, that plaintiff was entitled to a declaration that the sale would not affect his reversionary rights, but that such declaration could not affect the rights of the mortgagee under the previous mortgage. DEVI DITTA v. PARIMAN. 71 P R 1898

6. Purchase of mortgaged land—Right to keep alive prior mortgage redeemed by purchaser—Pre-emptor's rights.

The half of certain land the whole of which was at the time under mortgage to Z., was purchased by A., who redeemed a prior mortgage over the said half in favour of X. Subsequently B. obtained a decree for pre-emption against A. Z. having sued for possession as mortgagee, without, however, offering to redeem the prior mortgage in favour of X.

Held, that in the absence of evidence to the contrary, A., when he redeemed the prior mortgage, must be presumed to have intended to keep it alive for his benefit, and that B., as pre-emptor from A., was entitled to all the rights of the original purchaser.

Held, therefore, that B. was entitled to use the said prior mortgage as a shield against the mortgage in favour of Z. JHABAR v. SINGH RAM. 67 P R 1899

7. Mortgage—Mortgage of niawadari rights—Redemption of—Physical possession.

Held, that according to the custom of he Gundapur tract of the Dera Ismail Khan District a niawadari mortgagee may acquire rights in the land held by him as mortgagee, independently of and over and above his rights as mortgagee; and that such rights would not necessarily be extinguished by the redemption of the niawadari mortgage.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XII.—MERGER—contd.

Moosa Khan v. Muhammad Naurang Khan (24 P. R. 1871) followed. MUHAMMAD HASSAN KHAN v. MUHAMMAD GUL KHAN.

40 P R 1901

8. Pre-emptor's liability—Payment of purchase-money into Court—Withdrawal by vendee—Suit by incumbrancer for a declaration that the property which had been mortgaged to him by the vendee was subject to his mortgage.

See PRE-EMPTION. 93 P R 1902

9 Mortgage—Merger—Effect of payment of prior mortgage by subsequent incumbrancer as against intermediate charge—Presumption that person paying off a mortgage intends to keep the security alive.

Where property is subject to a succession of mortgages and the owner of an ulterior interest paid off an earlier mortgage and where from the circumstances of the case it was clear that at the time of advancing the money the person paying of the prior charge intended to enjoy rights of the prior mortgage held, that he was entitled to priority in regard to that earlier mortgage as against all the intermediate charges and was entitled to enjoy all the rights of the first mortgagee until payment of the amount paid by him to the first mortgagee.

Gokaldas Gopaldas v. Puran Mal Premsukhdas (I. L. R. X Calc. 1035 P. C.), Jhabar v. Singh Ram (67 P. R. 1899), and Ghanaya v. Pandit Chajju Ram (38 P. R. 1894), cited.

Bagga Mal v. Moti Ram (32 P. R. 1903), distinguished. RADHA RAM v. RALA RAM.

30 P R 1904

10. Sale of equity of redemption to mortgagee—Suit for pre-emption against vendee—Right of vendee to plead his own mortgage—Merger of mortgage into sale—Prevention of merger—Proof of.

See PRE-EMPTION. 98 P R 1906

11. Mortgage—Sales of mortgaged property in execution of money decree—Effect of sale—Right to set it aside.

"A" hypothecated his property to "B." Subsequently "C." in execution of a money decree obtained by him against "A.," attached and sold the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor in the hypothecated property. "B.," who had applied to have this attachment removed but failed in his application, sued "A," "C." and "D" (auction-purchaser) to establish his lien and for cancellation of the sale in favour of "D" with a further relief that the house should be resold and the sale-proceeds to the extent of his lien be awarded to him.

Held, that as a purchaser at an execution sale takes only that which the judgment-debtor could honestly dispose of, B.'s interest in the property was not affected by the sale in question, and consequently he had no cause of action to set it aside but was entitled to follow the property into the hands of "D.", who must be regarded to have purchased it, subject to the lien which was in existence at the time of the sale. RUP CHAND v. SETH KASTUR CHAND.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XII.—MERGER—concld.

62 P R 1908

12. Held, that when a mortgagee purchases the equity of redemption in respect of the land mortgaged the mortgagee rights merge in the rights of ownership.

SRI RAM v. RAMJI DAS. 59 P R 1909

13. Merger in previous money decree.

See ESTOPPEL. 32 P R 1910

14. Suit for possession of land mortgaged by male owner more than 12 years before suit and subsequently sold by his widow—merger of mortgage in sale.

33 P R 1911 F. B.

XIII.—MARSHALLING.

1. The property descended to B., L. and N. from a common ancestor, but B. was in sole possession and sold part to a bonâ fide purchaser, for valuable consideration. The delay on the part of the co-proprietors in objecting to the sale was held to entitle the purchaser to be maintained in possession of his purchase. Another part of the land had been mortgaged. N., the plaintiff, was held entitled to recover his full share in the estate out of this portion, after payment of the mortgage-money by B., and a decree was passed against B. for the amount of the mortgage. BUKSHAN v. NOOR MOHAMED.

96 P R 1866

2. Money decree—Rights of prior and subsequent mortgagees—Sale of mortgaged property in execution of decree—Title acquired by purchaser.

A. mortgaged certain immovable property to B. for money payable on demand, and subsequently transferred his equity of redemption to C.—B. sued for and obtained a money decree only against A., and in execution thereof the property mortgaged was sold by auction. Held, that as C. had not been made a party to any suit in which B.'s lien had been declared, the purchaser acquired no absolute title, but bought subject to C.'s right to redeem.

It is only by a sale in execution of a decree made in presence of all the persons interested in the property against which the first mortgagee seeks to enforce his charge, that an absolute title passes to the purchaser free from all dispositions made by the mortgagor subsequent to the first mortgage. FAIZ MUHAMMAD JAN v. KAZI MUHAMMAD AMIR JAN. 10 P R 1879

3. Mortgage—Subsequent sale by mortgagor to third person—Bonâ fide purchaser—Priority—Notice.

On 20th December 1883, K. mortgaged certain property to plaintiff for Rs. 5,000, the mortgage-deed being registered. Under the terms of the deed, the mortgagee was to obtain possession, but by a written lease bearing the same date as the mortgage-deed the mortgagee leased the property to the mortgagor for one year, and as a fact the mortgagee never obtained physical possession.

On 6th December 1886, K. executed and registered a deed of sale of the same property to the defendant for Rs. 5,000. No mention was made in the deed of sale of the previous mortgage to the plaintiff, and it did not appear that the defendant (the vendee) had actual notice of that mortgage.

Held, in a suit by the mortgagee to enforce his mortgage, that the latter was entitled to priority. Both on principle and on authority a prior bonâ fide mortgagee will not be postponed to a subsequent purchaser for value without notice, save under exceptional circumstances, the burden of proving which will lie upon the purchaser.

The purchaser's contentions in the above case :—

(1) that the mortgagee never took possession under his mortgage, and

(2) that the mortgagee left the title deed with the mortgagor, who actually delivered them over to the purchaser at the time of the sale.

Held, insufficient to establish the priority of the subsequent sale over the previous mortgage. NARSINGH DAS v. THAKAR DAS.

23 P R 1891

4. Mortgage—Suit for refund of sale-proceeds paid in accordance with order for distribution under section 295, Civil Procedure Code, 1882—Suit by puisne mortgagee to enforce his lien—Limitation Act, 1887, Schedule II, article 13—Doctrine of marshalling.

Defendant was the first mortgagee of two houses under a deed dated 28th September 1888, for Rs. 195, while plaintiff was the puisne mortgagee of one of the houses for Rs. 150. Plaintiff sued on his deed and obtained a decree for Rs. 155 and costs to be recovered from the hypothecated house which he got attached in execution. The defendant had a simple money decree for Rs. 102 and had both houses sold—apparently free of his mortgage lien—by auction for Rs. 315 on the 7th January 1892. Plaintiff tried to assert his claim for part of the sale-proceeds on his mortgage, but failed, and on the 9th April 1892 defendant realized the whole amount crediting Rs. 195 to the mortgage-money due to him, and the rest to his money-decree. On the 17th April 1893 plaintiff sued to recover this balance on the ground that his second mortgage gave him a better title to it. Defendant pleaded, inter alia, that the claim was barred under article 13 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877, inasmuch as the original order of the execution Court rejecting plaintiff's claim to share in the sale-proceeds of the two houses was one under section 295, Civil Procedure Code, and that the present suit was filed more than one year after the date of that order.

Held, that the present suit was not one to set aside an order under section 295 of the Code but to recover money on the strength of plaintiff's superior title, and that, therefore, article 13 of the Limitation Act was not applicable.

Held, further, that plaintiff was entitled, in accordance with the rule to marshalling of mortgages, to insist that defendant should first realize the amount due to him on his own mortgage from the house not mortgaged to plaintiff, and only the deficiency from that mortgaged to him, and that plaintiff's mortgage-deed took precedence, as regards the balance over defendant's simple money-decree.

I. L. R. XV Bom. 438 and W. N. 1894 78, followed; I. L. R., XIII Cal. 159, not followed. SOHAN LAL v. BALDEO SAHAI.

65 P R 1895

5. Mortgage—Apportionment of mortgage-debt—Contribution—Transfer of Property Act, 1882, section 82.

Plaintiff as assignee of the original mortgage, brought a suit for possession of certain mortgaged property consisting of land and houses, or for recovery of the mortgage-debt, Rs. 12,000, together with profits, against the heir of the mortgagor and nine other persons who had acquired interests by purchase in, and were in actual possession of, various portions of the said property. The suit was dismissed on the merits as against defendants Nos. 8, 9 and 10, and plaintiff compromised his claim against defendants Nos. 3, 4, 5 and 7 by accepting from them Rs. 4,750 in full discharge of their share of the principal debt. The balance of Rs. 7,250 was eventually decreed against the property in the hands of defendants Nos. 1, 2 and 6, whereupon defendant No. 2 appealed to the Chief Court on the ground that the decree should have distributed the whole of the mortgage-debt Rs. 12,000, rateably over the properties in the hands of all the defendants, and having found out proportionate liability of each property, should have decreed against each property the sum thus found due.

Held, that though defendant No. 2, if compelled in execution of plaintiff's decree to discharge the mortgage-debt to an amount in excess of the proportionate value of the property in her hands, could claim by a suit for contribution to be reimbursed by the other holders of the mortgaged property, there was no rule of law whereby plaintiff-mortgagee could be restrained by the decree from proceeding at his discretion against all or any of the parcels which made up the whole mortgaged property. MUSSAMMAT BISHEN KOUR v. MUNSHI AZIZ-UD-DIN.

75 P R 1895

6. Mortgage—Mortgage for valuable consideration—Intent to defeat and delay a particular creditor—Fraud.

On 17th June 1897 plaintiff sued the sons of L. M. for an unsecured debt, and on the same day applied for and obtained an order for attachment of property prior to judgment. On 18th the order on the defendant's objection was withdrawn, but a fresh one was again granted on the 19th. On 17th the defendants executed a mortgage-deed of all their property, movable and immovable, including outstanding debts, in favour of the appellant. The plaintiff on getting his decree in the first Court immediately attached certain houses, which were sold by auction, the appellant objected as mortgagee, and the houses were ordered to be sold subject to his mortgage.

The plaintiff then brought the present suit to set aside the above order, on the ground that the mortgage was fraudulent and made in order to defeat his claim, and was also subsequent to the issue of the prohibitory order. The Courts below decreed the claim, holding that the mortgage was not bonâ fide, and was affected with full knowledge of the plaintiff's suit and the issue of the prohibitory order, and was practically intended to deprive him of his right to realize his debt from L. M.'s estate, and although a good deal of the consideration-money was devoted to paying off other creditors of the deceasod it was void. On further appeal to the Chief Court,

Held, that though the appellant intended to pay the consideration entered in the deed in full and it was to be paid to creditors and not to the debtors, yet as he entered in his deed property over which he did not really mean to claim a lien, and which he allowed to remain in the mortgagors' hands for their benefit, and joined with the mortgagors in getting the deed executed in order to defeat and delay the plaintiff's realization of his debt, upon the authorities and under the rule of equity and good conscience it was void against the plaintiff

Twyne's Case (I Smith's Leading Cases, 9th Edition, 1), Cadogan v. Kennett (Cowp. 434), Worsley v. DeMattos (1 Burr., 474), Holmes v. Penney (26 L. J. Ch. 179), Harman v. Richards (22 L. J. Ch. 1066), Bott v. Smith (21 Beav. 511) followed; Abdul Hye v. Mir Muhammad Mosaffar Hussain (I. L. R. X Calc. 616), Copis v. Middleton (2 Mad. 410), Golden v. Gillam (L. R. 20 Ch. Dn. 389), Joshua v. The Alliance Bank of Simla (I. L. R. XXII Calc. 185), Mussammat Chand Kour v. Mussammat Fajjo (113 P. R. 1880), referred to; Wood v. Dixie (7 Q. B. 892), Darvill v. Terry (30 L. J. Ex. 355), Rangilbhai Kalyandas v. Vinayak Vishnu (I. L. R. XI Bom. 666), Moti Lal Ravichand v. Utam Jagjivandas (I. L. R. XIII Bom. 431), Nana v. Coutmal (I. L. R. XXII Bom. 255), Ishan Chander Das Sirkar v. Vishn Sirdar (I. L. R. XXIV Calc. 825), Naryana Pattar v. Viraragaawan Pattar

MORTGAGE—contd.

XIII.—MARSHALLING—concld.

(I. L. R. XXIII Mad. 184), Lakha Mal v. Mula (21 P. R. 1875), Ram Burun Singh v. Jankee Sahoo (22 W. R. 473) and Seth Kastur Chand v. Mangal Sen (68 P. R. 1895), distinguished. LAKHMI NARAIN v. TARA SINGH. 6 P R 1901

XIV.—TACKING.

—Redemption—Tacking.

The mortgagor of a plot of land obtained a fresh advance from the mortgagee and executed in his favour a bond proving that payment of the amount secured by the latter should take precedence of redemption of the mortgage.

Held, that the parties intended to bind the land, and that therefore the mortgagor could not redeem by payment of the mortgage-money only.

I. L. R. IV All. 85, followed. PARABH DIAL v. KHARKU. 2 P R 1890

XV.—REDEMPTION.

1. Joint-mortgage.

A. and B. mortgaged their respective houses to C., who afterwards obtained a decree against them for the mortgage-debt. In execution, C. proceeded against A.'s houses, who offered to redeem them by paying half of the judgment-debt. Held that C. was at liberty to proceed against A.'s houses, and that the latter could not redeem them by paying half the judgment-debt; that paragraph 12 of section XVII, Punjab Civil Code (by which when property was jointly mortgaged, any one of the parties could redeem his portion of the property by paying off his share of the obligation), referred to contracts but not to decrees. MUTHRA DAS v. SHEODIAL SINGH. 28 P R 1867

2. Under paragraph 12, section XVII, Punjab Civil Code, the law in the Punjab differed as to redemption of joint-mortgages from the law in the Regulation Provinces. By the Punjab Civil Code, paragraph 12, section XVII (as explained by paragraph 10 section XVII, commentary) one of several joint-mortgagors in the Punjab had the right to redeem only his own share of the mortgaged property, in addition to the right, which existed in the Punjab as elsewhere, to redeem the whole property and to hold the shares of his co-mortgagors until recouped by them. RULLIA RAM v. ENAYAT SHAH. 95 P R 1869

3. Conditional sale—Suit to redeem must be brought within the year of grace—Procedure to be adopted by mortgagee after year of grace—Application to Settlement Court by mortgagee held to be proper reference in the year 1865.

Plaintiffs mortgaged certain property to defendants by way of conditional sale, for the term of four years. Twelve years after the mortgage was executed, the mortgagees applied to the Settlement Court to have their names recorded as absolute owners, the mortgage-debt not having been paid; and on September 28th, 1865, the Court passed an order that plaintiffs should redeem within one year or be foreclosed. This order was confirmed on appeal. On the 16th October 1867 plaintiffs sued to redeem the property, the mortgagees having, in the meantime, obtained possession. Held, that plaintiffs' suit would not lie, not having been brought within the year of grace which expired on 28th September 1866, but that defendants, to complete their title, should, being in possession, bring a suit for declaration of their absolute title as owners, in which suit it would be open to plaintiffs to contest the validity of the conditional sale, or the regularity of the proceedings taken by defendants to make the sale absolute. Held, also that the application by defendants to the Settlement Court in 1865 was a referenee to the Court within paragraph 3, section XIV, Punjab Civil Code. SAINDASS v. JEHANGEER 21 P R 1870

MORTGAGE—contd.

XV.—REDEMPTION—contd.

4. Redemption in part—Suit by one sharer.

Held, that a suit will not lie to redeem a share of property mortgaged. MAHMUD KHAN v. BHAI BALKISHEN. 76 P R 1878

5. Conditional sale—Suit for redemption—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Procedure prior to Regulation.

See MORTGAGE XVI.—FORECLOSURE. 1 P R 1881

6. Conditional sale.

See TENANCY ACT (XXVIII OF 1868), SECTION 5. 6 P R 1881

7. Redemption, decree for—Subsequent suit for redemption of same mortgage.

See RES JUDICATA. 14 P R 1881

8. Redemption—Effect on limitation of payment of produce by mortgagor to mortgagee.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTION 20. 37 P R 1883

9. Redemption—Conditional decree—Omission to execute—Judicial Commissioner's Book Circular No. XI of 1859—Limitation.

See LIMITATION. 57 P R 1883

10. Redemption—Party not interested in equity of redemption redeeming from mortgagee in possession—Subsequent possession by such person for over 12 years—Adverse possession.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 134. 124 P R 1883

11. Redemption—Acknowledgment.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTION 19. 97 P R 1884

12. Redemption—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT (XIV OF 1859), SECTION 1, CLAUSE 16. 109 P R 1884

13. Redemption—Condition in deed that mortgagee should continue in possession after redemption.

See CONSTRUCTION. 32 P R 1886

14. Suit for redemption—Previous unexecuted decree for redemption of same mortgage—Right to maintain second suit.

See RES JUDICATA. 20 P R 1881

15. Acknowledgment of mortgagor's right to redeem.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19. 20 P R 1887

MORTGAGE—contd.

XV.—REDEMPTION—contd.

16. Acknowledgment of mortgagor's right to redeem.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19. 60 P R 1887

17. Mortgage resulting from decree of Court—Suit for redemption of such mortgage—Plea of Limitation—Adverse possession—Right to redeem.

In a suit for possession of certain land it appeared that the plaintiff was the nephew of the former proprietor of the land, upon whose death he sued to recover possession of the land from the widow of the said proprietor, who he then contended was only entitled to maintenance, which suit was terminated by a decree being passed, the effect of which was to declare the widow entitled to the usual widow's estate in her husband's property for her life, and further that the present defendant, who appeared to have managed the land and to have supported the widow, were to be recorded as trustees (mafawazdar), and that although the plaintiff would be entitled to recover possession of the land on the widow's death, this was conditional on his setting profit and loss, resulting from the management of the land, with the defendants. The widow having died in 1870, the plaintiff sued, after the lapse of more than 12 years from the widow's death, to recover possession of the land. The lower appellate Court being of opinion that the plaintiff's cause of action arose on the widow's death, held that the suit was barred by limitation and accordingly dismissed it.

Held (reversing the above order), that the effect of the decree above set out was to transfer an interest in the land then in suit to the present defendants as trustees for the purpose of securing the payment of expenses incurred by them in managing the land, and that this interest establish the relationship of mortgagor and mortgagee between the plaintiff and the defendants from the time of the widow's death; that the present suit was therefore not barred by reason of adverse possession, reckoning such possession to have commenced when the widow died, and plaintiff's reversionary rights fell into possession, but that the plaintiff's right to redeem the land still subsisted, and he was therefore entitled to a decree for redemption of the land upon payment of such sum as might be found due to the defendants for expenses incurred in managing the land, after deducting the income derived therefrom.

Ram Singh v. Nodh Singh (No. 93 P. R. 1879), and Dewa Singh v. Harnam Singh (No. 57 P. R. 1883 cited. BUTA SINGH v. JHAGRA. 10 P R 1888

18. Suit for redemption of mortgage on payment of a certain sum or such other sum as the Court might determine.

See JURISDICTION. 44 P R 1888

19. Pre-emption of a mortgage—Redemption during pendency of suit.

See LIS PENDENS. 102 P R 1888

20. Conditional sale—Redemption—Regulation XVII of 1806—Mortgagor not bound

MORTGAGE—contd.

XV.—REDEMPTION—contd.

to redeem within "reasonable time" when mortgagee takes no steps under the Regulation —Mortgagee's right to value of improvements —Right of person making improvements under bona fide belief of ownership.

In a case of a mortgage, to which the provisions of Regulation XVII of 1806 are applicable, but where the mortgagee has taken no steps under the Regulation, there is no provisiom of law compelling the mortgagor to sue for redemption within a reasonable time or otherwise than within the period of 60 years provided by the law of limitation.

Though under the ordinary law a mortgagee cannot claim payment for improvements effected without the consent of the mortgagor, the case is different where the mortgagee is in the position of a person who for 30 years has bona fide believed himself to be proprietor, under the impression that it was not necessary to take any proceedings to convert his mortgage by conditional sale into an absolute sale, and who for the said period of 30 years has dealt with the property as owner, and has been allowed to do so without objection by his mortgagor who resided close by. Under such circumstances a mortgagee may be entitled to compensation for all reasonable improvements. LADHA MAL v. JAGGANNATH. 123 P R 1888

21. Acknowledgment of mortgagor's right to redeem.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 148. 157 P R 1888

22. Valuation of suit for redemption of mortgage—Plaintiff suing to redeem for Rs. 2,300—Defendant pleading that the mortgage-money was over Rs. 5,000—Valuation of suit—Course of appeal.

See JURISDICTION. 169 P R 1888

23. Valuation of suit for redemption of mortgage—Plaintiff suing to redeem for Rs. 2,300—Defendant pleading that the mortgage-money was over Rs. 5,000—Valuation of suit—Course of appeal.

See JURISDICTION. 69 P R 1889

24. Valuation of suit for redemption of mortgage—Plaintiff suing to redeem for Rs. 2,300—Defendant pleading that the mortgage-money was over Rs. 5,000—Valuation of suit—Course of appeal.

See APPEAL XI.—VALUATION OF. 91 P R 1889

25. Redemption—Adverse possession of third party for more than twelve years—Limitation.

In a suit brought by a mortgagor against a mortgagee for redemption, it appeared that actual possession was with a third party who, on being impleaded as a defendant, set up a title in no way derived from the mortgagee but from a third person whom he alleged to be the real owner perfected by possession for over 12 years adverse to both the mortgagor and the mortgagee. Held that the latter was entitled to succeed on proof of 12 years' adverse possession.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XV.—REDEMPTION—contd.

I. L. R. 2 M. 226 approved; 124 P. R. 1883, referred to. NIHAL SINGH v. MUTSADDI. 161 P R 1889

26. Redemption before expiration of term —Clear expression of intention necessary to take away mortgagor's right to redeem before expiration of the term—Construction.

A mortgage-deed, dated 18th May 1881, stipulated that the mortgagor would pay the principal in ten years (ba-miad das sal ke). The heir and representative of the mortgagor sued to redeem before the expiration of the term fixed.

Held, upon a proper construction of the mortgage-deed, that the fixation of the term was for the convenience of the mortgagor, and that there was nothing in the terms of the document which precluded the mortgagor from paying off the debt earlier.

I. L. R. 5 B. 22; I. L. R. 8 All. 95, not followed.

I. L. R. II Mad. 314; I. L. R. III Mad. 230; I. L. R. X All. 602, followed. MAULA v. KURBA. 201 P R 1889

27. Redemption—Mortgagee's charges—Compensation for proper and necessary repairs—Liability of mortgagor to pay such compensation before redemption.

A mortgagee in possession of mortgaged property is bound to keep it in necessary repair. Where portions of the mortgaged property twice fell down and the mortgagee rebuilt them, it was held, that the mortgagor was not entitled to redeem unless upon payment of the sum so expended by the mortgagee.

Ghose on Mortgages, 2nd Edition, page 300, referred to. BHAG v. GHASITA MAL. 55 P R 1890

28. Jurisdiction—Suit for redemption of mortgage on payment of a certain sum or such other sum as the Court might determine —Course of appeal—Punjab Courts Act, section 39.

The plaintiffs instituted a suit for redemption of certain property from mortgage, fixing the mortgage-debt at Rs. 43-12-0.

While the suit was pending in the Court of a Munsif, 2nd class, the plaintiffs amended their plaint to one for redemption on payment of Rs. 43-12-0, or such other sum as the Court might determine.

The defendants pleaded that Rs. 681 was the amount of the mortgage-debt.

The Munsif decreed redemption on payment of Rs. 63-14-0.

Held, that the appeal from the Munsif's decree lay to the Divisional Court, and not to the District Judge.

The jurisdiction is to be determined with reference to the claim made and not to the decision upon the claim, and when once the appeal had been properly instituted in the Divisional Court, it was immaterial that that Court found less than Rs. 100 to be due, and such finding did not oust its jurisdiction.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XV.—REDEMPTION—contd.

The value of the suit was not altered by the plea of the defendants (No. 169 P. R. 1888). HAZARA SINGH v. LAL SINGH. 63 P R 1891

29. Mortgage—Subsequent sale of land to third person—Right to redeem—Pleadings.

M. S. owned 34 ghumaos of land.

He mortgaged to the defendant 20 ghumaos for Rs. 490 for a term which had expired; and 14 ghumaos for Rs. 220 for a term which had not expired.

After these mortgages, M. S. sold the whole 34 ghumaos to the plaintiff for Rs. 3,000 by a deed of sale, as to which it was admitted that M. S. had executed the instrument and received Rs. 366 in cash before the Sub-Registrar. The deed acknowledged receipt of the Rs. 3,000 thus—two deeds of mortgage to defendants for Rs. 710 (above specified), other bond debts, and cash Rs. 366.

The plaintiff then sued to redeem the mortgage of 20 ghumaos for Rs. 490. He relied upon the deed of sale as showing his title to redeem

The first Court found that there was no fraud or undue influence as pleaded by the defendant, that Rs. 366 had been paid, as admitted, but that there was no necessity for the sale, and dismissed the suit on this latter ground.

The Divisional Judge decreed the plaintiff's claim, as the plaintiff had paid Rs. 366, and the mortgages for Rs. 700 were assigned to him, leaving it open to the defendants to contest the sale in all other respects in a separate suit.

Held, by Plowden, J. (Frizelle, J., dissenting), that the decree of the lower Appellate Court was correct and should be maintained.

The plaintiff had proved an assignment to him of the mortgage in suit, and a consideration for the assignment. That was enough to enable the plaintiff to maintain the suit, and to dispose of the plea that the transaction of sale was wholly fictitious and void.

The proper way of raising the question whether the sale was good, or was only valid as a charge for Rs. 366, was by bringing a cross-suit in which the defendants, as plaintiffs, could only have succeeded upon paying whatever was a valid charge upon the land, in the event of the sale being set aside and a charge being established. BUTA AND TABA v. KHUSHAL SINGH. 101 P R 1891

30. Acknowledgment of mortgagor's right to redeem.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19. 116 P R 1891

31. Redemption of mortgage—Indivisible transaction—One co-sharer cannot redeem his share.

In the absence of a special contract to the contrary, a mortgage is one indivisible transaction, and must be redeemed as a whole or not at all. A co-sharer cannot sue to redeem his own share only. IMDAD ALI v. GHULAM JILANI. 42 P R 1892

1984

MORTGAGE—contd.

XV.—REDEMPTION—contd.

32. Redemption.

See INTEREST. 111 P R 1892

33. Suit for redemption—Plea that suit was barred by limitation—Burden of proof—Onus.

The plaintiffs sued to redeem a shop which they alleged their father R. C. had mortgaged to the defendant's grandfather D. for Rs. 400 fifty years before suit.

The defendant pleaded that the shop was mortgaged to D. by the plaintiff's grandfather B. S. in Sambat 1870 (1813 A. D.) or more than sixty years before suit; and that the suit was therefore barred by limitation.

Held, that the onus lay in the first instance upon the plaintiffs to make out at least a primâ facie cause of a subsisting title before the defendant could be called upon to substantiate his defence.

I. L. R. XI All. 438, referred to. RALLIA RAM v. RADHA RAM. 88 P R 1893

34. Redemption.

See INTEREST. 67 P R 1893

35. Acknowledgment of mortgagor's right to redeem.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19. 53 P R 1894

36. Suit for redemption—Mortgage of undivided share of joint property—Consent of co-sharers—Interest post diem.

See INTEREST. 114 P R 1894

37. Suit for redemption of mortgage on payment of a certain sum or such other sum as the Court might determine.

See APPEAL III.—COURSE OF APPEAL. 106 P R 1895

38. Suit for redemption of mortgage on payment of a certain sum or such other sum as the Court might determine.

See APPEAL XI.—VALUATION OF. 1 P R 1896

39. Suit for redemption of mortgage—Decree—" Material irregularity."

Held, that, it being one of the material points in a suit for redemption of a mortgage to decide for what sum the person suing for redemption should be allowed to redeem it, if he is allowed to redeem it the sum should be stated in the decree, and should not be left to be decided in execution thereof.

Held, further, that the decree of an Appellate Court which did not state what relief it gave to the plaintiff, but merely declared that the appeal was accepted and the order of the lower Court reversed, was materially irregular, and must be set aside. HASHIM KHAN v. SARDAR. 34 P R 1896

40. Suit for redemption of mortgaged land—Improvements by mortgagee while in possession—Compensation for such improvements.

1985

MORTGAGE—contd.

XV.—REDEMPTION—contd.

By a deed of mortgagee, dated 26th June 1879, certain agricultural land was mortgaged to defendants upon the terms that the mortgagees should hold undisturbed possession for thirteen years, and that interests and profits of the land should be equal. Upon the expiry of the said term, the mortgagor sued for possession by redemption of the land and the mortgagees claimed to be entitled to compensation for certain alleged improvements which they had made on the land and which consisted in their having planted and reared up plantain trees on a portion of the said land. Defendants alleged that the said trees brought in an annual income of Rs. 250, and a local commissioner, appointed by the first Court to inquire into the matter, reported that the mortgagees should receive Rs. 400, by way of compensation therefor. The mortgagor had in no way authorised or assented to the making of the alleged improvements.

Held, that upon the facts proved, the mortgagees were not entitled to claim compensation for the alleged improvements which, though they might bring in a profit, had unnecessarily diverted the land from its original uses without the consent of the mortgagor and for the benefit of the mortgagees while in possession. No. 67 P. R. 1893 cited. SHER SINGH v. NIHALU. 67 P R 1896

41. Acknowledgment of mortgagor's right to redeem.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19. 9 P R 1897

42 Mortgagor and mortgagee—Compensation for improvements by mortgagee, Regulation XVII of 1806.

In 1872 plaintiff's father mortgaged a certain house to defendant's father and made over possession thereof to the latter. The mortgage-deed provided that the property should be redeemed within one year on payment of Rs. 900, principal and Rs. 7 on account of costs of a suit the decree in which, in favour of defendant's father, formed the consideration for the mortgage. In default it was provided that the mortgage should become a sale. The deed made no provision as regards the mortgagee's right to make repairs or improvements. The evidence established that the house at the time of mortgage was a kacha one, and that some seventeen years before suit it actually fell down owing to this cause, and was rebuilt by the mortgagee, without any objection on the part of plaintiff who was living in the neighbourhood in a more substantial condition. Plaintiff having sued for redemption, defendants pleaded that the mortgage had, under the terms of the deed, become a sale and that in any event plaintiff could not redeem the property without paying for the improvements effected thereto. The lower Court decided against defendants on both points and they appealed to the Divisional Court, but only on the ground that they were entitled to compensation. The Divisional Judge found that defendants were entitled to Rs. 429-10-0 as compensation out of Rs. 1,200 claimed by them. On appeal to the Chief Court it was Held, that the mortgagee had a right to rebuild the house in order to keep up his security, and in rebuilding it was authorised to make it more substantial, provided the work was done providently and without any unnecessary expense, and that the mortgagee was, therefore, entitled to be recouped for the outlay, which was under the circumstances a reasonable one, to the extent that the mortgagor would derive benefit therefrom.

1986

MORTGAGE—contd.

XV.—REDEMPTION—contd.

Found, on the evidence that the amount decreased by the Divisional Judge as compensation was proper and reasonable. BELI RAM v. CHUHA RAM. 18 P R 1898

43. Consolidation of mortgages—Right of redemption—Apportionment of charges—Mortgagee allowing interest and rent to accumulate.

On the 14th September 1872 plaintiff executed in favour of defendant's father (i) a deed of mortgage of land situate in mauza Khizri for Rs. 99; (ii) a deed of mortgage of land situate in mauza Kishenpura for Rs. 150; and (iii) a chakota nama, or lease, whereby it was provided that plaintiff should pay Rs. 62-8-0 per annum as rent for the above areas which he was to hold as tenant for 10 years, that arrears of rent should be a charge on the land, and that until such arrears were paid off plaintiff should not be at liberty to redeem either area. Subsequently plaintiffs executed two further deeds of additional charge on the land, covered by the two deeds first mentioned, viz. (iv) mortgage-deed for Rs. 250, (v) a mortgage-deed for Rs. 400. This amount of Rs. 650 was to bear interest at Rs. 2 per mensem, and in both the two latter deeds there was condition that plaintiff should not be at liberty to redeem the area in either village until he had paid off the principal and interest due on each deed, such principal and interest being thus made an additional first charge on the two areas. Plaintiff having sued to redeem the land in mauza Khizri alone on payment of Rs. 99 (deed No. 1), defendant pleaded that plaintiff could only redeem on payment of the total amount, principal and interest, due under all the deeds.

Held, that though the two original transactions were distinct, separate areas being mortgaged by separate deeds, the practical effect of the three subsequent deeds was to consolidate these separate mortgages, at least as regards the charges created by the latter, and that therefore plaintiff could not claim to have the amounts due on the subsequent charges split up and apportioned on the two areas according to the consideration stated in each of the original deeds.

Accordingly, held that plaintiff was not entitled to redeem the area sued for until he had paid all that was due under deeds Nos. (1), (3), (4) and (5), the consideration of the deed (No 2) being excluded, as it had not been made a charge on the land in suit.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XV.—REDEMPTION—contd.

Held, further, that as arrears of chakota were expressly made by the terms of the agreement (deed No. 3) a charge on the land, no question could arise as to the claim for chakota being not cognizable by a Civil Court or barred by limitation.

Held, also, that there was nothing in the relations between the parties or in the circumstances of the case to justify the reduction of the rate of interest or the amount of the chakota to be paid annually, the mere fact that defendant had allowed the interest and rent to accumulate not being sufficient to justify reduction of the amount under either head. BANNU MAL v. RAMJUS. 33 P R 1899

44. Lekha Mukhi mortgage—Suit by mortgagor for possession on ground that mortgage debt was satisfied —Nature and value of suit.

Where plaintiff sued for possession of his land, which was held by defendants in mortgage in lekha mukhi form, on the allegation that the mortgage-debt had been extinguished by the profit from the land, and that, therefore, there was now no mortgage charge on the land.

Held, that notwithstanding the assertion that the mortgage debt had been discharged the suit was one for redemption, and that the value thereof for the purpose of jurisdiction was the amount of the charge on the property and not the value of the land. ABDUR RAHIM v. SEVA RAM. 73 P R 1899

45. Res judicata—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 2—Foreclosure proceedings—Suit by mortgagor for redemption after expiry of year of grace.

In a suit for redemption of mortgage by one of four sons of the original morgagor, it appeared that some time previously another of the said sons had sued for redemption of the mortgage in question; that on the defendant's objection that the plaintiff could not sue alone, the latter endeavoured to make out that he was suing on behalf of his brothers and as regards the present plaintiff, undertook to either produce him in person or to procure a power-of-attorney from him, and that he failed to do either. There was, moreover, nothing to show that the present plaintiff who was at the time absent in Jhang knew of, or participated in, his brother's suit except the mere statement of the latter made in his own interest.

Held, under the circumstances, that the present suit was not res judicata by reason of the decision in the previous suit.

Held, further that inasmuch as foreclosure proceedings are merely ministerial and carry no final judicial sanction it is open to a mortgagor to bring a suit for redemption after the expiry of the year of grace, and that such mortgagor would be entitled to a decree if he proved his claim on the merits, and that the foreclosure proceedings were for any reason not good or conclusive as against him or for other sufficient cause.

A mortgagor is not bound to take any notice of foreclosure proceedings which he knows to be defective, or to wait till the mortgagee sues to complete his title, to plead irregularity in the said proceedings. In such a case he may sue for redemption even after expiry of the year of grace. GURDITTA MAL v. SANDHI KHAN. 27 P R 1900

46. Acknowledgment of mortgagor's right to redeem.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 148. 62 P R 1900

47. Suit for redemption of mortgage—Possession—Burden of proof—Evidence Act, section 110.

The plaintiff sued to redeem a certain shop alleging that it had been mortgaged by his father to the defendant in 1882. The defendant denied the mortgage and alleged that the shop was formerely in the possession of his father, and that he himself had obtained possession of it when he separated from his father some thirty years ago. Both the lower Courts rejected the plantiffs' claim on the ground that the mortgage was not proved, and that for the last forty years the defendant had had proprietary possession of the shop in dispute.

Held, it was not necessary to enquire at all when the defendant's possession became adverse but the plaintiff had to prove that he had a subsisting title as owner and mortgagor at the date of suit. The onus of proof of these facts was entirely on him which he had failed to discharge. RAM CHAND AND OTHERS v. BHANA MAL. 71 P R 1900

48. Mortgage—Mortgage of niwadari rights—Redemption of physical possession.

See MORTGAGE XII.—MERGER. 40 P R 1901

49. Mortgage—Equity of redemption—Agreement by purchaser of equity of redemption to pay mortgage—Personal liability of purchaser—Trust.

On 9th July 1879 the father of defendants Nos. 1 and 2 mortgaged certain property to plaintiff's father for Rs. 2,000. The mortgage was with possession and was redeemable by instalments at stated periods within fifteen years. On 29th September 1896 defendant No. 3 purchased the mortgagor's rights from defendants Nos. 1 and 2, and stipulated to pay Rs. 2,400 due to the plaintiffs, Rs. 400 being fixed as a lump sum at defendant's risk for expenses of repairs, etc. undergone by the plaintiffs. The covenant in the deed of slae was:

"Waste dene Muhammad Sadiq, waghaira, pisrán Muhammad Bakhsh, murtahin mushtari mazkur ke pas amanat rakha gia"—.

Plaintiffs were no parties to this agreement. The defendant No. 3 did not pay Rs. 2,400 to the plaintiffs, and they brought the present suit to recover the amount from him personally, and also asked for a declaration of lien over the mortgaged property. The first Court granted them decree as asked for, but the Divisional Judge cancelled the first part of the decree, holding the property alone liable for the mortgage money. Plaintiffs appealed to the Chief Cou t to make the purchaser personally liable.

Held, that an agreement by a purchaser of an equity of redemption with his vendor to pay the mortgage (to which the mortgagee was no party) does not create a personal liability on the part of the purchaser, so as to entitle the mortgagee to obtain a personal decree against the purchaser, nor does such an agreement establish an express trust in favour of the mortgagee.

Chandu v. Chanda Mal (95 P. R. 1885) The Earl of Oxford v. Lady Rodney (14 Ves. 417), Butler v. Butler (5 Ves 534), Waring v. Ward (7 Ves. 332), In re Errington ex-parte Mason (L. R. 1894, 1. Q. B. 11), and Siddheswar v. Ram Chandra (I. L. R. VI Bom. 463), referred to. MUHAMMAD SADIQ AND ANOTHER v. MUSSAMMAT SAHIB BIBI. 54 P R 1902

50. Mortgage—Mortgage of common land—Redemption—Right of one of several joint mortgagors to redeem the whole estate.

The plaintiff having purchased 36 shares out of a total of 180 shares in the common land of their village, which had been previously mortgaged by certain of the sharers to the defendants, claimed to redeem the whole of the mortgaged land on payment of the whole of the mortgage-money, and joined the other mortgagors as co-defendants with the mortgagees. The mortgagees resisted the claim on the ground that the plaintiffs were not entitled to redeem the whole, and that their only right was to redeem a share equal to that purchased by them.

Held, that a part owner of the equity of redemption could not insist on redeeming his own share only, the right of redemption being a right to redeem the whole property mortgaged, the plaintiffs were entitled to the decree asked for subject to the equities between them and their co-owners.

Naro Hari Bhave v. Vithalbhat (I. L. R. X Bom. 648), Hall v. Heward (L. R. 32 Ch. Dn. 430), Pearce v. Morris (L. R. 5 Ch. Dn. 237). and Charter v. Watson (L. R. 1 Ch. Dn. 175) cited and followed.

Marakar Akath Kondarakayil Mamo v. Punjapatath Kuthi (I. L. R. VI Mad. 61) distinguished.

Thillai Chetti v. Ramanatha Ayyan (I. L. R. XX Mad. 295), not followed. BAHRAM KHAN v. SAAIDAL KHAN. 2 P R 1904

51. Mortgage—Redemption by co-mortgagor—Suit by other mortgagors against redeeming mortgagor for redemption of their shares—Civil Procedure Code, 1859, section 115—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 103.

Where a suit for redemption by one heir of a mortgagor had been dismissed under section 114, Act VIII of 1859, corresponding to sections 102, 103, Act XIV of 1882, held, that another heir might redeem the whole mortgaged property in his own right and could avail himself against the co-heir of all the defences which the mortgagee could have set up, including the proibition against a fresh suit contained in the second clause of the section. being in no way a trustee for the co-heir in spite of the fact that he had joined the latter as co-plaintiff in the second suit for redemption.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XV.—REDEMPTION—contd.

Shankar Bakhsh v. Daya Shankar (I. L. R. XV Calc. 422 P. C.), Nura Bibi v. Jagat Narain (I. L. R. VIII All. 295, and Ashfaq Ahmad v. Wazir Ali (I. L. R. XI All. 423, F.B. cited and followed.

Ram Singh v. Nodh Singh (93 P. R. 1879), referred to. IMDAD ALI v. HURMAT ALI.

32 P R 1905

52. Mortgage—Redemption—Further charges created by co-sharer in favour of mortgagee—Right of other part owner to redeem his part on payment of proportionate share of the original debt.

A mortgage was made by two persons jointly, but the mortgagee subsequently allowed one of the mortgagors to create a further charge on his part of the security in his own favour. The co-mortgagor brought a suit to redeem his part of the property on payment of proportionate share of the original debt. The mortgagee pleaded indivisibility of the transaction and contended that it should be redeemed as a whole on payment of the original mortgage money and the further charge.

Held, that by the mortgagee's own action the mortgage security was broken up and that the plaintiff was entitled to redeem his share of the equity on payment of a proportionate part of the original mortgage debt. SARN DAS v. ATTAR BIBI. 91 P R 1905

53. Mortgage—Redemption—Right of redemption of puisne mortgagee claiming through a successor of the original owner—Competency of prior mortgagee to dispute puisne mortgagee's title on the ground of incompetency of the latter's principal.

In a suit instituted by a puisne mortgagee who had derived his title from the sister of the original owner of the estate to redeem a prior mortgage made by the original owner in favour of the prior mortgagee, where the sister had succeeded to the rights of the original mortgagor on the usual tenure for life or until marriage, held, that the defendant was not competent to dispute the title of the sister on the geound that she had no power of alienation and that the puisne mortgagee was entitled to the relief asked for. NADIR KHAN v. MOMIN KHAN.

98 P R 1905

54. Form of decree in cases for redemption of mortgage—Decree for redemption should not be conditioned on payment within fixed time.

See DECREE, 8. FORM OF.

100 P R 1905

55. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Absence of stipulated period for redemption—Agreement to pay interest annually or in default of payment for six years the mortgage would become a sale—Applicability of Regulation XVII of 1806 to such agreements.

The defendant under the terms of a deed of mortgage executed by him wherein no stipulated period for redemption was mentioned agreed that on his failure for six years to pay the interest due on the mortgage the plaintiff would be entitled to foreclose and the mortgage would become a sale for the amount of principal and the unpaid interest.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XV.—REDEMPTION—contd.

Held, that such an agreement does not come within the purview of Regulation XVII of 1806 and is not liable to the incidents applicable under the Regulation to such sales.

To all agreements of mortgage wherein no stipulated term for redemption is mentioned, the full period of sixty years allowed by the Limitation Act applies, and the limitation applicable to them is not effected by a covenant accelerating for other purposes the time at which the principal may become due.

Bakhtawar Singh v. Harnam Das (Civ. App. No. 1087 of 1898), and Bura Mal v. Jawaya (Civ. App. 827 of 1901), dissented from.

Kishori Mohan Roy v. Ganga Bahu Debi (I. L. R. XXIII Calc. 228, P. C.), cited and followed.

Held, further, that a mortgagee cannot acquire the status of an owner with respect to property mortgaged to him merely on the breach of the terms of the contract binding the borrower to repay at short notice.

Gobardhan Das v. Gokal Das (I. L. R. II All. 633), not followed. Malikarjunudu v. Mallikarjunudu (I. L. R. VIII Mad. 185), distinguished. BHAG SINGH v. BASAWA SINGH.

50 P R 1906

56. Mortgage—Mortgagee obtaining money decree against his mortgagor not allowed to purchase equity of redemption in the property mortgaged to him—Effect of prohibited purchase.

Held that a mortgagee under a conditional sale cannot, by purchasing the equity of redemption in execution of a money decree obtained by him against his mortgagor, acquire a complete title as of a purchaser in the property mortgaged to him so as to deprive the mortgagor of his legal privileges regarding the equity of redemption.

Such purchases being absolutely unlawful do not confer an irredeemable title on a mortgagee without his having recourse to the proper procedure prescribed for that purpose and without giving the mortgagor an opportunity to redeem. JAGAN NATH v. BUDHWA.

2 P R 1907

57. Mortgage—Mortgage for a fixed period—Representative of the mortgagor not allowed to redeem before the expiry of the term—Long term alone does not amount to clogging the equity of redemption.

Held, that a period fixed for redemption by the parties in a mortgage bond cannot be regarded as one fixed without legal necessity and as such inequitable and unenforceable on the mere ground of its being unusually long and the representative of the mortgagor cannot be allowed to redeem before the term fixed on that behalf, especially where it is shown to have been fixed by the mortgagor in good faith and with due regard to his best interests. PURAN SINGH v. KESAR SINGH.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XV.—REDEMPTION—concld.

39 P R 1907

58. Mortgage—Redemption—Suit by mortgagor for redemption—Dismissal of suit for default—Subsequent suit for the same object.

Held, that a dismissal under section 102 of the Code of Civil Procedure of a suit by a mortgagor for redemption of mortgaged property precludes the plaintiff under section 103 from bringing a fresh suit for the redemption of the same property. GURDITTA v. NARAIN DAS. 43 P R 1907

59. Redemption, suit for, by mortgagor's representative, mortgage of birt*—Enjoyment of by one heir of mortgagee adversely to other heirs—Extinguishment of title of other heirs.*

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 28.

34 P R 1908

60. Mortgage—Conditonal sale—Void decree in foreclosure suit—Effect of, on parties' rights—Adverse possession.

Held, that a mortgagee by conditional sale cannot, by obtaining a decree in an illegal foreclosure proceedings or by asserting himself to be the proprietor and thereby obtaining mutation to that effect in his favour, alter the character of his original title nor can he rely on a possession adverse to the mortgagor to deprive him of his right to redeem the property. INDAR v. ASA SINGH.

65 P R 1908

61. Decree for redemption—Omission to execute—Second suit to redeem the same mortgage—Maintainability of such suit.

See RES-JUDICATA.

93 P R 1908 F. B.

62. Mortgage by conditional sale—Gift of equity of redemption prior to the expiry of mortgage term—Validity of such gift under Muhammadan Law—Notice of fore closure to original mortgagor—Necessity of notice to donee.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW 6. GIFT.

86 P R 1910

63. Mortgage made jointly by several mortgagors—Losing its indivisible character on mortgagee becoming part owner of equity of redemption thus enabling each mortgagor to redeem his share separately—Previous partition not necessary.

See JOINT MORTGAGE.

62 P R 1911

XVI.—FORECLOSURE.

1. Conditional sale—Suit to redeem must be brought within the year of grace—Application to Settlement Court by mortgagee held to be proper reference in the year 1865.

See MORTGAGE XV.—REDEMPTION.

21 P R 1870

2. Conditional sale—Year of grace runs from date of order of first Court, not of Appellate Court.

Where a mortgage was by way of conditional sale, and the mortgagee obtained an order of Court that the mortgagor should redeem in one year upon payment of a certain sum or be foreclosed, which order was modified on appeal by reduction of the amount to be paid: Held, that the mortgagor's year of grace ran from the date of the order of the first Court and not from that of the Appellate Court. JEHANGEER v. SAINDASS. 42 P R 1870

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

3. Plaintiff sued on a mortgage-deed for the principal sum; the deed provided that he should receive the income and other benefits accruing from the mortgaged house, and that foreclosure of the mortgage should depend on the will of the defendant, the mortgagor. Held, that the plaintiff's suit would not lie. GULAM HOSEIN v. MEHTAB. 57 P R 1873

4. Conditional sale—Limitation—Regulation XVII of 1806.

Defendants in 1856 mortgaged certain property to the plaintiffs by way of conditional sale for a term of five years. There was also a clause in the mortgage-deed that if the mortgagors failed to pay to the mortgagees the revenue, the sale should become absolute. In 1857, the mortgagors failed to pay the revenue, but the mortgagees took no steps till March 1873, when they caused the mortgagors to be served with notice of redemption or foreclosure under section 8, Regulation XVII of 1806. In October 1873, the mortgagors having failed to redeem, the mortgagees sued for foreclosure. Held, that the mortgagees' right to possession was not complete until performance of the ministerial act of serving the notice under the Regulation, and therefore plaintiff's suit was not barred by time. HURDWARI MAL v. GAMDIN. 75 P R 1874

5 Conditional sale—Proprietary and cultivating rights—Regulation XVII of 1806—Procedure.

Plaintiff mortgaged his land to defendant by way of conditional sale for three years. Four and a half years afterwards, in 1873, defendant sued for possession and obtained a decree that if the amount due were not paid within one year, the title would pass absolutely to him as vendee. About two years after decree, defendant applied for possession; notice was issued to plaintiff, who did not contest the conditional sale, but sued to have reserved to himself his occupancy rights. Held, following Narain Singh v. Dya Ram (No. 44 P. R. 1874), that plaintiff had mortgaged both his proprietary and cultivating rights and the latter could not be reserved to him. Held by BOULNOIS and LINDSAY, JJ., that the procedure required by Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8 not having been followed it was still incumbent on defendant to bring a regular suit as absolute proprietor if not in possession or a suit for a declaration of his title as absolute owner in possession; his suit in 1873, which was irregular and the decree in which was illegal, being treated as the notice to the mortgagor required by the Regulation. Held, by CAMPBELL, J., that though the Regulation had not been strictly followed, practically the object aimed at by the Regulation (the giving notice and a year's grace to the mortgagor) had been effected, and the defendant had become absolutely the vendee. SHEOJI SINGH v. TARA. 29 P R 1876

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

6. Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8—Irregularities in foreclosure proceedings—Waiver.

Defendant mortgaged certain land to plaintiff by a deed of conditional sale, dated 21st February 1870, securing payment of a loan of Rs. 200 in four years. On 15th June 1874, plaintiff applied to the Deputy Commissioner for notice to issue to defendant, under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806. On 15th July 1874 an acknowledgment of service of notice and copy of plaintiff's application, purporting to be signed by the defendant, was filed with the proceedings.

On 4th October 1875 plaintiff filed a suit for possession before the Assistant Commissioner. On 11th October 1875, the Deputy Commissioner, on the defendant's petitioning him, granted six months' further grace for payment of the money. This order was passed ex parte. On 26th November 1875 the Assistant Commissioner, with reference to the Deputy Commissioner's order, dismissed the plaintiff's suit as premature. On 31st May 1876 plaintiff applied to have his case restored to the file, as the further time allowed by the Deputy Commissioner had expired. This was done and he obtained a decree.

Held, that the issue of a second notice under Regulation XVII of 1806 was not necessary, the order of the Deputy Commissioner dated 11th October 1875 having been passed without any legal authority.

Held, further, that the omission to demand payment from the mortgagor prior to application under section 8, and the omission to serve a copy of the application, were irregularities capable of waiver, and that the defendant in the first Court and in the lower Appellate Court not having taken exception to the foreclosure proceedings had waived any defence open to him on these grounds, and was not entitled on special appeal to insist on a re-opening of the case. FATTEH v. SAINDITTA. 76 P R 1877

7. Conditional sale—Suit for redemption—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Procedure prior to Regulation.

In a suit for redemption of a mortgage by conditional sale, where it appeared that the term expressed in the deed had expired before Regulation XVII of 1806 acquired the force of law in the Punjab by the enactment of Act IV of 1872, held, that under the rules which applied to such cases in the Punjab prior to the passing of the above Act, the conditional sale did not become absolute owing merely to the expiration of the stipulated period. GURMUKH SINGH v. MALLA. 1 P R 1881

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

8. Foreclosure—Pre-emption.
See PRE-EMPTION—8. NOTICE. 35 P R 1881

9. Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Construction of Regulation—Defects in notice issued under section 8—Result of such defects.

In order to entitle a mortgagee to avail himself of foreclosure proceedings so as to defeat the mortgagor's right of redemption, it is necessary for him to show that the requirements of the law have been strictly complied with.

Where, therefore, a notice issued under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806 did not bear the seal or signature of the District Judge, but only his initials, and merely notified to the mortgagor the principal sum due on the mortgage without any mention of the interest also due thereon, held, that there were such defects in the validity of the notice as to vitiate the foreclosure proceedings, and to prevent the mortgagee from maintaining a suit based upon such proceedings. Saindass v. Jehangeer (No. 21 P. R. 1870) cited. Fatteh v. Sainditta (No. 76 P. R. 1877) distinguished. MEHRO v. SUJA. 84 P R 1882

10. Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Onus of proving due service of notice—Delivery to mortgagor of copy of petition for foreclosure.

In a suit for possession of land mortgaged by way of conditional sale to the plaintiff by the defendant's father, in which the plaintiff alleged and the defendant denied due service of the notice of foreclosure, held, that the lower Appellate Court was in error in presuming due service of the notice, as the burden of proving this rested upon the mortgagee, and further that it was essential for the plaintiff to prove that a copy of the petition for foreclosure had been delivered to the mortgagor. GUGAN v. RUP RAM. 139 P R 1882

11. Foreclosure—Omission of mortgagee to take preliminary proceedings under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806—Acquiescence by mortgagor in such omission—Right of mortgagee who had obtained decree for foreclosure to plead that such decree was illegal and gave rise to no right of pre-emption.

See ESTOPPEL. 155 P R 1882

12. Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Procedure prior to passing of Act IV of 1872—Jurisdiction—Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8—Punjab Civil Code, Pt. 2, section 6, paras. 6, 7—Proceedings commenced before Act IV of 1872 not affected by passing of that Act—Act I of 1868, section 6—Defendant setting up complete title as purchaser under old procedure.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

In a suit for possession of a house which had been mortgaged to defendant by way of conditional sale, defendant pleaded that the mortgage had been declared to be foreclosed by an order of the Tahsildar, passed on the 29th March 1873 in a suit for foreclosure, and that his title to the property was complete. The lower Appellate Court, assuming that the law applicable when the petition ('A') for foreclosure was presented was that contained in section 8 of Regulatinn XVII of 1806, rejected the defendant's plea on the ground that the Tahsildar who tried the case was without jurisdiction, and that the procedure also was not that prescribed by the Regulation.

Held, that as it appeared that the foreclosure suit was instituted on the 3rd January 1872, before the passing of Act IV of 1872, which declared section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806 in force in the Punjab, and there was then nothing in the law of the Punjab to require a foreclosure suit to be instituted in a particular Court or to make necessary a preliminary application to the Judge of the district (the procedure then in force being that contained in the Punjab Civil Code, Part II, section 6, paras. 6 and 7), and as the proceedings which commenced on 3rd January 1872 were not affected by the passing of Act IV of 1872 (see section 6, Act I of 1868), the defendant was entitled to plead that his title as purchaser was completed by the order of 28th March 1873, and that there was no longer any mortgage in existence. Sheoji Singh v. Tara (No. 29 P. R. 1876), F. B.) distinguished. Gurmukh Singh v. Malla (No. 1 P. R. 1881), referred to. GANPAT v. FATTEH SINGH. 171 P R 1882

13. Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8—Validity of notice—Notice to purchaser of mortgagor's rights.

Where a mortgagor by way of conditional sale has sold his equity of redemption before an application for foreclosure has been made, such application is not effectual unless the purchaser is served with it: and the same principle applies where only part of the mortgaged property has been sold. Mahmud Khan v. Bhai Balkishen (No. 76 P. R. 1878), referred to. MULRAJ v. SOBHA RAM.

31 P R 1883

14. Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8—Failure to deliver to mortgagor Judge's parwana with the copy of the application—Insufficient notice.

Held, that a notice of foreclosure under section 8, Regulation XVII of 1806, is not duly served in accordance with the Regulation by delivery of a copy of the application to the representative of the mortgagor, where the parwana under the seal and official signature of the Judge is not delivered, though its purport may be communicated by the process-server to the said representative. POHLU MAL v. RUKNA.

32 P R 1883

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

15. Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8—" Judge of the Zilla Diwani Adalat "—Jurisdiction of Judicial Assistant not invested generally with powers of Deputy Commissioner—Act XVII of 1877, sections 32 (a) and 37.

The officer in the Punjab who corresponds to the "Judge of the Zilla Diwani Adalat" mentioned in Regulation XVII of 1806, is the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Where in a suit for foreclosure it appeared that the proceedings under the above Regulation were taken in the Court of the Judicial Assistant Commissioner, whose powers were by the Notification which conferred them expressed to be the powers of a Deputy Commissioner as defined in section 32, clause (a), and section 37 of Act XVII of 1877, held that as a proceeding under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806 was not in the nature of a civil suit and as the Judicial Assistant Commissioner in question had not been invested generally with the powers of a Deputy Commissioner, his Court could not be regarded as that of the "Judge of the Zilla Court" for the purposes of the Regulation. Abdul Rahman v. Mahomed Ismail (No. 54 P. R. 1877, F. B.) distinguished. PERTAB SINGH v. SIRDAR HARSA SINGH. 55 P R 1883

16. Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulations I of 1798 and XVII of 1806—Mortgagee in possession omitting to sue after expiry of year of grace—Mortgagor's rights to sue for recovery of land on allegation that mortgage debt was liquidated before expiry of year.

Held, that in the case of a mortgage by conditional sale, if the mortgagee in possession does not sue for a declaration of his absolute title after the lapse of the year of grace, and the mortgagor can prove that the mortgage-debt was liquidated before the year expired, the right of redemption still exists, and the mortgagor may sue to recover the land. It is no longer open to him to ask to be allowed to redeem by making a further payment, and if it is found that the mortgage-debt was not in fact paid off within the year of grace, the suit must be dismissed: but if it has been satisfied within the year of grace, the plaintiff will be entitled to a decree. Saindas v. Jehangeer (No. 21 P. R. 1870) and Mehro v. Suja (No. 84 P. R. 1882), referred to. MANA SINGH v. KAHAN SINGH.

75 P R 1883

17. *Suit by purchaser of mortgaged property to establish that mortgage is not binding on him—Notice—*Bonâ fides—Burden of proof.

Plaintiff sued to have it declared that two mortgages in favor of the defendant executed by the previous owner of land subsequently bought by the plaintiff were invalid against him. The suit was brought upwards of 12 years after the dates of the transactions relating to the land, the reason for suing being that the defendant had caused a notice of foreclosure to be served on the plaintiff. The sale did not purport to be of the equity of redemption but of the property, but it was admitted that the plaintiff purchased with notice of the mortgages.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

Held, that the question for decision was whether, at the time of the purchase, plaintiff had reason to believe, acting with due care and attention, that the mortgages were void, or had been put an end to, and the burden of proof on this point was on him, as being aware of the mortgages when he purchased, he was bound to show the facts entitling him to treat them as non-existent. RALLIA RAM v. SUNDAR.

83 P R 1883

18. Conditional sale—Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8—Failure to make a demand of payment from mortgagor before suing.

Held, following the decisions in I. L. R. 5 All. 9 and in I. L. R. 11 Calc. 111, that section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806 contemplates a previous demand of payment of the mortgage-money before the mortgagee has the right of applying for foreclosure, and the omission to make such a demand vitiates the foreclosure proceedings altogether, the provisions of the said section being not merely directory but imperative, and prescribing conditions precedent to the right of the mortgagee to enforce forfeiture of the estate of the mortgagor, which procedure must be strictly followed. PREMAN v. SARBANDI

114 P R 1885

19. Conditional sale—Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8—Applicability of the provisions of the Regulation to house property.

Held, that the provisions of Regulation XVII of 1806 apply to a mortgage by way of conditional sale of houses so as to prevent the sale from becoming absolute until foreclosure proceedings have been taken under section 8 of that Regulation, as the words "landed property" and "land" admit of being understood in a sense wide enough to include the houses built on the land, and there is nothing in the contest to render it necessary to give them a narrower sense. Ganpat v. Fatteh Singh (No. 171 P. R. 1882) referred to. RANJIT v. TIRKHA.

117 P R 1885

20. Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8—Suit for possession—Absence of proof of previous demand before issue of notice of foreclosure—Fatal defect—Dismissal of suit—Judge's " parwana " signed with his initials only—Sufficiency of such signature —" Official signature "—Presumption of due observance of all necessary formalities under the Regulation—Duty of plaintiff to prove affirmatively due performance of all such formalities.

In a suit to recover proprietary possession of certain land, after proceedings for foreclosure had been taken upon a mortgage by way of conditional sale with respect to it, it appeared (on a further appeal by plaintiff) that there was no proof on the record of, nor any allusion in the petition for foreclosure to, a previous demand having been made before the issue of the notice under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806.

Held, that it was competent to the defendant to rely upon the above defect in defending the appeal: that considering the long period for which the suit had been pending, the plaintiff was not entitled to a remand at the present stage to enable him to supply evidence which he ought to have produced in the first court upwards of three years ago; that the defect relied upon was a fatal defect, and in itself sufficient to justify a dismissal of the plaintiff's appeal. Preman v. Sarbandi (No. 114 P. R. 1885) cited.

It appeared further in the above case that the notice required to be issued by the District Judge under section 8 of the Regulation was signed with his initials only. Held, per Rattigan, J. (Roe J. doubting as to this), that the decision of the Privy Council in I. L. R. XI Calc. 111, is conclusive on the question that the mere affixing of his initials to the parwana is not equivalent to the "official signature" of the Judge which the law requires.

A Court will not presume in a suit of the above nature that all formalities have been duly observed in issuing the notices and parwana under Regulation XVII of 1806. A District Judge who acts under that Regulation does not do so in a judicial but in a ministerial capacity, and inasmuch as he derives his power to issue the notice under a special enactment, every circumstance required by the enactment to give that power or to regulate its exercise, must appear on the face of the proceedings or by reasonable intendment, and it is for the plaintiff to prove affirmatively the due performance of every condition necessary to be established before the foreclosure can attach upon the estate. MUSSAMMAT LACHMI v. TOTA. 16 P R 1888

21. Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Application of Regulation to incorporeal rights connected with land—Immovable property.

Defendant who held a usufructuary mortgage with possession of certain land belonging to certain Rajputs, which was redeemable at any time on payment of the mortgage-money, assigned his rights under the said mortgage to the plaintiff by a conditional assignment, the terms of which were in form like a "baibil wafa," it being covenanted that if the loan in question was not repaid by a specified date, the assignment of the Rajputs' mortgage would become absolute, and the effect would be that the plaintiff would become mortgagee instead of the defendant. Default having been made, the plaintiff sued to be put in possession of the Rajputs' land in the place and with the rights of the defendant, the assignment being alleged to have become absolute on failure of defendant to pay, and was met with the plea that the mortgage was subject to Regulation XVII of 1806, and therefore foreclosure could not be had without all the previous formalities of the Regulation.

Held, that the above contention could not prevail, as the meaning of the Regulation could not be extended so as to include incorporeal rights connected with or involving interests in land, although such property had to be classed as "immovable," because it was not of the restricted nature of movable property.

Ranjit v. Tirkha (No. 117 P. R. 1885), cited. MELA MAL v. MELA MAL. 83 P R 1888

22. Suit for foreclosure or sale.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 147. 151 P R 1888

23. Conditional sale—Regulation XVII of 1806—Strict performance of conditions—Previous demand.

A vendee by conditional sale sued for possession on the ground that the necessary proceedings had been taken under Regulation XVII of 1806, and that the year of grace had elapsed without redemption. In his plaint he did not state that he had made a demand of payment of principal and interest before issue of notice, nor was any such allegation made in the lower Courts. On appeal to the Chief Court, he offered to prove this by evidence. Held, that he could not be allowed such an opportunity as he was bound to prove affirmatively that everything necessary to be done under the Regulation to complete his title had been duly done; and had not attempted to prove this in the lower Courts. KIRPA RAM v. BHAGWANA. 106 P R 1889

24. Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Strict compliance with conditions—Official signature—Illegible initals—Sufficiency of such signature.

In a suit for possession after foreclosure of a mortgage by conditional sale under Regulation XVII of 1806, it appeared that the parwana or notice issued under the Regulation bore the seal of the District Judge and not his signature, but only some illegible initials without any official designation.

Held by the Full Bench that the parwana did not comply with the requirements of section 8, Regulation XVII of 1806, not bearing the official signature of the Judge.

Held by the Division Bench that the parwana not complying with the requirements of the Regulation, the suit failed and should be dismissed. SHAM SINGH v. KARAM. 185 P R 1889 F. B.

25. Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8—Notice—Official signature.

A notice under Regulation XVII of 1806 bore the signature of the Judge unaccompanied with his official designation.

Held, that the notice was invalid. RAM CHAND v. GHULAM MUHAMMAD. 84 P R 1890

26. Mortgage by conditional sale—Foreclosure proceedings and suit for possession—Pre-emption.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECOND SCHEDULE, ARTICLE 10. 30 P R 1892

27. Regulation XVII of 1806—Service of notice—Service on each mortgagor.

To establish a sufficient compliance with the provisions of Regulation XVII of 1806, it is necessary that, if there be more than one mortgagor, each mortgagor should be served with a copy of the mortgagee's petition to foreclose, service upon one of the mortgagors alone being inadequate. MAYA SHAH v. FEROZDIN. 51 P R 1892

28. Regulation XVII of 1806—Application to foreclose—Minor—Notice how to be served.

Held, that the presentation of a written petition under section 8, Regulation XVII of 1806, by a person acting under a general power of attorney from the holder of a deed of mortgage, was a valid one.

Held, further, that the copy of the application and parwana referred to in the section in question were sufficiently served on a minor mortgagee, for whom no guardian had been appointed under the Act, by service on his brother with whom he lived.

2 N. W. P. Reps. 444 followed. LAL SINGH v. GOPAL DAS. 94 P R 1892

29. Jurisdiction—Revision—Refusal of District Judge to issue a notice under Regulation XVII of 1806.

The District Judge refused to issue a notice under Regulation XVII of 1806, holding that the mortgage-deed propounded was not a mortgage by conditional sale and therefore not within the scope of the Regulation.

The plaintiff applied for revision.

Held, overruling the District Judge as to the nature and construction of the document, that his order was under the circumstances open to revision.

I. L. R. III All. 576 referred to and followed. GULAB SINGH v. KARAM. 119 P R 1892

30. Mortgage by conditional sale—Regution XVII of 1806—Notice under section 8.

A notice by a mortgagee by conditional sale under section 8, Regulation XVII of 1806, is defective if it does not state that the mortgage-debt is to be repaid within one year from the date of the notification.

The date when the year of grace allowed to the mortgagor will expire is most material and should be ascertainable on the face of the notice; and would be so ascertainable by compliance with the terms of the section. JEWAN MAL v. RAM SINGH. 36 P R 1893

31. Conditional sale of undivided share in a village—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECOND SCHEDULE, ARTICLE 10. 87 P R 1893

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

32. Mortgage by conditional sale—Suit for foreclosure—Notice of foreclosure, validity of Regulation XVII of 1806, sections 7, 8.

Plaintiff sued for foreclosure of a mortgage by way of conditional sale; and defendants contended that the notice of foreclosure was invalid for the following reasons: —(i) that it was stated in the notice that redemption must be made within one year from the date of the notice being served; (ii) that the words "District Judge" under the signature of the officer signing the notice had been impressed by a seal upside down; and (iii) that the notice merely warned the mortgagor that if he did not redeem the property within one year, the mortgage would be finally foreclosed. The Divisional Judge having held that the error referred to in defendant's second objection vitiated the notice altogether and dismissed plaintiff's claim; plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, following the Privy Council Ruling in I. L. R. III Calc. 397, that the one year allowed for redemption must be reckoned from the date of the service of notice, and that the notice was therefore, pro tanto, valid.

Held, further, that the mistake in impressing the seal was not fatal to the validity of the notice.

But held that it was essential to the validity of the notice that it should, under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806, have informed the mortgagor that he must within the year redeem the property mortgaged "in the manner provided for by the foregoging section" of the Regulation, and a mere notice that the mortgagor must redeem the property mortgaged within one year is not equivalent to a notice that he must redeem the property mortgaged in the manner provided for by that section and is invalid.

I. L. R. III Calc. 397 followed; No. 57 *P. R.*1888 and 36 P. R. 1893, referred to. MULRAJ v. HARSA SINGH. 123 P R 1894

33. Mortgage—Foreclosure—Defective notice—Regulation XVII of 1806—Signature and designation of officer issuing notice.

The notice of foreclosure, dated 6th January 1889, was headed: "In the Court of Mr. J. C. Brown, District Judge and Deputy Commissioner"; bore the seal, "the Court of the District Judge"; contained all the particulars required by the regulation, but was signed "J. C. Brown, Deputy Commissioner." The Divisional Judge held that the notice was defective on the ground that the designation "Deputy Commissioner," instead of "District Judge," followed the signature of the officer issuing the notice.

Held, distinguishing No. 185 P. R. 1889 (F. B.), that, as the notice itself showed that the officer issuing it was both Deputy Commissioner and District Judge, the addition of the words "Deputy Commissioner" after the said officer's signature could not possibly lead to the supposition that the notice was not issued by the District Judge and was a mere surplusage which did not affect the validity of the notice. HIRA NAND v. CHATRU. 133 P R 1894

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

34. Regulation XVII of 1806—Validity of notice of foreclosure of mortgage.

Held, that it is essential to the validity of a notice, under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806, that it shall inform the mortgagor that he must within the year redeem the property "in the manner provided for by the foregoing section" of the Regulation, and that the omission to comply with the provisions of the Regulation in this respect, is a fatal defect which vitiates the whole notice. WASAWA SINGH v. RURA. 24 P R 1895

35. Mortgage by conditional sale—Foreclosure.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECOND SCHEDULE, ARTICLE, 10. 76 P R 1895

36. Limitation—Suit for possession by mortgagee who has foreclosed—Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, articles 135, 144.

Plaintiff sued on the allegations that on 27th January 1877 defendant executed in his favour a mortgage, by the terms of which plaintiff was to be placed in immediate possession of certain land as mortgagee and receive the produce in lieu of interest, and defendant was to redeem in three years, in Jeth, and, if he failed to do so, the mortgage was to become a sale.

Plaintiff never received possession as mortgagee; but on the 1st June 1889 he got notice of foreclosure served under the Regulation, and in January 1892 he instituted a suit for proprietary possession of the land. Defendant pleaded, inter alia, that the suit was barred by limitation under article 135 of the 2nd Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the suit was within time—(1) that though plaintiff's right to sue for physical cultivating possession as mortgagee probably determined in 1889, the omission to sue for such possession did not amount to a waiver of his right to foreclose; (2) that plaintiff's right to foreclose first accrued in 1880, and that he had at least twelve years from that date within which to foreclose the mortgage; (3) that plaintiff, having foreclosed in 1889-90, had twelve years within which to institute his suit for proprietary possession, running from the date of the expiry of the year of grace, when the mortgagor's right to possession of the character sought for in the suit first determined.

The authorities considered and discussed by Rivaz J. BHANDARI v. MUSSAMMAT JASODHAN. 90 P R 1895

37. Foreclosure of mortgage—Notice—Regulation XVII of 1806, sections 7, 8—Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, articles 135, 143, and section 23—Failure to pay interest under mortgage-deed—Continuing breach of contract—Waiver.

A mortgage-deed, which was executed on the 26th March 1878 for a period of six years, provided that if interest for any year was not paid, the mortgagee might eject the mortgagor and take possession. Plaintiff contended that his suit, which was instituted on 4th December 1894, was within time under either article 135 or article 143 of the Limitation Act, 1877, on the ground that limitation ran from the last failure to pay interest in 1883 or 1884, and not from the date of the first default, which was more than 15 years before suit.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

Held, that the obligation to pay interest annually was of "a recurring kind," and that the failure to do so did not amount to a continuing breach of the contract within the meaning of section 23 of the Limitation Act, 1877.

Held, therefore, that plaintiff's cause of action arose on the date of the first default in paying interest, and that the suit was barred.

Held, further, following No. 123 P. R. 1894, that a notice of foreclosure which did not contain the words "in the manner provided for by section 7 of Regulation XVII of 1806," was not a valid notice of foreclosure within the terms of section 8 of the said Regulation. ACHHAR MAL v. HUKMAN. 28 P R 1897

38. Mortgage by widow—Decree of foreclosure against widow—Regulation XVII of 1806—Regularity of proceedings, presumption as to.

Where certain mortgagees had, during the widow's lifetime, obtained a decree of foreclosure against her under Regulation XVII of 1806, held, that as against the reversioners, who sued for recovery of the land after the death of the widow, the onus of proving that the said foreclosure proceedings were in due form, and that the right of redemption was extinct, was on the mortgagees, there being no presumption in favour of the regularity and propriety of such proceedings.

A plea of estoppel by conduct, held, not established. HIRA SINGH v. SHER SINGH. 29 P R 1898

39. Mortgage by way of conditional sale—Foreclosure proceedings instituted more than 12 years after determination of mortgagor's right to possession—Suit for possession—Limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, 2nd Schedule, articles 135, 144, 147, Regulation XVII of 1806.

Plaintiffs sued for possession of certain land on the allegation that defendants' father had executed a mortgage thereof by way of conditional sale on the 24th March 1871, the condition being that if not redeemed within seven years the land was to become the mortgagee's property by sale; that a foreclosure notice was issued to the defendants, and served on them on the 10th April 1895 and 12th May 1895, and that the year of grace had expired without the defendants paying off the mortgage, and that plaintiffs had consequently become owners of the mortgaged property.

Held, that the suit not having been instituted within 12 years of the date fixed in the mortgage-deed for repayment of the mortgage-money, was barred by limitation, either under article 135 or article 144 of the Limitation Act. MOMAN v. ISHRI PERSHAD 35 P R 1899

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

40. Resjudicata—Civil Procedure Code 1882, section 2—Foreclosure proceedings—Suit by mortgagor for redemption after expiry of year of grace.

In a suit for redemption of mortgage by one of four sons of the original mortgagor, it appeared that some time previously another of the said sons had sued for redemption of the mortgage in question; that on the defendant's objection that the plaintiff could not sue alone, the latter endeavoured to make out that he was suing on behalf of his brothers, and as regards the present plaintiff, undertook to either produce him in person or to procure a power-of-attorney from him, and that he failed to do either. There was, moreover, nothing to show that the present plaintiff who was at the time absent in Jhang knew of, or participated in, in his brother's suit except the mere statement of the latter made in his own interest.

Held, under the circumstances, that the present suit was not res judicata by reason of the decision in the previous suit.

Held, further, that inasmuch as foreclosure proceedings are merely ministerial and carry no final judicial sanction it is open to a martgagor to bring a suit for redemption after the expiry of the year of grace, and that such mortgagor would be entitled to a decree if he proved his claim on the merits, and that the foreclosure proceedings were for any reason not good or conclusive as against him or for other sufficient cause.

A mortgagor is not bound to take any notice of foreclosure proceedings which he knows to be defective, or to wait till the mortgagee sues to complete his title, to plead irregularity in the said proceedings. In such a case he may sue for redemption even after expiry of the year of grace. GURDITTA MAL v. SANDHI KHAN.

27 P R 1900

41. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Strict compliance with conditions—Demand for payment of the specific amount—Mistake in the heading of the notice—Official designation not in the handwriting of the Judge—Wrong description of the property mortgaged.

In a suit for possession after foreclosure of a mortgage by conditional sale under Regulation XVII of 1806, it was contended by the mortgagor (i) that no demand for payment of the specific amount due under the mortgage previous to the issue of the notice had been proved; (ii) that the notice issued was defective and invalid, inasmuch as the heading was wrong and incorrectly described the Regulation under which it was issued; (iii) that the official designation of the officer was not in his own handwriting; (iv) that the property mortgaged was wrongly described; and (v) that a copy of the application and the notice were not duly served upon him. Held that under section 8 of the Regulation a demand for payment is a condition precedent to the validity, of the notice to be thereafter issued, and that an omission to make it would vitiate the foreclosure proceedings, but it was not essential that the exact amount due should be distinctly specified in it; and that there was sufficient evidence to prove that a demand had been made before the notice was issued, and that copies of application and notice had been duly served. That the heading of the notice, i.e., notice ba illat dafa 8, Regulation Satarah, 1880, though undoubtedly wrong, as it incorrectly described the Regulation under which it was issued, was immaterial and surplusage, as the section makes no provision for a heading in any particular form. That a notice signed in his own name by the Judge was not defective merely because the official designation was impressed with a rubber stamp, and that as the Regulation does not require any specified description of the property to be entered in the notice, the mistake was innocuous.

Wasawa Singh v. Rura (24 P. R.. 1895), followed; Ram Chand v. Ghulam Muhammad (84 R. R, 1890), explained; Karan Singh v. Mohan Lal (I. L., V All., 9). Forbes v. Amir-un-Nissa (5 W. R. P. C. 47) and Sham Singh v. Karam (185 P. R. 1889) referred to. WALI MUHAMMAD v. RAMJI LAL. 5 P R 1901

42. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Foreclosure Regulation XVII of 1806—Defects in notice issued under section 8—Preservation of right of redemption on deposit of principal and interest within the year of grace—Regulation I of 1798, section 2.

In a suit for possession of a house by redemption filed by the plaintiff a few days before the expiry of the year of grace, who has after the service of a notice of foreclosure admitted only Rs. 45 to be due and had deposited Rs. 63 as the amount of the balance of principal and interest due in the Court which had issued the notice, alleging that his father had paid an item of Rs. 395 out of the mortgage money, which payment he was unable to prove, held, that in a notice under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806, where the mortgagor was specially referred to section 7 of egulation, which lays down the steps which must be taken in order to redeem the property within the year of grace, the mere omission to specify the exact or uncertain amount of interest due or even to mention the interest at all or the fact that the words "District Judge" on the notice was impressed and not written, were not defects sufficient to vitiate the foreclosure proceedings. Held further, that the plaintiff was not entitled to a decree for redemption on any terms, his right to redeem having expired at the end of the year of grace as he had not complied with the requirements of section 2 of Regulations of 1798, he not having deposited even the total amount of the principal due, nor taken either of the alternative courses open to him under section 7 of Regulation XVII of 1806 within the year of grace.

Mehro v. Saja (84 P. R. 1882), Fatteh v. Sain Ditta (76 P. R. 1877), referred to. Forbes v. Ameeroonissa Begum (5 W. R P. C. 47) followed and Wasawa Singh v. Rura (24 P. R. 1895) approved. FAKIRA. v. PIYARE LAL. 21 P R 1901

43. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Validity of notice of foreclosure of mortgage.

Held, that it is not essential to the validity of a notice under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806, that the actual wording of the Regulation should be reproduced in it verbatim. MUSSAMMAT SARDARI v. CHIRANJI LAL. 28 P R 1901

44. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Validity of notice of foreclosure of mortgage.

Held, that in a case where the foreclosure proceedings are otherwise correct and regular mere clerical slips or misprints in a notice under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806, such as "Act" and "Resolution" or "Zarlution" for "Regulation" when the rest of it was properly worded in all particulars cannot be held to render it void. JIWAN RAM v. AMIR BEG.

38 P R 1901

45. Mortgage by conditional sale—Foreclosure—Suit for pre-emption—Limiation—Time from which period begins to run.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 10. 103 P R 1901

46. Mortgage by conditional sale—Suit for foreclosure—Validity of notice for foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8.

Held, that although a notice served on a mortgagor under section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806 need not contain any specification of the property in respect of which foreclosure is sought, the words "the property mortgaged" being a sufficient description when the property mortgaged consisted of 4 ghumaos 3 kanals 19 marlas together with shamilat land in proportion to that area, which extended to nearly 12 ghumaos and the notice which had been served on the mortgagor only described the property as the area above-mentioned and made no specific mention of the shamilat, the notice was defective, inasmuch as it must have led the mortgagors to think that they were in danger of only losing 4 ghumaos and not 16 ghumaos by non-compliance with its terms.

Bura v. Jhanda (113 P. R 1900) and Wali Muhammad v. Ramji Lal (5 P. R. 1901), distinguished; Baju Shah v. Hukmal (42 P. R. 1897), Fakira v. Piyare Lal (24 P. R. 1901), and Jiwan Ram v. Amir

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

Beg (38 P. R. 1901), referred to. WAZIR CHAND v. MAKHAN AND OTHERS.

109 P R 1901

47. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Strict compliance with conditions—Demand for payment—Service of notice.

In an action brought for a declaration that a conditional sale had become absolute, it is essential to prove that a demand for payment had been made before the petition for foreclosure was presented, and that the mortgagor or mortgagors had been furnished with a copy of the petition refered to in section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806, therefore in a suit where there were several mortgagors and the transaction indivisable, and it was proved that registered letters demanding payment were despatched to the address of the mortgagors by post, and that every mortgagor was served with a copy of the petition required by section 8 except one, on whom substituted service was allowed.

Held, (i) that the presumption that the letters reached their destinations having been duly posted and not returned through the Dead Letter Office though neither obligatory nor conclusive, being unrebutted, established sufficient demand within the requirements of the Regulation ;

(ii) that as it was necessary in order to obtain foreclosure of the whole mortgage that every mortgagor should have been served with a notice required by section 8, and that as the stringent requirements of the Regulation would not in the absence of strict proof of the evasion of service be complied with by substituted service, which fact had not been established by independent evidence, there was a fatal defect, which vitiated the whole notice.

Norender Narain Singh v. Dwarka Lal Mundar (I. L. R. III Calc. 397), Madho Singh v. Mahtab Singh (3 N-W P. H. C. R. 325), Syyad Eusaf Ali Khan v. Mussammat Asumtoonissa (W. R. 1864, 49) Madhopersad. v. Gajudar (I. L. R XI Calc. 111), Ajaib Nath v. Mathura Prasad (I. L. R. XI All. 164) and Gugan v. Rup Ram (139 P. R. 1882), cited. Soorjo Kant Banerjee v. Kishore Kristo Poddar (14 W. R. 423), Lal Singh v. Gopal Das (94 P. R. 1892), Meer Abbas Ali v. Nund Coomar Ghose (7 W. R. 123), Ram Chunder Dutt v. Jughesh Chunder Dutt (19 W. R. 353), referred to. FAZAL ILAHI v. HAZARI SINGH AND OTHERS. 48 P R 1902

48. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806, section 7—Validity of notice of foreclosure.

It is essential to the validity of a notice of foreclosure under section 8, of Regulation XVII of 1806, that it shall inform the mortgagor that he must within the year redeem the property in the manner provided for by section 7 of the Regulation, in a case where the notice issued was headed "application for issue of a notice of foreclosure under section 7 and 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806," and notified "that if you shall not redeem the said property in the manner provided for in the foreging section of the said Regulation," held, that the omission to specify section 7 was a fatal defect to the validity of the notice, as there was no notice which of the two sections mentioned in the heading was referred to.

Mul Raj v. Harsa Singh (123 P. R. 1894), Wasawa Singh v. Rura (24 P. R. 1895), and Achhar Mal v. Hukaman (28 P. R. 1897), cited. Wali Muhammad v. Ramji Das (5 P. R. 1901), Mussammat Sardari v. Chrianji Lal (28 P. R. 1901), and Jiwan Ram v. Amir Beg (38 P. R. 1901), referred to. RAM CHAND v. SANDAL KHAN. 21 P R 1903

49. Mortgage—Effect of payment of prior mortgage by subsequent incumbrancer as against intermediate charge.

K. N. and G. were joint owners of certain land, K.'s share being half and the share of N. and G. being half. In 1887 they mortgaged half of their holding to M. In 1889 K. created a further charge in favour of M. on his own quarter share already under mortgage. In 1900 M. obtained a decree against K. N. and G. for possession of the land mortgaged on the condition that the land would be released on payment of Rs. 650. K. mortgaged a portion of his property for Rs. 700 to B. who deposited Rs. 650 in the executing Court to the credit of M. who took the money out of Court without prejudice to his right under the second mortgage. Subsequently K having failed to meet his liabilities under the second mortgage of 1899, M. instituted the present suit for possession and impleaded B. as a co-defendant and claimed priority over B's mortgage which was of a subsequent date. B. pleaded that as he had paid off the first mortgage he could now use it as a shield against all the subsequent incumbrances.

Held, that, as B had notice of the existence of the prior and mesne mortgages before the execution of his mortgage, no equities arose in his favour, and the result of the redemption of the prior mortgage being that his mortgage was subject only to the mesne mortgage, he was not entitled to use the prior mortgage as shield against the mesne mortgage.

Gokal Das-Gopal Das v. Puranmal (I. L. R. XX Calc. 1035, P. C.) Sheikh Mehr Al. v. Mussammat Azim Bibi (59 P. R. 1882), Ghanaya v. Pandit Chhajju Ram (38 P. R. 1894), Jhalar v. Singh Ram (67 P. R. 1899), Mohesh Lal v. Mahant Bawan Das (I. L. R. IX Calc. 961. P. C.) In re Harris (I. L. R. 19 Ex. 253), and In re Wrexham, &c., Railway (L. R. 1 Ch. (1899), 440), referred to. BAGGGA MAL v. MOTI RAM.

32 P R 1903

50. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Regulation XVII of 1806—Suit for possession—Duty of plaintiff to prove strict compliance with condition—Absence of proof of previous demand before issue of notice of foreclosure.

In a suit for possession after foreclosure of a mortgage by conditional sale under Regulation XVII of 1806, it appeared that there was no mention in his plaint by the plaintiff, nor any proof on the record that he had made a demand for payment before issue of the notice, but in the application for the issue of notice itself, it had been stated that several demands had been made. The defendant having taken no objection in the lower Courts, no issue was framed on the point. On the claim being decreed by the lower Courts, the defendant applied for revision under section 70 (b) of the Punjab Courts Act, and objected to the decree on other grounds. The objection as to demand was not entered in the written application, but taken before the Judge in Chambers who permitted it to be raised.

Held, that as a demand prior to notice was essential to its validity, and required to be clearly established, the defendant was competent to rely upon it, even at that stage, but that the failure of the plaintiff to prove demand was excusable, and under the special circumstances it would not be just to decide that the notice was invalid on that ground without giving plaintiff an opportunity to rectify his omission.

Mussammat Lachmi v. Tota (16 P. R. 1888) and Madho Pershad v. Gajudhar (I. L. R. XI Calc. 111, P. C.) referred to. MALLA v. RALLIA RAM. 71 P R 1903

51. Mortgage by conditional sale—Suit for foreclosure—Validity of notice for foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8.

In a suit for possession of immovable property under a deed of conditional sale alleged to have been foreclosed under Regulation XVII of 1806, it appeared that the notice of foreclosure which had been served on the mortgagor in compliance with the provisions of section 8 of the Regulation contained a clause that the mortgagor must redeem within one year from the date of the notice.

Held, that the notice was defective and void. The notification referred to in section 8 of the Regulation is the time when the mortgagor is informed that he has a year to redeem, and that it does not refer to the date of the parwana which orders him to be so informed. GOKAL CHAND v. MUHAMMAD MUNIR KHAN. 46 P R 1904

52. Mortgage—Foreclosure—Competency of mortgagee to demand payment or apply for foreclosure before stipulated period—Regulation XVII of 1806, section 8.

Held, that no legal effect attaches to a demand in respect of foreclosure by a mortgagee under a conditional sale before the expiry of the stipulated period for redemption or to a notice of foreclosure issued before such expiry.

Previous demand of payment of the mortgage money as contemplated by section 8 of the Regulation and the application to foreclose such a mortgage, with a view to making the conditional sale absolute must be effected after the period stipulated in the proviso for redemption has expired.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

Kishori Mohun Roy v. Ganga Bahu Devi (I. L. R. XXIII Calc. 228 P. C.), referred to. SANT SINGH v. JIWAN MAL.
119 P R 1906

53. Mortgage by conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Notice under section 8—Non-existence of such notice on foreclosure file—Presumption as to its regularity.

In a case for redemption the defendant pleaded that the alleged mortgage had been foreclosed so far back as 1881. The plaintiff denied this allegation and urged that no prescribed notice had ever been issued or served on him. The file of the foreclosure proceedings having been brought up, it was discovered that nathi B, including the notice in question had been destroyed, but from the documents in nathi A, it appeared that a notice had been ordered to be issued to the mortgagor and that the latter had attended the District Court, when the Judge passed the following order :—

"Parties, present, defendant (present plaintiff) has been thoroughly warned that "within one year he should have the land "redeemed, thereafter no excuse will be "listended to."

Held that the non-existence of the notice was a fatal defect to the validity of the foreclosure proceedings as it could not be presumed on the strengh of the above order of the District Judge that the notice issued to the mortgagor had been served upon him or that it complied with all the requirements of procedure as laid down in section 8 of the Regulation. SOCHET SINGH v. DIAL SINGH.
46 P R 1907

54. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Foreclosure—Regulation XVII of 1806—Validity of notice of foreclosure—Objection taken for first time on appeal.

In a suit for possession of immovable property under a deed conditional sale said to have been foreclosed under Regulation XVII of 1806 the defendants practically admitted the validity of the notice issued under the Regulation, their main contention being that no demand previous to the issue of the notice had been made. The Court having found this point against the defence decreed the claim. On appeal the mortgagors challenged the validity of the notice on the grounds, amongst others, that neither khasra and khewat numbers nor the principal and interest were specified in it, and that it did not bear the proper official signature of the Judge inasmuch as his official designation was in print instead of being in the Judge's own hand.

Held, that it is not essential to the validity of a notice that it should contain the khasra and khewat numbers or the precise amount due on account of principal and interest (especially where a gross amount due is stated in addition to the expression " or the balance due ") or the official designation of the Judge in his own handwriting under his signature when it already existed in print at the place required.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE—contd.

Held, per Johnstone, J. (Rattigan, J. doubting as to this) that in the above circumstances an appellant should not be permitted to plead the aforesaid defects in the notice for the first time in appeal. BHAGIRATH v. NATH MAL.
105 P R 1907

55 Foreclosure—Defective notice—Estoppel—Regulation XVII of 1806.

Held, that a mortgagor's offer to pay on receipt of an otherwise defective notice of foreclosure issued under the provisions of Regulation XVII of 1806, does not amount to waiver of right to take advantage of its legal defects in a subsequent suit for the redemption of the mortgage or estop him from questioning its validity. BALWANT SINGH v. RAM DAS.
28 P R 1908

56. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Application for foreclosure of mortgage—Period of limitation applicable—Regulation XVII of 1806.

Held, that there is no time limit for the foreclosure of a mortgage by conditional sale, and a mortgaee in possession is entitled to take out such groceedings at any time during the subsistence of his mortgage. NAGAR v. SAUDAGAR.
57 P R 1908

57. Mortgage by conditional Sale—Gift of equity of redemptlon prior to the expiry of mortgage term—Vaildity of such gift under Muhammadan Law—Notice of foreclosure to original mortgagor—Necessity of notice to donee

The plaintiffs instituted the present suit against the defendant for possession of certain land as absolute owners, alleging that the land was mortgaged by the father of defendants with condition of foreclosure if the entire land or a part thereof was not redeemed within six years. The land was not redeemed and the plaintiffs on 7th December 1898 served defendant's father with a notice of foreclosure. The year of grace expired on 16th December 1899, and plaintiffs became absolute owners. The defence was that the original mortgagor on whom the notice was served had no right of ownership at the time, as the land in dispute was gifted by him to defendants on 30th January 1899 by a registered deed of gift which was witnessed by J. S., one of the mortgagees, and therefore the proceedings in connection with the notice of foreclosure were ineffective and void, as it should have been issued to the donees. In reply plaintiffs contested the gift alleging that the gift was not completed by delivery of possession. Both Courts below found in favour of defendants and dismissed the suit. On appeal the Chief Court—

Held, dissenting from Muhi-ud-din v. Manohor Shah, (1882) I. L. R. 6 Bom. 650 and Ismail v. Ramji, (1889) I. L. R. 23 Bom. 682, that under Muhammadan Law a gift by a mortgagor of immovable property of the equity of redemption was valid, placed the donee in the shoes of the donor and necessitated notice to the donee of foreclosure although the donor was still alive. HARNAM SINGH v. SAJAWAL.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVI.—FORECLOSURE.—concld.

86 P R 1910

XVII.—INTEREST

1. Sale subsequent to mortgage—Liability of purchaser for covenants of mortgagor.

A. mortgaged a part of his land to plaintiff for a loan, agreeing to deliver 175 maunds of grain per annum as interest. Subsequently, A. sold the mortgaged land to defendants. Plaintiffs demanded the grain from defendant who refused to deliver it, expressing their inability to do so as the tenants, who were in occupation at the time of the sale, always paid their rent in cash. Plaintiff sued the defendant for the value of the grain. Held, by BOULNOIS and LINDSAY, JJ. (CAMPBELL, J., dissenting) that the promise made by A. to pay interest in kind did not run with the land, but was a personal promise between A. and plantiff ; but that plaintiff had his right of action against the mortgagor for the principal debt and interest and against the vendee at the same time, but in a different suit to enforce his lien on the land,—it being open to the vendee to show that he was a bonâ fide purchaser without notice. SUNDRA v. CHAINO.
66 P R 1876

2. Suit for interest up to date—Subsequent suit for entire debt with interest.

See CAUSE OF ACTION—I. DISTINCT CANSES OF ACTION.
123 P R 1881

3. And article 63—Suit for redemftion of mortgage—Defendant's right to interest due under the mortgage—Right to treat such interest on a charge as the estate.

LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 132.
57 P R 1888

4. *Mortgage—Interest—*Post diem interest—Absence of covenant to pay interest after a certain date when the mortgage if not redeemed was to become a usufructuary one—Damages—Construction of document.

See INTEREST. 114 P R 1901

5. *Suit for redemption—*Post diem interest—Damages—Rights of mortgagee—Charge upon mortgaged property.

See INTEREST. 95 P R 1902

6. Agreement for payment of interest up to the date of repayment of the mortgage debt—Rights of mortgagee to claim interest at the stipulated rate after due date.

See INTEREST. 92 P R 1905

7. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Absence of stipulated period for redemption—Agreement to pay interest annually or in default of payment for six years the mortgage would became a sale—Applicability of Regulation XVII of 1806 to such agreements.

See MORTGAGE—XV. REDEMPTION
50 P R 1906

8 Civil Procedure Code, 1882—Section 43—Mortgage—Separate covenants for the payment of principal and interest—Distinct causes of action—Competency of mortgagee to institute separate suit for principal and interest when both have fallen due—All claims on same cause to be included.

See MORTGAGEI.—CONSTRUCTION.
28P R 1907

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVIII.—NON-PAYMENT OF CONSIDERATION ACCORDING TO AGREEMENT.

1. Payment of consideration money.

The recital of the payment of the consideration-money in a mortgage-deed is not conclusive. Where the whole of the consideration-money mentioned had not been paid, the Court withheld execution of a decree for possession until payment was made. MUSSAMMAT SUTBHURAI v. THAKOOR DASS.

41 P R 1868

2. Suit by mortgagee for produce of mortgaged land—Defendant pleading non-receipt of consideration money—Validity of such plea—Mortgage when complete.

In a suit by plaintiff as mortgagee for the recovery of the produce of certain land which he alleged had been mortgaged to him by the defendants, the latter, while admitting the execution of the deed of mortgage, pleaded that they had received no consideration upon it.

Held, reversing the orders of the lower Courts, that until the consideration was paid there was no mortgage upon the basis of which the plaintiff could maintain an action like the present, and therefore it was a perfectly valid defence for the defendants to set up that the mortgage was not complete, because the consideration which was to give it vitality had never passed to them. Kahna v. Dewa Singh (No. 62 P. R. 1879), Dasondhi v. Sirdar Khan (No. 114 P. R. 1879), and Abbas Ali Shah v. Pir Bahsh (No. 132 P. R. 1879) cited. ALA BAKHSH v. SHAMA.

153 P R 1882

Followed in CHANDAN LALL v. NIHAL.

153 P R 1882 Note.

3 Suit for possession of mortgaged property—Dismissal of suit on ground that full consideration had not passed.

In a suit for possession of mortgaged property the lower Courts held that the plaintiff was not entitled to a decree for possession as the full consideration had never been paid. In second appeal it was contended that it did not matter whether the consideration had been paid or not, in the absence of an agreement that possession was not to be given until consideration was paid in full. It appeared that in the Courts below the plaintiff had never asked that if anything was found to be due he might be required to pay it and a conditional decree of possession be given, but contended simply that full consideration had passed.

Held, that the Courts were justified in holding on the facts found by them that the plaintiff's title to possession wss still incomplete, though their decrees could not be regarded as putting an end to the mortgaged Gomess v. Mela Ram (No. 16 P. R. 1884) distinguished. Ala Bakhsh v. Shama (No. 153 P. R. 1882), cited. MANGAL SINGH v. JINDAN.

27 P R 1886

4. Non-payment of consideration according to agreement—Part payment—Incomplete transaction—Apportionment—Lien.

A. hypothecated certain immovable property to B. in 1880 for Rs. 5,000. The mortgage-deed was duly registered, but at registration the receipt of Rs. 2,363 only was admitted. Subsequently the mortgagor offered to repay this amount with interest, but the mortgagee declined. In 1887, the mortgagee sued the heir of the mortgagor and certain subsequent alienees of a portion of property for the recovery of the whole consideration and iuterest by enforcement of lien against the mortgaged property.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XVIII.—NON-PAYMENT OF CONSIDERATION ACCORDING TO AGREEMENT—contd.

Held, that there never was a completed mortgage, that the transaction fell through from the first, and the plaintiff had no right to enforce any lien on the property in respect to Rs. 2,363 because the contract was for Rs. 5,000 and not for any less sum. The mortgage was solely a lien which was to exist as for the whole debt. If there was no debt there was no lien.

16 P. R. 1884, distinguished, 153 P. R. 1882, and 27 P. R. 1886, referred to. GOPAL SAHAI v. MUSSAMMAT HUSSAIN BIBI.

100 P R 1889

5. Mortgage—Incomplete transaction, right of mortgagee under—Invalidity of transfer of occupancy rights by tenant—Practice of Civil Courts—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 53, 77, clause (3).

One Ishar, an occupancy tenant, holding under co-proprietors, of whom Ghanaya was one, on the 18th November 1875, mortgaged his holding to the said Ghanaya, who, on the 16th June 1878, obtained a decree for possession as mortgagee, and on the 9th July 1878 duly received possession in execution. On the 16th July 1878, Ishar made another mortgage of his land to one G. M., and on the 18th July 1878 paid money into Court for the purpose of redeeming the former mortgage to Ghanaya. Thereupon Ghanaya objected that redemption could not then take place, and the objection being allowed, Ishar withdrew the money deposited in Court. On the 13th June 1879 another application was made by Ishar to the Court to be allowed to pay the money into Court but was dismissed and no further attempt was thereafter made to redeem from Ghanaya, and additional mortgages were executed by Ishar in favour of Ghanaya, on the 7th October 1880 and the 22nd May 1890. Meantime G. M. sold his rights under the mortgage of 16th July 1878 to Basan Mal, who, on the 15th July 1890, brought a suit for possession as mortgagee. The first Court dismissed the suit on the ground that the mortgage to G. M., as well as the subsequent transfer of that mortgage by G. M. to plaintiff, was void as made without the consent of the landlord, but the Divisional Juddge, on appeal, reversed this decision on the grounds that Ghanaya, as only one out of a body of landlords, could not object to the mortgage and the subsequent transfer being void as made without the consent of the landlord, and that although the said mortgages of the 7th October 1880 and 22nd May 1890, Ghanaya could not deny the right of plaintiff to redeem because his right to do so was not denied by Ishar. Ghanaya appealed to the Chief Court, and it was argued on his behalf that plaintiff's suit should have been dismissed (i) because of the want of consent of the landlord to the transfers required by section 53 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and (ii) because the mortgage of the 16th July 1878 was incomplete and full consideration had not passed.

MORTGAGE—concld.

XVIII.—NON-PAYMENT OF CONSIDERATION ACCORDING TO AGREEMENT—concld.

Held, that inasmuch as clause (3) of section 77 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, debars a Civil Court from taking cognizance of any dispute with respect to which a suit might be instituted in a Revenue Court, the Court could not take cognizance of the objection that the transfer in favour of G. M. in July in 1878 and the transfer in favour of plaintiff in June 1890 were invalid under the provisions of section 53 of the Act.

Held, further, that Ghanaya's appeal must be dismissed on the ground that the only person who was pecuniarily interested in resisting plaintiff's claim to redeem was Ishar who had preferred no appeal against the order of the Divisional Judge allowing the claim.

No. 100 P. R. 1889, referred to GHANAYA v. BASAN MAL.

96 P. R. 1894

6. Mortgage—Non-payment of consideration according to agreement—Incomplete transaction—Lien.

Held by the Full Bench that in the absence of a specific contract postponing payment, failure to pay full consideration as agreed upon, whether to the mortgagor, or to a prior incumbrancer after such payment has been demanded by the mortgagor avoids the mortgage and destroys the mortgagee's lien and right to possession even on subsequent tender of the unpaid consideration, it being immaterial whether the non-payment has or has not caused inconvenience or loss to the mortgagor.

Ala Bakhsh v. Shama (153 P. R. 1882), Chandan Lal v. Nihal 153 P. R. (1882, Note), Mangal Singh v. Judan (27 P. R. 1886), Gopal Sahai v. Mussammat Hussain Bibi (100 P. R. 1889), Saudagur Singh v. Sant Ram (103 P. R. 1906) referred to.

Gomess v. Mela Ram (16 P. R. 1884,) dissented from. GOKALCHAND v. RAHMAN.

59 P R 1907 F. B.

XIX.—COMPENSATION FOR IMPROVEMENTS OR REPAIRS.

1. Improvements by mortgagee—Compensation.

Plaintiff mortgaged certain land to the defendant, upon which the latter builte a house no objection to his doing so being made by, the plaintiff, who, however gave no actual consent. Held that plaintiff was entitled to redeem, but must pay the defendant a fair and reasonable sum for the house. GANSHAM v. BUDHA.

119 P R 1876

MORTGAGE—contd.

XIX.—COMPENSATION FOR IMPROVEMENT OF REPAIR—concld.

2. Suit for redemption—Compensation for improvements by mortgagee—Material issue—Jurisdiction—Compensation claimed and found to be in excess of power of Court—Dismissal of suit.

Plaintiffs sued to redeem certain land from mortgage and for possession thereof. Defendant pleaded that he obtained the land in mortgage, and that subsequently it was sold to him by the lambardars of the village; that he had planted a garden on it, sunk a masonry well, and effected other improvements at a large expense. Plaintiffs rejoined that the lambardars had no power to sell, and that the sale was invalid. It was found that the expenditure incurred in improvements by defendant amounted to Rs. 658-4-0, but the Tahsildar before whom the case was tried, refused to consider the defendant's plea as to improvements, and decreed redemption on payment of Rs. 82-8-0.

Held, that the question of compensation was a material issue in the suit, and that the Tahsildar was bound to decide the question before decreeing the eviction of the defendant.

Held, further the subject matter of the suit being land alleged to be mortgaged for Rs. 82-8-0, and on which as found by the Tahsildar improvements to the amount of Rs. 658-4-0 had been made, that the value of the land in suit being clearly in excess of Rs. 300, the Tahsildar had no jurisdiction to try the suit.

Held, further, that as it only appeared in the course of the trial that the Tahsildar had no jurisdiction, the proper order for him to pass was to dismiss the suit, leaving plaintiffs to bring a fresh suit in the proper Court. BUDHA v. MUHAMMAD KHAN. 20 P R 1879

3. Redemption of mortgage—money expended by mortgagee in possession on repairs and improvements to mortgaged property—Interest on such expenditure.

See INTEREST. 67 P R 1893

See CUSTOM I. F.—ALIENATION BY NON-PROPRIETOR. 75 P R 1897

XX.—ACCOUNTS.

1. "Lekha Mukhi" mortgage—Mortgagee in possession as trustee bound to account—Everything presumed against him on default.

When the mortgage was of the kind known as Lekha Mukhi, the mortgagee being put into possession, and charging the interest of his debt against the mortgagor, and crediting him with the proceeds of the land: Held, that the mortgagee as trustee was bound to account for his management of the property, and on his failing to do so the Court was bound to place the income at the highest possible figure, and to presume everything against him. RANJA v. MUSSAMMAT PIAREE. 99 P R 1869

2. Lekha Mukhi mortgage—Suit to recover mortgage-debt—Remedy of mortgagee.

Plaintiff brought the present suit to rocover the sum alleged to be due under a mortgage of certain land, the plaint also containing a prayer that the amount found to be due, should be decreed against the mortgaged property.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XX.—ACCOUNTS—concld.

Held, that the suit was not maintainable nter ali because the mortgage was a usufructuary one of the kind known as Lekha Mukhi, and he having to look to its produce for the payment of the mortgage debt, the mortgagor undertaking no personal liability and there being no provision in the deed entitling the mortgagee to sue for the debt. 90 P R 1881

XXI.—LIMITATION.

See INTEREST.

1. Conditional sale—Limitation -Regulation XVII of 1806.

See MORTGAGE—XVI. FORECLOSURE. 75 P R 1874

2. Limitation to suit for money decree on.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 132. 90 P R 1881

3. Conditional sale—Mortgage created by decree of Court—Proviso that right of redemption must be exercised within 12 years—Effect of such provision—Applicability of Regulation XVII of 1806 to mortgages not created by deed between the perties.

In a suit for redemption of mortgage, it appeared that in a previous decision between the same parties given by the Settlement Superintendent in 1859, the Court, while declaring the relation of mortgagor and mortgagee to subsist between the plaintiff and defendant, attempted to abridge the right of redemption by declaring that failure to redeem within twelve years would extinguish the rights of the owner.

Held, that this decision could not have greater force than a contract of mortgage by way of conditional sale voluntarily entered into by the parties themselves would have had; that had it been agreed by them that on the expiry of three years without redemption of the mortgage the land should pass in full proprietary right to the mortgage, it would not have been open to the mortgagee to enforce this condition against the wishes of the mortgagor without taking steps to foreclose under the law in force: that no such steps had been taken to foreclose the present mortgage, either under Regulation XVII of 1806, which is now in force in the Punjab, or under the general law based on the spirit of that Regulation which was formerly in force, and that therefore, notwithstanding the decree of 1859, plaintiff had not lost his right to redeem.

Held, further, that there was no ground for holding that section 8 of Regulation XVII of 1806 was in applicable to a mortgage by way of conditional sale which had been created by a decree of a Civil Court and not by deed between the pnrties. Shibbu Mal v. Paira Singh (No. 86 P. R. 1877) and Gurmukh Singh v. Malla (No. 1 P. R. 1881), cited. AHMED KHAN v. MAHLA KHAN. 132 P R 1882

4. Redemption—Conditional decree—Omission to execute—Judicial Commissioner's book circular No. XI of 1859*—Limitation.*

See LIMITATION. 57 P R 1883

MORTGAGE—contd.

XXI.—LIMITATION—concld.

5. Redemption—Party not interested in equity of redemption redeeming from mortgagee in possession—Subsequent possession by such person for over 12 years—Adverse possession

See LIMITATION ACT, (XV of 1877) SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 134. 124 P R 1883

6 Suit for possession of mortgaged property—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 135. 134 P R 1883

7. Limitation to suit for money decree on

See LIMITATION ACT, (XV OF 1877) SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 132. 55 P R 1884

8. Redemption—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, (XIV OF 1859) SECTION 1, CLAUSE 16. 109 P R 1884

9. Suit to recover money due on, from mortgaged property—Suit for sale.

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877) SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 147. 19 P R 1885

10. Suit by mortgagee for possession of mortgaged property after allowing money decree obtained on the same mortgage to become barred by time.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 28, 3 P R 1887

11. Pre-emption of a mortgage—Redemption during pendency of suit.

See LIS PENDENS. 102 P R 1888

12. Suit for foreclosure or sale.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 147. 151 P R 1888

13 Mortgage by way of conditional sale—Foreclosure proceedings instituted more than 12 years after determination of mortgagor's right to possession—Suit for possession—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 135. 35 P R 1899

14. Conditional sale—Suit for possession by mortgagee after foreclosure—Cause of action—Starting point of limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 135 65 P R 1906

15. Mortgage entry in Settlement record—Signature of one of the mortgagees and of Settlement Officer—Acknowledgment.

See INDIAN LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19. 39 P R 1910

XXII.—EFFECT OF ALIENATION OF LAND ACT.

1. Effect of section 9 (3) of Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900, on suit for declaring conditional sales absolute with or without a prayer for possession pending at the time the Act came into force and on appeals in such suits.

See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT, 1900, SECTION 9. 26 P R 1902

2. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Effect of Punjab Alienation of Land Act on suits for possession after foreclosure of mortgage.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XXII.—EFFECT OF ALIENATION OF LAND ACT—contd.

See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT, 1900, SECTION 9. 38 P R 1904

3. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Suit for possession after foreclosure of mortgage—Effect of Punjab Alienation of Land Act on such suits.

See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT, 1900, SECTION 9. 38 P R 1905

4. Suit on a mortgage by way of conditional sale effected by a person other than a member of an agricultural tribe—Application of section 9 (3) of Punjab Alienation of Land Act to such suits.

See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT, 1900, SECTION 9 (3). 64 P R 1906

5. Duty of Court to refer mortgage by deed of conditional sale to Deputy Commissioner if made by a member of an agricultural tribe—Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900, section 9—Refusal of Court to recognize a party as a member of such tribe who failed to prove his assertion no ground for revision—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 70 (1) (a).

Although it is the duty of a Court to refer a mortgage of land by way of conditional sale to the Deputy Commissioner under section 9 of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act if it was made by a member of an agricultural tribe, but it is for the party desiring to obtain benefit of that enactment to allege and prove that he is a member of an agricultural tribe. The mere assertion by a party that he is so and the refusal of the Court to recognize him as such does not amount to material irregularity and is not open to revision by the Chief Court under section 70 (1) (a) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884. UDA v. MUL CHAND. 4 P R 1907

6. Mortgage—Conditional sale—Reference by Civil Court under sub-section 3 of section 9 of Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900—Refusal of Deputy Commissioner to take action after the non-acceptance of his proposal by the mortgagor—Procedure for mortgagee—Regulation XVII of 1806—Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900.

A mortgage made before the commencement of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act by an agriculturist of his land in which there was a condition intended to operate by way of conditional sale and still current was brought by the District Judge, who was moved to issue a notice of foreclosure under Regulation XVII of 1806 after the Act had come into force, to the notice of the Deputy Commissioner. The mortgagee accepted the new mortgage as proposed by the Deputy Commissioner in lieu of the original one but the mortgagor refused. The Deputy Commissioner thereupon decided that nothing further could be done and returned the reference to the District Judge. Notice of foreclosure was then issued and after the expiration of the year of grace the mortgagee instituted a suit for possession as owner.

MORTGAGE—contd.

XXII.—EFFECT OF ALIENATION OF LAND ACT—concld.

Held, that in these circumstances the foreclosure proceedings under Regulation XVII of 1806 were not barred by the provisions of the Punjab Alienation for the Land Act, and that it was not necessary for the Civil Court upon the institution of the suit for possession to refer the matter again to the Deputy Commissioner under sub-section 3 of section 9 as the mortgage had then ceased to exist and the mortgagee had become ipso facto owner of the property by purchase.

The interpretation of the provisions of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act applicable to the subject discussed by Johnstone, J. BICHEA LAL v. GUMANI. 93 P R 1907

7. By way of conditional sale—Reference to Collector futile after expiry of year of grace.

See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT 88 P R 1909

8. Civil Courts have no jurisdiction to convert a mortgage by way of conditional sale into one prescribed by section 6 (1) (a) of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act.

See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT 88 P R 1909

9. Mortgage by conditional sale—Remedy of mortgagee since passing of Punjab Alienation of Land Act, XIII of 1900, vide section 9 (2).

Under the terms of a mortgage deed by way of conditional sale the sole remedy of the mortgagee for the enforcement of his right thereunder was to foreclose under Regulation XVII of 1806. Default having taken place, the mortgagee took proceedings under the Regulation, but infructuously, in 1897, and did nothing further till 1907 when he applied to the Deputy Commissioner for relief under section 9 (2) of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, XIII of 1900. The Deputy Commissioner thereon offered him a farm of the mortgaged land for eight years, which the mortgagee refused, and then brought a suit for a money decree against the mortgaged land on the mortgagor personally.

Held, that the mortgagee was not entitled in law to a money-decree, inasmuch as the effect of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act was, that the particular remedy, given to the mortgagee under the terms of his contract, has been extinguished and another remedy substituted in lieu thereof, and that this relief was in the circumstances the only one open to the mortgagee.

Held, also, that the Civil Courts had no jurisdiction to deal with the terms offered to the mortgagee by the Deputy Commissioner DULA SINGH v. DIAL SINGH. 22 P R 1910

XXIII.—PRE-EMPTION.

. Foreclosure—Pre-emption.

See PRE-EMPTION. 35 P R 1881
155 P R 1882

2. Suit for pre-emption, based on mortgage.

See LIMITATION ACT, (XV OF 1877) SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 10.

See PRE-EMPTION. 20 P R 1885
33 P R 1885
103 P R 1885
11 P R 1901

MORTGAGE—contd.

XXIII.—PRE-EMPTION—concld.

3. Pre-emption arising out of mortgage.

See PRE-EMPTION—RIGHT OF, ON MORTGAGES.

4. Mortgage-deed relating to immovable property—Deed compulsorily registrable, but registered in wrong Registry office—Admissibility of deed in evidence.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 49, 44 P R 1898

5. Right of pre-emption on mortgages.

See PRE-EMPTION. 46 P R 1903

6. Sale of equity of redemption to mortgagee—Suit for pre-emption against vendee—Right of vendee to plead his own mortgage—Merger of mortgage into sale—Prevention of Merger—Proof of.

See PRE-EMPTION. 98 P R 1906

XXIV.—MORTGAGES IN JOINT ESTATES.

1. Mortgage of part of joint estate by two out of three sharers—Subsequent partition—Suit by sharer who did not join in mortgage to recover from mortgagee possession of land allotted to him at partition—Fraud and collusion.

Two out of three co-sharers in a joint estate mortgaged portions of their shares, amounting to one-half of the entire estate by a deed under the terms of which the mortgagee eventually obtained possession of half the estate. Subsequently, in partition proceedings to which the mortgagee was not a party, a portion of the land in the mortgagee's possession fell to the share of the third co-sharer who had not been a party to the mortgage, whereupon he sued the mortgagee, for possession of the said land. No fraud was shown to have been committed by the mortgagors in collusion with the plaintiff, in effecting the partition.

Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to succeed in his claim. SIKANDAR v. NUR MAHI. 81 P R 1883

2. Mortgage of portion of joint estate by one out of four brothers—Suit against mortgagor alone—Absence of proof that he was sued in a representative character—Execution of decree against mortgaged property—Suit by second mortgagee on a decree against all four brothers jointly, for release of interest of the three brothers who did not join in the first mortgage.

On 23rd January 1878 A. (defendant No. 2) who was one of four brothers, mortgaged to defendant No. 1 four fields out of a joint holding. On 1st March 1883 defendant No. 1 obtained in a suit against A. alone a money decree on the mortgage with execution against the mortgaged property. The plaintiff who obtained a decree against all four brothers jointly for the same fields, on a mortgage of 17th December 1878, thereupon sued for the release of the interest in them of the three brothers other than A. His suit was dismissed because it was found as a fact by the lower Courts that the mortgage of 23rd January 1878 was executed by A. as manager of the joint estate and representative of all four brothers.

MORTGAGE - contd.
XXIV.—MORTGAGES IN JOINT ESTATES—contd.

Held, following Jissu v. Hamir Chand (No. 70 P. R., 1883,) that where there is nothing in the decree or proceedings themselves to show that a sharer in a joint holding was being sued in a representative character (as in the decree of 1st March 1883 against defendant No. 2), the decree must be held to be binding against him alone, and that the Court cannot go behind the decree and enquire into the circumstances of the debt which led to the decree. MANIA SHAH v. MOHNA SHAH.
78 P R 1885

3. Suit for Redemption—Mortgage of undivided share of joint property—Consent of co-sharers—Interest post diem.
See INTEREST. 114 P R 1894

4. Mortgage—Mortgage of undivided property by a joint owner—Partition—Remedy of mortgagee.

Held, that when one of two or more joint owners mortgages a part of the joint undivided property, the mortgagee is entitled to recover his debt from the share of the property which may eventually fall to the mortgagor on partition notwithstanding the fact that it may have been subsequently sold by the mortgagor to a third party

Byjnath Lal v. Ramoodeen Chowdry (L. R. 1, I. A. 106; 21 W. R. 233 P. C.) cited and followed. ALLA BAKHSH v. GOBIND RAM.
2 P R 1906

5. Mortgage by co-sharer.

Held, under the Punjab Civil Code (section XIII, para. 11), that a co-sharer in joint-undivided property could mortgage his share without the knowledge or consent of his co-sharers. GOORDIT SINGH v. OOTAM SINGH. 31 P R 1870

6. Mortgage- Mortgage of undivided property by a joint owner—Subsequent mortgage by the other co-sharer—Partition—Allotment of property to the subsequent mortgagor with an express lien of prior mortgage—Sale of property in execution of a money decree against the co-sharer to whom it was allotted with notice of prior mortgage only—Right of puisne mortgagee to enforce his lien against the property in hands of purchaser for value without notice.

'N,' a member of an undivided Hindu family, mortgaged one of the joint houses in his own name to 'R.' Subsequently 'S.' the other co-sharer, mortgaged the whole of the joint property held by him and 'N' to 'A' as a collateral security. On partition by a Civil Court between the brothers 'N' and 'S,' the equity of redemption of the house in dispute subject to the charge in favour of 'R' was apportioned to 'S.' Thereafter one 'M' obtained a money decree against 'S' and in its execution attached the house which was sold subject to the incumbrance in favour of 'R.' The auction purchaser discharged the amount due on the prior mortgage in favour of 'R,' paid the decree-holder in full and the balance to 'S,' the judgment-debtor.

MORTGAGE—contd.
XXIV.—MORTGAGES IN JOINT ESTATES—concld.

'A' being fully cognizant of these proceedings stood by, made no objections and gave no warning to any of the parties concerned. Subsequently 'A' brought a suit against 'N' and 'S' on his mortgage and obtained a decree against the property of 'S' which had come to him at the partition and had the house in question attached in execution thereof.

In these execution proceedings the auction purchaser intervened and his objections were allowed. 'A' then brought the present suit for a declaration that the house was attachable and was subject to sale in execution of his decree against 'S.'.

Held, that under the circumstances 'A' had lost his lien over the house in dispute. Although he was at the outset entitled as a pusine mortgagee to the right, title and interest of 'S,' yet by his subsequent silence and conduct at the execution sale he was estopped on equitable grounds from enforcing his lien against the auction purchaser for a valuable consideration and without notice. AZIZ BEGAM v. MOHAN LAL.
33 P R 1906

7. Mortgage made jointly by several mortgagors—losing its indivisible character on mortgagee becoming part owner of equity of redemption thus enabling each mortgagor to redeem his share separately—previous partition not necessary.
See JOINT MORTGAGE. 62 P R 9111

XXV.—MISCELLANEOUS.

1 Confiscation of mortgagee's estate by Government.

Defendant mortgaged a parcel of land for 10 years to plaintiff, who was put in possession; 3 years afterwards plaintiff, in 1857, turned rebel and absconded, whereupon Government took possession and realizing part of the money due by the mortgagors remitted the rest. Plaintiff sued to be put in possession for the remaining 7 years of the term for which the property was mortgaged to him. Held, that as plaintiff turned rebel and abandoned his lien for six years, and Government had confiscated his property and had received part of the mortgage money from defendants and remitted the rest, plaintiff had no further claim against defendants. GOVINDA v. RAM SAHAYE 8 P R 1867 Rev.

2. Purchaser without notice of prior mortgage— Right of mortgagee.

A. mortgaged certain property to B. and subsequently sold it to C. without notice of the mortgage. C. took possession under the deed of sale. In a suit by B. against A. and C. for the mortgage debt or for sale of the property in satisfaction of the debt, the Commissioner decreed the plaintiff's claim against both defendants. Held, by the Chief Court, that the decree was correct. DWARKADASS v. RAMJI DASS 76 P R 1870

3. Debt—Collateral mortgage.

A Court may make a decree declaring a lien on property situated out of its jurisdiction, when the defendant is within the jurisdiction. SIMLA BANK v. DUDY.

MORTGAGE—contd.
XXV.—MISCELLANEOUS—contd.

77 P R 1875

4. Right of mortgagee to sue separately for money decree and lien—Suit for money decree and lien, but decree only for former—Right to bring second suit for lien—Act VIII of 1859, sections 2 and 7.

A. mortgaged his land to B. afterwards to C., and then to D. It was alleged that there was an agreement (C. being a party to the arrangement and assenting to the mortgage to D.) that D. out of the money which he was to advance on the security of the mortgage, should pay off the prior mortgages to B. and C; D. satisfied B's mortgage, but not C.'s, and C. sued A. for a money-decree and also for a lien on the land. The Court gave C. a money-decree, but omitted to pass a decision as to the lien prayed for. There was no appeal from this decision or application for its review. Subsequently, C. brought a second suit against A. (in which he impleaded D.) to establish his lien on the land. Held, that C.'s second suit was not barred; as (1) a mortgagee is not bound by section 7, Act VIII of 1859, to claim in the same suit a money-decree and a lien on the land; the claims are distinct causes of action, and the mortgagee may sue first for a money-decree, and afterwards for a declaration of his lien; and (2) where the mortgagee sues both for a money-decree and a declaration of his lien, and the Court grants the former but does not adjudicate as to the latter section 2 of Act VIII of 1859, does not bar a second suit in respect of the matter or cause of action left undetermined, viz., the mortgagee's lien. Case remanded for further investigation as to the alleged arrangement by which C.'s claim was to be paid and satisfied by D. DOONA v. KASHMIRI MAL. 69 P R 1876

5. Unregistered—Admissibility in evidence for collateral purposes.
See REGISTRATION ACT (III OF 1877) SECTION 49. 7 P R 1881

6. Unregistered—Admissibility in evidence for collateral purposes.
See REGISTRATION ACT (III OF 1877), SECTION 49. 80 P R 1881

7. Suit for possession—Subsequent suit for mortgage-debt.
See SPLITTING CAUSE OF ACTION.
90 P R 1881

8. Registered and unregistered—Priority—Notice.
See REGISTRATION ACT (III OF 1877), SECTION 50. 37 P R 1882

9, Redemption—Valuation of suit.
See JURISDICTION. 82 P R 1882

10. Assignment of money-decree obtained on specially registered deed—Suit by assignee to establish lien on property subsequently sold.
See SPLITTING CAUSE OF ACTION.
142 P R 1882

11. Unregistered—Admissibility in evidence for collateral purposes.
See REGISTRATION ACT, (III OF 1877, SECTION 49. 10 P R 1883

MORTGAGE—contd.

XXV.—MISCELLANEOUS—contd.

12 Memorandum of, made in account book—Instrument chargeable with stamp duty. See STAMP. 31 P R 1883

13. Unregistered—Admission of amount due by defendant. See REGISTRATION ACT, (III OF 1877), SECTION 49. 52 P R 1883

14. Unregistered—Admissibility in evide ce for collateral purposes. See REGISTRATION ACT, (III OF 1877) SECTION 49. 74 P R 1883

15. Unregistered—Admission of amount due by defendant. See REGISTRATION ACT (III OF 1877), SECTION 49. 131 P R 1883

16. Suit for cancellation of. See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 91. 155 P R 1883

17. Of joint property. See DECLARATORY DECREE. 182 P R 1883

18. Of undivided share in shamilat. See COMMON LAND. 37 P R 1884

19. Unregistered and registered sale—Priority. See REGISTRATION ACT (III OF 1877), SECTION 50. 126 P R 1884

20. Of joint property. See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT. 11 P R 1885

21. Unregistered and registered sale—Priority. See REGISTRATION ACT, (III of 1877), SECTION 50. 14 P R 1885

22. Unregistered and registered sale—Priority. See REGISTRATION ACT, (III OF 1877), SECTION 50. 90 P R 1885

23. Suit for cancellation of. See COURT FEES. 2 P R 1886

24. Suit for cancellation of. See RIGHT TO SUE. 2 P R 1886

25. By proprietor in presence of adult sons. See CUSTOM, ALIENATION. 17 P R 1886

26. Suit for cancellation of—Subsequent suit for possession of mortgaged property. See SPLITTING CAUSE OF ACTION. 47 P R 1886

27. Suit for possession—Previous suit for interest due under mortgage—Mortgage providing for possession to be given in default of payment of interest See SPLITTING CAUSE OF ATION. 79 P R 1886

28. Contract with minor - Mortgage— Suit possession—Mortgagee aware of mortgaor's minority. See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 11. 96 P R 1888

29. By heads of Religious Institution. See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION. 136 P R 1889

30. Suit by mortgagee for possession against mortgagor and certain third persons alleged to be trespassers. See JURISDICTION. 1 P R 1891

MORTGAGE—contd.

XXV.—MISCELLANEOUS—contd.

31 By Heads of Religious Institution. See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION. 112 P R 1891

32. Suit by mortgagee for possession—Valuation. See JURISDICTION. 56 P R 1892

33. By Heads of Religious Institution. See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION. 66 P R 1892

34. By Heads of Religious Institution. See RELIGIOUS INSTITUTION. 166 P R 1892

35. Suit by mortgagee to recover sum due by mortgagor who had leased the mortgaged land. See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 41 P R 1893

36. Suit for declaration as to the amount of rent payable by one mortgagee to another mortgagee, both mortgogees cultivating and taking the produce according to their mortgage shares. See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 112 P R 1893

37. Suit by mortgagee for possession against mortgagor and certain third persons alleged to be trespassers. See JURISDICTION. 1 P R 1896

38. Decree directing registration of mortgage deed—Further appeal—Land suit. See APPEAL, CIVIL. 43 P R 1896

39. Mortgage—Mortgagor's title based on ex-parte decree—Ex-parte decree subsequently set aside—Rights of mortgagee. See LIS PENDENS. 56 P R 1896

40. Suit by representative of deceased mortgagee who has obtained certificate under Act VII of 1889*—Necessity of impleading mortgagee's other heirs.* See JOINDER OF PARTIES. 99 P R 1898

41. Suit for pre-emption based on mortgage. See PRE-EMPTION. 11 P R 1901

42. Acknowledgment of a mortgagor's title by a minor. See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 19. 59 P R 1901

43. Suit for sale of property comprised in a mortgage—Necessary parties—Non-joinder of—Effect of decree where all necessary parties were not before Court—Transfer of Property Act, 1882, section 85. See PARTIES. 64 P R 1908

44. Hindu Law—Mitakshara—Alienation of ancestral property—Suit by son against his father and a mortgagee for declaration that the mortgage entered into by his father should not affect his right—Present payment—Legal necessity—Liability of son for father's debts. See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY.

45. Mortgage of ancestral property—Liability of son's interest. See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION.

46. Mortgage of land acquired by a female, subject to Punjab Custom, is not ancestral land. See CUSTOM—(ALIENATION) 29 P R 1911

MORTGAGE—concld.

XXV.—MISCELLANEOUS—concld.

47. By minor, after attaining majority, for consideration received during minority—Validity of. See MINOR. 31 P R 1911

48 . Mortgage Rights.

Held, that where a sale of mortgage rights in execution of a decree contravenes provisions of section 16 of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act. the mere fact that the right of receiving the mortgage money from the mortgagor personally was also included in the terms of the mortgage deed will not validate the sale which must stand or fall as a whole. See PUNJAB ALIENATION OF LAND ACT. 12 P R 1911

N.

NATIVE CHRISTIANS.

—Rule of succession. See CONVERTS. 36 P R 1909

NATIVE CONVERTS.

—Dissolution of marriage—Native Converts Act, 1866, section 3, Jurisdiction. See DIVORCE. 44 P R 1871

NAQSHA MUDAKHILAT.

—Statements of landlord and tenant in—Agreement. See TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 2. TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 6.

NAZIR.

See SHERIFF.

NAZUL LAND.

1. Plaintiff purchased a plot of nazul land for the purpose of building shops, and on a portion he so built; five years afterwards the Government resumed the unimproved portion because he had not improved the premises, and had left a trench likely to become a nuisance; held, that in the absence of any definite condition, this was not sufficient to entitle the Government to resume. PIAR SINGH v. THE GOVERNMENT. 6 P R 1868

2. Incomplete contract.

Plaintiff bought certain nazul premises at public auction and paid the price, Rs. 2,220. By the conditions of sale, the sanction of Government was necessary to complete the transaction; and before that sanction was obtained or applied for plaintiff was convicted of criminal breach of trust. The Magistrate convicting him was the Deputy Commissioner who held the purchase money (Rs. 2,220), and to cover certain losses sustained through the plaintiffs offence of breach of trust, the Deputy Commissioner appropriated the sum of Rs. 2,220, declined to give possession of the premises, and resold the property, which was bought by the defendants. Plaintiff having undergone his term of imprisonment sued the defendants for possession. Held, that the sale to the plaintiff not having been sanctioned by the Government, he had no title to the premises. SALIG RAM v. GOKAL SINGH. 47 P R 1874

NECESSARIES.

—Suited to minor's condition in life. See MINOR. 165 P R 1883

NECESSITY.

See Custom—Alienation.
See Hindu Law—Alienation.

1. For alienation by male Proprietor.
See Custom. 3 P R 1884
52 P R 1884
101 P R 1884
106 P R 1884
108 P R 1884
137 P R 1884
53 P R 1885
107 P R 1885
17 P R 1886

2. For alienation by childless proprietor.
See Custom—Alienation by Male Proprietor—Necessity.
65 P R 1910

3. For alienation of minor's property by guardian.
See Custom—Alienation by de facto Guardian.
Guardian.

4. For alienation by widow.
See Custom—Alienation by Widow—Necessity.
2 P R 1911

5. Custom—Alienation—Suit by reversioner to enforce his right in respect to land on the ground that the alienation had been made without necessity, which alienation had already been challenged by his ancester on the ground of pre-emption only—Locus standi—Waiver—Necessity.
See Custom—Alienation.
15 P R 1903

6. Custom—Alienation—Alienation by Jat proprietor without male issue at the date of the alienation—Right of after-born son to contest such alienation on the ground of necessity.
See Custom—Alienation.
55 P R 1903 F. B.

7. Custom—Alienation—Alienation by daughter for necessity.
See Custom—Alienation.
90 P R 1903

8. Gift to khanadamad—Right of donee to alienate property so acquired without necessity.
See Custom—Alienation.
20 P R 1904

9. Religious purposes as—
See Custom—Alienation.
40 P R 1907

10. Expenses of speculative suits.
See Custom—Alienation.
65 P R 1907

11. Sale by limited owner—Failure to prove necessity with respect to a fraction of the consideration—Competency to convert sale into mortgage.
See Custom—Alienation.
8 P R 1908

12. Sale of ancestral immovable property by a limited owner to pay debts.
See Custom—Alienation.
55 P R 1908

13. *Sale of minor's property by next friend—Validity of sale—Necessity—Sale not beneficial to minor's interest—Refund of purchase money paid to minor with knowledge of minority—Liability of minor in equity—Specific Relief Act, 1877, sections 38, 41—Contract Act, sections 11, 65.

NECESSITY—concld.

See Minor. 33 P R 1904
52 P R 1904

14. Mortgage only in part for necessity—Suit for possession by mortgagee against reversioner.
See Mortgage. 49 P R 1911

15. For Alienations by heads of religious institution.
See Religious Institution.

16. Easement of necessity.
See Easement. 76 P R 1900

NEGLIGENCE.

See Bailments.
Compensation.
Principal and Agent.

1. Death caused by actionable wrong—Contributory negligence.
See Cause of Action.
85 P R 1894

2. On part of common carrier.
See Railway Act, 1890.

3. On part of guardian.
See Res Judicata. 35 P R 1898

4. Employer and contractor—Responsibility of employer for negligenee of contractor—Municipal Committee.

The Municipal Committee of Lahore having resolved to repair a certain public road within the limits of the Municipality, employed a contractor to perform the work. Though in order to avoid danger to persons driving along the road at night, it was necessary that the road should be lighted the contractor negligently ommitted to light the road at night while under repair, and in consequence of his ommission the plaintiff, while driving along the road, sustained damage.

Held, that the Municipal Committee was liable for the negligence of the contractor, and was bound to make good to the plantiff the damage he had substained. Keough v President, Municipal Committee, Lahore.
108 P R 1883

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS ACT 1881.

See Bill of Exchange.

Section 4.

And section 13—Transfer of instrument not negotiable by endorsement—Competency of holder to maintain action against maker.
See Promissory Note.
144 P R 1906

Section 5.

—Promissory Note—Bill of Exchange—Original consideration—Stamp—Construction of instrument.

A document construed by the lower Courts as a promissory note, but which appeared to be rather in the nature of an unconditional order directing a certain person (viz., the plaintiff) to pay a certain sum of money to a certain person, held to fall within the definition of a " bill of exchange, " in section 5, Act XXVI of 1881, notwithstanding the concluding clause of the instrument which contained a promise (conditional on his meeting the bill) to repay the plaintiff on a specified date. The latter clause was held not to control the operative part of the instrument as an " unconditional order for the payment of money to a certain person," but merely to contain an assurance for the satisfaction and information of the drawee. Sheo Das v. Kanhaya Lal. 61 P R 1888

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENT ACT, 1881—contd.

Seetion 5.—concld.

Sections 5, 7, 33 and 88.

—Bill of exchange—Drawee—Negotiable Instruments Act (XXVI of 1881), sections 5, 7, 33, and 88 Estoppel by conduct—Contract Act (IX of 1872), section 231—Rights of undisclosed principal.

Where A. drew four drafts on B., and B. without the knowledge or authority of A., substituted C. as the drawee in his place, and C. after that accepted the four drafts.—Held, that notwithstanding the provisions of section 88 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, A. the drawer, is not entitled to hold C., the so, called acceptor, liable on the bills—C. not being the drawee cannot bind himself under section 33 of the Act by his acceptance.

Held, also, that the fact that C. retired one of the four drafts and obtained possession of the four cases of merchandise covered by that draft, did not stop him from denying his liablity on the other drafts, he having almost immediately repudiated his act and at once declined to retire the other drafts, and no third person having been adversely affected by his conduct.

Held, also that under section 231 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, A., as an undisclosed principal, could take advantage of any contract made by B., his agent, with C. subject to any rights which C. might have as against B., and that allegations of fraud and misrepresentation by B. to C. should be enquired into.

Held, further that assuming that there was a valid contract, A. could sue for the whole amount which C. agreed to pay and was not bound to sell the undelivered merchandise and sue only for the balance, if any, due to him upon the contract. Jagan Nath v. The Heap & Co. 71 P R 1909

Section 8.

1. And section 54—Promissory Note endorsement in blank and delivery to an agent for the benefit of the principal—Right of such principal to sue the maker.
See Promissory Note.
9 P R 1906

2. Forged indorsement—Liability of indorsee—Holder in due course—Act XXVI of 1881, sections 8, 9, 15, 16.

One M. D. purchased a bill of exchange payable to the order of G. from one N. who had stolen it, and who representing himself as G., indorsed the bill in G.'s name to M. D., who acted in good faith, believing N.'s representations to be true, and giving value for the bill. M D. then negotiated the bill and a person deriving title from him received paymen of the sum payable to G.

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS ACT, 1881—contd.

Section 8—concld.

Held, that there being no indorsement by G., who was the "holder" as defined in section 8 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, and it being impossible to regard N.'s forgery of G.'s name as an indorsment, N. having no power to indorse, M. D. was not the "indorsee" of the bill and could not be held to be its "holder" in due course, and was therefore liable to G. for the value of the bill, GOBINDA v. MAYA DAS. 28 P R 1884

Section 64.

Promissory Note—Suit on, not presented for payment—Cause of action—Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, section 64.

Held, that under the provisions of the exception to section 64 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, where a Promissory Note is payable on demand, and not on demand at sight, no presentment is necessary in order to charge the maker or his legal representative.

Malori Mal v. Buta Mal (148 P. R. 1883) distinguished. HARI SINGH v. NARAIN SINGH. 60 P R 1903

Section 80.

*—Interest—*Hundis silent as to interest.

Held, that interest was payable on a Hundi which was silent as to interest at the rate of Rs. 6 per cent. per annum under section 80 of the Negotiable Instruments Act. KISHOR CHAND v. GURRAN DITTA MAL. 52 P R 1911

Section 83.

Held, that section 83 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, applies only to bills of exchange in which acceptance by the drawer is obligatory, i.e., a bill of exchange after sight as defined in section 21 of the Act, and does not apply to the ordinary hundi of the country payable after a certain number of days, which comes under the class of bills requiring presentation for payment only and not for acceptance. KHAN CHAND v. GOLAB RAM. 39 P R 1911

Section 118.

—Presumption—Proof of consideration—Undue influence—Contract Act, 1872, section 16.

Where a money-lender admittedly lent money to a dissolute young man while he was still a minor, and again within a few days of his attaining his majority supplied him with large quantities of jewellery in presence only of his (plaintiff) touts, relations and dependents, and then obviously gave a false colour to the transaction in his claim, held, that such circumstances are facts from which undue influence is to be presumed, and are sufficient to shift the ordinary presumption laid down in section 118 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, that until the contrary is proved the presumption should be made that every negotiable instrument was made for consideration, and that the onus therefore of proving the actual amount of the advances must be laid on the plaintiff. MIRAN BAKHSH v. MUHAMMAD HUSSAIN. 2 P R 1902

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS ACT, 1881—concld.

Section 118—concld.

NEPHEW.

1. Succession of.
See CUSTOM—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION.

2. Gift to.
See CUSTOM—ALIENATION.
12 P R 1904
92 P R 1904
33 P R 1905
96 P R 1907

NEW TRIAL.

See PLAINT.
REVIEW OF JUDGMENT.
REVISION.
SMALL CAUSE COURT.

NXET FRIEND.

1. Power of, to refer to arbitration on behalf of minor plaintiffs.
See ARBITRATION. 92 P P 1885

2. Removal of, for misconduct—Omission by court to appoint another guardian.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE 1908, O. XXXII, R.R. 1—4 (2) 125 P R 1882

NIAWADARI RIGHTS.

—Mortgage of—Redemption—Physical possession.
See MORTGAGE. 40 P R 1901

NIECE.

Succession of.
See CUSTOM—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION.

N ON-AGRICULTURISTS.

—Inheritance—Presumption in favour of the existence of a custom under section 5 (a) of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872.
See CUSTOM—INHERITANCE.
41 P R 1901
92 P R 1901
117 P R 1901

NON-APPEARANCE.

—Effect of.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE 1908, O. IX. R. 9. 46 P R 1905

NON-JOINDER.

See PARTIES.

NON-PROPRIETARY RESIDENT.

—Sale of houses by.
See CUSTOM-ALIENATION.

NON-PROPRIETOR.

1. Right of, to alienate.
See CUSTOM- ALIENATION BY NON-PROPRIETORS.
See COMMON LAND.
8 P R 1881
48 P R 1881
9 P R 1882
85 P R 1882
193 P R 1882
151 P R 1883
6 P R 1884
42 P R 1884
73 P R 1884
87 P R 1884
119 P R 1884
7 P R 1885
40 P R 1886

NON-PROPRIETOR—concld.

2. Inheritance of.
See COMMON LAND. 37 P R 1887
76 P R 1888
71 P R 1889
See CUSTOM—INHERITANCE.
NON-PROPRIETORS.

3. Ejectment of.
See COMMON LAND. 50 P R 1888
88 P R 1889
37 P R 1890
EJECTMENT. 62 P R 1899
See LANDLORD AND TENANT.
34 P R 1882

4. Erection of Kotha on Gora-deh by non-proprietary resident with the permission of a proprietor in possession—Absence of special damage.
See COMMON LAND. 33 P R 1901

NON-SUIT.

1. Where plaintiff fails to make out a primâ facie case, he should not be non-suited—the suit should be dismissed. MULAWA v LUCHMEEDHUR. 28 P R 1866

NORTHERN INDIA CANAL AND DRAINAGE ACT, 1873.

A Civil Court has no jurisdiction to restrain a party to whom permission has been granted under this Act to construct a water-course through the land of another from such construction. MOHKAM DIN v. MANSABDAR. 74 P R 1907

Section 20.

1. And section 68—Finality of order under section 20—Necessity for strict compliance with provisions of the section.

Held, that an order passed by a Divisional Canal Officer under section 20 of Act VIII of 1873, which fully complies with all the requirements of that section is, when confirmed by the Superintending Canal Officer, binding in the sense that it is not liable to be called in question in a Civil Court.

An exact compliance with all the essential provisions of the section is, however, absolutely necessary to give such finality to the order passed under the section, Act VIII of 1873 being an enabling Act, which is introductive of a new law, directing a thing to be done in a certain way, and the rule of construction applicable, therefore, is that the provisions describing the mode in which the thing is to be done are absolute and mandatory and not merely directory. KADIR BAKHSH v. BHAGAT RAM. 71 P R 1888

2. Construction of Act—Defective notice.

Held, that a proceeding purporting to be under section 20 of Act VIII of 1873 is materially defective if the notice contemplated by that section does not allow of the lapse of a clear 14 days between the receipt of the notice by the person entitled thereto and the enquiry, and not merely between the issue of the notice and the hearing.

No. 71 P. R., 1888, referred to. BHAMBU RAM v. CHHATTA MAL. 144 P R 1894

NORTHERN INDIA CANAL AND DRAINAGE ACT, 1873—contd.

Section 21.

--And sections 23 and 24—Claim by one village to bring a canal cut across defendants' villages.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 114 P R 1888

Section 25.

—And section 27—Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Suit to set aside order made by Collector on a reference by a Canal Officer.

One S. N., defendant No. 2, having applied to the Canal Officer for the construction of a new water-course, a reference was made to the Collector, who, after proceeding in accordance with law, recorded an order putting defendant in possession of certain land belonging to plaintiff. The latter thereupon instituted a suit in the Civil Court to set aside the said order and for recovery of the said land, or for such other relief as the Court might grant.

Held, following No. 71 P. R, 1888, that the order of the Collector, under section 25 of the Northern India Canals and Drainage Act, 1873, was final, and that the Civil Courts had no jurisdiction to interfere therewith. LAKH RAM v. SECRETARY OF STATE.

64 P R 1897

Section 37.

—Sections 37, 40, 41 and 42*—Owner's rate.*

The question for decision was whether a proprietor who had paid owner's rate, as defined in section 37 of the Northern India Canal and Drainage Act, for canal irrigated lands held by his tenant having occupancy rights in the land for which the rent was paid, could recover the sum so paid from the tenant, on the ground that the tenant was liable to pay the owner's rate under section 40 of the Act, notwithstanding the fact that the land was irrigated from the canal when the rent payable by the tenant was fixed.

Held that, while section 40 of the Act provides that in certain cases the tenants shall pay the "owner's rate," the object of section 42 clearly is to provide—1st, that in other cases the tenant shall not be liable to pay, and 2nd, that the tenant shall also not be liable to pay "if, when the amount of rent was fixed, "the land was irrigated from the canal," and therefore the owner in the present case could not recover the rate from his tenant. AHMAD SHAFFI v. DANI.

83 P R 1885

Section 68.

—Finality of order as to the use or distribution of water for any crop sown or growing at the time when such order is made —Setting aside order by civil suit—Limitation.

The provisions of section 68, Northern India Canal and Drainage Act, 1873, can only mean that the order made thereunder is binding unless and until set aside by a decree of Court in a suit brought for the express purpose of challenging the validity of the order; and such suit must be instituted within one year of the date of the order under article 14, Schedule II, Indian Limitation Act, 1877.

NORTHERN INDIA CANAL AND DRAINAGE ACT—concld.

Section 68—concld.

Failing such suit the adjudication of the Canal Officer or Collector (as the case may be) will settle finally the matter in dispute between the parties which was dealt with under the section and will not be open to question directly or indirectly in a Civil Court.

[Cf., No. 71 P. R., 1888]. NAWAB GHULAM MAHBUB SUBHANI v. PAREM NARAIN.

25 P R 1893

NORTHERN INDIA FERRIES ACT (XVII OF 1878).

See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 2, 3, 5.

65 P R 1886
123 P R 1886

—SECTION 12.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT.

82 P R 1886

NOTICE.

1. Of assignment of chose in action.
   See ASSIGNMENT OF CHOSE IN ACTION.
2. To parties before deciding case on evidence recorded by another Judge.
   See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE 1908, SECTION 191, O. XVIII, R. 15.
3. Previous to suing—Secretary of State in Council or Public Officer.
   See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE. 1908, SECTION 80.
4. Suit against ward of Court, Public Officer—Notice.
   See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 80. 24 P R 1889
5. Objection to sufficiency of notice after issue had been framed on the merits by consent of parties—Admissibility of such objection.
   See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 80. 155 P R1 890
6. Construction of the words "delivered to or left at"—Notice of suit.
   See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 80. 71 P R 1891
7. Variance between notice of action and suit brought in pursuance thereof.
   See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 80 67 P R 1894
8. Of objection by respondent.
   See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XLI, R. 22.
9. Right of respondent to support decree upon ground decided against him in lower Court—Written notice of objection, when necessary.
   See CIVIL PROCEDUTE CODE, 1908, O. XLI, R. 22. 127 P R 1888
10. Of assignment of debt.
    See EQUITABLE ASSIGNMENT.

NOTICE—concld.

11. Of appeal under Land Acquisition Act.
    See LAND ACQUISITION ACT, 1870, SECTION 35.
12. To quit.
    See LANDLORD AND TENANT. 94 P R 1910
13. Application to foreclose—Minor—Notice how to be served.
    See MINOR. 94 P R 1892
14. Of foreclosure.
    See MORTGAGE—FORECLOSURE.
15. Of foreclosure.
    See MORTGAGE.
16. Survice of.
    See MORTGAGE.
17. Defective notice—Canal and Drainage Act, 1873, section 20.
    See NORTHERN INDIA CANAL AND DRAINAGE ACT, 1873, SECTION 20. 144 P R 1894
18. Notice of appeal to respondent—Procedure of Revenue Court.
    See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1887, SECTION 88. 10 P R 1895 Rev.
19. To pre-emptors.
    See PRE-EMPTION.
20. Of prior unregistered deed.
    See REGISTRATION ACT 1877, SECTION 50.

NOTICE OF EJECTMENT.

See COURT-FEES. 111 P R 1883

See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

See TENANCY ACT (XXVIII OF 1168), SECTION 20. 19 P R 1886

See TENANCY ACT (XXVIII OF 1868), SECTION 25. 91 P R 1881
96 P R 1881
18 P R 1883
39 P R 1883
1 1 P R 1883

See TENANCY ACT (XXVIII OF 1868), SECTION 37. 136 P R 1883
12 P R 1885

—Suit to contest—Omission by plaintiff to contest his liability to ejectment on ground of non-payment of compensation—Subsequent suit for compensation.

See RES JUDICATA. 96 P R 1881

—Suit for proprietary rights—Subsequent suit for occupancy rights.

See SPLITTIHG CAUSE OF ACTION.

5 P R 1884 Rev.

NOVATION.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 62.

NUISANCE.

1. Injunction—Slaughter-house—Apprehended danger to health and interference with physical comfort and convenience—Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), sections 54, 56 (g)—Diminution in value of property—Ground for relief—Municipal Committee—Statutory powers—Justification of nuisance—Infringement of private rights—Act XIII of 1884, sections 68, 92—Approval of Deputy Commissioner.

In a suit for an injunction to prevent, on the ground of nuisance, the user of certain premises of the defendants as a slaughter-house, it was alleged that if so used the consequences would be to endanger the health and materially interfere with the physical comfort and convenience of the occupants of plaintiffs' houses.

Held, that assuming such user would have these consequences such user would be a nuisance, but that the injunction sought could not be granted, unless it were reasonably clear that the user of the said premises as a slaughter-house would have these consequences; but that if this was reasonably clear, an injunction might be granted at the discretion of the Court.

Held, on the issue of fact as to whether it was reasonably clear upon the evidence that the user of the defendants' premises as a slaughter-house would endanger the health, or materially interfere with the physical comfort and convenience of the inmates of the plaintiffs' houses, that the finding must be adverse to the plaintiffs, with the result that the plaintiffs had failed to establish a title to the relief claimed upon the above grounds.

There is no authority for holding that the exercise of a lawful business, if it be not on other grounds a nuisance, amounts to a nuisance merely because it diminishes the value of property in the neighbourhood; diminution of the value of one man's property caused without injury to the property itself, or to its enjoyment, by the legitimate use of his own property by a neighbour, amounting only to "damnum absque injuria."

Held further, that a Municipal Committee in the Punjab is not entitled to justify by statutory authority every nuisance committed in the fair and reasonable exercise of the powers conferred under the Municipal Act. There is a material distinction between the case of statutory powers given by the legislature, when the legislature directs that a thing shall at all events be done, and the case of similar powers when the exercise of the powers at all and the time and place of exercise are discretionary. When a company or public body can construct its works without injury to private rights, it is in general bound to do so. Further, as a rule of construction of statutes, those who seek to establish that the legislature intended to take away the rights of private individuals, lie under the burden of showing that such intention appears by express words or necessary implication.

Although, therefore, a Municipal Committee is empowered to erect a slaughter-house, subject to the approval required by section 92 of the Punjab Municipal Act, by the authority in section 68 of the same Act to apply the Municipal Fund for the construction, establishment, and maintenance of works of public utility, there is nothing in the Act which requires a Committee to exercise this power, but it has an absolute discretion whether it shall exercise the power and as to the time of its exercise: as to place also it has a discretion, not absolute but limited, the approval of the Deputy Commissioner being necessary. There is however, nothing in the Act to indicate that a Committee is authorized to set up an institution of the above kind to the infringement of the private rights of other persons.

With regard to the approval of the Deputy Commissioner required by section 92 of the Punjab Municipal Act, held, that the word "place" employed in that section is wide enough to include a site with its buildings, as well as a site unoccupied by buildings, and must be construed to mean one or the other according to the circumstances of the particular case. If a person wanted to have an unoccupied site fixed as a place for slaughter he would need the consent of the Committee and the approval of the Deputy Commissioner to the use of that site: as to the buildings to be erected on the site, the applicant might be subject to the orders of the Committee, under section 88. On the other hand, if the place which the applicant desired to use were a site and the buildings already upon it, the approval both of the Committee and of the Deputy Commissioner to the "place" constituted by site and buildings would be necessary. RATTIGAN v. MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE OF LAHORE.

106 P R 1888

2. Nuisance—Public latrine—Injunction—Act XIII of 1884, section 68 (2) (a)—Statutory authority of Municipal Committee—Powers ahd duties of Committee.

In answer to a suit brought against the Municipal Committee of Delhi for an injunction to prevent, on the ground of nuisance, the use of a public latrine recently erected by the Committee, it was pleaded that the defendants were acting under statutory authority and that the alleged nuisance (if any) being a necessary consequence of the use of the powers and duties imposed on the Committee by the Legislature, could not be restrained by injunction.

Held, that the power claimed by the Committee under section 68, sub-section (2) (a) of the Punjab Municipal Act, 1884, did not exist: that, that enactment contained no express authorization to the defendant to construct pnblic latrines. The section merely rendered it lawful for the Committee to apply their funds towards payment, inter alia, of the charges and expenses incidental to the constructien, maintenance, improvement, cleansing and repair of latrines; it implied a discretionary power to construct public necessaries, but it conferred no compulsory power to acquire land for the purpose of erecting such buildings thereon in any specific locality or at any place which might be deemed suitable by the Committee.

No. 106 P. R. 1888 (Lahore slaughter-house case) referred to and followed. MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, DELHI, v. HARPARSHAD.

103 P R 1892

3. Nuisance—Suit for removal of obstruction in public street—"Special damage."

Plaintiffs, twenty-five in number, whose houses were at the head of a blind lane in the town of Jandiala, sued to remove an obstruction, a thara or platform, built by defendants at a short distance down the lane from plaintiffs' premises. The lower Courts found that the lane in question was a "public street" within the meaning of section 3 of the Punjab Municipal Act, 1891, and was the property of the Municipal Committee of Jandiala; that the thara was built by defendants, not more than six years before the institution of the suit, without the permission of the Municipal Commtttee; that plaintiffs suffered "special damage" by reason of the obstruction, inasmuch as they could not carry out their dead without an unreasonable amount of inconvenience. Defendants appealed to the Chief Court, and it was Held, that the appeal must be allowed. In order to sustain an action for the removal of an obstruction in a public street, it is necessary for the plaintiffs to show not merely that the damage he suffers is greater in degree or frequency than that suffered by the rest of the public, but that it is different in kind.

No. 10 P. R. 1878, followed. CHAJJU MAL v. GANDA MAL.

4 P R 1895

4. Nuisance—Municipal Committee's power to carry water into a publice drain—Municipal Act, 1890, section 123—Injunction—Conditional injunction—Specific Reliet Act, 1877, section, 56 (g).

The Municipal Committee of Pindigheb had diverted the flow of the waste water of a dharmsala by conveying it through a new masonry drain which emptied itself into a katcha drain in the public street, on which two suits were filed against the Municipal Committee, one by the owners of the houses whose houses abut in the public street for a perpetual injunction restraining the Municipal Committee from discharging the water of the dharmsala through the drain in the street, and the other by the person in charge of the dharmsala for a similar injunction to restrain the defendants from interfering with the discharge of water through certain properties and diverting its flow to the drain in the street above-mentiond. The Court of first instance whilst holding that the Municipal Committee was within its rights in constructing the new drain, found that if the old drain remained katcha the increased quantity of water discharged into it might during the rainy season cause some damage to the plaintiffs' houses, granted the injunction until the Municpal Committee converted the katcha drain into a pacca masonry one, but dismissed the second suit on the ground that the plaintiff has no status to maintain it, which orders were confirmed by the Divisional Judge. The plaintiffs in both cases appealed to the Chief Court on the grounds amongst others that the Committee had no power to alter the direction of the flow of water from private drains, or the direction of the drains, and that no conditional injunction should have been granted.

NUISANCE—concld.

Held, that the plaintiffs in the first case had no right whatever in preventing the Committee from allowing the water to flow into their drain, and could only object if their rights are interfered with by the diversion, and only to that extent.

The Specific Relief Act contains no prohibition against a conditional injunction being granted, but that the form adopted was not correct, as it amounted to a temporary injunction of indefinite duration and not a perpetual one, the proper order would be to grant a perpetual injunction conditional upon defendant not removing the cause of prospective damage to the satisfaction of the Court within a fixed period.

Held, also, that public bodies like Municipal Committees should act in accordance with the procedure provided by the Statute governing their acts, but where with the tacit consent and acquiescence of the persons interested in a property they have acquired a footing with respect to the discharge of its waste water and do an act which has caused no damage but improved its conditions, interference by a Court of Justice would not be equitable.

Akilandammal and another v. Venkutachela Mudalai (VI Mad. H. C. R. 112), Attorney-General v. The Corporation of Halifax (39 L. J. Ch. 129), and Attorney-General v. Birmingham Drainage Board (L. R. 17 Ch. Dn. 685) followed. HARI SINGH AND OTHERS v. THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE OF PINDIGHEB.
78 P R 1901

NUNCUPATIVE WILL.

See GUARDIAN. 54 P R 1898
WILL. 15 P R 1890
55 P R 1891
54 P R 1898

O.

OATHS.

1. Formerly (before Act VI 1872) the decision of a case was not allowed to turn upon the wager of oath. HURBUNS SINGH v. JHUNDOO LALL. 51 P R 1868

2. Act VI of 1872.

By section 4, a party or witness might give evidence on oath in any form common amongst persons of the race or persuasion to which he belonged, and not repugnant to justice or decency, and not purporting to affect any third person ; and a party to the suit might offer to be bound by such oath ; the evidence so given being conclusive proof of the matter stated. Held, that the defendant's oath on his son's head was not allowed by that section. RULDU MUL v. BHUPA. 36 P R 1873

OATHS ACT, 1873.

Section 8.

1. Agent's authority to bind client by oath of opposite party—Power of principal to withdraw after other party has agreed to take the oath.

See PRINCIPAL AND AGENT.
85 P R 1903

OATHS ACT, 1873—contd.

Section 8—contd.

2. Parties to a suit agreeing to be bound by the oath of a witness—Refusal of witness to take the oath—Effect of such refusal—Adjustment of suit—Decision on merits—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 375.

In the course of a suit plaintiff offered to be bound by the oath of a certain witness, and defendant agreed to be bound in like manner, adding that, if the oath were not taken by the witness, the plaintiff's claim might be considered correct. The witness at first agreed to take the required oath, but subsequently refused to do so, whereupon the first Court decreed the plaintiff's claim holding the defendant bound by his agreement to acknowledge the claim, if the witness refused to take the oath.

Held, that this decision could not be supported either under the special provisions of the Oaths Act, or apart from that Act.

A mere agreement to be bound by the oath of a party or witness when given is not in itself an adjustment of the dispute ; nor can the agreement be deemed to be so, even if it goes on to provide, as in the present case, that in the event of the witness referred to refusing to take the agreed oath, a decree shall pass in favour of the other party ; for in either case the result of the agreement depends upon the performance or non-performance of a certain act subsequent to the agreement. Therefore whether or no section 375 of the Civil Procedure Code permits anything short of an act perfected by acknowledgment in Court, and the Court's sanction and adoption of it, to deprive a party of his right to demand judgment on the merits, even when the act is otherwise complete (a point upon which the authorities are not agreed), the adjustment under that section must at least be capable of being embodied in the decree, and the agreement in the present case was not so capable.

Nor could the decision of the lower Court be supported under the special provisions of Act X of 1873. All that that Act does is to make the evidence given on the agreed oath conclusive proof of the matter stated, and the decree which would follow upon such an oath would not be in accordance with any adjustment agreed to by the parties, but a decree upon evidence which the party against whom it was given, could not be heard to deny. Where, however, the party has eventually declined to take the oath, all that the Act provides for such a contingency is, that the fact of the agreement to take the oath, and any reason which may be assigned for the subsequent refusal, shall be recorded by the Court as part of the proceedings ; from which it may be inferred that the legislature intended that the Court having to deal with the suit might take the refusal into consideration, and in a case like the present, draw a presumption adverse to the party who offered to be bound by the refusal. But such a presumption is open to rebuttal, and its strength or weakness would largely depend on whether the Court was satisfied that the reason alleged by the party or witness for his refusal to take the oath was bona fide, and the result not of a conviction that he could not honestly give the evidence required of him, but rather of an honest and conscientious scruple to take an oath in the form suggested. It would in any case have to be weighed with the other facts and circumstances and could not exclude available evidence. BAWA SUCHET SINGH v. RATNA 31 P R 1888

OATHS ACT, 1873—contd.

Section 8—concld.

3. Oaths Act, 1873—Offer to be bound by oath of other party—Minor—Power of next friend to bind.

The next friend of a minor plaintiff is competent to bind the minor by an offer, under the provisions of the Indian Oaths Act, 1873, that the oath or solemn affirmation by the other party to, or by any witness in, such proceeding shall, as against the minor, be conclusive proof of the matter stated.

The leave of the Court, under section 462, Civil Procedure Code, is not required. No. 186 P. R. 1889, and I. L. R., XII Mad., 483, referred to. MALAK SORAB v. ANOKH RAI.
18 P R 1891 F. B.

4. Form of oath need not be specified to be binding.

It is not necessary that the form of oath should be specified before it can be held to be binding on the person who agrees to be bound by it under sections 8 and 9 of the Oaths Act (X of 1873) ; all that is necessary being that the oath administered is in a form common amongst or held binding by the class to which the person taking the oath belongs. AHMAD ALI SHAH v. HANUMAN. 23 P R 1887

5. Indian Oaths Act, X of 1873, section 8 —Form of oath—Affecting third person—Consent to abide by statement on oath—Competency of Court to administer such oath.

Where the oath administered to the defendant was in these terms " If I lie in saying that I did not strike the balance and had " paid the debt, may my wife be considered to have been divorced from me."

Held, following 36 P. R. 1873 (Ruldu Mal v Bhupa) and dissenting from Ram Narain Singh v. Babu Singh, (1896) I. L. R 18 All. 46 that the oath was repugnant to decency, purported to affect a third person and was in contravention of section 8 of the Indian Oaths Act, 1873, and that the fact that the defendant accepted and took the oath did not validate it or create a bar to any objection by the plaintiff, inasmuch as the Court was not competent to tender the oath to the defendant and was consequently barred from accepting the evidence so sworn. NABI BAKHSH v. RAM JAWAYA. 66 P R 1910

OATHS ACT, 1873—contd.

Sections 8, 9, 10 and 11.

1. Sections 8, 9, 10 and 11 re-enacted section 4 of Act VI of 1872.

Held, that where a mukhtarnama empowered a mukhtar (inter alia) "to file any proofs, written or "verbal," this empowered the mukhtar to bind his client by an oath under sections 9, 11, Act X of 1873. MUSSAMMAT GHARIB v. KARIM BAKHSH.

72 P R 1874

Sections 8, 9, 10.

2. Local Commissioner—Powers of, to administer oath—"Court."

Held, that it is not competent to a person who has been appointed a local commissioner for the purpose of recording evidence in a case to administer an oath to one of the parties in the circumstances referred to in sections 8, 9 and 10 of the Indian Oaths Act, 1873, he not being a "Court" within the meaning of those sections. PURAN CHAND v. CHUHAR, etc. 89 P R 1909

Section 9.

3. Pleader's authority to bind client under Oaths Act—Civil Procedure Code, section 36.

A pleader has no power to consent to the settlement of the case by an oath being taken by the opposite party under section 9 of the Indian Oaths Act, nor does section 36 of the Civil Procedure Code give him such authority.

Sadashiv Rayaji v. Maruti Sithal and others (I. L. R. XIV Bom.; p. 455) approved and followed, Malak Sarab v. Anokh Rai and others (18 P. R. 1891 (F. B.), Sheo Nath Saran v. Sukh Lal Singh and others (I. L. R. XXVII Calc. p. 229; and Mussammat Gharib and others v. Karim Bakhsh (72 P. R. 1894), distinguished. MUSSAMMAT PERAG DEVI AND OTHERS v. RAM CHAND. 75 P R 1900

4 Sections 9—12—Party agreeing to be bound by oath of other party—Power to withdraw after other party has agreed to take the oath.

Held, that a party to a suit who agrees to be bound by the oath of the other party, is not entitled to withdraw after the other party has expressed his willingness to take the oath required. MUSSAMMAT AZIMA BEGUM v. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH. 63 P R 1881

Section 11.

—Evidence given by person on oath, effect of, as regards person offering to be bound thereby—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 562.

Under section 11 of the Oaths Act, 1873, the evidence given by a person on oath is, as regards the party who offered to be bound thereby, conclusive proof merely of the matter stated and of nothing further.

Where, therefore in a suit by plaintiff for Rs. 550 profits lost by plaintiff through the default of N. C. and another, defendants, to deliver gram during one month at contract rate, and for Rs. 80 earnest-money paid to N. C., it appeared that one D. D., defendant who made the contract as a broker and was alleged to have been a surety for its due performance, challenged N. C. to the oath, saying that if N. C. would swear that he (N. C.) had not received the earnest-money, he himself would be responsible for the plaintiff's claim, and the said N. C. thereupon swore that he had not received the said earnest money, held, that such statement, on oath, merely concluded the question whether N. C. had or had not received such earnest-money

OATHS ACT, 1873—concld.

Section 11—concld.

Held, therefore, that the first Court had erred in regarding the oath so taken as per se sufficient ground for decreeing the suit as against D. D. and dismissing it as against the other defendants.

Held, further, that inasmuch as the first Court had decreed the suit merely on the oath taken, and had not decided any of the five issues which it had framed, the lower Appellate Court had rightly remanded the case under section 562 of the Civil Procedure Code. SAWAN MAL v. DEVI DIAL.

45 R R 1898

Section 12.

—Party agreeing to be bound by oath of other party—Power to withdraw after other party has agreed to take the oath—Effect of such withdrawal—Decision on merits.

Although a party to a suit who agrees to be bound by the oath of the other party is not entitled to withdraw after the other party has expressed his willingness to take the oath, required, all that the Oaths Act of 1873 prescribes for the contingency of the party agreeing eventually withdrawing and preventing the other party from taking the proposed oath, is that the fact of the agreement to be bound by the oath and any reason which may be assigned for the subsequent withdrawal should be recorded by the Court as part of the proceedings, and the suit should be decided on the merits, allowing due weight to the presumption arising from that refusal after considering the reasons assigned.

Mussammat Azima Begam v. Muhammad Bakhsh (63 P. R. 1881), Bawa Suchet Singh v. Ratna (31 P. R. 1888), Ram Narain Singh v. Babu Singh (I. L. R. XVIII All. 46) and Sawan Mal v. Devi Dial (45 P. R. 1898) referred to. AMIR CHAND v. GOBIND SAHAI.

5 P R 1903

OBJECTION BY RESPONDENT.

—Respondent raising plea of res judicata decided against him in lower Court—Notice.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908
O. XLI, R 22, SECTION 561.
59 P R 1886

OBJECTION NOT RAISED IN COURT BELOW.

1. As to admissibility in evidence of documents not filed with plaint.
See APPEAL, CIVIL. 74 P R 1882

2. As to legality of next friend suing on behalf of minor without certificate.
See APPEAL, CIVIL. 62 P R 1883

OBJECTION NOT RAISED IN COURT BELOW—concld.

3. Jurisdiction.
See JURISDICTION. 132 P R 1883
See REVIEW OF JUDGMENT.
94 P R 1882

4. Jurisdiction—Objection raised after remand for fresh decision on specific issues.
See APPEAL, CIVIL. 54 P R 1883

5. Court of its own motion raising objection that agreement sued upon is void.
See APPELLATE COURT, POWER OF.
63 P R 1884

6. Of minority.
See ARBITRATION. 92 P R 1885

7. That Court passed judgment in terms of award in absence of parties.
See ARBITRATION 50 P R 1881

8. That local Commissioners omitted to file record of evidence with their report.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908,
O. XXVI, R. 10.
161 P R 1882

9. To omission by Court, on removal of next friend for misconduct, to appoint another guardian.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908,
O. XXXII, RULES 1 AND 4.
125 P R 1882

10. As to non-joinder of parties.
See JOINDER OF PARTIES.
151 P R 1883

11. That defendant has split his cause of action.
See SPLITTING CAUSE OF ACTION.
90 P R 1881

OBJECTION NOT RAISED IN MEMORANDUM OF APPEAL.
See PRE-EMPTION. 117 P R 1882

OBSTRUCTION TO EXECUTION OF DECREE.

—Execution of decree—Decree for possession of immovable property—Obstruction by person other than the judgment-debtor—Procedure—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 331.

Held, that where in execution of a decree for possession of immovable property a person other than the judgment-debtor causes obstruction to the delivery of possession of the property, claiming in good faith to be in possession thereof on his own account, the Court executing the decree cannot decline to investigate such claim even if subsequent to the objection the objector happens to be temporarily out of actual possession. The Court is bound to investigate the claim under section 331 of the Code of Civil Procedure. SUNDAR DAS v. RAJA BALDEO SINGH. 118 P R 1907

OBSTRUCTION TO PUBLIC ROAD.

—Suit to remove—Special damage.
See RIGHT TO SUE 134 P R 1882

OCCUPANCY HOLDING.
See OCCUPANCY RIGHT.

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1887.

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

1. Occupancy rights in alluvial lands—Jhelum River.
See ALLUVION AND DILUVION. 89 P R 1877

2. Rights of occupancy tenant in submerged lands on re appearance—Custom.
See ALLUVION AND DILUVION. 127 P R 1879 152 P R 1883

3. Suit for—Previous suit for proprietary rights—Cause of action.
See SPLITTING CAUSE OF ACTION. 5 P R 1884 Rev.

4. Grazing rights of occupancy tenant on the common land.
See COMMON LAND. 119 P R 1889

5. Occupancy rights in common land.
See COMMON LAND. 8 P R 1867 25 P R 1868 84 P R 1869 152 P R 1882 65 P R 1885 1 P R 1899 Rev.

6. Alienation of occupancy rights.
See CUSTOM—ALIENATION OF OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.

7. Transfer of rights by occupancy tenant—Acquiescence on part of landlord, effect of—Facts constituting acquiescence.
See CUSTOM—ALIENATION OF OCCUPANCY RIGHTS. 1 P R 1898 Rev.

8. Exchange of rights of occupancy without consent of landlord—Transfer—Right of landlord who has acquiesced in such transfer to subsequently sue to avoid it—Acquiescence what constitutes.
See CUSTOM—ALIENATION OF OCCUPANCY RIGHTS. 2 P R 1898 Rev.

9. Suit by proprietor for enhancement of rent—Inquiry as to status of tenant.
See ENHANCEMENT. 5 P R 1895 Rev.

10. Sale of, without landlord's consent—Landlord by his conduct affirming the transfer—Subsequent suit by landlord for pre-emption.
See ESTOPPEL. 161 P R 1883

11. Right of occupancy tenant to sink wells without his landlord's consent.
See IRRIGATION. 66 P R 1887

12. Occupancy rights—Jagirdar under grant from Sikh Government.
See JAGIR. 2 P R 1892 Rev.

13. Suit by occupancy tenant for commutation of rent.
See JAGIR. 3 P R 1895 Rev.

14. Continuous occupation of twenty years—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 5 (i) (d).
See JAGIR. 8 P R 1896 Rev.

15. Occupancy rights—Grant of muafi to ala lambardar in virtue of his office.
See JAGIR. 1 P R 1897 Rev.

16. Occupancy rights—Grant of muafi originally made by Moghal Emperors.
See JAGIR. 2 P R 1897 Rev

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

17. Suits relating to occupancy rights—Jurisdiction of Courts.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 102 P R 1887 12 P R 1888 Rev. 9 P R 1888 F. B. 3 P R 1889 104 P R 1890 45 P R 1891 F. B. 70 P R 1892 70 P R 1893 71 P R 1893 96 P R 1894 11 P R 1895 F. B. 23 P R 1895 44 P R 1895 F. B.

18. Suit to establish.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 11 P R 1888 Rev. 9 P R 1888 F. B. 70 P R 1893

19. Suit to disprove.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 12 P R 1888 Rev.

20. Suit for recovery of possession by occupancy tenant illegally dispossessed.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 3 P R 1889 44 P R 1891 F. B. 45 P R 1891 F. B.

21. Suit by owner of trees against occupancy tenant of land on which they stand for value of fruit trees.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 119 P R 1890

22. Grant of land to ala lambardar—Acquisition of occupancy rights in such land.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 123 P R 1893

23. Suit for declaratory decree that land has reverted to landlord free of incumbrance—Suit by landlord to set aside transfer of right of occupancy.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 88 P R 1894

24. Transfer of occupancy right by tenant—Suit by transferee to enforce his rights—Objection raised by landlord by way of defence that transfer was voidable at his instance.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 11 P R 1895 F. B.

25. Suit by occupancy tenant against co-sharer in the tenancy for share of produce.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 44 P R 1895 F B.

26 Suit by a tenant for a declaration that he is occupancy tenant by exchange with the original tenant—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 139 P R 1906

27. Suit by proprietors to compel occupancy tenants to reside in their village—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), 2ND SCHEDULE ARTICLE 143. 80 P R 1883

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

28. Sale of—Transferable right—Pre-emption.
See PRE-EMPTION. 106 P R 1882 196 P R 1882 120 P R 1883

29. Transferable rights of occupancy—Punjab Laws Act 1872, section 10—Right created by statute or contract—Perpetual lease, whether tantamount to sale.
See PRE-EMPTION. 43 P R 1892

30. Sale of occupancy and mukarraridari rights to landlord—Suit by co-sharer in holding—Preferential right.
See PRE-EMPTION. 16 P R 1905

31. Succession of occupancy tenant—Common ancestor occupying land—Character of such occupation immaterial.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1868, SECTION 36. 47 P R 1889

32. Abandonment of.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1887, SECTION 38. 2 P R 1901 Rev.

33. Transfer of right of occupancy under section 5 (1) (c)—Measure of fixing value by the Revenue Officer.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1887, SECTION 53, AND SECTIONS 60 AND 77 (3) (b). 12 P R 1901 Rev. 3 P R 1910 Rev.

34. Suit by proprietor against occupancy tenant for possession on ground of invalid mortgage—Subsequent suit by tenant to be restored to possession.
See RES JUDICATA. 54 P R 1884

35. Alienation of occupancy rights by a widow—Suit for declaration by reversioners.
See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 42. 205 P R 1889

36. Succession.
Held, before the Tenancy Act came into operation, that the rule was that next of kin of an hereditary cultivator were not allowed to succeed, unless they were descendants in the direct male line of the person who originally obtained the cultivation. VEROO v. SAHIB SINGH 43 P R 1866

37. But where the brothers and widow of the cultivator, on the death of the latter were permitted by the proprietor to be recorded for nine years, ROBERTS, J., dismissed the proprietor's suit for ejectment and refused to disturb the tenure. MEHTAB SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT TABEE 75 P R 1866

38. Tenants claiming to be proprietors.
Plaintiff, who was recorded hereditary tenant claimed to have the record altered and to be recorded as proprietor. The Lower Court rejected his claim on the ground that when others in 1855 and 1863 claimed proprietary rights, plaintiff did not come forward. Two of the proprietors, new comers, resisted plaintiff's claim, and five (sons of the founders of the village) admitted it. It was proved that plaintiff had been long in possession, and had broken up bunjur. Held, that plaintiff was proprietor. RAJA SINGH v. VEER SINGH. 95 P R 1866

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

39. Succession.

A. was joint hereditary cultivator with his deceased brother. Held, that the brother's death did not deprive A. of the hereditary right which he held in the whole of the land. WUZEERA v. KESSUR SINGH.

2 P R 1867

40. Succession.

Though the succession to hereditary cultivation did not, in general, descend to collaterals, or to descendants not in the direct male line of the person who originally obtained the cultivation, it might be claimed where there was relationship and also family dependency, or the succession was provided for by the wajib-ul-arz. TANNEE v. NUBBEE BUKSH (No. 19 P. R. 1867); and See ALSO MAYDA v. HURJUS.

96 P R 1867

41. Continuous occupation.

A hereditary cultivator who abandoned his land for one agricultural year forfeited his status, but he might maintain a constructive occupancy by leaving a friend or relative in charge, remaining responsible for the tillage and rent. PREMA v. SAHIB SINGH.

46 P R 1867

42. A hereditary tenant who, ceasing to cultivate his holding himself, keeps his name on the Patwari's books and leaves his son in possession is not held to have abandoned his rights. SAHIBOO v. NOURANG.

58 P R 1867

43. Cash and kind.

A hereditary cultivator, who brings fallow land in his holding under cultivation, is liable to pay rent for such land to the proprietor, though no rent was fixed at Settlement; but the proprietor cannot demand such rent in kind when the tenant pays the rest of his rent in cash, nor at a higher rate than is paid for other cultivated land in the same holding. KHYRUN SHAH v. MULIK SAHIB RAE

90 P R 1867

44. Length of occupancy.

Although long possession confers of itself no right of hereditary occupation there may be circumstances combined with such long possession which may afford good and sufficient ground for the right; and due regard being had to the imperfect character of proprietary right in the Punjab prior to annexation, there may be cases in which a cultivator who has previously claimed proprietary rights on different and insufficient grounds without any idea of fraud, but only with a wrong conception of his position, may be entitled to establish hereditary right. Pursotum Dass v. Rymull (No. 81 P. R. 1867); and NUNDA v. FUTTAH.

91 P R 1867

45. Alienation.

The rights of hereditary cultivation held not to be transferable; and if the party entitled to succeed relinquished his claim in favour of another, the proprietor had a right to object to the admission of the latter. MAYDA v. HURJUS

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

96 P R 1867

46. Enhancement.

There being nothing in the wajib-ul-urz to the contrary, held that the rent of an hereditary cultivator could not be enhanced beyond the rate fixed at Settlement, during the currency of that Settlement. LALL v. HAKIM.

102 P R 1867

47. Rights of occupancy acquired under wajib-ul-urz.

Plaintiffs, who were tenants of defendants, re-constructed a well with the consent of defendants, who at the same time executed an agreement to the effect that when the sum expended on the well was repaid, they (defendants) would have a right to the land. The money not having been repaid for several years, plaintiffs sued to be recorded as proprietors. Held, that the utmost that plaintiffs were entitled to was to hold the land free of payment of malikana until such time as the money expended on the well was repaid. DEVEEDHUR v FAZLA

3 P R 1867 Rev.

48. Cash and kind.

Where cash rents have been fixed at Settlement, a proprietor cannot compel his tenant to pay rent in kind, though the latter may have paid in kind before Settlement. GHOLAM RASOOL v. EEDA.

6 P R 1867 Rev.

49. Rent.

Held, that the hereditary cultivators were entitled to have their rents fixed at fair rates, that is, at rates payable by the same class of ryots for land of a similar description and with similar advantages in the places adjacent. BULDBO v. CHYNSOOKH

9 P R 1867 Rev.

50. Cash and kind.

Where grain rates are fixed at Settlement but the proprietor has for a long series of years since realized in cash, he cannot at pleasure revert to grain payments. MULLIK SHER MAHOMED KHAN v. ILUM KHAN.

15 P R 1867 Rev.

51. Enhancement of rent.

A revision of the Settlement record having taken place by which the rent of certain objecting tenants was enhanced—held, that if the landowners brought a regular suit to try the question of rent, the tenants would be at liberty to dispute the enhanced rates. Query.—Whether in the event of the landowner giving due notice of enhanced rent, which the tenant did not dispute by a regular suit, the former would be entitled to a decree without further enquiry. SOUDAGUR v. SAPOORUN.

18 P R 1867 Rev.

52. Succession.

Held, that the tenure of a hereditary cultivator descended to direct male heirs—or in their absence to collaterals in the male line—provided the latter could trace their descent to a common ancestor who held the land, and resided in the same village as that in which the land was situated. GOPAL SINGH v. JOWAHIR SINGH

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

1 P R 1868

53. Succession.

In a suit by a proprietor for a parcel of land in possession for defendant formerly in the cultivating possession of a deceased hereditary tenant, it was found that defendant was nephew and adopted son of the deceased cultivator, who moreover transferred the holding by deed of gift followed by possession. Held, that the transfer was valid, as defendant was a member of the family of deceased, and dependent upon the land. NUTHOO KHAN v. SULTAN.

18 P R 1868

54. Length of occupancy.

In a suit brought for ejectment of tenants recorded at Settlement 21 years before as tenants-at-will, and resisted on the ground that defendants having been so long in possession, and never having taken out leases, nor paid more than the Government revenue on the land, had acquired occupancy rights, held, that if defendants were rightly recorded at Settlement as tenants-at-will, no period of subsequent occupancy could improve their status, nor did it signify that they took out no leases from, and paid no rent to, the proprietors. HURRIA v. BIKHAREE.

23 P R 1868

55. Status, how ascertained.

A decree was given by the Lower Court protecting one of the parties in his cultivation for life, and his heir for 13 years after the death of the former. Held, an erroneous decree, as a tenure so limited was unknown to the law. Such a tenure could only rest on custom or contract. RAHMUT KHAN v. JEEWA

26 P R 1868

56. Status to be ascertained by law and custom.

The rights of an hereditary tenant held to be regulated by the law and custom for the time being applicable to the tenure; and not open to alteration by the Courts on supposed equitable grounds. CHUJJOO v. MUTWALLEE.

33 P R 1868

57. Length of occupancy.

Plaintiff sued for declaration of right of hereditary cultivation in a parcel of land. It was found that plaintiff had cultivated half the land in question for 40 or 50 years, and that he had succeeded a deceased relative five degrees removed in the cultivation of the other half 20 years ago. Held, that whatever defect there might have been in plaintiff's original title to succeed to so distant a relation it had been cured by the length of time which had elapsed since he obtained that title. NUTHA v. PREM SINGH

40 P R 1868

58. Although no mere length of occupancy confers, per se, a higher status on a cultivator correctly recorded at Settlement as a tenant-

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

at-will; yet length of occupancy should be considered as a matter of evidence, affording a presumption of what the status of a cultivator has been from the commencement, and of what it was in fact at time of Settlement. HET RAM v. TOORTEE. 42 P R 1868

59 Tenants claiming to be proprietors.
Plaintiffs claimed to be proprietors of certain land. The Court of first instance gave a decree declaring them to be hereditary cultivators only. This order was reversed on appeal on the ground that plaintiffs had sued for proprietary right which they had failed to establish, and that they might bring a separate suit to establish their rights of occupancy. But held by the Chief Court, that the question of the status of plaintiffs was before the Court, and failing to prove that they were proprietors they might lawfully fall back on their rights as hereditary cultivators. SHADEE v. ARJUN. 55 P R 1868

60 Succession.
The rights of a hereditary tenant who cultivated his holding in common with others descended from the same common ancestor who occupied the holding, held to pass on his death, without lineal male heirs, to those who held the land jointly with him. BULUNDA v. SOONDUR. 57 P R 1868

61. Enhancement of rent.
If the rent of a hereditary cultivator fixed at Settlement were found as a fact to be erroneous, the Courts had power to correct the error; but if there were no error, the Courts could not, on equitable grounds, decree an enhancement of the rent during the currency of the Settlement. RAM RUTTUN v. MOOKH RAM. 60 P R 1868

62. Tenants claiming to be proprietors—Status how ascertained.
(a) Plaintiffs, who were recorded at Settlement as hereditary cultivators, sued to be declared proprietors of a portion of land; defendants set up a title as proprietors. Plaintiffs were, during a protracted litigation, successively declared (1) protected cultivators for 10 years, for the latter half of which they were to hold only half the land; (2) proprietors of three-fourths of the land in dispute; (3) cultivators without payment of rent, protected for five years; (4) mortgagors of the land, of which defendants had equity of redemption, plaintiff's occupancy being conterminous with the mortgage. Held, by the Chief Court, that as plaintiffs started with the record in favor of their being hereditary cultivators (which record defendants had not contravened) it was not open to the Courts to assign to them a lower status and particularly a right of cultivating occupancy for a term of years not recognised by law or custom.

(b) A right of cultivating occupancy for a term of years held not to be recognized by law or custom. RAMZANEE v. UZEEZ. 102 P R 1868

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

63. Enhancement of rent.
No tenant is liable to pay higher rent to his landlord for his holding than the rent payable by him in the previous year unless he has consented in writing to pay an increased rent, or a decree for the enhancement of his rent has been obtained against him. GOPAL v. PURMESHUREE DASS. 110 P R 1868

64. Length of occupancy—plea of.
In a suit by proprietors to eject certain of their tenants (recorded at last Settlement as tenants-at-will), the latter pleaded long occupancy: the Chief Court, finding that there was nothing to show that defendants had knowledge of the entry in the Settlement record, that they had held the land for many generations without paying any rent, and that they were of the same caste and extraction as plaintiffs—declared them to be entitled by law to a right of hereditary occupancy of their land, and dismissed the suit. LAB SINGH v. WUZEERA. 114 P R 1868

65. Enhancement of rent—Length of occupancy.
In a case before the passing of the Tenancy Act, held, that the right to enhance rent was not necessarily disposed of by a decision upon the right to evict; the claims were in their nature distinct, and not triable together in the same suit.

Held also, that although by lapse of years a tenant-at-will cannot grow into an hereditary cultivator, the fact of such lapse is most weighty in his favor upon the question whether or not his ancestor was an hereditary cultivator. BULDEO v. HAFIZ ALI. 15 P R 1869

66. Notice of change of rent in middle of agricultural year.

Plaintiffs and defendants agreed that the latter should pay a fixed rent in cash for nine years, there being an agreement recorded at Settlement that batai should be paid. For the harvest next after the end of the nine years, plaintiffs took the money rates, but for the succeeding harvest sued for batai.

Held that, under the circumstances, and without notice of a change of system, though that change might be authorized by law, before the commencement of the agricultural year, the plaintiffs could not claim for the latter half of the agricultural year rents calculated on a different system to that of the previous year. RAM SINGH v. SADOOLA. 28 P R 1869

67. Length of occupancy.
Plaintiffs came to the village with the proprietary body; they reclaimed the land from the waste, and occupied it uninterruptedly for several generations: for a long time they paid at only revenue rates, and afterwards, when the proprietors raised the

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

cultivator's rates, plaintiffs' lands were assessed at a considerably less rate than the land of the non-hereditary cultivators; one of the lambardars accepted a mortgage of 2 bigahs 10 biswas of plaintiffs' land Plaintiffs were lohars by caste, and ranked as Kamins, but were Kamins of another village. Held that plaintiffs were hereditary cultivators. SOOKHEERAM v. URJUN. 58 P R 1869

68. Plaintiffs sued to oust defendants, on the ground that the latter were tenants-at-will. Defendants were erroneously, as they said, recorded at the Settlement in 1842 as non-hereditary cultivators, but had been in cultivating possession for twenty-five years before that date, and paid at revenue rates. The defendants also alleged that they had reclaimed the land from the waste, but on this point the evidence was not satisfactory either way. The Chief Court, dismissing the plaintiffs' suit, held that, when there is an allegation that an entry in the Settlement record is wrong, in trying that question nothing can be argued from the existence of the entry; that the issue as to possession should not be determined by the entry in the Settlement record, but the fact of possession should be first enquired into, from which the correctness or otherwise of the record may be arrived at; that where there has been lengthened possession after the Settlement, and payment at revenue rates, a presumption may arise and give effect to a possession anterior to the Settlement; and that the defendants' status at the Settlement of 1842 was to be determined on a consideration of the length and character of their possession both before and after the Settlement. SAWUNT v. AMAR SINGH. 70 P R 1869

69. Status, how ascertained.

Where the tenure was shown to be that of an hereditary cultivator, held, that the tenant's rights must be ascertained by the law and custom applicable to that tenure: the Courts had no power to create a status unknown to the law. KHUZANA v. RUTNA. 3 P R 1870 Rev.

70. Continuous possession—Tenancy Act, section 6.

Actual continuous possession is not required under section 6 of the Tenancy Act in order to raise a presumption of a right of occupancy:—if the tenant temporarily absents himself, but arranges for cultivation or harvests during his absence, he may still be deemed to be in occupation of the land. KANH SINGH v. WUZEERA. 20 P R 1871

71. Admission—Evidence.
Where the lower Courts decided upon the entry in the Settlement record and an admission made by the father of the plaintiff, that the plaintiff was a non-hereditary cultivator, the Chief Court remanded the case for decision under section 351, Civil Procedure Code, holding that the entry and the admission were not conclusive evidence of plaintiff's status. AZIM v. MANE KHAN.

25 P R 1871

72. Continuous possession—Tenancy Act, section 6.
Defendant (hereditary cultivator) relinquished his land for one year. On his return, the proprietor sued to eject him. The lower Court dismissed the suit on the ground that under Act XIV of 1859 defendant had the right of re-entry for the term of twelve years from the date of relinquishment. The Chief Court decreed plaintiff's claim, holding that continuous occupation was, under the Tenancy Act, one of the essential ingredients of a right of occupancy. ALI MAHOMED v. GAMOO. 38 P R 1871

73. Continuous possession.
A tenant with rights of occupancy is presumed to lose them if he gives the right of cultivation to the proprietor. JHANDA v. KHUDAYAR. 1 P R 1871 Rev.

74. Continuous possession.
Held, that cultivating rights are not preserved when unexercised for a series of years by reason of the minority of the son of the deceased proprietor. RUTTUN SINGH v. EASHER SINGH. 5 P R 1872

75. Continuous occupation—Presumption from, long.
The first Settlement of 1847 showed the uncle of the plaintiffs recorded as hereditary cultivator, and that he had then been in possession fifteen years. From that time till plaintiffs were dispossessed by defendants (Sambat 1927), those whom plaintiffs represented had been in possession and paid only the Government demand. There was nothing to show how the occupancy of plaintiff's uncle commenced. Held, that the plaintiffs were entitled to rights of occupancy under the Tenancy Act. LAKH RAM v. SUDDA RAM. 13 P R 1872

76. Continuous possession.
Held, by the Financial Commissioner, that to constitute occupancy rights continuous possession was necessary. HAKIM SINGH v. KARIM BUKSH. 4 P R 1872 Rev.

77. Revival of right.
The right of occupancy cannot be revived after being given up for a certain consideration in a case before a Civil Court. SAID MUHAMMAD v. SAHIBZADA.
5 P R 1872 Rev.

78. Continuous occupation.
One year's absence does not bar the claim of a hereditary cultivator to a share in the holding, which does not intermediately lapse to the proprietor. The one year rule refers only to the relation between proprietor and tenant, and not to the case of a tenant suing his co-tenant for the share of the former. In such case, dispossession or absence for 12 years is required to bar the tenant's claim. ZULFI v. MILKI. 9 P R 1872 Rev

79. Continuous possession—Tenancy Act, section 6.
Plaintiff was recorded a tenant with right of occupancy at the first Settlement of the Lahore district, but at the revised Settlement being recorded tenant-at-will, he relinquished possession of his land in 1867. In 1869, under the operation of the Punjab Tenancy Act, the records of the second Settlement came under revision, and plaintiff was restored to his original status of hereditary cultivator; he accordingly, in 1872, brought the present suit for possession. Held, that the plaintiff had not voluntarily abandoned his occupancy rights in 1867, and that the suit might be brought within 12 years from the date of his relinquishing possession. ILAHI BUKSH v. AKBUR. 46 P R 1873

80. Mortgage of proprietary rights as distinct from cultivating rights.
Held, by BOULNOIS and THORNTON, JJ. (MELVILL, J., dissenting) that when a proprietor effects a usufructuary mortgage of his khudkasht lands, he is not to be presumed, in the absence of an express stipulation to the contrary, to have reserved to himself the right of cultivating the land. NARAIN SINGH v. DYA RAM. 44 P R 1874

81. Rights of occupancy acquired under wajib-ul-urz—Alteration of wajib-ul-urz at subsequent settlement—Effect of, on cultivator's rights.
B. S. in Sambat 1904 obtained from plaintiff the right of hereditary cultivation in certain land. Upon the death of B. S. in Sambat 1916, his widow occupied; upon her death, in 1872, defendants (nephews of B. S.) took possession. Plaintiffs sued to eject defendants, who relied upon the wajib-ul-urz of a previous Settlement. Plaintiffs admitted that the terms of that wajib-ul-urz would admit the defendants to succeed to B. S., but contended that at the last Settlement a fresh wajib-ul-urz had been prepared which differed from the former one, and gave nephews no such right as that claimed. Held, that the second wajib-ul-urz did not take away rights acquired under the first. HARRI SINGH v. RANJIT SINGH. 56 P R 1874

82. Contract—Right of occupancy created by contract—Implied condition that occupant should reside in village—Non-performance of condition.
Defendant, in 1862, by instrument in writing conferred upon plaintiff and his brother rights of occupancy. The instrument commenced thus: "We, tenants, live in "mouzah Man Singwala, and have been "located there by Sodhi Man Singh, who "brought us from other ilaquas. Now, by "consent," &c. and provided, inter alia, that "if in the house of a tenant inhabiting the "village there be solemnized a marriage "of a daughter, a fee is to be paid to the proprietor," and that "on the occasion of "a marriage of a son or daughter in the "house of a proprietor, the inhabitants are "to give marriage presents." Held, that the contract impliedly bound both the plaintiff and his brother to reside in the village, and did not permit them, or either of them, to reside elsewhere, even though the cultivation were provided for: and that upon failure of either of them to reside in the village, they lost their rights of occupancy. SODHI MAN SINGH v. RURA. 78 P R 1874

83. Presumption from long occupation.
When occupation is traced a long way back, the presumption is that the then occupant got the land from his father, unless it is shown by the opposite side that he got it in some other way. It is the most natural way of getting the occupation of land; and the presumption is not that the last holder of whom living witnesses can speak was the first of his line. BALLHU v. CHARAT SINGH.
18 P R 1876

84. Continuous occupation.
An hereditary tenant is not entitled to remain out of occupation for twelve years and then claim his occupancy rights. If once occupation ceases or the proprietor is let into possession, the breach operates against the tenant, whether the tenant's discontinuance of occupation be for less than a year or more; but if the tenant does not occupy, but the cultivation is provided for without interruption, his rights are not affected. SHIAN SINGH v. KHUSHIA. 22 P R 1876

85. Relinquishment.
At the first Settlement S. D. was recorded hereditary cultivator of 23 ghumaos; he held the land continuously until the second Settlement, when he was recorded as a tenant protected for 3 years. At the end of 3 years the proprietors took possession. In 1870, when the entries were revised, it was recorded that S. D. was dead and that only 3 ghumaos of the land remained in the cultivation of his sons (of whom plaintiff was one). The sons of S. D. then accepted and from that time occupied the ghumaos, and the proprietors remained in possession of 20 ghumaos. In 1875, plaintiff sued to establish his right of occupancy in the remaining 20 ghumaos. Held, that plaintiff had relinquished his claim to the land sued for by taking possession of 3 ghumaos only, and not making an earlier claim to the remainder. PREMA v. DASUNDHI.
58 P R 1876

86. Continuous occupation.
Any voluntary abandonment of cultivation by a tenant with rights of occupancy, which entails on the proprietor the necessity of making new arrangements and leads to the introduction of other cultivators, destroys the right of occupation. ABDULLAH v. CHIRAGH.
78 P R 1876

87. Ouster.
The Law does not compel a tenant with right of occupancy who has been involuntarily dispossessed or ejected, to sue for possession within one year of the ouster: he has ordinarily 12 years within which to bring his suit. KHATIL v. SHER ZAMAN.

80 P R 1876

88. Relinquishment.

The plaintiffs, who were in possession as tenants with occupancy rights, left the land in the year 1866; in 1865 they were recorded tenants-at-will; in 1874 they sued for occupancy rights. The lower Appellate Court, considering that plaintiffs had left their land thinking it would be useless to contend against the proprietors, who had also in 1866 mortgaged the land to an outsider, held that plaintiffs had not voluntarily abandoned their rights, and gave them a decree. Held, by BOULNOIS and LINDSAY, JJ. (CAMPBELL, J. dissenting) that plaintiffs had not voluntarily relinquished their land, and were entitled to the rights sued for. CHOGATHA v. JIWAN SINGH.

103 P R 1876

89. Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868), section 5—Admission made by tenant at a Settlement prior to Act—Effect of, as against descendant of such tenant.

An admission made and recorded at a Settlement prior in date to the Tenancy Act, that a person was a tenant-at will is not necessarily a bar to a suit brought by a descendant of the person making the admission in order to establish a right of occupancy under section 5 of the Act. NIHALU v. MEHTAB KHAN. 2 P R 1879

90. Relinquishment—Minors.

Two brothers, P. and A., cultivated a holding of 16 bighas 5 biswas of land as hereditary cultivators jointly. A died leaving a widow, who was recorded joint hereditary cultivator with P. In 1276 Fasli P. died, leaving two sons, I. and F., who were at the time minors, and who by reason of their inability to carry on the cultivation voluntarily relinquished to the proprietors all but 4 bighas 9 biswas of land. In a suit by I. and F. to recover a portion of the land so relinquished, held, that they were not entitled to recover, as on relinquishmeut of the land their occupancy rights ceased to exist.

The rule laid down in Said Muhammed v. Sahib Zada (No. 5 P. R. 1872,) that a right of occupancy is not preserved when unexercised for a series of years by reason of the minority of the hereditary cultivator, followed. IDU v. NIHAL SINGH. 12 P R 1879

91. Abandonment—Recovery of land from which tenant has been illegally ejected, suit for—Limitation—Delay in bringing suit.

Held, that there is no rule of law that a tenant with rights of occupancy, who has been illegally dispossessed by his landlord, is bound to sue forthwith for recovery of possession, and that if he does not do so and his landlord makes arrangements for the cultivation, the tenant's right of occupancy is extinguished.

Held, further, following Khatil v. Sher Zaman (No. 80 P. R. 1876), that a tenant with rights of occupancy, who has been forcibly ejected, may sue within twelve years for recovery of possession of the land of which he has been dispossessed.

A tenant with rights of occupancy may by his own free will extinguish his right; and abandonment of the land even for one year would be evidence from which an intention to give up his right might be inferred. But mere delay in suing to recover land from which a tenant has been unlawfully ejected does not necessarily lead to the inference that he has relinquished his right of occupancy. JAMAL-UD-DIN v. SADULLA. 54 P R 1879

92. Joint holding—Survivorship.

Where the mourusi holding in dispute was found to have been acquired jointly by S. and K. two out of the four sons of one D. who remained associated in the cultivation for their lifetime and were succeeded by their sons, U., the sou of S., and the present defendants, the sons of K., who contiuued to cultivate jointly; Held, in a suit brought on the death of U., by the sons of the two disassociated brothers to establish their right to participate in U.'s share of the holding that the plaintiffs' suit must be dismissed as the interest of U. passed on his death by survivorship to the sons of K. (the defendant), and that plaintiffs had no claim to succeed to such interest.

Held, further, that in reality the hereditary tenant of the disputed holding was not dead, so as to open out a succession; as of the body of persons constituting the tenant only one was dead, and the tenant survived in his remaining three (the defendants). PREM SINGH v. BHAGWANA. 4 P R 1880

93. Right of proprietors to share in produce of garden planted in mourusi holding—Custom.

Found, that there is no established custom in Mauza Buterla in the Umballa district, by which an hereditary tenant, paying rent in cash, who plants a garden in his holding, becomes liable, in the absence of an agreement to that effect, to share the produce with the proprietors. MASSANIA v. NABI BUKHSH.

14 P R 1880

94. Compromise at Settlement—Agreement—Extinction of right.

Plaintiff sued to eject the defendants as tenants-at-will of certain land situated in Mauza Rure-Asal, Tahsil Taran Taran, in Amritsar district. At the first Settlement defendants had been recorded occupancy tenant, but at the revised Settlement in 1865, it was recorded that the tenants had agreed to give up their land on receiving compensation for the same. The evidence failed to show that the defendants ever actually gave up their land, or accepted the alleged compensation.

Held, that no agreement or compromise was proved sufficient to extinguish defendants' right. KIRPA SINGH v. KAHN SINGH.

67 P R 1880

95. Circular No. 17 of 1856 N. W. P. Sadr Board of Revenue—Twelve years' rule—Construction of Circular—Act X of 1859.

In a suit for ejectment of the defendants, as non-hereditary tenants, the lower Courts, finding that, when the land in suit (which was situated in the Delhi District) was transferred from the N. W. P. to the Punjab in 1857, the defendants had been holding for over 12 years, considered that they had therefore acquired occupancy rights under Circular No. 17 of 1856 of the Sadr Board of Revenue (N. W. P.), and therefore could not be ejected.

Held that, on the proper construction of the above circular, an uninterrupted occupancy of 12 years carried with it no permanent right of occupancy. The circular, which was an exposition of the order of the Government of the N. W. P. in Notification No. 1678 A. of September 17th, 1856, which immediately preceded it, merely protected a cultivator who had had possession for 12 years continuously from summary ejectment by the order of a Revenue Court, but left the question of his title to a permanent right of occupancy to be determined by the ordinary Civil Courts in accordance with local custom, until the enactment of Act X of 1859. That Act, though it gave fixity of tenure for some classes of cases to cultivators who had had 12 years' possession, was never in force in the Delhi district, being enacted after the transfer of that district to the Punjab. Balli Ram v. Pal Ram (C. A. No. 290 of 1877) cited. JAIMAL v. KHUBI. 39 P R 1881

96. Landlord and tenant—Right of proprietor to cut trees on land of tenant—Custom.

A proprietor held not to be entitled, in the absence of reliable evidence as to his right either by custom or otherwise, to enter upon the land in the occupancy of a hereditary tenant, and cut and sell the trees growing thereon without the said tenant's consent. Nikka v. Lakha (No. 95 P. R. 1867), Kalian Das v. Buta (No. 61 P. R. 1873), and Jani v. Ghulam Farid Khan (No. 4 P. R. 1875), cited and followed. MUSSAMMAT GUR DEVI v. SONDHA. 61 P R 1881

97. Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868), sections 5, 6—Suit to establish occupancy rights under section 5—Confession of judgment by some of the defendants—Plaintiff's right to a decree against the confessing defendants.

Where some of the defendants admitted the truth of the facts upon which the plaintiff relied, as establishing his title to be declared an occupancy tenant under section 5, clause 3 of the Tenancy Act, in place of being recorded under section 6, whereupon it was contended that plaintiff, who had failed to establish that his prodecessors in title settled in the village with the founders, was entitled to the declaration he sought at least as against the defendant proprietors who had confessed judgment, held, that this contention could not be admitted, as the right of the plantiff in his holding was one and indivisible and he could not be an occupancy tenant under section 5 quoad some of the proprietors, and a tenant under section 6 quoad the others. BHAGWAN SINGH v. ALLADAD KHAN.

84 P R 1881

98. Right of hereditary tenants to take grass from preserve enclosed by proprietors—Wajib-ul-arz—Right of tenants to graze their cattle and take grass in the ban banjar—Right to share with proprietors in produce of the preserve when sufficient grazing land remained in the unenclosed portions of the ban banjar.

In a suit by a portion of the proprietary body of the village, disputing the right of the hereditary cultivators to cut grass from a plot of land formed into a grass preserve by the proprietors out of the ban banjar of the village, and for damages for loss of profits they would otherwise have made from it, it appeared from the Administration paper that the whole ban banjar was owned as shamilat deh by the proprietors, but that the cattle owners of the village were entitled to graze their cattle thereon without distinction of proprietors and non-proprietors, the proprietary tenants also being entitled to take grass, straw, and wood in the ban banjar but not to share in the fees paid by outsiders who casually grazed on these lands. It was found as a fact that there was sufficient grazing for both proprietors and non-proprietary tenants in the portion of the ban banjar which was not enclosed and preserved.

Held, that the plaintiffs were entitled to succeed in their suit, the defendants having failed to show that when certain land, part of what was potentially common grazing ground, had in fact been excluded from the actual common grazing ground, leaving a residue sufficient for grazing all the village cattle, and when the produce of the reserved tract had been sold for profit, they, as hereditary tenants, were by custom entitled to share in the profit, which primâ facie would belong to the proprietors by reason of their proprietary right. NAGINA v. BAGGU. 100 P R 1881

99 Presumption from long occupation—Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868), section 5, clause 1, and section 6.

In a suit for enhancement of rent, the defendant, who was recorded as holding occupancy rights under section 6 of the Tenancy Act, pleaded that he was really entitled to occupancy rights under section 5, clause 1. As he could not say when his grandfather died, it being apparently long before his memory, though he was 50 years of age, the lower Appellate Court held that, though he and his father appeared to have held rights of occupancy, paying only the land revenue and cesses, the nature of his grandfather's tenure could not be ascertained, and as the plaintiffs denied that defendant's grandfather had possession of the land, the claim to occupancy rights under section 5, clause 1, must fail.

Held, that the lower Appellate Court had not properly disposed of the appeal to his Court on the above question, as if the defendant's father was recorded as occupancy tenant in 1842, and there was no evidence forthcoming from which it might fairly be concluded that he was the first tenant, there might be a presumption that he succeeded his father in the holding, and that his father, unless the contrary could be shown, held the land on similar terms, and if the defendant's grandfather died before living memory, and his father held the land as long as aged residents of the village could remember, the above presumption would be very strong. If, again, it might fairly be inferred from the evidence that the defendant's ancestor settled with the founders of the village, he might be entitled to occupancy rights under another clause of section 5. Ballhu v. Charat Singh (No. 18 P. R. 1876) followed. PALTU v. MUHAMMAD HUSAIN. 62 P R 1882

Cited in MATTAN v. LAKHA.

90 P R 1883

100. Custom—Mauza Kukri Kalan, Firozpur district—Rights of tenants paying at owners' rates and in possession before Settlement.

Plaintiffs, washermen by caste, and residents of Mauza Kukri Kalan in the Moga tahsil of the Firozpur district, sued the village owners to have it declared that they had been recorded as tenants without rights of occupancy at Settlement by mistake, and to have their rights of occupancy declared for the future. It appeared that the plaintiffs had been in possession for four years before the Settlement and had always paid at the same rates as the proprietors.

Held, that it did not appear that, under the rule acted upon at Settlement in Kukri Kalan and its vicinity, tenants in the plaintiffs' position would have been held to be entitled to be recorded as having a right of occupancy, or that any mistake was made in recording the plaintiffs, like others in a similar position, as tenants-at-will. LAL SINGH v. SOBHA SINGH 92 P R 1882

101. Joint tenants—Survivorship.

Held, following the previous rulings of the Chief Court, that on the death of a joint occupancy tenant, his share of the occupancy tenure passes by survivorship to the surviving joint-tenant, and that the fact of the name of the widow of the deceased tenant being associated with that of the surviving joint-tenant when mutation was effected on the death of the said deceased tenant, would not entitle the proprietor to come in and claim a resumption of the deceased's share. Bulunda v. Soondur (No. 57 P. R. 1868), Veer Singh v. Mukkun (No. 36 P. R. 1870), and Prem Singh v. Bhagwana (No. 4 P. R. 1880), cited. IMAM DIN v. MUSSAMMAT MAHABO 180 P R 1882

102. Onus probandi—Presumption of hereditary acquisition arising from long possession for two generations.

In a suit for occupancy rights by the nephews of one A. who claimed to succeed on the ground that the land in suit was acquired by their grandfather, the common ancestor of A. and the plaintiff's father, M., it appeared from the entries in the Settlement papers that the said land had been in A.'s family for 60 years at the date of his widow's death in 1878, and had been occupied successively by A., his son, and lastly, by his widow, that is to say, for two generations excluding the widow. It further appeared that A.'s father was alive when the land was first acquired.

Held, under the above circumstances, that as the facts connected with the acquisition of the land had passed beyond living memory, a fair presumption arose that the person, A., who was recorded as in possession for 40 years in 1859, acquired it from his father, and that the onus was therefore on the defendant to rebut the presumption arising in plaintiff's favour from the facts above mentioned. Ballhu v. Charat Singh (No. 18 P. R. 1876,) followed. HYAT KHAN v. KARM 187 P R 1882

103. Procedure—Suit for proprietary rights—Evidence disclosing title to occupancy right—Duty of Court to adjudicate on question of occupancy rights.

Held, by the Financial Commissioner, that in suits to establish proprietary rights in immoveable property, the Courts should always consider that the claim to proprietary title is a claim to a permanent title or status of some kind in the land, and includes a claim to occupancy rights : and if the evidence shows that the plaintiff may have a good title to occupancy rights, though not to the proprietary right, the Courts should go into the question and decide it. NIHAL v. HUSHIARA.

4 P R 1882 Rev.

104. Hereditary tenant's right to trees growing on his land—Burden of proof.

It cannot be affirmed that as a general rule trees growing on land occupied by a hereditary tenant belong absolutely to the tenant : primâ facie the rule is the other way, viz., that the trees belong to the person who is the proprietor of the land on which the trees grow, and the burden of proving that the trees belong to the tenant, or that the tenant has an interest in the trees, rests on the tenant. Mussammat Gurdevi v. Sondha (No. 61 P. R. 1881) cited. SHERU v. CHARTA.

112 P R 1883

105. Presumption from long occupation—Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868), section 5, clause 1 and section 6.

Held, that though in a suit to establish occupancy rights under section 5, clause 1 of the Tenancy Act, where the plaintiff is a very old man, and has been recorded maurusi, and his possession has extended beyond the memory of living man, a presumption may arise that the plaintiff acquired the land from his father, still it would not be correct to carry the presumption farther back, and hold that the father got the land from the grandfather. Ballhu v. Charat Singh (No. 18 P. R. 1876), and Paltu v. Muhammad Husain (No. 62 P. R. 1882), cited. GIRDHARI v. PIRTHI SINGH 154 P R 1883

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

106. Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868), section 8—Grounds for decreeing occupancy rights.

In a suit for occupancy rights, the plaintiffs must be taken to admit that they are tenants of the defendants and have to show that they have acquired a right of occupancy. Such right cannot be decreed merely because the Court thinks that the plaintiffs' true position is that of proprietors. MANSUKH v. HAR PARSHAD. 56 P R 1884

107. Suit to contest notice of ejectment—Claim to proprietary right—Power to decide question of occupancy right.

In a suit to contest a notice of ejectment, the plaintiff, while laying claim to the status of proprietor, prayed that his cultivating possession might not be disturbed.

Held, that there was no reason why the claim should not be treated as one both for ownership and occupancy rights, and that the plaintiff was entitled to a decision on both questions. Shadee v. Arjun (No. 55 P. R. 1868) and Abbhe v. Muhammad (No. 90 P. R. 1882), referred to. SRI RAM v. RAMBHAJ. 105 P R 1884

108. Abandonment by occupancy tenant without arranging for cultivation—Forfeiture of rights—Abandonment by minor.

Plaintiffs, the son and brothers of one A. and the recorded occupancy tenants of the disputed land, of which the defendant was proprietor, sued to recover their occupancy tenure. The lower Courts found that 14 years ago A. went away taking his two brothers, who were then minors, with him, without providing for the cultivation and for the continuance of the occupancy right.

Held, that A.'s rights were lost, as an occupancy tenure absolutely determines, if the tenant voluntarily abandons it for a single harvest without making arrangements for the cultivation.

Held further, that A. had destroyed his brothers' rights as well as his own, as when an occupancy holding devolves on a minor, the minor's rights will be absolutely destroyed, even while he is still a minor, unless a de jure or de facto guardian comes forward and cultivates for him or arranges for the cultivation. JUMNA v. AHMAD ALI KHAN 156 P R 1884

109. N. W. P. Board of Revenue's Circular No. 17 of 1856—Notification No. 1678 of September 1856—Protection of cultivator who had had continuous possession for 12 years—Summary ejectment.

In a suit to contest a notice of ejectment, it was contended (on appeal to the Chief Court) on behalf of the plaintiff that as the land in dispute was in the

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

Delhi District, the plaintiff was entitled to occupancy rights under the provisions of the N. W. P. Board of Revenue's Circular No. 17 of 1856, by reason of his occupation for 12 years.

Held, that this contention could not prevail, as the effect of Notification No. 1678 of September 1856, which was explained in the circular quoted, was merely to protect a cultivator who had had possession for 12 years continuously from summary ejectment by order of the Revenue Court. Jaimal v. Khabi (No. 39 P R. 1881), followed. HANS RAIN v. HAR CHAND. 18 P R 1885

110. Custom—Firozpur District—Right of khana-damad to succeed to his father-in-law's occupancy rights.

In a suit the parties to which were residents of Mauza Dodha in the Moga tahsil of the Firozpur District, held, that no custom was proved to have been in force before the introduction of the Tenancy Act, whereby a resident son-in-law was entitled to succeed to the occupancy rights of his father-in-law. Ranjha v. Chuhar (No. 47 P. R. 1877), Jowahir Singh v. Asa (No. 64 P. R. 1877), and Dad v. Bagh Singh (No. 34 P. R. 1883, F. B.), referred to. BISHEN SINGH v. GULABA. 44 P R 1885

111. Adhlapidar—Agreement—Custom.

In a suit to establish occupancy rights in half a well, it appeared that the well in suit was sunk under the adhlapi custom, by which the sinker becomes owner of half the well and cultivator of the other half, the proprietary right in which belongs to the original owner of the land. The plaintiff's claim related to the latter or proprietor's half, of which it appeared he had held possession for 50 years, during which period he had cleared the waste, and otherwise incurred charges for the improvement of the land.

Held, that the lower Courts had rightly awarded the plaintiff rights of occupancy.

Per ROE, J.—Because in the absence of all evidence of a special agreement, plaintiff could not be ousted from the proprietor's half of the well, unless the proprietor required it for his own use, which was not even alleged in the present case.

Per SMYTH, J.—Because there was sufficient evidence to support the finding of the lower Appellate Court, that by custom an adhlapidar who incurs charges for improvements similar to those effected by the plaintiff is entitled to occupancy rights. SHER BAKHSH v. KHUDA BAKHSH. 110 P R 1885

112. Custom of Delhi District—Twelve years' continuous occupation.

Found that no well recognized and established custom existed in the northern part of the Delhi District when it was annexed to the Punjab, by which a twelve years' continuous cultivation ipso facto created an occupancy right. Jaimal v. Khubi (No. 39 P. R. 1881) referred to. NAHIR ALI KHAN v. KALU. 12 P R 1886

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

113. Suit to disprove defendant's right of occupancy in part of his holding—Variance between areas recorded at old and new Settlement—Presumption to be drawn from such discrepancy—Proper method of dealing with cases based on such discrepancy in the recorded areas.

In a suit by plaintiff, as proprietor, to obtain a decree declaring that defendant's right of occupancy extended only to 10 out of 19 kanals, his present actual holding, it appeared that at the Regular Settlement defendant was recorded as hereditary tenant of certain stated fields, the area of which by the measurements then made was reckoned to be 10 kanals and was so recorded, but by the measurements of the revised Settlement, the area of the defendant's holding was found to be 19 kanals. Neither the plaint nor any documents attached to it defined the particular land, area 9 kanals, in respect of which the suit was brought. The first Court, after inspecting the land and carefully comparing the boundaries as shown in the former and new measurement papers, came to the conclusion that of the whole holding (area 19 kanals) described in the plaint, certain specified portions aggregating by the new measurements $14\frac{5}{20}$ kanals constituted the holding of which at the Regular Settlement defendant was recorded as hereditary cultivator, and that certain other pieces of land aggregating by the new measurements $4\frac{15}{20}$ kanals were not included in defendant's holding at the time of Settlement, but had been subsequently reclaimed from waste, and decreed accordingly. Both parties appealed to the Commissioner, who decided that defendant was at the Regular Settlement maintained in the hereditary occupancy of 10 kanals only, that he could not claim any benefit on the ground of erroneous measurement, and that any excess now found in his possession could only be deemed to be held by him as tenant-at-will.

Held, by the 2nd Financial Commissioner, that the decree of the Commissioner, must be reversed, and that of the first Court, whose method of dealing with the case was the proper one, be restored.

The entry in the record of the Regular Settlement in defendant's favour must be understood primarily as evidencing his right to hold certain distinct fields, the further information shown in the record, stating the area of those fields, being merely a descriptive addition to this primary and substantive entry. In cases in which the previous measurement record is known to be perfect and accurate, the fact that a defendant entitled under that record is found to hold a larger area than that shown against his name in the record may, when taken in connection with other facts, be held to support a contention that a plaintiff or defendant has since the date of the record encroached on adjacent land. But where the measurements made long ago are known to have been often rough and inaccurate, a comparison of the areas given by the original measurements with those ascertained by later and more accurate surveys is an unsafe basis on which to found either a claim or a decision. BAHADUR v. SHER. 5 P R 1887 Rev.

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

114. Landlord and tenant—Landlord alleging encroachment by tenant—Variance between area entered in Settlement Record and area actually possessed—Effect of entry in Settlement Record.

In a suit by plaintiff based on the allegation that defendants had made encroachments and thus added to the land which they originally held as hereditary tenants, the defendants replied that they had made no encroachments, that they held the very same fields as before, that the Settlement measurements were wrong and that the fields really measured 7 ghomaos 6 kanals 9 marlas, and not 5 ghomaos 4 kanals as entered in the Settlement Record.

Held, that the case must be decided in accordance with the principle laid down in Bahadur v. Sher (No. 5 P. R. 1887 Rev.): that defendants were entitled to the fields or land which they actually held at the time when the Settlement entry was made, and that if the extent of those fields was erroneously entered in the Settlement Record the misdescription would not deprive the defendants of their rights. DULLA v. MUSSAMMAT GHULAM BIBI.

5 P R 1888 Rev.

115. Tenants' right to erect buildings on arable land without landlord's consent—Injury to landlord.

A suit by a landlord claiming the removal of a walled enclosure and a shed for cattle erected by certain occupancy tenants on the arable land in their possession, dismissed on the ground that the tenants could not be said by reason of such erection to have altered the nature of their holding from arable to building land, the buildings in question being closely connected with the purposes of agriculture and therefore not constituting an appropriation of the land, which rendered it unfit for the purposes for which it was presumably made over to agriculturist tenants; nor could it be said (at least in a case like the present, where the tenants paid in cash and not in kind) that the landlord would suffer any appreciable injury from the act of the tenants. DASWANDHI v. GHULAM. 122 P R 1888

116. Suit by landlord to enforce clause in Wajib-ul-arz providing for forfeiture of occupancy tenure by reason of alienation by tenant—Power to enforce such provision—Delay in suing—Long acquiescence in mutual disregard of the provision.

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

Plaintiffs sued to have it declared that the defendants had forfeited their rights as occupancy tenants by reason of their having leased the land appertaining to their holding to a third party for the manufacture of saltpetre for nine years, and by allowing him to retain possession of the land for over two years which, under the terms of the Wajib-ul-arz, caused a forfeiture of the defendant's estate. It appeared that the said lease was executed in 1877, and that the present suit was instituted in 1882. It further appeared that the defendants were Brahmin Pandits by profession whose position in the village was very different to that of the rest of the occupancy tenants, the latter all paying a varying rate of rent in kind, whereas the defendants paid a fixed cash rate. It also appeared that with respect to the defendants and their immediate predecessors in title the conditions of the Wajib-ul-arz, now sought to be strictly enforced, had been uniformly treated during a long course of years, both prior to and subsequent to the regular Settlement as a dead letter, as despite the clause against alienation the defendants and their predecessors in title had never tilled the land in person, and had not only employed agricultural labour for that purpose, but at least on two occasions had allowed the land to remain with their sub-lessees for three or four years, respectively, without the landlords attempting to assert that this cond t on their part was unauthorized, or that 'caused a forfeiture of their estate.

Held, that under the above circumstances, having regard both to the fact that the clause which the plaintiffs sought to enforce had been treated by the parties as a dead letter, so far as the defendants were concerned and to the great delay which the plaintiffs had allowed to occur before bringing their suit, the latter could not claim to enforce a forfeiture of the status of occupancy tenants enjoyed by the defendants. SUKHDEO v. ABDUL RAHMAN.

6 P R 1889

117. Tenancy Act, XXVIII of 1868, section 8—Long possession—Mortgage by tenant—Acquiescence by landlord.

The lower Courts decreed the claim to occupancy rights under section 8, on the ground of long occupation and of a mortgage of his holding by the tenant which was not objected to by the landlord. Held, that these grounds were insufficient to confer occupancy rights under section 8. UDDAM SINGH v. NABIA. 96 P R 1889

118. Occupancy tenants—Continuous cultivation—Discontinuance by one—Lapse.

The principle, that for the continued existence of an occupancy right, it is essential that the land be continuously occupied by the tenant or his agent, and that if it is not, the right becomes extinct, applies only between landlord and tenant.

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

When a joint tenant sues for possession of his share of the holding and is met by the plea that he had lost his right by reason of discontinuance of cultivation, the entire holding being cultivated meanwhile by the defendant, held, that as the occupancy right had been maintained as against the landlord, the plea did not bar the claim which was by one joint owner against another for enjoyment of joint right.

No. 156 P. R. 1884, No. 12 P. R. 1879, No. 5 P. R. 1872, distinguished. KARM DIN v. JIWA. 111 P R 1889

119. Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868)—Occupancy rights in shamilat—Proprietor—Agreement.

Though a proprietor cannot acquire occupancy right in shamilat land under the provisions of the Tenancy Act, there is nothing to prevent his acquiring such rights by agreement entered at Settlement which will on his death pass to his heirs. VIR SINGH v. HIRA SINGH 155 P R 1889

120. Succession to occupancy right— Wajib-ul-arz—Construction—Act XXVIII of 1868, sections 2, 36.

In a case where the Wajib-ul-arz provided that when an occupancy tenant dies leaving no sons, his holding reverts to the proprietors.

Held, that, in the absence of clear words of exclusion, the document could not be construed as excluding male collaterals descended from the same ancestor who was himself possession of the land. CHANGA v. NABI BAKHSH. 145 P R 1890

121. *Succession to occupancy rights—Custom—*Wajib-ul-arz—Abrogation by provision in latter Settlement Record—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 50.

A suit by the collateral heirs of a deceased occupancy tenant to recover possession of his holding from the landlord on the ground of inheritance is quite distinct from a suit based on wrongful dispossession or ejectment such as is covered by section 50 of the Tenancy Act, and is cognizable by a Civil Court.

Where the Wajib-ul-arz of the old Settlement provided for succession of collaterals to an occupancy tenant, while that for the new Settlement made no similar provision, but merely declared that occupancy tenants will be dealt with according to law. Held, that a suit brought after the new Wajib-ul-arz had come into force must be decided according to it, and not according to the superseded document. WAZIRA v. HARJALU.

160 P R 1890

122. Occupancy rights—Change in law—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 5 (1) (c).

The new Tenancy Act confers the status of an occupancy tenant upon the persons (as also upon his representative) who was settled by the founder of the village as a cultivator therein. The old Tenancy Act conferred su status on the representative only. NUR-UL-LA v. SHARIF MIAN. 7 P R 1890 Re

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

123. Suit for declaration of occupancy rights—Determination of compensation—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 45, 70.

Held, that the question of compensation should not be determined in a suit to establish occupancy rights brought under section 77 (3) (a) independently of section 45 of the Tenancy Act, no notice of ejectment having previously been served. FATTU v. MAHANT SHANKAR GIR. 9 P R 1890 Rev.

124. Occupancy rights—Administrative proceeding—Res judica.

By an administrative proceeding in 1863, the object of which was to determine whether the tenants of the village should be recorded as having rights of occupancy, the Settlement Officer decided that the plaintiff had no such rights.

Held, in a suit instituted in 1890, to contest a notice of ejectment, that if the tenant be found to possess the qualifications required by section 5, sub-section (1) (c) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, he would be entitled to a decree for occupancy rights (No. 7 P. R. 1890, Rev. followed). Since 1863 two Tenancy Acts have been passed, and they have conferred rights of occupancy on many tenants who, prior to the passing of these laws, might have failed to prove themselves to be occupancy tenants. It was no answer to the plaintiff in the present suit, who claimed to be entitled to occupancy rights under section 5, sub-section (1) (c) of the Act of 1887, to say that, in a Settlement proceeding in 1863, or even for the matter of that in a judicial proceeding, they were found to be tenants-at-will. SURTA v. IMAM-UD-DIN. 2 P R 1891 Rev.

125. Right of occupancy in part of land—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 5 (1) (a).

The plaintiff, a tenant, sued to contest a notice of ejectment. The Collector, on appeal, found that the plaintiff had fulfilled the conditions of section 5, sub-section (1) (a) of the Tenancy Act, 1887, in respect of a part of the land in suit, although not in respect of the whole, and gave him a decree for occupancy rights in such part. The Commissioner, on further appeal, dismissed the plaintiff's suit in toto, upon the ground that in order to succeed under sub-section (1) (a), a tenant must show a continuous possession of his holding and not of a fraction thereof merely.

Held, by the Financial Commissioner that if the landlord had permitted the tenant to fulfill the conditions of the sub-section in respect of a part of the land this should have been decreed to him. HIRDE v. DARBARI.

5 P R 1891 Rev.

126. Occupancy rights—Decree—Specification of land—Burden of proof.

In making a decree for ejectment, the decree must specify the precise lands from which a tenant is to be ejected. Similarly, a decree declaring occupancy rights under section 5 (1) (c), Tenancy Act, 1887, should specify the precise lands of which the tenant was in possession on the 21st October 1868 and on which he is found to have acquired occupancy rights.

The burden of proof in such cases is upon the tenant to show the precise land held by him in 1868. MUSSAMMAT ALA DI BEGAM v. TILOKA. 6 P R 1891 Rev.

127. Right of occupancy—Joint Tenancy—Survivorship.

Held, following the rulings of the Chief Court that in a case where two widows were joint tenants of an undivided holding and one dies, the survivor is entitled to occupancy rights in the whole.

Nos. 36 P. R. 1870, 4 P. R. 1880, 180 P. R 1882, followed. MAN SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT ZEHRO. 9 P R 1891 Rev.

128. Tenancy Act, 1887*—Unauthorised alienation by occupancy-tenant—Tenant's right to recover possession from landlord.*

When an occupancy tenant has made an unauthorized alienation of his holding, including the giving of possession to the alienee, and the landlord has sued successfully to have the alienation declared void, and to recover possession from the alienee, it is not a good answer to a suit by the alienor against the landlord to obtain re-entry on his holding that the plaintiff is not able to show that he is no longer bound by the contract either because the alienee has taken back his money, or because the contract has been put an end to in some other way.

No. 74 P. R. 1884, decided with reference to the provisions of the Tenancy Act, 1868, not followed. KHUDA BAKHSH v. FAZIL DIN.

17 P R 1892 F. B.

129. Pre-emption—Transferable rights of occupancy—Section 10, Punjab Laws Act—Right created by Statute or Contract—Perpetual lease whether tantamount to sale.

The provision of section 10, Punjab Laws Act, 1872 (as amended), that the right of pre-emption shall primâ facie be presumed to exist in all village communities and to extend to all transferable rights of occupancy affecting such lands, applies not only to sales by occupancy tenants, but is also applicable to transactions under which proprietors create a right of occupancy in another for a consideration.

A right of occupancy may be transferable within the meaning of section 10, Punjab Laws Act, 1872 (as amended), either because a power to transfer is given by the Tenancy Act, or because there is an agreement between the landlordand tenant excluding the operation of such of the provisions of the Act as would otherwise prevent alienation. In the present case the right of occupancy being created by contract would, ordinarily, and in the absence of express agreement, be non-transferable ; but in conferring the right the landlord had expressly granted full power of alienation, and had thus created or sold a transferable right.

Semble.—A perpetual lease does not give rise to a right of pre-emption merely on the ground that it is tantamount to a sale. (I.L.R. XV Calc. 184, referred to). NIHAL CHAND v. RAI SINGH AND NAURANGA. 43 P R 1892

130. Jurisdiction of Civil Court—Mortgage by occupancy tenant—Mortgagee to receive half net profits without possession—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (k).

The defendant, a tenant with rights of occupancy, mortgaged his land to the plaintiff, on the understanding that the mortgagor should retain possession and the mortgagee receive half the net profits of the tenancy.

The defendant withheld from the plaintiff his share of the profits, hence the present suit.

Held, that the suit was cognizable by the Civil Court, the plaintiff and defendant not being co-sharers " in an estate or holding," and clause (k), sub-section (3), section 77, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, being, therefore, inapplicable. GANGU v. ASAD

70 P R 1892

131. Occupancy tenants—Status—Res judicata.

In a suit for enhancement of rent, the Settlement Collector declared the tenants to come under section 6 of the Tenancy Act, 1887, and enhanced their rent accordingly. The tenants had not expressly claimed any particular status, and the question of their status was not expressly put in issue.

Held, in a subsequent suit by the tenants to establish a right of occupancy under section 5, sub-section (1) (a) of the Tenancy Act, that the lower Courts had rightly held that the question of status had already been decided.

The tenants should have raised the point in their answer to the first suit : this they omitted to do, and the provisions of section 13, Explanation II, operated to make the question res judicata. NIHAL SINGH v. HIRA SINGH.

5 P R 1892 Rev.

132. Material irregularity—Revision—Section 622, Civil Procedure Code.

The lower Courts refused to consider the defendants' claim to an occupancy status under section 5, Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, their predecessor in interest having been recorded in 1879 as a tenant under section 6 of the Act of 1868, and having taken no steps to claim a higher status.

Held, that this constituted a material irregularity, the facts found being no bar to the defendants acquiring the status they claimed under section 5, if they could prove that the present conditions of their tenancy were such as to fulfil the requirements of the Tenancy Act of 1887 in respect of the acquisition of such a status. BAHADUR v. DUL CHAND. 3 P R 1893 Rev.

133. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 5, sub-section (1) (c) —Enhancement of rent—Desirability of recording a finding as to status of tenant in view of possibility of future litigation for enhancement.—Section 20*—Enhancement of produce rents of occupancy tenant—Inquiry.*

The lower Courts in an enhancement suit omitted to determine the status of all the tenants on the ground that the enhancement which they decreed being at a rate within the maximum fixed for tenants under section 5, sub-section (1) (c) an adjudication as to status was unnecessary.

Held, that with a view to the contingency of future litigation for further enhancement, a finding as to the status of all the tenants was necessary.

Held, also, that in dealing with the enhancement of produce rents of occupancy tenants regard must be had to the points specified in section 20 of the Act. JAMAL-UD-DIN v. ALA. 5 P R 1893 Rev.

134. Succession to right of occupancy—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, section 36, and Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 5, 59—"Lineal male descendant"—Daughter's son—Adopted son.

Held, that the daughter's son of a Brahman was not as such entitled to inherit a right of occupancy under section 59 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.

Quære.—Whether an adopted son can claim the benefit of section 59 of the said Act.

No. 1 P. R. 1874 Rev. distinguished. WIR BHAN v. SUBA. 40 P R 1894

135. Rights of occupancy alienation—Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887) sections 53 (10), 60—"Landlord," meaning of.

Held, that the rights secured to landlords under section 53 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, are by force of clause 10 of the said section not merely joint rights belonging to all the landlords in a body, but are secured for each landlord severally if there be no assertion of their rights by the whole body of landlords.

Held, further, that reading section 60 with section 53 of the Act the words "the landlord" in the former section may mean all or some or only one of the owners according to circumstances, and with due regard to equitable considerations.

Per SHOGDON, J.—Although clause (10) was probably inserted in section 53 in order to make it clear that one of a body of landlords might purchase an occupancy right from a tenant notwithstanding the willingness, either express or implied, of his co-landlords to permit the tenant to alienate it to an outsider it does not necessarily follow that because it has been declared for the purposes of section 53 that one of several landlords of a tenancy may be the landlord, for the purposes of other sections of the Act, in which no such declaration is made, the landlord in the case of several co-landlords, means the whole body of such co-landlords, conjunctively as opposed to the units making up the body disjunctively.

No. 92 P. R. 1887 distinguished. BUDH SINGH v. MIHAN SINGH. 65 P R 1894

136. Succession—Joint tenants of occupancy holding—Survivorship—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the principle of survivorship among joint tenants of an occupancy holding, while excluding the operation of section 59 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, in favour of the landlord and any rights of a collateral relation whose claim would not be recognised by that section (in the absence of an agreement to the contrary), cannot be extended to the case of an heir, either lineal or collateral claiming a share in an ancestral holding which has fallen in on the death of one of the tenants, even though the deceased was joint in cultivation with some of the family other than the claimant who was separate, and that in such cases the rights of the parties must be decided with reference to section 59 of the Act.

No. 56 P. R. 1887 overruled ; No. 2 P. R. 1867, No. 57 P. R. 1868, No. 36 P. R. 1870, No. 159 P. R. 1879, No. 4 P. R. 1880, No. 180 P. R. 1882, and No. 9 P. R. 1891 (Rev.), cited. MOHRU v. MUTSADDI. 109 P R 1894 F. B.

137. Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), section 59—Appointment of heir by occupancy tenant—Customary adoption—"Male lineal descendant"—Hindu and Muhammadan agriculturists.

Held, by the Full Bench, that a mere customary adoption, whether among Hindus or Muhammadans, gives no right of succession under section 59 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. FATTEH MUHAMMAD v. MUSSAMMAT JIWAN. 43 P R 1895 F. B.

138. Application by majority of joint owners for partition—Objections by remaining joint owners and occupancy tenants—Discretion of Revenue Officer—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 112 (3).

The majority of certain joint owners sued for enhancement of rent, but their suit was dismissed, on appeal, by the Commissioner, on the ground that (as ruled by the Chief Court in No. 77 P. R. 1883) to secure enhancement of rent paid by tenants all the landlords sharing in a joint holding must sue. The landlords desiring enhancement of rent thereafter applied for partition of the joint holding, but their application was disallowed on the ground that the occupancy tenants did not agree to a partition being made of the land in their occupation.

Held, on revision, that the partition of land held by occupancy tenants is not prohibited in every case in which the tenants themselves, or even some of the proprietors object, and that under section 112, clause 3, of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, the Revenue Officer has a discretion to act upon the objection of the tenants, or to permit partition. SUBE KHAN v. RAHMAT ALI. 1 P R 1895 Rev.

139. Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), section 11—Award under Act XVI of 1887, of higher status to tenant who held rights under section 6 of Act XXVIII of 1868.

One S. who was recorded at the Settlement of 1879 as a tenant under section 6 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, was awarded by the Collector status as occupancy tenant under section 5 (1) (a) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, on the ground that in consequence of his father having died between 1879 and the date on which the latter Act came into force, S. had fulfilled the conditions of holding for three generations, and paying no rent beyond the revenue and cesses at the commencement of the Act, and so had acquired the higher status. On appeal the Commissioner reversed this finding, holding that section 11 of the present Act bars a tenant from acquiring a status higher than that held by him under the former Act.

Held, that the meaning of section 11 is that a tenant who has obtained an occupancy status under the former Act was to be held to have acquired a corresponding status under the present Act when it came into force, and not that any such tenant should be debarred from benefiting by the provisions of the present Act if he could show that they have placed him in a more favourable position than he had previously held. NAND KISHOUR v. NATHU. 4 P R 1895 Rev.

140. Punjab Tenancy At (XVI of 1887), section 5 (1) (b)—"Tenant"—Tenant who has involuntarily parted with proprietary right—Right of representative of such tenant—Accrual of right.

Held, that, inasmuch as the definition of "tenant" in Act XVI of 1887 expressly includes predecessors in title, section 5 (1) (b) of the Act cannot be construed as limiting the right of occupancy therein contemplated merely to the person who involuntarily parted with his ownership, and that, therefore, it is open to a representative of such person to assert a claim which the latter had failed to put forward.

No. 148 P. R. 1888 distinguished.

With reference to an objection that unless some one of the predecessors in interest of the claimant was alive when the former Tenancy Act (XXVIII of 1868) came into force, the claimant lost his occupancy right by the operation of that Act, and it could not be revived by the present Act, held, that the question of the claimant's rights in the land not having been raised while the former Act of 1868 was in force, he was entitled to the benefit of the provisions of the present Act. RAM CHAND v. UMRAO SINGH 6 P R 1895 Rev.

141. Occupancy rights, claim to—Entry in record of Summary Settlement—Sanction of Local Government—Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), sections 5 (1) (a) and 6—Material irregularity.

In a suit in which plaintiffs claimed occupancy rights under section 5 (1) (a) or (c) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, the Assistant Collector framed an issue as to whether they had acquired an occupancy status under any section of the Act, and took some evidence. In his judgment, however, he omitted any reference to the claim under section 5 (i) (a) or (c), but held that plaintiffs were entitled to an occupancy status under section 6, because their predecessor in interest was recorded as an occupancy tenant at the Summary Settlement before the passing of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868. This finding was upheld by the Collector on appeal.

Held, that, in the absence of proof that the record of the Summary Settlement had received the sanction of the Local Government, the entry in question was not sufficient to confer upon plaintiffs an occupancy status under section 6 of Act XVI of 1887.

But, held, further, that the omission on the part of the first Court to consider plaintiffs' claim under section 5 (1) (a) or (c) amounted to a material irregularity, and that the case must, therefore, be remanded for further enquiry and fresh decision thereupon. SANTA SINGH v. HAZARA SINGH. 8 P R 1895 Rev.

142. Occupancy rights, succession to—Entry in Settlement Record, effect of—Agreement—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 111, 112—Custom.

In a dispute as to the succession to occupancy rights as between the landlord, plaintiff and the defendants, who were the collaterals, and claimed to be the heirs of the last occupancy tenant, the latter relied upon an entry made in the Settlement Record, 1865, and attested by the proper officer, as an agreement establishing their right. The said entry was to the following effect: "if a tenant die, then his descendants (aulad)" or, "if he die sonless, his collaterals (karabatian)" will be entitled to cultivate the land on the above-mentioned conditions, that is, as occupancy tenants. The Divisional Judge overruled defendants' contention based upon the above entry, and held that it was not proved that the landlords ever assented to such agreement, and that if they did it was no more than a nudum pactum; that section 2 of Act XXVIII of 1868 did not recognize as subject for agreement the question of succession to occupancy tenancies and that the entry might be some evidence of a custom as to the succession to occupancy rights, but that no such custom had been sufficiently established aliunde. Defendants appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, reversing the order of the Divisional Judge (i), that the question for decision was governed, not by Act XXVIII of 1868, which has been replaced, but by Act XVI of 1887, which has replaced the earlier Act, but that the provisions of the former did no less than do the provisions of the latter, distinctly recognize questions relating to succession to occupancy rights as a subject with regard to which a properly attested entry in the Settlement Record would be deemed to be an agreement; (ii) that the rule as to succession to occupancy rights laid down in either Act can be modified by agreement, but not by custom; and (iii) that under the plain language of both Acts, an entry like the present was to be deemed to be an agreement (at least till the contrary was shown) and was not to be deemed to be a nudum pactum or void for want of proper consent by either party. PHINA SINGH v. MAHTAB KHAN. 20 P R 1896

143. Occupancy right, succession to—"Male lineal descendant"—Chela—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59.

The question referred to the Full Bench was as to the right of a chela of a deceased Bairagi faqir to succeed, under section 59 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, to the occupancy rights of the deceased against the wishes of the proprietors.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the said chela was not a "male lineal descendant in the male line of descent" of this deceased faqir within the true meaning of the above section. PUNJAB SINGH v. SANT RAM. 22 P R 1896 F. B.

144. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, Chapter V—Alienation of right of occupancy—Sale by tenant to landlord—Locus standi of reversioners to object to sale.

One B., an occupancy tenant, having sold his rights as such to his landlords, plaintiffs, who were the collaterals of B., sued for a declaration that the sale would not affect their rights of reversion, as it was effected without necessity. The Divisional Judge, on appeal, dismissed plaintiffs' suit on the ground that it was not maintainable under the provisions of the Punjab Tenancy Act of 1887. Plaintiffs appealed to the Chief Court, and it was contended, on their behalf, that the said provisions being intended solely to settle the tenant's powers of alienation qua the landlord and in no wise affecting them qua his reversioners, it was open to such reversioners to prove that by custom they could restrict his powers of alienation whether the alienations were in favour of the landlord or a stranger

Held, by the Full Bench, that plaintiffs' suit had been rightly dismissed as not maintainable under the provisions of the Punjab Tenancy Act.

RIVAZ, J.—Inasmuch as section 53 of the Act declares that a tenant, having a right of occupancy, may transfer his right, subject only to certain conditions, if he does transfer his rights after fulfilling those conditions, the transferee (if he is not the landlord) acquires, under the express provision in section 57 of the Act, a right that is not open to challenge by third parties upon any ground based upon natural relationship or customary rights. Similarly, if, after the offer contemplated by section 53 had been made to, and accepted by, the landlord, the purchase becomes complete under clause (5) of the same section, the landlord's position is unassailable by third parties, the right of occupancy having become extinct under clause (6). DIDARU v. BANNA. 31 P R 1896 F. B.

145. Occupancy rights, acquisition of—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, section 6 (2) and Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 5, 6, 111 —Tenant recorded with consent of proprietors as occupancy tenant—Subsequent admission by tenant made previous to 1887, that he was merely tenant-at-will.

In the Tarmim Khewat papers of 1855, one M., the father of plaintiff, was recorded as a maurusi tenant of certain land, and a note was added to the effect that all the proprietors recognised him as a tenant with rights of occupancy. The said entry was found not to have been made in a record of rights which had received the sanction of the Local Government, and, though M., and his sons had continuously occupied the said land since 1855, it was proved that they had for some time past been paying rent therefor, and also that in 1859, in a suit between the proprietor of the land and a third party, M., who was examined as a witness, had practically admitted that he was merely a tenant-at-will of the land in question. The final order in the said suit was that M. should be considered a tenant-at-will of the land. The village in which the land in dispute was situate was founded some 300 years ago.

Held, that inasmuch as M. had not settled along with, or been settled by, the founder of the village, and as he and his sons had been paying rent for the land, plaintiff, who was his successor in title, could not claim occupancy rights under section 5 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.

Held, further, that the entry in the papers of the Tarmim Khewat of 1855 not having been made in a record of rights sanctioned by the Local Government before the 21st October 1868, plaintiff could not claim such rights under section 6 of the Act.

But held, that the said entry was an agreement recorded in a record of rights and primâ facie operated to confer occupancy rights upon M., as provided in section 111 of the Act, which does not require that the record of rights to which it refers shall have been sanctioned by the Local Government.

Held, also that, there being no provision in the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, corresponding with section 6 (2) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, whereby the voluntary admission of M. that he had not a right of occupancy would have barred his claim thereto, the defendant could not, after the 1st November 1887, dispossess plaintiff by proving the said admission of M., in a case in which the latter was not a party, in 1859.

There is nothing contradictory in sections 6 and 111 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and a tenant who fails to prove his claim under section 6 may nevertheless have the benefit of section 111 if he can prove the relevant facts. CHIRAGH v. MIRZA. 4 P R 1896 Rev.

146. Occupancy rights, acquisition of—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 5 (1) (a) and (2)—Thirty years' occupation—Presump- tion, nature of—Suit by landlord to eject tenant—Notice of ejectment—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 43, 45, 77 (3) (e)—"Tenant"—Partition of land previously in joint occupation of family.

In a suit by the landlords for the ejectment of certain tenants, it was proved that the latter were in occupation of the lands in dispute on the 1st November 1887 (the date on which the present Punjab Tenancy Act came into force) and had paid no rent for the lands beyond the amount of the land revenue thereof and the rates and cesses for the time being chargeable thereon. None of them, however, could prove that they had held the lands for more than two generations in the male line of descent through a grandfather or granduncle, and they were, therefore, unable to succeed in establishing occupancy rights merely by virtue of section 5, sub-section (1), clause (a), of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. They claimed, however, to succeed by virtue of the presumption raised by sub-section (2) of the said section inasmuch they were in occupation on the 1st November 1887 and had, at the date of suit, been in continuous occupation for more than thirty years. The lower Court held that in orde rto get the benefit of sub-section (2) of section 5 of the Act, the tenant must prove thirty years' continuous occupation at the date of the commencement of the Act, and not from the date of suit, and finding that in the present case the tenants had failed to prove that they have been in continuous occupancy for more than twenty-two years previous to the 1st November 1887, it decreed plaintiffs' suit for ejectment. Defendants applied to the Financial Commissioner for revision of the said order, and contended not only that the lower Court had erred as to the date from which the said period of thirty years was to be computed, but also that plaintiffs' suit should have been dismissed because the landlords had failed to issue a notice of ejectment as required by sections 43 and 45 of the Act.

Held, that the latter contention must fail. A landlord who wishes to eject a tenant can either proceed by notice under section 43, or he can, as in the present case, institute a suit for ejectment, without previous notice under section 77, sub-section (3), clause (e).

But held, that the period of thirty years mentioned in sub-section (2) of section 5 must be computed from the date of the institution of the suit, and not from the date of the commencement of the Act.

Held, therefore, that the defendants having been in occupation of the lands on the date when the Act came into force, and having at the date of suit been in continuous occupation thereof for a period of thirty years without paying rent beyond the amount of land revenue, rate and cesses chargeable thereon, must be presumed, in the absence of rebutting evidence, to have acquired occupancy rights therein within the meaning of section 5 of the Act.

Before a tenant can claim the benefit of the presumption which may be raised under sub-section (2) of section 5 of the Act, he must show that he was in occupation of the land to which his claim relates, on the 1st November 1887, and his occupancy rights, if any, must have been acquired by that date, the effect of the said sub-section being to give him, in certain circumstances, the benefit of a presumption in proving them. On the other hand, when a tenant has at date of suit been in continuous occupation at revenue rates for thirty years, the landlord may prove that on the 1st November 1887, (1) the tenant had not held for more than two generations in the male line of descent through a grandfather or granduncle, or (2) that the tenant had then held for a period of less than twenty years, or (3) that before that date the tenant had paid rent beyond the amount of land revenue, rates and cesses chargeable on the land. If the landlord fails to prove any one of these points, and the tenant proves that he was occupying the land in suit on the 1st November 1887 and has continuously occupied it at revenue rates for thirty years and no further evidence is given on either side, a Court is justified in awarding occupancy rights to the tenant under section 5 (1) (a) in virtue of the presumption arising under section 5 (2) of the Act.

Held, further, that inasmuch as the term "tenant" in section 5 (2) of the Act includes the predecessors in interest of the tenant, if the latter can prove that the lands in suit were held jointly by members of his own family in the male line of descent before the 1st November 1887, he will have given sufficient proof of continuous occupation during the period of their tenure, the members of a family in joint occupation being predecessors in interest of the tenant, and it being unnecessary to enquire how the shares of the different branches and members of the family were adjusted at partition. MAULA v. JIWAN BAKHSH. 5 P R 1896 Rev.

147. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 8—Similar tenancies held by single family in joint possession of long standing—Erroneous entries in Settlement papers—Occupancy rights granted to some members of such family, but not to others.

In a case where exactly similar tenancies have been held by a single family in joint possession of very old standing, but certain members only of such family had been recorded in the Settlement papers as occupancy tenants, the rest being erroneously recorded as tenants-at-will, despite an admission by one of the proprietors at the Settlement of 1880 that the whole family were entitled to occupancy rights, and the order of the Superintendent of Settlement that they should be so recorded in respect of such proprietors' share : held, that the Court has power under section 8 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, in awarding occupancy rights under section 6 of the Act to those members who are entitled thereto, in virtue of an entry in the Settlement record, to correct the entries as regards the other members of such family, and to award occupancy rights to the latter also. MUHAMMAD v. YAR MUHAMMAD KHAN. 9 P R 1896 Rev.

148. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 5 (1) (a), 11, 22 (2)—Tenants with rights of occupancy—Continuance of rights existing previous to enactment of Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868.

At the Settlement of 1856 the predecessors in interest of defendants were recorded as maurusi tenants of 55 years' standing, paying at the same rate as the proprietors, and at the Settlement of 1868, when the rights of tenants were inquired into, defendants' said predecessors stated that they had held for 125 years and seven generations without paying rent. Plaintiff at the time acknowledged that these statements were correct. The tenants were, thereupon, recorded as maurasi ba razamandi, and the rent was fixed at one anna per rupee of revenue for five years, the order settling these matters being dated 27th July 1867, i. e., before the passing of the Tenancy Act, 1868. In the papers of the present Settlement the tenants were recorded as maurusis, but the section of the present Act under which they held was not specified.

Held, that upon the above facts the predecessors in interest of defendants were, at the time of the passing of the Tenancy Act, 1868, tenants under section 5 (1) of that Act, and that as nothing had since happened to deprive them of that status, defendants were tenants under section 5 (1) (a) of the present Tenancy Act. AHMAD YAR v. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH. 12 P R 1896 Rev.

149. Occupancy rights—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 5 (1) (d), 111—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 43—Rights claimed in muafi partly resumed and partly not resumed—Alleged waiver of right by claimant's predecessor in title in 1858.

Plaintiff claimed occupancy rights in a plot of land which was originally muafi in favour of his predecessor in interest. Half of the muafi was resumed in 1889, where upon defendants sued in the Civil Courts for possession thereof as proprietors and obtained a decree, and subsequently to the institution of the present suit, they obtained possession of the said half, though it did not appear that plaintiff's possession as tenant had been interrupted. The lower Courts dismisssd plaintiff's suit with reference both to section 43 of the Civil Procedure Code, and to section 111 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, on the grounds apparently, that plaintiff's predecessor in interest had relinquished his claims to occupancy rights in certain proceedings before the Superintendent of Settlement in 1858, and that an agreement between the parties on that occasion was inconsistent with the present claim.

Held. that in respect of the unresumed moiety of the muafi the present suit was premature and must be dismissed, but not so as to debar plaintiff from suing for occupancy rights in such moiety, should his quasi-proprietary possession be disturbed or his title thereto be challenged in course of law.

Held, further, that in respect of the resumed moiety of the muafi plaintiff was entitled to occupancy rights under section 5 (i) (d) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and that there was nothing in the facts of the case or the previous litigation to bar his claim. MAHANT SADHU RAM v. LAL KHAN. 13 P R 1896 Rev.

150. Occupancy rights—Grant of muafi to ala-lambardar in virtue of his office—Ala-lambardar joint owner of such land—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 4 (7), (13), (15), 5 (1) (d), 10, 11—"Tenant"—Custom—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, sections 5 (4), 9—Pattidari village—Impure pattidari village.

In 1864, a grant of part of the shamilat deh was made by an officer of Government in favour of J. S., father of H. S., in remuneration of his services as ala-lambardar. On the death of J. S., in 1880, H. S. succeeded as ala-lambardar and muafidar, but in 1891 the proprietors applied for partition which was effected and duly sanctioned in 1893, whereupon H. S. instituted the present suits to contest notices of ejectment issued by the different proprietors into whose possession the said muafis had come, J. S., and after him H. S., were joint owners of the lands in dispute, and it was proved that H. S., by himself, aud by his father before him had continuously occupied the same since 1865. It was contended that H. S., was not liable to ejectment, inasmuch as he had acquired occupancy rights both under the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and under the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868.

Held, that inasmuch as H. S. was a joint owner of land, he could not under section 10 of the present Tenancy Act acquire occupancy rights in the land in suit otherwise than by virtue of a special custom.

Found, that no such special custom had been proved in the present case.

Held, further, that as there was nothing in the Tenancy Act of 1868 corresponding to section 4 (7) of the present Act, which defines "tenant" as including the predecessor in interest of the present tenant. H. S., who had not by himself been separately in continuous possession of the land for twenty years, had not acquired occupancy rights therein under the said Tenancy Act of 1868 at the time when the present Act came into force.

When a son succeeds his father in the ala-lambardarship, the muafi and in cultivating occupancy, the father is the predecessor in interest of the son within the meaning of section 4 (7) of the Tenancy Act, 1887.

When an ala-lambardar, to whom a grant of muafi, had been made in remuneration of his services, continues, after resumption of such muafi to hold on as cultivator, he is a "tenant" holding under the proprietors, and is also a "village officer" within the meaning of section 4 (13) and a "jagirdar" within the meaning of section 4 (15) of the Tenancy Act, 1887, if the land revenue has been assigned to him in whole or in part by the Government or by an officer of the Government. And if such ala-lambardar has, at the date of suit, continuously occupied for twenty years the land so allotted to him, not being himself a joint owner of such land, he is entitled to occupancy rights under section 5 (1) (d) of the said Act.

Section 9 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, must be strictly construed, and therefore does not apply to the case of a village which is pattidari ghair mukammal. LAHNA SINGH v. HIRA SINGH, 1 P R 1897 Rev.

151. Occupancy rights—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 5 (2)—Presumption, nature of.

The land, in which plaintiff claimed occupancy rights, formerly belonged to his father, who gave it on the 4th April 1866 to the father of defendants. Plaintiff's suit was instituted on 11th February 1896, at which date thirty years had not elapsed since the origin of the tenancy.

Held, that inasmuch as the thirty years mentioned in section 5 (2) of the Tenancy Act, 1887, must be computed from the date of the institution of the suit, plaintiff was not entitled to the benefit of the presumption in that sub-section, and that, even if he were entitled to such presumption, it would be rebutted by the fact set forth by himself that there had been only one succession, viz., from father to son. PIRBHU v. MOHAR SINGH. 4 P R 1897 Rev.

152. Occupancy rights, succession to—Adopted son—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 5, 59—Plea raised in Appellate Court for the first time.

Held, that a daughter's son, who has been adopted, is not entitled, by virtue of clause (3) of section 5 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, to succeed to the occupancy rights of his adoptive father, who was a tenant under the said section, and that the objection to such succession can be taken by the male collaterals of the tenant as well as by the landlord.

The proviso in clause (3) of section 5 of the Act refers only to the original acquisition of the right.

An Appellate Court is entitled to take notice of a question of law which clearly arises in the case, even though the question may have been overlooked both by the parties to the case and by the Courts which have dealt with it. JOWALA SINGH v. KALA SINGH. 22 P R 1898

153. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 5, 6, 8—Suit for declaration of occupancy status of highest class—Duty of Court to consider whether plaintiff entitled to inferior right than that claimed—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 53—Material irregularity—Collector deciding appeal in absence of record which had been lost.

Plaintiff's suit for a declaration of occupancy status under section 5 (i) (a) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, was dismissed by the lower Courts on the ground that as he and his ancestors had always paid half batai, he was not entitled to the status claimed. It appeared, however, that plaintiff and his ancestors had held the land for over forty years before 1870 and had planted fruit trees and erected buildings thereon, but the lower Courts had dismissed the suit without considering whether such occupation entitled the plaintiff to occupancy rights under section 8 of the Act. It further appeared that the record of the case in the first Court was lost before the Collector heard the appeal.

Held, that the lower Courts had committed a material irregularity in dismissing the suit without considering whether, with reference to the facts of the case and the district practice, plaintiff was not entitled to occupancy rights of a class inferior to that specifically claimed in the plaint, it being the duty of the Court, in a case such as the present, either to return the plaint for amendment or to amend it itself under section 53, Civil Procedure Code, proviso, and to thereafter frame an issue which should cover the other clauses of section 5 and sections 6 and 8 as well.

Held, further, that the fact that the Collector had had to decide the appeal without being able to examine the record would alone have been a sufficient cause for a remand. CHINGA v. MANGAT RAM. 3 P R 1893 Rev.

154. Punjab Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887), sections 5 (1) (c) and 8—Tenant not living within the estate or village where the land is situate—Under what circumstances occupancy rights can be granted under section 8.

Held, that a claim for occupancy rights under section 5 (1) (c) cannot be sustained unless the tenant has his abode within the limits of the village or estate and that section 8 cannot be used to bolster up a claim which has failed under section 5, otherwise the words "on any other ground than the grounds specified" in sections 5 to 7 of the Act would have no significance. The question under what circumstances occupancy rights under section 8 can be granted to a tenant, discussed. KHAIRATI v. MANNU KHAN. 6 P R 1900 Rev.

155. Occupancy rights, sale of, by widow—Subsequent birth of a son of the deceased occupancy tenant—Right of landlord to avoid the sale and for possession—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 59 and 60.

In a suit by a landlord to cancel a sale of occupancy rights by a widow who was pregnant at the time of the said sale, and who had given birth to a posthumous son, 7 months after her husband's death, held, that when a posthumous son is born to a deceased occupancy tenant his male lineal descendants fail temporarily only, and the widow's right endures only so long as that failure occurs, and that a son of the deceased occupancy tenant being now in existence, the landlord was not entitled to possession. HANWANTA v. CHOUTH MAL. 3 P R 1901 Rev.

156. Mortgage of—Death of occupancy tenant without heirs—Right of mortgagee as against landlord.

Held, that as the interest of the mortgagee could be no greater or last longer than that of the mortgagor, and that the mortgagor's interest having come wholly to an end by reason of his death without heirs, the mortgagee's interest ceased with it even if the mortgage was made with the landlord's knowledge. NARINDAR SINGH v. LEHNA SINGH. 6 P R 1901 Rev.

157. Occupancy rights—Unauthorised alienation—Acquiescence—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 53 and 56.

The Full Bench ruling of the Chief Court in Shankar Das and others v. Sher Zaman (56 P. R. 1900), alters the law laid down by the same authority in Lehna v. Ganpat and Kaka (115 P. R. 1890), so that a registered mortgage-deed does not now necessarily have priority over an unregistered mortgage-deed relating to the same property. Decisions passed under the law before this alteration was made must be construed according to the law in force at the time. The mortgagee of an occupancy tenant who had gained priority over other mortgagees of the same tenant in the former state of the law having sold his right to the other mortgagees, it was held that though the landlords were entitled to have the sale declared void, the property acquired by the vendor was acquired as against the tenant and the other mortgagees only, and did not give the landlords any right which they would not otherwise have had. As they had acquiesced in the mortgagees, they were not entitled to possession. IBRAHIM v. NATHU.

7 P R 1901 Rev.

158. Occupancy rights—Alluvion and diluvion—Rights of occupancy tenant in submerged land on re-appearance—Custom.

Held, that the general rule in the Punjab is that an occupancy tenant does not lose his right by reason of the land of his holding being submerged. A custom to the contrary may be proved but such a custom being plainly inequitable very strict proof of its existence should be required before it is acted upon.

Sahib Rai v. Khair Shah (19 P. R. 1876), Bakhtawar v. Sultan Ahmad (83 P. R. 1876), Rutta v. Mal Singh (122 P. R. 1876), Sultan Khan v. Syad Muhammad Shah (59 P. R. 1877), Lal Shah v. Karim Bakhsh (96 P. R. 1879), Murid v. Mussammat Ram Devi (127 P. R. 1879), and Raja and another v. Sarfraz and another (152 P. R. 1883) followed. ROSHAN v. POHLO. 8 P R 1901 Rev.

159. Occupancy Right—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, section 6, and Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 6 and 111—Admission by tenant made previous to 1887 that he was merely tenant-at-will.

In a case to contest a notice of ejectment it was proved that at the Regular Settlement, 1858, the ancestors of the tenants were recorded as having occupancy rights in the land now in dispute, but that during the Revised Settlement in 1880 the tenants entered into an agreement with the landlords admitting that they were meer tenants-at-will. Held, that before the passing of the present Tenancy Act (XVI of 1887) it was lawful for tenants to surrender their occupancy rights to the landlord and that the tenants had done so by agreement and that they were thus undoubtedly tenants-at-will at the date of the passing of the present Tenancy Act, section 6 of which did not confer on them a status which they had so surrendered.—Held, also that a mere voluntary admission by a tenant does not operate to deprive him of his right. Revenue Courts, therefore, before refusing to recognise an occupancy right on the ground that the tenant has voluntarily admitted himself to be tenant-at-will should satisfy themselves that there has been an actual and valid agreement to relinquish the right. No. 4 P. R. 1896 Rev. considered and affirmed. RAHIM BAKHSH v. RAHIM BAKHSH.

10 P R 1901 Rev.

160. *Occupancy rights—Alienation of rights of occupancy—Sale by tenant to landlord—*Locus standi of reversioners—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 53, 56.

Held, that a reversioner of an occupancy tenant cannot impugn a sale of occupancy rights entered into by a tenant in favour of one of his landlords.

Didaru v. Bawa (31 P. R. 1896, F. B.), Karam Din v. Sharaf Din (89 P. R. 1898, F. B.), Nihala v. Ishar Singh (68 P. R. 1894), and Puran Chand v. Mohesha (68 P. R 1900), referred to. NIHAL SINGH v. KHAZAN SINGH AND ANOTHER. 24 P R 1902 F. B.

161. Occupancy rights—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 5 (1) (c) as amended by Regulation XIII of 1887—Finality of entry in the record of rights of the Hazara District —Rule 60 of the Hazara Settlement Rules —Conflicting enactments—Procedure.

The plaintiff sued to establish rights of occupancy in certain land situated within the Hazara District. The first Court found that although the plaintiff was entered as a tenant-at-will in the record of rights of the Hazara District, he or his father had settled with the founder of the village, and therefore declared him to be an occupancy tenant under section 5 (1) (a) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, as amended by Regulation XIII of 1887. On appeal the Commissioner held that Rule 60 of the Hazara Settlement Rules, by reason of the finality which that rule gives to the Hazara Settlement Record, barred the plaintiff's claim. On revision the Financial Commissioner found that there was a conflict between Rule 60 and Regulation XIII of 1887; that the Rule expressly giving finality to entries affecting the status of tenants was repealed in 1873; and that the Regulation of 1887 made no alteration, as it merely adopted the Hazara Tenancy Law to the Provisions of the new Tenancy Act. He, therefore, held, that where two enactments conflict the latter must prevail, and that the Revenue Courts in Hazara, when determining questions relating to the status of tenants in that district, must be guided by the provisions of Regulation XIII of 1887, and must give to entries in the Hazara Settlement Record no more weight than attaches under section 44 of the Land Revenue Act, to entries in a record of rights or an annual record in other districts of the Province. INAYAT-ULLAH v. ANWAR SHAH.

1 P R 1902 Rev.

162. Occupancy rights—Succession—Joint tenancy—Survivorship—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59.

Held, that as section 59 of the Tenancy Act deals only with the question of succession and does not affect the ordinary rule of survivorship between joint tenants, the right of landlord to claim the extinction of an occupancy right where there are joint tenants does not arise on the death of one of them, as they collectively constitute a single tenant and the right continues to exist in the survivor or survivors. But where the tenancy, though at one time joint, had been partitioned, and the tenants were in fact holding separately when the death occurred, the doctrine of survivorship is inapplicable, and the rules laid down in section 59 of the Tenancy Act must be followed.

Bulunda v. Soondur (57 P. R. 1868), Veer Singh v. Mukkun (36 *P. R.*1870), Ganda Singh v. Gulab Singh (159 P. R. 1879). Prem Singh v. Bhagwana (4 P. R. 1880), Imam Din v. Mussammat Mahabho (180 P. R. 1882), Bhorta v. Bhoru (86 P. R. 1883), Man Singh v. Mussammat Zahro (9 P. R. 1891 Rev.) and Mohru v. Mutsadi (109 P. R. 1884, F. B.), cited. AGAR SINGH v. DHANA. 6 P R 1902 Rev.

163. Occupancy rights—Sale of right of occupancy under section 6 of the Punjab Tenancy Act by landlord in execution of a money decree against the tenant—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 6, 56.

Held, that by section 56 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, rights of occupancy under any other section than section 5 are absolutely protected from attachment and sale in execution of decree, not only against third parties but equally against the tenant's landlord. GANGA RAM v. KARAM DIN. 82 P R 1903

164. Occupancy rights—Mortgage of occupancy rights by way of conditional sale—Effect of Punjab Alienation of Land Act, on suits for declaring such conditional sales absolute—Duty of Civil Court under section 9 (3) of the Act—Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900, sections 2 (3) and 9.

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd

Held, that the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, 1900, applies to bai-bil-wafa transactions regarding occupancy rights. The word "land" as defined in section 2 (3) of the Act includes occupancy rights in land, and therefore in suits for declaring conditional sales of such right absolute brought after that Act came into force, the Civil Courts are bound to refer such cases to the Deputy Commissioner under the provisions of sub-section 3 of section 9 of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act. GAHNA v. SOHAN LAL AND ANOTHER

11 P R 1904

165. Gift of occupancy rights by childless occupancy tenant to nephews in presence of brother—Burden of proof—Brahmans of Aurangabad, tahsil Kharian, Gujrat District.

Found in a suit the parties to which were Brahmans of Aurangabad, tahsil Kharian, Gujrat District, that a gift by a childless proprietor in favour of a nephew in the presence of his own brother was not authorized by custom.

Where a general agricultural custom is found to prevail as regards alienation of proprietary rights the presumption is, unlees the contrary can be shown, that such a custom is also applicable to the occupancy rights. The onus of proving a special custom antagonistic to such a rule rests on the party asserting the existence of such a custom.

Karam Din v. Sharaf Din (89 P. R. 1898, F. B.) Muhammad v. Sharaf-ud-din (8 P. R. 1891), Taju v. Baru (35 P. R. 1892), Hayat Muhammad v. Fazl Ahmad (52 P. R. 1892), Asa Singh v. Hari Singh (61 P. R. 1892), Mussammat Jowai v. Jiwan (79 P. R. 1893), Sukha v. Amira (81 P. R. 1893), and Bir Singh v. Chamila (90 P. R 1893), referred to.

Kesar Singh v. Sundar Singh (59 P. R. 1889), not followed, and Sahib Din v. Amira (16 P. R. 1889), distinguished. HARI CHAND AND ANOTHER v. DHERU AND OTHERS.

12 P R 1904

166. Occupancy rights, acquisition of—Continuous occupation—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1868, section 6 and Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 5—Res judicata.

Held, that the Tenancy Act of 1887 does not confer the status of an occupancy tenant upon a person who was under the old Tenancy Act only a tenant-at-will and had been allowed to continue in possession on a lease (executed before the present Tenancy Act came into force) containing a condition that after the expiry of the period fixed thereby he might be ejected without compensation, notwithstanding the fact that he had been settled by the founders of the village as a cultivator therein and had continuously occupied the land since that date.

Held, also, that the rule of res-judicata does not necessarily apply to claims for occupancy rights where successive suits are brought under the two successive Tenancy Acts.

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

Surta v. Imin-ud-din (2 P. R. 1891, Rev.) Rahim Bakhsh v. Rahim Bakhsh (10 P. R. 1901, Rev.) Roshan Jahan v. Enaet Hussain (W. R. 1864, 83), and Solomon v. Abdul Azeez (I. L R VI Calc. 687), referred to. RAM DITTA v. BHOLA SINGH.

1 P R 1904 Rev.

167. Occupancy right—Transfer of right of occupancy under section 5—Measure of fixing value by the Revenue Officer—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 53.

As the political reasons for keeping certain tribes in possession do not apply in cases between a landlord and a tenant, the method of fixing the value of an occupancy tenant holding under clause (3) of section 53 of the Tenancy Act is not necessarily the same as that of fixing the value of agricultural land in cases of pre-emption. The value to be fixed under section 53 must be the bona fide value of the holding to the tenant at the time when, under clause (2) of the section, he ought to have given notice of his intention to transfer to his landlord.

If the consideration for the transfer is made up of interest which has accumulated in accordance with the terms of a mortgage-deed, this is not of itself a reason for reducing the value to the advantage of the landlord but if the tenant or his transferee has done anything to prejudice the landlord's position, the Revenue Courts may be justified in taking the market price as the measure of value. Sohna and others v. Muhammad Bakhsh (12 P. R. 1901 Rev.), cited and followed. SALIG RAM v. RATTAN DAS. 2 P R 1904 Rev.

168. Occupancy Rights—Acquisition of occupancy rights in joint holding—Continuous occupation of 20 years—Jagirdar—Partition of joint holding by Revenue Court—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1817, section 111—Landlord and tenant—Ejectment—Liability to, on the ground of alteration of the holding from arable to building land—Relief against forfeiture—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 5 (d), 39, 48.

In a suit by a successor in interest of an original Jagirdar who had a joint interest in the muafi with others to contest a notice of ejectment and establishment of his occupancy rights, it was proved that the tenant was a jagirdar within the meaning of section 4 (5) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and that the joint occupation of the land by him and his family has been continuous for a period exceeding 20 years, held, that the plaintiff was entitled to occupancy rights in the land equal to his share in the joint holding under section 5 (1) (d) of the Act. In such cases it is within the competence of a Revenue Court to dispense with an application from a joint tenant under section 111 of the Land Revenue Act and to direct by its decree that a partition shall be effected and that the share of the tenant in which he has been found to have acquired occupancy rights should be marked off and that he should be ejected from the residue. Held, also, following

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

Karm Bakhsh v. Ghulam Muhammad (3 P. R. 1904, Rev.), that where land is let by an occupancy tenant for building purposes in the neighbourhood of a town ejectment is not the proper remedy, but in accordance with the provisions of section 48 of the Tenancy Act the landlord should be compensated in the form of enhanced rent, which should be assessed at the rate of one-third of that payable to the tenant so long as the building exists. DOGAR MAL v. SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL.

4 P R 1904 Rev.

169. Occupancy right—Sale of, without consent of landlord—Acquiescence—Right of tenant under section 5 not less than that of one under section 6—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 5, 53, 55, 60.

In a suit instituted in 1903 by a landlord to set aside a sale made by occupancy tenants holding under section 5 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, on the ground that it had been effected without his previous consent and was therefore void, it appeared that the sale deed was registered on 27th February 1899 and mutation effected in the following April, and that the rents were paid by the alienee after that and accepted by the plaintiff.

Held, that the landlord's conduct and acts amounted to acquiescence and he was estopped from contesting the sale.

Jiwan Singh v. Maharaja Jaggat Singh (1 P. R. 1898, Rev.) and Bakhsk v. Fateh Muhammad (2 P. R. 1898, Rev.) referred to. BHAGA v. KRISHAN DEO. 8 P R 1904 Rev.

170. Occupancy rights—Landlord and tenant—Right of landlord to cut trees on land held by tenant having rights of occupancy.

Held, that a landlord is not entitled to cut down trees on a tenancy without the consent and contrary to the interests of his tenant.

Nikka v. Lukha (95 P. R. 1867), Kalian Das v. Buta (61 P. R 1873), Jani v. Gulam Farid Khan (4 P. R. 1875), Mussammat Gur Devi v. Sondha (61 P. R. 1881), cited and followed. GANGA RAM v. MAHNI.

9 P R 1904 Rev.

171. Occupancy rights—Rights of occupancy tenant in submerged land on re-appearance—Custom—Mauza Pakhiwan, Gurdaspur District.

Found, that by custom of the village Pakhiwan in the Gurdaspur District an occupancy tenant does not lose his right by reason of the land of his holding being submerged and is entitled to claim his rights on the land being again thrown up by the action of the river. DEWA SINGH v. BISHAMBAR DAS. 80 P R 1905

172. Limitation—Irregular transfer of occupancy—Suit by landlord for possession of sale—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 120—Transfer to one of several landlords—Locus standi of other landlord.

to contest such alienation—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 60.

Held, that the period of limitation applicable to a suit under section 60 of the Punjab Tenancy Act for the canceiment of a voidable transfer of a right of occupancy is six years under Article 120 of the second Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877.

Held, also, that an alienation of a right of occupancy by a tenant to one of several landlords does not bind the other landlords whose consent is not obtained. They are entitled to contest such alienation as being invalid by reason of its having been effected without their previous consent. KURIA v. NANAK 7 P R 1905 Rev.

173. Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 9, 57—Mortgage of occupancy rights—Right of mortgagee after death of mortgagor—Right of occupancy cannot be acquired by mere lapse of time.

Held, that the interest of a mortgagee in posssession of occupancy rights ceases with the interest of a mortgagor and that his subsequent occupation, however long it may be, could only be regarded as that of a tenant-at-will.

Mere length of time does not create an occupancy right, as such a right can only be acquired in one of the ways described in the Tenancy Act. SHIB SAHAI v. HIS HIGHNESS MAHARAJA BALBIR SINGH OF FARIDKOT 8 P R 1905 Rev.

174. Grant of, by landowner in ancestral land—Competency of such landowner's heirs to contest his action.

Held, that it is open to a landowner to create occupancy rights in his ancestral land, and that as a general rule it is not open to such landowner's heirs to challenge his action, unless it is shown that the transaction was in reality a sale of the land itself or of the proprietary rights therein. FAQIR MUHAMMAD v. FAZAL MUHAMMAD. 16 P R 1906

175. Sale of occupancy rights to landlord—Suit by mortgagee for possession against the landlord—Legality of sale alleged to have been effected under section 53 of the Tenancy Act, but adjusted out of Court—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 53, 77.

In 1899 an occupancy holding was mortgaged with possession to the plaintiff. In 1901 the tenants caused a notice to be served under clause (2) of section 53 of the Tenancy Act on the landlords intimating their intention of selling their rights.

Thereupon one of the landlords applied to the Revenue Officer under clause (3) of that section to have the value of the land fixed. Subsequently the parties determined the value by mutual agreement, applied a portion of the amount so agreed on in payment of another mortgage, paid a portion to the tenants, balance being left in deposit with the landlord for payment to plaintiff. On being informed of the above arrangement the Revenue Officer passed an order as if under clause (6) of that section.

The plaintiff then instituted the present suit for possession of the land on the allegation that section 53 did not authorise an adjustment out of Court. The defence contended that the suit was not cognizable by a Civil Court and that the provisions of section 53 had been fully complied with.

Held, that as the plaintiff was not a tenant under the landlord and as his suit was for the restoration of his possession as mortgagee against a trespasser, it was cognizable by the Civil and not by the Revenue Court.

Held, further, that the provisions of section 53 had been ignored, inasmuch as the Revenue Officer did not fix the price himself, nor make the landlord deposit it with him, nor act under clause (6) of the section, and, therefore, the right of occupancy was not extinct and the plaintiff was entitled to the relief claimed. BHAG MAL v. PIR BAKHSH. 32 P R 1906

176. Occupancy rights—Right of a sister of a deceased tenant subject to Muhammadan Law to succeed to a share—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59.

In a suit where the question before the Chief Court was whether the plaintiff (a sister of the deceased proprietor) was entitled under Muhammadan Law to succeed, as against the deceased's widow, to a share in certain trees growing in garden land in which the deceased possessed occupancy rights, held, that the right of the deceased in the trees was inseparable from the right he possessed in the land in which the trees were growing, and that the succession to the former must go with the succession to the latter.

Held, therefore, that under section 59 of Act XVI of 1887, the deceased's widow was alone entitled in the absence of male lineal descendants of the deceased, to succeed not only to the land but also to the trees growing therein. WALI MUHAMMAD v. MARIAM BI. 52 P R 1906

177. Occupancy rights—Succession to—Presumption from previous joint occupation—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59—Judgment—Admissibility of, not interpartes —Evidence Act, 1872, section 13.

In a dispute as to the succession to occupancy rights between the proprietary body and the collateral heirs of the last occupancy tenant, the plaintiff's contention was that the land had been acquired by the tenant himself and not inherited by him from a common ancestor, and relied on the judgment of a case between the widow of the last tenant and the present defendants. It appeared that at the summary settlement the deceased tenant was entered as an owner jointly with his brothers, but at the time of the first regular settlement he was alone recorded as an occupancy tenant.

Held, that under the circumstances there was a strong presumption that the land in dispute held by the tenant at the time of regular settlement and of which he was recorded a maurusi was inherited by him from his father and that therefore the defendants, who were his collateral heirs, had a better claim than the plaintiffs.

Held, also, that the judgment in the former litigation in which the present plaintiffs were not parties was not relevant either under section 13 or any other section of the Evidence Act, as there was no question as to the existence of a right or custom, but a simple question of fact as to whether the property was held by the father of the last tenant.

Paltu v. Muhammad Hussain (62 P. R. 1882 Neamat Ali v. Gooroo Das (22 W. R. 365) and Gajoo Lal v. Fateh Lal (I. L. R. VI Calc. 171) referred to. SOBHA SINGH v. NAND SINGH. 56 P R 1906

178. Occupancy rights—Succession to—An associate of a sonless adopted son has no right in preference to a male collateral relative—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59.

In a dispute to the succession to occupancy rights between the brothers of an adopted son who were formally associated by the latter with him in the tenancy and the collateral heirs of the adoptive father descended from the original holder of the land, it appeared that by virtue of the custom of the tribe applicable as regards succession to proprietary rights the plaintiffs alone were entitled to succeed.

Held that the mere formal association by the adopted son who died sonless gives no right of succession under section 59 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, to the brother of the adopted son in presence of the near male agnates of the deceased's adoptive father, and that therefore the latter alone were entitled to succeed to the land inherited from the adopting father. SAIDA v. ISMAIL. 76 P R 1907

179. Custom—Alienation—Alienation of occupancy rights—Right of reversioner to restrain such alienation—Burden of proof—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59.

Held, by the Full Bench that, where, in a suit by a collateral of an occupancy tenant to obtain a declaration that a certain alienation by an occupancy tenant of his occupancy rights would not bind his reversionary interests, it is proved that the plaintiff was entitled to succeed to occupancy rights on the death of the alienor and that had the subject-matter in question been a proprietary right instead of a right of occupancy he could have maintained the suit, the onus of proving a special custom that the plaintiff was not competent to maintain his suit will lie on the person asserting the existence of such a custom. ABDULLA v. ALLAH DAD. 93 P R 1907 F. B.

180. Occupancy rights—Succession to—Common ancestor not occupying land—Entry in Wajib-ul-arz overriding provisions of law—Agreement—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 111, 112.

Held that under sections 111 and 112 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, an entry in a record-of-rights prior to 1871 providing rules overriding the provisions of law with respect to succession to land in which a right of occupancy subsist should be deemed to be an agreement and enforced as such notwithstanding the restrictions contained in proviso to section 59. PURAN v. MAMUN.

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

130 P R 1907

181. Occupancy rights—Acquisition of, by the representative of one founder against another—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 5 (1) (c) 10.

Held that the representatives of a member of the original proprietary body who was one of the founders of the village, cannot acquire occupancy rights under clause (c) of section 5 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, against another founder. HIRA v. BUDHA. 1 P R 1907 Rev.

182. Occupancy rights—Succession to—Right of a head of a religious institution to succeed in his representative capacity—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59.

Held that where occupancy rights belong to a religious institution the chela of the last incumbent who has become mahant of the institution is entitled to succeed to them in his representative capacity as head of such institution. SHER SINGH v. SAYA RAM DAS. 2 P R 1907 Rev.

183. Occupancy rights—Sale of, without consent of landlord—Acquiescence—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 53, 60

Held that acquiescence on the part of a landlord in an alienation of occupancy rights made in contravention of the provisions of the Tenancy Act cannot be inferred from the mere fact that the landlord omitted to sue for the cancelment of such transfer for fifteen months after the mutation was effected. MOHAR SINGH v. JHANDA SINGH.

3 P R 1907 Rev.

184. Occupancy rights—Succession to, acquired under the Government Tenants Act. (Punjab), 1893—Applicability of Punjab Tenancy, Act, 1887, to such rights.

Held that in matters of succession special tenancies created by Act III of 1893 are governed by the provisions of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. SAHIB ZADA v. JAWAYA.

14 P R 1908

185. Occupancy rights—Resumption of—Suit by landlord for, on the death of the widow of a deceased tenant—Competency of person holding under widow to plead adverse possession.

Held that in a suit to resume land held on an occupancy tenure, instituted immediately after the death of the widow of the tenant, it is not competent for the person holding under the widow as her successor to set up adverse possession, based on mutation of names effected in his favour during the widow's lifetime, which had been unsuccessfully objected to by the predecessors in title of the plaintiffs, or subsequent long and uninterrupted enjoyment of the tenure. The landlords were not bound to sue until after the widow's death as her occupancy rights could have been successfully pleaded against a suit for possession, and mere lapse of time does not ipso facto create a right of adverse possession. GANDA SINGH v. KAIM KHAN. 60 P R 1908

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

186. Occupancy rights—Succession to occupancy rights on the death of a tenant in common—Survivorship—" Occupied the land" —Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59.

Held that where by a mortgage deed effected in favour of several persons, the shares of such mortgagees are definitely and separately specified the mortgagees do not take as joint tenants but as tenants in common.

Semble : The expression "occupied the land" as used in section 59 of Act XVI of 1887 means actually occupied the land. The mere constructive possession of a joint tenant would not amount to such occupation. KAHN SINGH v. HARDIT SINGH. 100 P R 1908

187. Occupancy rights—Succession to—Presumptiion from long occupation—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 59.

Held that in a case of succession to right of occupancy by the collateral heirs of the last occupancy tenant where it is shown that the father of the deceased tenant who was regarded in the annual papers as a hereditary cultivator had been in possession of the holding for fifty years, the presumption might be drawn that it had descended to the father from the grandfather. SIPADAR KHAN v. KADHERU. 101 P R 1908

188. Mafi—Resumption of mafi—Settlement made with heir of Mafidar—Rights of heir—Occupancy rights—Acquisition of occupancy rights by tenants who were some of the joint owners of the holding as against such heir—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 5 (1) (b).

Held that when mafi land is on resumption settled with an heir of the mafidar, he is entitled to receive the landlord's profits in the land and to eject the tenants unless they can prove that they have acquired a right of occupancy, and the mere fact that the land is a portion of the village common land and that the tenants are some of the members of the proprietary body does not give them rights of occupancy under section 5 (1) (b) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887. KARTAR SINGH v. PURAN.

3 P R 1908 Rev.

189. Occupancy rights—Alienation of occupancy rights—Right of reversioner to contest alienation even after it had been successfully contested by the landlord—Custom—Alienation—Gift of occupancy rights to daughter in presence of near male collaterals—Chimas of mauza Bhama Kalan in the Lahore District—Burden of proof.

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—contd.

Held, that a reversioner is not debarred from suing to protect his reversionary interest against an alienation of occupancy rights, merely because such alienation has also been challenged by the landlord as an invalid alienation. The latter, even if successful, cannot on the death of the alienor step in and claim the holding, if there is a reversioner entitled to succeed under section 59 of the Act.

Held also, that in matters relating to alienation of ancestral landed property the Chimas of mauza Bhama Kalan, who have for generations past followed agriculture and are solely dependent on land are governed by the general rules of agricultural custom, and the onus of proving the validity of a gift of a share of an occupancy holding by a sonless male proprietor in favour of his daughter rests on the party asserting the existence of such a custom.

Found, that the defendant had failed to prove that the gift was valid by the custom of the parties. BHAG SINGH v. SHARAM SINGH.

38 P R 1909

190. Occupancy rights—Effect of non-cultivation by a minor—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 38.

Held, following 9, P. R. 1910 Rev. (Lakha v. Thakar Dial) that under section 38 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, the occupancy rights of minors are not lost if they fail to manage the cultivation, their minority being a sufficient cause for their failure to cultivate. JIWAN v. DIWAN SINGH. 3 P R 1910

191. Occupancy-holding—Succession—Punjab Tenancy Act, XVI of 1887, section 59 (c)—Entry in Wajib-ul-arz regarding succession of bhaiya karabati—meaning of—Custom—Onus probandi.

Held, that where in the Wajib-ul-arz the occupancy tenants are recorded as stating, that if one of them should die without sons succession should go to bhaiya karabati. Such entry if viewed (1) as a record of custom, cannot be used to override or extend the scope of section 59 (c) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, XVI of 1887, and if viewed (2) as an agreement, should be interpreted in a reasonable way and it is reasonable to suppose that the landlords, if they agreed at all, agreed to the succession of such brothers and karabati only as might be entitled under Tenancy law and custom, and the idea of a right accruing only to descendants of a person who once held the land, is a fundamental idea in the minds of the peasantry.

Held also, that the burden of proof is on the persons claiming occupancy rights, and they must prove that their ancestor once occupied the land. ALLAH DITTA v. ACHHRU MAL. 38 P R 1910

192. Occupancy rights—Mortgage of—In favour of landlord—locus standi of reversioner to impugn the mortgage—Punjab Tenancy Act, XVI of 1887, sections 53 and 58.

OCCUPANCY RIGHTS—concld.

Held, that the principles laid down in 24 P. R. 1902 (F. B.) apply also to mortgages and that a reversioner of an occupancy tenant cannot, therefore, impugn a mortgage of the occupancy rights made by the tenant in favour of his landlord.

31 P. R. 1896 (F. B.) 89 P. R. 1888 (F. B.), 65 P. R 1900 (F. B.), and 24 P. R. 1902 (F. B.), referred to. KARAM ILAHI v. SULTAN ALAM. 73 P R 1911

193. Occupancy tenancy—Alienated—Tenant suing proprietors for possession after latter have had alienation set aside—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts—Punjab Tenancy Act, XVI of 1887, sections 50 and 77 (3) (i)—Exercise of revisional powers by Financial Commissioner.

Held, that an occupancy tenant who has alienated his rights may recover his tenancy from the landlords after the latter have had the alienation declared void and obtained possession from the alienee, and it is no good answer to such a suit that the plaintiff is not able to show that he is no longer bound by the contract of alienation.

Held also, that such a suit by a tenant is one for the Civil Courts and not the Revenue Courts to decide.

Held further, that the Financial Commissioner will not exercise his discretionary powers of revision to correc a defect of jurisdiction unless it resulted in injustice or failure of justice. MAKHAN SINGH v. NANDA SINGH. 1 P R 1911 Rev.

OCCUPATION OF LAND.

—By Person without title.
See ACQUIESCENCE. 53 P R 1878

OCTROI.

1. Breach of contract.
See MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE. 10 P R 1867

2. Article liable to taxation.
See MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE. 49 P R 1868

3. Goods in transit—Bonded warehouse.
See MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE. 31 P R 1876

4. Legality of partnership between octroi lessee and another—Financial Commissioner's Circular No. 10 of 1868.
See MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE. 79 P R 1870

5. Suit far recovery of arrear of octroi by lessee
See MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE. 60 P R 1873 55 P R 1876

6. Rules regarding levy of octroi on government stores—Refund.
See MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE. 97 P R 1882

OFFERINGS.

1. Suit for share of offerings at shrine
See SMALL CAUSE COURT—JURISDICTION OF. 71 P R 1876 84 P R 1892
See SMALL CAUSE COURTS ACT, 1865, SECTION 6. 188 P R 1888

OFFERINGS—concld.

2. Offerings at shrine—Question of title incidentally raised.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT—JURISDICTION OF. 73 P R 1877

OFFICIAL ASSIGNEE.
See INSOLVENCY. 46 P R 1874
See RIGHT TO SUE. 118 P R 1886

OFFICIAL LIQUIDATOR.
See COMPANIES ACT, 1866, SECTION 128. 38 P R 1881

OMISSION OR REFUSAL TO DECIDE PARTICULAR ISSUE.
See RES JUDICATA. 168 P R 1882 104 P R 1883 137 P R 1883

ONLY SON

—Adoption of.
See CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR.
A.—ADOPTION OF COLLATERAL. 43 P R 1886
C.—ADOPTION OF DAUGHTER'S SON OR GRANDSON 162 P R 1883 57 P R 1886
D.—ADOPTION OF SISTER'S SON OR GRANDSON. 57 P R 1881

ONUS PROBANDI.
See BURDEN OF PROOF.

OPIUM ACT (I OF 1878).

1. Lease of shop to defendant by farmer of opium monopoly for retail vend of opium, &c.—Omission by farmer to grant a license to defendant—Suit by farmer for damages caused by defendant abandoning shop leased to him.

In a suit by the farmer of the monopoly of opium for the city of Amritsar and of charas for the district, the plaintiff, who had leased to the defendant a shop in Amritsar, which the defendant gave up after 12 days' possession, claimed damages as stipulated in his written agreement for the loss occasioned to him by the re-lease of the shop. It appeared that the object of the agreement sued upon was the retail vend by the defendant of opium and intoxicating drugs (within the meaning of Act I of 1878) and of charas. This trade could not lawfully be carried on by the defendant except under license from the farmer, a form of which is prescribed in the rules framed by the Government under the Act: the power to grant such license rested with the farmer himself, but it was found as a fact that he never granted a license in the prescribed form.

Held, that as the farmer by his own default omitted to grant the defendant a license authorising him to carry on the trade of retailing opium, and the carrying on of such trade by the defendant without such license was unlawful, he could not recover damages from the defendant for having discontinued carrying on an unlawful trade. GOBIND RAM v. RAHMAN NAIK. 114 P R 1881

2. Farmer of monopoly of sale of drugs appointing agent to sell drugs for him—Validity of agreement made with such agent—License.

OPIUM ACT (I OF 1878)—concld.

An agreement made by the plaintiff, who was the farmer of the monopoly of the sale of drugs, with the defendant as his servant or agent, under which the latter was to sell drugs for the farmer at a particular shop, and be remunerated by a percentage on the proceeds of the sale, the shop still remaining the shop of the farmer who supplied the drugs to the agent for sale there, held, not to be illegal under Act I of 1878 or the rules framed thereunder, as under the above circumstances the defendant required no license from the plaintiff authorising him to sell the drugs, and he could legally receive, and retain possession of, and sell the drugs without such license, his possession and his acts being those of his master or principal. Gobind Ram v. Rahman Naik (No. 114 P. R. 1881), distinguished. GOBIND RAM v KIRPA RAM. 105 P R 1883

ORAL AGREEMENT.

—Substitution of, for Contract in writing.
See EVIDENCE.

ORDER.
See DECREE OR ORDER.

ORDER OF REFERENCE.
See ARBITRATION.

OWNER'S RATE.
See NORTHERN INDIA CANAL AND DRAINAGE ACT, 1873. 88 P R 1885

P.

PACHOTRA.
See under CUSTOM V.—CESSES AND DUES.
—Suit for.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 50 P R 1886

PAGVAND.

—Succession by rule of.
See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION—B. PAGWAND AND CHUNDAWAND, Passim.

PAHI-KASHT TENANT.
See TENANCY ACT, SECTION 9.

"PALAK."
See CUSTOM III.—APPOINTMENT OF HEIR—E. ADOPTION OF STRANGERS. 109 P R 1885

PUNJAB CIVIL CODE.

1. Its force of law.

With regard to proceedings in bankruptcy, the Code acquired the force of law, and nothing relating to bankruptcy that was not found in the Code, had the authority of law: the rules of the Judicial Commissioner of February 1863 had the force of law so far as they were consistent with the Code. IN RE BICK. 64 P R 1867
And RAM CHAND v. GUNGA BISHEN. 37 P R 1871

2. A reference to the recognized authorities to explain the Code in a case of doubt, was intended by the Code. MUSSAMMAT HAFIZAN v. MUSSAMMAT MENDHOO. 7 P R 1869

PUNJAB CIVIL CODE—concld.

3. Held, that, whether the Code altered the law or not, it was a sufficient authority for the purpose of granting a certificate under Act XXVII of 1860, although the Mitakshara and other authorities were opposed to the Code in the particular case. SIRDAR ATMA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT ATAR KOUR. 69 P R 1869

4. Held, by CAMPBELL, J., that the Code was merely an authorized guide to the law, and had not acquired the force of law. MUSSAMMAT UTTUR KOUR v. ATMA SINGH. 47 P R 1870

PARDA-NASHIN WOMEN.

See ESTOPPEL. 169 P R 1882

See ONUS PROBANDI. 149 P R 1882

1. Undue influence—Pardanashin woman —Execution of deed by pardanashin in favour of a person who is in relation of active confidence—Burden of proof—Presumption of a recital in a registered deed as to receipt of consideration—Contract Act, 1872, section 16 —Evidence Act, 1872, section 111*—Suit on bond not legally enforceable—Right to revert to original consideration.*

Plaintiff sued upon a registered bond purporting to have been executed by the defendant, a married pardanashin lady of Delhi. The defendant admitted execution, but pleaded that the bond was without consideration and fictitious for fear of her husband who was addicted to extravagance and waste. It was proved that the defendant was the daughter of plaintiff's maternal uncle, and had been brought up in plaintiff's house and married from there, and that in fact, the plaintiff was the only relation she had on her father's side, that the plaintiff held a position of active confidence with reference to her, as her husband being an unbusiness-like man, she had to call in plaintiff's aid in order to save the family property from being wasted which had been gifted to her by her husband in full ownership. The bond sued upon was executed in plaintiff's house at Hathras, and all the witnesses and persons present at the execution were his servants, defendants, or friends. There was no one to help the defendant with advice or other assistance, her husband with whom she had all along continued to live not being even present Held, that such circumstances were sufficient to modify the ordinary presumption arising out of a recital in a registered bond, " that when a bond is registered " and its execution is admitted by the de- " fendant the onus of proof of want of " consideration and of free consent not having " been given would lie on the party seeking " to get out of its effect," and that the onus of proving good faith, fair dealing, and full and free consent must be laid on the party interested in upholding the transaction, and in the absence of such proof the deed must be declared as not binding on the executant.

PARDA NASHIN WOMEN—concld.

Plaintiff's prayer for an inquiry into the accounts which formed the alleged consideration of the bond and decree thereupon refused under the circumstances. HOTI LAL v. MUSSAMMAT RAM PIARI. 77 P R 1903

2. Maintenance of wife—Pardanashin lady—Personal attendance in Court—Discretion.

Held, that a Magistrate has discretion in the case of an application under section 488, Criminal Procedure Code, to dispense with the personal attendance of the complainant when she is a pardanashin lady. There is nothing in the section which requires the personal attendance of the person in whose favour the order for the maintenance is to be made.

Bishen Das v. Mussammat Nanki (3 P. R. 1893, Cr.), Hildephonsus v. Malone (13 P. R. 1885, Cr.), In the matter of the petition of Faridun-nissa (I. L. R. V All. 92), In the matter of the petition of Basant Bibi (I. L. R. XII All, 69), In the matter of the petition of Din Sarini Debi (I. L. R. XV Calc. 775), Basumoti Adhikarini v. Budram Kalita (I. L. R. XXI Calc. 588), and Nur Mohamed v. Bismulla Jan (I. L. R. XVI Calc 781) referred to. MUSSAMMAT GHULAM RAKIYA v. NIAZ ALI. 19 P R 1803 Cr.

PAROHIT AND JUJMAN.

See under RELIGIOUS INSTITUTIONS.

PARTIES.

See JOINDER OF PARTIES Passim.

See PRE-EMPTION—LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT. 80 P R 1888
134 and 141 P R 1889
29 and 102 P R 1894

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—JOINT FAMILY 91 P R 1887

1. Parties to suit—Representative—Right to sue.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 12 P R 1887
47 P R 1887
87 P R 1887
97 P R 1887
99 P R 1887
9 P R 1889
63 P R 1889
151 P 1890

2. Person who becomes surety for the performance of an orignal decree after the decree has been made is not a party to the suit.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 99 P R 1887

3. Suit for land awarded at partition of whole culturable land of village—Parties—Duty of Appellate Court.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, ORDER I, RULE 9. 5 P R 1892

4. Execution of decree—Application for attachment and sale of property—Property duly attached and deposited with care taker—Disappearance of attached property—

PARTIES—contd.

Right of decree-holder to proceed against person of judgment-debtor.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908 ORDER XXI, RULE 11. 21 P R 1899

5. Suit by widow with life interest to recover from collaterals property of her deceased husband—Legal representative of such widow for the purpose of continuing the suit or appeal on death of widow.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, ORDER XXII, RULE 3. 97 P R 1893

6. Practice procedure—Parties—Death of respondent pending appeal—Application by appellant to have certain person brought on record as deceased's legal representative —Similar application by third party who alleges himself to be deceased's legal representative—Duty of Court.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, ORDER XXII, RULE 4. 66 P R 1894

7. Offer to be bound by oath of other party—Power of next friend to bind.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, ORDER XXXII, RULE 7. 186 P R 1889
18 P R 1891

8. Joinder of respondents on appeal.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, ORDER XLI, RULE 20. 23 P R 1901

9. Non-appearance of, on the day fixed for delivery of judgment

See DISMISSAL OF SUIT. 82 P R 1901

10. Parties to suit agreeing to be bound by the oath of a witness—Refusal of witness to take the oath, effect of—Adjustment of suit —Decision on merits.

See OATHS ACT, 1873, SECTION 8. 31 P R 1888

11. Suit for pre-emption between rival pre-emptors—Necessary parties to such suit.

See PRE-EMPTION—LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT. 29 P R 1894
139 P R 1894
73 P R 1898

JOINDER OF PARTIES. 80 P R 1888

12. Pre-emption—Two persons suing jointly, one alone of whom has the right of pre-emption—Effect of such error on substantive right—Procedure.

See PRE-EMPTION—LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT. 83 P R 1893

13. Common land—Co-sharers.

Where there is no dispute as to the land being shamilat, it is not necessary to make all the co-sharers parties to the suit. WAZIR SINGH v. MEHTAB SINGH. 108 P R 1889

14. All partners of a firm should be made parties to a suit on behalf of the firm. NAUBAT RAI, v. SEWA RAM. 140 P R 1889

15. Parties—Adding parties as plaintiffs—Joint promise to plaintiff and others—Right of plaintiff to sue alone—Cause of action—Non-joinder—Procedure—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 54 (c).

Held, that, on objection taken by the defendant on the ground of non-joinder of a party as plaintiff, at the first hearing, the plaint may be rejected under section 54 (c) without being returned for amendment, if the plaintiff insists on adhering to the allegation that the contract sued on was entered into with him alone ; and that the Appellate Court may dismiss his appeal against the order of rejection without giving him an opportunity to amend his plaint by adding the party who should originally have been added.

Ramsebuk v. Ram Lal Koondoo (I. L. R. VI Calc. 815 and Badri Das v. Jawala Pershad (86 P. R. 1891, F. B.), followed ; Kala Khan v. Sewa Ram (156 P. R. 1889, F. B.), referred to. PHOLU SHAH v. DITTA SINGH. 56 P R 1901

16. Suit by some of the several co-sharers against the trespasser affecting common land—Effect of non-joinder of other co-sharers—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 30—Decree, form of.

Held, that one or several of many co-sharers can sue to prevent invasion of their common property by a mere trespasser, and that in such a case a decree for sole possession or for possession on behalf of other co-sharers should not generally be given, the proper form of decree should be for the restoration of the property to its condition prior to the trespasser's invasion and so preserve the invaded rights which the plaintiff and other co-sharers possessed in the property. RAMZAN ALI v. BASHARAT ALI AND OTHERS.

105 P R 1901

17. Landlord and tenant—Suit for ejectment of tenant—Right of some of the landlords to maintain such suit—Proper parties.

Although for the purposes of ejectment of a tenant from a joint holding the general rule is that all the co-sharers must either act jointly or must obtain partition, yet in a case where the Court is satisfied that the co-sharers who do not sue are for some reasonable cause not in a position to do so, and that the co-sharers who do sue are acting bona-fide in the interests of the absentees as well as in their own, and that the tenants will not be prejudiced, on the merits of the case by the decision of the suit in the absence of some of the landlords, held, that in such a case the general rule need not be applied, especially if it would cause a miscarriage of justice. CHUHAR SINGH v. JHANDA SINGH.

1 P R 1902 Rev.

18. Parties—Non-joinder—Mortgage in name of two members of joint Hindu family—Right of such members to sue alone—Non-joinder of other members.

Held, also, that where a contract is in favour of an individual member of a joint Hindu family, and is taken by the parties to the contract to be such, that member is competent to sue alone, where the contract is not shown to be on behalf of, or for the benefit of, the joint family. SOHNA SHAH AND OTHERS v. DIPA SHAH AND OTHERS. 15 P R 1902

19. Contract by a artner on behalf of the partnership—Right of promisee to sue any or all of the joint promisors—Contract Act, 1872, sections 42, 43, 266.

Held, that in a suit upon a contract made by a partner on behalf of the partnership the promisee can compel all or any one of such partners to perform the whole of the promise, and that non-joinder of a co-promisor is no ground of defence to such a suit. JAE LAL v. SHIB LAL. 37 P R 1902

20. Necessary Parties—Effect of addition of new defendant—Limitation Act, 1877, section 22.

Held, that whereon the objection of the defendant it was found that a necessary party had been omitted without whose presence on the record the suit could not be adjudicated upon, and such party was added after the period of limitation had expired, the suit was barred against all the defendants under section 22 the Limitation Act.

Boydonath Bag v. Garish Chandar Roy (I. L. R. III Calc. 26), Sadulla Khan v. Bhana Mal (58 P. R. 1882), distinguished. Khan Muhammad Shah v. Muhammad Jan (104 P. R 1882), Ram Chand v. Rana (149 P. R. 1889), and Kesar Singh v. Ganga Singh (2 P. R. 1882), referred to. Ramsebuck v. Ram Lal Koondoo (I. L. R. VI Calc. 815), Dallu Ram v. Nibahu Mal (8 P. R. 1886), Pandit Bhawani Sai v. Ganesh Das (65 P. R. 1884), Kasar Singh v. Punjab Singh (66 P. R. 1896), Ramdoyal v. Jum-nenjoy I. L. R. XIV Calc. 791), and Harak Chand v Bhagbut Prosad Singh (I. L. R. XXV Calc. 409), cited. RAM CHAND v. SOBHAN BAKHSH AND ANOTHER. 69 P R 1902

21. Effect of adding a new defendant to suit.

Section 22 of the Limitation Act applies even where a Court of its own motion adds a party to a suit. NABI BAKHSH v. FAKIR MUHAMMAD. 25 P R 1903

22. Misjoinder—Parties—Joinder of plaintiffs—Persons jointly interested in a suit—Claims not antagonistic—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 26, 27, 31.

Certain Jats sued for a declaration that the land in suit was their property alleging that at Settlement the defendants had been wrongly entered as proprietors thereof. Subsequently certain butchers stating themselves to be proprietors of part of the land applied to be made co-plaintiffs. Finally a joint application to the same effect was made by the Jat plaintiffs and the butchers in which it was stated that they owned specified portions of the land. The defence pleaded misjoinder. The objection being overruled, the butchers were added as co-plaintiffs. The plaint was not amended, but fresh pleas were taken and issues framed. After enquiry into the merits the first Court gave a joint decree in plaintiff's favour. On appeal the Divisional Judge considering that the impleading of the butchers as plaintiffs was wholly illegal and improper, and had been effected at the wish and with the consent of the Jat plaintiffs, dismissed the suit.

Held, that, as the rights of Jats and the butchers were not antagonistic and their causes of action were not distinct within the meaning of section 31, Civil Procedure Code, but were common to all of the plaintiffs, and as no inconvenience had been caused to defendants by their joinder which had not in any way prejudiced the defence, the suit was not bad for misjoinder

Semble : Where two sets of plaintiffs having distinct causes of action sue together such action is impliedly forbidden by the second paragraph of section 31 of the Code of Civil Procedure, and the suit is bad for misjoinder, but even in such case it is not just for a Court to dismiss the suit on that ground, the proper course being for the plaint to be returned for amendment so that the plaintiffs might elect which set of plaintiffs should proceed with the suit.

—Fakirapa v. Rudrapa (I. L. R. XVI Bom. 119), Haramoni Dassi v. Hari Charn Chowdari (I. L. R. XXII Calc. 833), Ram Sewak Singh v. Nakched Singh (I. L. R. IV All. 261), Asa Singh v Indar Singh (91 P. R. 1898), and Read v. Brown (L. R. 22 Q. B. D. 128), cited. Joy Gobind Dass v. Gouree-proshad Shaha (7 W. R. 202 , Kalian Rai v. Rattan Ram (I. L. R. XVIII All 306), Mohima Chandra Roy Chowdhri v. Atul Chandra Chakravarti Chowdhri (I. L. R. XXIV Calc. 540), and Lingammal v. Chinna Venkatammal (I. L. R. VI Mad. 239) distinguished. Salima Bibi v. Sheikh Muhammad (I. L. R. XVIII All. 131), dissented from. ALAH BAKHSH v. SADIQ ALI.

38 P R 1903

23 Non-joinder of parties—Effect of objection as to non-joinder not taken in time—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 34.

Held, that objection in respect of non-joinder of parties not raised at the earliest possible opportunity must be deemed to have been waived by the defendant.

Kalu Khan v. Sewa Ram (156 P. R. 1889, F. B.), cited. ANDERSON v. DELHI COTTON MILLS COMPANY, LIMITED. 69 P R 1903

24. Dismissal of suit for default in appearance—Parties to be informed of the place of hearing as well as the date.

Held, that, Courts of Justice when on tour should not dismiss any suit for default in appearance unless they are satisfied that due notice of the exact date and place of hearing was given to the parties. It is essential for every Judicial Officer to acquaint the parties either by an order in Court given in his presence or by notice containing the date and place of hearing. To post a general notice and programme of the tour at head-quarters is not a sufficient notice within the requirements of the Civil Procedure Code.

PARTIES—contd.

Bahala v. Mamraj and others (7 P. R. 1892, Rev.), and Ambya v. Umra and Hassan (45 P. R. 1875), cited. NAND LAL v. DIT RAJ AND OTHERS. 37 P R 1904

25. Review—Review by some only of several defendants—Power of Court to reverse decision as regards persons not parties to the review—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 544, 623.

One Phusa, a Jain Jat, died childless leaving immovable property which in default of heirs reverted to the proprietary body of the village. A., also a Jain Jat of the same village, claimed to be a collateral of the deceased and brought a suit against all the khewatdars of the village for recovery of possession. The suit was decreed. Among the defendants four alone applied for a review of judgment on the ground that they have discovered the pedigree-table of the Settlement of 1863, which conclusively proves that the plaintiff was not a collateral of the deceased proprietor. The other defendants were neither impleaded in the review proceedings nor did they take any steps to become parties to it. After enquiry the Court granted the review and reversed the decree as to the petitioners without disturbing decree as to those defendants who were not parties to the review proceedings. Thereupon the remainder of the khewatdars appealed to the Divisional Judge urging that the claim of the plaintiff should have been dismissed not only as regards the share of the four petitioners but as regards all the defendants. The Divisional Judge accepted this view and dismissed the whole claim.

Held, that the Divisional Judge had no jurisdiction to reverse the decree of the first Court against the appellants, who being no party to the application for review, nor the subsequent proceedings, had no locus standi to appeal to the Divisional Judge.

Section 544, Civil Procedure Code, has no application to applications for reviews; that section applies only to appeals and cannot be applied to reviews by analogy, for there is in effect no analogy between the two.

Poresh Nath Mundul v. Khettri Monee-Debia (20 W. R. 284) and Chinta Monee Paul v. Pearee Mohun Mookerjee (15 W. R. 1, F. B.), distinguished. GULLA v. MOTA AND OTHERS. 47 P R 1904

26. Joinder of parties—Partnership debt—Representative of a deceased partner.

Held, that the representative of a deceased co-partner is a necessary party to an action for the recovery of a partnership debt.

Ram Narain Nursing Dass v. Ram Chunder Jankee Lal (I. L. R XVIII Calc. 86), relied on.

PARTIES—contd.

Gobind Prasad v. Chand Sekhar (I. L. R. IX All. 486), and Whidanatha Ayyar v. Channasami Naik (I. L. R. XVII Mad. 108). dissented from. KISHORE CHAND v. MUSSAMMAT NIHAL DEVI. 70 P R 1904

27. Landlord and tenant—Enhancement of rent—Suit by a majority of joint propretors—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1877, section 24.

Held, that a suit against an occupancy tenant for enhancement of rent brought by the majority of joint proprietors as presenting the proprietary body is maintainable, especially where the minority is indifferent or has not shown any interest in the matter.

As a general rule it is not essential that all the co-sharers must join in such an action

Sharifulla v. Jamal Khan (77 P. R. 1883) and Sube Khan v. Rahmat Ali (1 P. R. 1895, Rev.) referred to. GURDIT SINGH v. GANPAT. 3 P R 1905 Rev.

28. Parties—Suit for account on death of principal—Right of some of several representatives to sue alone—Refusal to join other representatives in the suit—Non-joinder of necessary party, effect of.

A representative of a deceased Hindu widow cannot maintain a suit for rendition of accounts from her agent without making the other legal representatives of the deceased parties to the suit, and in such a case where on objection being taken in time the plaintiff wilfully and deliberately refused to add the other representatives whose non-joinder has been objected to, held, that the suit should be dismissed. RAM SARUP v. MUSSAMMAT RAKHI. 12 P R 1905

29. Parties to contract—Right of third party to sue.

Held, that under the law of contract in India as enunciated by the Indian Contract Act a person, for whose benefit a promise has been made by another person upon a joint consideration moving both from the plaintiff and a third party, is competent to maintain an action against the promisee, especially where the plaintiff appears, from the term of the agreement, to be the person for whose benefit the contract was made.

Tweddle v. Atkinson (30 L. J. Q. B. 265), Re Rotherham Alum Chemical Company (L. R. 25 Ch. D. III), and Price v. Easton (4 B. and A 433), not followed.

Muhammad Sadiq v. Mussammat Sahib Bibi (54 P. R. 1902), Gandy v. Gandy (L. R. 30 Ch. Dn. 57), Touche v. Metropolitan Railway Ware-housing Company (L. R. 6 Ch. 671). In re Empress Engineering Company (L. R. 16 Ch. Dn. 125), Lilly v. Hays (5 A. and E. 548), Venkata Chinnaya Rau Garu v. Venkata Ramaya Garu (I. L. R. IV Mad. 137), and Duttan v. Poole (2 Lev. 210), referred to.

Gregory v. Williams (1 Mer. 582), Page v. Cox (10 Ha. 163), and Murray v. Flavell (L. R. 25 Ch. Dn. 89), followed. DAROPTI v. JASPAT RAI. 49 P R 1905

PARTIES—contd.

30. Cause of action—Joint Hindu family—Suit by the managing member for debt due to the family—Joinder of other members interested in the family as defendants after the period of limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, section 22—Maintainability of suit.

Held, by the Full Bench that when one out of several persons jointly entitled, either as partners, members of a joint Hindu family or otherwise, to sue, bring a suit in his own name within the period of limitation and subsequently after the period of limitation has expired joins those who were entitled to sue with him as defendants, such joinder does not render his suit liable to dismissal by reason of section 22 of the Limitation Act as against the original or real defendants, as that section does not apply where there is no community of interest between the two sets of defendants and the fresh parties are merely joined for the purpose of safeguarding the original defendant.

Roydonath Bag v. Grish Chunder Roy (I. L. R. III Cal. 26), Kale Khan v. Sewa Ram (156 P. R. 1889, F. B.), Guruvayya Gonda v. Dattatraya Anant (I. L. R. XXVIII Bom. 11), approved.

Ram Chand v. Subhan Bakhsh (69 P. R. 1902), Fakera Pasban v. Bibi Azimmunnissa (I. L. R. XXVII Cal. 540), distinguished.

Ramsebuk v. Ram Lal Kundu (I. L. R. VI Cal. 815), Kalidas Kevaldas v. Nathir Bhagwan, (I. L. R. VII Bom. 217), Alagappa Chetti v. Vellian Chetti (I. L. R. XVIII Mad. 33), Anjamuthu Pillai v. Kolandavelu Pillai. (I. L. R. XXIII Mad. 190), and Sadulla Khan. v. Bhana Mal (58 P. R 1882), referred to. LABHU RAM v. KANSHI RAM. 57 P R 1905

31. Striking out names of parties—Power of Court to strike out the name of one of two plaintiffs of its own motion—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 26, 31, 32.

Where two plaintiffs sued on a promissory note, and the right to sue was vested in one, but it was doubtful in which of them, and the defendant applied under section 32 of the Civil Procedure Code to have the name of one of such plaintiffs struck out as having no cause of action against him.

Held, it was not open to the Court under that section of its own motion to strike out the name of the other plaintiff; under such circumstances the proper course would be to keep both plaintiffs on the record, the decree, if any, being passed in favour of both or either as the Court might ultimately determine. NANAK CHAND v. DURANT 9 P R 1905

32. Suit for partnership debt—Representatives of a partner who died pending the suit not necessary parties—Contract Act, 1872, section 45.

Held, that the representatives of a deceased partner are not necessary parties to a suit for the recovery of a debt which accrued due to the partnership in the lifetime of the deceased partner.

PARTIES—contd.

Gobind Prasad v. Chandar Sekhar I. L. R. IX All. 486, Moti Lal v. Ghella Bhai (I. L. R. XVII Bom. 6), Vaidyanatha Ayyar v. Chunasami Naike (I. L. R. XVII Mad. 108), and Devi Das v. Nirpat (I. L. R. XX All 365), cited and followed.

Ram Narain v. Ram Chandar (I. L. R. XVIII Calc. 86), dissented from. MULK RAJ GEORGE KNIGHT. 10 P R 1906

32. Joint Hindu family--Suit by the managing member for debt due to the family—Non-joinder of other members—Procedure.

Held, that in a joint Hindu family the father, though he is the managing member of the family, cannot maintain a suit in his own name alone for a debt due to the family, and in such a case where on objection being taken in time the plaintiff refuses to join the other members of the family whose non-joinder has been objected to the suit must be dismissed. RATTAN CHAND v. RAM PARSHAD. 69 P R 1906

33. Parties—Suit by one of two brothers for money due to them jointly on book account—Addition of other brother as co-plaintiff after period of limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, section 22.

A suit for the recovery of a debt due on a balance struck by the defendant was brought by one of two brothers jointly entitled to the amount due thereon. Upon objection being taken that a necessary party had been omitted the other brother was added as a co-plaintiff, but the claim at the time was barred by limitation.

Held, that as the original agreement or dealings were with both the brothers, they were both necessary parties to the suit and that therefore, under Section 22 of the Limitation Act, the suit was barred by limitation.

Rattan Chand v. Ram Parshad (69 P. R. 1906) followed. MOTAN MAL v. KIRPA MAL. 79 P R 1906

34. Parties—Suit for partnership debt—Suit on a contract entered into with one partner—Right of such partner to sue alone—Contract Act, 1872, sections 44, 45

Held, that a partner with whom personally a contract has been made is competent to maintain a suit upon that contract in his own name without joining his co-partners as plaintiffs. MEHR SINGH v. CHELA RAM. 127 P R 1906

35. Pre-emption—Suit for pre-emption—Assignment by vendee pendente lite—Addition of assignees as co-defendant after period of limitation—Limitation.

The plaintiff brought an action to enforce a right of pre-emption within the period of limitation prescribed by law. The defendant-vendee assigned over his interest to a third party after the institution of the suit. On the application of the plaintiff, after the period of limitation had expired, the Court ordered the assignee to be impleaded as a co-defendant. Thereupon the defence pleaded limitation.

PARTIES—contd.

Held that the suit was not barred by limitation in consequence sf the joinder of the assignee. The provisions of Section 22 of the Limitation Act do not apply when the original suit is continued against the added defendant who derives his title from the original defendant by an assignment pending the suit. FATTEH MUHAMMAD v. SAID AHMED. 3 P R 1907

36. Striking out name of parties—Power of Court to strike out the name of a co-defendant after the first hearing—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 32.

Held, that it is not open to a Court, under section 32 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882, to strike out in any case the name of a co-defendant after the first hearing of the suit.

Damodar Das v. Gokal Chand (I. L. R. VII All. 72, F. B. followed). FATEH ALI v. NIZAM DIN. 71 P R 1907

37. Pre-emption—Assignment of property by vendee—Suit by pre-emptor against vendee alone subsequent to the said assignment—Parties—Pre-emptor bound to implead transferee or to institute fresh suit against him—Limitation for such action—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 10.

Held that where the subject matter of a pre-emption suit has been assigned by the original vendee before the pre-emptor had instituted his suit the latter is not entitled to recover the property from the transferee on the strength of a decree he obtains against the vendee alone. In order to obtain the property from the transferee he is bound either to implead the latter as a party to his original pre-emption suit or to institute a fresh suit within the period of limitation prescribed in article 10 of the Second Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877. RAUSHAN v. MAKHAN. 106 P R 1907

38. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 368—Death of one of several defendants—Application for substituiion—Sufficient cause for not applying within prescribed period—Limitation Act, 1877, section 5.

Held, that ignorance of defendant's death is sometimes sufficient cause for not applying for legal representatives to be brought on the record in the place of the deceased within the period prescribed therefor and a plaintiff can successfully plead his ignorance of the fact as a justification for such delay where defendants are numerous and live in a different village from plaintiff. DADU v KADU. 113 P R 1907

39. Parties—Joint Hindu family—Suit by the Managing member for debt due to the family—Objection as to non-joinder—Joinder of other members after period of limitation—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 27.

A suit was brought by the managing members of a joint Hindu family in the name of their firm for a debt due to the ancestral business. Objection being taken on the ground of non-joinder of other members of the family several of whom were minors, the plaintiffs at once admitted their mistake and the members so omitted applied at once to be joined as plaintiffs.

PARTIES—concld.

Held that all the members being comprised in the designation of the firm, the omission should have been regarded as due to a bona fide mistake and that under such circumstances the Court was bound to add, under section 27 of the Civil Procedure Code the other members of the family as plaintiffs.

In cases where action is taken under section 27 the period of limitation counts from the date when the plaint is first presented to the Court. BEHARI LAL v. RAM CHAND. 149 P R 1907

40 Mortgage—Suit for sale of property copmrised in a mortgage—Necessary parties—Non-joinder of—Effect of decree when all necessary parties were not before Court—Transfer of Property Act, 1882, section 85.

Held that in an action by a prior incumbrancer for sale of property comprised in a mortgage all subsequent incumbrancers are necessary parties provided that the plaintiff had notice of their interest in the security and the non-joinder of a subsequent incumbrancer in possession of the subject-matter is fatal and renders the decree thus obtained against the mortgagor void as against both the property and the puisne mortgagee. HUKAM CHAND v. KARAM CHAND. 64 P R 1908

41. Suit for recovery of a debt due to a Joint Hindu Family—Joinder of a co-parcener as defendant after the period of limitation.

See INDIAN LIMITATION ACT, 1877 (4), SECTION 22. 20 P R 1909

42. To suit for damages for breach of betrothal—Contract made for benefit of minor.

See BETROTHAL—CONTRACT. 83 P R 1909

43. Transfer of occupancy rights by widow—Suit by landlord against the vendor and vendee for dispossession of the vendee—Reversioners of the widow's deceased husband cannot be added as plantiffs.

See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1887 (3). 3 P R 1910 Rev.

PARTIES TO SUIT.

See JOINDER OF PARTIES.

PARTITION.

See HINDU LAW, PARTITION.

1. Son's right to enforce.
See CUSTOM VIII—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION (c) SUCCESSION OF SONS AND GRANDSONS. 113 P R 1886

2. Widow's right to separate possession.
See CUSTOM VIII—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION.—H. SUCCESSION OF WIDOWS. 65 P R 1881
104 P R 1881

3. Separation of interests—Evidence of partition
See HINDU LAW, UNDIVIDED FAMILY. 136 P R 1882
13 P R 1883

PARTITION—contd.

4 Presumption—Partial disruption.
See HINDU LAW, UNDIVIDED FAMILY.
143 P R 1882
86 P R 1886

—Suit for—Jurisdiction.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL COURT.
92 P R 1881
16 P R 1882
131 P R 1882
125 P R 1883
70 P R 1884
24 P R 1885
11 P R 1885
1 P R 1883 Rev.

5. Provision for, in Wajib-ul-arz by mutual consent of proprietors or by order of competent authority (ba hukm Sirkar—Suit for cancellation of such condition.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 100 P R 1884

6. Suit by joint owner for partition of immovable property in one district—Subsequent suit for partition of property in second district.
See SPLITTING CAUSE OF ACTION.
162 P R 1884

7. Suit to set aside award of arbitrators appointed by Revenue Officer in partition proceedings—Allegation of fraud, but no dispute as to title.
See ARBITRATION 25 P R 1898

8. Date of cause of action in suit for partition—Suit against several persons each interested in part of the property.
See CAUSE OF ACTION. 79 P R 1899

9. Decree for partition of estate—Partition referred to Collector—Power of Civil Courts to interfere.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 54. 73 P R 1889

10. Decree for—Omission to specify particular properties decreed—Power of executing Court to determine such qrestion.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, ORDER XXVI, RULE 13.
31 P R 1887

11. Commission to make partition after disposal of the suit—Irregularity in procedure--Estoppel of party acquiescing.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, ORDER XXVI, RULE 13.
124 P R 1893

12. Order fixing plaintiff's share in suit for partition and directing partition—"Decree."
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, ORDER XXVI, RULE 19.
37 P R 1896

13. Muafi land held by ala-lambardar by virtue of his office is not precluded from being brought into partition.
See COMMON LAND.
15 P R 1892 Rev.

14. Son's right to enforce in father's life-time.
See CUSTOM VIII—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION. C.—SUCCESSION OF SONS AND GRANDSONS.
79 P R 1891

15. By proprietor of two villages between his sons and grandsons—Right of the branch of the family settled in village A. to succeed

PARTITION—contd.

jointly with those settled in village B. to land of one son dying without heirs in village B.
See CUSTOM VIII.—MAINTENANCE AND SUCCESSION. C.—SUCCESSION OF SONS AND GRANDSONS.
143 P R 1888

16. Proof of partition of joint ancestral property.
See HINDU LAW—ALIENATION.
103 P R 1894

17. Principles governing question whether a partition of joint undivided Hindu family has taken place.
See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY.
2 P R 1892

18. Suit on behalf of minor for partition of joint family property.
See HINDU LAW—PARTITION.
104 P R 1895

19. Right of widow to share of her deceased husband's estate—Competency to institute partition proceedings.
See HINDU LAW—WIDOW.
60 P R 1895

20. Valuation of suit for.
See JURISDICTION. 110 P R 1888
104 P R 1900

21. Suit for declaration that land was not subject to partition—Jurisdiction.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 39 P R 1892

22. Allegation of error in partition proceedings—Jurisdiction of Civil Court.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 88 P R 1892

23. Partition of agricultural and residential land and house property--Arbitration—Suit to enforce award—Jurisdiction.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 63 P R 1893

24. Suit for declaration of plaintiff's right to a partition of the village common land without consent of defendants—Question of title—Jurisdiction.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 82 P R 1893

25. Suit for possession of land allotted by instrument of partition—Jurisdiction.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 63 P R 1894

26. Suit for possession of land allotted by Revenue Officer on partition to defendants—Jurisdiction.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 118 P R 1894

27. Partition proceedings—Question of title raised before Revenue Officer but not decided--Completion of partition—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain subsequent suit in respect of the said question of title.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 72 P R 1896 F. B.

28. Suit for partition—Revenue Officer referring question of title to Civil Court, but completing partition without awaiting such decision—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain subsequent suit regarding such question of title.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 61 P R 1897 F. B.

PARTITION—contd.

29. Suit for partition of joint family property--Participation in profits.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1859, SECTION 1.
142 P R 1890

30. Lands specifically mortgaged allotted on partition to co-sharers of mortgagor—Liability to mortgage lien of lands allotted to mortgagor.
See MORTGAGE—CONSTRUCTION.
101 P R 1894

31. Liability to partition of acquisitions by members of undivided Muhammadan family.
See MUHAMMADAN LAW,—JOINT FAMILY.
91 P R 1887

32. Application by majority of joint owners for partition—Objections by remaining joint owners and occupancy tenants—Discretion of Revenue Officer.
See OCCUPANCY RIGHTS.
1 P R 1895 Rev.

33. Suit for partition of a portion only of joint ancestral property.
See RIGHT TO SUE. 77 P R 1887

34 Temporary injunction to restrain partition proceedings in Revenue Court.
See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, SECTION 54.
57 P R 1899

35. Order declaring the right of parties and the property to be partitioned in a partition suit—Omission to appeal from such order—Effect of, as regards appeal from final decree—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 396.
See APPEAL, CIVIL. 49 P R 1902

36. Partition of shamilat-deh including the land which had been assigned to an ala lambardar in virtue of his office—Compensation for disturbance or improvements—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, sections 69, 72.
See COMMON LAND.
9 P R 1902 Rev.

37. Suit for declaration as to principle of division—Question of title—Punjab Land. Revenue Act, 1887, sections 116, 117.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 99 P R 1905

38. Mortgage of undivided property by a joint owner—Partition—Remedy of mortgagee.
See MORTGAGE. 2 P R 1906

39. To establish exemption from partition of village common land on the ground that all the residents are entitled to graze their cattle over it.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 144 P R 1907

40. Question relating to enforcement of entry in Wajib-ul-arz—" Question of title" or " mode of making the partition "—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 116, 117, 158.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 4 P R 1908

41. Suit for partition of portion of common Land.
See COMMON LAND. 32 P R 1908

42. Suit for—Preliminary order under section 215 A, Civil Procedure Code, 1882—Appeal—Court-fees on.
See COURT-FEES ACT, 1870, SECTION 7 (iv) (b). 150 P R 1908

PARTITION—contd.

43. Joint Hindu Family.

Where one co-partner separates from the others, there is no presumption that the others remain joint.

See HINDU FAMILY. 97 P R 1910

44. Where partition had been effected in 1853, but not according to the prescribed rules, and was at the time objected to by defendant, the Chief Court refused to accept it as final. SURFURAZ KHAN v. EEDDOO KHAN. 53 P R 1866

45. In a suit between Muhammadans, held, that a son could not force his father to a partition on the gronnd that the latter was effecting an alienation contrary to custom; a suit for partition was not the legitimate way to contest the alienation. PHULLEE KHAN v. FUZL KHAN.

1 P R 1867

46. Partition of the common land of a village may be made with the consent of the majority of khewatdars notwithstanding that the wajib-ul-arz stipulates for a general consent before partition. But if the extent of the shares be disputed, this point must be decided in a regular suit, before the partition can take place. SULLIMAN v. BULLUNDA. 17 P R 1867

47. Common land—Division.

The majority of proprietors of a village, in terms of the Settlement paper, applied for division of the common land; the minority resisted the division on the ground that they had reclaimed and planted out a large portion of the common, and should not now be disturbed.

Held, that the majority had a right to the division of the common, that the objectors had no right to plant trees in it, and that the utmost they could expect was to be maintained, in the division, as far as possible in the occupancy of the land they had planted out. NUTHOOA v. SOBHA. 8 P R 1868 Rev

48. Proprietors and tenants—Length of possession by defendant—Non-payment of revenue through plaintiff.

In a suit for revenue, defendants having been for many years in possession without any recognition of plaintiffs' ownership or any complaint of encroachment on the part of the latter; and the evidence of the land having been appropriated to the plaintiffs' pana who relied upon informal butwara proceedings, being imperfect; and it being admitted that for many years the revenue was distributed by a general rate on the shamilat as undivided, and that the amount so assessed was not paid by defendants through plaintiffs; Held, that there was insufficient proof that the land fell to the plaintiffs' pana under the butwara, and that the relationship of proprietors and tenants between the parties was not established. SOOLUKHA v. TOTA. 20 P R 1869

49. Shamilat—Private partition.

PARTITION—contd.

A private partition of the shamilat made by the mutual consent of all concerned has the same effect as the ordinary imperfect partition conducted by the Revenue authorities; and there cannot be a subsequent partition in the absence of any agreement between the parties to that effect, altering the distribution of land previously divided among the proprietors by complete private partition. The main distinction between private and imperfect partitions and a regular butwara under Regulation XIX of 1814 or Act XIX of 1863, where this Regulation or Act is in vogue, consists in the maintenance of the joint responsibility of the whole village for the Government revenue by the former, while it is put an end to by the latter. WALI v. GAMAN. 66 P R 1869

50. Hindu Law—Widow's claim to partition in her own right and as representative of deceased son.

The plaintiff, a widow of Futteh Sing, sued the son and grandson of Futteh Sing by another wife, for a third of the deceased's estate, averring that the defendants separated from Futteh Singh in his lifetime and obtained two-thirds of his land, that Futteh retained for himself the remaining one-third, and afterwards bestowed it on plaintiff's son, who disappeared two years before suit, and was believed to be dead. When the action was brought, it was found as a fact that the family was joint and the land undivided. Held, that the plaintiff could not sue for a partition either as the representative of her missing son or in her own right. ATTUR SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT PURTAPEE. 93 P R 1869

51. Widow's claim to partition in joint estate.

A widow holding a share of joint undivided land for life, whether by law or custom, cannot enforce partition; this can only be claimed by proprietors with absolute rights. TALEWUND KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT KHANZADEE (No. 5 P. R. 1868),; and KAHN SING v. MUSSAMMAT PREM KOUR.

28 P R 1870

52. Division—Imperfect puttidari tenure—Reserving a portion of the land from division.

In a suit for partition of the shamilat waste land of an imperfect puttidari village, —held, that the division should be allowed, as there would remain other land incapable of being divided and the tenure of the village would not be altered; but that if there were no such other land, partition should still be allowed, a portion only being reserved from division and left in common. MIN v. BELA.

1 P R 1873 Rev

53. Hindu Family—Evidence—Right of Hindu widow to sue for husband's share of divided property—Limitation—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts to make decree for partition

PARTITION—contd.

—Execution—Act VIII of 1859, section 225 —Land Revenue Act.

There may be a division of a joint property without a regular partition by metes and bounds; the question whether there has been a division or not depends upon the intention of the parties (when there is no actual partition by metes and bounds), to be inferred from the instruments (if any) executed by the members of the family and the acts they have done. The conduct of the parties after as well as before the alleged division must be considered in order to arrive at their intention; the conduct of one party may be consistent with jointness, but the conduct of the other party may be wholly inconsistent with a continuance of the previously existing family arrangement. A Hindu widow whose husband might, in consequence of a division, have obtained separate possession of his share in the family property, may sue for the share which vested in her husband in his life-time. To bar the widow's claim, under such circumstances, by limitation, there must be proved 12 years' possession from the time when she asserted her claim and was refused her share, or possession shown to have been adverse to the widow for 12 years. A Civil Court in the Punjab can give a decree in accordance with section 225, Act VIII of 1859, for division of an estate, or for separate possession of a share in an actually undivided estate, paying revenue to Government, when the right to a share or the extent of the share is disputed; the execution of the decree is left to the Revenue Officers by the rules framed under sec. 67 of the Land Revenue Act. Semble; After the making of the decree, all disputes between the parties as to the mode of partition are cognizable by the Revenue Officers only under section 65, Land Revenue Act, and not by the Civil Court.—MUTSADI MAL v. MUSSAMMAT DHAN KOUR.

100 P R 1876

54. Suit by village occupant against village proprietor for division of a courtyard.

The plaintiff, an occupant of the village, sued the defendant, one of the village proprietors, for division of a courtyard in which were two houses, one inhabited by the plaintiff, the other by the defendant. Held, that as plaintiff was not a proprietor of the village, the suit would not lie, and all that he was entitled to was a decree of his right of way and user so long as he occupied the house.—BUTA SINGH v. CHANDAN.

120 P R 1876

55. Partition of a share in joint immovable property owned by Hindus, purchased by a Muhammadan.

R. obtained a decree against one M., a Hindu, in execution of which M.'s eighth share in a haveli was sold by public auction, and purchased by B. K., a Muhammadan. In a suit instituted by B. K. for partition, which was resisted by the remaining sharers in the haveli, who were Hindus, held that B. K. was entitled to partition and possession of the share purchased by him. BAJA KHAN v. BIRJU.

PARTITION—contd.

15 P R 1878

56. Right of widow to partition in a joint estate—Jurisdiction—Civil Court—Act XXXIII of 1871, section 65, Clause 2.

Plaintiff, a widow, on the death of B., her husband's father, in 1872, was recorded as owner of a fifth share in the khata owned by B. and since then had received from defendants, the widow and sons of B., who were recorded as owners of the remaining four shares, a fifth share of the produce of the khata. Defendants having ceased to give plaintiff her fifth share of the produce, she instituted a suit for partition, which was contested by the defendants.

Held, that, as the right to partition was contested, the suit was not barred from the cognizance of the Civil Courts by Clause 2, section 65, of Act XXXIII of 1871.

Held, further, that plaintiff was entitled to partition.

Per FITZPATRICK, J.—Because there had been a separation in interest and right between the parties, notwithstanding that there had been no actual division, and the joint family relationship between them had thus been put an end to.

Per PLOWDEN, J.—Because the plaintiff was equitably entitled to such relief, as being best calculated to secure to her rights which the defendants omitted to recognize in practice. RANJHA v. MUSSAMMAT RAJJI.

22 P R 1878

57. Sale of mango grove by majority of proprietors—Dissent of minority—Suit by purchasers to compel partition of trees.

Where a majority of the proprietary body sold to the plaintiffs the trees standing in a mango grove, which was joint undivided property of all the proprietors, whereupon the plaintiffs brought a suit to compel the dissentient proprietors to partition off their share in the trees.

Held, that the sale passed no interest whatever in the trees of the grove: that the plaintiffs could stand in no better position as against the defendants (the dissentient proprietors) who were no parties to the sale, than their own vendors. That these vendors could not before partition claim any particular trees as their own; and could not have claimed partition of the trees as distinct from the soil on which they stood; and that therefore plaintiffs' suit failed. Anderson v. Taylor (No. 70 P. R. 1866), cited and followed. GUJAR v. SAHAB SINGH.

109 P R 1879

58. Hindu widow—Separate possession of deceased husband's share in joint khata—Partition—Custom.

Plaintiff, a Hindu widow, claimed separate possession of her deceased husband's share in a khata held jointly by him and defendant. It was found that before the death of plaintiff's husband the brothers ceased to be a joint undivided family, and also that no local custom prevailed adverse to the widow's claim.

PARTITION—contd.

Held, upholding the orders of the Lower Courts, that plaintiff was entitled to a decree for separate possession, as there is no general custom prevailing in the Punjab by which the widow of a separate brother is precluded from obtaining separate possession of her husband's share in a joint khata from her husband's brother. NUPA SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT SUBRAI.

116 P R 1879

59. Mahomedan widow—Joint khata—Separate possession—Custom.

Plaintiff, a Muhammadan widow, of the Varayaj tribe, who had inherited the share of her husband (who was one of three brothers in a joint khata with an interest similar to that of a Hindu widow) claimed partition of her share. It was found that the three brothers were separate in cultivation before the husband's death, and it was, moreover, found that there was no local custom which excluded a Mahomedan widow from separate possession of her husband's share in a joint khata.

Held, that plaintiff was entitled to a decree for separate possession of one-third of the land comprised in the joint khata, the khata remaining joint as before, and the widow holding the said lands with a life-interest according to custom.

Nupa Singh v. Mussammat Sobrai (No. 116 P. R. 1879), cited and followed. MUSSAMMAT HUSSAN BIBI v. FATTEH MAHOMMED.

156 P R 1879

60. Common land—Shareholders breaking up waste—Confirmation in possession of such lands—Custom—Partition effected by arbitrators—Power of Court to modify arbitrators' proposals—Act XXXIII of 1871, section 56, Rule 15, and section 23, Rule 13.

Held, by the Financial Commissioner, that in hilly broken country in the Punjab it is the general custom that shareholders who have broken up common waste land retain at partition such cultivated land as their share of culturable waste, if other culturable waste, naturally of equal quality is available to make good the share of shareholders who have not broken up land.

Where a partition, made in accordance with the rules framed under section 65 of the Land Revenue Act, has been effected by arbitrators (see Rule E. II, 15,) the Court has full power to modify the arbitrators' proposals (see Rule C. II, 15 under section 23), SHARFU v MALIK SULTAN MAHOMED.

11 P R 1881 Rev.

61. Trees grown in shamilat—Shareholders—Principle of division.

Held, by the Financial Commissioner, that in a division of shamilat land, land containing trees grown in the shamilat by a shareholder can be awarded to such shareholder though such a principal of division should not be generally followed. WARIS v. DARA.

15 P R 1881 Rev.

PARTITION—contd.

62. Suit by one of two joint-owners of a house—Plea of injury to arise from such partition—Mode of effecting partition.

Where in a suit by one of two joint-owners for partition of a shop and for separate possession by plaintiff of his share, the defendant urged that the plaintiff could not enforce partition of the shop to his injury and the shop was not capable of partition, held that as it was practicable to make a partition of the shop and the plaintiff was legally entitled to have a partition effected, therefore no injury in the legal sense would be caused to the defendant by the partition.

The proper mode of effecting such partition pointed out. Baja Khan v. Birju (No. 15 P. R. 1878), cited. GOBIND v NARAIN DAS.

29 P R 1882

63. Land Revenue Act (XXXIII of 1871), section 19—Power to revise entry as to shamilat in old Settlement—New settlement.

Plaintiffs applied for the partition of certain shamilat land in equal shares according to the old Settlement record, alleging that the land had been rightly recorded shamilat-deh at the last Settlement, but that in the new Settlement the Superintendent had altered the entry, and had ordered the several pieces of the land in dispute to be entered as owned by the patti in the boundaries of which they lay, the result being to give to plantiffs' patti considerably less land than that which fell to defendants' patti. It appeared that no judicial order existed giving the Superintendent authority to make such alteration and that the facts relating to the land were the same as at the last Settlement.

Held, by the Financial Commissioner, that the plaintiffs were entitled to succeed in their claim, as under section 19 of the Land Revenue Act Settlement authorities have no authority to declare lands, which had been recorded as common to the whole village common to either one or the other of the patties into which the village is divided. BHOLA v. KHUSHAL SINGH.

7 P R 1883

64 Possession—Wajib-ul-arz—Mode of carrying out partition.

In a suit for partition, plaintiffs claimed to disturb defendant's possession in and share equally with defendant in three wells sunk by defendant in waste land, and in the land attached to them, which was not cultivated before the wells were sunk, and only became culturable in consequence of the sinking of the said wells. They relied upon para. 11 of the Wajib-ul-arz, which provided that in dividing a holding between the joint sharers thereof, the wells and roads should be kept out of the partition and remain joint, and that with this exception such holdings could be divided without regard to former possession.

Held by the 2nd Financial Commissioner, that the above provision, while it expressly authorised the Revenue authorities to make a partition which should disturb previous possession, did not lay down any rigid rule by virtue of which plaintiffs could claim to be awarded a half share in all the land improved by defendant, or in the wells sunk at defendant's cost and risk ; and that the proper principle to apply in making the partition was to make every allowance for the labour spent by defendant in bringing the wells into cultivation, and to respect his possession as far as possible, allowing him to keep possession of the land improved by him, unless it appeared that land equal in original value could not be awarded to plaintiffs from the rest of the joint holding. RAM JOWAYA v. AMRIT RAM. 9 P R 1885 Rev.

PARTITION—contd.

65. Partition of village common land on application of sharers—Discretionary power of Revenue Courts to order partation.

Where, on the application of the majority of sharers, partition of the village common was ordered by the local authorities and the minority of sharers objected, held by the Financial Commissioner, that the rules relating to partition, issued under the Land Revenue Act, gave a discretionary power to the Revenue Courts to order partition whenever it might be in their opinion advisable to do so, even in cases where a minority only desire partition. SUBA v. DAULAT.

12 P R 1885 Rev.

66. Application by sharer in joint holding for—Jurisdiction of Revenue Court—Rule E. II, 4 of the rules under the Land Revenue Act.

Plaintiffs, as the recorded owners of one-ninth of a joint holding, claimed partition of their share. The Settlement officer disallowed the claim for partition on the ground that the circumstances of the case afforded good grounds for an inference that there was an agreement between the parties that the land jointly owned by them should not be divided. It appeared that defendant had improved the land by sinking wells, &c., and that plaintiffs did not share in the improvement, nor had they any part in the management of, or share in, the mafi, and they received only a part of their share of the produce. On appeal the Settlement Commissioner held that the Settlement officer's order decided matters which should only be decided by a Civil Court, and that before the defendant could successfully oppose the application for partition he must establish, by a suit in the Civil Court, (1) that by agreement or prescription he was entitled to exclusive possession of the jointly owned land, and (2) that by the sinking of wells and other improvements effected by him he was entitled to compensation before partition could take place.

Held, by the Financial Commissioner, that there was no ground on which the defendant could be referred to a suit in the Civil Court. The only grounds on which a Revenue Court can stay proceedings to allow of a civil suit being brought are those set forth in Rule E. II. 4 of the rules under the Land Revenue Act, viz., that the objections put forward by the defendant question the correctness of the entry in the record of rights upon which the shares to be assigned to the parties, or the mode of division to be adopted, may depend. All other objections must, under Rule 6 of the set of rules quoted above, be decided by the Revenue authorities ; and as in this case no objections of the kind described in Rule 4 were preferred, the Settlement officer's order proceeding as it did under Rule 6 was so far in strict conformity with law.

PARTITION—contd.

But held further, that the existence of the alleged agreement was not satisfactorily established, and that the plaintiffs were entitled to partition, provided that they first paid to the defendant fair compensation for their share in the outlay incurred by defendant and his father in sinking wells and making other improvements to the joint holding, such compensation to be fixed after enquiry by arbitrators named by the parties. SALIG RAM v BADHAWA MAL. 3 P R 1886 Rev.

67. Land Revenue Act (XXXIII) of 1871 section 65, Rule 6—Refusal of partition.

In a claim. for partition of a common holding the Settlement Officer (affirming the order of the Settlement Superintendent) directed that partition should take place under certain conditions. On appeal by the defendants, who made no general objection to. partition but attacked the principles and mode of partition as fixed by the Settlement Officer, the Commissioner on the ground of the factious spirit prevailing in the village and the unadvisability of giving "such an opportunity for endless feud and quarrel to the proprietors by accepting any proposition to partition such a small area as 167 acres of culturable land and 162 acres unculturable waste and land under a village site, unless the proprietors were, as they never would be here, agreed as to the mode of partition," and relying on Rule 6 of the partition rules made under section 65 of the Land Revenue Act, disallowed partition altogether.

Held, that the rule relied upon did not contemplate such action as that taken by the Commissioner, the said rule evidently relating to objections taken in limine by some of the parties to the proceedings, and that it was not open to the Commissioner at the then stage of the case to raise of his own motion a general objection of the kind raised by him. JAHANGIR KHAN v. AKBAR KHAN. 8 P R 1887 Rev.

68. Joint holding—Separate possession and enjoyment—Proof of partition.

Held, that the mere fact that each co-sharer in a joint khata has dealt with specific portions thereof is proof that portions of the khata have been separately possessed and enjoyed, but does not amount to proof that the khata has been divided, nor does a purchaser of specific land in such khata become thereby a co-sharer in it. MATU v. HIRDE.

44 P R 1894

69 Village site—Abadi—Suit for partition of village site—Bhayachara village divided into pattis and dheris.

PARTITION—contd.

Plaintiffs, alleging themselves to be owners of a one-third share in the village Phadana, Lahore District, sued for partition of the whole of the village site according to a particular scheme, and based their claim solely on an entry in the Settlement record that "the abadi-deh is shamilat and is divisible hasb rasad khewat." The defendants pleaded that the entry was incorrect ; that the tenure of the village was bhayachara, and that there was no shamilat in the abadi which was divisible. The District Judge, having found that there was no divisible common land of the village in the abadi, gave plaintiffs a decree, in accordance with defendants' admission, for partition solely of any common land within their patti that might be found unoccupied. Plaintiffs appealed to the Divisional Judge who reversed the decree of the lower Court and granted plaintiffs a decree for separation of their share in the shamilat abadi-deh, but did not specify the exact land assigned thereby to plaintiffs. Defendants appealed to the Chief Court, and it was Held that the onus of proving that there was shamilat in the abadi which could be partitioned and that partition thereof was feasible rested upon the plaintiffs, and that they had failed to rebut the statement in the earlier Settlement record that the village site was not liable to partition.

The nature of an ordinary village site as a subject of partition discussed by Benton, J. ISHWAR SINGH v. ATMA SINGH.

117 P R 1894

70. Application for partition—Condition precedent to right to apply—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 111.

Held, that no one even though he may be a "landowner" as defined in clause (2) of section 3 of the Land Revenue Act (XVII of 1887) is entitled to claim partition unless he fulfils one or other of the three conditions (a), (b) or (c) of section 111 of the Act. SHER SINGH v. MULLA SINGH.

9 P R 1895 Rev.

71. Partition—Suit by widow—Discretion of Court—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 3 (2) 111, 115.

A widow with a life-tenure of a share in a joint holding is entitled under sections 3 (2) and 111 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, to apply for partition of her share, but, under section 115, the Revenue Officer has a wide discretion to refuse the application if he is of opinion that there is good and sufficient cause why partition should be disallowed.

Such partition is prima facie undesirable, and should only be allowed when private partition of the shares has been effected during the husband's lifetime, or when the co-sharers are not acting up to their obligations in respect to the widow, so that the due enjoyment by her of her life-interest in her share of the joint holding cannot otherwise be secured. DAN SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT SUKHAN

11 P R 1895 Rev.

PARTITION—contd.

72. Custom—Partition of ancestral property, power of sons to compel—Hindu Rajputs of Naraingarh tahsil, Umballa District.

Found, in a suit the parties to which were Hindu Rajput agriculturists of Naraingarh tahsil, Umballa District, that plaintiff had failed to prove a custom whereby sons can compel a partition of ancestral estate against the will of their father. RAJA RAM v. HANSARI. 105 P R 1895

73. Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 113, 115—Partition of widow's share in joint holding—Right of reversioner to object to such partition being allowed.

When a widow alleges that a private partition of a joint occupancy holding has been effected by her late husband in his lifetime, and applies to the Revenue authorities to have such partition recorded in the mutation register, a reversioner who objects to such partition is entitled to have his objections duly considered before the application is granted.

In such cases, if the widow wishes the alleged partition to be recognized, she must apply for its affirmation under section 123, Punjab Land Revenue Act, and if such application is made, the reversioner must be given an opportunity of making good his objection that the partition in question was not made by the husband during his lifetime. No. 11 P. R. 1895 Rev. approved. GHULAMI v. MUSSAMMAT BANNON.

6 P R 1896 Rev.

74. Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 115, 116 (a), 158 (2) (xvii)—Partition proceedings—" Question of title involved "—Entry in Wajib-ul-arz prohibiting partition—Reference to Civil Court.

The question whether a provision in the Wajib-ul-arz can operate as a permanent prohibition against land of the description of that in suit being partitioned among the proprietors, is not a question of title within the meaning of section 116 (a) of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, but a matter to be determined by the Revenue Officer, who, if he thinks there is good and sufficient cause for disallowing partition, should proceed under section 115 of the Act. TAJA v. TARA CHAND.

11 P R 1896 Rev.

75. Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 13, 112, 116, 118—Application for partition—Plea that holding had been already partitioned privately—Course of appeal—Question " as to property to be divided " or " as to title in the property of which partition is sought "—Entries in Settlement Records.

Plaintiff applied to the Assistant Collector for partition of certain land recorded as jointly held by him and defendants. The latter resisted partition on the ground that the land had already been privately partitioned, though effect to such private partition had not been given in the annual papers. The Assistant Collector prepared a mode of partition for part of the land but refused the application in regard to the balance whereupon plaintiff appealed to the Collector for partition of the rest of the holding. The Collector returned the appeal, and directed it to be presented to the Commissioner, as the dispute concerned " the property to be divided " within the meaning of section 118 (1) and (2) of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887. The Commissioner held that the order of the Collector was wrong, and referred the question of jurisdiction to the Financial Commissioner.

PARTITION—contd.

Held, that the appeal lay to the Collector and not to the Commissioner, the objection that certain land had already been partitioned, though still recorded as jointly held, disputing the correctness of an entry in a record presumed to be true and consequently raising " a question of title " within the meaning of section 116 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887.

The principles which should guide the Courts in such cases explained. MALANG v. MUSSAMMAT NAMITTI. 4 P R 1898 Rev.

76. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 43—Application to Revenue Officer for partition of land—Question of title decided by said officer—Subsequent suit for possession of house—Title to land and house identical—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 117.

In previous partition proceedings relating to certain land and between the parties to the present suit the Revenue Officer, before whom the proceedings were instituted, passed an order under section 117 of the Land Revenue Act, to the effect that he would himself inquire into and determine the question of title that had been raised. Subsequently the present plaintiffs filed an application, upon which they paid the full stamp necessary for a civil suit, but which was not in the form of, or verified as a plaint, and contained no statement of claim beyond a reference to the said order, and a statement that a separate suit would be brought for possession of a house connected with the land. The application was, however, registered in the register of civil suits, the order that it should be so registered and the summons issued being signed by the said officer, who was an Extra Assistant Commissioner, as " Munsif, 1st class." The officer then proceeded under section 117 (2) (b) of the Land Revenue Act, and gave plaintiff a decree in respect of the land, the judgment being signed by him as " Assistant Collector," and the decree as " Munsif, 1st class." Plaintiffs having subsequently sued for possession of the house mentioned in their said application, defendants pleaded that the suit was barred under section 43 of the Civil Procedure Code on the ground that the decree in the partition proceedings had been passed by the Extra Assistant Commissioner, purely in the exercise of his civil powers as a Munsif, 1st class, and that therefore the claim to the house could have been made before him and determined in those proceedings. It was admitted that plaintiffs' title to the land and to the house was the same.

PARTITION—contd.

Held, that the Extra Assistant Commissioner had clearly intended in the partition proceedings to act under section 117 (2) (b) of the Land Revenue Act as a Revenue Officer, and that his jurisdiction was confined to the question of title to the land which alone was the subject of those proceedings.

Held, therefore, that inasmuch as no claim to the house could have been included in the former proceedings, the present suit was not barred under section 43 of the Civil Procedure Code. HAKIM v. NADIM GUL.

30 P R 1898

77. Partition—Right of widow who has succeeded to her husband's interest in joint holding to claim partition—Grant of such prayer by Revenue Officer—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain subsequent suit by co-sharers objecting that widow is by custom not entitled to claim partition—Question as to title "—" Owner " and " Landowner "—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 111, 115, 116, 158,

Held, by the Full Bench, that though a widow who succeeds to her husband's interest in a joint holding on a life tenure and is recorded as a joint owner in the Revenue papers, is entitled, as being " an owner" within the meaning of section 111 of the Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, to apply for partition before a Revenue Officer who has a discretion to either grant or refuse her prayer, it is open to the co-sharers, in the event of her prayer being so granted, to seek relief in the Civil Court on the ground that the widow was by custom not entitled to claim partition, such objection on their part raising a question of title in the land sought to be partitioned and therefore giving the Civil Court jurisdiction to entertain the suit. BUTA v. MUSSAMMAT JIWANI. 82 P R 1898 F. B.

78. Pre-emption—Cause of action—Claim by a co-sharer—Partition of joint holding after sale but before suit, effect of—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12 (a).

The pre-emptive right of a co-sharer of land in joint holding does not subsist after partition at the application of the vendee. KHAN v. MAHANDA AND OTHERS. 32 P R 1902

79. Partition—Joint estate—Mortgagee's right to partition—Jurisdiction of Revenue Court—Procedure—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 111, 115, 117.

Held, that a mortgagee of agricultural land is not as such entitled to claim partition.

Revenue Courts when entertaining application for partition of a mortgagee of agricultural land ought to examine the mortgage-deed, if any, or the record of the oral transaction in the revenue papers, and where the mortgagee alleges custom, the Wajib-ul-arz. If asked to do so by the mortgagee they may also examine the Riwaj-i-am ; but they need not go further than this in inquiring as to whether there is such a custom, and if not satisfied that the mortgagee can claim partition either by the express terms of his mortgage or by custom they should simply reject the claim under section 115 of the Act.

PARTITION—contd.

In such cases it is not the proper procedure to stay proceedings and refer the applicant to a Civil Court under section 117 (1). It is for the mortgagee to prove his claim in a Civil Court, and if he obtains a decree from that Court it is the duty of the Revenue Courts to give effect to such a decree.

Har Dial v. Hakim (11 P. R. 1885 Rev.) followed. Mangli Prasad v. Ishri Prasad (I. L. R. XVIII All. 476), and Ranjha v. Mussammat Rajji (22 P. R. 1878), referred to. HIRA SINGH v. DEVI DITTA.
4 P R 1903 Rev.

80. Partition—Suit to enforce a right to share in joint family property—Valuation for purposes of jurisdiction and Court-fee—Court Fees Act, 1870, section 7 (iv) (b)—Suits Valuation Act, 1870, section 8.

Held, that for purposes of Court-fees in a suit to enforce a right to share in joint family property by partition and for the delivery of the possession to the plaintiff of his share, the value of the suit is the amount at which the plaintiff values his share. In such cases the value as determinable for the computation of Court fees and the value for purposes of jurisdiction are identical.

Boidya Nath Adya v. Makhan Lal Adya (I. L. R. XVII Calc. 680), Balwant Ganesh v. Nana Chintamon (I. L. R. XVIII Bom. 209), and Raghbar Dial v. Salig Ram (104 P. R. 1895), referred to. Bawa Mangal Das v. Mahant Narinjan Das (56 P. R. 1895) and Guruvajamma v. Vankatakrishnama Chetti (I. L. R. XXIV Mad. 34) distinguished. HARI CHAND v. JIWAN MAL. 28 P R 1903

81. Partition of joint holding by Revenue Court—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 111.

In a suit by a successor in interest of an original jagirdar who had a joint interest in the muafi with others to contest a notice of ejectment and establishment of his occupancy rights it was proved that the tenant was a jagirdar within the meaning of section 4 (5) of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, and that the joint occupation of the land by him and his family had been continuous for a period exceeding 20 years, and that under the circumstances of the case the plaintiff was entitled to occupancy rights in the land equal to his share in the joint holding under section 5 (1) (d) of the Act. Held, that in such cases it is within the competence of a Revenue Court to dispense with an application from a joint tenant under section 111 of the Land Revenue Act and to direct by its decree that a partition shall be effected and that the share of the tenant in which he has been found to have acquired occupancy rights should be marked off and that he should be ejected from the residue. DOGAR MAL v. THE SECRETARY OF STATE FOR INDIA IN COUNCIL.
4 P R 1904 Rev.

82. Partition—Suit for partition of joint property by one co-sharer—Right of other co-sharers to obtain possession of shares allotted to them.

Held, that as a decree for partition is a joint declaration of the rights of all the co-sharers interested in the property of which partition is sought, each co-sharer is entitled to obtain possession of the share allotted to him under the decree, whether he may be the plaintiff or a defendant.

Sheikh Khoorshed Hossein v. Nubbee Fatima (I. L. R. III Calc. 551), and Dost Muhammad Khan v. Said Begam (I. L. R. XX All. 81), cited.

Hikmat Ali v. Wali-un-Nissa (I. L. R. XII All. 506), and Murarrao v. Sita Ram (I. L. R. XXIII Bom. 184), referred to. WASDEO v. RUP CHAND. 23 P R 1905

83. Partition—decree in suit for partition—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 396 —Application for effecting partition—Execution of decree—Competency of judgment-debtor on a subsequent application for execution to raise objection on ground that a preceding application was barred—Res judicata—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, articles 178, 179.

In a suit for possession by partition of an undivided three-sixteenths share of a house the Court ordered that the defendants should deliver possession of that share to the plaintiff by allowing a partition wall to be built, but omitted to indicate the exact position of the plaintiff's share in its decree. On 5th October 1893 the plaintiff applied for excution by partition and that application was, on 29th January 1894, dismissed for default of prosecution. On 3rd August 1898 a second application was made for execution, and it was ordered that the Nazir should go to the house and effect a partition by metes and bounds. These he fixed, and reported accordingly. This application, however, was also dismissed on 18th February 1899 for default. On 23rd February 1899 a third application was presented, and an objection was raised by the judgment-debtors that execution of the decree was barred by limitation because the last preceding application for execution had been made more than three years after the dismissal of the application of 5th October 1893.

Held, that the above proceedings of 1893-94 and 1898 for effecting partition were proceedings in the suit itself and not in execution of a decree; that there was no final decree within the meaning of section 396 of the Civil Procedure Code which the Court could execute; and consequently, no decree to which the provisions of the Limitation Act, 1877, could apply.

Dwarka Nath Misser v. Brinda Nath Misser (I. L. R. XXII Calc. 425) and PARTITION—concld.

Latchmanan Chetty v. Rama Nathan Chetty (I. L. R. XXVIII Mad. 127), followed.

Held, further, that if the proceedings could be regarded as proceedings in execution, the application of 3rd August 1898 having been treated as within time and an order for execution, made on it by a Court of competent jurisdiction, after notice to, and without objection by, the judgment-debtors, it was not open to them on a subsequent application for execution to plead that the preceding application of 3rd August 1898 had been barred by limitation.

Mangal Pershad Dichit v. Girja Kant Lahiri (I. L. R. XIII Cal. 51), Manjunath Badrabhat v. Venkatesh Govind Shanbhog (I. L. R. VI Bom. 54), Sheoraj Singh v. Kameshar Nath (I. L. R. XXIV All. 282) and Lakshmanan Chetti v. Kuttoyan Chetti (I. L. R. XXIV Mad. 669), referred to. DURGA DAS v. FAQIR CHAND. 47 P R 1906

84. Partition—Jurisdiction of Civil Court to decide the incompetency of a claimant to apply for partition—Question of title—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, sections 111, 158 (XVII).

Held, that a Civil Court is competent, in connection with a partition case to decide questions of "title" and the question whether a man holds such an interest in a plot of land as entitles him to ask for partition under the Land Revenue Act, is a question of "title." PRABHU v. MAYA.
104 P R 1906

85. Partition—Common land—Right of proprietors to partition land used for tethering cattle.

Held, that village common land used by the co-sharers for tethering cattle is not precluded from being brought into partition. MAKHAN SINGH v. ISHAR SINGH.
136 P R 1906

86. Joint property—Validity of a testamentary disposition of his share by a member of joint Hindu family—Effect of partition by testator before death.

Held that a testamentary disposition of his share of the joint property by a member of an undivided family would not be invalid if the interest of the testator had been separated off by means of a partition before his death. SOHAN LAL v. LABBU RAM
150 P R 1907

87. Partition of joint immovable property—Authority of Courts to give money decree in lieu of share—Partition Act, 1893.

Held, that in a suit for partition of joint immovable property the Court has no authority in the absence of an application under Act IV of 1893 to grant a mere money decree in lieu of a definite share to the claimant. MUKERJI v. ALFRED
36 P R 1909

PARTNERSHIP.

See CONTRACT ACT, SECTION 265.
JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 66 P R 1868
71 P R 1870

1. Power to sue one partner alone for partnership debt.
See DECLARATORY DECREE. 93 P R 1884

2. Partner's power to bind co-partners.
See HINDU LAW—UNDIVIDED FAMILY. 63 P R 1883

3. Suit for account and share of profits.
See JURISDICTION. 71 P R 1881

4. Suit for return of jewels—Plaintiff alleging that jewels were deposited in connection with a partnership which had terminated—Defendant denying dissolution.
See JURISDICTION OF SMALL CAUSE COURT. 35 P R 1886

5. Joint suit by alleged partners in respect of leases made in the names of certain individual members of alleged partnership—Joint undivided Hindu family.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 80. 67 P R 1894

6. Suit for dissolution of partnership and for rendition of accounts—Suit by adopted son of widow of deceased partner.
See HINDU LAW—INHERITANCE. 20 P R 1897

7. Appointment of one member of joint family as partner—All the family not thereby made partners.
See HINDU LAW—JOINT FAMILY. 162 P R 1888

8. Death of one respondent member of insolvent firm pending appeal by creditor—Partial abatement of appeal—Survival of right to sue.
See INSOLVENCY. 69 P R 1888

9. Suit to wind up partnership in land—Co-sharers in agricultural land—Jurisdiction of Court.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 115 P R 1888

10. Partnership or co-ownership—Construction of document.
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17. 51 P R 1898

11. Suit for balance of partnership account.
See SMALL CAUSE COURT ACT, 1887, ARTICLE 29. 92 P R 1889

12. Value of suit—Suit for dissolution of partnership and rendition of accounts—Suits Valuation Act, 1887, sections 8, 11—Course of appeal—Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 39.
See APPEAL III, COURSE OF APPEAL. 58 P R 1902

13. Suit for balance due at dissolution of partnership and the adjustment of partnership account—Absence of express agreement to pay interest—Implied agreement.
See INTEREST. 104 P R 1901

14. Deed of partnership purporting to create right, title or interest in immovable property to be acquired—Registration.
See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17 (b). 89 P R 1903

PARTNERSHIP—contd.

15. Difference between ordinary and hereditary partnership of a joint Hindu family.
See HINDU FAMILY. 97 P R 1910

16. Limitation.
Suit for an account of dissolved partnership and a share in the partnership property and assets governed by article 106, Indian Limitation Act, 1877, and if barred, a claim for a share in specific assets of the partnership acquired within 3 years of institution of suit is equally barred.
See HINDU FAMILY. 97 P R 1910

17. Breach of agreement to enter into partnership—Damages.
Where one party to an agreement to enter into a partnership refuses to carry out the arrangement, the damages claimable by the other party are the profits which plaintiff would have been entitled to had the agreement been carried out. AKULJOO v. HURBHUJ 6 P 1867

18. Accounts—Agency
One partner may be authorised to act for another in the final settlement of accounts preparatory to dissolution of the partnership. It is not absolutely necessary that the former should hold a written authority from the latter so to act, the authority may be given by words or acts—it may even be inferred from silence and acquiescence. SODHA SINGH v. CHIPPUL. 84 P R 1867

19. Liability of partners inter se, and to others.
A. sued his former partners B. and C. for adjustment of accounts, and obtained a decree fixing his share of the profits and losses during the period he was in the firm. Subsequently X. sued the firm for goods supplied during the period A. was partner. A. pleaded non-liability on the ground that his share of the profits and losses had already been fixed judicially.—Held, that as X. was not a party to the first suit he could not be bound by it—and that A. was still liable to X. for goods supplied during the time he was a partner. ROOLDOO MULL v. JOWAHIR. 90 P R 1868

20. General adjustment.
By section XVII, para. 11, Punjab Civil Code, if one partner brought a suit against another, the Court would order a general adjustment of accounts between the parties. This did not apply to joint-proprietors of land, to whom only para. 8 of section XVII, was applicable. HEERA SINGH v. KANAH. 32 P R 1870

21. Partnership account—Suit for contribution—Limitation.
Plaintiff and defendants borrowed money for carrying out a partnership contract. The partnership was dissolved in April 1864, and the lender of the money sued plaintiff, and in June 1865 obtained a decree for the sum lent. More than 6 years after the dissolution of the partnership, plaintiff sued defendants to recover a portion of the money paid under the decree, according to the defendants' partnership share. Held, that the suit was for money due on a partnership account and was therefore barred by limitation. MYA SINGH v. GUNESH DASS. 32 P R 1872

PARTNERSHIP—contd.

22. suit by partner against co-partner for money lent to the firm.
Plaintiffs sued to recover Rs. 1,797, principal and interest, money lent for the purposes of the business to a partnership firm, composed of plaintiffs and defendants, for the purchase and sale of timber. Held, that the suit would not lie, and the plaint ought to have been rejected in the first instance, and that plaintiffs' proper form of suit would have been for a dissolution of the partnership and for an account. PHULA v. SHIB DIAL. 34 P R 1873

23. Agent of firm suing in his own name—Power of attorney to sue executed by one partner without authority of co-partners—Right of one partner to sue for firm—New firm suing upon debt of old firm.

Where an agent holding a power of attorney to sue for a debt due to a firm, sued in his own name, held, that it was immaterial after judgment, as the name of the agent might have been struck out of the plaint and the names of the partners substituted. H. and Co. were a firm trading in Calcutta, and Brookes, one of the partners, gave J. B. a power of attorney under seal authorizing him to sue defendant for a debt due to the firm. The power purported to be given for each of the partners, but Brookes alone signed it, affixing to it the style of the firm, viz. "H. and Co." There was no evidence that Brookes had authority from his co-partners to execute the power of attorney. Held, that as one partner cannot, unless expressly authorized by deed, execute a deed on behalf of his co-partners, the power of attorney was informal, and conferred upon J. B. no authority to sue for the firm; but that the insufficiency of the power was cured by section 350, Civil Procedure Code. Held, also that one partner may sue in the name and on behalf of himself and his co-partners but he does so at the risk of having to indemnify them against costs if they object, or of having the proceedings stayed or the action put an end to by a release given by his co-partners to the defendant. Held, that where a change takes place in the members of a partnership, the new firm can sue upon a promissory note given to the old firm, if the members of the old firm at the time the note was given be joined as parties to the suit and if the new firm have power from the members of the old firm to sue upon the note. HAMILTON v. SHOWERS. 62 P R 1873

24. Suit for profits pending partnership.
Plaintiff lent defendants Rs. 2,000, with which to work contracts on the great Northern State Railway, it being agreed that plaintiff was to receive 6 annas out of each rupee of the profits made by the defendant. The partnership was to continue as long as defendant held a contract on the Railway. In January 1873, plaintiff applied for an account and in June of that year, as defendant had not rendered an account, sued for Rs. 2,936, plaintiff's share of the profits resulting from the railway contracts up to 30th November 1872, or such other sum as might appear due for profits up to that date after examination of defendant's books and papers. In June 1873, the partnership still existed. Held, that the suit did not lie. NAWAB KHAN v. SHEIKH GOLAM AHMAD. 7 P R 1875

25. Suit by member of partnership for account of profits to date of suit—Subsisting partnership.

A suit by a member of a subsisting partnership for an account of profits up to date, in which the plaintiff does not seek a dissolution, does not lie. UMAR BAKHSH v. FAIZULLA. 13 P R 1879

26. Contract Act (IX of 1872), sections 253, 254, 265—Suit for dissolution and winding up of partnership—Form of suit—Dissolution prior to suit.

In a suit for dissolution of partnership, and winding up of the business of the firm under section 265 of the Contract Act, in which it was not alleged that the partnership had been entered into for any fixed term, the lower Courts held that the suit could not be entertained until the partnership had been dissolved by a regular suit under section 254.

Held, reversing the orders of the lower Courts, that the plaintiff by bringing the suit had sufficiently indicated his intention of retiring from the partnership; that such retirement dissolved the partnership under section 253, clause 7 of the Contract Act, and that, therefore, the suit would lie. Bagha v. Noranga (No. 76 P. R. 1876), cited. RULDU MAL v. ARJAN.

12 P R 1881

27. Cause o action—Suit by one partner against another for sum alleged to be realized over his share in the outstandings—Omission to implead all the partners—Suit for an account.

Held, that while a partnership subsists, even though it continues only for the purpose of realizing outstandings, one partner is not entitled to sue another on the ground that the latter has realized more than his own share in the outstandings, especially where there are other members of the firm who are not made parties to the suit. Whatever any partner has realized, has been realized on account of the firm, and it is to the firm and not to individual partners that an account from him is due. An individual partner may sue for an account, and to have the affairs of the partnership wound up, but to such a suit all the members of the firm are necessary parties. PANDIT BHAWANI SAHAI v. GANESH DAS. 65 P R 1884

28. Contract Act (IX of 1872), section 265—Suit to wind up partnership—Power to pass decree against plaintiff in settling accounts—Defendant disclaiming order in his favour.

A plaintiff who brings a case under section 265 of the Contract Act to wind up the affairs of a partnership, virtually submits himself to any decree which the Court may find requisite for the purpose of finally settling the accounts between the partners even to the extent of making an order for payment of money by the plaintiff to the defendant; but a defendant in such a case may disclaim any order being made in his favour and the Court is not bound to make such an order if he does not desire it, especially when there is no fund in Court to be distributed. RAM SARAN v. HAR GOBIND.

65 P R 1888

29. Partnership, dissolution of—Burden of proof—Evidence of dissolution—Evidence Act, 1872, section 109.

Plaintiff sued for a partnership account on the allegations that he and the defendants' grandfather were members of a firm which had been dissolved by the death of the latter a month before the institution of the suit. The defendants were minors, and through their mother and guardian pleaded that the partnership had been dissolved in 1887, and that the claim was barred by time. The Additional District Judge found in defendants' favour on this issue, and dismissed the suit, but this finding was set aside, on appeal, by the Divisional Judge, who remanded the case for re-decision under section 562, Civil Procedure Code, 1882. Defendants appealed to the Chief Court, and proved that (i) the books and accounts of the partnership continued only up to 1887, and that there was nothing to indicate that the business was subsequently continued and (ii) for the last eight years the business of the shop had been carried on by their grandfather alone, and that plaintiff did not take part in it as a partner, indents on the firm being made out in the name of defendants' grandfather alone. Plaintiff, on the other hand, failed to produce any satisfactory evidence of the continuance of the joint business subsequently to 1887.

Held, that though under section 109, Evidence Act, 1872, the partnership which once existed between plaintiff and defendants' grandfather should be presumed to have continued until its dissolution was affirmatively established, the facts proved led to the inference that it terminated eiher by consent or in consequence of a quarrel many years previously, and that there had been no joint business or joint dealings since then.

Held, therefore, that the claim was barred by limitation. BAKHSH ILAHI v. ALLA BAKHSH.

11 P R 1897

30. Partnership—Insolvency of firm—Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 109—Contract Act, 1872, sections 253, 254, 255—

Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 25—Limitation Act, 1877, article 106.

A certain firm was declared insolvent on the 9th April 1890 by the Judge of the Small Cause Court, Amritsar, who thereupon proceeded to administer the estate. On the 25th March 1891, a composition deed was executed to the effect that the creditors had already been paid $\frac{3}{16}$ths of their claims, that the insolvents would pay $\frac{3}{16}$ths more through the Court within a month, and that after such payment their property should be released from attachment. On the 17th May 1891, the Court ordered that effect should be given to the composition, and, on the subsequent payment into Court of the $\frac{3}{16}$ths as agreed, directed that the insolvent's property should be released from attachment. The case was struck off the file on the 7th August 1891.

On the 8th July 1893 plaintiff, who was one of the partners in the said firm, sued for dissolution of partnership and for an account, but his suit was dismissed as barred under article 106, Limitation Act, on the ground, according to the first Court, that the partnership was dissolved by the very fact that the firm had been declared insolvent and its estate administered by the Insolvency Court, and according to the Divisional Court that the partnership was dissolved under section 255, Contract Act, inasmuch as attempts by the firm to trade after being declared insolvent and while the estate was being administered by the Insolveney Court would have amounted to misconduct punishable under section 25, Punjab Laws Act, and "therefore prohibited by law."

Held, that under section 109, Evidence Act, the onus of proving that the partners had ceased to stand to each other in the relationship of partners was upon defendants, and that it was not a sufficient discharge of such onus to merely prove that their firm had been declared insolvent.

Held, therefore, that the suit was not barred under article 106, Limitation Act.

Section 25 of the Punjab Laws Act applies only to misconduct committed by a person previously to his being adjudicated an insolvent, and bankruptcy of a firm does not necessarily involve the prohibition by law of its business. The partners themselves are thereby prevented from carrying on the business, but it does not necessarily follow that the business itself is prohibited by law. MAHARAJ MAL v. HIRA MAL.

37 P R 1897

31. Dissolution of partnership—Jurisdiction of Court—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 17 (3) (ii)—Misjoinder of causes of action—No appeal from preliminary decree within fixed period—Effect of as regards appeal from final decree—Representative of deceased partner, liability of—Presumption against wrong-doer—Comparison of handwriting by experts.

Plaintiffs instituted a suit in the District Court of Ludhiana for dissolution of partnership, a settlement of accounts and a decree for whatever might be found due to them from defendants, which they stated to be in all probability a sum of Rs. 11,500. They joined as defendants both the remaining partners, and also the representatives of a deceased partner. Defendants pleaded, inter alia, that as the parties were all residents of Jullundur District, the Court had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit, and that there was a misjoinder of causes of action. The suit having been decreed by the District Court, defendants appealed to the Chief Court.

A preliminary objection by plaintiffs to the effect that inasmuch as defendants had not appealed from the preliminary decree of the lower Court within the prescribed period, the appeal from the final decree was barred, having been overruled.

Held, that as the contract of partnership was entered into by the parties at Ludhiana, where balance sheets of accounts were prepared between the parties, and plaintiffs had a share in a shop there which carried on the same business as the firm of the parties, the District Court of Ludhiana had jurisdiction in the suit under section 17 (3) (ii) of the Civil Procedure Code.

Held, further, that the defendants, whether they were partners or representatives of partners, were necessary parties to the suit as framed, and that therefore there was no misjoinder of causes of action.

A representative of a deceased partner is liable to the extent of the deceased's assets in his hands and this is ordinarily a matter for inquiry in execution of decree, but there is no absolute impropriety in its being decided prior to decree.

The Chief Court finding that the deceased partner had previously to his death removed an unknown quantity of partnership property from the shop at Ludhiana, and that he had died a few days thereafter concluded that his representatives had come into possession of the whole of the property so removed, and further finding that the shop books had come into the hands of the said representatives and were being wilfully withheld by them, held that, in the absence of trustworthy evidence as to the amount of assets in their hands, the defendants were liable to the full extent of the plaintiffs' claim.

A comparison of handwriting by experts is generally an unsafe test if it has to stand by itself. JAGNA v. GAINDA MAL.

62 P R 1897

32. Partnership—Lien—Contract Act, 1872, sections 60, 61, 217, 262—Set-ff—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 111.

The rule as to the equitable lien possessed by each partner on the partnership property cannot be applied so as to enable a managing partner to appropriate money due to another partner out of the assets of a firm in liquidation of a debt due from that partner to himself and entirely unconnected with the business of the firm.

Neither at common law nor in equity is there any right of set-off between parties mutually indebted in the absence of an agreement to that effect. Nor do the provisions of section 111 of the Civil Procedure Code apply where the debt sought to be set-off was barred by limitation before the suit was filed. SOHNA v. NAND RAM.

53 P R 1898

33. Partnership property—Separation of —Notice to creditors of the firm—Good faith.

In the absence of proof of bad faith agreements come to between partners converting the property of the firm into the separate estate of one or more of its members are binding on their joint and several creditors.

Held, that on the facts disclosed there was no obligation on the partners to give notice to their creditors that some of the property of the firm was being converted into a separate estate. HAZARI MAL v. NARSINGH DAS. 77 P R 1900

34. Partnership—Suit by partner against co-partner who was also manager of the business to have an account rendered of his stewardship—Accounts without dissolution—Contract Act, 1872, sections 213, 258.

Held, that although there is a sound general principle that one partner should not be allowed to sue a co-partner for an account without at the same time claiming a final settlement of all questions between them, and a dissolution of partnership, yet in exceptional cases where equity requires such a course the general principle should be relaxed, and one partner may be allowed to file a suit against his co-partner for account without praying for dissolution of the partnership.

Phula and Dana v. Shib Dial (34 P. R. 1873), Narain Das v. Bholi (71 P. R. 1881), and Kassa Mal v. Gopi (I. L. R. IX All. 120), referred to. Wallworth v. Holt (48 R. R. 187), Richards v. Davis (34 R. R. 111), and Hichens v. Congreve (32 R. R. 173), cited. AZIM KHAN v. MUHAMMAD RIAZ-UD-DIN AND OTHERS. 110 P R 1901

35. Suit for dissolution of partnership and for an account—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 106.

Held, that a partnership entered into for a fixed term when the business was not continued after such term had expired, should be considered as terminated on the date of the expiry of such term and a suit by a partner for an account of such partnership business is governed by article 106 of the second schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877. RAM CHAND v. SUBHAN BAKHSH AND ANOTHER. 69 P R 1902

36. Suit for dissolution of partnership—Sale of outstandings before the business was dissolved—Validity of such sale—Civil Procedure Code. 1882—section 215.

Under section 215, Civil Procedure Code, a Court trying a suit for dissolution of partnership has no power to sell outstandings or to take any of the proceedings indicated in that section until it has passed an order dissolving the partnership, therefore where previous to the passing of the preliminary decree dissolving the partnership the Court sold a large portion of the outstandings and then dismissed the suit for want of prosecution held, that the aale was invalid and ultra vires.

Thirukumaresan Chetti v. Subbaraya Chetti (I. L. R. XX Mad., 313) referred to. MUL CHAND v. PIYARE LAL. 23 P R 1903

37. Partnership—Dissolution of partnership—Liability of retired partner for debts contracted after dissolution—Contract Act, 1872, sections 245, 264.

Held, that when it is sought to charge a party with liability as a partner many years after the dissolution of the partnership by a person who has had no dealings with the original firm prior to its dissolution, and was not even aware that the party sought to be charged was a partner therein, and where notices of the dissolution were given to the artis of the firm, and there was nothing to show any attempt at concealment of the change in the constitution of the firm, the mere fact that the continuing partner was allowed to carry on business in the old firm's name, which did not disclose the identity of the retired partner or the maintenance of a joint responsibility in a specific contract would not render the retired partner liable to such person for debts contracted by the firm long after his retirement therefrom.

Section 264 of the Contract Act does not cover the case of a person dealing with a firm for the first time after a change from its original constitution, so as to make a partner who had already retired liable.

Chundee Charn Dutt v. Eduljee Cowasjee Bijnee (I. L. R. VIII Calc. 678), Mohori Bibee v. Dharmodas Ghose (7 Calc. W. N. 441), Rampal Singh v. Balbhaddar Singh (I. L. R. XXV All. 1), Dickinson v. Valpy (L. R. 10 B. and C. 140), In re Fraser Central Bank of London exparte (L. R. 2 Q. B. (1892), 633), Newsome v. Coles (12 R. R. 756) Scarf v. Jardine (L. R. 7 App. Cas. 349), Carter v. Whalley (L. R. 1 B. and Ad. 11), Ramasami v. Kadar Bibi (I. L. R. IX Mad. 492), and Bullen v. Sharp (L. R. 1 C. P. 125) referred to. CHAND MAL v. GANGA RAM. 78 P R 1903

38. Partnership for cultivatioa of land—Suit by a co-sharer for share of profits—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court—Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887, section 77 (3) (k).

A suit by the plaintiff for his share in the produce of certain land owned by the defendant which he cultivated in partnership with the defendant under an agreement whereby he was to receive one-fourth of the produce, held, to be a suit by co-sharer for a share in the profits of the holding within the meaning of section 77 (3) of the Punjab Tenancy Act

PARTNERSHIP—contd.

1887, and was cognizable by a Revenue Court. SUNDER SINGH v. KESAR SINGH. 80 P R 1904

39. Parties—Suit for partnership debt—Representatives of a partner who died pending the suit not necessary parties—Contract Act, 1872, section 45.

Held, that the representatives of a deceased partner are not necessary parties to a suit for the recovery of a debt which accrued due to the partnership in the lifetime of the deceased partner.

Gobind Prasad v. Chander Sekhar (I. L. R. IX All. 486), Moti Lal v. Ghella Bhai (I. L. R. XVII Bom. 6), Vaidyanatha Ayyar v. Chunasami Haik (I. L. R. XVII Mad. 108), and Devi Das v. Nirpat (I. L. R. XX All. 365), cited and followed.

Ram Narain v. Ram Chandar (I. L. R. XVIII Cal. 86), dissented from. MULK RAJ v. GEORGE KNIGHT. 10 P R 1906

40. Suit for contribution after dissolution of partnership—Limitation in respect of such suit—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 106.

Held, that a suit by a surviving partner against the representatives of a deceased partner for contribution in respect of losses of a dissolved partnership being virtually a suit for an account and payment of the sum found due is subject to the limitation prescribed by article 106 of Schedule II of the Limitation Act, 1877. AMIN CHAND v. GUJAR MAL, 73 P R 1906

41. Partnership between a licensee under Act XII of 1896 and other persons—Valid contract—Public policy—Contract Act, 1872, section 23.

A being the holder of a license under the Excise Act, XII of 1896, for wholesale vend of liquor, entered into an agreement of partnership with B. and C. in the business carried on under the license. One of the conditions subject to which the license was granted, was " No license is transferable."

Held, (1) that under the circumstances of the case there had been no transfer of the license within the meaning of the rules;

(2) that the contract was not void as opposed to public policy, but was capable of being enforced by one partner against the other

Jai Narain v. Sultan Muhammad Khan (96 P. R. 1902,), referred to. BASHESHAR DAS v. GOBIND RAM. 114 P R 1906

42. Partnership—Assignment of his share by a partner—Liability of assignee on admission for debts owing by the firm—Contract Act, 1872, sections 140, 251.

Held that the assignee of a share in a partnership concern when admitted into partnership by the other partners is liable for the debts owing by the firm as originally composed, notwithstanding the fact that the creditor may not have accepted the assignment or absolved the assignor from liability. NIHARKA v. MADHO. 107 P R 1907

PARTNERSHIP—concld.

43. Partnership—Rights and obligations on dissolution—Distribution of assets and contribution to losses.

Held, that, in settling accounts between partners after a dissolution of partnership in absence of any agreement on the point, the assets of the partnership should be distributed by paying to each partner his claims in respect of capital standing to his credit at the time of dissolution, and in cases of deficiency the parties are liable to contribute equally. MAM RAJ v. GOKAL CHAND. 40 P R 1908

44. Partnership—Notice of dissolution on the retirement of a dormant partner—Liability of such partner for debts of partnership—Contract Act, 1872, sections 249, 264—Shikmi Sharik.

Held that it is not necessary to give any express notice of dissolution of a partnership on the retirement of a dormant partner, especially when the fact of the latter's relationship was unknown to the customers of the concern, but he is liable for all debts and obligations incurred by the partnership up to the date of his retirement from that business.

Shikmi Sharik found to be a dormant partner and not a mere sub-partner. HASHMAT ALI v. LACHMI NARAIN. 75 P R 1908

PART-PAYMENT.

1. Of principal of debt.
   See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTION 20. 62 P R 1881
   99 P R 1884
2. Of decree.
   See LIMITATION ACT (XV OF 1877), SECTION 20. 61 P R 1886

PASSENGER.

1. Railway Company—Passenger's luggage—Person sending his luggage by a friend—Penal Code, section 415—Attempt to defraud—Railway Act—Bye-law imposing penalty for endeavouring to evade payment of full fare.

See RAILWAY COMPANY. 25 P R 1903 Cr.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1878, SECTION 20. 12 P R 1894

2. Held, that the word passenger in the Railways Act includes a ticket-holder even before he has boarded the train. THE CROWN v. HARI SINGH. 26 P R 1910

PATENT.

1. Act XV of 1859, sections 4, 22 and 34 —Measure of damages—Royalty—Infringement—Jurisdiction—Detail of breaches.

In a suit for damages for infringement of a patent, the defendant pleaded (a) that the plaintiff's privilege did not extend to the Punjab. It was found that only Bengal, the North-Western, and the Central Provinces were mentioned in the specification filed under the Act.

PATENT—contd.

Held, that these Provinces were only mentioned as places where the invention was likely to be useful, that it was never intended that it might be counterfeited in any other part of India, and that under section 4 the exclusive privilege was given for the whole of India, notwithstanding anything contained in the specification, and that any person infringing the privilege was liable in any part of India.

(b) That evidence should not be received of any breaches other than those entered in a schedule prescribed by section 34. Held that the object of giving instances is to prove the infringement, and that other instances of purchases, sales or hiring could be enquired into to determine the amount of damages.

(c) That he had not infringed the patent. It was found that he had bought portions of machines from persons licensed by plaintiffs and put them together; that he had bought rollers from unlicensed persons and whole machines from persons not licensed—Held that these acts constituted a sufficient infringement.

On the other hand, the plaintiff contended that the measure of damages should be the profits made by the defendants. Held, following Penn v. Jack, L. R. 5 Eq. 81, and I. L. R. II All. 368, that the measure of damages is the royalty which ought to have been paid. LALA GANDA MAL v. MESSRS. WALTER THOMSON and JAMES MYLNE. 115 P R 1889

2. Patent, infringement of—Nature of exclusive privilege granted to patentee—Act XV of 1859 and Act V of 1888—"Make, sell or use"—Exclusive privilege acquired for process of producing certain article—Article manufactured without, but sold within limits of exclusive privilege—"Town and station of Rawalpindi."

One B. was granted under section 4 of Act XV of 1859, the sole and exclusive privilege of making, selling and using in British India. certain kilns for the manufacture of bricks, and of authorizing others to do so. Some time thereafter plaintiff obtained by assignment from Messrs. P. D., a license from the said B. granting him the sole and exclusive privilege of using patent kilns " within the town and station of Rawalpindi." Subsequently defendant, who had also obtained a license from the said B.'s agent authorizing him to use one patent kiln at any place in the district of Rawalpindi except within the cantonment and municipal limits of Rawalpindi, set up one such kiln on the outskirts of but admittedly not within the limits of the cantonment and municipality of Rawalpindi. Plaintiff thereupon instituted a suit for damages for breach of his patent rights under his license, and his claim was decreed in the first Court, but dismissed by the Divisional Judge on appeal. Plaintiff appealed o the Chief Court, and it was contended on his behalf, that (i) the words "town and station" in his license included places where kilns meant for the supply of the town and station were situated, or, at any rate, those places at which kilns were constructed when the exclusive privilege was originally granted to Messrs. P. D., his predecessors in title, and (ii), although the defendant was entitled to use his one kiln outside the limits of plaintiff's exclusive privilege, yet a sale by defendant within those limits of bricks manufactured in the said kiln outside the said limits constituted an infringement of plaintiff's said exclusive privilege.

PATENT—concld.

Held, that plaintiff's suit had been rightly dismissed.

Per Curiam.—The words "town and station of Rawalpindi," in plaintiff's license, should be strictly construed, and did not include the place at which defendant had set up his kiln.

Stogdon, J. (Rivaz, J. doubting as to this). The exclusive privilege having been acquired by B. merely for the process or manner of producing bricks and not for the bricks so produced, a sale by a third party within the limits of the exclusive privilege of bricks manufactured by the said process outside those limits did not amount to an infringement of the patentee's rights.

Rivaz, J. Plaintiff had failed to prove any sale of such bricks by defendant within the local limits secured to the plaintiff. Bhagat Hira Nand v. Hari Ram.

24 P R 1896

PATTIDARI JAGIRS.

—Cis-Sutlej districts—Right of adoption not recognized.

See Succession. 1 P R 1910 Rev.

PATWARI.

See Jurisdiction of Revenue Court.

28 P R 1876

Public Servant.

32 P R 1872 Cr.

1. Duty of, to draw up his annual papers in conformity with Settlement record—Suit for correction of Patwari's papers.

See Alluvion and Diluvion.

7 P R 1886 Rev.

2. Act XXXIII of 1871, section 6, Rule No. 29—Patwari trading or acquiring land after appointment—Disqualification of candidate who has traded or owns land before appointment.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that Rule No. 29 of the rules relating to Patwaris, made under section 6 of the Land Revenue Act of 1871, while it prohibits a man from trading or acquiring land in his circle after he has been appointed Patwari, does not in any way hinder a man who has traded, or whose relations trade, or who already owns land, from being made a Patwari. Ganpat v. Devi Das. 8 P R 1881 Rev.

3. Transfer—Reasons for such transfer

PATWARI—concld.

Held by the Financial Commissioner, that Patwaris should not be transferred from one circle to another as a punishment; and the mere fact that a Patwari is not acceptable to a particular faction in a village is not a sufficient reason for his transfer. Guru Das v. Crown.

3 P R 1885 Rev.

PAUPER.

1. Suit by pauper—Application for leave to sue in forma pauperis—Subsequent payment of Court-fees after period of limitation—Date of institution of suit.

See Limitation Act, 1877, section 4.

59 P R 1903

2. Rejection of application for leave to sue as pauper on ground of omission by plaintiff to enter all his property in the Schedule.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, Order XXXIII, Rule 5.

27 P R 1887

3. Grounds for rejecting application for leave to sue as pauper.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, Order XXXIII, Rule 5.

155 P R 1888

4. Application to sue in forma pauperis—Court issuing notice to defendant without preliminary inquiry—Material irregularity—"Right to sue in such Court."

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, Order XXXIII, Rule 5.

130 P R 1894

5. Application for leave to sue as a pauper dismissed in default—Subsequent application for same purpose.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, Order XXXIII, Rule 7.

64 P R 1896

6. Application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis filed by manager of idiot plaintiff's estate without schedule of pauper's property.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, Order XXXIII, Rule 3.

19 P R 1899

7. Application for review of judgment in forma pauperis.

See Court Fees Act, 1870, 1st Schedule, article 4.

91 P R 1895

8. Sufficient cause for not filing appeal within time—Prosecution of application for leave to appeal as a pauper.

See Limitation Act, 1877, section 5.

47 P R 1899

9. Application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis—Exclusion of time requisite for obtaining copy of judgment.

See Limitation Act, 1877, section 12.

33 P R 1895

10. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, Chapter XXVI—Suit by pauper—Plaintiff suing on allegation that certain property was joint—Plea by defendant that part of such property was plaintiff's separate property—Order by Court that such property should be excluded from claim.

PAUPER—concld.

In a suit by plaintiff, suing in forma pauperis for a share of certain property, the whole of which she alleged to be the joint property of herself and defendant, the latter pleaded that part of such property was the separate property of plaintiff. The District Judge in considering whether the plaintiff was possessed of sufficient means to pay the prescribed Court-fee, held that as the defendant admitted her claim to part of the property in suit, she should exclude it from her claim, and thus reduce the Court-fee payable by her.

Held, that inasmuch as plaintiff's case was that none of the property claimed by her was her separate property but was part of the joint property of herself and defendant, while defendant's contention was that there was no such joint property both he and plaintiff being separately entitled to the property, respectively, held by them, the finding of the District Court trenched on the merits of the case which should be avoided in adjudicating on the question of pauperism.

Held, therefore, that the finding of the District Court must be set aside. Mussammat Tabo v. Nau Nihal. 17 P R 1900

11. Limitation Act, 1877, sections 4, 5—Application for leave to appeal in forma pauperis—Rejection of application—Extension of time granted for payment of Court-fees—Payment of Court-fees after period of limitation—Sufficient cause for not filing appeal within time.

See Limitation Act, 1877, section 4.

84 P R 1904

12. Application for leave to defend in forma pauperis—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, Chapter XXVI.

Held, that there being no provision in the Civil Procedure Code for such a course a defendant cannot be allowed to defend a suit, in forma pauperis. Coates v. Secretary of State for India in Council.

54 P R 1905

13. Suit in forma pauperis—Compromise—Withdrawal of suit—Failure in the suit—Payment of court-fees—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 412.

Held, that if a plaintiff who had been permitted to sue as a pauper withdraws from the suit under a compromise by which he foregoes his original claim he fails in the suit within the meaning of section 412 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882, and is liable to pay court-fees which would have been paid by him if he had not been admitted to sue as a pauper. Secretary of State for India in Council v. Surju Das.

104 P R 1908

PAUPER, PETITION FOR LEAVE TO APPEAL AS.

—Revision of order rejecting.

See Revision in Civil Cases.

21 P R 1885

PAUPER PETITION FOR LEAVE TO SUE AS.

- Procedure on.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, Order XXXIII Rule 1.

99 P R 1882

PAUPER PETITION FOR LEAVE TO SUE AS—concld.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. XXXIII, R. 5. 81 P R 1881

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, O. XXXIII, R. 5. 25 P R 1885 122 P R 1886

—Revision of order refusing.

See Revision in Civil Cases. 99 P R 1882

PAWN OR PLEDGE.

See Company.
Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court.
Mortgage.
Stolen Property.

PAWNOR AND PAWNEE.

1. Pledge by possessor of documentary title to goods—Good faith of pawnee—Presumption that pawnor was acting improperly—Validity of pledge.

See Contract Act (IX of 1872), sections 69, 70. 199 P R 1882

2. Suit by pawnee for money lent and for sale of property pawned—Suit barred as against defendant personally but in time as against the pawned property.

See Limitation Act (XV of 1877), Schedule II, Article 57. 116 P R 1881

PAY.

—Of Native grass-cutter attached to European battery—Liability to attachment.

See Execution of Decree. 41 P R 1882

PAYMENT.

See Appropriation of Payments.

1. Payment of mortgage debt—Unregistered deed—Extinction of mortgage—Oral evidence.

See Registration Act, 1877, section 17. 39 P R 1904

2. Plea of payment is not a set-off within the meaning of section 111 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Bhagat Singh v. Devi Dial. 85 P R 1908

PAYMENT INTO COURT.

—Of pre-emption money—Omission to pay within time fixed in decree.

See Pre-emption. 69 P R 1881 79 P R 1881 96 P R 1884 101 P R 1883 1 P R 1885

PAYMENTS MADE OUT OF COURT IN EXECUTION OF DECREE.

See Execution of Decree.

PAYMENT, VOLUNTARY, SUIT TO RECOVER.

See Mistake.

PENALTY.

1. Liquidated damages—Interest.

See Damages. 153 P R 1883 55 P R 1885

2. Under Stamp Act—Penalty leviable to be determined under Act in force at time of levy of penalty.

See Stamp. 7 P R 1885 Rev.

PENSIONS.

See Attachment.

—Liability of, to attachment—Pension payable by Government other than British Government.

See Execution of Decree. 58 P R 1884

PENSIONS ACT, 1871.

See Attachment.

Section 4.

See Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court. 17 P R 1882 92 P R 1881 164 P R 1882 131 P R 1882

1. Suit by recorded muafidar of one field for produce of another field.

See Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court. 11 P R 1887

2. Suit relating to land revenue—Necessity of certificate—Jurisdiction of Civil Courts.

See Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court. 53 P R 1890

3. Suit relating to a grant of land revenue made by the British Government filed without obtaining a certificate under section 6 of the Act.

See Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court 77 P R 1891

4. Where a suit included a claim to a certain muafi, held that the Civil Courts had no jurisdiction to entertain the suit pro tanto without the certificate required by section 6 of the Pensions Act, 1871. Ghulam Nabi v. Besharat Ali. 25 P R 1900

Section 5.

See Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court. 12 P R 1886 Rev 160 P R 1884

Section 6.

See Section 4, supra.

—Jagir—Succession—Grant of Government revenue for life to parties' family in specific shares—Death of one sharer—Suit by the surviving sharer against the son of the deceased for certain instalments wrongfully enjoyed by the latter—Limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 13—Construction of such grant.

See Jagir.

See Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Court. 17 P R 1882 131 P R 1882 12 P R 1886, Rev

See Splitting Cause of Action. 64 P R 1882

Section 11.

See Execution of Decree. 57 P R 1884

1. Section 11—Pension—Assignment of land revenue for benefit of shrine.

The revenue of certain land was assigned to the custodian of a shrine for the benefit thereof. Held, that such assignment of land revenue was not a pension within the meaning of section 11 of the Pensions Act, XXIII of 1871. Baha-ud-din v. Moti Lal. 27 P R 1878

2. Jagir income is a pension within the meanng of this section and is not liable to attachment. Qamar-ud-din Khan v. Lachmi Nath. 95 P R 1906

PENSIONS ACT, 1871—concld.

Section 11—concld.

3. Pension—Land revenue granted by Government on political considerations—Water advantage rate—Liability of, to attachment in execution of a decree—Decree, construction of.

A decree for money directed "that the "defendant do pay Rs. 6,869-10-0 to the "plaintiff by halfyearly instalments of Rs. 500 "out of the khush haisiyati (water-advantage rate) income which accrues to him each "harvest. The instalment for each harvest will be paid in the months of March "and September when the defendant realises "his khush haisiyati income. The defendant "shall not be competent to alienate his "khush-haisiyati income until the payment of "this decree money." On default having been made the decree-holder applied for the attachment of the income in question.

Held, that the khush-haisiyati (water-advantage rate) was a part of the jagir granted on political considerations and was therefore exempt from attachment by virtue of the provisions of section 11 of the Pensions Act, 1871.

Held, also, that the decree did not specifically charge the income in question and the executing Court could not strain the interpretation so as to read into the decree a provision which would be illegal. Qamar-ud-din Khan v. Mani Ram. 96 P R 1906

4. Liability of political pension to attachment in execution of decree.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, section 60. 133 P R 1888 137 P R 1890 47 P R 1893 35 P R 1900

Section 12.

—Decree charging jagir income with payment—Attachment in execution thereof.

See Civil Procedure Code, 1908, section 60. 35 P R 1900

PERQUISITES OF VILLAGE OFFICER.

—Suit for.

See Jurisdiction of Small Cause Court. 28 P R 1882

PETITION-WRITERS.

1. Rules relating to—Chief Court's power to revise proceeding under rules—Construction of rule—Suspension and dismissal of.

See Punjab Courts Act, 1884, section 13. 42 P R 1888

"PHYSICAL POSSESSION."

See Limitation Act, (XV of 1877), Schedule II, Article 10. 10 P R 1881 156 P R 1882 23 P R 1882 48 P R 1884 61 P R 1885 73 P R 1885 68 P R 1884 90 P R 1886

PICHHLAG.

1. Gift by sonless proprietor to pichhlag—Locus standi of distant collaterals to contest its validity.

See CUSTOM—I. A. ALIENATION BY MALE PROPRIETOR.—1 (J.). GIFTS, &C., IN FAVOUR OF STRANGERS—(ii) NOT PROVED. 63 P R 1909

PLACE OF PERFORMANCE OF CONTRACT.

—Cause of action.

See JURISDICTION. 118 P R 1881
147 P R 1882
71 P R 1883
132 P R 1883

PLAINT.

1. PRESENTATION OF.
2. FORM OF.
3. VERIFICATION AND SIGNATURE OF.
4. AMENDMENT OF.
5. REJECTION OF.
6. RETURN OF.
7. MISCELLANEOUS.

1. Presentation of.

1. Suit brought by an independent prince—Recognized agent—Signing and verification of plaint.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. VI, R. 14. 41 P R 1902

2. Suit for pre-emption—Unregistered corporation sued through its manager—Names of members not specified—Plaint returned for addition of such names—Date of institution of suit.

See CORPORATION—UNREGISTERED. 29 P R 1896

3. Institution of suit—Unstamped plaint—Presentation by post.

See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, SECTION 28. 38 P R 1900

4. Return of, for representation when a clue to defendants could be found—Effect of such irregular return of plaint—Limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 4. 22 P R 1887

5. Institution of suit—Plaint presented to the " proper officer "—Plaint presented to the officer within limitation and returned to plaintiff by such officer with order endorsed thereon to present it to subordinate Court deputed to try the suit—No subsequent presentation within time of limitation.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 4. 7 P R 1895

6. Plaint insufficiently stamped when deemed to have been presented.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 4. 3 P R 1897

7. Plaint insufficiently stamped—Payment of requisite Court-fee after the expiry of limitation allowed for the suit—Plaint when deemed to have been presented—Date of institution of suit.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 4. 74 P R 1903

8. Plaint received on a holiday.

Gazetted holidays are permissive, not imperative. Held, accordingly, that a plaint could be legally received on a holiday. GOOR CHURN SINGH v. ROOSEE GOOJUR. 43 P R 1870

PLAINT—contd.

1. Presentation of—concld.

9. Unstamped plaint—Conditional order admitting plaint—Plaint properly stamped after period of limitation—Limitation Act, 1877, section 4, explanation.

Held, that the presentation of an unstamped plaint is not a proper presentation within the meaning of the explanation to section 4 of the Limitation Act, 1877. It is not valid for any purpose whatever. PARTAB SINGH v. KISHEN DIYAL. 130 P R 1890

10. Presentation of a plaint insufficiently stamped through circumstances beyond the control of the plaintiff—Payment of requisite Court-fees after expiration of limitation—Date of institution of suit—Court Fees Act, 1870, sections 6, 28—Limitation Act, 1877, section 4.

A plaint insufficiently stamped was presented in the Court of the District Judge on the 14th April 1903, the last day allowed for it by the law of limitation. The reason given was that the treasurer had no stamp of the proper denomination and had informed the plaintiff that he must wait until the Treasury Officer should open the double locks. The District Judge received the plaint and recorded an order making over the case to the Sub-Judge, adding a direction that the deficiency should be made up.

Plaintiff on the same day procured the requisite stamps, but on taking it to the District Judge's Court found that officer had left his Court and was thus unable to file the full stamp-duty until the 16th April. The defence pleaded limitation.

Held, by the Full Bench, that in the circumstances of the case the suit should be taken as instituted on the 14th April when the plaint was presented to the District Judge and that the claim was therefore not barred.

Lakha v. Munshi Ram (38 P. R. 1900) distinguished. MEHTAB RAI v. GOPAL RAI. 104 P R 1905 F. B.

2. Form of.

See PLEADINGS.

1. Joint suit by alleged partners in respect of leases made in the names of certain individual members of alleged partnership—Joint undivided Hindu family—Omission in plaint to specify grounds entitling plaintiffs to sue jointly in respect of such leases.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 80. 67 P R 1894

2. Suit to obtain a declaratory decree where no consequential relief is prayed for.

See COURT FEES ACT, 1870, 2ND SCHEDULE, ARTICLE 17. 109 P R 1893

3. Suit for recovery of movable property and for an account—Plaintiffs in plaint claiming as owners by succession and as principals who had appointed defendants to manage their property—Subsequent statement by plaintiff that she had never appointed defendants as her agents—Dismissal of suit—Principles which should guide Courts in such cases.

PLAINT—contd.

2. Form of—contd.

See DISMISSAL OF SUIT. 85 P R 1896

4. Ejectment suit—Trespasser—Jurisdiction of Civil or Revenue Courts—Construction of plaint.

See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURT. 41 P R 1894

5. Construction of plaint—Joint holding—Separate possession and enjoyment—Proof of partition.

See SPECIFIC RELIEF ACT, 1877, SECTION 39. 44 P R 1894

6. Pleadings—Plaintiff putting forward claim based upon alternative sets of facts. Allegans contraria non auditur.

Though a plaintiff may base his claim alternatively upon two or more different sets of facts, each entitling him to the relief sought or some modification of it he cannot be heard to allege at the same time nor can he honestly verify contrary sets of facts.

A plaint alleging first that four bonds were executed by defendant in lieu of certain earlier bonds and interest, and then alleging that the said four bonds were not executed, and the earlier bonds remained in force, held to be bad in law. It would have been otherwise if the later transaction had been alleged to be a nullity by reason of matter of law only, the fact first alleged not being disputed or negatived, as in such case there would be no real contradiction nor an allegation of two sets of inconsistent facts. KHALAS v. KALYAN SINGH. 109 P R 1887

7. Civil Procedure Code—Forms of action—Statement of facts in plaint.

The Divisional Judge dismissed the plaintiff's suit as a suit for the price of goods sold and delivered, and directed the plaintiff to sue on a contract of 10th April 1885 ; he also held that the suit as laid, viz., for the price of goods sold to the defendants as an ordinary purchaser independently of the contract would not lie, and that plaintiff's proper remedy was to sue for a statement of account on the contract.

Held that the Divisional Judge's decree should be reversed, and a hearing of the appeal directed.

The Code of Civil Procedure does not deal with forms of action ; it requires a statement of facts in the plaint and that the plaint should disclose a cause of action. If a cause of action is disclosed, that cause of action is to be heard and determined subject to the defence of the defendant. MUHAMMAD SHARIF v. SHAMSHER KHAN. 11 P R 1891

8. Plaint—Secundum allegata—Decree of occupancy rights on basis other than that sued for—Material irregularity.

The plaintiff sued for occupancy rights under section 5, sub-section (1) (d), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887 : the Commissioner being of opinion that the plaintiff had rights of occupancy under sub-section (1) (a), decreed accordingly considering it unnecessary to determine whether the plaintiff was entitled to succeed upon the grounds alleged by him in his plaint.

PLAINT—contd.

2. Form of—concld.

Held, by the Financial Commissioner on revision that it was a material irregularity on the part of the Commissioner to award the plaintiff a higher status than that asked for. The plaintiff had made no claim under section 5, sub-section (1) (a), or amended his plaint asking for such relief, or in any way advanced a claim to be of a higher status than that described in sub-section (1) (d). DAULAT KHAN v. MAST ALI.

1 P R 1892 Rev.

9. Pre-emption, suit for—Defective plaint —Procedure—Civil Procedure Code, section 53—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12 (e)—"Landowner"—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 3 (2).

Plaintiff sued for pre-emption in respect of certain sales of land, but his suits were dismissed by the Divisional Judge, on the ground that the sales included a share of shamilat, and that as plaintiff did not expressly sue for this in his plaints he was really suing for less than was sold, which he could not legally do. It appeared, however, from a statement made by plaintiff's agent in Court, that it was the intention to sue for the shamilat as well as the principal land.

Held, that the procedure of the Divisional Court was erroneous. The dismissal of the suits would only have been justifiable if the plaint had expressly shown, or, plaintiff's agent had expressly stated, that a share in the shamilat was purposely excluded from the suits. Inasmuch, moreover, as none of the faults enumerated in clause (b) of section 53 of the Civil Procedure Code could be found with the plaints, amendment thereof could only have been made under clause (c) of the same section, which was practically done by the Court ascertaining from plaintiff's agent that the shamilat also was claimed. JASMIR SINGH v. RAHMATTULLAH.

7 P R 1896

10. Form of plaint for declaration that a judgment-debtor had a mortgage on certain property—Plaint—Relief claimed.

Held, that the actual form of the suit is of little consequence. The relief really claimed on the case set up by the plaintiffs is to be considered and as the Code of Civil Procedure does not deal with forms of suits, the substance and merits of the case should be kept in view and not merely the words in the plaint. MIRAN BAKSH v. ATRA.

111 P R 1900

11. A plaintiff should not be precluded from basing his claim upon a ground which, though not referred to in the plaint, was clearly and in express terms put in issue at the very commencement of the suit. MUHAMMAD UMAR v. KIRPAL SINGH.

78 P R 1904

3. Verification and Signature.

1. Signing and verification of plaint—Plaint signed and verified by some only of

PLAINT—contd.

3. Verification and Signature —concld.

the plaintiffs—Objection to such plaint taken on appeal—Co-plaintiffs.

See APPEAL—VI. PROCEDURE IN.

48 P R 1896

4. Amendment of.

1. Order of Appellate Court returning plaint for amendment—Appeal.

See APPEAL—II. COMPETENCY OF.

15 P R 1898

2. Execution of decree—Bond given by surety for judgment-debtor—Suit by decree-holder against surety without impleading judgment-debtor—Plaint returned for amendment—Appeal.

APPEAL—VI. PROCEDURE IN.

59 P R 1896

3 Plaintiff claiming two kinds of relief in alternative—Misjoinder—Return of plaint for amendment.

See CAUSE OF ACTION—V. MISJOINDER.

41 P R 1887

4. Misjoinder of causes of action—Plaint returned for amendment.

See CAUSE OF ACTION—V. MISJOINDER.

79 P R 1899

4 a. Nonjoinder of parties—Amendment not allowed.

See JOINDER OF PARTIES.

175 P R 1882

5. Amendment of plaint by ascertaining intention of plaintiff—Suit not to be dismissed.

See PLAINT, FORM OF. 7 P R 1896

6. Amendment of.

See PRE-EMPTION—I. GENERAL.

10 P R 1909

7. Amendment.

The Court has power to amend a plaint at any time, so long as it does not substitute an entirely new cause of action. KOUR SEIN v. MUSSAMMAT SAMIRO. 66 P R 1873

8. Amendment of plaint—Act XI of 1865, section 21—New trial—Stage at which plaint may be amended.

Held, that when a new trial has been granted under section 21, Act XI of 1865, it is competent to the Judge of the Small Cause Court to permit the plaint to be amended at the second trial under the same circumstances under which an amendment of plaint would have been allowable at the original trial.

The ruling of the Bombay High Court in Modhe v. Dongrea (I. L. R. 5 Bom. 609) to the effect that a plaintiff may, subsequently to the first hearing, amend his plaint, provided such amendment does not alter the original character of his suit, referred to and approved. MEHNDU KHAN v. CHUNNU KHAN.

110 P R 1882

9. Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), sections 53, 578—Amendment of plaint—Court allowing amendment after first hearing —Legality of such amendment—Alteration consistent with original claim—Irregularity not affecting merits or jurisdiction.

In a suit, in which the plaint was in the first instance framed as one for accounts with respect to two bond transactions which the plaintiff had contracted with the defendant, but with regard to which plaintiff contended that he had not received full consideration, the defendant (after the Court had summarily rejected the plaintiff's claim as regards one of the bonds) objected that plaintiff should file a full stamp with respect to the portion of the second bond that he disputed, and accordingly the Court ordered him to furnish the Court-fee prescribed for a claim of Rs. 1,000, as that amount represented the extent of the relief which he claimed. Plaintiff therefore filed the extra stamps and the suit was treated thereafter as one to have the last mentioned bond cancelled to the extent of Rs. 1,000. It appeared that the allegations on which plaintiff claimed the above relief were that he had been induced to execute the bond in question (which was for Rs. 1,300, and recited the consideration as being Rs. 1,100, on account of an old book debt, and a present cash advance of Rs. 200) on defendant giving plaintiff a solemn oath in the village temple that if he executed a bond for the above sum he would pay plaintiff's debts amounting to Rs. 1,000, the difference being made up of a cash advance of Rs. 200, and a book debt of Rs. 100, and that the defendant had not fulfilled his promise. The first Court considering plaintiff's allegations proved, gave him a decree declaring that defendant would not be entitled to recover from him the sum of Rs. 1,000 included in the bond. The lower Appellate Court considered that the first Court had acted improperly in permitting the plaintiff to amend his plaint so as to completely alter the character of the suit from one for accounts to one for the cancellation of an instrument on the ground of want of consideration, and on the merits that the plaintiff had failed to prove the allegations on which he based his claim, which should therefore be dismissed.

PLAINT—contd.

4. Amendment of—contd.

Held (referring to the decision of the Bombay High Court in Modhe v. Dongrea I. L. R. 5 Bom. 609) that the language of section 53 of the Civil Procedure Code would appear to be merely directory and not mandatory, and that therefore an amendment of the plaint might be permitted at a later stage of the proceedings than the first hearing, provided that the character of the suit was not so altered as to become inconsistent with the suit as originally brought; but that however that might be there is nothing in the Code which expressly forbids an amendment after the first hearing and thus, at most, where it is allowed it can only be regarded as an irregularity, which in the present instance neither affected the jurisdiction of the Court nor the merits of the case, and could not therefore justify the disturbance by the lower Appellate Court, of the decree of the first Court, with reference to the provisions of section 578 of the Code, as though the nature of the suit was to some extent changed, the alteration was not inconsistent with what the plaintiff first prayed for, and the amendment really only affected the form of relief to which the plaintiff was entitled, and was actually necessary in order that the controversy between the parties might be settled once for all. KHUDA BAKHSH v. BUDHAR MAL. 186 P R 1882

PLAINT—contd.

4. Amendment of—contd.

10. Civil Procedure Code (Act X of 1877), section 53—Amendment of plaint.

Plaintiffs sued for possession of a house alleged to have been mortgaged to them for Rs. 699 by two deeds, one for Rs. 600 andthe other for Rs. 99, both of which were unregistered. Subsequently they put in an amended plaint stating that, as they were out of possession, they had sued to get possession, but in case this could not be given they asked for a decree for the money.

Held, that section 53 of the Civil Procedure Code was no bar to the amendment of the plaint as stated above, as an amendment of a plaint for the purpose of asking for another remedy originally omitted is not a conversion of the suit into one of an inconsistent character. FATTEH SINGH v. MIAN SINGH. 131 P R 1883

11. Party must succeed on case put forward in plaint—Amendment of plaint—Claim incorrectly stated in plaint.

It is a general rule that a party must be limited to the case which he puts forward in his plaint, and if he fails in proving his case as originally stated he is not entitled to succeed; but a plaintiff who has not put forward an alternative case may have leave to amend his plaint and to state his case therein correctly if it appears that he has rested his claim upon wrong grounds from misinformation, ignorance of law or fact, mistake or misconstruction of documents. POOL v. SECRETARY OF STATE. 68 P R 1886

12. Amendment of plaint—Conversion of suit of one character into a suit of another and inconsistent character—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 53.

The plaint asked for cancellation of a deed of gift of certain land, but the plaintiff on being examined by the Court stated "that his claim was for possession after cancellation of the deed of gift."

Held, that the plaintiff could not rightly be said to have sought to alter his plaint so as to convert a suit of one character into a suit of another and inconsistent character, within the meaning of section 53 of the Code of Civil Procedure. GHULAM HUSAIN v. SHAHBAZ KHAN. 161 P R 1888

13. Suit for possession of land and for damages by way of mesne profits—Joint holding—Amendment of plaint in the Chief Court into a suit for a declaratory decree only.

The plaintiff and B. M. were owners in equal shares of a holding which was joint, though the cultivation was separate.

In 1888, B. M. exchanged a portion of the land in his occupation for land belonging to the other defendants in the suit who proceeded to plant trees and sink a masonry well upon the land they had thus acquired. In 1892, the plaintiff sued to recover possession of the plot which held the trees and well, alleging that he had been forcibly evicted therefrom; both the Courts below finding this allegation against the plaintiff dismissed his suit.

At the hearing of his appeal in the Chief Court the plaintiff was permitted to amend his plaint into one for a declaratory decree only. Such amendment having been objected to by the respondent on the ground that it was equivalent to instituting a fresh suit inconsistent with the previous claim.

Held, that the plaintiff co-sharer was entitled to maintain his joint possession over the whole land; that there was no real inconsistency between the original and the amended plaints; and that the proper relief was by a declaratory suit. MULA MAL v. BASANT MAL. 106 P R 1893

14. Plaint, amendment of—Power of Court to extend time originally granted for amendment of plaint—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 53, 54.

Held, that there is nothing in either section 53 or section 54 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882, which requires the Court to fix the time for amendment of a plaint once for all and immutably at the time of returning the plaint, or which prevents it from enlarging the period even after the period previously granted has expired. CHANDA SINGH v. ISHAR SINGH. 113 P R 1894

15. Plaint alleging possession and praying for declaration as to title—Preliminary issue as to possession decided against plaintiff—General prayer for relief—Procedure.

Plaintiff alleged that she was in possession of certain property and prayed that her title thereto might be declared "and for any other relief which the Court might consider proper to grant with reference to the facts of the case." As defendants denied that plaintiff was in possession, the Court framed an issue as to whether she held possession, and after recording evidence on this issue found that she did not and dismissed her suit. On appeal it was contended on behalf of plaintiff that when the issue as to possession was decided against the paintiff, her general prayer for relief required that the Court should have called upon her to furnish further stamps, and on her doing so, have gone into the question of title with a view to giving her a decree for possession, as well as a declaration as to title.

Held, that inasmuch as the plaint as laid not only did not recite that plaintiff had been dispossessed but expressly stated that she was in possession and on that account merely claimed a declaration as to title, the plaint disclosed no cause of action for a suit for possession, and that, therefore, the general prayer for relief, whatever might be its meaning, did not and could not include a demand of relief by way of a decree for possession.

Held, therefore, that as the Court upon the plaint before it could not have decreed possession, there was no necessity for it to go into the question of title on that account. Amendment of the plaint allowed under the special circumstances of the case. MUSSAMMAT BIBI HUKAM KOUR v. SARDAR ASA SINGH. 1 P R 1900

16. Plaint—Amendment of—Suit for injunction converted into one for possession—Change in relief does not involve a change in character—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 53.

Held, that inasmuch as a change in the relief sought does not necessarily alter the character of a suit, a claim for an injunction to restrain the defendant from interfering with the plaintiff's dealings with his property, of which the defendant had wrongfully taken possession can be amended to one for possession of that property and damages for wrongful possession, the two claims not being inconsistent. HARJI MAL v. POKHAR DAS. 135 P R 1906

A suit for a declaration must not be dismissed merely because the plaintiff being able to seek further relief has omitted to claim it. In such a case the Court must allow plaintiff to amend his plaint by asking for the further relief. HAZARA v. BISHAN SINGH. 128 P R 1907

17. Held, that where the Courts below have refused to exercise in favour of the plaintiff their discretion to allow an amendment of the plaint after a very full consideration of the circumstances of the case, and the consequences of such refusal are in no way serious, the Chief Court should not interfere with that discretion, where it was not exercised arbitrarily or without the Courts knowing all the facts of the case and applying their minds to them. ABDUL GHAFUR v. MUSSAMMAT MEHAR-UN-NISA. 101 P R 1909

5. Rejection of.

1. Plaint filed by unauthorized person—Rejection of plaint—Revision.

See REVISION IN CIVIL CASES. 5 P R 1899

2. Where plaintiff sued to cancel a deed of sale alleging that the consideration had not been paid, held, that the Court could not decree payment of the purchase-money. ABBAS v. ABAID. 54 P R 1866

3. Doubtful meaning of—Rejection.

If there be any doubt as to the meaning of a plaint, the Court should return it for amendment, not reject it. PIR MAHOMED v. GHULAM HYDER. 42 P R 1874

4. Act VIII of 1859, sections 2, 32—Rejection of plaint.

Where a plaint is rejected under section 32 of the Civil Procedure Code, a fresh plaint cannot be entertained on the same cause of action. NAGAR MAL v. BHAGWANDAS. 31 P R 1878

5. Defective plaint—Defendant objecting to Court's jurisdiction after investigation on merits—Rejection of plaint—Procedure.

In a suit on a balance of account, plaintiff omitted to state in his plaint where his cause of action arose: nevertheless the Court accepted the plaint and summoned the defendant, on whose appearance the matter in dispute was referred to arbitrators, who gave in an award unfavorable to defendant. Defendant then urged the defect in the plaint, and contended that the Court had no jurisdiction, because he resided at Mian Mir and the balance on which plaintiff sued had been struck there. The Court after taking evidence as to where the balance was struck, rejected the plaint under section 53 of the Code without deciding where the cause of action had arisen.

PLAINT—contd.

5. Rejection of—concld.

Held, that the Court's order could not be sustained, as section 53 of the Code only authorises a Court to reject a plaint or return it for amendment "at or before the first hearing," and not after the case has been fully investigated on its merits.

Held, further, that the defendant's objection being directed against the jurisdiction of the Court, the proper course for the lower Court to adopt was to proceed as if it had returned the plaint for amendment by inserting a statement of the place at which the cause of action arose, and as if such statement had been inserted by the plaintiff, and then to decide the point of jurisdiction, and either dismiss the suit as not within the Court's jurisdiction, or decide upon the validity of defendant's objections to the award. MEGHRAJ v. KARIM BAKHSH 126 P R 1881

6. Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882, section 54—Rejection of plaint—Stage at which such rejection may take place——Waiver by plaintiff of right to have a time for amendment fixed by the Court.

Held, that section 54 of the Civil Procedure Code is not applicable only to the initial stages of a suit before the plaint has been registered, but also empowers a Court to reject a plaint on the ground stated in the section at any later stage of the case prior to its final disposal.

Held, further, that the provision in the same section requiring a time to be fixed by the Court within which a plaint returned for amendment must be amended, being a provision made in the interest of the party against whom the order is made, such party may, if he chooses, waive his right to insist upon the provision of the law being formally observed. SRI KISHAN DAS v. PIR BAKHSH. 126 P R 1888

7. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 53, 54—Plaint not to be rejected by reason of insufficient verification—Procedure.

Held, that a plaint should not be rejected on a mere question of defect of verification. Where the verification is found to be defective the Judge is bound to return the plaint for amendment and has no power to reject it until default had been made in amending it within the time allowed by his order.

Topi Ram v. Sadu (I. L. R. XXI Bom. 570), distinguished. TULSI RAM v. MUNSHI RAM 57 P R 1904

PLAINT—contd.

6. Return of.

1. Returning plaint after registration.

The mere fact of a plaint having been registered, does not make the plaint unreturnable to the plaintiff. RAM GOPAL v. ASA RAM. 88 P R 1869

2. Returning after decree.

A plaint cannot be returned after a decree has been passed thereon, on the ground that the Court had no jurisdiction to try the suit. JHANDU v. GURMUKH SINGH. 39 P R 1872

3. The Chief Court returned a plaint after holding that the suit was prematurely brought. GUNGA RAM v. RAM KISHEN. 17 P R 1875

4. Power of Chief Court to set aside proceedings of Small Cause Court for want of jurisdiction and return the plaint.

Where a case is referred by a Small Cause Court at the request of one of the parties, the Chief Court can, if it appears that the lower Court was without jurisdiction, set aside the decree and order the plaint to be returned to the plaintiff for presentation to the proper Court. SHANKAR DAS v. GHASITA. 73 P R 1876

5. Small Cause Court—Transfer of cases.

Where a Small Cause Court is without jurisdiction, the Court must either dismiss the suit or return the plaint for presentation to the proper Court; the former Court has no power to transfer the suit to the latter Court. NUTHU v. MOODY. 74 P R 1876

6. Return of plaint after trial on the merits—Power of Appellate Court.

An Appellate Court has power to direct the return of a plaint, notwithstanding a trial upon the merits in the first Court, if it be found that such Court ought to have returned it under section 57 (a) of Act X of 1877. SHADI v. MUSSAMMAT AISHAN. 55 P R 1878

7. Return of plaint after trial—Power of Chief Court—Jurisdiction.

Where, on an application to the Chief Court to revise an order of the Judge, Small Cause Court dismissing plaintiff's claim, it appeared that if the plaint had been duly examined by the Judge, it would have been returned at once without summoning the defendant, as the Small Cause Court had no jurisdiction to entertain it, the Chief Court, following the previous rulings of the Court, directed that the decree of the Judge dismissing the plaintiff's suit should be altered into an order directing that the plaint be returned to the plaintiff for presentation by her, if so advised, to a Court of competent jurisdiction. Shankar Das v. Ghasita (No. 73 P. R. 1876,) and Shadi v. Mussammat Aishan (No. 55 P. R. 1878,) cited and approved. MUSSAMMAT PERMESHRI v. GOBIND RAM. 90 P R 1884

8. Return of plaint for presentation in proper Court—Cancellation of Court-fees—Restamping of plaint.

Held, that a plaint which has been returned by a Civil Court to the plaintiff, after cancellation of the stamp, for presentation in a Court of competent jurisdiction can be received by the latter Court without, being again stamped. Jagjivan Javherdas Seth v. Maqdum Ali (I. L. R. 7 Bom. 487) not followed. Mussammat Permeshri v. Gobind Ram (No. 90 P. R. 1884,) cited. MUSSAMMAT AMIN JAN v. IBRAHIM. 91 P R 1884

PLAINT—contd.

6. Return of—concld.

See APPEAL II.—COMPETENCY OF. 15 P R 1898

See APPEAL VI.—PROCEDURE IN. 59 P R 1896

See CAUSE OF ACTION V.—MISJOINDER. 41 P R 1887, 79 P R 1899

See JURISDICTION. 118 P R 1881, 147 P R 1882, 71 P R 1883, 132 P R 1883

See PLAINT 4.—AMENDMENT OF. 113 P R 1894

9. Return of—Erroneous valuation of suit or appeal—Jurisdiction—Practice.

It is not the present practice of the Chief Court on discovering that a suit or appeal has been erroneously valued to dismiss it on the ground of want of jurisdiction in the lower Courts, but to send it or cause it to be sent to the Court having jurisdiction.

Budha v. Muhammad Khan (No. 20 P. R. 1879, and Mussammat Permeshri v. Gobind Ram (No. 90 P. R., 1884), cited. MISHRI v. MUHAMMAD KHAN. 63 P R 1887

10. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 582 588, 589—Order of Appellate Court returning plaint for presentation to proper Court—"Decree."

Held, that an order of an Appellate Court returning a plaint, for presentation to the proper Court is not a "decree," but an order from which an appeal lies under sections 588, 589, of the Civil Procedure Code.

I. L. R. XXVI, Cal. 275, and I. L. R. XXI Mad. 234, followed; No. 15 P. R. 1898 not followed. HIRA LAL v. KARORI MAL. 59 P R 1899

7. Miscellaneous.

1. Variance between plaint and decree.

There should be no variance between the plaint and decree.—LALL SINGH v. DHERM CHUND. 97 P R 1868

2. Alternative reliefs—Inconsistent claims.

The plaintiffs sued to recover possession of a piece of land situate in front of their houses and shops, alleging that it had been jointly enjoyed by them, and that the defendants Nos. 1 and 2 having obtained a fictitious deed of sale of a portion thereof from defendant No. 5 had taken possession and commenced to build thereon, the relief sought being either a decree for possession of the land or an injunction restraining the defendants Nos. 1 and 2 from building thereon. Held, that the claims were not inconsistent, the difference being between sole right and joint right, and that the plaintiffs were at liberty to claim in the alternative exclusive possession or an injunction to restrain the defendants from interfering with their rights as co-sharers in the land in suit. GUJAR MAL AND OTHERS v. RAM RICHPAL AND OTHERS. 91 P R 1901

PLAINT—concld.

7. Miscellaneous—concld.

PLAINTIFF.

1. Meaning of the word "plaintiff."
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. IX, R. 9. 117 P R 1891

PLEA.

1. Plea of payment is not a set-off within the meaning of section 111 of the Code of Civil Procedure. BHAGAT SINGH v. DEVI DIAL. 85 P R 1908

2. Raised by defendant in Civil Court in respect of which a suit could be brought in Revenue Courts cannot be taken cognizance of.
See JURISDICTION OF CIVIL OR REVENUE COURTS. 76 P R 1909 F. B.

3. Raised at the last stage of the case, not entertainable.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. I., R. 9. 93 P R 1909 P. C.

PLEADER.

See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ACT, 1879.

1. Power of, to compromise suit.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XXIII, R. 3. 50 P R 1898

2. Authority of, to bind client under Oaths Act.
See OATHS ACT, SECTION 9. 75 P R 1900

3. Appointment of, as commissioner.
See PUNJAB TENANCY ACT, 1887, SECTION 16. 3 P R 1899 Rev.

4. Receipt given by—Stamp.
See STAMP. 85 P R 1885

. Not qualified for post of Zaildar.
See ZAILDAR. 3 P R 1887 Rev.

6. Practising without certificate.
Conducting a suit after Act XX of 1865 came into operation without a certificate under the Act, held, to be practising within the meaning of section 13, and renders the agent incapable of recovering his fees. BURKUT ALI KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT KANHO. 37 P R 1869

7. Fees—Discretion of Court.
A Court may not award more, but may award less, than the fees mentioned in Book Circular XXIV of 1866. SOOTOO v. HOLMES 71 P R 1869

8. Stamp on agreement for fees.
Where the agreement was to remunerate a pleader by paying a fixed sum at the close of the case, in any event, held, that it was an agreement for services, and should be stamped accordingly. DULPUT RAI v. RUHEEM BAKHSH. 86 P R 1869

9. Right of complainant to be represented by counsel.
Held, under section 376, Act XXV of 1861, that a complainant had a right to retain and be represented by his own pleader or counsel, but where Government took up a prosecution, the complainant's pleader would be led by the representative of Government. THE CROWN v. BIHAREE. 30 P R 1870 Cr.

PLEADER—concld.

10. The Court, without entering into the question of the legality of the agreement, in a case stated by a Small Cause Court Judge, held that an agreement to pay a pleader in the event of the case terminating successfully was a bond and should be stamped accordingly SPENCER v. EMAMOODDEEN. 82 P R 1870

11. Right of accused to be heard by counsel.
An appeal was filed on the 1st July, and appellant's pleader, who lived at a distance, requested by petition filed with the appeal, that the 13th July might be fixed for the hearing. On the 2nd July the Court dismissed the appeal on the merits, no one being present as appellant's counsel. Held, per LINDSAY and CUNNINGHAM, JJ., that it was incumbent on the Court to give appellant's pleader sufficient time to appear, as the accused was entitled under sections 417 and 432, Act XXV of 1861, to be heard by counsel or agent. Held per CAMPBELL, J. that the Lower Appellate Court had not erred in law in not giving appellant's pleader time to appear; but that the Court would have so erred had counsel appeared and been refused a hearing. FUZL v. THE CROWN. 31 P R 1870 Cr

12. Pleader and client—Agreement with client to share in the result of litigation—Professional misconduct—Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, section 13.
A, a pleader of the Chief Court of the Punjab, entered into an agreement with his client to conduct certain cases for him as pleader on the condition of receiving a share in the result of litigation. Held, that such conduct on the part of the pleader in the discharge of his professional duties is grossly improper within the meaning of section 13 of the Legal Practitioners Act, and such as renders the offender liable to grave censure and disciplinary action.
In re Ali Muhammad Mukhtar (111 P. R. 1894), Moung Htoon Oung (21 W. R. 297), In the matter of an Advocate of the Calcutta High Court (IV Cal. W. N. Civil) and in re Bhandara (III Bom. L. R. 102, F. B.) referred to and followed. IN THE MATTER OF A PLEADER OF THE CHIEF COURT OF THE PUNJAB. 69 P R 1904

PLEADER AND CLIENT.

See ADVOCATE.
See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ACT (XVIII OF 1879).

1. Champertous agreement between legal practitioner and client—Grossly improper conduct in discharge of professional duty.
See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ACT, 1879, SECTION 13. 111 P R 1894

2. Suit for fee—Absence of written agreement.
See LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ACT, 1879, SECTION 28.
54 P R 1881
160 P R 1888
136 P R 1893

PLEADER AND CLIENT—contd.

3. Suit to recover fees.
A contract for fees can be enforced by pleader in a regular suit. Durbara Singh v. Mussammat Teeka Devee (No. 88 P. R. 1868), but the Court may inquire into the legality of the agreement of the failure to render services.
A pleader was retained by Chund Kour, a prisoner in jail, to prefer and conduct an appeal to the Chief Court, receiving Rs. 80 for a fee. His client also executed a document in which she promised to pay him Rs. 800 if she were acquitted. The pleader drafted the grounds of appeal, which he forwarded to the Chief Court by an agent. Two other prisoners, convicted with Chund Kour, and appealed to the Chief Court, and her appeal was ordered to be heard on the date fixed for the other appeal. This order did not come to the knowledge of the pleader, and on the 11th January (the date fixed) the appeals were considered in his absence and his client's acquittal ordered by the Court. Two days later, the pleader appeared at Court to attend to the appeal, and then learnt that his client's case was disposed of. Upon her refusal to pay the promised sum of Rs. 800, the pleader sued for the amount, contending that the event (his client's acquittal) had happened, which, according to the agreement entitled him to be paid the Rs. 800. Held, by the Chief Court that as the pleader had not rendered the services which his client contemplated as the consideration for her promise, he was not entitled to recover even if the action or interference of the Chief Court in ordering his client's release could not have been provided for by the pleader, and was the cause of his non-attendance at the hearing of the appeal. Held, also, that, considering the confidential relationship between the pleader and his client, the burden was upon the former of proving that he acted in good faith in taking the agreement. Held, also, that if the client had promised to pay, and there was no obligation that the pleader should work, the agreement was void for want of reciprocity.
Held, by Boulnois and Campbell, JJ. that if a client's promise was only to make a present or to pay shukrana, in the event of being acquitted, his promise was not binding on him. MUSSAMMAT CHUND KOUR v. KUNHYA LALL. 8 P R 1873

4. Held, by Boulnois and Campbell, JJ., that the agreement was not illegal, where the pleader received a certain fee and it was arranged that he should receive a further fee if the decree were in the client's favour or if the suit were compromised. DURGA DUT v. NARPUT. 19 P R 1873

5. Held, by Boulnois and Melvill, JJ., that an agreement that a person accused of a criminal offence will pay his pleader a sum of money by way of a fee if the former be acquitted, is unauthorized by Act XX of 1865, section 39, and is therefore necessarily opposed to public policy and void, by section 23, Act IX of 1872: but held

PLEADER AND CLIENT—contd.

by Lindsay J., that neither in a civil suit nor in a criminal prosecution is it illegal for a pleader to agree with his client that the payment of the fee, or a portion of it, shall depend upon the case terminating in favor of the client. BEECHCY v. GHOLAM GHOUS. 26 P R 1874

6. Recognized agent—Notification of 25*th September* 1866.

In the lower Appellate Court, the appellant was represented by an agent who was not a licensed pleader or mukhtar. The lower Court refused to recognize the agent, and treating the appellant as unrepresented, dismissed the appeal for default of prosecution. Held, that the Courts have a discretion, under Notification No. 1225, dated 26th September 1866, to object to hear a particular agent; but as the lower Court had refused to hear the appellant's agent on the ground merely that he was not a licensed practitioner, the Court had acted without jurisdiction, and the appeal must be restored to the file. HAZUR SINGH v. JIWAH. 28 P R 1875

7. Payment of fee contingent on success—Quantum meruit.

A pleader cannot recover his fees secured to him by a contract that he shall be paid if his client is successful in the suit conducted by the pleader. Beechey v. Gholam Ghous (No. 26 P. R. 1874), followed. Held, also, that where there is an agreement to perform services, if the agreement itself cannot be sued upon, the plaintiff is not entitled to sue upon a quantum meruit. MAHOMMAD BAKHSH v. SPENCER. 63 P R 1876

8. Contingent contract—Act XX of 1865, section 39—Act IX of 1872, section 23.

A contract to pay a Pleader Rs. 200 conditional on his obtaining the imprisonment of an accused person is void as opposed to public policy. BEECHEY v. BUDHU MAL. 27 P R 1877

9. Right of accused to services of pleader—Criminal Procedure Code, section 186.

Where the Magistrate of the District refused to allow a pleader to appear on behalf of two accused persons under trial in his Court, the Chief Court directed the Magistrate to allow the accused to be defended by Counsel or Pleader, with liberty to recall witnesses, and thereafter to record a fresh judgment. NANAK v. THE CROWN. 9 P R 1877 Cr.

10. Loss of confidence in pleader—Breach of contract.

The defendant, after engaging plaintiff, as his pleader, saw him in company with one B. L., between whom and defendant there was enmity, and, in consequence, lost confidence in plaintiff. Held, (Campbell, J., dissenting) under the circumstances, that defendant was not entitled to break his contract and discharge plaintiff without paying him the full fee stipulated for. DEVI CHAND v. KUNDAN LALL. 49 P R 1877

11. Agreement by pleader for extra remuneration contingent on success—Contract Act,

PLEADER AND CLIENT—contd.

IX of 1872, sections 10 and 23—Act XX of 1865, section 39.

Held, by the Full Bench, that the effect of section 39 of Act XX of 1865 is not to restrict the power of a pleader and client to settle by private agreement the remuneration to be paid to the former by the latter for professional services, but to leave them at full liberty to make such agreements, subject to the provisions of the general law of contract.

The validity of such an agreement when called in question must be determined by applying the tests prescribed in the Contract Act, 1872.

Held, further, by the Full Bench, that an agreement between a pleader and client regarding the remuneration for professional services of the former in conducting a legal proceeding for his client in Court, which stipulates for payment to the pleader, in addition to a sum to be paid in advance, of a further sum conditional upon success, is not void as being opposed to public policy, merely because it contains such a stipulation.

Circumstances affecting the validity of such agreements considered.

The decision of the majority of the Full Bench in Beechey v. Gholam Ghous (No. 26 P. R., 1874), regarding the operation of section 39, Act XX of 1865, dissented from. BEECHEY v. FAIZ MAHOMED. 5 P R 1878

12. Act IX of 1872, sections 32 and 53—Contingent Contract—Shukrana.

L, a Pleader, was retained to appear for the plaintiffs in a suit at Karnal. A certain fee was paid to him by his clients in advance, and one S. D. agreed in writing to pay L. a further fee of Rs. 250 in the event of plaintiffs' obtaining a decree in the Karnal Court. After L. had made two or three appearances on his client's behalf in the Karnal Court, the case was compromised by the parties in L.'s absence and without his advice or co-operation. L. therefore instituted this suit for Rs. 250 against S. D., alleging that he had been prevented from performing his contract within the meaning of section 53, Act IX of 1872, and had suffered damage accordingly.

Held, per Curiam, that the sum claimed was not recoverable.

Per LINDSAY, J.—Because section 53 of the Contract Act was not applicable to the case, as the contract in question contained no reciprocal promises, nor could it be said that S. D. had prevented L. from performing his contract: but that the case was that of a contingent contract within the meaning of section 32 of the Contract Act, and the event having become impossible, the contract was void.

Per THORNTON, J.—Because it was no element in the contract that plaintiffs should not withdraw from their suit, and therefore their having done so gave L. no claim against S. D. who was no party to the suit. SHUNKAR DAS v. LUDLAM. 155 P R 1879

PLEADER AND CLIENT—concld.

13. Pleader and client—Suit by pleader to recover fee from client—Suit for amount actually allowed on taxation—Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, sections 28—30.

Held, that a pleader is not debarred by the provision of the Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, from recovering a fee from his client which is actually allowed on taxation. Sections 28—30 of the Act are applicable only to those cases, in which agreements made between pleaders and their clients relate to the payment of remuneration in excess of, and apart from the amount allowed in the taxation. SARJU PARSHAD v. GIRDHARI LAL. 1 P R 1909

PLEADER'S FEE.

—Mode of calculation—Book Circular No. CV.

Under the rules contained in Book Circular No. CV on the subject of calculating pleaders' fees, what is to be regarded in calculating such fees is the value of the property or interest sued for, when that can be determined, no reference being made in the above rules to the value fixed under the Court Fees Act. DHARM SINGH v. ATTAR SINGH. 59 P R 1886

PLEADERS' CLERKS.

—Presentation of memo. of appeal by pleader's clerk—Recognized agent—Legal Practitioners Act, 1879, section 10.

See APPEAL VI.—PROCEDURE IN. 6 P R 1896

PLEDGE.

1. By co-owner in possession.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 178. 1 P R 1895

2. Power of wife to pledge husband's credit—European Christians.

See CONTRACT ACT, 1872, SECTION 187. 63 P R 1899

3. Of joint family property by elder brother for binding on minor brothers.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—JOINT FAMILY. 66 P R 1899

PLEADINGS.

1. Private award—Plea in bar.

See ARBITRATION. 32 P R 1888

2. Inconsistent pleas.

See CAUSE OF ACTION OF. 41 P R 1887

See PLAINT 2.—FORM OF. 109 P R 1887

See PLAINT 4.—AMENDMENT OF. 161 P R 1888 106 P R 1893

3. Party must succeed on case put forward in plaint.

See PLAINT 4.—AMENDMENT OF. 68 P R 1886

4. Suit for possession by prior purchaser—Defendants pleading right of pre-emption in property sold—Validity of such plea.

See VENDOR AND PURCHASER. 32 P R 1884

PLEADINGS.

5. Secundum allegata et probata.

A plaintiff cannot allege one sort of claim and be allowed to prove another sort of claim. Where plaintiff sued simply upon a bond which recited that it was in accordance with former bonds and executed by defendant after understanding the accounts and the Court found that the defendant never executed the instrument, held, that plaintiff could not be allowed to recover on an account stated. GHAILA SINGH v. AHMED KHAN. 32 P R 1876

6. Practice—Decree based on facts not founded on pleadings.

Plaintiffs sued for the south lao of well No. 2681, and land attached thereto, alleging that, of two wells common property, at a division, they received the whole of one well No. 715, and one lao of well No. 2681. Defendants pleaded that at division the whole of well No. 715 was given to plaintiffs, and the whole of No. 2681 to defendants. The plaintiffs thereupon undertook to prove enjoyment of possession in accordance with the division alleged by them.

The Tahsildar decreed the claim as laid, but this decree was reversed by the Judicial Assistant. The Commissioner on appeal was of opinion that " the plaintiffs' claim was not " quite properly laid," and that, " it should " have been for a decree declaring that both " wells were the common property of the two " pattis or the whole village, and that the " land attached to them and rights of irri-" gation should be equally divided." He decreed accordingly.

Held, that the decree of the Commissioner was not maintainable, he not being competent to change the form of the suit, and to pass a decree passed on a view of the facts which had not been alleged by either party.

The determination of a cause should be founded upon a case either to be found in the pleadings or involved in or consistent with the case thereby made. TOTA v. JOWAHIRA. 36 P R 1879

7. Basis of decision of case—Suit for ejectment of widow—Court finding plaintiff not entitled to immediate possession, but declaring his right as heir on the widow's death —Dismissal of suit.

In a suit for ejectment of a widow, who was in possession of her husband's estate, the plaint was framed as one for immediate possession on the ground that by custom the plaintiff as nephew of the female defendant's late husband, was entitled to succeed to his estate, while the female defendant was only entitled to maintenance. The Court below, though it found (for reasons stated) that the plaintiff was not entitled to immediate possession according to the terms of the plaint instead of dismissing the suit, proceeded to declare that on the widow's death the plaintiff would be the heir, in preference to another claimant, who on his own application had been impleaded as a defendant, on the allegation that he was the rightful heir to the estate and not the plaintiff.

Held, that the Court below should on its findings have passed a decree for the dismissal of the plaintiffs 'suit, leaving the question as to the reversionary right of succession on the widow's death open for future decision in a suit properly framed with the view of obtaining such a declaration.

PLEADINGS—contd.

The determination in a cause must be founded upon a case, either to be found in the pleadings or involved in, or consistent with, the case there made. ALI GAUHAR KHAN v. MUHAMMAD HUSSAIN. 159 P R 1888

8. Civil Procedure Code—Forms of action —Statement of facts in plaint.

The Divisional Judge dismissed the plaintiff's suit as a suit for the price of goods sold and delivered, and directed the plaintiff to sue on a contract of 10th April 1885 ; he also held that the suit as laid, viz., for the price of goods sold to the defendant as an ordinary purchaser independently of the contract would not lie, and that plaintiff's proper remedy was to sue for a statement of account on the contract.

Held, that the Divisional Judge's decree should be reversed, and a hearing of the appeal directed.

The Code of Civil Procedure does not deal with forms of action: it requires a statement of facts in the plaint and that the plaint should disclose a cause of action. If a causse of action is disclosed that cause of action is to be barred and determined subject to the defence of the defendant. MUHAMMAD SHARIF v. SHAMSHER KHAN. 11 P R 1891

9. Suit for declaration of exclusive possession—Finding that exclusive possession not proved—Decree according to evidence.

The plaintiffs alleging exclusive possession of two small plots of land, sued for declaration of their title.

The first Court found their possession, and title proved and gave them a decree.

On appeal, the Divisional Judge held that as the plaintiffs' exclusive possession was not proved, their suit must be dismissed, and that they should sue for possession and prove their title, if so advised.

Held, that it was competent to the Court to decree title according to the evidence, even if exclusive possession was not shown, and even to amend the plaint and decree exclusive possession, if desired. I. L. R. XVII Calc. 814 referred to. BUTA v. SATAR BAKHSH 67 P R 1891

10. Mortgage—subsequent sale of land to third person—Right to redeem—Pleadings.

M. S. owned 34 ghumaos of land. He mortgaged to the defendant 20 ghumaos for Rs. 490 for a term which had expired, and 14 ghumaos for Rs. 220 for a term which had not expired.

After these mortgages, M. S. sold the whole 34 ghumaos to the plaintiff for Rs. 3,000 by a deed of sale, as to which it was admitted that M. S. had executed the instrument and received Rs. 366 in cash before the Sub-Registrar. The deed acknowledged receipt of the Rs. 3,000

PLEADINGS—contd.

thus—two deeds of mortgage to defendants for Rs. 710 (above specified), other book debts, and cash Rs. 366.

The plaintiff then sued to redeem the mortgage of 20 ghumaos for Rs. 490. He relied upon the deed of sale as showing his title to redeem.

The first Court found that there was no fraud or undue influence as pleaded by the defendants ; that Rs. 366 had been paid, as admitted, but that there was no necessity for the sale, and dismissed the suit on this latter ground.

The Divisional Judge decreed the plaintiff's claim, as the plaintiff had paid Rs. 366, and the mortgages for Rs. 700 were assigned to him, leaving it open to the defendants to contest the sale in all other respects in a separate suit.

Held, by PLOWDEN, J. (FRIZELLE, J. dissenting), that the decree of the lower Appellate Court was correct and should be maintained.

The plaintiff had proved an assignment to him of the mortgage in suit and a consideration for the assignment. That was enough to enable the plaintiff to maintain the suit, and to dispose of the plea that the transaction of sale was wholly fictitious and void.

The proper way of raising the question, whether the sale was good, or was only valid as a charge for Rs. 366, was by bringing a cross-suit, in which the defendants, as plaintiffs, could only have succeeded upon paying whatever was a valid charge upon the land, in the event of the sale being set aside and a charge being established. BUTA v. KHUSHAL SINGH 101 P R 1891

11. Plaint—ocundum allegata—Decree of occupancy rights on basis other than that sued for—Material irregularity.

The plaintiff sued for occupancy rights under section 5, sub-section (1) (d), Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887 : the Commissioner being of opinion that the plaintiff had rights of occupancy under sub-section (1) (a) decreed accordingly, considering it unnecessary to determine whether the plaintiff was entitled to succeed upon the grounds alleged by him in his plaint.

Held, by the Financial Commissioner on revision, that it was a material irregularity on the part of the Commissioner to award the plaintiff a higher status than that asked for. The plaintiff had made no claim under section 5, sub-section (1) (a), or amended his plaint asking for such relief, or in any way advanced a claim to be of a higher status than that described in sub-section (1) (d). DAULAT KHAN v. MAST ALI. 1 P R 1892 Rev.

12. Suit for land awarded at partition of whole culturable land of village—Parties—Duty of Appellate Court.

The plaintiff sued eleven defendants for possession of a small corner of gorah land which had been awarded to him at a partition of the whole culturable land of the village.

POSSESSION—contd.

Held, following the decision of the Full Bench, No. 93 P. R. 1879, that the decrees of the Courts below could not be sustained on the ground on which they proceeded.

Decrees are ordinarily absolute and unconditional, and as to such decrees it is clear that, as a rule, they must be enforced by process of execution and not by separate suit, and that if they be not enforced within the period of limitation fixed by law for their execution the decree-holder has lost his remedy. HAFIZ BAHA-UD-DIN v. MUSSAMMAT FATTEH BIBI. 16 P R 1893

28. Practice—Suit for exclusive possession Finding of joint ownership—Decree according to evidence.

Held, that in a suit by plaintiffs claiming exclusive possession as owner of immovable property, in which the defendants plead that they also are entitled to the property it is competent to the Court, if it finds that the property belongs to the parties jointly, to give the plaintiffs a decree for joint possession. JAG RAM v. HANS RAJ. 17 P R 1893

29. Possession—Ejectment—Suit by person ejected brought more than six months from date of dispossession against one having no title—Title of possession—Burden of proof—Specific Relief Act, 1877—Section 9.

Possession in law being a substantive right or interest which exists and has legal incidents and advantages apart from the true owner's title, a person in possession of land without title has an interest in the property which is good against all the world except the true owner. Therefore, where a plaintiff has been forcibly dispossessed of immovable property by a person having no title, he can sue for possession simply on the strength of the possession which he had before he was dispossessed, provided he sues within the twelve years' period allowed by article 142 of the Limitation Act. In such a suit, unless defendant proves a title, plaintiff should succeed without being asked to prove his own title to ownership and even if the defendant proves that he has no such title.

Section 9, Specific Relief Act, does not expressly take away this remedy, and was not intended to do so. Under that section a claim by the dispossessed person brought within six months of dispossession is good, and must be decreed, even against the rightful owner, who is not permitted to set up his title as a defence. After the expiry of the prescribed six months' period the only difference is that a defendant is permitted to prove his title, and on proof thereof defeats the plaintiff's claim. If, on the other hand, after the expiry of the six months plaintiff sues on the strength of previous possession and forcible dispossession, and defendant is unable to prove his title, or is shown to have no title, plaintiff will succeed without having to prove his title.

Mustapha Sahib v. Santha Pillai (I. L. R. XXIII Mad. 179), Ismail Arif v. Mahomed Ghous (I. L. R. XX Calc. 834), Hanmantrav v. Secretary of State for India (I. L. R. XXV Bom. 287), Premraj Bhavaniram v. Narayan Shivaram Khisti (I. L. R. VI Bom. 215), Shama Soonduree Debia v. Collector of Malda (12 W. R. 165), Wali Ahmad Khan v. Ajudhia Kandu (I. L. R. XIII All. 537), Asher v. Whitlock (L. R I Q. B. 1), Krishnacharya v. Lingawa (I. L. R. XX Bom. 270), Sundar v. Parbati (I. L. R. XII All. 51 P. C.) and Gobind Prasad v. Mohan Lal (I. L. R. XXIV All. 157), cited.

POSSESSION—contd.

Wise v. Ameerunnissa Khatoon (L. R. VII I. A. 73), Permeshur Chowdhry v. Bujo Lal Chowdhry (I. L. R. XVII Calc. 256), Debi Charn Boido v. Issur Chander Manjee (I. L. R. IX Calc. 39), Ertaza Hossein v. Bang Mistri (I. L. R. IX Calc. 130), Ameer Bibi v. Tookroonissa Begam (7 W. R. 332), Mussammat Tookroonissa Begam v. Mogul Jan Bibi (8 W. R. 370), and Nissa Chand Gaita v. Kanchiram Bayani (I. L. R. XVI Calc. 579), dismissed and doubted. ABDUL HAMID v. SARBULAND KHAN. 78 P R 1902

30. Possession—Wrongful possession over the estate of a deceased upon pretended claims—Summary procedure for the rightful heir to obtain possession—Act XIX of 1841.

Held, that the provisions of Act XIX of 1841 being intended to meet special circumstances only should not be put in motion until the Judge is fully satisfied by adequate evidence of the existence of the conditions required by section 3 of that Act, i.e. that the person in possession has no lawful title, and that the person applying is likely to be materially prejudiced if left to the ordinary remedy of a regular suit.

The procedure for a summary suit under Act XIX of 1841, considered and discussed. MUSSAMMAT JAGOJI AND OTHERS v. MAN MOHAN NATH. 7 P R 1904

31. Possession—Ejectment—Suit for possession by person dispossessed against one having better title than himself—Title of possession—Burden of proof—Specific Relief Act, 1877, section 9.

Possession on the strength of which a suit can be brought for recovery of immovable property after dispossession by the defendant where the suit is not of the nature contemplated in section 9 of the Specific Relief Act must be of proprietary character and of long standing. Therefore a dispossessed plaintiff who was not the real owner of the disputed property but a mere temporary squatter and was dispossessed under colour of title by the defendant in whose favour the property was mutated by the Revenue authorities cannot succeed simply on the strength of such previous possession, but must prove a title in himself to justify a decree for recovery of possession.

Sudama v. Kesho (102 P. R. 1879), referred to. TULIA AND ANOTHER v. GOPI AND ANOTHER. 51 P R 1904

32. Mere non-occupation and cultivation of unculturable land for a long period does not in the absence of a motive or evidence of intention to abandon or of adverse possession for POSSESSION—concld.

the statutory period constitute abandonment. SHAHABAL SHAH v. GANESH DAS. 53 P R 1907

33. Adverse possession—Possession of a widow in lieu of maintenance—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 144.

Held, that the mere fact that a widow of a pre-deceased son entitled to maintenance from the estate of her father-in-law had been in possession of the latter's estate for a long time would not in the absence of an assertion of any rival rights or pretention to adverse possession by her raise the ordinary presumption that she had been in possession adversely to the real heir; especially where there was evidence that she had been in possession with the consent of the distant reversioners in lieu of maintenance. BURA MAL v. NARAIN DAS. 102 P R 1907

34. Vendor and purchaser—Agreement to sell to B—Subsequent sale to C with notice of original contract—Suit for possession by 'B'—Priority—Penalty mentioned in contract no bar to specific performance—Specific Relief Act, 1877, sections 20, 27 (b).

A having entered into an agreement to sell certain property to B subsequently sold it under a registered deed to C, who had notice of the original contract to sell to B. Thereupon B brought a suit for possession by specific performance of his agreement. Held that B was entitled to possession. And that the title of C, though based on a registered deed, was ineffective against B, and did not afford a valid defence, his purchase having been with notice of the original contract.

Held also, that in such cases a party should not be allowed to evade specific performance merely because the agreement provided a penalty to be paid on default. HUKUM CHAND v. NIKKA SINGH. 15 P R 1908

35. Suit for possession of immovable property by a vendee in actual possession—Right of suit.

Held that a person in actual possession of immovable property cannot maintain a suit for possession merely because the nature of his possession is disputed by the defendant. MUNSHI RAM v. HAMMI. 61 P R 1908

POSTPONEMENT OF EXECUTION-SALE.

—Omission to issue fresh proclamation.
See EXECUTION OF DECREE. 45 P R 1886

POVERTY.

—Sufficient ground for extension of time for the deposit of security for respondents' costs in appeal to Privy Council.
See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, O. XLV, R. 7. 44 P R 1910

POWERS OF JUDICIAL OFFICERS.

See JUDICIAL ASSISTANT.

PRACTICE.

See APPEAL—VI. PROCEDURE IN. PLEADINGS.

1. Appeal in civil cases—Deposit in a box.

See APPEAL—V. LIMITATION OF. 101 P R 1890

2. Notice—Objection to sufficiency of notice made after issues had been framed on the merits by consent of parties—Admissibility of such objection.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 80. 155 P R 1890

3. Deciding case on tour without giving notice to plaintiff of place of hearing—Sufficient cause to restore such suit to the file.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908 O. IX, R. 3. 37 P R 1904

4. Erroneous valuation of suit or appeal—Return of plaint.

See PLAINT—6. RETURN OF. 63 P R 1887

5. Dismissal of suit for non-attendance on a holiday.

Attendance at a Civil Court on a holiday must be voluntary ; neither party can be compelled to attend, and the Court is not competent to dismiss the suit in default if either party fails to appear. SHARAF v. MUSSAMMAT GURDEVI. 86 P R 1890

6. Vakalatnamas—Advocates.

An advocate of the Chief Court, who is not an Advocate of Chartered High Court, is bound, to file a power-of-attorney to enable him to appear in Civil cases. Re An Advocate. 103 P R 1890

PRE-EMPTION.

1. GENERAL.
2. RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS.
3. RIGHT OF, ON SALE OF SHOPS.
4. RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP.
5. RIGHT OF, ON MORTGAGES.
6. RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES.
7. CONSTRUCTION OF WAJIB-UL-ARZ.
8. LIMITATION.
9. NOTICE.
10. PURCHASE MONEY (PRICE).
11. PAYMENT INTO COURT.
12. COMPENSATION FOR IMPROVEMENTS.
13. CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS.
14. LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT.
15. PUNJAB LAWS ACT, 1872.
16. PRE-EMPTION ACT, 1905.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

1—GENERAL.

(a). Value for purposes of appeal.

See APPEAL—II. COMPETENCY OF. 29 P R 1893

See APPEAL—VIII. SECOND. 94 P R 1890 3 P R 1896

See PUNJAB COURTS ACT, 1884, SECTION 39. 32 P R 1901

(b). Valuation of suit for.

See COURT-FEES. 6 P R 1883

(c). Sale by widows.

See CUSTOM—I. B. ALIENATION BY WIDOW. (a). GIFTS. 49 P R 1886

(d). See ESTOPPEL. 104 P R 1882

(e). Exchange of land, during pendency of suit, to a pre-emptor having superior rights after expiry of period of limitation—Application of doctrine of lis pendens.

See LIS PENDENS. 30 P R 1911

(f). Purchase of mortgaged land—Right to keep alive prior mortgage redeemed by purchaser—Pre-emption rights.

See MORTGAGE—MERGER. 67 P R 1899

(g). Pre-emption—Death of claimant pendente lite—Abatement of suit—Muhammadan Law.

See MUHAMMADAN LAW—RULE OF MUHAMMADAN LAW WHEN SUPERSEDED. 98 P R 1898

(h). It is not "superior diligence" to file a suit a week before a rival pre-emptor files his suit.

See PRE-EMPTION, UNDER PUNJAB LAWS ACT, 1872. 7 P R 1910

(i). The Punjab Pre-emption Act does not recognise a right of pre-mortgage.

See PRE-EMPTION, UNDER PRE-EMPTION ACT, SECTION 3. 82 P R 1909

(j). Applicability of section 28 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, to rights already accrued—Change of rule as to existence of custom no ground against applicability.

See PRE-EMPTION, UNDER PRE-EMPTION ACT, 1905, SECTION 28. 131 P R 1907 143 P R 1907

(k). Deed of sale of right of pre-emption—Registration—Admissibility in evidence of unregistered deed—Right to or in immovable property.

See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17. 136 P R 1894

(l). Pre-emption—Rival claimants—Each claimant made defendant in the other suit—

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

1.—GENERAL—contd.

*Suits tried together but decided by separate decrees—Decree allowing pre-emption in one case only on condition of default by other pre-emptor—Finality of decree in superior pre-emptor's suit—Appeal by inferior pre-emptor his own suit—*Res judicata.

See RES JUDICATA. 8 P R 1904

(m). *Pre-emption—Rival claimants—Each claimant made defendant in the other suit—Suits tried together but decided by separate decrees—Decree allowing pre-emption in one case only on condition of default by other pre-emptor—Finality of decree in superior pre-emptor's suit—Appeal by inferior pre-emptor in his own suit—*Res judicata.

See RES JUDICATA. 85 P R 1905 F. B.

(n). Suit for pre-emption of land—Value of relief sought—Finding of Court exceeding its pecuniary limits of jurisdiction—Effect of.

See VALUATION OF SUIT, 16 P R 1908 F. B.

(o). Value of suit for pre-emption of land—Effect of actual value exceeding the value as fixed by the Suits Valuation Act, 1887.

See VALUATION OF SUIT. 46 P R 1908

(p). Validity of pleas of right of pre-emption in answer to suit for possession by prior against subsequent purchaser.

See VENDOR AND PURCHASER. 32 P R 1884

(q). Vendor and purchaser—Personal covenant of indemnity against defective title—Acquisition of property by pre-emptor—Defective title—Right of pre-emptor to enforce covenant against original vendor.

See VENDOR AND PURCHASER. 141 P R 1907

(r). Decree for pre-emption against purchaser—Right of purchaser to recover from vendor the loss sustained by him in the transaction—Covenant for title.

See VENDOR AND PURCHASER. 111 P R 1908

1. Hindu widow.

Suit by a pre-emptor to set aside a mortgage effected by a Hindu widow of property of her late husband to which she succeeded on a life interest. Held, that while the pre-emption rules applied only to permanent transfers, and not to mortgages, the plaintiff was entitled to a declaratory decree, to the effect that all that was mortgaged was the widow's life interest in the property. MAN SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT DYDEE. 98 P R 1868

2. Refusal of vendor to sell after right of pre-emption asserted.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

1.—GENERAL—contd.

Held, formerly, that a pre-emptor who had established his right on account of vicinage in a Court of law, could not force a sale to him, when both vendor and vendee, the original parties to the contract, elected to recede from the bargain, and annul the sale. BAHADOOR v. MOTEE RAM (No. 39 P. R. 1867) and BUNSEE LALL v. BUNSEE.

4 P R 1869

3. But afterwards held that a vendor could not refuse to sell to one whose right of pre-emption had been decreed; the force of such decree being not merely to set aside the sale to a particular person, but to put the pre-emptor in the vendee's shoes, on condition that the pre-emptor pay the price. THURMAN SINGH v. JHABA MULL.

34 P R 1870

4. Right of pre-emptor to purchase a part only of the property sold.

The vendor and pre-emptor were in joint possession of three out of four plots sold by the former. The pre-emptor claimed on the ground of relationship, but limited his claim to two only of the four plots, not wishing to purchase the remaining two.

Held, that the pre-emptor was bound to purchase all the plots or forego his claims altogether. MAHOMAD DIN v. DINA.

11 P R 1874

5. Held, under Act IV of 1872, section 17, that the vendor could not retract after the pre-emptor had come forward and asserted his rights. KHARAK SINGH v. BHUP CHAND.

27 P R 1874

6. Christian vendor—Act IV of 1872.

The law of pre-emption, as contained in Act IV of 1872, section 9, etc., applies to a case where the vendor is a Christian: the Act does not exempt any class of persons or persons of any particular religion, from its operation. MUSSAMMAT TAJWAR SULTAN BEGAM v. SHORE.

23 P R 1875

7. Withdrawal from sale of parties thereto—Effect as against pre-emptor.

Held, that when a sale is complete it is no longer open to the parties to undo their completed act, so as to deprive the pre-emptor of his right. KHANA v. DEWA SINGH.

62 P R 1879

8. Custom—Suburbs of Delhi—Act IV of 1872*—Right of pre-emptor to follow property in hands of second purchaser—Compensation of second purchaser—Saraogi sect—Rights of adopted son amongst.*

B. M., adopted son of M. S., a member of the Saraogi sect, sued for pre-emption in respect to a house situate in Pahari Dhiraj in the suburbs of the city of Delhi, sold by U. S., cousin of M. S.'s late husband B. D. to M. M. The Court directed M. S. to be added as plaintiff, and also directed C. M.. to whom the house was resold by M. M., to be added as a defendant.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

1.—GENERAL—contd.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption prevailed in the suburbs of the city of Delhi where the house was situate, and

Held, that, though the evidence was not clear that among Saraogis an adopted son from the moment of his adoption by a widow takes his father's property, the plaintiff B. M. had primâ facie established that by custom he had a right of ownership in such property sufficient to entitle him to claim pre-emption.

Held, further that, when the customary right of pre-emption, described in Act IV of 1872, prevails, the second purchaser of property which is subject to the right of pre-emption takes a title from his vendor which is liable to be defeated by a successful claim for pre-emption against the first vendor and purchaser; and that the pre-emptor is entitled to follow the property into his hands without being bound to pay him the sum he may have paid as purchase money in excess of the original price.

The compensation of the second purchaser is a matter to be settled between the second purchaser and his vendor, and not between him and the pre-emptor. MUSSAMMAT SHAKRO v. MOLAR MAL. 68 P R 1879

9. Suit by two claimants as co-plaintiffs—Misjoinder—Procedure—Act X of 1877, section 32.

In a suit for pre-emption, held, that it was not competent for two proprietors in the village, each entitled to claim pre-emption on the sale to which the suit related, but not having a joint right of pre-emption, to institute a single action as co-plaintiffs.

Held, further, that the proper course for a Court of first instance to adopt when such an error in the frame of the suit is brought to its notice, is to order the name of one of the plaintiffs to be struck out under section 32 of the Code of Civil Procedure, before going on to investigate the case on its merits. BARU MUL v. RADHA KISHEN. 3 P R 1881

10. Sale of several properties in a single bargain—Pre-emptor suing to enforce his right in such part of the property only as is subject to his right—Principle that pre-emptor must take over whole bargain how far applicable—Right of co-sharer in well to claim pre-emption over land watered by the well which is separate property of a co-sharer in the well—Custom.

Held, by the Full Bench, that where a person is owner of several distinct properties, of which one is subject to a right of pre-emption, and he sells such properties in a single bargain to a person other than the pre-emptor, the latter is entitled, when the right of pre-emption exists and the claim is made under Act IV of 1872, to bring a suit to enforce his right in respect of the property subject to his right alone, without suing to take over the whole bargain.

The principle that the pre-emptor is bound to take over the whole of the bargain, as settled by the vendor, is a principle which may be admitted to the extent that the pre-emptor cannot omit to claim any portion of the property comprised in the bargain to which his right of pre-emption extends, but it cannot, consistently with the provisions of Act IV of 1872, be held to oblige him to claim the whole of the property sold when his right of pre-emption extends over only a portion of such property.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

1.—GENERAL—contd.

Held further, that there is nothing in the express provisions of Act IV of 1872, which gives to a co-sharer in a well as such co-sharer a right of pre-emption over land which, being the separate property of a co-sharer in the well, is watered by the well: but it may be that by custom, when a well is owned by several co-sharers, and land, being the separate property of a co-sharer in the well and watered by the well, is sold, the right to acquire such land belongs to the co-sharers in preference to all other persons. Mahomed Din v. Dina (No. 11 P. R. 1874), Dewa v. Dia Ram (No. 98 P. R. 1876), and Fatteh Chand v. Nihal Singh (No. 106 P. R. 1880), referred to. SARDAR LALL SINGH v. DEWA SINGH.

107 P R 1882

11. Sale of land to three sets of purchasers in one single conveyance—Plaintiff claiming pre-emption of that portion of the land only over which he had a preferential right—Right to succeed as to such portion only.

In a suit for pre-emption, plaintiffs claimed two-thirds of four khatas of land sold in one single conveyance to three sets of people, alleging that though they and the purchasers of one-third of the four khatas had equal rights of pre-emption, the other two sets of purchasers were strangers and had no right as against the plaintiffs who were collaterals of the vendor.

Held, that as the plaintiffs had not rights of pre-emption of the whole land, they were justified in suing for that part of the land only to which their rights extended, and as they had proved their preferential right, and were not shown to have waived their rights or acted otherwise than in good faith, they were entitled to set aside the sale of the two-thirds of the land which they claimed. Sardar Lall Singh v Dewa Singh (No. 107 P. R. 1882 F. B.), cited. KAIM v. AMBIA. 44 P R 1883

12. Decree in respect of prior sale—Subsequent sale by first purchasers to third party—Right to sue arising out of such sale.

Held, that when a decree for pre-emption has been obtained in respect to a prior sale, and has become final, a suit for pre-emption cannot be maintained in respect to a subsequent sale by the purchasers at the prior sale to a third party. Mussammat Shakro v. Molar Mal (No. 68 P. R. 1879) cited. KARIM BAKHSH v. GHULAM MUSTAFA.

146 P R 1883

13. Original vendee re-selling to third party with pre-emptive right—Claim by plain- tiff with right superior to original vendee, but inferior to second vendee—Dismissal of claim.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.
1.—GENERAL—contd.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the owner of the property in suit first sold to one S., who subsequently resold to one S. A. in compliance with his pre-emptive right, whereupon the plaintiff, whose right was superior to that of S., but inferior to that of S. A., sued the vendor, together with S. and S. A., for pre-emption of the first sale.

Held, that the plaintiff's suit failed, as there is no ground for holding that where, after a sale has taken place, an acknowledged pre-emptor comes forward and claims the bargain, and in recognition of his rights the purchaser conveys the property to him, the latter can be ousted and made to give way to another pre-emptor with claims inferior to his own because the said pre-emptor sues to enforce his right by a suit. Fatteh Chand v. Nihal Singh (No. 106 P. R. 1880) distinguished. AMIRULLAH SHAH v. TABE HUSSEIN. 138 P R 1884

14. Muhammadan converted from Hinduism claiming from Sikh vendor as ek-jaddi—Malik-qabza—Landholder—Custom.

In a suit for pre-emption it appeared that the plaintiff was a Muhammadan and the vendor a Sikh, the plaintiff's family having been converted from Hinduism several generations back.

Held that, under the above circumstances, the families having separated so widely and so long ago, the plaintiff could not succeed, with reference to the Wajib-ul-arz, as the "ek-jaddi" of the vendor.

Held further that a malik-qabza is for the purpose of pre-emption a landholder in terms of Act IV of 1872 as amended by Act XII of 1878, in the absence of a custom to the contrary. Lal Khan v. Najib-ulla (No. 14 P. R. 1882) cited and followed. Nihal Singh v. Iwan Singh (No. 56 P. R. 1882) referred to. DESU v. JOWALA. 13 P R 1885

15. Sale of land in portions of which plaintiff has superior rights and in the remainder of which equal rights with the purchaser—Defendant not pleading in lower Courts that plaintiff should limit his claim to those portions in which his claim was superior—Plaintiff's right to take over the whole bargain.

In an appeal by the purchaser of certain land against a decree for pre-emption in respect of that land, it appeared that the defendant had included in one sale land to which the plaintiff's right as a co-sharer was superior with land in which the purchaser had an equal right with the plaintiff, and it was contended that as the plaintiff did not restrict his claim to those portions of the land to which his right was superior, he must be regarded as on the same footing with the defendant-purchaser as to the whole of the purchase, both being alike proprietors of the village. It was not contended in either of the Courts below that plaintiff was bound to limit his claim to the holdings in which he was a co-sharer.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.
1.—GENERAL—contd.

Held, per Curiam, that the defendant was not in a position to deny that as to the whole bargain the plaintiff's right was superior.

Per BARKLEY, J.—Because it was the act of the defendant to combine in the same transaction land in which the plaintiff was a co-sharer with land in which he was not, and if the plaintiff was willing to take over the entire bargain there was no reason why he should lose his superior right merely because he did not ask to have the transaction split up.

Per PLOWDEN, J.—Because the defendant not having urged his objection in the first Court to the plaintiff taking the whole bargain by reason of his right extending only to part, it was too late to take it in second appeal, and the right of the parties must be determined by the success of the plaintiff on the ground he advanced in his plaint. Sardar Lall Singh v. Deva Singh, (No. 107 P. R. 1882, F. B.) referred to. WARIAM v. DESU. 64 P R 1886

16. Pre-emption, power of widow to sue for—Bonâ fides of claim—Form of decree.

The right to claim pre-emption rests on the possession of other land, or a share in it, and the only person who can exercise that right is the holder of the land for the time being. A widow, therefore, who holds the land upon a life tenure, is entitled to exercise such right, and (semble) the Courts will refuse to allow the reversioners to exercise it, if they claim to do so in the presence of the widow.

The Court has no concern with the motives which may induce a plaintiff to claim pre-emption or with the source from which funds necessary to enforce the claim may be drawn. AHSAN-ULLA v. JOWAHIR LAL. 87 P R 1896

17. Pre-emption—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 9—Rights to use water of perennial stream—"Immovable property"—General Clauses Act, 1868, section 2 (5).

Held, that inasmuch as the water of a perennial stream comes out of land, the right to use such water is "a benefit arising out of land," and is, therefore, "immovable property" within the meaning of section 2 (5) of the General Clauses Act, 1868, so as to found a suit for pre-emption in respect of a sale thereof under section 9 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872. ALAM SHER v. RAM CHAND. 11 P R 1898

18. Suit for pre-emption—Subsequent suit by vendors representative for cancellation of sale—Pre-emptor added as defendant—Compromise between vendor's representatives and vendee—Pre-emptor's name struck off record.

Appellant filed a suit for pre-emption of a garden against the vendor and three purchasers, but while the suit was pending the vendor died and his representatives sued the vendees for possession of the garden on the ground that the sale-deed was never executed by the vendor, and, if executed, was invalid and without consideration. In the latter suit the appellant was added as a co-defendant and filed pleas traversing the plaintiff's claim. Six issues covering all points in dispute, were framed, the fifth being whether appellant should have been added as co-defendants. Subsequently, and after the first hearing the plaintiffs and vendees compromised the suit, each party taking half the garden, and on the application of the former, the appellant's name was struck off the record.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.
1.—GENERAL—contd.

Held, that the order striking off appellant's name was illegal, inasmuch as it had been passed after the first hearing, and without any adjudication on the fifth issue, and also because it precluded a decision of the questions in issue between the original parties to the suit and appellant who had a right to have them decided. ILAHI BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT NISHABA BEGAM. 75 P R 1899

19. Pre-emption—Suit to enforce a right of pre-emption—Appeal by purchaser—Court fee.

In a suit to enforce a right of pre-emption a decree was passed against the vendees-defendants, who appealed from the same on the grounds that they were entitled to receive from the plaintiffs pre-emptors a sum larger than that found by the lower Appellate Court to be the purchase-money, and also that the plaintiff' claim should be dismissed on the ground that there had been no payment within the time fixed by the first Court when the appeal to the Divisional Court was presented. Objection to the amount of the Court-fee payable on the appeal having been taken, held, that the subject of suit being land for which an artificial value has been fixed by special rules in this Province, the value for the purposes of Court-fee was to be determined on five times jama value of the land in suit, and that it was not contemplated by the Legislature that the Court-fee payable on part of a whole claim in appeal is, in the absence of express direction to the contrary, to exceed the Court-fee payable on the whole claim. Hafiz Ahmad v. Sobha Ram (I. L. R. VI All. 488) distinguished.

Held, further, that as section 18, Punjab Laws Act, had been repealed previous to the institution of the present suit, section 214 of the Code of Civil Procedure alone prescribed the form of decree, and that as such a decree is appealable within a prescribed period the effect of non-payment no longer renders the decree null and void. Moti Ram v. Kamman (88 P. R. 1898), referred to. HAZARI SINGH AND ANOTHER v. PIRAN AND ANOTHER. 92 P R 1900

20. Pre-emption—Sale for a certain specific purpose on certain specific terms—Pre-emptor how far bound by the terms in the deed.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.
1.—GENERAL—contd.

Where the bonâ fide intention of a vendor and vendee was that certain land should be sold and bought for the purpose of the erection of a dharmsala and that the sale should be cancelled on failure to fulfil this condition, and the plaintiff as a pre-emptor claimed to purchase without fulfilling the condition, alleging that it was not intended to be enforced and that he was not bound by the terms in the deed; held, that as there was nothing unusual or illegal in the arrangement and the conditions were bonâ fide, the pre-emptor must abide by the terms of the deed which had been offered and accepted by the vendee whom he wished to oust. BALDEO DAS v. PIARE LAL. 24 P R 1901

21. Pre-emption—Claim by a co-sharer—Right of a co-sharer who parted with his own property prior to the institution of suit and of one who acquired her share subsequent to the sale.

Where a sale of half share in five shops was made on 4th October 1898 and subsequently the owner of the other half share gifted all his property including his half share in the shops to his mother, and then jointly with his mother instituted a suit for pre-emption in respect of the above sale.

Held, that the son was not competent to sue, as he had parted with his ownership before the suit, his right being lost with the loss of the ownership by transfer, and that the mother had no right to sue as the transfer of the property by gift to her could not confer on her any right to sue in respect of property which was sold before she had become owner of the property through which the right of pre-emption was claimed.

Semble.—Right of pre-emption is personal and incapable of being assigned. MUHAMMAD AYUB KHAN AND ANOTHER v. RURE KHAN AND OTHERS. 95 P R 1901

22. Pre-emption—Sale of share of joint estate—Vendor, purchaser and pre-emptor, all three being co-sharers in the joint estate—Vendor's election where parties are equally entitled—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12(a).

The plaintiff sued for possession by pre-emption of land sold by his brother to the defendant, all three being co-sharers, together with several others who had not elected to claim their right in the joint estate included in the land in dispute. The purchaser pleaded that the penultimate clause of section 12 defeated the plaintiff's claim.

Held, that under clause (a) of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, the plaintiff was entitled to half the bargain on payment to the purchaser of half the price, the right of pre-emption under such circumstances being a joint right of the co-sharers, and that the penultimate clause of that section did not apply to such cases.

Gami v. Sahib (91 P. R. 1875), Karim Bakhsh v. Khuda Bakhsh (20 P. R. 1881), Ishar Singh v. Mangal Singh (117 P. R. 1883), Bhag v. Muhammad Yar (17 P. R. 1884), and

PRE-EMPTION—contd.
1.—GENERAL—contd.

Mughal v. Jalal (69 P. R. 1898), distinguished. Ahmad Din v. Mussammat Hasso (54 P. R. 1882) cited. ASA RAM v. KAURA AND ANOTHER. 111 P R 1901

23. Pre-emption—Plaintiff in pre-emption suit entering into agreement with strangers to give them a share of the property in suit—Bonâ fides of claim—Loss of right.

A plaintiff in a pre-emption suit agreed (after instituting his suit) with two strangers to give them each, in the event of decree being passed in his favour, a share of the property on their paying a proportionate share of the cost and purchase-money.

Held, that a pre-emptor being bound to take over the bargain of the vendee in its entirety, the plaintiff was not incompetent to supplement his own funds by such an agreement, and was not thereby disqualified from maintaining the suit previously instituted by him and that, if, after obtaining the property, he proceeded to transfer it, a fresh cause of action would arise to other pre-emptors.

Ahsan-ullah v. Jowahir Lal (87 P. R. 1896) and Ramsukh Das v. Fazal-ud-din (19 P. R. 1898), cited. Brij Nath v. Jitu (139 P. R. 1894), distinguished. JIWAN SINGH v. SHER SINGH. 10 P R 1902

24. Pre-emption—Pre-emptor's liability—Payment of purchase-money into Court—Withdrawal by vendee—Suit by incumbrancer for a declaration that the property which had been mortgaged to him by the vendee was subject to his mortgage.

Where the holder of a decree for pre-emption duly deposited price in the Court as directed, and obtained possession of the land in dispute and subsequent to the withdrawal of the money so paid in by the vendee, a suit was filed by a mortgagee for a declaration of his incumbrance made on the property by the vendee.

Held, by a majority (Clark, C. J., dissenting), that as the pre-emption decree transfers to the pre-emptor the subject matter of sale as it subsists at the time of sale, the mortgage was not a valid charge against the land in the hands of the pre-emptor.

Mussammat Shakro v. Molar Mal (68 P. R. 1897), Kalu v. Bhupa (30 P. R. 1893), Zahar Khan v. Mustojab Khan (55 P. R. 1899), Muhammad Ashiq v. Pars Ram (56 P. R. 1896), Gobind Dyal v. Inayat-ullah (I. L. R. VII All. 775), Deokinandan v. Sri Ram (I. L. R. XII All. 234 F. B.), Abdus Salam v. Wilayat Ali Khan (I. L. R. IX All. 256). Sant Singh v. Ghasita (21 P. R. 1902), Panju Ram v. Mussammat Niki Bai (165 P. R. 1888), Wazira v. Shadi Khan (67 P. R. 1881), Abdus Salam v. Wilayat Ali Khan (I. L. R. XIX All. 256), Hakam Singh v. Indar (14 P. R. 1902), and Khan v. Mahanda (32 P. R. 1902), referred to. BOGHA SINGH v. GURMUKH SINGH. 93 P R 1902 F. B.

25. Pre-emption—Decree for pre-emption—Sale of decree to a stranger—Right of pre- emptor to challenge such transaction—Sale of immovable property—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 9.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.
1.—GENERAL—contd.

The plaintiff claimed pre-emption of certain property on the ground that the defendant, who had obtained a decree for pre-emption of the same property, had transferred his decree to his grandson who, having paid the decretal price into Court, had obtained possession of the land.

Held, that as under the provisions of section 214 of the Civil Procedure Code a pre-emptor's rights to or in the property do not accrue until he complies with the terms of the decree, the sale by the former pre-emptor to his grandson was merely a transfer of the right to obtain the property by compliance with the conditions of the decree and not the property itself, and was therefore not a sale of immovable property subject to the right of pre-emption within the meaning of section 9 of the Punjab Laws Act.

Dhani Nath v. Budhu (136 P. R. 1894), Deokinandan v. Sri Ram (I. L. R. XII All. 234), and Sarju Prasad v. Jamma Prasad (I. L. R. VII All. 109), cited. Bhupa v. Kori Mal (30 P. R 1893, Note), and Muhammad Bakhsh v. Hayat Khan (37 P. R 1888), doubted. LASHKARI MAL v. ISHAR SINGH. 94 P R 1902

26. Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 316—Sale of immovable property in execution of decree—Sale certificate—Title of auction purchaser who has not obtained a certificate — Pre-emption — Right of pre-emptor to maintain suit before a certificate has been granted—Registration of sale certificate—Registration Act, 1877, section 17 (o).

At a sale in execution of a decree the defendant purchased certain immovable property; the sale was confirmed, but at the purchaser's own request the certificate was not drawn up and given to him, although a draft had been prepared. The plaintiff sued for pre-emption, the defence pleaded that inasmuch as the certificate of sale had not been granted to him under section 316, Civil Procedure Code, the suit was premature.

Held, that under the circumstances the confirmation of sale by the executing Court is sufficient to confer a complete title upon an auction purchaser and that a party purchasing property subject to pre-emption at a sale held in execution of a decree cannot defeat the right of a pre-emptor by asking the Court to omit performance of its statutory duty to grant a certificate after confirmation of the sale. Clause (o) to section 17 of the Registration Act expressly exempts a sale certificate granted to the purchaser of immovable property sold by public auction by a Civil or Revenue Officer.

Velan v. Kamarasami (I. L. R. XI Mad. 296), Tara Prasad v. Nund Kishore Giri (I. L. R. IX Calc. 842), Khushal Pana Chand v. Bhima Bhai (I. L. R. XII Bom. 589), Dagdu v. Pancham Singh

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

1.—GENERAL—contd.

Ganga Ram (I. L. R. XVII Bom. 375), Budhu v. Hira (27 P. R. 1892) and Than Singh v. Kazim Ali (92 P. R. 1893), cited. AJUDHIA PERSHAD v. CHANDAN. 9 P R 1903

27. Pre-emption—Fraudulent concealment of sale—Limitation Act, 1877, section 18—Burden of proving when fraud first became known to the plaintiff.

Where an original transaction is tainted by fraud it lies on the party against whom fraud is found to prove that the want of knowledge was not caused by fraud or that the plaintiff had a clear and definite knowledge of the fraud for more than the period of limitation allowed.

Abdul Rahim Khan v. Muhammad Yar and others (12 P. R. 1898), cited. GORDHAN DAS v. AHMAD. 34 P R 1904

28. Pre-emption—Sale of share of joint estate—Vendor, purchaser, and pre-emptor all three being co-sharers in the joint estate—Vendor's election where parties are equally entitled—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12 (a).

Held, by the Full Bench that under clause (a) of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, the co-sharers in joint undivided immovable property have not a joint right of pre-emption but only a several right, and that the penultimate clause of that section applies to cases falling under clause (a) and empowers the vendor to elect to sell to any one of the several co-sharers.

Ahmad Din v. Mussammat Hasso (54 P. R. 1882) and Asa Ram v. Kaura (111 P. R. 1901), overruled.

Mughal v. Jalal (69 P. R. 1898), Kamar-ud-din v. Bakhtawar (37 P. R. 1894), Sukha v. Murad (16 P. R. 1881), and Johar Singh v. Mangal Singh (117 P. R. 1883), referred to. AHMED v. GHULAM MUHAMMAD. 94 P R 1904 F. B.

29. Pre-emption—Right of pre-emption under the Punjab Laws Act, 1872—Effect of Alienation of Land Act upon such rights.

As alienations of agricultural land by certain classes of people in the Punjab can now only be made as provided by section 3 (1) of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act, the provisions of the law of pre-emption, as enunciated in the Punjab Laws Act with respect to such property, have in consequence become in certain cases obsolete, and therefore in a case where a member of an agricultural tribe sold his share in a joint khata to a non-proprietor in the village, but who belonged to the same agricultural group as the vendor and one of the co-sharers in the khata comprising the land sold, who was not a member of an agricultural tribe, instituted a suit for pre-emption.

Held, that the plaintiff's right of pre-emption which he had possessed under the Punjab Laws Act has been abrogated by the provisions of the Punjab Alienation of Land Act by reason of his being neither an agriculturist in the village nor a member of an agricultural tribe, that he was not entitled to maintain his suit.

The pre-emption law being a general one, whilst the Punjab Alienation of Land Act intended to regulate sales by particular classes of alienors and thus a special law, the subsequent special statute must be treated as repealing the previous general statute pro tanto by implication.

The India (33 L. J. Adm. (1864), 193), cited and followed. PARMA NAND v. GHULAM FATIMA. 15 P R 1905

30. Pre-emption—Bargain consisting of several properties—Right of pre-emptor with superior right over a specific portion to acquire the whole bargain.

Where a bargain consisted of several distinct properties and the pre-emptor's preferential right of purchase extended only to a portion of such bargain, held, that the pre-emptor was not entitled to take the whole bargain but only that portion over which he had superior right.

Maulvi Ilahi Bakhsh v. Kaki (87 P. R. 1895), and Shahu v. Haku (44 P. R. 1900), followed. Wariam v. Desu (64 P. R. 1886), not followed. RAM RAKHA MAL v. DEVI DAS. 89 P R 1905

31. Suit for pre-emption—Consent decree in a subsequent suit brought during the pendency of the original suit—Right of decree-holder against original pre-emptor.

During the pendency of a pre-emption suit the original vendee allowed a consent pre-emption decree to be passed against him in favour of a person who had notice of the original suit and wished the sale to the original vendee to be maintained, held, that the latter transaction must be deemed to be a sale reduced into the form of a decree and subject to the law of lis pendens and therefore ineffectual against the original pre-emptor.

Nathu Ram v. Kalian Das (I. L. R. XXVI All. 522), referred to. HARNAM SINGH v. JIWAN. 7 P R 1906

32. Pre-emption—Sale of equity of redemption to mortgagee—Suit for pre-emption against vendee—Right of vendee to plead his own mortgage—Merger of mortgage into sale—Prevention of merger—Proof of.

As a pre-emptor by reason of pre-emptive rights is entitled not merely to have the sale transferred to him but also to be vested with all the benefits which legally flow from the sale, held, that a purchaser of an equity of redemption, who already held possession of the property in dispute under unexpired mortgage, could not, in the absence of clear proof of an express indication of an intention to preserve the charge on his own estate, set up against the pre-emptor his own previous mortgage as still subsisting. AHMAD SHAH v. WALIDAD KHAN. 98 P R 1906

33. Suit for pre-emption—Assignment by vendee pendente lite—Addition of assignee as co-defendant after period of limitation—Limitation.

The plaintiff brought an action to enforce a right of pre-emption within the period of limitation prescribed by law. The defendant vendee assigned over his interest to a third party after the institution of the suit. On the application of the plaintiff, after the period of limitation had expired, the Court ordered the assignee to be impleaded as a co-defendant. Thereupon the defence pleaded limitation.

Held that the suit was not barred by limitation in consequence of the joinder of the assignee. The provisions of section 22 of the Limitation Act do not apply when the original suit is continued against the added defendant who derives his title from the original defendant by an assignment pending the suit. FATTEH MUHAMMAD v. SAID AHMAD. 3 P R 1907

34. Pre-emption—Purchaser with right of pre-emption equal to plaintiff's associating in the purchase persons with inferior right—Right of such purchaser to defeat plaintiff's claim.

Held, that if a purchaser having an equal right of pre-emption associates with himself in the purchase a person with rights inferior to those of the pre-emptor, he is not entitled to resist the claim of such pre-emptor to enforce his rights even as to his share of the purchase. Ram Nath v. Badri Narain (I. L. R. XIX All. 148, F. B.) dissented from.

Imam Din v. Nur Khan (10 P. R. 1884), Murad v. Mine Khan (94 P. R. 1895), and Kesar Singh v Purtab Singh (66 P. R. 1896), followed. ACHHRU v. LABHU. 48 P R 1907

35. Pre-emption—Assignment of property by vendee—Suit by pre-emptor against vendee alone, subsequent to the said assignment—Parties—Pre-emptor bound to implead transferee or to institute fresh suit against him— Limitation for such action—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, article 10.

Held, that where the subject matter of a pre-emption suit has been assigned by the original vendee before the pre-emptor had instituted his suit the latter is not entitled to recover the property from the transferee on the strength of a decree he obtains against the vendee alone. In order to obtain the property from the transferee he is bound either to implead the latter as a party to his original pre-emption suit or to institute a fresh suit within the period of limitation prescribed in article 10 of the Second Schedule of the Limitation Act, 1877. RAUSHAN v. MAKHAN. 106 P R 1907

36. Son's right to claim pre-emption on death of his father on a cause of action accrued to the latter in his lifetime:

Held, by the Full Bench that a right to sue for pre-emption upon a cause of action which accrued to a person in his lifetime passes at his death to his successor who inherits the property through which the right had accrued. FAKIR ALI SHAH v. RAM KISHEN. 133 P R 1907 F. B.

1.—GENERAL—contd.

37. Pre-emption—Rival claimants with equal rights—Claimant suing subsequently cannot defeat the other by obtaining a consent decree during the pendency of the prior suit—Limitation for suits as between rival claimants—Limitation Act, 1877, Schedule II, articles 10, 120.

Held that a rival claimant of the right of pre-emption cannot, by obtaining a consent decree in a subsequently instituted suit to which the first claimant was not a party, defeat another with equal rights who by first filing his suit has shown superior diligence in enforcing his right.

Held also, that the period of limitation as between rival pre-emptors is that prescribed by article 120 of the second schedule to the Limitation Act and not that prescribed by article 10, and that one pre-emptor can therefore be impleaded as a co-defendant in the suit of the other within the period prescribed by article 120. RAM PARSHAD v. GANGA DATT. 20 P R 1908

38 Pre-emption—Sale to two persons—Shares of vendee and price specified—Divisible contract—Assignment by one of the vendees—Addition of assignee after period of limitation—Effect of such addition—Limitation Act, 1877, section 22.

On 18th October 1900 B and C purchased certain land in proportion of two-thirds and one-third, the price paid by them was fully specified in the deed of sale. The plaintiff brought an action against both of the vendees to enforce a right of pre-emption in respect of the whole sale within the period of limitation prescribed by law. It having been proved that C had assigned over the interest to a third party long before the institution of the suit, the Court, on the application of the plaintiff after the period of limitation had expired, ordered the assignee to be impleaded as a co-defendant. Thereupon the defence pleaded limitation. The Court allowed the plea in favour of the assignee, but decreed the suit for two-thirds of the claim against B. The latter appealed on the ground that part of the claim being dismissed as barred by limitation, the whole suit ought to have been dismissed as barred—Held, that the price and shares being distinctly specified the sale was divisible, and the plaintiff was consequently not debarred from claiming the two-thirds share sold to B by reason of dismissal of his suit in respect to the one-third share sold to C. BRIJ LAL v. MASSAN.

6 P R 1909

39. Pre-emption—Right of pre-emptor to purchase a part when entitled to whole—Amendment of plaint.

Held, that a person who, under the provisions of the Pre-emption law, is entitled to pre-empt the entire bargain, i.e. part of the property sold under one clause, and the remainder under another clause, of the Pre-emption Act, forfeits his rights altogether if he sues for one portion, and in such a case where in spite of defendant's objection to the contrary, he persists in his suit as laid, he is not entitled to amend his plaint. BANARSI DAS v. HAJI ABDUL GHANI. 10 P R 1909

1.—GENERAL—contd.

40. Pre-emption—Sale by Jat Sikh of a plot of land to an Indian Christian for the purpose of building a Christian Church or School—Pre-emptor not bound to carry out such purpose.

Held, that when a plot of land is sold by a Jat Sikh to a Native Christian and the deed of sale states, that it is purchased by the latter for the purpose of erecting a Christian Church or School without any stipulation for avoidance of the sale if no such building is erected, a pre-emptor can take over the bargain without agreeing to erect such a building and the principle laid down in 24 P. R. 1901 (Buldeo Das v. Piare Lal) does not apply to such a sale. HAZARA SINGH v. GANDA. 33 P R 1910

41. Pre-emption-Sale completed by execution of decree for specific performance of contract—Not subject to pre-emption—Punjab Pre-emption Act, II of 1905, sections 3 (5) and 4.

In 1900 one J. sold certain land to defendants 2 and 6. One of the owners of the land happened to be a minor and J. his uncle, as his de facto guardian agreed that if at any time the minor repudiated the sale, he (J.) would give the vendees a like amount of land out of his own property. Subsequently the minor did repudiate the sale and recovered his share from the vendees by suit. Thereon the vendees sued J. for the land which he had agreed to give them in lieu of the minor's share. This claim was strenuously contested by J. but the vendees obtained a decree. The present plaintiffs who were the sons of J. sued for pre-emption of the land decreed to the vendees.

Held, that the vendee's suit against J. was in its essence one for specific performance of contract and the decree per se did not effect "a sale" of the land even though the price may have been previously paid. The sale (if it could be so called) was not completed until the decree-holders executed the decree and so obtained possession of the land, and that it thus fell within the exception given in section 3 (5) of the Punjab Pre-emption Act as a sale in execution of a decree and consequently no right of pre-emption arose in respect of it. 40 P R 1911

42. Pre-emption—Lis pendens—Resale of property to another pre-emptor during pendency of suit—Rival pre-emptors sharing bargain—Punjab Pre-emption Act, section 14.

Held, where after the institution of a suit for pre-emption another pre-emptor asserted his right of pre-emption privately and the vendee, in recognition of his right, transferred the property to him, that the doctrine of lis pendens did not apply to such transfer, and that the same would bar plaintiff's suit, unless plaintiff had superior rights of pre-emption to the transferee.

Held, also, that section 14 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act had no application to such a case and that consequently the plaintiff was not entitled to share the property in suit with the transferee as a rival pre-emptor with equal rights of pre-emption.

1.—GENERAL—concld.

53 P R 1911

43. Pre-emption — Limitation — Where vendee has transferred bargain to another person, who is not made a party till after expiry of period of limitation—When Appellate Court justified in declining to go into point of limitation—Observations as to belated pleas of limitation.

Held, following 25 P. R. 1903, that where, previous to the institution of a suit for pre-emption the vendee has resold the land to another person and the latter is not made a party to the suit until after the expiration of the period of limitation, the suit is barred.

Held also, where limitation has not been pleaded in the first Court nor taken in the grounds of appeal, but only in argument and the plea for its proper decision involved further enquiry into facts, the Appellate Court was justified in refusing to entertain it.

Observations as to how Courts should treat belated pleas of limitation.

Balaram v. Mangta Dass, (1907) I. L. R. 34 Cal. 941 (F. B.), Ahmad Ali v. Waris Hussain, (1893) I. L. R. 15 All. 123, Dattu v. Kasai, (1884) I. L. R. 8 Bom. 535 and Venkata N. Naidu v. Bhashyakarlu Naidu, (1902) I. L. R. 25 Mad. 367, referred to.

84 P R 1911

2.—RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS.

1. Custom—Gujrat town—Relationship.

In a suit for pre-emption, held, that no custom was established by which relationship conferred a right of pre-emption in respect of house property in the town of Gujrat.

Nabi Baksh v. Karm Din (No. 83 P. R. 1880), referred to. NURDIN v. NIZAMDIN.

113 P R 1881

2. Katra Kanak Mundi, Amritsar—Custom.

Found that the custom of pre-emption does not exist in Katra Kanak Mundi, a sub-division in the city of Amritsar. LABHU SINGH v. GURDITTA 46 P R 1882

3. Custom—Katra Parja, Amritsar—Act IV of 1872, section 11—"Sub-division" explained.

Found, that the right of pre-emption exists in Katra Parja, a sub-division of the city of Amritsar.

The word "sub-division," as used in section 11 of Act IV of 1872, is intended to refer to main divisions or quarters of the town or city which are well-known and recognized and not merely to lanes or streets therein. The term would include a "mohalla," and also includes what is known as a "katra" in the city of Amritsar. SOHAVA MAL v. CHATTU MAL. 154 P R 1882

4. Preferential right—Custom—Mohalla Mohliyan, Lahore city—Plaintiff claiming pre-emption on ground of his house being opposite to, though separated from, the house sold.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

2.—RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS—contd.

In a suit for pre-emption in respect of certain house property in mohalla Mohliyan in the Lahore city, plaintiff, whose house was opposite to the house sold, though separated from it by a blind lane, claimed to be entitled to a superior right over another resident of the same mohalla, whose houses were on all four sides, but which did not actually adjoin the house in dispute.

Held, that assuming that the right of pre-emption prevailed generally in the mohalla in question, the plaintiff had failed to establish the special custom he contended for in the present case. MEHTAB ROY v. AMIR CHAND. 189 P R 1882

5. Custom—Jalandhar city—Relationship.

Found, that by the custom generally prevailing in the city of Jalandhar, relationship takes precedence of other grounds of pre-emption. ATA MUHAMMAD v. HARDIT MAL. 12 P R 1883

6. Custom—M. Samrial, Sialkot—Vicinage.

Found that no custom exists in the town of Samrial in the Sialkot tahsil, under which pre-emption can be claimed merely on the ground of vicinage. LABHU v. CHANDA. 69 P R 1884

7. Custom—Jalandhar city—Vicinage—Burden of proof—Punjab Laws Act, section 11.

In a suit for pre-emption of a house situated in the city of Jalandhar, it having been found that the plaintiff, whose wall was one of the boundaries of the property in dispute, had established that a custom of pre-emption resting on vicinage existed in the mohalla in question, it was contended for the defendant that the plaintiff had not definitely proved the circumstances under which the local custom was exercisable.

Held, that on the above facts it was for the defendants to prove that the custom was limited by other circumstances, and that the mere fact of being a next door neighbour was insufficient to establish plaintiff's right, and that the defendant had failed to prove any such limitations on the custom as would deprive a neighbour, whose house actually touched the disputed property. SHEIKH SHAHR YAR v. IMAM-UD-DIN. 33 P R 1885

8. Custom in Jalalpur, Gujranwala district—Right of person whose house immediately adjoins the property sold.

Found that a custom of pre-emption exists in the town of Jalalpur in the Gujranwala district, under which a person whose house immediately adjoins the property sold, has a right superior to that of a vendee whose house stands across the lane. THAKUR DAS v. DIWAN CHAND. 56 P R 1885

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

2.—RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS—contd.

9. Custom—mohalla Dhilan, Peshawar.

Found that a custom of pre-emption exists in mohalla Dhilan in the city of Peshawar, under which a resident in the mohalla has a preferential right over a purchaser residing in another district, who is also mortgagee of the house in dispute. Shankar Das v. Said Ahmad (No. 153 P. R. 1884), referred to. GOBIND RAM v. SAYAD AHMAD. 10 P R 1886

10. Custom—Kucha Sathan, Lahore city—Mortgage.

Found that no custom in favour of pre-emption in the case of mortgages exists in the Sathan Kucha in Lahore. LAKHU MISSAR v. NARAIN DAS. 72 P R 1886

11. Custom of Gurdaspur—Vicinage.

Found that a custom of pre-emption exists in the town of Gurdaspur.

Held, that under the custom the plaintiff whose house was divided by a narrow lane from the house in dispute, and whose front door was almost opposite to the front door of that house, was entitled to pre-emption. Kalan Khan v. Ram Saran Das (No. 97 P. R. 1880) referred to. RALLIA RAM v. KALLAN KHAN. 108 P R 1886

12. Sale of "Katra" in Naia Bazar, Delhi—Sub-division—Custom—Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 11.

Plaintiff claimed pre-emption upon the sale of a "katra" situate in Naia Bazar Chahiwala in the city of Delhi, by reason of his house being contiguous in front to part of the "katra" sold.

Held, that plaintiff's claim failed and must be dismissed on the ground that he had failed to prove that the local custom attached a right of pre-emption to sales of "katras" C. A. No. 1569 of 1879 (unpublished) cited. NANNI MAL v. SHEO NATH. 64 P R 1887

13. Mohalla Lakhian, Wazirabad—Custom.

Found that the custom of pre-emption exists in mohalla Lakhian in the town of Wazirabad. KISHEN GOPAL v. SUDH DAS. 105 P R 1887

14. Custom—Mohalla Bakhshi Ram Sahai in the Karimpura quarter of the Peshawar city—"Sub-division"—Act IV of 1872, section 11.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption prevails in the mohalla Bakhshi Ram Sahai in the Karimpura quarter of the city of Peshawar.

The term "sub-division," as used in section 11 of the Punjab Laws Act, means a main division, a recognised and well-known, division or quarter. Where "mohalla" and "katras" are the only recognized main divisions of a town, these may be "sub-divisions" under the Act. In Peshawar where there are 5 recognised sub-divisions or main quarters of the city, each of which contains a number of mohallas, these main quarters and not the mohallas are the "sub-divisions" contemplated by the said section 11 of the Act.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

2.—RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS—contd.

Ajudia Parshad v. Charanji Lal (No. 55 P. R. 1880), Sohava Mal v. Chattu Mal (No. 154 P. R. 1882), Gobind Ram v. Syad Ahmad (No. 10 P R. 1886), and Nanni Mal v. Sheo Nath (No. 64 P. R. 1887), cited. CHARANJIT MAL v. MUSSAMMAT MITHO. 29 P R 1888

15. Custom—Sialkot City.

The custom of pre-emption found to prevail in mohalla Pathana in the town of Sialkot. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH v. HAYAT KHAN. 37 P R 1888

16. Custom—Guzar Talwara, Lahore city.

Found, that a custom of pre-emption prevails in Guzar Talwara, a sub-division of the Lahore city, extending to shops as well as houses—C. A. No. 1011 of 1881 (unpublished) and Nanni Mal v. Sheo Nath (No. 64 P. R. 1887), referred to. MIRZA AZAM BEG v. JAI DIAL. 48 P R 1888

17. Custom—Mohalla Marochian, Mooltan city.

The custom of pre-emption found to prevail in mohalla Marochian in the city of Mooltan. PANJU RAM v. MUSSAMMAT NIKI BAI. 165 P R 1888

18. Custom—Pre-emption - Ghosi mohalla, Hansi—Evidence of existence of custom in other mohallas.

Found, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove the existence of a custom of pre-emption in Ghosi mohalla, Hansi.

In suits for pre-emption in respect of property situate in a town, however probable and fair seeming the plaintiff's claim may be, he should never be relieved from the burden of proving the existence of the alleged custom in the special locality in which the property is situate, proof of its existence in neighbouring mohallas being at best only supplementary of the evidence required of the plaintiff. SAUDAGR MAL v. AMAN SINGH. 70 P R 1889

19. Suburbs of Mooltan—Mohalla Sultan Ganj.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption does not prevail in mohalla Sultan Ganj, in the suburbs of Mooltan, where the house in dispute is situated. HAJI ALA DAD v. NUR MUSTAFA. 170 P R 1889

20. Custom—Pre-emption—Khoja mohalla—Gujrat.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption prevails in Khoja mohalla of the town of Gujrat. GANGA RAM v. GANDA MAL. 13 P R 1890

21. Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11—Pre-emption in sub-division of town—Mohalla Bhogi in town of Jagraon.

Found, that the right of pre-emption was not proved to exist in mohalla Bhogi in the town of Jagraon.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

2.—RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS—contd.

If a town be composed of several sub-divisions, the fact that the custom of pre-emption is found to exist in one of such sub-divisions does not lead per se to the presumption that it exists in another.

No. 165 P. R. 1888 and No. 170 P. R. 1889 referred to. THAKUR DAS v. MUHAMMAD BAKHSH. 100 P R 1892

22. Punjab Laws Act, 1872—Pre-emption—Custom—Equity and good conscience—Wazir Khan Mosque, Lahore city—Claim to pre-emption based on right to take tah zamini for site.

The plaintiff, the Mutwali or Manager of the Wazir Khan Mosque in the city of Lahore, sued for pre-emption of three shops or houses in the chauk, or square, adjoining the mosque but not situate on the same side of the square as the mosque itself.

The claim to pre-emption was based, not on vicinage, but on the grounds that—

(1) plaintiff was owner of a part of the materials of the houses or shops claimed ;

(2) plaintiff was also owner of their site.

Held, that as regards ground (1) the plaintiff must fail on the facts.

Held, also that the plaintiff had failed to prove any special custom of the city of Lahore, or of the guzar Rarra, that ownership of, or taking tah zamini for the site, gives a right of pre-emption of the buildings on it.

Held, also, that the plaintiff could not claim any right on the basis of Muhammadan Law, or on what might be called general grounds of equity and good consience. By the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, pre-emption is not one of the matters specified in section 5 as a matter to which, in the absence of proof of special custom, Hindu or Muhammadan Law is to be applied; and as the subject of pre-emption is specially provided for by other sections of the Act, it cannot fall under section 6 as a matter to be decided on grounds of equity and good conscience. MIRZA ANWAR ALI v. PANDIT SHAM NARAIN. 8 P R 1893

23. *Custom—Pre-emption—*Mohalla Bagh Shitab Rai, town of Rewari.

Found, that plaintiffs had failed to prove that the custom of pre-emption exists in mohalla Bagh Shitab Rai. in the town of Rewari. KHUSHWAKT RAI v. RUR MAL. 17 P R 1896

24. Custom—Pre-emption— Mohalla Kazianwala, Dera Ismail Khan—Burden of proof.

Found, that plaintiff has failed to prove the existence of a custom of pre-emption in mohalla Kazianwala, Dera Ismail Khan.

In suits for pre-emption in respect of property situate in a town, where the custom is not universal, it is necessary for the plaintiff to prove that it exists in the particular mohalla in question or throughout some larger area of which it forms a part. TAGGA v. ALLAH BAKHSH. 69 P R 1901

25. *Custom —Pre-emption — Pre-emption on sale of shop—*Bazar Chauhatta Mufti Bakar, Lahore city—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11—Burden of proof.

Held, that plaintiff had failed to prove the existence of a custom of pre emption in respect of sale of shops in Bazar Chauhatta Mufti Bakar of Lahore city.

Held, also, that a baithak on the top of two shops does not alter the nature of the property, which property could not in consequence be considered a residential house.

(The subject of guzars in Lahore city discussed). HAKIM RAI v. MUHAMMAD DIN AND OTHERS. 83 P R 1901

26. *Custom — Pre-emption — Kucha Chabuk Sawaran—*Mohalla Qazi Sadr-ud-din, guzar Rarra in the city of Lahore.

Fonnd, that the custom of pre-emption does not exist in respect of sale of houses in kucha Rang Mahal, which is a part of kucha Chabuk Sawaran, otherwise known as kucha Kakkazaian, mohalla Qazi Sadr-ud-din, guzar Rarra in the city of Lahore.

Held, that the law of pre-emption requires a certain stringency in deciding the question of the existence of such a custom in a city or sub-division thereof, and does not permit a finding in its favour simply on the ground that it exists in the neighbouring sub-divisions if there is no instance in the quarter in which the disputed property is situate

Raman Mal v. Bhagat Ram (17 P. R. 1895), Thakar Das v. Mhhammad Bakhsh (100 P. R. 1892), Saudagar Mal v. Aman Singh (70 P. R. 1899), and Natha Singh v. Billa Singh (50 P. R. 1900), followed. IMAM DIN v. GHULAM MUHAMMAD AND OTHERS. 86 P R 1901

27. *Custom—Pre-emption—*Mohalla Bagh Dhaggan in Halu Bazar, Bhiwani—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11—Limitation—Fraudulent concealment of sale—Limitation Act, 1877, section 18.

Held, that plaintiff had failed to prove the existence of a custom of pre-emption, by reason of vicinage in mohalla Bagh Dhaggan, which is a recognised sub-division of the town of Bhiwani.

Held, further, that the fact that a sale-deed of house property situate in Bhiwani, District Hissar, had been registered at Bombay where the parties, though resident of the former place, were carrying on business, and that for some time the vendees had not obtained physical possession of the property, as it did not admit of physical possession, it being at that time in possession of certain tenants did not establish a fraudulent concealment within the meaning of section 18 of the Limitation Act and that under clause 2 of article 10 of that Act, limitation began to run from the date the instrument of sale was registered

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

2.—RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS—contd.

Haji Aladad v. Nur Mustafa (170 P. R. 1889), Nanni Mal v. Sheo Nath (64 P. R. 1887), Raman Mal v. Bhagat Ram (17 P. R. 1895), Natha Singh v. Billa Singh (58 P. R. 1900), Saudagar Mal v. Aman Singh (70 P. R. 1899), Hakim Rai v. Muhammad Din (83 P. R. 1901), Imam Din v. Ghulam Muhammad (86 P. R. 1901), Bhagwana v. Hanwantu (90 P. R. 1901), Tagga v. Allah Bakhsh (69 P. R. 1901), Ajudia Pershad v Chiranji Lal (55 P. R. 1880), Batul Begam v. Mansur Ali Khan (I. L. R. XX All. 315 F.B. ; V Calc. W. N. 888, P. C.), Bishen Singh v. Samdu (48 P. R. 1884), and Gauri Mal v. Jainti Mal (73 P. R. 1885), referred to. PANNA LAL v. BHAGWAN DAS AND OTHERS. 16 P R 1902

28. Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of houses in Mukerian, District Hoshiarpur—Relationship—Vicinage.

Found, that no custom of right of pre-emption of house property based upon relationship or vicinage is proved to exist in the town of Mukerian, District Hoshiarpur.

Ata Muhammad v. Hardit Mal (12 P. R. 1883) referred to. RAM BAKHSH AND ANOTHER v. THAKAR DAS AND ANOTHER. 70 P R 1902

29. Custom—Pre-emption—Thoola Norsan, Panna Jaunpal in Bhiwani, District Hissar—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Found that the custom of pre-emption was not proved to exist in Thoola Norsan, Panna Jaunpal, in the town of Bhiwani.

Panna Lal v. Bhagwan Das (16 P. R. 1902), referred to. SIDHA v. PIRBHU LAL AND ANOTHER. 71 P R 1902

30. Custom—Pre-emption—Andar Shahr Bazar, Peshawar—Vicinage—Burden of proof.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption based on vicinage extends to a building site formerly occupied by a shop in the Andar Shahr Bazar, a sub-division of the city of Peshawar.

Although the existence of a custom of pre-emption in a particular sub-division, such as is referred to in section 11 of the Punjab Laws Act, has to be established, instances in the neighbouring sub-divisions, though not of themselves sufficient to prove the existence of such a custom in that sub-division, are evidence of such existence.

Charinjit Mal v. Mussammat Mitho (29 P. R. 1888), Hakim Rai v. Muhammad Din (83 P. R. 1901), Raman Mal v. Bhagat Ram (17 P. R. 1895), Natha Singh v. Billa Singh (58 P. R. 1900), Imam Din v. Ghulam Muhammad (86 P R. 1901), Kishen Singh v. Jai Kishen Das (2 P. R. 1903), Gobind Ram v. Sayad Ahmad (10 P. R. 1886), and Shankar Das v. Sayad Ahmad (153 P. R. 1884), referred to.

Nanni Mal v. Sheo Nath (64 P. R. 1887) dissented from. SANT SINGH v. JOWALA SAHAI. 42 P R 1903

2.—RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS—contd.

31. Custom—Pre-emption in towns—Rival claimants—Vicinage—Preferential right—Burden of proof—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Held, that where rival claimants to the pre-emption of house property in towns assert superior right by vicinage, each has to prove his vicinage to be of a superior kind, and in such cases, if the plaintiff fails to establish a local custom under which he has a superior right against his rival claimant and the respective claimants' rights are found to be equal, preference must be given to him who has shown superior diligence by suing first.

Rur Singh v. Tansukh Rai (82 P. R. 1889), Karam Ilahi v. Ali Bakhsh (199 P. R. 1889), Chaudhri Khem Singh v. Mussammat Taj Bibi (83 P. R. 1888), Nawab Muhammad Mumtaz Ali v. Khan Ali (36 P. R. 1897), Mela Ram v. Prema (109 P. R. 1900), Mohkam Din v. Karimulla (102 P. R. 1881), and Ram Chand v. Abdul Hak (32 P. R. 1889), cited.

Karim Bakhsh v. Khuda Bakhsh (20 P. R. 1881), Gokal v. Bhola (29 P. R. 1892), Mahtab-ud-din v. Karam Ilahi (P. R. 1898), Serh Mal v. Hukam Singh (I. L. R. XX All. 100), Kalan Khan v. Ram Sarn Das (97 P. R. 1880), and Jhandu v. Umar Din (17 P. R. 1889), distinguished.

Muhammad Salamatulla v. Jalal-ud-din (24 P. R. 1887) dissented from. RAHMAT ALI KHAN v. HAMID-UD-DIN. 43 P R 1903

32. *Custom—Pre-emption—*Mohalla Kassaban, Ferozepore city—Effect of vendee's parting with his own property the title in which gave him the right of pre-emption—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Held, (1) that the city of Ferozepore is divided into sub-divisions within the meaning of section 11 of the Punjab Laws Act; (2) that the custom of pre-emption as regards dwelling houses prevails in mohalla Kassaban which is such a sub-division; and (3) that the plaintiff had failed to establish that he had a superior right of vicinage to that of the vendee merely because his house is coterminous with that in suit to a greater length and opens on the same part of the common street as the latter.

A vendee, defendant, having rights of pre-emption on the ground of vicinage does not forfeit them if he parts with his own property through which he had the rights immediately after the purchase and can set up those rights in defence of his purchase.

Sohava Mal v. Chottu Mal (154 P. R. 1882), Chaudhri Khem Singh v. Mussammat Taj Bibi (83 P. R. 1888), and Nawab Muhammad Mumtaz Ali v. Khan Ali (35 P. R. 1897), cited.

Ram Asra v. Gurditta (42 P. R. 1891), Thakar Das v. Muhammad Bakhsh (100 P. R. 1892), Rama Mal v. Bhagat Ram (17 P. R. 1895), Atma Ram v. Devi Dial (49 P. R. 1901), and Muhammad Ayub Khan v. Rure Khan (95 P. R. 1901), referred to. MUHAMMAD NAWAZ KHAN v. MUSSAMMAT BOBO SAHIB. 44 P R 1903

33. Custom—Pre-emption—Kot Abdulla Shah in Mozung, District Lahore—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption prevails in Kot Abdulla Shah, a sub-division of the village of Mozang in the Lahore District.

Charanjit Mal v. Mussammat Mitho (29 P. R. 1888) and Ram Asra v Gurditta (42 P. R. 1891) referred to. ALI BAKHSH v. MOHYA. 52 P R 1903

34. *Custom—Pre-emption—*Mohalla Mohliyan, Lahore city—Vicinage—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Found, that the custom of preemption based on vicinage in mohalla Mohliyan, subdivision of the city of Lahore, has not been established. GOKAL CHAND v. MOHAN LAL. 6 P R 1905

35. *Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of shops—*Darshani Darwaza, Amritsar city—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Held, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of shops by reason of vicinage in Darshani Darwaza bazar of the city of Amritsar has not been established. BISHEN SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT PARO. 19 P R 1905 Cr.

36. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of house property—Nur Mahal, District Jullundur.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sales of house property exists in the town of Nur Mahal. RAMJAS v. BURA MAL. 42 P R 1905

37. *Custom—Pre-emption in towns—*Mohalla Sheikh Tayyab in the town of Kaithal —Vicinage—Rival claimants—Right of a co-sharer in the premises better than of a neighbour.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption based on vicinage is proved to exist in mohalla Sheikh Tayyab in the town of Kaithal.

Where custom based on vicinage is established the rights of a co-sharer in the premises sold (in the absence of a local custom to the contrary) must be held superior to that of an adjoining neighbour.

Kalan Khan v. Ram Saran Das (97 P. R. 1880), Muhammad Salamatulla v. Jalal-ud-din (24 P. R. 1887), Ali Muhammad v. Kadir Bakksh (107 P. R. 1900), Mela Ram v. Prema (109 P. R. 1900), Imam Din v. Ghulam Muhammad (86 P. R. 1901), and Babu Mal v. Sardar Singh (17 P. R. 1903, referred to. JAI DEVI v. NAUBAT RAI. 71 P R 1905

38. *Custom—Pre-emption—*Mohalla Awan city of Ludhiana—Vicinage—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Found, that the custom of right of pre-emption of house property based upon vicinage is proved to exist in Mohalla Awan in the city of Ludhiana DHAN DEVI v. KANSHI RAM. 38 P R 1906

39. *Custom—Pre-emption—*Taraf Ravi, suburbs of Multan city—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption prevails in the commercial suburbs of Multan city, known as "taraf Ravi," which is a sub-division thereof for the purpose of section 11 of the Punjab Laws Act.

Chaudhri Khem Singh v. Mussammat Taj Bibi (83 P. R. 1888), Punja Ram v. Mussammat Niki Bai (165 P. R. 1888), Imam Din v. Ghulam Muhammad (86 P. R. 1901), Haji Ala Dad v. Nur Mustafa (170 P. R. 1889), Umar Bakhsh v. Abdul Karim (70 P. R. 1898) and Kishen Dial v. Ali Bakhsh (87 P. R. 1890), referred to. ABDULLA v. PUNNU RAM. 42 P R 1906

40. Custom — Pre-emption — Mohalla Gidarpur, Bairun Pak Darwaza, Multan city—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption based on vicinage prevails in Mohalla Gidarpur, which is a part of Bairun Pak Darwaza, a sub-division of the city of Multan, for the purposes of section 11, Punjab Laws Act, 1872. GHULAM MURTAZA v. RUPA MAL. 57 P R 1906

41. *Custom—Pre-emption—Plaintiff and defendant both claiming on ground of vicinage —*Kucha Masjid Khajur, Delhi—Burden of proof.

Held, that the plaintiff, upon whom the onus lay had failed to establish that the owner of a house which adjoins the house sold and which opens on the same street has a preferential right of pre-emption as against the owner of a house which merely adjoins the house sold at the back and opens into a different street.

The burden of proof that a particular form of vicinage gives a preferential right of pre-emption rests on the person making such an assertion.

Babu Mal v. Sundar Singh (17 P. R. 1903), Chaudhri Khem Singh v. Mussammat Taj Bibi (83 P. R. 1888), and Nawab Muhammad Mumtaz Ali Khan v. Khan Ali (36 P. R. 1897), followed. DHUMI MAL v. KALU. 67 P R 1906

42 *Custom—Pre-emption—*Mohalla Kakkezaian in the city of Lahore—Right of pre-emption claimed by virtue of ownership of house opposite but separate from that sold—Burden of proof—Punjab Laws Act, 1872—section 11.

In a suit for pre-emption of a house in Mohalla Kakkezaian in the city of Lahore plaintiff claimed the right of pre-emption on the ground that his house was opposite to the house sold on the other side of a blind alley and that he had therefore superior right over the vendee who was a mere stranger.

Held, that, assuming that the custom of pre-emption prevailed in the locality in question, the plaintiff had failed to prove that it was exercisable by him by virtue of the position of his house in relation to that sold.

A pre-emptor is bound not only to prove the existence of a custom of pre-emption in the particular locality where the property in dispute is situate, but all such incidents of that custom as would entitle him to succeed.

Ali Muhammad v. Kadir Bakhsh (107 P. R. 1900), doubted.

Sheikh Shahr Yar v. Imam-ud-din (33 P. R. 1885), Gobind Ram v. Sayad Ahmad (10 P. R. 1886), Ralia Ram v. Kallan Khan (108 P. R. 1886), Muhammad Salamatulla v. Jalal-ud-din (24 P. R. 1887), Chaudhri Khem Singh v. Mussammat Taj Bibi (83 P. R. 1888), Mela Ram v. Prema (109 P. R. 1900), Mehtab Roy v. Amir Chand (189 P. R. 1882), and Imam Din v. Ghulam Muhammad (86 P. R. 1901), referred to. ILAHI BAKHSH v. MIRAN BAKHSH. 68 P R 1906

43. Custom—Pre-emption — Pre-emption on sale of house property—Katra Moti Ram, Amritsar city—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sales of house property based on vicinage exists in katra Moti Ram, a sub-division of the city of Amritsar.

Sohava Mal v. Chattu Mal (154 P. R. 1882), Natha Singh v. Billu Singh (58 P. R. 1900), Sant Singh v. Jawala Sahai (42 P. R. 1903), and Muhammad Nawaz Khan v. Mussammat Bobo Sahib (44 P. R. 1903), referred to. MAMON v. GHAUNSA. 99 P R 1906

44. Custom—Pre-emption — Pre-emption on sale of house property—Kucha Aqal Khan, Delhi city—Evidence of existence of custom in other mohallas—Pre-emption Act, 1905, section 6.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sales of house property by reason of vicinage prevails in Kucha Aqal Khan in the city of Delhi.

Although in suits for pre-emption in respect of property situate in a town existence of the custom within any specified area forming a sub-division within the meaning of section 6 of the Pre-emption Act of 1905 has to be established, the instances in the neighbouring sub-divisions and in the city including the area are relevant and useful to strengthen the proof of such existence.

Prag Raj v. Murari Lal (81 P. R. 1906), Muni Mal v. Sheo Nath (64 P. R. 1887), Babu Mal v. Sardar Singh (17 P. R. 1903), Mussammat Shakro v. Molar Mal (68 P. R. 1879), Mussummat Nur Jahan v. Aziz-ud-din (108 P. R. 1895), and Karam Ilahi v. Babu Mal (21 P. R. 1900), referred to. ABDULLA BEG v. WALLAITI BEGAM. 120 P R 1906

45. Custom—Pre-emption — Pre-emption on sale of house property—Katra Karm Singh Amritsar city—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of house property based on vicinage exists in Katra Karm Singh, a sub-division of the City of Amritsar.

Held, also, that the fact that the pre-emptor's house adjoined the house sold at the back or was in another Municipal Division does not affect or militate against his claim.

Labhu Singh v. Gurditta (46 P. R. 1882), Sohava Mal v. Chattu Mal (154 P. R. 1882), and Natha Singh v. Billa Singh (58 P. R. 1900) referred to. LACHMAN DAS v. KASHI RAM. 140 P R 1906

46. Custom—Pre-emption — Pre-emption on sale of house property—Katra Missar Beli Ram, Amritsar city—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of house property based on vicinage exists in Katra Missar Beli Ram, a sub-division of the city of Amritsar. MAULA BAKHSH v. DEVI DITTA. 6 P R 1907

47. Custom—Pre-emption—Claim to pre-emption by reason of owning site of house sold—Mohalla Khajuranwala, Jullundur city.

Found, that a custom of pre-emption exists in Mohalla Khajuranwala in the city of Jullundur under which the owner of the site has a right of pre-emption in respect to the buildings erected on it. FATTEH MUHAMMAD v. KARIMAN. 7 P R 1907

48. Custom—Pre-emption — Pre-emption on sale of shops—Katra Patrangan, Amritsar city.

Held that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of shops by reason of vicinage in Katra Patrangan of the city of Amritsar had not been established. KARIM BAKHSH v. WATTA MAL. 13 P R 1907

49. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of house property—Kucha Gulzari Shah, Mohalla Wachowali in the city of Lahore—Decree in favour of pre-emptor—Payment of purchase money into Court—Withdrawal of such money by vendee—Effect of such withdrawal—Right of vendee to maintain appeal on substantive right.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sales of house property based on vicinage exists in Kucha Gulzari Shah, which is a part of Mohalla Wachowali, a well recognized sub-division of the city of Lahore.

Held, also, that in a pre-emption suit a vendee does not forfeit his legal right to appeal from a decree passed against him or to proceed with his appeal on substantive right, merely because he had withdrawn the purchase money paid in Court by the pre-emptor for his benefit. SUNDAR DAS v. DHANPAT RAI. 16 P R 1907

50. Custom—Pre-emption — Pre emption on sale of residential property lately converted into shops—Alteration in the nature of such property—Katra Ahluwalia, Amritsar city.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of house property by reason of vicinage exists in Katra Ahluwalia, Amritsar city.

Held, that the conversion of a part of a residential house into shops and their use for godowns for a short period does not change the character of the property as originally built and hitherto used. DIAL SINGH v. BAKSHISH SINGH. 21 P R 1907

51. Custom—Pre-emption — Pre-epmtion on sale of house property—Mohalla Parachian in the city of Rawalpindi—Relevancy of instances decided on admission alone.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sales of house property based on vicinage exists in mohalla Parachian otherwise known as mohalla Matta or Waris Khan in the city of Rawalpindi.

The cases in which the right is claimed and decreed on admission alone are instances of the right being exercised within the meaning of the Evidence Act and are therefore relevant as to the existence of the custom. THAN SINGH v. TARA SINGH. 26 P R 1907

52. Custom—Pre-emption —Pre-emption on sale of agricultural land on ground of vicinage—Civil Station of Amritsar.

Held that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of agricultural land by reason of vicinage in the Civil Station of Amritsar had not been established. ISHWAR DAS v. DUNI CHAND. 27 P R 1907

53. Custom—Pre-emption—Right of pre-emption claimed by virtue of ownership of house opposite but separate from that sold—Katra Kanhayan, Amritsar City—Burden of proof—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Held, that although the custom of pre-emption in respect of sales of house property by reason of vicinage has been established to prevail in Katra Kanhayan of the city of Amritsar the plaintiff has failed to prove the special incident whereby he as owner of a house opposite to the house sold but separated from it by a road or land had a right to claim pre-emption against the vendee who was a mere stranger.

Ali Muhammad v. Kadir Bakhsh (107 P. R. 1900) not followed. Mela Ram v. Prema (109 P. R. 1900) and Ilahi Bakhsh v. Miran Bakhsh (68 P. R. 1906) followed. MAHTAB SINGH v. NIAZ ALI. 47 P R 1907

54. Custom—Pre-emption— Presumption of existence of right in a town in respect to agricultural land assessed to land revenue—Una, Hoshiarpur District—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 10, 11, 12.

Held, that the custom of pre-emption cannot be presumed to exist in Una, District Hoshiarpur, inasmuch as it is a town and not a village, and that there can be no presumption as to the existence of a custom of pre-emption in a town even in respect to assessed and cultivated land. HARJALLU MAL v. NATHU RAM. 51 P R 1907

55. Custom— Pre-emption— Pre-emption on sale of shops—Katra Ramgarhian, Amritsar city—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Held, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of shops by reason of vicinage

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

2.—RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS—contd.

in Katra Ramgarhian of the city of Amritsar has not been established. SUNDAR SINGH v. MEHR SINGH. 54 P R 1907

56. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of house property—Mohalla Barwala, Jagadhri.

Held, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sales of house property by reason of vicinage does prevail in mohalla Barwala of the town of Jagadhri. MANOHAR LAL v. PARS RAM. 67 P R 1907

57. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of shops—Katra Ramgarhian, Amritsar City.

Found that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of shops by reason of vicinage in Katra Ramgarhian of the city of Amritsar had not been established. RAM RAKHA v. SANT RAM 68 P R 1907

58. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption of existence of right in respect to area converted into building sites—Killa Gujar Singh—Suburbs of Lahore—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 10, 11, 12.

A certain area of land was originally comprised within the village of Killa Gujar Singh, a suburb of Lahore city and had been in years past agricultural land. For some time past, however, it had been used as a site for building purposes and had been gradually absorbed within the limits of Lahore city.

Held, under these circumstances that the land must be regarded as land situate in a town and that there was therefore no presumption that the custom of pre-emption existed in respect of sale of such land.

Found upon the evidence that the plaintiff had failed to prove that the custom of pre-emption existed in respect of a sale of such land. MUHAMMAD DIN v. SHAH DIN. 90 P R 1907

59. Pre-emption—Sale of two houses adjoining one another—Vendee and pre-emptor each having priority over one house by reason of vicinge—Pre-emptor not bound to acquire the whole bargain.

Held, that in a case of sale of two houses adjoining one another a vendee whose right of pre-emption by reason of contiguity only extends to one house cannot defeat the next-door neighbour of the second house on the ground that by reason of his having rights over one house superior to plaintiff he has a right with respect to the other house equal to those of plaintiff.

A bargain of distinct properties by a person having preferential rights only to a portion of such bargain does not give him a right of pre-emption as regards the simultaneously purchased other portion.

In such a case the pre-emptor whose rights extend over only one lot is not bound to take over the bargain in its entirety. UTTAM CHAND v. LAHORI MAL. 112 P R 1907

60. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of house property—Mohalla Wadharian, Sialkot city—Compensation for improvements made by vendee.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sales of house property by reason of vicinage prevails in mohalla Wadharian in the city of Sialkot.

Held, that as a general rule a purchaser of immovable property subject to the right of pre-emption who has effected improvements in spite of the pre-emptors warning not to do so, is under no circumstances entitled to recover their market value, but might be allowed to remove them if that can be done without injuring the property. BUTA SINGH v. TARA SINGH. 122 P R 1907

61. Custom—Pre-emption—Kucha Billa Kabutarbaz, Mohalla Kabuli Mal, Lahore city—Superiority of co-sharership over mere contiguity—Burden of proof—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption prevails in kucha Billa Kabutarbaz which is a part of mohalla Kabuli Mal, a subdivision of the city of Lahore for the purpose of section 1, Punjab Laws Act, 1872, and that a co-sharer in the property sold has a preferential right as against the owner of an adjoining house.

The existence of a custom of pre-emption in the neighbouring kuchas is sufficient to prove the existence of such a custom in a kucha into which they run, although no case of pre-emption may have occurred in it. ALLAH DITTA v. RAJ KUMAR. 138 P R 1907

62. Pre-emption on sale of house property—Kucha Pati Ram, Delhi city.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sales of house property based on vicinage exists in Kucha Pati Ram of Delhi City. ISHRI PARSHAD v. BASHESHAR NATH. 35 P R 1908

63. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of house property—Mohalla Dassan, Delhi city—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of house property by reason of vicinage exists in mohalla Dassan, Delhi city, which is a part of mohalla Billimarian. BHAGWANTI v. SOHAN LAL. 116 P R 1908

64. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of house property—Mohalla Haveli Khan Duran Khan, Delhi city.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sales of house property by reason of vicinage prevails in mohalla Khan Duran Khan in the city of Delhi. ABDUL GHAFUR KHAN v. MUHAMMAD ZIA-UD-DIN KHAN. 147 P R 1908

65. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of house property—Katra Amar Singh, Amritsar city.

Held, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sales of house property by reason of vicinage in Katra Amar Singh of the city of Amritsar had not been established. SAWAN SINGH v. SANT RAM. 9 P R 1909

66. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of house property—Dinga, Gujrat district.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of house property by reason of vicinage exists in the town of Dinga in the Gujrat district. RAMJI MAL v. MATHRA DAS. 19 P R 1909

67. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of house property—Kot Nau in Khem Karn, tahsil Kasur, Lahore district.

Found that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of house property based on vicinage exists in Kot Nau, a sub-division of the town of Khem Karn, in the Kasur tahsil of the Lahore district. AMIR CHAND v. CHUNI LAL. 32 P R 1909

68. Custom—Pre-emption—Jullundur city, " Katra Jua Khana " sub-division.

Held, that the so called " Katra Jua Khana" is not a separate sub-division of Jullundur city for purposes of pre-emption.

Held also, that in the old city of Jullundur pre-emption is general. RUSTOM ALI v. RODA. 70 P R 1909

69. Pre-emption—Vendee cannot defeat pre-emptor's claim by acquiring a status equal to plaintiff after the institution of the suit.

Held by the Full Bench—(RATTIGAN, J., dissenting), that in a suit for pre-emption based on the ground that at the date of sale the pre-emptor was a proprietor in the village in which the property sold is situate and the vendee was not the vendee cannot defeat plaintiff's claim by becoming a proprietor in the village whether by gift or otherwise, afte the date of institution of the suit, but before the passing of the pre-emption decree. DHANNA SINGH v. GURBAKHSH SINGH. 91 P R 1909 F. B.

70. Pre-emption—New sub-division in an old town—Garhi Awan, Hafizabad, District Gujranwala.

Held, that the custom of pre-emption does not prevail in the abadi jadid of the old village of Garhi Awan, a suburb of Hafizabad.

Held also, that the abadi jadid, which was situate just outside the old borders of the town, must be looked upon as a sub-division within the meaning of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, II of 1905, notwithstanding that it had not yet received a name as a mohalla, and that no sub-divisions were recognized in the old town. ALLAH DITTA v. MUHAMMAD NAZIR. 84 P R 1910

71. Custom—Pre-emption—Existence of—Town Kunjah, District Gujrat—Conversion of tawela into serai—Punjab Courts Act, XVIII of 1884, section 70 (1) (b)—Sufficient important question of law—Value of instances cited.

Held, that a custom of pre-emption exists in the town of Kunjah, District Gujrat.

Held also, that the mere fact that some of the rooms are rented out to more or less permanent tenants and others to chance visitors does not necessarily convert what was originally a tawela into a serai.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

2.—RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS—contd.

Held also, that in pre-emption cases the question whether a certain building is or is not on the facts found by the Lower Appellate Court a serai, is a question of law and of sufficient importance to justify the admission of an appeal under section 70 (1) (b) of the Punjab Courts Act, 1884.

Held further, following 44 P. R. 1905 (Ramjas v. Bura Mal) and 44 P. R. 1903 (Muhammad Nawaz Khan v. Mussammat Babo Sahib) that the admission of plaintiff's right by the defendant does not render the case valueless as a precedent in favour of the existence of a custom. FEROZE-UD-DIN v. RAHIM BAKHSH. 96 P R 1910

72. Pre-emption—House property in Rawalpindi Cantonment—Punjab Pre-emption Act, II of 1905, sections 7 (1) and 3 (3).

Held, that notwithstanding Punjab Government Notification No. 677, dated 10th November 1908, declaring Rawalpindi city and cantonment to be a town under section 3 (3) of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, a suit for pre-emption in regard to house property in the cantonment is barred by the provisions of section 7 (1) of the Act.

9 P R 1911

73. Lahore city—Mohalla Sathan—House converted into a Dharmsala subsequent to sale—Punjab Pre-emption Act, II of 1905, section 13 (2).

Held, that a custom of pre-emption in respect of houses exists in mohalla Sathan in the city of Lahore.

Held also, that where at the date of sale the property sold was a house and subsequently it was converted into and used as a Dharmsala, it is immaterial for the purposes of sub-section 2, section 13 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, to consider such conversion, inasmuch as it is the character of the property sold at the date of sale which determines the question of the applicability of the said sub-section. 22 P R 1911

74. Pre-emption in respect of sale of a house or shop in a lane in bazar Baba Malak in the town of Nakodar—Punjab Pre-emption Act II of 1905, section 6.

Held, that plaintiff, on whom the onus lay, had failed to prove that the custom of pre-emption existed in the Baba Malak sub-division of the town of Nakodar at the time of commencement of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, and that his suit for pre-emption must accordingly be dismissed. 59 P R 1911

75. Custom—Pre-emption—Mohalla Mimaran alias Pansarian, Kaithal—Value of proof of uncontested instances in neighbourhood of the mohalla.

Held that the custom of pre-emption of houses exists in mohalla Mimaran alias mohalla Pansarian, a sub-division of Kaithal.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

2.—RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS—concld.

Held also, that instances of pre-emption in the neighbourhood of the mohalla in question may indicate the existence of custom of pre-emption in that mohalla and that uncontested instances are by no means worthless evidence of the existence of right

71 P. R. 1905, 38 P. R. 1906, 99 P. R. 1906, 120 P. R. 1906, 67 P. R. 1907, 138 P. R. 1907, 44 P. R. 1903 and 26 P. R. 1907, referred to. 78 P R 1911

76. Pre-emption—Claimed by owner of adjacent shop—Punjab Pre-emption Act, II of 1905, section 13 (1) seventhly—Sale of half property in suit and agreement to sell other half not detrimental to pre-emptor's title to a decree.

Held, that the words "immovable property" in section 13 (1) seventhly of the Punjab Pre-emption Act include a shop.

Held also, that the sale by the plaintiff pre-emptor of half the property in suit and an agreement to sell the other half, does not derogate from his right or disentitle him to a decree. 80 P R 1911

77. Mohalla Acharjan—Gumti Bazar, Lahore.

Held, that it had not been proved that the custom of pre-emption prevailed in mohalla Acharjan, which is part of the recognised sub-division of bazar Gumti in the Lahore city. 91 P R 1911

3.—RIGHT OF, ON SALE OF SHOPS.

See PRE-EMPTION—RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS.
64 P R 1887
83 P R 1901
21 P R 1907
54 P R 1907

1. Suburbs of Delhi—Mauza Jahannuma.

Held, taking Jahannuma to be a sub-division of Delhi, that there are varieties in the incidents of pre-emption; that it is not in all cases sufficient to show vicinage, that because in a sub-division custom allows pre-emption in the case of dwelling houses, it does not follow that it holds good in the case of shops also, or of big plots extending far and wide away from the property through which pre-emption is claimed. ANKAR LAL v. BAIJ NATH. 103 P R 1889

2. Custom—Kasba Chiniot, Jhang District—Pre-emption on the sale of a shop.

Plaintiff claimed pre emption upon the sale of a shop situate in a bazar in kasba Chiniot, District Jhang. It was contended on his behalf that, as the custom of pre-emption prevailed generally in Chiniot, it should be considered to extend to dwelling houses as well as shops. There was no clear and verified instance, however, of a claim being made on the sale of a shop.

Held, that section 11 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, governed the case, and it was for plaintiff to prove (1) that the right of pre-emption exists in Chiniot; and (2) that it is exercisable in respect of shops.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

3.—RIGHT OF, ON SALE OF SHOPS—contd.

Proof of a custom of pre-emption existing in a given locality as to houses is not primâ facie proof that it extends to shops also, with the result that the person giving such proof must succeed unless the opposite party proves positively that it does not extend to shops.

No. 89 P. R. 1888, considered with reference to No. 64 P. R. 1887, and No. 103 P. R. 1888. CHAUDHRI NUR AHMAD v. GANGA RAM. 63 P R 1890

3. Custom—Suburbs of Batala—Bazar Tahsilwala.

The property in dispute consisted of shops and a chaubara and was situate in a bazar in the suburbs of Batala. Plaintiffs claimed pre-emption on the ground that they were co-sharers in mauza Faizpur within the boundaries of which the land had been entered at Settlement. It was found that the bazar was built about 1868 on a site which was previously a grave-yard adjoining one of the gates of Batala.

Held, that the property should be regarded as situate in a town, and that the plaintiffs on whom the onus lay had failed to prove that the right of pre-emption attached thereto by custom. KISHEN DIAL v. ALI BAKHSH.

87 P R 1890

4. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of shop—Sutar Mandi bazar, Lahore City—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11—Burden of proof.

On the sale of a shop in the Sutar Mandi bazar, Lahore city, plaintiff claimed to be entitled, by custom, to the right of pre-emption basing his claim on the fact that he was the next neighbour with a joint wall and staircase. On appeal to the Chief Court, he wished to refer to suits regarding shops in the neighbouring mohallas in order to prove that pre-emption could be claimed in respect of shops as well as houses.

Held, that under section 11 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, it was incumbent on plaintiff in a pre-emption suit regarding property in a town to establish the right and its incidents and proof that it exists in other or neighbouring mohallas of the town could at best only supplement plaintiff's evidence regarding its existence in the mohallla where the property in dispute was situate and could not supply the want of such evidence.

Held further, following No. 64 P. R 1887, No. 103 P. R. 1889 and No. 68 P. R. 1890, that it was not sufficient for the plaintiff to show that the right extended to houses in a particular portion of a town, that it must be affirmatively proved to extend to shops, and that plaintiff had failed to prove that a custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of shops existed in the Sutar Mandi bazar of Lahore city.

A shop in a bazar cannot be pre-empted as a house merely because there is an upper story to it which is sued as a residence.

2215

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

3.—RIGHT OF, ON SALE OF SHOPS—contd.

No. 55 P. R. 1880, No. 64 P. R. 1887, Nos. 103 and 170 P. R. 1889, 68 and 87 P. R. 1890, cited. No. 48 P. R. 1888 disapproved pro tanto. RAMAN MAL v. BHAGAT RAM. 17 P R 1895

5. Pre-emption—Claim in respect of land situate in out-growth of town of Batala and occupied by shops—Onus probandi.

Plaintiff sued for pre-emption of certain land which though formerly agricultural was at the date of suit situate in an outgrowth of the town of Batala and was occupied by business premises, or shops, and not by dwelling-houses.

Held, that the claim must be treated as one in respect of property which, though formerly agricultural land, should now be regarded as subject to urban rules.

Held, therefore, that the burden of proving that there was a custom of pre-emption applicable to such property was upon plaintiff and found that plaintiff had failed to relieve himself of such onus.

No. 87 P. R. 1890 followed. UMAR BAKHSH v. ABDUL KARIM. 70 P R 1898

6. Custom—Pre-emption on sale of shop—Katra Harsa Singh, Amritsar city—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11—Burden of proof.

Held, that plaintiffs had failed to prove the existence of a custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of shops by reason of vicinage in Katra Harsa Singh of Amritsar city. Held further, following Raman Mal v. Bhagat Ram (17 P. R. 1895), and Saudagar Mal and another v. Aman Singh (70 P. R. 1899) that the onus probandi rested on the plaintiffs, and the mere fact that pre-emption has been held to exist in regard to houses is not sufficient to establish the right with respect to shops in the same mohalla or katra, and the fact that the right of pre-emption exists in other or neighbouring mohallas or katras of the town is not per se sufficient to prove its existence in the particular mohalla or katra in question. NATHA SINGH AND OTHERS v. BILLA SINGH. 58 P R 1900

7. Custom—Pre-emption on sale of shop—Hissar city.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of shops exists in the town of Hissar. BHAGWANA AND OTHERS v. HANWANTA. 90 P R 1901

8. Custom—Pre-emption—Right of, on sale of shops—Vicinage Chandni Chouk Bazar, Delhi city.

Held, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of the sale of shops exists in the Chandni Chowk Bazar of Delhi city, and that vendee has failed to prove a special local custom whereby the owner of the house at the back was not competent to exercise the right of pre-emption as against him who was a mere stranger in the locality.

Sharif Hussain v. Muhammad Yusaf (88 P. R. 1905) followed. Raman Mal v. Bhagat Ram (17 P. R. 1895), referred to. PRAG RAJ v. MURARI LAL. 81 P R 1906

2216

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

3.—RIGHT OF, ON SALE OF SHOPS—concld.

9. Pre-emption—Sale of block of shops or mercantile property—Ambala city—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Held, that plaintiff has failed to prove the existence of a custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of a block of shops or mercantile property by reason of vicinage in the city of Ambala.

The fact that a portion of such property comprised residential buildings does not alter the nature of such property.

Mussammat Nur Jahan v. Aziz-ud-din (108 P. R. 1895), Nanni Mal v. Sheo Nath (64 P. R. 1887), Kishan Singh v. Jai Kishan Das (2 P. R. 1903), Raman Mal v. Bhagat Ram (17 P. R. 1895), and Natha Singh v. Billa Singh (58 P. R. 1900), referred to. BHAGWAN DAS v. HAR PERSHAD. 111 P R 1906

10. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of shops—Bazar Papran, Katra Nihal Singh, Amritsar city.

Found, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of shops by reason of vicinage exists in Bazar Papran, Katra Nihal Singh of the city of Amritsar. ATTAR SINGH v. SANT SINGH. 113 P R 1906

11. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption on sale of residential property used for business purposes—Alteration in the nature of such property—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

Held, that the use of a residential property as business premises for transacting the business of commission agency does not alter the nature of such property and it would not in consequence of such usage be considered to be shop property. NAWAL KISHORE v. AMIR KHAN. 122 P R 1906

12. Custom—Pre-emption—Pre-emption in respect to sale of shops in villages—Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, sections 12, 13 (2).

Held, that sub-section 2 of section 13 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, is inapplicable to shops in villages. The custom of pre-emption exists in respect to such shops subject to the provisions of section 12 of that Act. KIRPA RAM v. KHUSHALI MAL. 80 P R 1907

4.—RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP.

See PRE-EMPTION—2. RIGHT OF, IN TOWNS. 56 P R 1885
108 P R 1886
64 P R 1887
105 P R 1887
29, 37, 48 and 165, P R 1888
170 P R 1889
13 P R 1890
100 P R 1892
8 P R 1893
38 P R 1906
6 P R 1907
67 P R 1907
19 P R 1909
32 P R 1909

2217

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

4.- RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP—contd.

See PRE-EMPTION—3. RIGHT OF, ON SALE OF SHOPS. 103 P R 1889
17 P R 1895
58 P R 1900
81 P R 1906
113 P R 1906

See PRE-EMPTION—7. CONSTRUCTION OF WAJIB-UL-ARZ. 87 P R 1895

1. Act IV of 1872, section 14—"Relationship."

Held, that the right of pre-emption by reason of relationship, under section 14 of Act IV of 1872, cannot be restricted to near relations, but must be taken to extend to all relations however distant, whose relationship to the vendor is found to be established. PREM SINGH v. JALLA. 151 P R 1879

2. Co-sharers—Preferential right—Relationship—Custom.

In a suit for pre-emption, the property in dispute was found to be joint undivided property, in which both the plaintiff and the purchaser as co-sharers had an equal right of pre-emption under clause (a), section 12 of Act IV of 1872, but it was contended for the plaintiff that he, being a relative, had by custom a preferential right over the purchaser. The Administration-paper was to the effect that anyone who wishes to sell a share in a well must first offer it to a co-sharer and if the near co-sharer (hissadar karib shurka) does not purchase it, he must then offer it to the sharers in other wells.

Held, that the clause in the Wajib-ul-arz did not prove that among co-sharers a relative had a preferential right. SUKHA v. MURAD. 16 P R 1881

3. Custom—Preferential right of relation over co-sharer in joint khata who is not a relation.

In a suit for pre-emption arising out of a sale of land in M. Muhamdipur, tahsil Chunian, in the Lahore district, found that by custom the plaintiffs, who were relations of the vendor, had a preferential right of pre-emption as against the purchaser who, though a joint owner in the khata, was not related to the vendor. NIHAL SINGH v. IWAN SINGH. 56 P R 1882

4. Custom—Mauza Hissar—Biradaran hakiki

Found that by the custom prevailing in mauza Hissar, the right of pre-emption accrues in the first instance to own brothers

(biradaran hakiki), and in default of them, to proprietors in the village. SOHAN LAL v. MULA. 114 P R 1882

5. Act IV of 1872, section 12 (b)—"Order of relationship"—Ground urged for the first time at hearing of appeal to Chief Court.

Held, following Khan Mulla v. Fazlur (No. 65 P. R. 1878), that the words "order of relationship" in section 12 (b) of Act IV of 1872 cannot be construed so as to put a person collaterally related in a more remote degree on an equal footing with a person related in a nearer degree, and that therefore the lower Appellate Court had correctly decided that the plaintiff who was a first cousin of the vendor was nearer in the order of relationship than, and had a superior claim under the above section to, the defendant who was a son of a first cousin.

It was urged for the first time at the hearing of the above appeal that section 12 (b) of Act IV of 1872 did not apply to the case as the village was not shown to be "held on ancestral shares." There was nothing on the record to show that the section did not apply, nor was the point made a ground of the written appeal. Held, that no sufficient reason had been shown for allowing the defendant to urge a ground not set forth in his memorandum of appeal, and the circumstances were not such as would justify the Court in ordering a further enquiry on the ground taken at the hearing. JAWAHIR SINGH v. NAND SINGH. 117 P R 1882

6. Co-sharers in joint holding—Act IV of 1872, section 12, clause (a)—Sale by one co-sharer to her son—Custom.

In suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the plaintiff and defendant seller were the proprietors of a joint holding inherited from their mother, and that the purchaser in the sale out of which the suit arose was the son of the defendant seller.

Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to assert her right under clause (a) of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act (as amended), and that the circumstance of the purchaser being the presumptive heir would not, in the absence of a special local custom conferring the right of pre-emption on such heir, deprive the plaintiff of her legal privilege. MUSSAMMAT JIAN v. MUSSAMMAT NADIR NISHAN. 6 P R 1883

7. Custom—Mauza Naushahrah Panwan, Tahsil Tarn Taran, Amritsar—Relationship.

In a suit for pre-emption in respect of the sale of a house in the village site of M. Naushahrah Panwan in the Tarn Taran tahsil of the Amritsar district, held, that the defendant had failed to prove that the custom of pre-emption did not exist in such village site.

Held, further, that the plaintiff had proved that by the custom of the village relationship formed a ground for claiming the right. PIRBHU v. SAWAN. 40 P R 1883

8. Custom—Mauza Karbans, Panipat—Relationship.

In a suit for pre-emption of certain land situated in M. Karbans in the Panipat tahsil, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove a special custom in the village in favor of near relations obtaining a right of pre-emption before others who were not so nearly related. DEBA v. RAM NATH. 11 P R 1884

9. Plaintiff claiming pre-emption of house bought by "mutwalli" for the benefit of a mosque—Right of mosque to exercise right of pre-emption—Vicinage.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the house in question had been bought by the mutwalli of a mosque on behalf of and for the benefit of the mosque, the said house adjoining the mosque and also adjoining plaintiff's house. It was contended for the plaintiff that the mosque being wagf, i.e., the property of the Deity and not of any earthly owner, no right of the kind in question could attach to it.

Held, that such contention could not prevail; that there was no rule or principle warranting a denial to the mosque (as an institution) of the same right of preventing strangers approaching its walls by the exercise of a right of pre-emption, as other householders possessed, and that the mosque, as an institution, had practically proprietary rights exercised through the guardians, one of those rights being to claim, on the ground of vicinage, a right of pre-emption in the case of sales of adjoining properties. SHANKAR DAS v. SAID AHMAD. 153 P R 1884

10. Wajib-ul-arz—Relationship—Right of relations inter-se—Custom.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the custom as laid down in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village was to the effect that if a shareholder wishes to dispose of his land he must first offer it to the sharers who are his relatives (rishtadaran karib), and after them to the other sharers.

Held, that as the above provision gave a preferential right to sharers who were related, those sharers among themselves would take in the order of their relationship to the vendor or mortgagor, and that therefore the mortgagee in the present case, who was one degree nearer to the mortgagor than the plaintiffs, had a preferential right of pre-emption. NAJAF ALI v. KUTBU. 58 P R 1885

11. Custom of Panipat—Vicinage.

Found that in Panipat in the Karnal district a custom of pre-emption exists resting upon vicinage, and that the said custom gives a preference to a neighbour through whose gateway and over whose ground the house sold is approached, to one who is only a neighbour because the back of his house adjoins the one sold but whose approach is from a different side. MUHAMMAD SALAMATULLA v. JALAL-UD-DIN. 24 P R 1887

12. Custom—Jullundur city—Relationship—Vicinage.

In a suit for pre-emption regarding a house in mohalla Muftian in the city of Jullundur, held, that no custom had been established under which a collateral relative in the male line of the vendor has merely as such a right of pre-emption equal or superior to a neighbour.

Ata Muhammad v. Hardit Mal (No. 12 P. R. 1883) distinguished. Sheikh Shahr Yar v. Imamudin (No. 33 P. R. 1885), cited. SARBOLAND KHAN v. ISMAIL. 53 P R 1888

13. Custom—Mooltan city—Rival claimants—Vicinage—Onus of proof—Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 11—Equity and justice—Claimants with equal rights—Preferential right of claimant who has shown greatest diligence by suing first—Procedure to be adopted where separate suits are brought by rival claimants of pre-emption.

On an appeal to the Chief Court it appeared that the real contest in the case lay between two rival claimants for pre-emption of a house in a sub-division of the city of Mooltan (in which the custom of pre-emption admittedly prevailed), of whom the appellant before the Court had asserted his claim first, the first respondent being the other claimant. It appeared that the houses of both claimants adjoined the house sold, but whereas the appellant's house adjoined the latter at the back for seven cubits only that of the respondent had the same frontage as the house sold, both the latter houses opening into the same public street, and thus adjoining each other for a length of 35 cubits. The Courts below decided in favour of the respondent, purporting to base their decision partly upon custom and partly upon principles of justice and equity.

Held (reversing the orders of the Courts below), (1) that the respondent had failed to prove a special local custom giving the owner of the house in front a preference over the owner of the house at the back: (2) that in the case of two rival claimants circumstanced as the rival claimants in the present case, the one claiming a superior right must show that he is so entitled by custom, otherwise (assuming always the general right of pre-emption, to prevail in the locality) their rights would have to be regarded as equal; (3) that considerations of equity and convenience, though no doubt underlying the formation of a local custom in matters connected with pre-emption cannot be substituted by the Court itself in the place of custom, that is to say as supplying the rule of decision where no local custom is proved; and (4) that as neither claimant had proved a superior right over the other, and the rights of both as owners of contiguous property must therefore be held to be equal, the appellant who by first filing his suit had shown the greatest diligence was entitled to the whole house, each claimant having throughout contended over the whole house, and neither party having alleged a custom by which next door neighbours are entitled to claim a half share each of a house offered for sale.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

4.—RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP—contd.

The proper procedure to be adopted, when there are rival claimants suing separately for pre-emption, both of whom have superior rights to the vendee, but one of whom has superior rights to the other explained by RATTIGAN, J.

Ganda v. Khwaja Muhammad Khan (No. 64 P. R. 1880), Kallan Khan v. Ram Sarn Das (No. 97 P. R. 1880), Mohkam Din v. Karim-ul-lah (No. 102 P. R. 1881), Sheikh Shahr Yar v. Imam-ud-din (No. 33 P. R. 1885), Kalia Ram v. Kallan Khan (No. 108 P. R. (1886)), and Muhammad Salamat-ulla v. Jalat-ud-din (No. 24 P. R. 1887), cited. CHAUDHRI KHEM SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT TAJ BIBI. 83 P R 1888

14. Custom of Ludhiana City—Vicinage. In a suit for pre-emption of a house, situate in the city of Ludhiana, held that the plaintiff had failed to prove a custom by which he, as owner of a house not adjoining the house sold, but opening into a lane said to be the private property of himself and the vendor, access to which lane had been granted by the vendor through his own house to the vendee, had a right to claim pre emption against the vendee whose house adjoined the house sold at the back only.

Chaudhri Khem Singh v. Mussammat Taj Bibi (No. 83 P. R. 1888), cited. MUHAMMAD AZIM KHAN v. NABIR 192 P R 1888

15. Custom of Batala City—Vicinage. In a suit for pre-emption of a house in Batala in the Gurdaspur District, plaintiff claimed to have a right superior to the defendant, because his house adjoined the house in dispute, though it appeared that defendant owned a house, in the same street as the disputed house, whereas the plaintiff's house was in another street, and its contact with the disputed house arose only from their being back to back.

Held, that the plaintiff had failed to establish that he had by local custom a superior right to the defendant. JHANDU v. UMAR DIN. 17 P R 1889

16. Mauza Jamraniwala, tahsil Lodhran, zilla Mooltan—Vicinage—Preferential right —Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 12.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

4.—RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP—contd.

In a suit for pre-emption of certain land in Mauza Jamraniwala in the Lodhran tahsil of the Mooltan District, it appeared that both the plaintiffs and the defendant, purchaser, were proprietors in mauza Jamraniwala, but the plaintiffs' claim to pre-emption was based on the allegation that as their lands adjoined the land sold, custom gave them a preferential right.

Held, that the plaintiff's suit failed, as they had not succeeded in proving that the custom alleged prevailed in mauza Jamraniwala. SAWAN MAL v. WASU RAM. 49 P R 1889

17. Mauza Gohana, Rohtak District—Vicinage—Relationship.

In a suit for pre-emption of a house in mauza Gohana, in the Rohtak District, it appeared that the house in question was situated in a blind lane, the house in which plaintiff lived being on the opposite side of the lane but not touching it, while the defendant purchaser was the owner of a house touching it at the back. Plaintiff claimed pre-emption on the ground that he lived in the same lane, while defendant's premises at the back did not open on to the lane, and also on the ground that he was a second cousin of the vendor.

Held, that plaintiff had failed to prove any custom which entitled him to succeed on either of the above grounds. RUR SINGH v. TANSUKH RAI. 82 P R 1889

18. Custom—Batala—House adjoining at the back, but opening into another mohalla.

Found that a custom of pre-emption by vicinage exists in the town of Batala.

Held, that under the custom, the plaintiff, whose adjoined the house in dispute at the back, though it opened into a different mohalla, was entitled to pre-emption. KARAM ILAHI v. ALI BAKHSH. 199 P R 1889

19. *Pre-emption—Custom—*Mohalla Purian —Town of Bhera.

The custom of pre-emption based on vicinage found to prevail in the town of Bhera, Shahpur District, Mohalla Purian, in the said town is not a sub-division thereof for the purposes of section 11, Punjab Laws Act, 1872. One co-sharer in a house is not debarred from instituting a suit to enforce a right of pre-emption based on vicinage on the ground that the other co-sharer therein refuses to join in such suit. RAM ASRA v. GURDITTA. 42 P R 1891

20. Punjab Laws Act, 1872—*Pre-emption —Relationship to vendor—Custom—*Mauza Bopa Rai, Jagraon tahsil, Ludhiana District.

The land in suit was situate in mauza Bopa Rai in the Jagraon tahsil of the Ludhiana District—a bhayachara village—both the plaintiff and the purchaser being khewatdars in the patti in which the property sold was situate. The plaintiff was related to the vendor, whereas the purchaser was not.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

4.—RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP—contd.

Found, that no special custom was established by which the plaintiff had a superior right of pre-emption merely by reason of his relationship to the vendor. GAJJAN v. BHOPA 27 P R 1893

21. Punjab Laws Act, 1872—Pre-emption —Suit for, of house on village site between non-proprietary residents to—Vicinage—Special custom.

Held, that when a non-proprietary resident of a village claims pre-emption of a house in the abadi on the ground that vicinage gives him the right, and such right is denied, it is incumbent upon the plaintiff to prove affirmatively that by the custom of the village he has the right of pre-emption. FAKIR CHAND v. SANGAT SINGH. 85 P R 1893

22. Pre-emption—Sale of a tawela in mohalla Gali Qasim Jan, Delhi City—Plea that property was no longer used as a tawela but as a katra or serai*—Vicinage—Right of pre-emption claimed in respect of large property by virtue of ownership of small contiguous house.*

Plaintiff sued for pre-emption in respect of a sale of a large property called, and originally used as, a tawela in mohalla Gali Qasim Jan, in the city of Delhi, consisting of an extensive plot of land and enclosed by walls and buildings on four sides with an open space in the middle, the claim being based on plaintiff's ownership of a small house which abutted the property in dispute to a certain length on the north side. The District Judge, after finding several issues in favour of plaintiff, dismissed her suit on the ground that (i), the mere ownership of a small adjacent house could not give rise to a right of pre-emption in respect of so large a property as that in dispute, and (ii) that as the tawela had ceased to be used as such for several years and had become more like a katra, something more than the existence of the right of pre-emption in regard to dwelling-houses was necessary to prove that it also existed in regard to property of such a nature. Plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court and it was Held, that the mere largeness in size of a property is not of itself sufficient ground for holding that the ordinary rules of pre-emption do not apply, nor does the relative smallness of the property by virtue of which plaintiff institutes his suit militate against his claim.

Held, further, that the property in suit having been originally built and used as a tawela the right of pre-emption, which admittedly prevailed in the mohalla as regards dwelling-houses, presumably attached to it, in the absence of definite proof of structural alterations to change it into a katra or serai and of prolonged unmistakable user of it as such.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

4.—RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP—contd.

Found, upon the evidence, that in any event plaintiff had succeeded in proving that the right of pre-emption attached to the property in the dispute.

No. 64 P. R. 1887 and No. 103 P. R. 1889 explained. MUSSAMMAT NUR JAHAN v. AZIZ-UD-DIN. 108 P R 1895

23. Pre-emption in towns—Plaintiff and defendant both claiming on ground of vicinage—Burden of proof.

Vicinage confers a right of pre-emption in towns, but vicinage of one kind may be superior to vicinage of another kind. A plaintiff, therefore, who asserts that his vicinage is of a superior kind to that of a defendant-vendor must prove his claim. Nor is the burden of proof shifted merely because the plaintiff altogether denies the defendant's right of pre-emption, while defendant admits that plaintiff is a pre-emptor, but denies that he has a superior right of pre-emption. NAWAB MUHAMMAD MUMTAZ ALI v. KHAN ALI. 36 P R 1897

24. Pre-emption—Custom — Pre-emption on sale of houses in mauza Baghbanpura, tahsil and district Lahore—Relationship—Vicinage.

Found, that no custom of right of pre-emption of house property based upon relationship or vicinage is proved to exist in the village of Baghbanpura, tahsil Lahore.

Nizam Din v. Roshan Amir and others (54 P. R. 1880), approved. TAJ DIN v. MUHAMMAD YASIN. 99 P R 1900

25. Pre-emption — Custom — Vicinage — Mohalla Pirzadgan, Sadhaura, Umballa District—Burden of proof.

Found, that a custom of pre-emption exists in Mohalla Pirzadgan in the village of Sadhaura under which a resident in the mohalla on the ground of vicinage has a preferential right over a purchaser who was only a mortgagee of the house in dispute, and had no other connection with the mohalla.

The onus to prove that vicinage was not sufficient to give right of pre-emption lies upon defendant.

Gobind Ram v. Sayad Ahmad (10 P. R. 1886), Ralia Ram v. Kallan Khan (108 P. R. 1886), Sheikh Shahryar v. Imam-ud-din (33 P. R. 1885), Muhammad Salamat-ulla v. Jalal-ud-din (24 P. R. 1887), and Chaudhri Khem Singh v. Mussammat Taj Bibi (83 P. R. 1888), referred to. ALI MUHAMMAD AND ANOTHER v. KADIR BAKHSH. 107 P R 1900

26. *Custom—Pre-emption—*Mohalla Bhabran in the city of Nakodar—Vicinage—

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

4.—RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP—contd.

Right of person who owns houses in the same mohalla—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 11.

In a suit for pre-emption of a house in mohalla Bhabran in the city of Nakodar, plaintiff claimed the right of pre-emption on the ground that he was a caste-fellow of the vendor and also a neighbour. The plaintiff had two houses in the mohalla, neither of which adjoined the house in dispute, one being situate on a public road running along its back and opposite to it and the other separated by a branch lane and a block of buildings which belonged to other people, but there was a common doorway for the whole mohalla.

Held, that the plaintiff had failed to prove the existence of a custom of pre-emption in mohalla Bhabran, Nakodar, on the grounds set forth by him. The right of pre-emption being a right of a very special kind, as it has a tendency to hamper free disposition of property, requires to be clearly and unequivocally shown to exist before it can be enforced. Considerations of equity, convenience, privacy, exclusion of strangers and the like doubtless underlie the custom of pre-emption, but the law requires that it should be proved in a concrete form, and it is not open to the Court to assume the existence of any particular incident in the absence of proof merely because such incident can be supported on those considerations. Mere opinion not based on instances are generally valueless to prove that such custom exists.

Chaudhri Khem Singh v. Mussammat Taj Bibi (83 P. R. 1888), Thakar Das v. Muhammad Bakhsh (100 P. R. 1892), Raman Mal v. Bhagat Ram (17 P. R. 1895), Saudagar Mal v. Aman Singh (70 P. R. 1899), approved and followed. Thakar Das v. Diwan Chand (56 P. R. 1885), Ralia Ram v. Kallan Khan (108 P. R. 1886), Jhandu v. Umar Din (17 P. R. 1889), referred to. Chaudhri Nur Ahmad v. Ganga Ram (68 P. R. 1890), and Nawab Muhammad Mamtaz Ali Khan v. Ali Khan (36 P. R. 1897), distinguished. MELA RAM AND OTHERS v. PREMA AND OTHERS.

109 P R 1900

27. Pre-emption—Claim based on vicinage where the pre-emptor parted with his own property during the pendency of the suit.

Where a pre-emptor filed a suit for pre-emption of a dwelling-house on the ground of vicinage, but before obtaining a decree divested himself by gift of the proprietary right in the house the title in which gave him the right to sue.

Held, that it would be inequitable to decree his claim, as a decree in his favour would not confer upon him the benefit for securing which the right of pre-emption exists, namely, the enjoyment of his own property without molestation from undesirable neighbours.

Sakina Bibi v. Amiran and others (I. L. R. X All. 472) and Ram Gopal v. Piari Lal

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

4.—RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP—contd.

(I. L. R. XXI All. 441), referred to. ATMA RAM v. DEVI DYAL AND ANOTHER.

49 P R 1901

28. Custom—Pre-emption—Plaintiff and defendant both claiming on ground of vicinage—Burden of proof.

In a suit for pre-emption of a house situate in the city of Delhi on the ground of a superior vicinage inasmuch as the pre-emptor's house and the house sold adjoined on one side and opened into the same lane, while the vendee's house adjoined the house sold in part on the back and opened into a different lane, the plaintiff in order to prove his claim produced two witnesses, who could give no instances in support of their statements, held, that the plaintiff had failed to establish a custom under which he had a superior right to claim pre-emption against the vendee.

Mehtab Roy v. Amir Chand (189 P. R. 1882), Chaudhri Khem Singh v. Mussammat Taj Bibi (83 P. R. 1888), Muhammad Azim Khan v. Kabir (192 P. R. 1888), Nawab Muhammad Mumtaz Ali Khan v. Khan Ali, (36 P. R. 1897), and Sela Ram v. Prema 100 P. R. 1900), cited. Muhammad Salamatulla v. Jalal-ud-din (24 P. R 1887) not approved. BABU MAL v. SARDAR SINGH.

17 P R 1903

29. *Custom—Pre-emption—*Mauza *Kotli Kanjran, Gurdaspur District—Relationship—*Wajib-ul-arz.

Plaintiff claimed a right of pre-emption of certain land situated in mauza Kotli Kanjran, tahsil Gurdaspur, arising out of a sale by defendants Nos. 2 and 3 in favour of defendant No. 1, on the ground of his relationship to the vendor, and based his claim upon entries in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village prepared in 1852. These entries were to the effect that no sale or mortgage of land had ever occurred in the village and then prescribed that every co-sharer was thenceforward to be at liberty to mortgage or sell for necessity or to pay arrears of Government revenue, but that the should make the first offer of it to the karabatian and after that to the co-sharers in the patti. The facts found were that, although there had been more than 51 sales in the village, in no case had the right of pre-emption based on relationship in accordance with the provisions of the Wajib-ul-arz been asserted or allowed.

Held, that no custom of pre-emption based on relationshtp had been proved to exist in the village. The entries in the Wajib-ul-arz, never having been acted on or the right exercised in accordance therewith, were not sufficient to establish the custom set up.

Masta v. Pohlo (52 P. R. 1896) and Dilsukh Ram v. Nathu Singh (98 P. R. 1894, F. B.) distinguished.

Jafar Khan v. Fazal Mohy-ud-din (44 P. R. 1892) and Jiwa v. Mussammat Bhari

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

4.—RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP—contd.

(92 P. R. 1892), referred to. RAM SAARN DAS v. MULA SINGH. 64 P R 1903

30. Custom—Pre-emption—Mauza Chhara, District Rohtak—Preferential right—Relationship—Burden of proof.

In a suit for pre-emption of a house situate within the abadi of Chhara in the District of Rohtak, held, that under the terms of the Wabjib-ul-arz of the village, the plaintiff, a Jat and a near agnate of the vendor, had a right of pre-emption superior to that of a Mahajan who was only a share-holder in the village.

Burden of proof that any existing custom has been incorrectly stated in a record of rights rests on the person making such assertion. MAHA RAM v. RAM MOHAR.

65 P R 1903

31. Pre-emption—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12 (b)—"Order of relationship," meaning of.

Held, by the Full Bench that the expression "in the order of relationship" in section 12 (b) of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, has no reference to degrees of propinquity but is equivalent to "order of succession" in cases of inheritance of landed property under the Customary Law of the Punjab.

Masta v. Pohlo (52 P. R. 1896), and Dilsukh Ram v. Natha Singh (98 P. R. 1894, F. B.), referred to.

Khan Mulla v. Fazlur (65 P. R. 1878), Jawahir Singh v. Nand Singh (117 P. R. 1882), Najaf Ali v. Kutbu (58 P. R. 1885), Narain Singh v. Hari Singh (28 P. R. 1899), and Khota v. Alu (17 P. R. 1905), overruled. KARIM BAKHSH v. JEHANDAD KHAN.

74 P R 1906 F. B.

32. Custom—Pre-emption — Pre-emption on sale of agricultural land on ground of vicinage—Mauza Chahan Miran Khan, tahsil Shujabad, Multan District.

Held, that the custom of pre-emption in respect of sale of agricultural land by reason of vicinage in Mauza Chahan Miran Khan, tahsil Shujabad of the Multan District, had not been established.

Sawan Mal v. Wasu Ram (49 P. R. 1889), followed. THAKAR DAS v. MOTAN MAL.

77 P R 1906

33. Pre-emption—Sale of several houses adjoining one another—Suit by owner of a house adjoining one only of the houses sold—Defence by vendee—Meaning of word "adjacent" in Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, section 13 (7), discussed.

Held, by Full Bench—Chatterji, Rattigan and Chevis, JJ. (Chevis, J., dissenting), that when two houses which adjoin one another are sold jointly, the right of pre-emption of the owner of a house, which adjoins only one of the two houses sold, extends to that one house only and not to both the houses sold.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

4.—RIGHT OF, ON ACCOUNT OF VICINAGE OR RELATIONSHIP—concld.

The meaning of the word "adjacent" in Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, section 13 (7), discussed. Held by Full Court (Robertson and Rattigan JJ., dissenting), that where on such a sale the owner of the adjoining house sues for pre-emption in respect of the one of the two houses sold to which his right extends, the vendee is not entitled to say that by reason of his having under the sale-deed become owner of the other house he stands on an equal footing with plaintiff (both being owners of adjoining houses) and that the plaintiff cannot, therefore, pre-empt the house adjoining his own.

Bhagwan Das v. Mohan Lal (¹), and Ram Bit Singh v. Narain Rai (²), dissented from.

Darehan Khan v. Sohaura Mal (³) overruled.

Uttam Chand v. Lahori Mal (⁴) approved of.

SANWAL DAS v. GUR PARSHAD.

90 P R 1909, F. B.

5.—RIGHT OF, ON MORTGAGES.

—Construction of document—Mortgage or sale—Plea of custom raised for first time that right of pre-emption existed in respect of mortgages in Chief Court.

See PRE-EMPTION—13. CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS. 36 P R 1899

1. As to mortgages, held, that unless there was a provision in the Wajib-ul-arz conferring the right, pre-emprtion could only be claimed in the case of a permanent transfer. Quære, whether it could be claimed upon foreclosure. GOLAB v. WUZEERA.

87 P R 1867

2. Held, also, that the right did not apply to mortgages, but to permanent transfers only. MAN SINGH v. MUSSAMMAT DYDEE.

98 P R 1868

3. Where the Wajib-ul-arz provided for the right in a case of usufructuary mortgage, held, that the provision should be enforced without regard to the real or supposed beneficial or detrimental effect in the particular case. BUNSEE LAL v. BUNSEE.

4 P R 1869

4. Act IV of 1872, sections 7 and 10—Custom—Mortgage by conditional sale.

Section 10 of Act IV of 1872 was not intended to exclude the application of custom under section 7 to cases of pre-emption. Held, therefore, that a right of pre-emption by custom arises on a mortgage by conditional sale, notwithstanding section 10 of Act IV of 1872, which extends the right of pre-emption to foreclosures of mortgages only. BIJEY SINGH v. KAHNA. 53 P R 1877

5. Mortgage—Custom—Act IV of 1872, sections 7 and 10.

Found by the custom of mauza Majri, tahsil and Zilla Umballa, that the right

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

5.—RIGHT OF, ON MORTGAGES—contd

of pre-emption extends to mortgages; and held, following No. 53 P. R. 1877 that effect must be given to such custom under section 7, Act IV of 1872, notwithstanding section 10 of that Act.—DOULATYA v. KHEMAN. 49 P R 1878

6. Custom—Bhular Jats of Kasur Tahsil —Mortgage.

In a suit for pre-emption, the parties to which were Bhular Jats of mauza Nirhali in the Kasur tahsil of the Lahore District, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove the existence of a custom of pre-emption in respect to mortgages. NIHAL SINGH v. UTTAM CHAND. 20 P R 1885

7 Custom—Wajib-ul-arz—Mortgage.

A claim for pre-emption in the case of a mortgage, based upon a provision in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village, held, to be maintainable, the entry in the Wajib-ul-arz being regarded as evidence of the existence of the custom of pre-emption, as well as of a contract between the proprietors of the village regulating the exercise of the right. Bunsee Lal v. Bunsee (No. 4 P. R. 1869) and Bijey Singh v. Kahna (No. 53 P. R. 1877), referred to. UTTAM SINGH v. FATTEH SINGH.

103 P R 1885

8. Mortgage—Wajib-ul-arz.

In a suit for pre-emption of certain land situated in the Hoshiarpur tahsil, held that, under the terms of the Wajib-ul-arz of the village, the right of pre-emption attached to mortgages by a proprietor of every description without restriction. BULAND KHAN v. THAKUR DAS. 10 P R 1887

9. Custom—Pre-emption of mortgage—Mohalla Bhabrianwala, City Mooltan.

Found, that no special custom was shown to exist in mohalla Bhabrianwala in the City of Mooltan, recognizing a right of pre-emption in the case of mortgages. KARAM BAKHSH v. POHKAR DAS. 33 P R 1890

10. Custom — Pre-emption— Mortgage—Suit for pre-emption based on mortgage—Wajib-ul-arz—Mauza Sahri, tahsil Hoshiarpur.

In a suit for possession as pre-emptors of certain mortgage land, situate in mauza Sahri in the Hoshiarpur tahsil of the Hoshiarpur District, based upon a provision in the Wajib-ul-arz of the last Settlement, held, that the plaintiffs had failed to prove that the provision in the former Wajib-ul-arz had ever been acted upon, and that the true meaning of the existing Wajib-ul-arz was that the right of pre-emption arises, in cases of mortgages, only on foreclosure of the right of redemption.

Buland Khan and another v. Thakar Das and another (10 P. R. 1887) and Masta v. Pohlo and others (52 P. R. 1896), referred to. BHAGWAN SINGH AND ANOTHER v. HUKAM SINGH AND ANOTHER. 11 P R 1901

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

5.—RIGHT OF, ON MORTGAGES —concld.

11. Custom—Pre-emption—Right of, on mortgages—Wajib-ul-arz.

Plaintiff claimed a right of pre-emption in respect of a mortgage of certain land situated in mauza Ghola, tahsil Zafarwal, and relied in support of his claim upon entries in the Wajib-ul-arz of 1855 of the village. The entries were to the effect—"Asl hakiyat kissiki rahn nahin, Bawakt "zarurat jo koi intikal apni hakiyat ka "chahega hasb kimat mukarrar zamindaran-i- "dihat kurb jowar jab tak hakiki wa "hissadaran patti ya dusri patti ke malik "khawahan honge, hakiyatdar ko bai wa "rahn kakiyat ka shakhs ghair ke hath na hoga."—These were not repeated in any subsequent Wajib-ul-arz and notwithstanding the fact that there had since been numerous mortgages the plaintiff had not shown a single instance where there had been an attempt to assert a right of pre-emption extending to mortgages in accordance with the provisions of the Wajib-ul-arz.

Held, that the entries in the Wojib-ul-arz of 1855, relating to the existence of an alleged custom, unsupported by instances of its having been ever exercised, and contradicted by the entries themselves which expressly mentioned that there had never been any instance, and that they had been made for future guidance, could not be deemed to be sufficient evidence of such a custom.

Dilsukh Ram v. Nathu Singh (98 P. R. 1898, F. B.) and Sham Ram v. Mussammat Hemi Bai (73 P. R. 1896) cited. UMRA v. HARA. 46 P R 1903

12. Custom — Pre-emption — Mortgage—Suit for pre-emption based on mortgage—Relationship—Wajib-ul-arz—Mauza Langarpur, tahsil Dasuha, Hoshiarpur District.

In a suit for pre-emption of certain mortgage land situate in mauza Langarpur, tahsil Dasuha of the Hoshiarpur District, held that under the terms of the Wajib-u-arz of the village the plaintiff, as a collateral of the vendor, had a preferential right on the ground of relationship.

Dilsukh Ram v. Nathu Singh (98 P. R. 1894, F. B.), cited. ALI MUHAMMAD v. PIRAN DITTA. 70 P R 1905

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES.

1. Preferential right.

Where there was a mortgage effected, and the mortgagee and pre-emptor's estates adjoined the mortgaged property, both parties being puttidars of the mortgagor, but the pre-emptor was of the same caste as the mortgagor and the mortgagee of a different caste, held, that the pre-emptor could not disturb the transaction. BOLA v. MAHOMED BUKSH. 41 P R 1866

2. Preferential right—Chukdaree tenure.

In Mooltan while the zemindar is owner of the soil, the chukdar is owner of the well, and enjoys the right of arranging for the cultivation; and to the latter only belongs the right of repairing the old well or replacing it by a new one. NAWAB MAHOMED SURFURAZ KHAN v. DEWA MULL. 34 P R 1868

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

3. Preferential right—Wajib-ul-arz.

Where the Wajib-ul-arz only dealt with the right of relations as to pre-emption, and in the absence of proof of any custom, it was not to be implied that no other pre-emption rights existed in the particulur community but in such case, the general rights given by the Punjab Civil Code (section 13, para 11) were to be recognized, with proper attention to vicinage, relationship, partnership in the same thok, &c. GOOMANEE v. RUHEEMOOD DEEN. 35 P R 1870

4. The co-sharer in the well held to have the right of pre-emption as to the shares in that well in preference to the general proprietor of the village, who had no share in the well, but merely received a haq zemindari payable by the chukdars. MUCKDOOM SHAH ALI MAHOMED v. OOMUR ALI. 44 P R 1870

5. Preferential right—Co-sharers.

Where both parties are co-sharers, the fact of one possessing a larger share does not give him a preferential right to pre-emption over his co-sharers. UMUR ALI v. MUKHDUM SHAH ALI MAHOMED. 59 P R 1870

6. Preferential right—Co-sharers equally related to vendor—Act IV of 1872*—Decision in case not specially provided for.*

In a suit for pre-emption, purchaser and pre-emptor were equally related to the vendor, and were co-sharers in the village. Of the land sold, only one plot, measuring one bigah fourteen biswas, was adjacent to the land of the purchaser, whereas the bulk of the land (50 bigahs) was adjacent to the holding of the pre-emptor. No custom was shown. Held, by BOULNOIS and LINDSAY, JJ., that the pre-emptor had not a preferential, but an equal right, and could not disturb the purchaser; CAMPBELL J., dissenting, "Equity," under Section VI, Act IV of 1872, considered. GAMI v. SABIB. 91 P R 1875

7. Haq biswadari.

Plaintiff, a Muhammadan Rajput, defendant, a Jat, and some other Jats, were owners of village N.—B. was a representative of a former proprietor, who, not being able to show a good title at the Settlement against the persons in possession as the proprietary body of the village, received by the order of the Settlement Officer ten per cent. upon the revenue of village N. The father of plaintiff, a relation of B., was recorded as proprietor of half the village, and the Jats as proprietors of the other half; plaintiff's father having the right of pre-emption as to the Jats' half, but the Jats having no such right as to the other half B. sold his allowance of 10 per cent. on the revenue, or haq biswadari, to defendant; and plaintiff claimed pre-emption. Held, that the right of pre-emption extended to this haq biswadari and (LINDSAY, J., dissenting as to this) that plaintiff had a preferential right to defendant, section 14, Act IV of 1872, applying to the case. GANGA RAM v. NAJIB KHAN. 61 P R 1876

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

8. Act IV of 1872, section 14, clause 2—Landowners of sub-division of village.

In a suit for pre-emption, the purchaser held land in the patti in which the disputed land was situated, and he was also a sharer of the khata in which the same land was. Held, that the vendor and purchaser were, as co-sharers in the khata, landowners of the same sub-division of the village, within clause 2, section 14, Act IV of 1872, and that the purchaser had a preferential right to that of the superior proprietor who received 5 per cent. malikana. SOUDAGAR v. ILLAHI BAKSH KHAN. 11 P R 1877

9. *Act IV of*21,87 section 14, clause 2—Joint right.

Plaintiffs, 13 out of 32 proprietors of a patti, claimed the right of pre-emption in respect of land situate in their patti sold to defendants, proprietors in another patti in the same village. Held, that they were entitled to pre-emption under clause 2, secticn 14, Act IV of 1872.

In the right of accepting the offer of sale which belongs, under clause 2, section 14, Act IV of 1872, to the pattidars jointly, there is involved a right on the part of every pattidar to accept the offer, and the joint right thus regarded is not lost or destroyed by the refusal or omission of some of the pattidars to join the rest in the acquisition of the land offered.

Quære.—Whether if the majority of the pattidars had by some positive act assumed to relinquish the right on behalf of all, the act of the majority could take effect so as to bind all to the prejudice of any one of those for whose join benefit the provision in clause 2, section 14, Act IV of 1872, existed. RODA v. KAKA. 94 P R 1877

10. Relationship—Hereditary occupant of land sold.

Plaintiff claiming a right of pre-emption was collaterally related in the 8th degree to the vendors, while the vendees were collaterally related in the 9th degree and were also hereditary cultivators of the land sold, and had been in possession of it for a long time. On the latter ground the Courts below dismissed the plaintiff's suit. Held, by the Chief Court, that the plaintiff being nearer in the order of relationship, was entitled to a decree, under section 14, Act IV of 1872. KHAN MULLA v. FAZLUR. 65 P R 1878

11. Rival claimants — Acquiescence — Waiver—Estoppel—Principle of distribution of shares to each claimant—Act IV of 1872, section 12, as amended by Act XII of 1878 —Vendor's election where parties are equally entitled—Exercise of such election must be before sale.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES— contd.

Mere willingness to acquiesce in a sale, unaccompanied by any waiver or any conduct which would operate as an estoppel, does not bar a claim to pre-emption. Nabi Bakhsh v. Kaka Singh (42 P. R. 1878) cited.

In a suit for pre-emption, where there were two sets of plaintiffs claiming the right of pre-emption, it appeared that both sets of plaintiffs were aware of the sale, and that one set of plaintiffs (the present appellants) would probably not have come forward to claim pre-emption had not their brothers first done so, but that they brought their suit immediately after they learnt that the other suit had been instituted. Held, that under such circumstances there could not be said to be any estoppel between the two sets of plaintiffs, and that there being no proof of waiver or estoppel such as would bar the suit of the present plaintiffs against the purchaser, facts which merely tended to show acquiescence in the sale could not be taken into consideration.

The claimants of pre-emption in the above case were five brothers, two of whom joined in one suit, and three in another. Though by different mothers, it was admitted that, in case of succession, this fact would make no difference in their respective shares. The first Court, finding the rights of both sets of plaintiffs to be equal, decreed one half of the land in suit in favor of one set and the other half in favor of the second set. Held, that the correct principle was to give each brother, who was a party in either suit, an equal share in the property.

The provision in section 12 of Act IV of 1872 as amended by Act XII of 1879, which allows the vendor to determine between two persons equally entitled to pre-emption, which of them shall exercise the right, only enables the vendor before the sale is completed to make such election, but gives him no right after he has parted with the property to elect between two competing claimants to pre-emption. KARIM BAKSH v. KHUDA BAKSH.

20 P R 1881

See also MEHR AHMED v. KHUDA BAKHSH.

20 P R 1881 Note.

12. Rival claimants with equal rights—Separate suit for pre-emption by each claimant—Superior diligence of first claimant in asserting his right—Custom.

Plaintiff and defendant had originally an equal right of pre-emption in certain house property, both being next door neighbours. Plaintiff first brought a suit for pre-emption of the whole house against the purchaser and the defendant, and obtained a decree. Defendant, while the plaintiff's suit was pending, also brought a suit against the purchaser alone for the whole house, and got a decree. No custom was ever alleged by which next door neighbours were entitled to claim a half share each of a house.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES— contd.

Held, upon defendant's appeal, contending hat half of the house should have been decreed to plaintiff and half left with defendant, that the plaintiff, having by superior diligence in asserting his right got a decree against the purchaser and the defendant also for the whole house, and the defendant's decree against the purchaser being of no avail against the plaintiff, there was no ground for giving the defendant half the house. Karim Baksh v Khuda Baksh (No. 20 P. R. 1881), distinguished. MOHKAM DIN v. KARIM-ULLAH. 102 P R 1881

13. Custom—Mauza Kotha Kalan, Rawalpindi—Respective rights of full proprietor and malik qabza—Wajib-ul-arz—Preferential right of landowner in the same patti as that in which the land sold is situated.

In a suit for pre-emption of land situated in mauza Kotha Kalan in the Rawalpindi district, it was found that the plaintiff had failed to prove any special custom under which his claim to pre-emption as a full proprietor was superior to that of a malik gabza, also a land-holder of the village, the land sold being sold by another of the village owners.

But held, that under the terms of the Wajib-ul-arz of the village (no contrary custom being shown to exist), the plaintiff had a superior right of pre-emption to the vendee-defendants, inasmuch as he was a landowner in the patti in which the land in dispute was situated, whereas the vendees were land owners in another patti. LAL KHAN v. NAJIB-ULLA. 14 P R 1882

14. Sale of share in undivided holding part of which was already joint property of plaintiffs and the purchaser—Joint right of pre-emption—Joint purchase—Act IV of 1872, section 12.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the sale in question was of one-fourth share in an undivided holding, half of which was already the joint property of the plaintiffs and the purchaser.

Held, that the right of pre-emption was under these circumstances a joint right of the plaintiffs and the purchaser : that the latter by buying a share had exercised the plaintiffs' rights as well as his own : that the last clause but one of section 12 of Act IV of 1872 was not applicable to a case of the above nature, and, as nothing had been pleaded which would defeat plaintiffs' right to claim a share, they were entitled to treat the purchase as made for themselves and the purchaser jointly, and to claim half on payment to the purchaser of half the price. AHMED DIN v. MUSSAMMAT HASSO. 54 P R 1882

15. Sale of transferable right of occupancy—Punjab Laws Act, sections 9, 10, and 12—Tenancy Act, section 34—Who may claim pre-emption in default of landlord.

In a suit for pre-emption arising out of a sale of a transferable right of occupancy, held, that though the last clause of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act gives a preference, in case the landlord does not exercise the right conferred on him by section 34 of the Tenancy Act, to persons belonging to the 6th and 7th of the classes mentioned in section 12 over all others, it does not wholly exclude the operation of the earlier part of the section, which states the order in which, in the absence of custom to the contrary, the right of pre-emption shall be claimable, nor are there any words to indicate that, in default of any claim by the landlord, only persons belonging to the 6th and 7th of the classes previously specified, and no others, shall be entitled to claim pre-emption. HAZARI v. ISA.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES— contd.

106 P R 1882

16. Act IV of 1872, section 10—Sale of occupancy right—Presumption as to existence of right of pre-emption – Transferable right—Act XXVIII of 1868, sections 5, 34—Custom.

Where the proprietor of the land in suit transferred by way of sale a right of occupancy to the defendant, who was then cultivating the land as a tenant-at-will, whereupon the plaintiff, who was a proprietor and lambardar in the village, sued to enforce his right of pre-emption in respect of the right of occupancy sold, held, that as the deed of sale simply purported to give the defendant a right of occupancy, and was silent as to whether that right was transferable or not, it was necessary to refer to the provisions of section 34 of the Tenancy Act to determine this question, and as a right of occupancy created by contract was not a right of occupancy under section 5 of the Act, therefore, under the last clause of section 34, defendant, in the absence of an agreement between him and the landlord excluding the operation of the last-named section, had no transferable right and therefore no presumption in favour of the right of pre-emption arose under section 10 of the Punjab Laws Act.

Held, further, that no custom giving such right in a case like that stated above had been established. Sher Khan v. Gujar (No. 55 P. R. 1879), cited. JEHANA v. CHOWDRI JIWAN KHAN. 196 P R 1882

17. Act IV of 1872 (as amended), section 12—Plaintiff and purchaser equally entitled to pre-emption—Custom.

In a suit for pre-emption, in which it appeared that the plaintiff and defendant purchaser had an equal right of pre-emption, the lower Appellate Court dismissed the plaintiff's claim on the ground that as both parties were equally entitled, the vendor might determine which of them should exercise the right. In appeal to the Chief Court it was urged for the plaintiff that there was a custom in the village to divide the land in regard to which the right of pre-emption arose amongst the pre-emptors.

Held, that this contention could not prevail, as there were no grounds for holding that the last clause but one of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act, which definitely laid down that when it had been decided, whether by custom or law, that two persons were equally entitled to pre-emption, in that case the seller was entitled by law to choose which should exercise the right, was governed by the words "in the absence of a custom to the contrary," which occur in the first sentence of section 12. JOHAR SINGH v. MANGAL SINGH. 117 P R 1883

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

18. Punjab Laws Act, section 10 (b)—Transferable right of occupancy—Presumption of existence of right of pre-emption—Custom.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the proprietor of the land in suit gave the defendant, his tenant-at-will, a right of occupancy in the said land in consideration of a cash payment, by a lease registered on the 31st August 1878, and after the death of the said proprietor, the defendant produced the deed in mutation proceedings before the Tahsildar on 8th October 1879, whereupon on 9th February 1880 the plaintiffs, the heirs of the proprietor, sued for pre-emption. The lower appellate Courts held that the act of the proprietor in giving rights of occupancy for a consideration was a permanent alienation, and the law of pre-emption therefore applied.

Held semble, that as the registered lease did not purport to give any transferable right in the land, therefore with reference to clause (b) of section 10 of the Punjab Laws Act no right of pre-emption could be presumed to arise, though evidence might be given to show that by custom such right existed. Bulaki Shah v. Hafiz Esan (No. 67 P. R. 1874), and Jehana v. Chowdri Jiwan Khan (No. 196 P. R. 1882), cited, GHIBA v. HAYAT 120 P R 1883

19. Adhlapi transaction—Sale—Punjab Laws Act, section 9.

Held, that a transfer of half a well with the land attached thereto in adhlapi tenure, i.e., in proprietary right in consideration of the transferee restoring a ruined well and paying a premium in cash, is a sale within the meaning of section 9 of the Punjab Laws Act, so as to be subject to the right of pre-emption ; and a pre-emptor, who undertakes to carry out all the terms of the contract, is entitled to a decree, putting him in the place of the adhlapidar. MUL CHAND v. MANSA RAM. (157 P. R. 1883) and GAMAN v. GHOLAM HUSEIN KHAN. 157 P R 1883 Note

20. Custom—Mauza Baragaon, zilla Karnal—Right of shareholder in village purchasing land in another patti to resist claim by shareholder in that patti.

In a suit for pre-emption of land situated in M. Baragaon, tahsil and zilla Karnal, held, that the defendant had succeeded in showing that a custom existed which entitled him as a shareholder in the village, who had purchased land in another patti, to resist a claim for pre-emption brought by a shareholder in that patti. NAWAB MUHAMMAD ALI KHAN v. MIRAN BAKSH. 189 P R 1883

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

21. Purchaser with right of pre-emption joining in the purchase person without such right—Right of such purchaser to defeat plaintiff's claim.

In a suit for pre-emption, where it appeared that one purchaser, having a right of pre-emption superior to the plaintiff's, had joined in the purchase with a person who had no such right, held, that the said purchaser could not be allowed to rely on his own right so as to defeat the plaintiff's claim, but being a party to a transaction by which the plaintiff's right of pre-emption was infringed was entitled to no superior position, when that right was asserted, to that of the other party who had joined with him in the purchase. IMAM-UD-DIN v. NUR KHAN. 10 P R 1884

22. Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872, as amended by XII of 1878), section 12, clauses (c) and (d)—Joint claim by landowners of patti—Determination of right where two persons are equally entitled.

In a suit for pre-emption, the lower Courts held that as plaintiff and the vendee had equal rights in the patti in which the land sold was situate, the plaintiff under clause (c) of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act (as amended) was entitled to purchase the land jointly with the vendee. It appeared, however, that there was no joint claim for pre-emption on the part of the shareholders of the patti, the rest of the shareholders having stood aside, and the claim being brought by one shareholder only asserting his individual right.

Held, that under the above circumstances plaintiff's claim did not fall under clause (c) but under clause (d) of the Act, and as no joint claim was made by the landowners, and plaintiff and the purchaser each had a separate right to accept an offer of sale, the penultimate paragraph of section 12 must take effect, and as the vendor had elected to sell to the defendant, the plaintiff's claim failed. Roda v. Kaka (No. 94 P. R. 1877), and Ahmed Din v. Mussammat Hasso (No. 54 P. R. 1882), cited and distinguished. BRAG v. MUHAMMAD YAR. 17 P R 1884

23. Sale by sonless proprietor to daughter—Wajib-ul-arz permitting gift to daughter, but providing for offer to collaterals in other cases of alienation—Effect of such provision.

In a suit for pre-emption of certain land sold by a sonless proprietor to his daughter, in which the plaintiff claimed as brother's son of the vendor and a co-sharer in the estate, the lower Courts dismissed the suit because of a provision in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village laying down that a sonless proprietor could give his land to his daughter during his lifetime. It appeared, however, that it was also provided in the Wajib-ul-arz that, in the case of alienation by sale or mortgage, the first offer was to be made to brothers and collaterals.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd

Held, that, taking both clauses of the Wajib-ul-arz together, there could be no doubt that sales and gifts were to be treated as distinct ; that it did not follow that a man who might give land to his daughter to the prejudice of his collateral male relatives might also dispose of it by sale ; and that no custom to the contrary being proved, plaintiff was entitled, both according to the Wajib-ul-arz and the general law, to a decree for pre-emption. LALU v. MUSSAMMAT LAL BIBI. 114 P R 1884

24. Co-sharer—Wajib-ul-arz—Custom.

In a suit for pre-emption, held (in accordance with the rule laid down in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village), that the plaintiffs, who were owners in the village and collaterally related to the vendors, but not co-sharers with them in any holding, had failed to show a right of pre-emption superior to the defendant-purchaser, who was a co-sharer in the well to which the land in dispute was attached.

Nathu v. Dhanu (C. A. No. 1300 of 1883), and Uttam Singh v. Fatteh Singh No. 103 P. R. 1885), referred to. KAHAN SINGH v. BARA SINGH. 30 P R 1837

25. Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 12—Meaning of "landholder" or "landowner"—Purchaser of small site in abadi.

In a suit for pre-emption, it was contended that the defendant puchaser, whose general status in the village was that of a servant with a right of occupancy, had become by the purchase of a small site in the abadi, one of the village proprietors, or a landholder or landowner within the meaning of Section 12 of Act IV of 1872. Held, that the above contention could not prevail, as the first broad class entitled to pre-emption in villages under the section quoted are the proprietors, in the sense of the men, generally tribesmen, forming the proprietary body or khewatdars, the men entered in the Revenue records as assessed with a quota of the revenue, and jointly and severally responsible to Government for the whole. PHALLU v. MUKARRAB. 153 P R 1888

26. Custom—Non-transferable right of occupancy—Presumption of existence of right—Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 10.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that a proprietor in the course of a suit in which his tenant claimed occupancy rights came to terms with him, and in consideration of the payment of a sum of money, which he called nazarana, gave him a cultivating right. The plaintiff in the present suit, treating this transaction as a sale, claimed the pre-emption of it.

Held, that the right sold must be taken to be a non-transfertble right of occupancy, in regard to which no custom of pre-emption could be presumed (see Act IV of 1872, section 10) until proved.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

Held, further, that the plaintiff had failed to prove any custom under which pre-emption could be claimed with respect to a right of occupancy created under the above circumstances.

Sadhu Singh v. Mansura (C. A. No. 1362 of 1879, unpublished) Jehana v. Chowdri Jiwan Khan (No. 196 P. R. 1882), and Giba v. Hayat (No. 120 P. R. 1883), cited. RUKNA v. KANH SINGH. 179 P R 1888

27. Suburbs of Delhi—Mauza Jahannuma—Village community—Act IV of 1872, sections 10, 11 and 12—Landholder—Incidents of local custom.

The object and purpose for which the right of pre-emption was recognized and enacted in Act IV of 1872 was to protect the compactness of village communities, and in towns to respect native feeling as regards caste exclusiveness, the seclusion of private family life and so forth; not to interfere with private rights of contract or the disposal of property. The language of the Act, however, does not limit the right to such cases, but is very wide.

In cases, therefore, where pre-emption is claimed, not on the ground of any equity or social inconvenience, but solely in consequence of the extended applicability of the words of the Act, the vendee is entitled to insist that the requirements of the law on the side of the pre-emptor should be strictly complied with.

The land in dispute was situated in the so-called mauza Jahannuma. There was no revenue assessment; no proprietary body; and no headman. The village was wholly occupied with scattered buildings and some gardens.

Held, that Jahannuma was not a village community, and that no presumption could be made as to the existence of a custom of pre-emption therein under sections 10 and 12, as those sections contemplate not any mere area known by a local name and separately measured, but a property owned by a village community holding on either a zemindari, pattidari or bhayachara tenure, and that consequently the plaintiff was not a land-holder under section 12.

Held also that the plaintiff had failed to prove that he was owner of the soil by which he claimed pre-emption. Held further taking Jahannuma to be a sub-division of Delhi, that there are varieties in the incidents of pre-emption; that it is not in all cases sufficient to shew vicinage; that because in a sub-division custom allows pre-emption in the case of dwelling-houses it does not follow that it holds good in the case of shops also, or of big plots extending far and wide away from the property through which pre-emption is claimed. ANKAR LAL v. BAIJ NATH. 103 P R 1889

28. Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1882), section 12 (d)—Pre-emptor, owner of land in same taraf as land sold, preferred to purchaser, owner of land in shamilat—Sub-division.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the plaintiff owned land in the taraf in which the land sold was situated. The purchaser, proprietor of land in shamilat-i-deh contended (1) that the tarafs into which the village was divided were not sub-divisions within the purview of section 12 (d) of the Punjab Laws Act, the division being merely for revenue purposes, (II) that the purchaser as owner of a portion of the shamilat of all the village was necessarily a landowner in the taraf in which the land sold was situate. Held that there is nothing in section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act to show that the term "sub-division" should be construed with reference to any particular principle of division. Held, further, that as the shamilat was not included in any particular taraf, but belonged to the whole village, the defendant could not be held to be a landowner in the taraf in question on the ground contended by him. BHAGAT HIRA NAND v. LAL KHAN. 169 P R 1889

29. Punjab Laws Act, section 12, clause (d)—Construction—Suits by landowners of patti severally.

When suits for pre-emption have been filed at different times by persons equally entitled to pre-emption under clause (d), section 12, Punjab Laws Act, but no decree has been obtained by any claimant before the later suit has been instituted, the general rule applicable is not that the plaintiff who first succeeds in obtaining a decree will be entitled to retain the whole of the property, but that in the absence at least of some special bar, each claimant will be entitled to a decree for a proportionate share of the property on payment of a proportionate share of the purchase money. GOKAL AND JAWAHIR v. BHOLA. 29 P R 1892

30. Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12 (b)—Pre-emption—Villages held on ancestral shares—Meaning of the term.

A village held on ancestral shares within the meaning of section 12 (b), Punjab Laws Act, 1872, as amended by Act XII of 1878 (regarding rights to pre-emption in villages) must be a zamindari village. If there has been a territorial division into pattis, the village (by which is meant the whole village) is no longer held on shares but by pattis. The land in the pattis may be still held upon ancestral shares, but this is insufficient to bring the village within the description in clause (d) of the section. JALAL v. MAZHAR ALI. 13 P R 1893

31. Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12, clauses (c) and (d)—Pre-emption—Village divided into patti and thullas—"Other sub-division of the village."

The village of Badowal in which the land in suit was situate was divided into two pattis each of which was again divided into thullas. The plaintiffs claimed pre-emption on the ground that their land and the land sold was in the same thulla, whereas the vendees held no land in this thulla, but in another thulla of the same patti.

Held, that the thullas were sub-divisions within the meaning of section 12, clauses (c) and (d) of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872 and that the plaintiff's right of pre-emption was superior to that of the defendants (vendees).

No. 10 P. R. 1884, and No. 44 P. R. 1892, referred to. UTTAM v. BUTA. 69 P R 1893

32. Pre-emption—Priority of rival pre-emptors—"Landowners of the patti or other sub-divisions of the village"—Sub-division of patti into thullas—Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 12, clause (c) and clause (d).

Held, that, where a patti of a village is sub-divided into thullas, a thulla may be a sub-division of the village within the meaning of clause (d) of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872.

Held, further, that in the particular instance before the Court, such a thulla was such a sub-division. SADDA v. MAJJA SINGH. 76 P R 1894

33. Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12, clause (b)—"Village held on ancestral shares"—Pre-emption.

Held by the Full Bench, that a village cannot be said to be "held on ancestral shares within the meaning of clause (b) of section 12" of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, unless the dominant feature of the tenure is a primary division of the village upon fractional shares ascertained with reference to ancestral right such primary division being commonly, but not necessarily, a territorial division, and importing, at least, a definite separation of interests in the village, as an entirety, in accordance with the customary rules of inheritance.

In the case of joint immovable property, the fact that portions of its area are separately cultivated by the persons recorded as having specified interests therein indicates no more than the fractional share to which such persons or group would become entitled on a partition being made either by a definite separation in interest by agreement among the co-owners, or by a division of the area itself. Until the group of co-owners is thus separated, the thing, which is the subject of their co-ownership, is joint undivided immovable property within the meaning of clause (a) of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, whether it be an entire village or a portion of a village, or a house, and the co-owners are co-sharers in such property for the purpose of that clause.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

No. 13 P. R. 1893, overruled. CHAMPA MAL v. BASAIKHI MAL. 87 P R 1894 F. B.

34. Pre-emption— Landowner — Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 3 (2).

Held, that plaintiff, as proprietor of certain waste land in the village had under section 12 (e) of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, a right of pre-emption against the vendee, who was an entire stranger without any interest whatever in the village, although the land of which plaintiff was proprietor was unfit for cultivation and was not assessed with revenue. JASMIR SINGH v. RAHMATULLAH. 7 P R 1896

35. Pre-emption in respect of whole village—" Village" and " village community" —Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 10, 12, 14 —Act XII of 1878, section 12.

Section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, was intended to apply to whole villages as well as to parts of them, and a village is situate within itself in the sense that it is situate within its own circumscribing limits. The object of the said section is to declare the precedence of pre-emptors inter se, and not in any way to restrict their rights to the pre-emption of sales of parts of, and shares in, villages.

The expression " village community " in section 10 of the said Act should be construed as including not only the members of the proprietary body, but also all those individuals who dwell within the village boundaries, and whose rights and duties are as clearly defined as those of the proprietors themselves. Whether as proprietors or tenants, or menials, or shop-keepers, or village-officers, they are all members of a community or body associated together for the purpose of maintaining themselves and others, and none of them can be said to be wholly independent of the others. Whenever there is such a community, the right of pre-emption must be presumed to exist, though it would not be exercisable by any members of the community other than those referred to in section 12. If there are no such members, it cannot be exercised though there is no reason why it should not exist. It may remain dormant for a time, and then again become exercisable. HIRA LAL v. KHUDA BAKHSH. 27 P R 1897

36. Pre-emption in village—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12, clauses (b), (c, (d)—Village nominally divided into pattis.

In the village of J. K. the proprietary body of which belonged to two tribes, Sainis and Jats, a Saini sold his land to a Jat, whereupon the defendant a Saini, sued for pre-emption, alleging that the village was divided into two pattis named after the tribes of the proprietors, and that the land sold was situate within his patti. He based his claim solely upon clause (d) of section 12, Punjab Laws Act, 1872. The evidence showed that the village consisted of two sections, one of eight ploughs held by Jats and the other of four ploughs held by Sainis; that the revenue was distributed over the ploughs in this proportion; that the Sainis and Jats had their separate lambardars; that the Sainis had their land in the eastern portion of the village and cultivated nearly all the land on the south-east, the remaining land being occupied by the Jats; that the Sainis owned a few scattered fields in the Jat section, and vice versa; and that the shamilat was joint of both and scattered everywhere among the cultivated fields. There was admittedly no territorial division between the two groups, nor did the Settlement Record recognize any pattis, while the shamilat had been recently divided, not according to pattis, but among proprietors according to khewat, taking the village as a whole.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

Held, that though there were some points of differentiation between the Saini and the Jat proprietors, they did not represent two distinct pattis or other recognised subdivision in the village within the meaning of the Punjab Laws Act, and that, therefore, plaintiff's claim under clause (d) of section 12 of the Act must fail.

Clauses (c) and (d) of the said section are not entirely governed by clause (b). The first sentence in clause (c) is intended to refer back to co-sharers and relations mentioned in the two preceding clauses, while the latter portion refer to all villages of whatever tenure in which there are pattis, and is not confined to what are called pattidari villages. In such villages a relation holding land in a different patti will have preference over a landowner in the vendor's patti who is no relation or a more distant one. But where relations do not claim in a pattidari village, and in all cases in villages of bhayachara tenure, the owners of land within the patti jointly, and then individually, have superior rights to those of proprietors belonging to a different patti. BIJA v. BISHEN SINGH. 45 P R 1897

37. Pre-emption—Village divided into two pattis—Sale of adna rights in one patti to ala proprietor—Suit by adna proprietor of other patti—Respective rights of ala and adna proprietors—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12, clauses (c) and (d)—Punjab Land Revenue Act, 1887, section 3 (2)—Mauza Sorab Hosar, Dera Ismail Khan District.

In a suit for pre-emption it appeared that in the village in question which was in the Dera Ismail Khan District there were two classes of proprieters, ala and adna; that the interest of the former class in the village was undivided, the tenure so far as they were concerned being zamindari bil ijmal; that the adna ownership was partially divided the tenure being pattidari ghair mukammal; that there were two pattis in the village, viz., Bhawani Das and Ata Muhammad, the former comprising thirteen and the latter three shares in the village, and some of the area being partitioned and the rest shamilat-deh; that there was a provision in the Wajib-ul-arz to the effect that the maliks alas had no concern in the village or its management as they were mere ta'alukdars, and were only entitled to realize their dues, which were fixed at a certain percentage on the jama, and that the asssesment and settlement had been made with the adna proprietors, who were alone entitled to its profits and responsible for its losses.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

One B., an adna proprietor in patti Bhawani Das having sold his adna rights to defendant, who was one of the ala proprietors of the village, plaintiff, an adna proprietor in patti Ata Muhammad, sued for pre-emption, on the ground that he, as an adna proprietor of the other patti and a co-sharer in the shamilat, had a preferential right to that of the vendee.

Held, that as the sale was merely adna rights in one patti, plaintiff adna proprietor of the other patti had a superior right of pre-emption in the whole of the property sold, and that his claim must succeed in full as against defendant, whose sole interest in the village as ta'alukdar was the percentage on the revenue fixed as his due in the Settlement Record. SETH LAKHMI CHAND v. NAWAB HAFIZ MUHAMMAD. 72 P R 1897

38. Pre-emption—Presumption as to existence of custom of pre-emption—Village —Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 10, 11*—Mahal Baghat, Ludhiana.*

The land in respect of which pre-emption was claimed formed part of what was once an old palace of Shah Shujah, inside the boundaries of the old cantonment of Ludhiana, and was sold by auction in lots, which were purchased by various persons of various tribes and castes. At the recent settlement, as a part of the land was cultivated or culturable, it was assessed with land revenue and a record of rights prepared for it, and lambardars were appointed. The lower Courts found that these facts made the land " village land," that consequently the right of pre-emption must be presumed to exist, and its existence had not been disproved. Plaintiffs, therefore, received a decree from both Courts. Defendant appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, that though in the case of an ordinary village community the presumption that the custom of pre-emption exists is a most strong and natural one, in the case of a mere " paper " village, such as that in the present instance, created a few years back solely for administrative convenience, the presumption in favour of the existence of a custom of pre-emption, if such presumption existed at all, was of the weakest possible kind.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

Found, on the evidence, that no custom of pre-emption had been proved to exist in the Mahal Bhagat of Ludhiana. KADIR BAKHSH v. GHULAM. 74 P R 1897

39. Pre-emption—Act IV of 1872, section 12—" Landowner " and " Landholder "—Purchaser of small plot of unculturable land.

Plaintiff, one of the old proprietary body with a large holding, claimed possession by pre-emption of certain land which had been sold by one M. to defendants by registered deed of sale. Defendants admitted plaintiff's right to pre-empt, but pleaded that their rights of pre-emption were equal as they also owned land in the same taraf as the land in question. It appeared that defendants owned 1 kanal $1\frac{1}{2}$ marlas of land ghair-mumkin chappar, that is unculturable pond, which they purchased for Rs. 200. The point for decision was whether the possession of this plot of unculturable land constituted defendants vendees, " landowners or landholders " within the meaning of section 12 (d) of Act IV of 1872.

Held, that defendants were not "landowners" or " landholders " within the meaning of the said section so as to be entitled to a right of pre-emption equal to that of plaintiff.

No. 153 P. R. 1888, followed ; No. 7 P. R. 1896, distinguished. MAN SINGH v. DIP SINGH. 96 P R 1898

40. Suit by co-sharer in khata—Previous sale of another portion of same khata to vendee subsequently set aside—Status of vendee at time of later sale.

On the 25th August 1893 one U. A. sold certain land belonging to a joint khata to Z. One A. B. sued for pre-emption in respect of the said sale and obtained a decree, the bargain made by Z. being transferred to him. Subsequently to the date of the former sale, but prior to the date of the institution of A. B.'s suit, other land belonging to the same joint khata was also sold to Z., whereupon M. K., a holder of land in the same khata, sued for pre-emption. The two suits by A. B. and M. K. were tried together, and the evidence in both was by consent recorded once. As regards the claim by M. K., it was contended on behalf of Z. that he had acquired the status of a joint-holder in the khata by virtue of the sale of the 25th August 1893, and that his rights were, therefore, equal to those of M. K.

Held, that owing to the decision in A. B.'s suit, Z. was not in a position to maintain that he had acquired the status claimed by him from the 25th August 1893, and that M. K. was entitled to the benefit of the decision which went to the root of Z.'s status as a holder of land in the joint khata. ZAHAR KHAN v. MUSTAJAB KHAN. 55 P R 1899

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

41. Custom—Pre-emption—Land assessed as garden land and situate in Jahan Numan, suburb of Delhi—" Village "—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12 (e)—Essentials of custom.

Found, that (i) land which was situate in Jahan Numan in the suburbs of Delhi and assessed as " garden land " could not be regarded as land of " a village community " within the meaning of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872 ; and (ii) that plaintiff had failed to prove the existence of a custom of pre-emption in the immediate neighbourhood of the land in suit.

It is a necessary ingredient of a valid custom that it shall have existed from a time " so long that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary." KARAM ELAHI v. BABUA MAL. 21 P R 1900

42. Pre-emption—Preferential right—Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 12—Vendee and pre-emptor landholders in the village, the latter being a co-sharer in the well from which the land in suit was irrigated.

Held, that a co-sharer in the actual well area is not, in the absence of proof of special custom entitled to pre-empt land on the ground that the land is irrigated from the well, a pre-emptor cannot, where objection is taken, be allowed to take any more of the whole bargain than that portion over which he can show a superior right. Maulvi Ilahi Bakhsh v. Kaki and Mali (87 P. R. 1895) followed.

Held, further, following Bodi an Kalu v. Mussammat Mehtab Bibi and others (131 P. R. 1892), that where land has been divided as far as possible, the remaining joint portion is a mere appendage or adjunct which does not come under the description of joint immovable property within the meaning of section 12, Punjab Laws Act. SHAHU v. HAKU. 44 P R 1900

43. Pre-emption—Sale to a co-sharer in the khata—Suit by a yak-jaddi of the vendor—Superior right—Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 12, clause (c)—Riwaj-i-am.

In a suit for pre-emption of land on the grounds that the plantiff as one of the yakjaddis of the vendor had by custom a superior right to that possessed by the vendee who was merely by purchase a co-sharer in the khata and that inasmuch as the patti was sub-divided into tolas, and his own land and the land in dispute were situated in one tola known as Shahpurianwali, while defendants' land was in another tola known as Malakanwali he had a preferential right under clause (c) of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act

Held, that as the village was not one held on ancestral shares there was no a priori reason why preference should be given to relations and that the plaintiff had failed to prove that he had a preferential right on the ground of relationship, or that the village was divided into any tolas or sub-divisions.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

Held also, that an entry in a Riwaj-i-am is not satisfactory or even presumptive evidence if no instances in support of its correctness are given. ALLAH DITTA v. ALLAH BAKHSH. 89 P R 1900

44. Custom—Pre-emption— Presumption as to existence of custom of pre-emption—Rebuttal of—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 10.

Held, that to establish a custom opposed to that which must, under section 10 of the Punjab Laws Act, be presumed to exist it was not sufficient to prove that notwithstanding several sales of land in the village, no suit for pre-emption was ever filed or that the present Settlement record was silent on the subject.

Samand Khan v. Mahtaba (48 P. P. 1883) followed. MAHAMAD KHAN v. RAM DAS AND OTHERS. 16 P R 1901

45. Sale to a co-sharer—Pre-emption—Suit by another co-sharer who was also a collateral of the vendor—Superior right—Custom—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12, Riwaj-i-am.

Held, that in mauza Patni, tahsil Jampur, Dera Ghazi Khan District, a co-sharer of a vendor who, is also his relation has a superior right of pre-emption than other co-sharers who are not relations of the vendor. DIN MUHAMMAD v. KARIM BAKHSH AND ANOTHER. 73 P R 1901

46. Pre-emption—Sale of occupancy right to a tenant with rights of occupancy in the village—Suit for pre-emption by landlords of the holding who did not proceed under the provisions of section 53 of the Tenaucy Act, 1887—Superior right—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12.

An old tenant who had under the Wajib-ul-arz full power of alienation sold his occupancy holding to another tenant with rights of occupancy in the village, the landlords of the holding filed a suit for pre-emption. The vendees contended that they being the tenants with rights of occupancy in the village have under the last clause of section 12, priority over them, as the pre-emptors who were the landlords of the holding had not proceeded under section 53 of the Tenancy Act.

Held, that as the operation of section 53 of the Tenancy Act was excluded by section 111 the entry in the Wajib-ul-arz being tantamount to an agreement under section 112 the last clause of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act, could not apply, and the parties are relegated to their position under the first clause of that section by which the landlords have a superior right of pre-emption.

SUNDAR MAL AND OTHERS v. SAWAN SINGH AND OTHERS. 87 P R 1901

47. Pre-emption—Cause of action—Claim by a co-sharer—Partition of joint holding after sale but before suit, effect of—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12 (a).

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

The pre-emptive right of a co-sharer of land in joint holding does not subsist after partition at the application of the vendee.

Atma Ram v. Devi Dyal (49 P. R. 1901), Muhammad Ayub Khan v. Rure Khan (95 P. R. 1901), Janki Prashad v. Ishar Das (I. L. R. XXI All. 374), and Ram Gopal v. Piari Lal (I. L. R. XXI All. 441), Kahna v. Dewa Singh (62 P. R. 1879) Mandu Khan v. Sandhi (102 P. R. 1888), Dilsukh Ram v. Nathu Singh (98 P. R. 1894), Mustu v. Pohlo (152 P. R. 1896), and Bodi v. Mussammat Mahtab Bibi (131 P. R. 1892) referred to. KHAN v. MAHANDA AND OTHERS.

32 P R 1902

48. Pre-emption—Suit by the sister of the vendor—Shikmi sharikan and yak-jaddi—Arains of the Lahore District.

Held, that a married Arain woman who has merely received a portion of her father's land as a gift and not by succession cannot be held to have a preferential right of pre-emption over another Arain proprietor in the village, on the ground that she comes within the term yak-jaddi shikmi sharikan as regards her brother's property which that brother holds in right of succession. MUSAMMAT BEGAM v. QADIR BAKHSH AND OTHERS.

39 P R 1902

49. Custom—Pre-emption—Kasur, District Lahore—Village community—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 10, 12.

The land in respect of which pre-emption was claimed was situated in Kasur, District Lahore In the settlement of 1856 Government was recorded as the proprietor of the whole village, which was leased to certain persons for the term of the settlement. At that time there were about 280 occupancy tenants whose possession extended over a hundred years. In the settlement of 1874 plaintiff's father and others were declared by Government to be proprietors of the land in their possession. In the settlement of 1892 the number of khatas was increased from three in 1874 to seven, of which five belonged to the Pathans, one to the Government and one to the Khatris. The first Court found that these facts were sufficient to show that Kasur was a village community within the meaning of section 10 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872. The Divisional Judge disagreed with the finding of the first Court and dismissed the plaintiff's suit on the ground that the custom of pre-emption could not be presumed to exist.

Held, that the numerous occupancy tenants who had held land in Kasur for long periods and the descendants of the grantees of 1874 formed a village community within the meaning of section 10, clause (a) of the Punjab Laws Act, the village having passed as regards the portion not held in proprietary rights by Government from a zamindari to a complete bhaiachara tenure and that therefore the right of pre-emption must be presumed to exist in the village as regards the portion

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

not held in proprietary right by Government. GHULAM HUSSAIN KHAN AND OTHERS v. SHEIKH FAZAL DIN AND ANOTHER. 40 P R 1902

50. Pre-emption—Right of plaintiff who acquired property by pre-emption in the disputed khata subsequent to the sale.

Held, that as a pre-emptor acquires all the rights and obligations arising from the sale under which he has derived his title, he is entitled to pre-emption in respect of a subsequent sale although his pre-emptive decree was passed after the subsequent sale was effected.

Gobind Dyal v. Inayatullah (I. L. R. VII All. 770, F. B.) cited. Behari Ram v. Mussammat Shoobhudra (9 W. R. 455), Dwarka Parshad Sukal v. Ram Autar Sukal (7 N.-W. P. H. C. R. 281), and Muhammad Ayub Khan v. Pure Khan (95 P. R. 1901) distinguished. HAKAM SINGH v. INDAR.

46 P R 1902

51. Pre-emption—Village owned by a single proprietor—Sale of whole village to stranger—Suit by occupancy tenants in the village—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 10, 12—"Village community."

Held, that the expression "village communities" in section 10 of the Punjab Laws Act 1872, as amended by Act XII of 1878, is not used to denote a village community of the typical sort consisting of members of one family or one clan holding the village lands in common and dividing between them the agricultural land according to the custom of the village but is used in a popular sense to denote a body of persons bound together by the tie of residence in one and the same village, amenable to the village customs and subject to the administrative control of the village officers.

A "village community" is not confined to the landowners in the village. Occupancy tenants are therefore members of a village community within the meaning of the Punjab Laws Act, and so are all persons in an inferior position who belong to the village though they may be unconnected with the land and not entitled to any right of pre-emption under the Act. RAHIM-UD-DIN v. REWAL.

66 P R 1903 P C

52. Pre-emption—Sale by one taraddadkar of his rights to proprietor—Suit by other taraddadkar — Wajib-ul-arz — Custom— Mauza Hareli Diwan, Jhang District.

A person holding as taraddadkar certain land in the Jhang tahsil sold his rights to one of the proprietors in the joint holding. The plaintiff, a taraddadkar with the same rights as the vendor, sued the vendee for pre-emption on the ground that as taraddakar, he had a right to the pre-emption of the taraddadkari land preferential to that of the vendee.

Held, that as the tarraddadkari tenure in question conferred on the taraddadkar full proprietary right to half of the land with half share in the well jointly with the original proprietors, the plantiff's title was that of a co-sharer in joint holding with vendor and vendee, and that the burden of proving a special custom conferring on the plaintiff a superior right was on him.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES—contd.

Held, further that this burden had not been discharged.

Seth Lakhmi Chand v. Nawab Hafiz Abdulla Khan (72 P. R 1897), Ganga Ram v. Najib Khan (61 P. R. 1876), and Bolaki Shah v. Hafiz Esan and others (67 P. R. 1874), distinguished. GANGA RAM v. WARYAM.

40 P R 1904

53. Pre-emption—Sale of adna rights to adna proprietor—Suit by ala malik of the khata—Superior right—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12, clause (a).

In a suit for pre-emption of certain land situated in mauza Khatar, Peshawar District plaintiff claimed the right of pre-emption on the ground that he being an ala malik of the land sold was a co-sharer with the vendor and that therefore he had a preferential right under clause (a) of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act, as compared with that of the vendee. The vendor, vendee, and plaintiff being all adna maliks in the kandi where the land sold is situated.

Held, that the plaintiff as ala malik had no superior right of pre-emqtion in the property sold. He as ala malik was entitled only to a fixed percentage on the revenue and as such had no concern in the internal economy of the adna kandi, and was therefore not a co-sharer with the adna maliks within the meaning of Punjab Laws Act, section 12, clause (a), ABDUL RAB KHAN v. FAZAL MOHAMED. 64 P R 1904

54. Custom—Pre-emption—Sale of occupancy and mukarraridari rights to landlord—Suit by co-sharer in holding—Preferential right—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12.

A. sold his shares in joint holdings situate in the villages P. and D. to G., the recorded proprietor of the holding in village P. B. the brother and co-sharer of A. sued for pre-emption in respect of the said sale. It appeared that the status of A. and B. in the village D. and a part of the village P. was that of mukarridars, whereas in the other part of the village of P. it was that of a tenant with a right of occupancy only.

Held, that as regards the property in village P. the plaintiff had no locus standi. The sale having been made to the proprietors of the holding who have a statutory right of purchase under Chapter V of the Tenancy Act, could not in respect of the occupancy land be contested by plaintiff, a co-sharer in the tenancy, while in respect to the mukarridari portion the landlord had the first right of pre-emption under the terms of the Wajib-ul-arz, but as the vendee was not the proprietor of the mukarridari holding in the village D. that part of the claim was governed by section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act, and, the tenure being superior to that of occupancy right, the plaintiff as a co-sharer with the vendor had a preferential right under clause (a) of that section over the vendee.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES— contd.

Maya Das v. Malik Aulia Khan (10 P. R. 1896, Rev). referred to. GAUHRA v. HAR BHAG. 16 P R 1905

55. Custom—Pre-emption—Riwaj-i-am—Provision in Riwaj-i-am granting right of pre-emption to collaterals—Right of collaterals inter se—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12.

In a suit for pre-emption of certain land situated in mauza Tuman Khosa, tahsil Dera Ghazi Khan held, that under the terms of the Riwaj-i-am of the village the collaterals of a vendor have a preferential right of pre-emption, and that as between collaterals propinquity in relationshp is the test of preferential right.

Najaf Ali v. Kutbu (58 P. R. 1885), Narain Singh v. Hari Singh (28 P. R. 1899), Din Muhammad v. Karim Bakhsh (73 P. R. 1901), cited.

Suka v. Murad (16 P. R. 1881), referred to. KHOTA v. ALU. 17 P R 1905

56. Custom—Pre-emption—Sayads of mauza Bal Saydan, tahsil Fattehjang, Rawalpindi District—Priority—Relationship.

In a suit for pre-emption regarding agricultural land in the village of Bal Sayadan, tahsil Fattehjang, Rawalpindi District held, that by custom the plaintiffs, Sayads, being the first cousins of the vendor, had a right of pre-emption superior to that of a Khattar, who was only a proprietor in the village. KARAM SHAH v. TARA SHAH. 87 P R 1905

57. Pre-emption—Meaning of " village " in Punjab Laws Act—Presumption of existence of right of pre-emption in area not yet constituted a village

In a certain chak in the Chenab Colony, demarcated and numbered by Government, and partly allotted to grantees, lambardars had been appointed and a chaukidar entertained, and there was common responsibility for maintenance of water-courses; but the chak had not yet become an " estate " as defined in Land Revenue Act, section 3, clause (1), no record of rights having been prepared, no joint responsibility for revenue having been declared and the chak not having been assessed as an estate to land revenue.

Held, that the chak was not a " village " nor its inhabitants a " village community," and no presumption arose that the right of pre-emption ex'sted init.

Held, further, that the chak having been demarcated and cultivated for the first time ending three years before suit, no actual custom of pre-emption could possibly have grown up.

Ankar Lal v. Baij Nath (103 P. R. 1889), Karm Ilahi v. Bahna Mal (21 P. R. 1900), Kadir Bakhsh v. Ghulam (74 P. R. 1897), Umar Baksh v. Abdul Karim (70 P. R. 1898), Drig Bijai Singh v. The Deputy Commissioner of Gonda (I. L. R. XXIV All. 420), Mannu Lal v. Muhammad Ismail (I. L. R. XXVI All. 574), Hir aLal v. Khuda Bakhsh (27 P. R. 1897), and Rahim-ud-din v. Rewal (66 P. R. 1903), referred to. RAM NARAIN v. SEWAK RAM. 21 P R 1906

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES— contd.

58. Pre-emption—Sale of water-mill with occupancy rights in sites—Meaning of " land " in section 10, Punjab Laws Act—Fair market value.

Where a water-mill in a village was on a site belonging to a proprietor, but was held and owned by a person who was an occupancy tenant under section 8 of the Punjab Tenancy Act the Wajib-ul-arz also contining a provision in favour of the transferability of all water-mills in the village, held, that upon a sale of the said mill by its owner a right of pre-emption must be presumed to arise, because—

(a) the sale of the mill implies sale of the occupancy rights in the site;

(b) " lands " in section 10, Punjab Laws Act, means lands in the dictionary meaning and not lands in the meaning attached to the word in the Tenancy Acts, and so the sale is of a transferable right of occupancy; and

(c) the sale of the structure of the mill cannot be separated from the sale of the occupancy rights in the site.

Held, further, that where the market value of property sold is conspicuously below the price stated in a sale-deed, and a large part of the consideration consists of old debts due to the vendee, the arithmetical value of the old debts cannot be taken to be the real value of that part of the consideration, the real value being the value of the old debts as claims, not as cash.

Phuman Mal v. Keman (75 P. R. 1901), and Vir Bhan v. Mottu Shah (77 P. R. 1901), referred to. Nanak Chand v. Ram Chand (68 P. R. 1902), distinguished. HAIDER v. ISHWAR DAS 22 P R 1906

59. Custom—Pre-emption—Jagir villages of the Goler Jagir, Kangra District—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12.

In a suit for pre-emption of certain land in a jagir village of the Goler jagir in the Kangra District, it appeared that the plaintiff as a landowner in the village had by custom a superior right to that possessed by the vendee, but the latter contended that by the custom of the village as laid down in Punjab Government letter of 1862 such rights were restricted to shareholders descended from a common ancestor. This rule had not been embodied in any of the village administration papers of the Goler jagir.

Held, that the presumption in accordance with the rules laid down in section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act, being in the plaintiff's favour, it was for the defence to rebut the same and to establish the custom set up by him. The letter of 1862 has no effect at all in declaring the custom in these villages, where it has neither been accepted nor embodied in the administration papers. ET RAM v. BAHADUR. 37 P R 1906

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES— contd.

60. Pre-emption—Sale to a person who had accepted a gift of a share in shamilat—Suit by landowner in the village—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12—Landowner, meaning of—Gift without possession—Validity—Hindu Law.

In a suit for pre-emption it was contended that the vendee had become by virtue of a gift to him by a proprietor of that village of a share in the village common land a landowner within the meaning of section 12 of the Punjab Laws Act, and as such his rights were equal to those of the pre-emptor.

Held, that the above contention was correct and must prevail, as in order to avoid claim for pre-emption it is neither illegal nor fraudulent for a person who desires to acquire a footing in a village to accept a gift of land from one of its proprietors previous to his purchase.

Held also, that when a donor has taken all possible steps to complete a gift the non-delivery of actual possession is immaterial and the gift is not invalid merely because the donee was not put in actual possession.

Chaudhri Lila Kishen v. Chaudhri Hoa Ram (45 P. R. 1901), distinguished.

Ram Chand v. Devi Chand (21 P. R. 1901) Joitaram Ram Krishna v. Ram Krishna Nandlal (I. L. R. XXVII Bom. 31), and Kalidas Mullack v. Kanaya Lal Pundit (I. L. R. XI, Cal. 121 P. C.) followed. PARTAB SINGH v. FATTA. 45 P R 1906

61. Pre-emption—Sale of share of joint agricultural land to a co-sharer—Suit by another co-sharer of the khata—Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, section 14.

Held, that under the provisions of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, a co-sharer in joint undivided agricultural land has no right of pre-emption in respect to a sale of a share of such land made to any of the several co-sharers in the estate.

Section 14 deals with several pre-emptors claiming in respect of the same property but does not provide for the case of a pre-emptor claiming against a vendee who has equal rights with him. KHAN ZAMAN v. FATTEH SHER 83 P R 1907

62. Custom—Pre-emption—Sale of agricultural land to an agrriculturist—Suit by a member of the alienors' tribe—Superior right—Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, section 11.

Held, that by virtue of section 11 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, a member of the alienors' tribe has a preferential right of pre-emption in respect to a sale of agricultural land by a member of an agricultural tribe to that of a vendee who was an agriculturist within the meaning of section 2 of the Punjab Land Alienation Act, 1900. MAHMUD v. NUR AHMAD. 101 P R 1907

63. Pre-emption—Sale of a share of joint property to a stranger—Subsequent acquisi- tion of another sharer's interest by vendee—Suit by a third co-sharer with respect to first sale alone.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

6.—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES— contd.

Held, that a person who was at the date of sale a co-sharer in the land cannot claim pre-emption, in respect of a sale of that land as against the vendee who at the date of sale was not a co-sharer therein but became a co-sharer before the plaintiff instituted his suit for pre-emption. DAREHAN KHAN v. SOHAURA MAL. 124 P R 1907

64. Pre-emption—Right to sue on the strength of property, of which the pre-emptor is owner only during the life of a certain person—Pre-emptor suing for possession of the land as mortgagee—Waiver.

F. D. the vendor defendant and one S. his cousin had a joint holding, of which S. sold his half share to K. B. the plaintiff in 1894, and the remaining half share was sold by F. D. to K.A. and others, by a registered deed of sale in 1907, without mentioning any previous encumbrance on the property. On 24th January 1908 K. B. (plaintiff in this case) brought a suit for possession of the same land as a mortgagee under an alleged mortgage of 1887, on the ground that he had been wrongfully dispossessed by the defendant the vendee. This suit was dismissed on 14th August 1908. While this case was pending, on 28th April 1908, F. D. instituted a suit against S. and K. B. for a declaration, that the sale effected by S. in favour of K. B. in 1894 was not binding on him, as the sale was without necessity. The claim was decreed subject to a valid charge of Rs. 50 on the land. The present pre-emption suit was instituted by K. B. on 5th June 1908, while both the above suits were pending. The defence was that no right of pre-emption accrued to plaintiff, inasmuch as he was owner only till S.'s death of the property on the strength of which he claimed pre-emption and that plaintiff's suing for the land as mortgagee in the previous suit amounted to acquiescence and waiver and that section 43 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882, barred the suit. Both the Courts below decreed the claim. On revision the Chief Court—

Held, that plaintiff had a right of pre-emption on the strength of the property of which he was owner till the death of S., and that there was no waiver on his part and that section 43, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, had no bearing on the case—ROSHAN DIN v. KHUDA BAKHSH. 99 P R 1910

65. Pre-emption—Right to, of lineal descendant who is also a co-sharer—Pre-emptor and vendee having equal rights, share bargain—Punjab Pre-emption Act, II of 1905, sections 12 and 14.

Held, that the fact that a pre-emptor is both a lineal descendant and a co-sharer does not give him superior rights to another lineal descendant of equal degree who is not a co-sharer, vide section 12, Punjab Pre-emption Act.

Held also, that where the pre-emptor and the vendee have equal rights of pre-emption the pre-emptor is entitled to one-half of the property sold and the vendee to the other half, vide section 14 ibid. 87 P R 1911

7.—CONSTRUCTION OF WAJIB-UL-ARZ.

—Construction of Wajib-ul-arz—ek-jaddi—Family separated for long from its stock by conversion to Islam.

See under PRE-EMPTION—GENERAL, supra. 13 P R 1885

See PRE-EMPTION—5. RIGHT OF, ON MORTGAGES. 10 P R 1887

PRE-EMPTION—6. RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES. 30 P R 1887

PRE-EMPTION—14 LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT. 121 P R 1888
102 P R 1894

1. Custom—Wajib-ul-arz—" Karabatian Kareeb" meaning of.

In a suit for pre-emption, plaintiff based his claim on an entry in the Wajib-ul-urz, which was to the effect that the first offer to sell must be made by the vendor to his " Karabatian Kareeb. " Plaintiff was related to the vendor only in the 7th degree.

Held, that plaintiff was not a " Karabati Kareeb " within the meaning of the Wajib-ul-urz ; as the term only includes " near kinsmen, " within which a relative in the 7th degree cannot be said to come. SITA RAM v. GUJAR. 121 P R 1879

2. Right of a sharer in a bhayachara village as against a relation who is not a proprietor—Wajib-ul-arz and Riwaj-i-am—Meaning of terms " sharkayan " and " yak jadi."

Plaintiff, a sharer in the village of Shishmahal, Lahore District, sued to enforce a right of pre-emption with regard to a half share in a joint holding sold by one N. L. to his cousin, the defendant, who was not a proprietor in the village. Defendant pleaded relationship as a bar to the suit, but having failed to prove the existence of a special custom under which a right of pre-emption could be asserted on the ground of relationship alone, he relied on the entries of the terms "sharkayan" and "yak jadi" in the Wajib-ul-arz and Riwaj-i-am, respectively.

Hed, in the absence of proof of a special custom to the contrary, that the plaintiff, as a sharer in the village, had a right of pre-emption as against the defendant, a non-proprietor, and that the term " sharkayan " in the Wajib-ul-arz obviously referred to sharers in the sense of proprietors in the village, and not merely to relatives or sharers in a joint family, and the " yak jadi " of the Riwaj-i-am in all probability meant the same. Pirbhu v. Sawan (No. 40 P. R. 1883), referred to. DEVI DAS v. MOHKAM DIN. 69 P R 1885

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

7.—CONSTRUCTION OF WAJIB-UL-ARZ—contd.

3. Agreement regulating rights of pre-emption not authorised by Punjab Laws Act—Landowners in dheri or sub-division of patti.

An agreement recorded in the Wajab-ul-arz between the proprietors of a village as to the persons to whom the right of pre-emption would belong in future, cannot prevail against the provisions of section 12, Punjab Laws Act, 1872 (as amended), which give a detail of the persons to whom the right to pre-empt property in a village belongs, in the absence of a custom to the contrary. Such agreements are not saved by the section, and the law must therefore prevail against them.

Quære.—Whether the provisions of section 12, Punjab Laws Act, are applicable to a dheri or sub-division of a patti. JAFAR KHAN v. FAZAL MOHI-UD-DIN. 44 P R 1892

4. Punjab Laws Act, 1872—Pre-emption in village—Custom—Construction of administration paper to effect that no sale or mortgage had ever occurred.

The village administration paper framed at first settlement recorded that no sale or mortgage of land had ever occurred in the village, and then prescribed that any one wishing to sell or mortgage his land must make the first offer of it to the sharka shikmi wa yak jaddi.

Held, in claims for pre-emption relying on this entry, that neither the entry, nor the other evidence, established that a custom regulating pre-emptive rights existed in the village, and that the claim must be disposed of in accordance with the provisions of Act IV of 1872 (Punjab Laws Act). JIWA v. MUSSAMMAT BHARI. 92 P R 1892.

5. Punjab Laws Act, 1872—Pre-emption—Bhai nazdiki—Co-sharers in joint undivided immovable property.

Held, that the widow of a deceased collateral did not fall within the category of " bhai nazdiki," who under the terms of the Wajib-ul-arz, were entitled to pre-emption.—Cf. No. 196 P. R. 1889.

Held, also, that the land in suit was not joint undivided immovable property within the meaning of section 12 (a), Punjab Laws Act, 1872 : the land had been divided so far as it was possible to divide it.

That the property was a portion of what once formed a joint estate conferred no prior right of pre-emption. BODI AND KALU v. MUSSAMMAT MAHTAB BIBI. 131 P R 1892

6. Custom—Pre-emption in village—Mortgage by way of conditional sale—Entry

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

7.—CONSTRUCTION OF WAJIB-UL-ARZ—contd.

in Wajib-ul-arz, effect of contract—Evidence of custom.

Plaintiff, who was a co-sharer with defendant No. 2 in the village of Mughalpura, claimed a right of pre-emption of certain land arising out of a mortgage by conditional sale by defendant No. 2 in favour of defendant No. 1, and relied, in support of his claim, upon entries in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village made in 1842 and 1880. These entries were to the effect that there had been no mortgage or sale in the village up to 1842 and 1880, respectively, but that every co-sharer was thenceforward to be at liberty to mortgage or sell his share for necessity or to pay arrears of Government revenue, provided that he first offered the said share to certain specified persons. It was urged, on behalf of plaintiff, that these entries either (a) established a custom in his favour or (b) evidenced an agreement sufficient to support his claim.

Held, (i) by the Full Bench, that these entries were not agreements, and (ii) by the Divisional Bench, that they were sufficient evidence of the custom set up. DILSUKH RAM v. NATHU SINGH. 98 P R 1894 F. B.

7. Custom—Pre-emption—Priority—Sharkayan shikmi wa jaddi—Arains of mauza Bela Basti Ram, Lahore district—Bhayachara village—Wajib-ul-arz and Riwaj-i-am.

In a suit for pre-emption, the plaintiffs relied upon a provision in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village, giving the first right to sharkayan shik mi wa jaddi claiming to fall within the above description. The facts found were that the land in suit formed part of property which came to the defendant vendor by inheritance from an ancestor common to himself and the plaintiffs, who had inherited another portion of the same ancestral estate, but that the portions of the common estate which thus descended to the parties were at the time of the sale held jointly. The defendant-vendees were then landowners in the village, but collaterally related to the vendor.

Held, that in construing the provision in the Wajib-ul-arz, the words "shikmi wa jaddi" must be read conjunctively, and that plaintiffs must prove that they were shikmi shariks as well as jaddis of the vendor.

But held, further, that on the true construction of the Wajib-ul-arz, plaintiffs, collaterals of the vendor, descended from a common ancestor, the land being ancestral, had a right of pre-emption preferential to that of the vendees, who were landowners in the village, but not related to the vendor.

C. A. No. 350 of 1887 followed. MAULVI ILAHI BAKHSH v. KAKI. 87 P R 1895

8. Custom — Pre-emption — Entry in former Wajib-ul-arz not repeated in subsequent Wajib-ul-arz—Onus probandi—Right of pre-emption, nature of.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

7.—CONSTRUCTION OF WAJIB-UL-ARZ—contd.

The Wajab-ul-arz of 1864 of the village in which the land in dispute was situate, provided that a proprietor could make a gift of his tarka with the consent of the haq-daran shufa, but not otherwise, and that gifts made without such consent could be annulled at the instance of the person rightfully entitled to pre-emption on payment of the price of the gifted land to the donee. The same clause of that Wajib-ul-arz further classified in order the persons entitled to pre-emption. The Wajib-ul-arz of the present settlement contained no clause giving pre-emptors the right to acquire land transferred by gift on payment of the market value. Plaintiffs sued, relying on the entry in the Wajib-ul-arz of 1864, and their suit was decreed in the first Court, but dismissed by the Divisional Judge on appeal and after a remand for further inquiry, on the ground that the said entry did not embody an actual custom in force.

Held, that the entry in the Wajib-ul-arz of 1864, being one relating to custom, was not to be understood as one in force for a limited period only, and that such entry must be deemed sufficient proof of the custom stated therein in the absence of evidence to the contrary, and threw on the defendants the onus of proving that it was wrong.

Held, further, that the fact that the provisions of the former Wajib-ul-arz regarding pre-emption of gifts were not repeated in the present Wajib-ul-arz was not sufficient to rebut the presumption in favour of the correctness of the previous entry as a record of custom.

Held, on the evidence, that defendants had failed to rebut the entry in question, or to prove that the custom was different as regards pre-emption of gifts. MASTA v. POHLO. 52 P R 1896

9. Custom—Pre-emption—Provision in Wajib-ul-arz granting right of pre-emption to collaterals—Right of collaterals inter se.

Held, that where a Wajib-ul-arz gives a right of pre-emption to collaterals, it follows, either as a necessary inference from such provision or on general grounds, that those who are more nearly related would, as in cases of succession, exclude the more remote. NARAIN SINGH v. HARI SINGH.

28 P R 1899

10. Pre-emption—Village divided into panas and thullas—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12 (c)—Construction of Wajib-ul-arz.

In the village of Kharkhoda, in the Sampla tahsil of the Rohtak district, which was divided into two panas and each pana into two thullas, the plaintiffs claimed pre-emption on the ground that their land and the land in dispute although in different thullas was in the same pana, whereas the vendees owned land in the other pana only. The vendees resisted the claim on the ground of a special custom contained in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village made in 1858 which was to the effect "that the alienor will alienate first "to his brothers and near relations, and in "case of their declining to the proprietors of "the same thulla and in case the aforesaid "persons decline the alienor is at liberty to "alienate to any one he pleases."

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

7.—CONSTRUCTION OF WAJIB-UL-ARZ—contd.

Held, that the provisions of section 12 (c) of the Punjab Laws Act applied, that the panas were sub-divisions within the meaning of that section and that the pre-emptive right of the plaintiffs were superior to that of the vendees.

Muhammad Bakhsh v. Sardar Rajindar Singh (121 P. R. 1888), Goomanee v. Raheem-ud-din (35 P. R. 1870), and Uttam v. Buta (69 P. R. 1893), cited. HARNAM v. MUHAMMAD AMAN ALI.

3 P R 1903

11. Custom—Pre-emption—Provision in Wajib-ul-arz granting right of pre-emption to sharkayan shikmi wa ekjaddi—Mauza Mangarh, District Hoshiarpur.

In a suit for pre-emption the plaintiff relied upon a provision of the first Wajib-ul-arz of the village which provided that those first entitled to exercise the right of pre-emption are the sharkayan shikmi wa ekjaddi. The Wajib-ul-arz of the subsequent settlement recorded that the parties are governed by the law as laid down in Act IV of 1872. It was urged on behalf of the defence that the provision of the later Wajib-ul-arz being opposed to those of the former the plaintiff could not maintain his suit.

Held, that the entry in the later Wajib-ul-arz cannot be taken to deny the custom alleged in the former Wajib-ul-arz, which is primâ facie proof of the custom therein stated, and that the defendant had failed to rebut the presumption in favour of the correctness of the previous entry as a record of custom.

Dilsukh Ram v. Nathu Singh (98 P. R. 1894, F. B.), Masta v. Pohlo (52 P. R. 1896), Ram Saran Dos v. Mula Singh (64 P. R. 1903), Umra v. Hara (46 P. R. 1903), Muhammad Umar v. Kirpal Singh (78 P. R. 1904), and Narain Singh v. Hari Singh (28 P. R. 1899), referred to. JOWAHIR v. RADHA.

35 P R 1905

12. Pre-emption—Bhai nazdiki and co-sharer in joint-holding—Preferential right—Wajib-ul-arz—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 12.

Held, that the collateral of a vendor related to him in the ninth degree does not come within the category bhai nazdiki who under the terms of the Wajib-ul-arz of the village had a superior right to that possessed by the co-sharers in the undivided holding. SHEOJI SINGH v. SHEOJI SINGH. 129 P R 1906

13. The Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, is a retrospective enactment, and as such affects causes of action which accrued or were acquired before it came into operation. BAHADUR v. ALIA. 30 P R 1907

7.—CONSTRUCTION OF WAJIB-UL-ARZ—concld.

14. Custom—Pre-emption—Value of Wajib-ul-arz chakwar—Conflict between earlier and later Wajib-ul-arz.

Held, that the Wajib-ul-arz chakwar of Pindi Gheb tahsil, District Rawalpindi, is not a part of the record-of-rights and so has attaching to it no presumption of correctness, under section 44, Punjab Land Revenue Act, and that its evidential value is small, inasmuch as it states the custom of pre-emption which is always a local custom, by tribes

Held, also, that the value even of a genuine Wajib-ul-arz favouring relatives in the matter of pre-emption and standing unsupported by actual proof of custom, followed by a later Wajib-ul-arz in which the "law" or Act IV of 1872 is stated to contain the rule of pre-emption, is so small that even negative indications the other way are sufficient to reduce its value to nothing. GULDAD KHAN v. GUL KHAN. 44 P R 1907

15. Custom—Pre-emption—Provision in Wajib-ul-arz granting rights of pre-emption to sharkayan shikmi—Mauza Harpal, tahsil Zaffarwal, Sialkot district.

In a suit of pre-emption of certain land situate in mauza Harpal, tahsil Zaffarwal of the Sialkot district, held that under the terms of the Wajib-ul-arz of the village the plaintiff as a collateral of the vendor had a preferential right on the ground of relationship.

Jointness of holding is not essential to status of sharik-i-shikmi, the term being applicable where the family bond of union still exists. ALLAH DITTA v. SHAHNA. 12 P R 1903

8.—LIMITATION.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1859, SECTION 1, CLAUSE 1.
LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 10.
LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 18 AND SCHEDULE II, ARTICLES 10 AND 120, 179.

(a) Fraud—Omission to give notice of sale—Concealment of sale.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SECTION 19. 46 P R 1879

(b) Application of section 7 of the Limitation Act to order fixing time for payments of pre-emption money.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 7. 31 P R 1884

(c) Effect of fraudulent concealment of sale by purchaser.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 18.
32 P R 1881
3 P R 1882
120 P R 1883
73 P R 1885

8.—LIMITATION—contd.

(d) Suit for, barred as against one of the defendant-purchasers Dismissal of suit.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 22. 104 P R 1882

(e) Mortgage by conditional sale—Foreclosure—Suit for pre-emption—Limitation—Time from which period begins to run.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II ARTICLE 10. 103 P R 1901

(f) Sale of shop property in possession of tenant—Suit for pre-emption—Starting point of limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 10. 88 P R 1905

(g) Limitation applicable to a suit for pre-emption where property sold is at the time of sale in the possession of a tenant.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 10. 49 P R 1903 F. B.

(h) Sale of immoveable property in execution of decree—Registration of sale certificate under section 89 of the Registration Act—Suit for pre-emption—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, ARTICLE 10. 142 P R 1903

(i) Pre-emption—Oral sale of joint share in an undivided holding—Physical possession—Limitation
See LIMITATION ACT, ARTICLE 120. 14 P R 1904

(j) In respect of benami sale, suit against actual vendee whose name had been fraudulently concealed—Limitation.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1903, SECTION 18. 89 P R 1911

(k) Suit barred against one defendant—Dismissal as regards all.
See PRE-EMPTION—14. LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT. 141 P R 1889

(l) Adding new defendant to suit after period of limitation expired.
See PRE-EMPTION—14. LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT. 25 P R 1903

(m) imitation as regards rights already accrued.
See PRE-EMPTION, UNDER PRE-EMPTION ACT, 1905, SECTIONS 18, 29. 131 P R 1907

—Suit to enforce right of pre-emption—Date of registration of instrument of sale, meaning of—Time from which period begins to run—Registration Act, 1877, sections 52, 58, 59, 60.

Held, that the limitation provided for a suit to enforce a right of pre-emption depending on registration under article 10 of the Limitation Act, 1877, begins to run from the date when the instrument of sale is registered within the meaning of section

8.—LIMITATION—concld.

60 of the Registration Act and not from the date of the presentation for registration.

Karm v. Fazl (10 R. R. 1881), followed. BHANJAN RAM v. GOPALA. 92 P R 1908

9.—NOTICE.

1. Notice to pre-emptor.

Held, that a mere notification in general terms, by a proprietor of land, of his intention to sell, was not sufficient notice to the pre-emptor. HUSSAN v. KHAN SULTAN KHAN. 60 P R 1867

2. Held, that notice under section 13, Act IV of 1872, must be given by the vendor; it is not enough that the pre emptor has notice from the vendee. MUHAMMAD MOKEEM v. MUHAMMAD YASSEEN. 55 P R 1873

3. Act IV of 1872, sections 13, 14—Mortgagee "proposing to foreclose" mortgage—Notice—Omission to redeem by party receiving notice—Estoppel.

Held, in a suit for pre-emption to which Act IV of 1872 applied, that if a mortgagee was taking measures under Regulation XVII of 1806 towards foreclosure of a mortgage he was "proposing to foreclose" a mortgage within the meaning of section 13 of that Act, and he was bound to give notice of the amount due in respect of such mortgage to the person having the "right to redeem" under section 14.

Held further, that it was not necessary, under the same Act, that notice of the foreclosure proceedings should be served upon the person having the right of pre-emption; but that if such person, being aware of the fact that the mortgagee was engaged in foreclosure proceedings, and having received notice from the mortgagee of the amount due on the mortgage, refused to avail himself of the implied offer of redemption, he could not afterwards maintain a suit against the mortgagee to enforce his right of pre-emption. HANSRAJ v. SAIDA. 35 P R 1881

4. Foreclosure of mortgage—Offer and refusal—Sufficiency of notice under section 13, Act IV of 1872.

In a suit for pre-emption arising out of the foreclosure of a mortgage by way of conditional sale, it was urged among other pleas by the mortgagee (defendant) that the plaintiff's suit was not maintainable, as he had refused an offer to take over the said mortgage by conditional sale. It appeared from the evidence that at the time of the foreclosure proceedings the plaintiff was asked by the defendant mortgagee if he was inclined to redeem the mortgage, and that the plaintiff declined urging his own indebtedness.

Held, that such notice did not fulfill the conditions of section 13 of Act IV of 1872, the law in force at the time the offer was made, as under that section the mortgagee was bound to give notice to the persons entitled to pre-emption of the amount due in respect of the mortgage; that the notice was not therefore a legal notice, the mere refusal of which apart from any other positive act of waiver by the pre-emptor (nothing of which kind was alleged) would debar the plaintiff from re-asserting his right of pre-emption within the prescribed period of limitation. Hansraj v. Saida (No. 35 P. R. 1881), cited. JOWAHIR MAL v. KALANDAR KHAN. 155 P R 1882

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

9.—NOTICE—contd.

5. Act IV of 1872, sections 13, 14—Notice—Payment or tender—Mere expression of willingness to pay not equivalent to tender.

Where within three months from the date of receiving the notice required to be given by section 13 of Act IV of 1872, the plaintiffs claiming pre-emption expressed in their written plaint their willingness and readiness to pay whatever the Court might fix as a fair price, held, that the said plaintiffs had not complied with the requirements of section 14 of Act IV of 1872, as amended by Act XII of 1878, it being impossible to hold that a mere expression of willingness to pay as above was equivalent either to a payment or a tender; for to constitute the latter there must be an actual production of the money, unless the production is dispensed with by an express declaration or equivalent act of the creditor. ALLAH BAKSH v. RAHIM BAKSH. 46 P R 1883

6. Foreclosure of mortgage—Notice to pre-emptors—Person "proposing to foreclose"—Act IV of 1872, sections 13, 15, 16.

Held, that the mortgage is the person who "proposes to foreclose" within the meaning of section 13 of the Punjab Laws Act, and the persons concerned to whom notice is to be given under the same section are the persons entitled to redeem (see section 15), and such notice must be given at some time previous to the mortgage being foreclosed.

Held further, that a person "proposes to forcelose" within the meaning of section 13 when he institutes proceedings under Regulation XVII of 1806, and sections 15 and 16 show that the payment or tender within 3 months of the notice is a condition precedent to enforcing the right by suit.

Semble, that the 2nd clause of section 13 means that notice to be valid must be given through a Court, so as to avoid all disputes as to notice being given or not; and the latter part of the clause is subordinate to the former, and relates only to service by the instrumentality of the Court. UDE RAM v. BADHUR MAL. 90 P R 1887

7. Punjab Laws Act, 1872—Pre-emption—Payment—Exclusion of day on which notice is given.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

9.—NOTICE—concld.

In reckoning the three months within which, in pre-emption cases, a person having a right of pre-emption may pay or tender the price to the vendor, or in the case of a mortgage, the amount due to the mortgagee, the day on which the notice is given is to be excluded. JOTI PERSHAD v. GAJJU. 114 P R 1891

8. Pre-emption—Mortgage by conditional sale—Failure by pre-emptors to tender amount due on mortgage after notice, effect of.

Held, that in the case of a foreclosure of mortgage by conditional sale, the failure on the part of the pre-emptor to tender the amount due on the mortgage after notice duly served upon him, does not involve forfeiture of his right of pre-emption, the provision as to forfeiture contained in section 14 of the Punjab Laws Act which deals with sales, having been intentionally omitted in section 15 of the Act which deals with foreclosures. RAM SUKH DAS v. FAZAL-UD-DIN. 19 P R 1898

9. Pre-emption—Notice to pre-emptors under section 53 of the Tenancy Act, 1887—Waiver of right—Suit by pre-emptor as an occupancy tenant—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 13.

Held, in a suit for pre-emption of an occupancy holding that a landlord who was also an occupancy tenant in the same village served with a notice under section 53 of the Tenancy Act was at liberty to elect to claim pre-emption under either of his qualifications, and that his failure to proceed under the Tenancy Act did not bar him from resorting to the Civil Court, or constitute acquiescence or a waiver of his right.

Held, also, that the absence of specification of price demanded in a notice under section 53 prevents it being effectual under section 13 of the Punjab Laws Act. SARDAR ALI SHAH AND OTHERS v. JIWAN SINGH. 22 P R 1901

10.—PURCHASE MONEY.

—Pre-emption—Mortgage by way of conditional sale—Completion of purchase—Amount claimable by vendee from pre-emptor—Principal and interest.

See INTEREST. 121 P R 1894

1. Price.

Held, formerly, that either the vendor or vendee could insist on the Court fixing the proper value on the property, and if the pre-emptor were unwilling or unable to pay the price so fixed, his claim lapsed. LEKH RAJ v. DAVEE CHAND. 35 P R 1868

2. Held, that the Court itself could not fix the price; if it were not agreed upon amongst the parties, it should be referred to a valuation committee. Goomanee v. Ruheemooddeen (No. 35 P. R. 1870); and so ruled in

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

10.—PURCHASE MONEY—contd.

MUSSAMMAT HUMEEDOOLNISSA v. MUHAMMAD AKBAR. 83 P R 1868

3. Valuation—Shamilat.

In a suit for pre-emption, the Court in decreeing for plaintiff, should consider the value of the land sold and the value of the rights and interests in the common (shamilat) land which the purchaser, as owner of the land, acquires. DARBARA SINGH v. UTTAM SINGH. 12 P R 1873

4. Market value.

In the absence of proof of a different market value, the Court may treat the sum paid by the vendee as evidence of the fair market value for the time when the sale took place. BHUP SINGH v. KHARAK SINGH. 29 P R 1875

5. Offer made in "good faith."

If a person wishing to pre-empt, refuses to buy at a price named, he does so at his own risk; and in suing for pre-emption, he must show that the offer was not made in good faith—i. e. either that the land was offered to him at one price, and sold at another and a lower price, or that the land, though sold at the same price asked from him, was sold at a fictitious price, not representing the true value of the land. SHAMBU MAL v. JAMNA DAS. 38 P R 1875

6. The market value is the value of the property at the time of action brought. SUNDAR DAS v. SHAM SINGH. 74 P R 1875

7. Custom—Wajib-ul-arz—Provision for offer of sale at a price to be fixed by punchayat—Omission to make such offer—Bonâ fides.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that a clause in the Administration paper of the village provided that before sale by a co-sharer the land must be offered to the other co-sharers, and should not be alienated by him unless the said co-sharers refused to take the land for the price fixed by a punchayat of zemindars of neighbouring villages.

Held, that the custom evidenced by the above clause did not give the pre-emptor an absolute right to an offer of purchase at such price as a punchayat might determine, nor as a matter of law could it be held that an offer made to the pre-emptor by the vendor at the price at which he was willing to sell, and for which he actually did sell, was not an offer made in good faith, merely because it was not accompanied by an offer to submit the price to be determined by arbitration or because there was a refusal so to submit it, though this was a circumstance to be considered in determining the question whether the offer was made in good faith. JALAL-UD-DIN KHAN v. SANDEH KHAN. 49 P R 1881

8. Plaintiff alleging and defendants denying that the price mentioned in the deed was not fixed in good faith—Duty of Court to frame issue on question of boná fides—Market value.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

10.—PURCHASE MONEY—contd.

In a suit for pre-emption in which the plaintiff alleged that the sale had been made without notice and that the value of the property sold was less than that mentioned in the deed, and the defendants pleaded private notice, and that the sum named in the deed had been actually paid, the Court framed two issues, (1) whether the private notice was a good plea, and (2) what was the fair market value of the land in question.

Held, that the Court ought to have framed as a second issue "whether the price named in the deed was or was not fixed in good faith," and that it was only in the event of a finding in the negative on this issue that it would be necessary to determine the issue fixed as to the market value of the property, although the market value would be important evidence upon the question whether the price stated in the deed was a price fixed in good faith.

A price higher than the market value is not necessarily a price fixed in bad faith, as the difference may be satisfactorily explained. NANDA v. CHANDA SINGH. 69 P R 1882

Cited with approval in IMAM-UD-DIN v. NUR KHAN. 10 P R 1884

9. Plaintiff claiming pre-emption at a price which afterwards appears to be less than the sum actually paid—First Court granting decree conditional on payment of the full sale-money—Reversal of such decree by Appellate Court on ground that plaintiff's suit was not maintainable as he expressed no willingness to purchase at whatever sum might be fixed by the Court—Validity of first Court's decree—Unwise exercise of discretion by Appellate Court.

Plaintiff sued for pre-emption of a house which purported to have been sold for Rs. 900, but the outside market value of which plaintiff alleged was not more than Rs. 400, and he accordingly asked for a decree for pre-emption at the market value. The first Court gave the plaintiff a decree conditional on payment of Rs. 700, which it considered to be the sum that the purchaser had actually paid for the property, and the plaintiff duly paid up this sum within the time prescribed by the decree. On appeal the lower Appellate Court dismissed plaintiff's suit in toto, on the ground that as plaintiff had claimed in his plaint to purchase the house for Rs. 400, without expressing his willingness to pay any higher sum that might be fixed by the Court as the market value, he was not entitled to maintain his suit, when it was ascertained that the price boná fide paid was more than the sum mentioned in the plaint.

Held, that the lower Appellate Court was not justified in dismissing plaintiff's suit on the grounds above stated; that there is nothing in the Punjab Laws Act which precluded the Court from giving the plaintiff a conditional decree for pre-emption upon payment of the actual price of the property in dispute: that in a suit for pre-emption principles of equity require that a Court should endeavour to put an end to useless litigation by determining once for all the condition under which the plaintiff is entitled to exercise the right, instead of leaving the parties to fight the whole matter out again in a fresh suit, simply because it turns out at the close of the investigation that the value of the property exceeded the sum mentioned in the plaint, and because the plaintiff did not add to his prayer a willingness to abide by any valuation which the Court might adopt: and that considering the stage to which the litigation had reached, and the fact that the plaintiff had shown his willingness to preserve his right of pre-emption by paying up the amount fixed by the first Court within the period stated in the decree, although he still contended that the amount so fixed was excessive, the lower Appellate Court did not exercise a wise or reasonable discretion in reversing the decree and in dismissing the suit on the grounds already stated. PRITAM DAS v. HIRA NAND. 178 P R 1882

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

10.—PURCHASE MONEY—contd.

10. Act IV of 1872, section 16—Price to be paid where the price entered in the deed has not been fixed in good faith—Market value—Price actually paid.

Held, that where in a suit for pre-emption the price entered in the deed, or otherwise alleged by the parties, has been found not to have been fixed in good faith, the price at which the plaintiff can claim pre-emption is under section 16 of Act IV of 1872, the fair market value only, and not the price actually paid; and although the price actually paid is always an important fact to be duly considered in forming an estimate of the market value, it must be considered in connection with other facts. MEHTAB KHAN v. MUSTAFA BEG. 101 P R 1887

11. Custom—Mohalla Marochian, Mooltan city—Auction purchaser reselling at enhanced price to second purchaser—Price to be paid by pre-emptor—Right to follow property into hands of second purchaser.

The custom of pre-emption found to prevail in mohalla Marochian in the city of Mooltan.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the house in question was sold in execution of a decree, and purchased at the auction by one B. for Rs. 625. Plaintiff sued for and obtained a decree releasing her husband's half of the house, and before the period within which she could claim pre-emption of the other half had expired, B. sold the said half to the present defendant for (as he alleged) Rs. 500.

Held, that plaintiff was entitled to pre-emption on payment of half of the amount paid by the auction-purchaser, viz., Rs. 312-8-0, as defendant must be taken to have bought the property subject to the right of plaintiff to claim pre-emption at the price obtained at the first sale, and plaintiff was not bound to pay defendant any sum which he might have paid his vendor in excess of that which the latter paid for the property.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

10.—PURCHASE MONEY—contd.

Mussammat Shakro v. Molar Mal (No. 63 P. R. 1879), cited and followed. PANJU RAM v. MUSSAMMAT NIKI BAI. 165 P R 1883

12. *Plaintiff alleging and defendant denying that the price stated in the deed was not fixed in good faith—Proper procedure—*Onus probandi—Market value.

Held, that in pre-emption cases where the plaintiff alleges and the defendant denies that the price stated in the deed was not fixed in good faith, the vendee should be called upon to prove, as strictly as possible that the price entered in the deed of sale was actually paid, the onus of proving that it was not fixed in good faith lies on the pre-emptor. If the price actually paid is less, it follows that the price stated in the deed was not fixed in good faith. The price actually paid is in general the best evidence of market value at the time of sale. GULAB AND OTHERS v. RAM SINGH. 102 P R 1890

13. Decree for pre-emption—Payment of purchase money in foreign circle notes—Punjab Laws Act, section 17 and Civil Procedure Code, section 214.

A successful plaintiff in a pre-emption suit paid part of the purchase money in foregin circle currency notes. The Court in the first instance accepted the notes in payment without any objection, and afterwards allowed the plaintiff two more days to supply currency notes of the Lahore Circle, or other legal tender, which order was complied with.

Held, that the order of the lower Court was correct. Currency notes are money in the ordinary acceptation of the term, although they may be notes of a different circle from that in which they are tendered. The words "purchase money" are not defined, and there is nothing either in section 17, Punjab Laws Act, or in section 214, Civil Procedure Code, 1882, to put a restricted or technical meaning upon them. No. 70 P. R. 1890 distinguished.

Held, also that an appeal lay from the order in question under section 214 (c), Civil Procedure Code, the order relating to the execution of the decree. IFTIKHAR ALI v. SAHIB RAM. 67 P R 1892

14. Price to be paid by pre-emptors on foreclosure of mortgage—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 13, 14, 15.

Held, that the pre-emptors entitled to take the property on foreclosure on payment, not of what was due on the mortgage, but of the market value only.

The mere fact that a pre-emptor in his eagerness to get the land and to outbid others, had professed himself ready to pay a sum considerably more than the market value, held, not to amount to an estoppel, it being established that such statement did not lead defendant to confess judgment or to do any other act which he would not have done had the statement not been made. RAM SUKH DAS v. FAZAL-UD-DIN. 19 P R 1893

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

10.—PURCHASE MONEY—contd.

15. Pre-emption, suit for—Sale by vendee after institution of suit, to rival pre-emptor—Frandulent transaction—" Superior diligence"—Lis pendens.

On the 3rd May 1894 one M. sold certain premises in Delhi to defendant No. 2 for a sum of Rs. 6,000, and on the 1st December 1894, the latter sold the same premises to defendant No. 3 for Rs. 7,000. Plaintiff thereupon instituted a suit for pre-emption, and immediately after the institution of the suit defendant No. 3 sold the premises for Rs 12,000 to defendant No. 4, who, within a fortnight, sold them to defendant No. 5 at the same figure. It was found by the Chief Court on appeal (a) that defendant No. 5 had rights of pre-emption in respect of the premises, but that plaintiff's pre-emptive rights were not inferior; (b) that the sales by defendants Nos. 3 and 4 were colourable transactions intended to defeat plaintiff's claim; and (c) that defendant No. 5, though a pre-emptor, had not acted bona fide, and had joined in an intrigue for fictitiously raising the price against plaintiff and adding to the difficulties of the latter in the matter of proving his claim. On these findings it was Held, that issues not having been fixed in plaintiff's suit the doctrine of lis pendens was not strictly applicable.

But, held, (without questioning the right of defendant No. 3 to transfer the property, if he thought fit to do so, before a decree for pre-emption had been passed against him), that as the price of the sales by defendants Nos. 3 and 4 had been fixed in bad faith, plaintiff, a bona fide pre-emptor with rights of pre-emption not inferior to those of defendant No. 5, had taken such action as showed superior diligence on his part, and was therefore entitled to a decree for pre-emption on payment of the amount fixed by the lower Court. RAM CHAND v. ABDUL HAK. 32 P R 1899

16. Pre-emption — Purchase money — " Good faith "—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 16, clauses (c) and (d).

The law of pre-emption, though it does operate to keep down the price of property to some extent by hampering transfers, is not intended to have that effect; it merely aims at protecting the prior rights of purhase of certain persons on specific grounds, and as it stands cannot be interpreted to deprive the owner of the right to make the most he can of his property, and there is nothing improper to demand or to pay a price much above the market value. Therefore in a case for pre-emption where the price entered in the deed of sale though considerably above the market value was not shown to be fictitious and where there was no proof nor indication that any portion of it was refunded or otherwise appropriated, held, that the price was fixed in good faith. PHUMMAN MAL v KEMAN. 75 P R 1901

17. Pre-emption—Purchase of property in payment of previous debts—Market value—Good faith.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

10.—PURCHASE MONEY—contd.

In a case for pre-emption where the transfer was in satisfaction of old debts if the market value of the property does not appear to differ very materially from the amount of the debts due from the vendor, and the price actually paid is the cancellation of all the liabilities mentioned in the deed, the price so paid may be held to have been fixed in good faith; but where the disparity between the market value of the property and the sum in satisfaction of which is has been accepted is very great and the debtor is clearly insolvent and the property in question taken in satisfaction was practically the debtor's only asset, the market value of the property is the proper test of the value of the consideration paid and not the nomial amount of the debts due. VIR BHAN v. MATTU SHAH. 77 P R 1901

18. Pre-emption — Purchase money — " Good faith"—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 16 (c).

The law of pre-emption does not allow a pre-emptor to take objection to a price actually and genuinely paid on the ground that it is a fancy price, the market value being no test of what should be paid by a pre-emptor until the price mentioned in the deed is shown to have been fixed not in good faith; therefore, in a case for pre-emption, though there was admitted enmity of a bitter type between the pre-emptors and vendees, and the latter paid what was undoubtedly a fancy price with the knowledge that these tactics would annoy and defeat the pre-emptors, held, that the price was not fixed in bad faith.

Phuman Mal v. Keman (75 P. R. 1901) and Imam-ud-din v. Nur Khan (10 P. R. 1884) cited. NANAK CHAND AND OTHERS v. RAM CHAND AND OTHERS. 68 P R 1902

19. Pre-emption—Purchase-money - Good faith—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 16 (c).

Held, that the fact that the consideration for a transfer of property which is subject to right of pre-emption consisted of old debts made up largely of interest is not in itself a sufficient reason for finding that the consideration entered in the deed of sale was not fixed in good faith.

In such a case, where the vendor owns other property and is not insolvent, and there has evidently been a conscious adjustment of value and not merely a wiping out of debt regardless of amount in exchange for the land, there is no natural presumption that the price was fixed in bad faith.

Phumman Mal v. Kama (75 P. R. 1901) and Nanak Chand v. Ram Chand (68 P. R. 1901), followed. AJUDHIA PERSHAD v. AHSAN-ULLAH. 56 P R 1907

20. Pre-emption—Consideration for sale made up of previous debts—Option under proviso to section 22, Punjab Pre-emption Act, II of 1905 when to be granted.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

10.—PURCHASE MONEY—concld.

Where the consideration money for a sale (Rs. 1,200) was made up of previous debts and the market value of the property sold was found to be Rs. 780.

Held, that the proviso to section 22 of the Punjab Pre-emption Act was applicable and the amount payable by the pre-emptor must be the market value or the vendees may, at the discretion of the Court, be put to their option of either accepting such value or having the sale cancelled.

Held also, that as the vendees, appellants in this case, had not been able to show any equity in their favour, it was unnecessary for the Chief Court to allow the vendees any option in the matter and therefore the decree of the lower Appellate Court decreeing the claim on payment of the market value, was confirmed. 54 P R 1911

21. Pre-emption—Fraudulent over-statement of sale price—How far binding on successful pre-emptor in suit by heirs of vendor to have sale set aside for want of consideration and necessity—When actual price paid nearly approximates market value of property sold, Courts decline to change sale into mortgage.

A sold certain land for Rs. 4,000, B sued for pre-emption alleging that the real price paid was Rs. 3,000. The Court found that this was so and decreed the claim on payment of Rs, 3,240 the ascertained market value. The sons of A. then sued for recovery of the land on the ground that the sale by their father was neither for consideration nor for necessity. The Lower Appellate Court held that B, the pre-emptor, stood in the shoes of the original vendee and must accept the fact that the sale was put down for a consideration of Rs. 4,000 and finding that only Rs. 3,000 was actually paid and for necessity decreed the claim on payment of that amount.

Held, that though a pre-emptor who obtains a decree becomes in many respects identified in interest with the original vendee he cannot be held a particeps criminis in a fraud perpetrated by the vendee, which he himself brought to light and succeeded in frustrating, and that B was not therefore debarred from urging in the present case that the sale though ostensibly for Rs. 4,000, was in fact merely for Rs. 3,000.

Held also, that as the sale was for Rs. 3,000 and that amount was for necessity and fairly represented the market value, there was no reason for converting the sale into a mere mortgage and that the suit must consequently be dismissed.

8 P. R. 1908 and 27 P. R. 1909, referred to. 83 P R 1911

11.—PAYMENT INTO COURT.

(a) Decree for pre-emption—Question whether decree-holder has paid money into Court within time.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, SECTION 47. 38 P R 1898

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

11.—PAYMENT INTO COURT—contd.

(b) Price fixed by first Court—Decretal amount paid in after deducting costs—Price raised by Appellate Court.—Payment of difference without costs previously recovered—Sufficient compliance.

See CIVIL PROCEDURE CODE, 1908, ORDER XX, RULE 14. 56 P R 1910

(c) Pre-emption—Money paid into Court by successful pre-emptor and withdrawn by original purchaser—Reduction of price by Appellate Court—Interest on excess in hands of original purchaser.

See INTEREST 111 P R 1892

(d) See LIMITATION ACT, 1871, SECTION 5. 31 P R 1877

(e) Application of section 7 of Limitation Act, to order fixing time for payment.

See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 7. 31 P R 1884

(f) Court's power to extend period fixed under section 19, Punjab Pre-emption Act.

See. PRE-EMPTION UNDER PRE-EMPTION ACT, SECTION 19. 78 P R 1909

1. Strict enforcement of the law—Act IV of 1872, section 18.

The pre-emption law must be construed strictly; and, therefore, where a decree, dated 11th July, directed the purchase money to be paid within three months, held, that the money not having been paid by the 10th October, the plaintiff had lost his right of pre-emption. RUMMUN LALL v. MUTSADDEE. 37 P R 1874

2. Act IV of 1872, section 18—Purchase money, Power of Court to receive, after date specified in decree.

Where the purchase money is not paid before sunset of the day specified in a decree for pre-emption, the decree becomes void, and there is no power in the Court to receive the money after the specified date, even upon good cause being shown for default in punctual payment. FAZLA v. FAZAL DAD. 1 P R 1879

3. Sale of land subject to pre-emption—Decree for pre-emption against purchaser—Right of purchaser to recover from his vendor difference between the price paid by him and the price decreed to be paid by pre-emptor.

Held, that when land subject to the right of pre-emption is sold by the owner to a person not having the right of pre-emption, the interest of the vendor passes to the purchaser, but is liable to be again transferred to the pre-emptor upon his demand by suit. When both parties to the sale are aware of this contingency, the original purchaser is not entitled, in the absence of any contract to that effect, to recover from his vendor any deficiency between the price paid by him and the price decreed to be paid by the pre-emptor for the property. WAZIRA v. SHADI KHAN. 67 P R 1881

4. Failure to deposit purchase-money within time fixed in decree—Tender within such period—Refusal to receive the money tendered—Effect of such refusal.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

11.—PAYMENT INTO COURT—contd.

Where the holder of a decree for pre-emption tendered the purchase-money at the proper Court within the time fixed in the decree, but the Naib Nazir refused to receive it in the absence of the Tahsildar, whose absence was unexpected and could not have been foreseen by the plaintiff, held, that the decree did not therefore become void, as the decree-holder complied with the terms of the decree when he tendered the money within the time fixed. AHMAD DIN v. RIHAN. 69 P R 1881

5. Decree-holder in pre-emption suit tendering amount fixed in decree before stipulated period—Refusal of Court to accept such amount till after the decision of the case in appeal—Act IV of 1872, section 18.

Where the decree-holder in a pre-emption suit offered the amount mentioned in the decree after the date fixed for payment, but alleged that he had already tendered the said amount within the period fixed, and been directed to take it back and pay it, when an appeal, which was to decide to whom the money should be paid had been decided, held, that if the plaintiff did offer the amount as stated, he had in effect paid the amount into Court before the day fixed, within the meaning of section 18 of Act IV of 1872. MIR ZAMAN v. PYAO. 79 P R 1881

6. Plaintiff claiming, as owner of the site pre-emption of the building on the site—Lower Court decreeing pre-emption on payment for entire property—Failure by plaintiff to pay into Court amount thus fixed—Appeal on the ground that plaintiff was entitled to pre-emption on payment of value of the building only—Plaintiff entitled to decision by appellate Court on this point.

Plaintiff claimed, as owner of the site, to exercise a right pre-emption in respect of the building on that site, on payment for which he should be put into possession both of the building and of the site without further payment. The first Court, finding in plaintiff's favour on both claims, decreed pre-emption on payment of Rs. 142, which it found to be the value of the materials; but the Judicial Assistant, on appeal, holding that he must pay for the rights of the vendors in the site, as well as for the building, and finding that Rs. 413 had been paid in good faith for the entire property, increased the sum to be paid for pre-emption to Rs. 413. The plaintiff, without paying the difference between this sum and the amount originally fixed, appealed to the Commissioner, contending that he was himself the owner of the land, and had therefore nothing to pay for that. The Commissioner held that the plaintiff had lost his right of pre-emption by non-payment of the enhanced price.

Held, that though by not paying the amount fixed by the Judicial Assistant, plaintiff had given up his right to buy for Rs. 413 in case the appellate Court should find that he was bound to pay for the site as well as for the building, he did not give up his right to pre-emption in respect to the building if the appellate Court should hold that the decision of the first Court that he had nothing to pay for the site was correct; and that therefore he was entitled to a decision by the appellate Court on this point. RAI BASANT SINGH v. NIADAR MAL. 101 P R 1883

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

11.—PAYMENT INTO COURT—contd.

7. Decree-holder omitting to pay the cost as well as the purchase money within the stipulated time—Effect of such omission—Civil Procedure Code, (Act XIV of 1882, section 214—Punjab Laws Act (as amended) section 18.

Held, that a pre-emptor, who has obtained a decree for pre-emption on condition that he pays the purchase-money and costs by a certain date, loses his decree if he fails to pay the costs, though he has paid the actual purchase-money within the stipulated time. TEHL SINGH v. RULDU. 96 P R 1884

8. Plaintiff in first suit allowing his decree to lapse by non-payment of purchase money—Second suit by father of first plaintiff for pre-emption of same property.

One S. A. having brought a suit for pre-emption and obtained a decree, allowed such decree to lapse by omitting to pay within the prescribed period the purchase money fixed by the Court whereupon the father of S. A. brought a suit for pre-emption of the same property. There was nothing in the first suit to indicate that S. A. was suing in a representative capacity or that he did anything but assert his own individual right.

Held, that the first suit was no bar to a subsequent suit by S. A.'s father, in which he asserted his individual right. TAHIR KHAN v. MEGHA KHAN. 1 P R 1885

9. Decree subject to payment of a certain sum within a fixed period, and also awarding plaintiffs their costs—Payment of such sum within the specified period less the costs awarded—Effect of such payment—Right of plaintiffs to deduct the costs awarded in their favour.

Plaintiffs obtained a decree for pre-emption subject to the payment of Rs. 1,000 within two months from the date of the decree, which also awarded the plaintiffs their costs which were assessed at Rs. 17-4-0. In the parcha given to the plaintiffs, it was distinctly intimated that they were to pay Rs. 982-12-0 within the period specified in the decree, and this last named sum was admittedly deposited by the plaintiffs within the prescribed period.

Held, that there had been such a compliance by the plaintiffs with the order of the Court as entitled them to enforce their decree.

Held, further, semble, that even in the absence of any express direction by the

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

11.—PAYMENT INTO COURT—contd.

Court which passed the decree, the plaintiffs would have been entitled to deduct the costs awarded in their favour. BAHADAR v. JALAL. 70 P R 1888

10. Payment of purchase money into Court—Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 18—Effect of payment made partly in cash) and partly by tendering a receipt acknowledging payment of the balance.

A decree for pre-emption directed that the purchase-money should be paid on or before a specified date. Before that date the decree-holder deposited in Court a sum representing the ⅔rds share of the purchase-money due to one of the vendees, and filed a receipt from the other vendee for the balance, the latter vendee being present in Court and admiting the recepit of the money, whereupon the Court ordered the receipt to be filed with the record.

Held, that this last payment was a payment into Court within the meaning of section 18 of the Punjab Laws Act. SHER SHAH v. SHER JANG. 21 P R 1889

11. Payment of money to purchaser—Condition precedent to delivery of possession to pre-emptor—Payment by pre-emptor in Court—Attachment by his creditors.

A decree for pre-emption was passed in favour of A. against B. conditional upon A. paying into Court a certain sum by a certain date. The money was duly deposited as directed, but it was attached and taken out by A.'s creditors as his money, A. applied for delivery of possession. B. objected to give up the land, unless the price decreed was first paid to him.

Held, that B.'s contention was correct. He had every right to object to being deprived of possession until he received the purchase money. The amount deposited had gone to A.'s benefit, and therefore he must pay it over again. SANDHA KHAN v. JHANDU KHAN. 61 P R 1890

12. Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872, sections 17 and 18, Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 214—Construction.

Plaintiff obtained a decree for pre-emption in the first Court conditional on payment of Rs. 500 by a specified date. With this order he duly complied. Defendant appealed to the Divisional Judge, as regards the price only. The Divisional Judge amended the decree by altering the sum of Rs. 500 to Rs. 1,000, and directing that if the latter sum, together with the deficient Court-fee stamps in the original suit, be not paid within two months, the suit shall stand dismissed. Plaintiff deposited in Court within the prescribed period, two Government of India 4 per cent. Promissory Notes for Rs. 500 each, and paid in the amount of the deficient stamp duty. Having done this, he appealed to the Chief Court on the question of price. At the hearing it was objected for the respondents that the deposit of Promissory Notes was not a payment of money; that the plaintiff not having complied with the decree of the Divisional Judge, that decree became void, and that therefore the appeal could not be sustained.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

11.—PAYMENT INTO COURT—contd.

For the plaintiff it was argued, on the other hand, that the Court did not find for the plaintiff having found adversely to him that the price was Rs. 1,000, and that therefore the decree did not become void, nor did the suit stand dismissed as provided for in section 214, Civil Procedure Code, and section 18, Punjab Laws Act.

Held, by the Full Bench—

(i) that the deposit of Government Promissory Notes was not payment of money and not a sufficient compliance with the decree;

(ii) but that the non-compliance with the decree was not fatal to the further prosecution of the appeal;

(iii) that sections 17 and 18 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, do not extend to a Court of appeal as regards suits for pre-emption on a sale, section 214, Civil Procedure Code, applies to the decree of an Appellate Court made upon the successful appeal of a defendant for increasing the amount of money payable by the pre-emptor. THAKUR DAS v. TULSI DAS. 70 P R 1890 F. B.

13. Failure to deposit purchase money within time fixed in decre—Effect of such a failure—Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 18.

The appellant brought a suit for pre-emption and obtained a decree in the Court of first instance, conditional on paying the purchase-money by a certain date. He allowed such decree to lapse by failing to pay within the stipulated time, but appealed therefrom on the ground that a decree should not have been passed in favour of his rival pre-emptors.

Held, that the non-compliance with the decree barred the hearing of the appeal.

No. 70 P. R. 1890, distinguished. UMRAO SINGH v. MUHAMMAD KARIM BAKHSH. 161 P R 1890

14. Pre-emption—Power to require payment into Court—Section 16 A, Punjab Laws Act.

In a suit for pre-emption, the latest stage at which the Court may make an order under section 16A, Punjab Laws Act, 1872, requiring the plaintiff to pay into Court the price, or market value of the property, is up to the time when issues are settled and not afterwards.

The power of rejecting the plaint contained in section 16A is supplementary to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, and must be read with the Code. GOBIND v. KISHEN CHAND. 52 P R 1891

15. Suit for pre-emption—Deposit of purchase money—Power of Appellate Court

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

11.—PAYMENT INTO COURT—contd.

to extend time for deposit—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 18—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 206, 214, 545, 546.

Plaintiff on the 8th June 1891 instituted a suit for pre-emption against defendant, who had obtained a decree for possession of certain land after foreclosure, and on the 8th October 1891, plaintiff's claim was decreed on condition that the whole of the purchase-money was paid into Court by the 9th November failing which payment the decree was, under Section 18 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, to be treated as null and void. Both parties appealed against this decree and the plaintiff, in filing his appeal on the 5th November, prayed that the time for making the payment might be extended. An ex-parte order was accordingly passed on the same date by the appellate Court granting an extension of the time while the appeal should be pending. The judgment of the lower Appellate Court, which was given on the 27th February 1892, contained no mention of the date of payment, but a postscript was added to the judgment to the effect that two months more should be allowed for that purpose, and a degree was drawn up accordingly.

Held, that the terms of the original decree could only be altered by the decree of a competent Court setting it aside, and that, inasmuch as the decree of the first Court had been drawn up in accordance with Section 18 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872. payment into Court within the time fixed was a condition which had to be fulfilled in order that the decree might remain in force, and, as no such payment had been made within the said time, there was no decree of the first Court in existence in accordance with its terms at the time when the decree of the lower Appellate Court was made.

I. L. R., II All., 744, distinguished. SARAB DIAL v. NATHU. 137 P R 1894

16. Pre-emption—Payment of deposit money—Decree of lower Court fixing time for payment modified, subsequently to expiry of such period, by decree of Appellate court—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 18—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, sections 214, 579.

Plaintiff, on 6th September 1893, obtained a decree for pre-emption of certain land on payment of Rs. 80 against N., vendor, and Gh., vendee, the decree directing payment of the purchase-money into Court within two months, failing which the decree was, under Section 18 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, to become null and void. On the 31st October 1893 plaintiff appealed to the Divisional Judge on the ground that the sum fixed was too high, and on the 5th December 1893, the Divisional Judge modified the decree by reducing the sum payable by plaintiff to Rs. 50. On the 9th January 1894, plaintiff took out execution and asked to be allowed to deposit the purchase-money, less costs, and on the 11th January the amount found due, after such deduction, was paid into Court. On the 12th January 1894, Gh., the vendee, filed a petition objecting, inter alia, that the purchase-money not having been paid into Court within the time fixed by the first Court, the decree in plaintiff's favour had become null and void, and his right lost under section 18 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872.

11.—PAYMENT INTO COURT—contd.

Held, on appeal by the plaintiff, that the only subsisting decree in the case being that of the Divisional Court (which modified the decree of the first Court), and no time having been fixed therein for the payment of the purchase-money, the pre-emptor was entitled to enforce the decree in his favour within the period prescribed for execution of decrees by the Limitation Act, and that failure of the Court to comply with the provisions of section 214 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882, did not affect the validity of its decree.

Held, further, following No. 70 P. R. 1890 (F. B.), that section 18 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, only avoided the decree of the first, and did not apply to the decree of the Appellate Court, and that the objection that under it the right of pre-emption was lost in consequence of non-payment of the purchase-money within the time fixed in the first Court's decree not having been availed of to procure the dismissal of the appeal by the Appellate Court, could not be urged against the decree of the latter Court in execution of decree.

I. L. R. XI All. 267 and 346, and No. 21 P. R. 1889, and No. 70 P. R. 1890 (F. B.), referred to. CHAKAR DAR v. GHAPILA.

10 P R 1895

17. Pre-emption suit—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 17, 18—Failure to comply with order directing deposit of purchase-money by certain date, effect of—Appeal—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 214.

A. A. filed a suit for pre-emption of certain land on the 26th January 1893, and on the 7th February N. A. the full brother of A. A. instituted a suit for pre-emption of the same land and made A. A. a defendant. Both suits were decided on the 24th April, the decree in N. A.'s case being in favour of A. A. and N. A. in equal shares, and directing that the sum of Rs. 3,000 be deposited on or before the 1st June, while the decree in A. A.'s case was for pre-emption of the whole land upon payment of Rs. 3,000 on or before the same date, and each decree was declared subject to the decision in the other suit. Further, the decree in A. A.'s case contained a provision declaring it void unless the sums specified were paid on or before the 1st June. N. A. allowed his decree to lapse, but A. A. deposited Rs. 1,500 on the 24th May, and on the 23rd June lodged an appeal in the Divisional Court from the decree in his case. This appeal was rejected by the Divisional Court on the ground that, when the appeal was lodged, the decree of the first Court had become void owing to the non-payment into Court by plaintiff of the whole sum of Rs. 3,000. Plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court.

Held, that the appeal to the Divisional Court was maintainable, and should have been heard and disposed of on the merits.

11.—PAYMENT INTO COURT—contd.

The intention both of section 214, Civil Procedure Code, and of section 18 of the Punjab Laws Act, is not to hamper or preclude the right of appeal, but to provide a penalty for disobedience to the terms of the decree as to the deposit only if it is accepted as correct by the parties, or declared to be so after an appeal to a higher authority, and it was not intended to lay down a rule under which the plaintiff-appellant might in a just claim be excluded from a hearing in the Appellate Court merely because poverty or other causes prevented him raising, even temporarily, a sum largely in excess of the true market value of the property. MALIK AKBAR ALI v. HASSAN ALI

67 P R 1895

18. Pre-emption—Conditional decree—Payment of purchase-money—Appeal—Decree of Appellate Court confirming decree of first Court, but silent as to time for payment of purchase money.

The first Court granted plaintiff a decree for possession of certain land on payment by him of Rs. 300 within one month from the date of decree. Plaintiff appealed to the lower Appellate Court on the question of price and costs. The lower Appellate Court dismissed the appeal and concluded its judgment as follows : " I observe that plaintiff " admits not having paid Rs. 300 into Court " as directed by the 16th April 1898. This " should be taken into account by the lower " Court in the event of plaintiff now desiring " to pay in the money. I have not thought " it right to extend in any way the time " within which the plaintiff should have " liberty to deposit his money." Forty-eight days after the date of the latter decree plaintiff filed an application for revision in the Chief Court, but did not deposit the said purchase-money or any part thereof.

Held, following Rup Chand v. Sham-ul-Jahan (I. L. R. XI All. 346), that inasmuch as the decree of the first Court had allowed one month for payment of the purchase-money, and the appeal against that decree had been dismissed without any fresh period for payment being expressly allowed, the Appellate decree must be taken to have incorporated the terms of the original decree, that the period of one month allowed for payment must be calculated from the date of the Appellate decree, and that payment by the decree-holder within one month of that date would have been in time.

Under the circumstances of the present case, the Chief Court granted the decree-holder a further period of 14 days from the date of its order for such payment. MOTI RAM v. KAMMON.

88 P R 1898

19. Pre-emption—Payment of purchase-money by pre-emptor in Court—Attachment by his creditor.

The holder of a decree for pre-emption duly deposited the purchase-money into Court as directed and obtained possession of land. Subsequently the money so paid in having been attached by a creditor of the decree-holder, who took it out of Court in execution of his own decree, the vendees applied for a return to them of the land as they had received no purchase-money, and the first Court ordered the pre-emptor to deposit a further sum for payment to the vendees. Pre-emptor appealed to the Divisional Judge who confirmed the lower Court's orders on the authority of Sandha Khan v. Jhandu Khan (61 P. R. 1890).

11.—PAYMENT INTO COURT—contd.

Held, that as the pre-emptor had fulfilled his part of the order and had duly complied with the decree by depositing in the Court the amount decreed, he was entitled to retain possession without payment of any further sum.

Held, further, that money deposited in a Court to be paid to a vendee under a pre-emption decree cannot be withdrawn by an attachment under a decree of a third party, and that a Court is not competent to pay it out to any one but the person entitled to it under the decree for pre-emption.

Sandha Khan v. Jhandu Khan (61 P. R. 1890) dissented from. Abdus Salam v. Wilayat Ali Khan (I. L. R. XIX All. 256), followed. Joti Mal v. Coates (15 P. R. 1901) and Muhammad Ali v. Debi Din Rai (I. L. R. IV All. 420) referred to. SANT SINGH v. GHASITA AND ANTOHER.

21 P R 1902

20. Pre-emption—Payment of purchase-money by pre-emptor in Court—Subsequent withdrawal by him of the money so paid in.

The holder of a decree for pre-emption duly deposited the purchase money, amounting to Rs. 1,475, in Court as directed. Subsequently a reversioner of the vendor brought a suit to have it declared that the sale was without necessity, and should not be allowed to affect his rights except in respect of Rs. 300, and obtained a decree. The pre-emptors then asked the Munsif for the return of their purchase-money as they no longer wished to go on with the purchase, as their decree of pre-emption had been superseded by the declaratory decree. The Munsif without informing the vendee ordered the refund of the money.

Held, that as a pre-emptor by reason of a legal incident to which the sale itself was subject steps into the vendee's shoes, it is the vendee and not the pre-emptor who has the control of the purchase-money which form the consideration for his resigning to the pre-emptor his right and title to the property. It would be most anomalous to allow the pre-emptor after he has obtained a decree, and paid in the purchase-money, to be allowed to change his mind suddenly and take back his money, and that the fact that he had made a bad bargain and would have to pay off reversioners could make no difference to his legal position.

Abdus Salam v. Wilayat Ali Khan (I. L. R. XIX All. 256), Hakim Singh v. Indar (46 P. R. 1902) and Gobind Dyal v. Inayat-ullah (I. L. R. VII All. 775), cited. ABDULLA v. AMIR-UD-DIN.

76 P R 1902

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

11.—PAYMENT INTO COURT—concld.

21. Pre-emption—Decree for pre-emption omitting to state consequence of non-payment of pre-emptive price within the time prescribed thereby for payment—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 214.

Held, that a pre-emption decree becomes void and inoperative if the pre-emptive price is not paid within the time prescribed for its payment in the decree. An omission in the decree of any order as to what would be the consequence of the decree-holders default in payment of the pre-emptive money does not in any way affect the case.

Jai Kishen v. Bhola Nath (I. L. R XIV All. 529) followed. GURDIT SINGH v. HUKAM SINGH. 52 P R 1903

22. Pre-emption—Conditional decree—Appeal by purchaser for enhancement of purchase-money—Duty of Appellate Court to extend time allowed for payment of price when confirming decree of first Court—Construction of decree of Appellate Court confirming decree of original Court, but silent as to time for payment of purchase-money—Civil Procedure Code, 1882, section 214.

Held, by the Full Bench (Reid, J., dissenting)—

(i) that an Appellate Court when deciding an appeal by a purchaser from a decree for pre-emption and dismissing the same is not bound to fix a period subsequent to the date of its decree within which the price fixed by the Court of first instance is to be paid ;

(ii) that the decree of an Appellate Court dismissing the purchaser's appeal on the ground that the price fixed by the Court below in a pre-emption suit was correct but silent as to time for the payment of pre-emptive money must be construed to have incorporated all the terms of the decree confirmed including the provision fixing the date or time for payment and that in such cases the time allowed must be calculated from the date of the original and not of the appellate decree,

Jaggar Nath Pande v. Jokhen Tewari (I. L. R. XVIII All. 223), Chirangi Lal v. Dharm Singh (I. L. R. XVIII All. 455), and Malik Akbar Ali v. Hassan Ali (67 P. R. 1895), followed.

Moti Ram v. Kamman (88 P. R. 1898), overruled; Rup Chand v. Shamsul Jehan (I. L. R. XI All. 346), dissented from.

Ghakar Dar v. Ghabila 10 P. R. 1895, Noor Ali Chaudhri v. Koni Meah (I. L. R. XIII Cal. 13), Nam Narain Singh v. Lala Raghunath Sahai I. L. R. (XXII Cal. 476), Daulat v. Bhukandas Manakchand (I. L. R. XI Bom. 172), Manakraman v. Unniappan (I. L. R. XV Mad. 170), and Muhammad Sulaiman Khan v. Muhammad Yar Khan (I. L. R. XI All. 207) F. B. considered and distinguisd WASAWA SINGH v. LAL SINGH. 48 P R 1906 F. B.

PRE EMPTION—contd.

12.—COMPENSATION FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

1. Compensation for improvements—Erection of buildings by one man on the land of another.

The general law applicable to the case of one man building on the land of another is that the buildings do not go as of right to the owner of the soil; but whether the builder should merely be allowed to remove his materials or the owner of the soil should (1) take them over at a valuation, or (2) content himself with a ground rent, must depend upon the particular circumstances, more specially the conduct of the parties themselves, in each particular case. RAMDHAN v. KURA MAL. 38 P R 1889

2. Punjab Laws Act, 1872—Pre-emption—Compensation for improvements made by original purchaser—Form of decree.

The practice of the Court to award compensation for improvements to a vendee who has made them in good faith, or who may appear to be equitably entitled to it, followed and affirmed.

Nos. 34 P. R. 1875, 74 P. R. 1875, and 38 P. R. 1889, referred to.

Per BULLOCK, J.—The decree in such cases should provide separately for the payment of the pre-emption money and the payment of compensation, and that payment of the former within the time fixed in the decree should save the decree from forfeiture though the compensation be not paid (cf. section 214, Civil Procedure Code). AZIZ DIN v. SHAM DAS. 91 P R 1892

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS.

(a) See BURDEN OF PROOF. 26 P R 1882

(b) Suit for pre-emption—Fraudulent concealment of sale by purchaser—Fraud.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 18. 86 P R 1902

(c) Benami sale to escape pre-emption.
See LIMITATION ACT, 1877, SCHEDULE II, ARTICLE 10. 30 P R 1893

(d) No right of—Arises on foreclosure of a right to redeem in respect of agricultural land.
See PRE-EMPTION—PRE-EMPTION ACT, 1905, SECTION 3. 82 P R 1909

(e) An agreement creating right of occupancy in another person is not a sale and cannot be the snbject of pre-emption.
See PRE-EMPTION — PRE-EMPTION ACT, 1905, SECTION 4. 136 P R 1907

1. Disposal by proprietor of his cultivating right—Presumption of right of pre-emption.

The permanent disposal by a proprietor of his rights of cultivation is a disposition to which the right of pre-emption may extend ; but the right of occupancy is not of a transferable character and therefore, under section 11, Act IV of 1872, the right of pre-emption cannot be presumed to exist, but must be expressly proved. BALAKI SHAH v. HAFIZ ESAN. 67 P R 1874

2. Sale—Exchange—Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), as amended by Act XII of 1878, section 9.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—contd.

Held, that an exchange of one plot of land for another cannot be regarded as a sale, so as to give rise to a right of pre-emption under section 9 of the Punjab Laws Act, as amended by Act XII, of 1878. UDE RAM v. BAKHSHI. 12 P R 1884

3. Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872), section 9—Custom—Right to enforce pre-emption in cases where land is given in exchange.

Held, that in the absence of a proved special custom to the contrary, the law, as contained in section 9 of the Punjab Laws Act, does not contemplate that pre-emption should arise on an exchange of land taking place.

The plaintiff having failed to prove any such custom in the present case was held not entitled to succeed in his suit. Mool Chand v. Mansa Ram (No. 157 P. R. 1883), cited. Ude Ram v. Bakhshi (No. 12 P. R. 1884), followed. KHAIRULLA v. MIR HAMZA. 111 P R 1885

4. Mortgage or sale—Allegation that transaction in form of mortgage was really a sale—Admissibility of evidence to prove real nature of transaction—Mistake—Fraud.

In a suit for pre-emption of certain property professedly mortgaged by defendant I to defendants II and III by a written deed, in which it was admitted that pre-emption did not, by custom, extend to mortgages, the plaintiff's case was that defendant I had really sold the property out and out, and that the deed of mortgage was merely drawn up to conceal the real nature of the transaction, and to defeat the rights of pre-emption.

Held, per Curiam, that the plaintiff's suit must be dismissed.

Per ROE, J.—Because the terms of the mortgage-deed not being such as to justify the Courts in treating the transaction as practically a sale, the plaintiff (in the absence of mistake which was not alleged in the present case) could only succeed by showing that prior to the execution of the deed there had been a complete sale from defendant I to the other defendants, so that at the time of executing the deed, defendant I was really incapable of dealing with the property at all, and merely professed to deal with it in order to conceal the fact of the sale which had already taken place ; and this plaintiff had failed to prove.

Per RATTIGAN. J.—Because the deed in question having been drawn up between the parties in the form of a mortgage, the mere circumstance (even if true) that the transaction was made to assume this form with the object of defeating the rights of a pre-emptor, would not alter the character of the transaction itself, or enable the plaintiff to treat it as a sale, there being no law which prevents an owner of land from so dealing with it as to avoid the accrual of any rights of pre-emption, by mortgaging for a long term of years instead of selling out and out, in cases where a right of pre-emption only arises in the event of a sale; and further, that it was not open to the plaintiff in the present case to show by evidence that the original parties to the transaction really meant it to be a sale, but gave it the form of a mortgage with the design of defeating plaintiff's right of pre-emption, as to justify such a course it would be necessary to show that one of the parties to the transaction had been guilty of fraud, or what in equity would amount to fraud, whereas the plaintiff's case was that both parties deliberately drew up the deed as a mortgage, and with a full knowledge of what they were doing, with the simple intention of defeating his rights as a pre-emptor.

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—contd.

C. A. No. 2141 of 1882 (unpublished) cited. CHAUDHRI ASA NAND v. MAMUN.

64 P R 1888

5. Punjab Laws Act (IV of 1872) section 9—"Sale"—Consideration—Basis for claim.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that defendant I agreed with defendant II, that if he brought a suit for her and succeeded in recovering certain land, she would, in consideration of his services and the money expended by him in prosecuting the suit (which was to be borne entirely by him) transfer to him half the land thus recovered; that defendant II accordingly brought the suit; and was successful, and defendant I carried out her agreement and transferred half the land to him. The Courts below dismissed the suit brought with reference to this transfer on the ground that the transaction was not a sale within the meaning of section 9 of the Punjab Laws Act.

Held, that the above view was erroneous, and that the transaction could not be regarded as anything but a sale, and one which by law afforded a basis for a claim for pre-emption.

Semble.—In such a case it would be impossible to say that any particular price was fixed in good faith, and the plaintiff would have to pay the market value of the property. HAJI MUHAMMAD v. MUSSAMMAT BAKHTO.

54 P R 1889

6. Gift or sale—Allegation that a certain transaction in the form of a gift was really a sale—Admissibility of evidence to prove the real nature of the transaction—Fraud—Evidence Act (I of 1872), sections 92 and 99—"Varying the terms of a document"—Construction—Civil Procedure Code (Act XIV of 1882), section 44, Rule (a).

Held, by the Full Bench, that in the case of an alienation of land, in which a document has been executed purporting to be a deed of gift or of mortgage, it is open to a third party claiming to exercise a right of pre-emption to prove that the transaction was in reality of sale, and that the document sought to be impugned was executed in order to conceal its real nature and to defraud him of his legal rights. TARA CHAND v. BALDEO.

117 P R 1890

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—contd.

7. Transferable rights of occupancy—Section 10, Punjab Laws Act,—Right created by statute or contract—Perpetual lease, whether tantamount to sale.

The provision of section 10, Punjab Laws Act, 1872 (as amended), that the right of pre-emption shall primâ facie be presumed to exist in all village communities and to extend to all transferable rights of occupancy affecting such lands, applies not only to sales by occupancy tenants, but is also applicable to transactions under which proprietors create a right of occupancy in another for a consideration.

A right of occupancy may be transferable within the meaning of section 10, Punjab Laws Act, 1872 (as amended), either because a power to transfer is given by the Tenancy Act, or because there is an agreement between the landlord and tenant excluding the operation of such of the provisions of the Act as would otherwise prevent alienation. In the present case, the right of occupancy being created by contract would ordinarily, and in the absence of express agreement, be non-transferable; but in conferring the right, the landlord had expressly granted full power of alienation and had thus created or sold a transferable right.

Semble.—A perpetual lease does not give rise to a right of pre-emption merely on the ground that it is tantamount to a sale.

I. L. R. XV Calc., 184, referred to. NIHAL CHAND v. RAI SINGH AND NAURANGA.

43 P R 1892

8. Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 9—Pre-emption—Sale of immovable property—Exchange.

Held, that a permanent transfer of land in a village for a sum of money plus something that is not money, does not, merely because of such addition of necessity cease to be a sale within the meaning of section 9, Punjab Laws Act.

No. 12 P. R. 1884, 111 P. R. 1885, and No. 54 P. R. of 1889, referred to. GUL MUHAMMAD KHAN v. KHAN AHMAD SHAH.

29 P R 1893

9. Pre-emption—Construction of deed—Colourable mortgage for purpose of evading law, of pre-emption—Fraud—"Question of law involved"—Appeal—Limitation Act, 1877, 1st Schedule, article 10.

On the 6th August 1888, one B. R. executed and registered a deed, whereby he mortgaged a house with possession to one T. R. The terms of the said deed were to the following effect: the mortgage was for Rs. 550 and for a period of thirty years; interest on a sum of Rs. 150 was to be set off against rent, the balance of the principal to carry interest at the rate of 8 annas; the mortgagee was to effect whatever improvements he liked, and the costs thereof with interest at the same rate was to be paid by the mortgagor before redemption. At the time aforesaid the house was already mortgaged for five years to one J. R., from whom it was alleged, T. R. redeemed it in July 1891. On the 16th August 1892 plaintiff sued B. R. and T. R. for pre-emption of the house on the ground that the so-called deed of mortgage was in reality a deed of sale which had been written in the form of a mortgage-deed in order to stave off pre-emptors. He further alleged that defendants had fraudulently concealed the sale from him, and that he had only recently come to know of it. The lower Courts held that the transaction was in reality a sale, that there had been fraud, and that the suit was within time and gave plaintiff a decree for pre-emption. T. R. appealed to the Chief Court.

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—contd.

Held, that whether the transaction of the 6th Auguet 1888 was in reality a mortgage or a sale, plaintiff's suit must in either event be dismissed; if a mortgage, on the ground that the right of pre-emption did not exist in respect of mortgages; if a sale, on the ground that, as the property when sold was in possession of a mortgagee (J. R.) whose mortgage could not be redeemed for three years it was incapable of possession, and the suit was, therefore, barred under Article 10 of the 1st Schedule to the Limitation Act, 1877.

STOGDON, J.—It is no fraud on the part of either or both parties to a deed to resort to any legitimate means whereby to defeat the law of pre-emption, and it is not open to the Court in construing a deed which is in terms one of mortgage to attribute to such terms meanings other than those plain on the face of them, on the ground that the transaction, though certainly a mortgage, would probably eventually have the same effect as a sale.

ROE, S. J., contra. It is open to the Court to judge of the nature of a transaction, that is of the intention of the parties not merely, from the use of any particular word in the deed recording their contract, but from a fair and reasonable view of the nature of the terms agreed upon, and to declare that, if these terms show clearly that the transfer was intended to be permanent, the transaction was in reality a sale even though it was called a mortgage. TIKAYA RAM v. DHARAM CHAND.

45 P R 1895

10. Pre-emption on sale—Colourable transaction—Defendant alleging his own fraud—Executory contract—Estoppel—"Par delictum."

Plaintiff sued for pre-emption of certain land and based his suit on a statement made by defendant No. 1 before the Patwari, and recorded in the latter's diary of the 2nd February 1894, to the effect that defendant No. 1 had sold his interest in the said land to his wife for Rs. 15,000. Upon this statement an entry was made to the above effect by the Patwari in the naksha intikal and was duly attested by the Kanungo on the 7th February, in the absence, however, of the parties to the alleged sale. Defendant pleaded, inter alia, that there had been no sale, that the entry was fictitious and that no consideration had passed, and gave evidence to prove that the alleged transfer was a colourable transaction without change of possession, made for the purpose of evading certain claims on the part of the Tank State in which defendant had been employed as a Mir Munshi, and which had dismissed him and seized his property within its territory for alleged misconduct. The Divisional Judge held that no sale had taken place and dismissed the suit. Plaintiff appealed to the Chief Court, and it was contended inter alia on his behalf, that defendant was legally precluded from setting up his own fraud and from pleading that the transfer was fictitious and was estopped from urging the said pleas as against plaintiff who had sued relying on the truth of defendant's statement before the Revenue officials.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—contd.

Held, that, there being no proof of the actual transaction beyond the defendant's admission, the statement of the defendant though it threw on him the burden of proving that there had been no sale, was not conclusive proof of the fact stated therein unless it operated as an estoppel; nor did the fact that defendant had to allege his own fraud, in order to show that no sale had actually taken place preclude him from explaining the real nature of the transaction.

As regards the plea of estoppel, held, that inasmuch as defendant's statement was not made to plaintiff, or in order to make plaintiff act on it, and was not intended to come to plaintiff's knowledge, defendant could not be held to his statement to his detriment. HAFIZ ABDUL KARIM v. MUHAMMAD YUSAF. 61 P R 1895

11. Pre-emption—Mortgage or sale—Right of mortgagee to plead that mortgage was colourable to avoid pre-emption—Fraud—Condition in mortgage-deed restricting equity of redemption—Estoppel.

Plaintiffs, alleging themselves to be purchasers for value of the equity of redemption of a mortgage of a house executed in favour of defendant, claimed redemption from the latter on payment of Rs. 1,400, the full amount of the mortgage-money. Defendant pleaded that the house was in reality sold, and not merely mortgaged to him, a mortgage-deed being executed instead of a deed of sale to avoid a suit for pre-emption, and that in any event, according to a condition in the mortgage-deed, the mortgagor or his representative was not entitled to obtain possession till twelve years had elapsed from the date of the payment of the mortgage-money.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—contd.

Held, that the condition entered in the mortgage-deed, that even after redemption by payment of the mortgage-money, the mortgagor was to be debarred from ousting the mortgagee from actual possession for a period of twelve years, unduly fettered the mortgagor's equity of redemption, and was one which no Court of Equity could be required to enforce.

Held, further, that plaintiffs having purchased for value from the representatives of the original mortgagors the equity of redemption which, according to the deed, still, remained vested in them, and there being nothing on the record which deprived plaintiffs of the character of bonâ fide purchasers for value, or indicated that they had any notice that their vendor had no interest left in the property to dispose of, the mortgagee was estopped from urging, as against them at any rate, that the transaction was other than it purported to be. GANDA MAL v. DHERI SHAH. 99 P R 1895

12. Pre-emption—Construction of deed—Colourable mortgage for purpose of evading law of pre-emption—Fraud—Onus probandi.

Held, by the Full Bench, that in every case in which the plaintiff sues for pre-emption upon the ground that a certain transaction, though in form a mortgage, was in fact a sale, the Court must decide as to the real nature of the transaction upon all the available material, including the terms of the document itself, the onus in the first instance being on the plaintiff to establish his case, and the true question being as to the real intention of the parties when entering into the transaction. If it is established beyond reasonable doubt that the parties intended a permanent transfer, the Court will find the transaction to be one of sale, though the deed is in form a mortgage. If there is a reasonable doubt, the plaintiff's case will fail on the ground that he has not succeeded in showing that the deed does not embody the true contract between the parties.

The conditions of a mortgage, however, may be intentionally onerous without giving rise to any irresistible presumption that the transfer was intended to be permanent, or they may so plainly exclude any possibility of redemption that the only reasonable inference is that a sale, and not merely a mortgage, was the true intention of the parties.

As regards the transaction in dispute, held, that there was no reliable direct evidence that the parties intended a sale of the property, nor did the conditions in the mortgage-deed raise so strong a presumption that it was entered into as a fraudulent contrivance to conceal a permanent transfer that, in conjunction with other evidence, the Court would be justified in arriving at a finding that the real transaction between the parties was intended to be a sale. JAGDISH v. MAN SINGH. 100 P R 1895 F. B.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—contd.

13. Pre-emption—Proposal to sell—Proposers right of revocation—Power of pre-emptor to enforce sale at market value

An owner of certain land gave notice to the pre-emptor of his intention to sell at a stated price. The pre-emptor refused to give such price, but tendered what he considered to be the market value of the land, and, upon this tender being rejected by the owner, instituted a suit to enforce a sale at the market value.

Held, that the suit would not lie, there having been no completed sale, but merely a proposal of sale which the owner of the land was entitled to revoke at any time before acceptance, and which in the present case had not been accepted by the pre-emptor before the owner's revocation. When a vendor issues a notice under the Punjab Laws Act of his intention to sell, he does not thereby deprive himself of his right to realize for his property any price which the vendee is prepared in good faith to pay, or agrees to pay, the only effect of the issue of the notice being to reduce the period of limitation, or, possibly, to extinguish the pre-emptor's right altogether if he refuses to buy at the price named, and it is found that this price has been fixed in good faith. DIWAN CHAND v. GHULAM HUSSAIN. 30 P R 1897

14. Pre-emption suit for—Sale or contract to sell—Construction of document—Transfer of Property Act, 1882, section 54.

According to the terms of a certain deed, which was stamped with a one rupee stamp, the vendor undertook to satisfy plaintiff further as to the vendor's title, and to excute a deed of sale within three months, after which if such deed was not executed, plaintiff might sue for specific performance. The amount of the purchase-money was Rs. 15,000 of which Rs. 4,300 was proved to have been paid in cash to the vendor.

Held, that the deed, rightly construed amounted merely to a contract to sell and, not a sale, and that the payment of consideration did not necessarily imply that the deed was a sale.

Held, further, that, under section 5 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, which, though not in force in the Punjab, represents generally the law in force in British India, a contract for sale of immovable property does not of itself create any interest in, or charge upon, such property. SHANKER DAS v. KAILASH CHANDER. 65 P R 1898

15. Pre-emption—Mortgage or sale—Colorable transaction—Evidence Act, 1872, sections 92, 99.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—contd.

In a suit for pre-emption based on the allegation that an ostensible deed of mortgage is in reality a deed of sale, the pre-emptor, a third party, is not bound by section 92 of the Evidence Act, and section 99 of the Act has not the effect of restricting his right to show that the contract embodied in writing is not the real contract between the parties to the particular case mentioned therein.

In a case where the parties to a contract have a private understanding that a transaction, ostensibly of mortgage, shall act as a sale, it is not a sine qua non that the mortgage-deed should contain onerous conditions. It is well known that such transactions are likely to be contested, and it is, therefore, not improbable that care will be taken to allow nothing to appear in a mortgage-deed which could excite suspicion, and yet the parties concerned might have a secret understanding, and have so arranged that there should be no option left to redeem the land.

In the present case the Court found on the facts that an ostensible deed of mortgage was in reality a deed of sale. PARMA NAND v. AIRAPAT RAM. 20 P R 1899

16. "Question of law involved"—Construction of document—Mortgage or sale—Plea of custom raised for first time in Chief Court.

Plaintiff sued for pre-emption on the ground that the deed of transfer which purported to be one of mortgage was in reality one of sale, and had been drawn up in the form of a mortgage in order to prevent plaintiff from putting forward his claims. The suit was decreed by the first Court, but dismissed on appeal by the Divisional Court on the ground that the transaction was in fact a mortgage and not a sale. Plaintiff thereupon presented a further appeal to the Chief Court, and it was urged on his behalf that the question whether the deed was to be construed as one of mortgage or of sale was "a question of law" within the meaning of section 40 (2) of the Punjab Courts Act, and that, in any event, there was a question of custom involved, viz., whether the customary right of pre-emption extended to mortgages as well as to sales.

Held, that the document being on the face of it one of mortgage, the question that arose was not as regards the proper construction of it, but rather as to the inference to be drawn from the deed and other evidence as regards the intention of the parties to the transfer, and that this was a question of fact and not of law.

Held, further, that as the plea that a customary right of pre-emption existed in respect of mortgages was opposed to the allegations in the plaint and to the pleadings in the lower Courts, plaintiff was not entitled to raise the point in the

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—contd.

Chief Court as the reason for the admission of a further appeal on the ground that there was "a question of custom involved." BUDHA MAL v. GULAB. 36 P R 1899

17. Pre-emption—Sale of immovable property—Exchange—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 9.

Held, that an exchange which is intended to be an exchange is not a sale for the purposes of section 9 of the Punjab Laws Act merely because the value of the properties exchanged is equalised by the addition of a comparatively small sum of money, or by the mere fact that the two deeds of sale were drawn up contemporaneously, which was merely the method employed to arrange the transfer.

Gul Muhammad Khan v. Khan Ahmad Shah (29 P. R. 1893), followed. NATHU MAL v. HAR DIAL AND OTHERS. 97 P R 1900

18. Pre-emption—Sale—Assignment of immovable property by husband to wife in lieu of her dower.

A husband transferred his immovable property to his wife in lieu of her dower, the value of the property purporting to be transferred being considerably in excess of the amount of dower due.

Held, that such transfer was not a sale, but to a great extent a gift, and was therefore not subject to pre-emption.

Fida Ali v. Muzaffar Ali (I. L. R. V All. 65) distinguished. MIR ZAMAN KHAN AND OTHERS v. MUSSAMMAT GHULAM FATIMA. 88 P R 1901

19. Pre-emption—Assignment of immovable property by husband to wife in lieu of dower—Sale.

Held, that a transfer of immovable property by a husband to his wife in consideration of her dower must be regarded as a gift by the husband to the wife and not a sale subject to pre-emption. Mir Zaman Khan v. Mussammat Ghulam Fatima (88 P. R. 1901) followed. 86 P R 1902

20. Sale of decree for pre-emption to a stranger is not sale of immovable property subject to the right of pre-emption within the meaning of this section. LASHKARI MAL v. ISHAR SINGH. 94 P R 1902

21. Custom—Pre-emption—Sale of property not used as residential house—Sale in lieu of money plus favour and past services—Guardian of minor—Lease of a portion of the property by guardian—Inability of minor to claim pre-emption—Estoppel—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, sections 9, 11.

Plaintiff sued for pre-emption in respect of the sale of a large property known as Pari Mahal in the city of Lahore, consisting at the time of sale of an enclosure with shops outside and of a number of small huts inside, which were generally occupied by blacksmiths, carpenters and cow and goat herdsmen with their cattle. The claim was based on the ownership by plaintiff of a portion of the property adjoining. Amongst other defences the defendant pleaded :—

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—contd.

(i) that the plaintiff having through his guardian taken a portion of the property in suit on lease was estopped from making the claim ;

(ii) that part of the consideration for the transfer consisted of a favour and past services and that consequently the transfer did not amount to a sale ;

(iii) that the property was an enclosure consisting of shops, &c., and being of the nature of a katra or sarai the custom of pre-emption did not extend thereto ;

Held,

(i) that the mere fact that the guardian of the minor plaintiff temporarily leased a small portion of the property in suit at a date between the transfer and institution of the suit did not amount to an estoppel ;

(ii) that an assignment of immovable property for money plus favour and past services was a sale within the meaning of section 9, Punjab Laws Act, and that a plaintiff in such a suit would have to pay the market value of the property ;

(iii) that the plaintiff's claim must be dismissed on the ground that he had failed to prove that by local custom a right of pre-emption on sale of property which had not been used as residential premises for several centuries and which was of the nature of a serai or katra existed.

Hajji Muhammad v. Mussammat Bakhto (54 P. R. 1889), Gul Muhammad Khan v. Kham Ahmad Shah (29 P. R. 1893), Fida Ali v. Muzaffar Ali (I. L. R. V All. 65), The Queen-Empress v. Appavu (I. L. R. IX Mad., 141), Mussammat Nur Jehan v. Aziz-ud-din and others (108 P. R. 1895) referred to. KISHEN SINGH v. JAIKISHEN DAS. 2 P R 1903

22. Custom—Pre-emption—Mortgage by way of conditional sale—Colourable transaction to evade pre-emption—Admissibility of evidence to prove the real nature of the transaction—Onus of proof—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 9—Wajib-ul-arz—Effect of entry in, especially when inconsistent with that of the subsequent Wajib-ul-arz—Evidence of custom.

In a suit for pre-emption based on the allegation that an ostensible deed of mortgage is in reality a deed of sale, it is open to the pre-emptor to show by evidence that the true nature of the document is other than what it purports to be, and for this purpose the evidence of the mortgagor is relevant and admissible as regards plaintiffs' case, but this admission is not necessarily entitled to much weight, inasmuch, as it is a mere gratuitous statement which would not in any way affect the mortgagor's future interest.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—contd.

As regards the transaction in dispute held that neither the terms of the mortgage deed itself nor the other circumstances referred to by plaintiffs in support of their contention were such as to justify the Court in arriving at a finding that the deed was not in truth what it purported to be.

As the right of pre-emption in respect of mortgages could not be presumed to exist under section 9 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, the burden of proving its existence rests in the first instance on the person alleging such custom.

The rule that an entry in a Wajib-ul-arz is primâ facie proof of the existence of an alleged custom is to be modified where such entry is inconsistent with an entry of the Wajib-ul-arz of a later settlement, more especially when the earlier entry itself states that there had never been any instances up to that date in the village, and the latter entry is in accord with the customs generally prevalent in the Province.

Held, on the merits, that no custom was shown to exist in the village of Manawala in the Gujranwala district recognizing a right of pre-mortgage.

Tara Chand v. Baldeo and others (117 P. R. 1890, F. B.), Jagdish v. Man Singh (100 P. R. 1895, F. B.), Choudhri Asa Nand v. Mamun (64 P. R. 1888), Milkhi v. Fattu (40 P. R. 1903), Tika Ram v. Deputy Commissioner of Bara Banki (I. L. R. XXVI Calc. 707 P. C.), Dilsukh Ram v. Natha Singh (98 P. R. 1894), Musta v. Pohlo (52 P. R. 1896), Umra v. Hara (46 P. R. 1903) and Makha v. Karim (47 P. R. 1903), referred to. Parma Nand v. Airapat Ram and another (20 P. R. 1899), dissented from. MUHAMMAD UMAR v. KIRPAL SINGH.
78 P R 1904

23. Pre-emption—Assignment of immovable property in lieu of money plus past services and natural love and affection—Sale—Punjab Laws Act, 1872, section 9.

Held, that an assignment of immovable property by a maternal uncle to his sister's son for money paid and to be paid by the transferee for the use of the transferor plus past services and natural love and affection was sale within the meaning of section 9 of the Punjab Laws Act and gave rise to the right of pre-emption.

Fida Ali v. Muzaffar Ali (I. L. R. V All. 65), Rahim Bakhsh v. Muhammad Hasan (I. L. R. XI All. 1), Muhammad Esuph Ravutan v. Pattamsa Ammal (I. L. R. XXIII Mad. 70), Haji Muhammad v. Mussammat Bakhto (54 P. R. 1889), Samand Khan v. Munnawar

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

13.—CONSTRUCTION OF TRANSFERS—concld.

Khan (188 P. R. 1889), Gul Muhammad Khan v. Khan Ahmad Shah (29 P. R. 1893), Kishan Singh v. Jai Kishan Das (2 P. R. 1903), Mir Zaman Khan v. Mussammat Ghulam Fatima (88 P. R. 1901), and Muhammad Azim Khan v. Nabir (192 P. R. 1883), referred to. ALI BAKHSH v. SOBHA SINGH. 23 P R 1906

24. Pre-emption—Conditional sale of agricultural land—Application of right of pre-emption—Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905.

Held, that under the Punjab Pre-emption Act of 1905 a conditional sale of agricultural land is not subject to pre-emption. RAM PERSHAD v. HIRA. 87 P R 1906

25. Punjab Laws Act—Pre-emption—So-called mortgage really a sale.

Plaintiff and defendants were equal joint owners of a vacant site in a town. On 18th August 1901 defendant sold her half to defendant 2. On 20th September 1901 plaintiff " a lady of 80 years of age, mortgaged " her half to a stranger for Rs. 175, the important conditions being that no interest should be charged, that plaintiff should not redeem for 32 years, that in the meantime the mortgagee, whose own family residence adjoined the site, should be entitled to build on the site without let or hindrance by plaintiff, who should not be entitled even to see the building accounts, that on redemption plaintiff would be obliged to pay back not only the sum of Rs. 175 but all sums spent by mortgagees in building, and so forth. Upon a suit for pre-emption by plaintiff in respect of the sale of 18th August 1901, vendee pleaded that the transaction of 20th September 1901 was really a sale and therefore plaintiff was no longer a co-sharer in the site. Held, that this contention should prevail.

100 P. R. 1895 and 78 P. R. 1904 distinguished. ANWAR HASAN v. UMAT-UL-KARIM.
145 P R 1906

26. Pre-emption—Agreement granting occupancy rights—Sale—Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, sections 3 (5) and 4.

Held, that an arrangement by which the proprietors of certain land granted occupancy rights to certain tenants on payment of a very trifling sum (the object of the arrangement being to induce the tenants to effect certain improvements in the land) is not a sale as contemplated by the Punjab Pre-emption Act, 1905, and cannot therefore be the subject of pre-emption. 136 P. R. 1907 followed. 37 P R 1911

14. LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT.

(a) See ESTOPPEL. 155 P R 8821
161 P R 18831

(b) See PRE-EMPTION—RIGHT OF, IN VILLAGES. 99 P R 1910

(c) See REGISTRATION ACT, 1877, SECTION 17. 37 P R 1888

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

14.—LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT—contd.

1. Abandonment by pre-emptor.

Held, that a right of pre-emption could not be abandoned unless an agreement for sale had already been entered into. PEAREE LAL v. AJOODHDYA PERSHAD. 74 P R 1869

2. Held, that it was not necessary under the Punjab Civil Code, as under Muhammadan Law, that an offer of purchase should be made to the pre-emptor after the contract of sale was struck. MEHUR CHAND v. HURDEO
30 P R 1870

3. Pre-emption—Guardian and minor—Claim of minor barred by conduct of guardian.

Plaintiff (12 years old) sued for right of pre-emption. The land was sold by plaintiff's brother and uncle eight years before suit, plaintiff's mother acquiescing: his father was then dead, and had left the mother guardian of plaintiff's person and property. No right of pre-emption on behalf of the plaintiff was asserted at the time of sale, nor until plaintiff brought this suit. Held, that the silence and conduct of plaintiff's mother, his legal guardian, barred his claim. SADHU WAHAB v. ALADAD KHAN. 1 P R 1873

4. Abandonment of right—Auction sale.

Held, by MELVILL and WILKINSON JJ. in a case before the passing of Act IV of 1872, that plaintiffs omission to take advantage of the opportunity he had of attending an auction sale and there asserting his rights as pre-emptor, amounted to a relinquishment of his right of pre-emption. MAHOMED BAKSH v. HIRA. 47 P R 1873

5. Planitiff claimed the right of pre-emption in respect of a 5 annas 8 pies share of a house sold in execution of a decree. The sale was held in June 1873, and in May 1874 plaintiff made his claim to pre-emption. In the meantime, the shares sold had been divided off at the instance of the auction purchasers. Held, by BOULNOIS and CAMPBELL, JJ. that plaintiff was not precluded by standing by for nearly a year from enforcing his claim; and that if he had a right of pre-emption, it must be decreed to him, regard being had in fixing the price to the improvements made by the vendee, and the expenses of partition, &c. FAIZ BAKHSH v. RAMJI DAS.
34 P R 1875

6. Second purchaser with notice—Compromise of pre-emption suit.

B. K. purchased a price of land from R. A. and N. A. preferred a suit for pre-emption. The suit was compromised in Court B. K. agreeing to give back the land, if he got back the purchase money; R. A. undertaking to pay back the purchase-money; and N. A. withdrawing his suit provided the sale was cancelled and R. A. was put in possession of the land. In accordance with this arrangement, A. K. relinquished the land; but R. A. failed to pay back the purchase money, and afterwards sold the land to N. A. Held that B. K.'s title as prior purchaser to have the land declared subject to a trust for him against a subsequent purchaser with notice was lost by the compromise in the pre-emption suit, and his only remedy was to recover the purchase money from R. A. NAJIB ALI v. BAGEH KHAN. 44 P R 1875

14.—LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT—contd.

7. Sale in execution—Notice.

Plaintiff in a pre-emption suit had been Mukhtar for a judgment-debtor whose property was sold in execution of decree, and was the property which plaintiff asserted his right to. He was present at the sale. Held, that he was estopped from alleging that no offer of the property was made to him. RULLIA MAL v. DULO MAL. 7 P R 1876

8. Waiver of right by first pre-emptor in favour of stranger—Subsequent assertion of right against second pre-emptor—Estoppel.

Held, that a pre-emptor, who has once waived his right to accept or assist upon an offer of sale, cannot afterwards come forward and re-assert his right against another person who has claimed pre-emption in the same sale, and obtained a decree transferring the property to himself. NABI BAKHSH v. KAKA SINGH. 42 P R 1878

9. Effect of mortgage by purchaser to plaintiff of property in suit for purpose of paying the purchase money—Waiver—Estoppel.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the defendant-purchaser had mortgaged the property in suit to the plaintiff, claiming pre-emption, for the very purpose of paying the purchase money to his vendor

Held, that under these circumstances plaintiff was prima facie estopped from demanding pre-emption, as, in the absence of any reservation of his own right of pre-emption at the time of the acceptance of the mortgage deed he must be held to have waived it.

Case remanded to decide the issue whether at the time of the mortgage plaintiff gave notice to defendant that he reserved his right to claim pre-emption of the land mortgaged. ABDULLA v. BISHEN DAS. 22 P R 1881

10. Auction sale—Notice—Act IV of 1872, section 13—Waiver of right.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that the property in suit had been sold by auction in execution of a decree against the owner. The plaintiff, who was one of the bidders at the sale was outbid by the defendant, but it did not appear that any notice was subsequently given to plaintiff that he might have the house for the price bid by defendant.

Held, that plaintiff (whose right to pre-emption was not disputed) was entitled to a decree, as due notice had not been given him as required by section 13 of the Punjab Laws Act, and it could not be inferred from his abstaining to outbid defendant that he in any way waived his right of pre-emption. MULA v. NIHAL CHAND. 78 P R 1881

14.—LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT—contd.

11. Waiver—Pre-emptor attesting deed of sale with intention of relinquishing his claim—Discharge of vendor from obligation of giving written notice.

Held. that the act of attesting the deed of sale, if it be done by a pre-emptor with the intention of relinquishing his own claim, may properly be held to be a positive act discharging the vendor from the obligation of giving written notice to the pre-emptor, and waiving the latter's right to pre-emption. Nabi Bakhsh v Kaka Singh (No. 42 P. R. 1878) and Phulel v. Buta (No. 52 P. R. 1880), referred to. ABDUL RAB v. MUHAMMAD JI. 8 P R 1882

12. Refusal of verbal offer—Waiver—Act XII of 1878, section 13.

In a suit for pre-emption to which the provisions of Act XII of 1878 were applicable, it appeared that no written notice such as is required by section 13 of that Act had been given to the plaintiffs, but the lower Courts dismissed their claim on the ground that a verbal offer had been made to them which they refused.

Held, that in the absence of some positive act of waiver on the part of the pre-emptor discharging the vendor from the obligation imposed upon him by the law of giving the pre-emptor formal written notice of the intended sale, the mere refusal to accept an oral offer is not sufficient defence to a subsequent action by the pre-emptor to enforce his legal rights. Phulel v. Buta (No. 52 P. R. 1880), followed. KARM KHAN v. JANG BAZ KHAN. 112 P R 1882

13. Custom—M. Dyal, Lahore—Effect of acquiescence by proprietors in previous sales.

Held, in a suit for pre-emption of land situated in mauza Dyal, tahsil and zilla Lahore, that the defendants had failed to prove that the custom of pre-emption did not exist in that village.

It was not enough to show that some sales had taken place which were not objected to, for it was discretionary with the co-proprietors to object or not, and their mere acquiescence in previous sales did not imply that the custom which would entitle them to object to the sales and to claim the benefit for themselves had been abrogated. SAMAND KHAN v. MAHTABA. 48 P R 1883

14. Suit by proprietors of a dharmsalah —Waiver—Plaintiff drafting deed of sale.

There is no rule of law which would prevent the proprietors of a dharmsalah or similar institution from claiming pre-emption. Shankar Das v. Said Ahmad (No. 153 P. R. 1884), cited.

In a suit for pre-emption, held that the plaintiff, who was a professional petition-writer, could not be held to have waived his right merely because he had made a rough draft of the deed of sale of the property in

14.—LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT—contd.

suit for the defandant. Mahomed Bakhsh v. Hira (No. 47 P. R. 1873), Phulel v. Buta (No. 52 P. R. 1880), Abdul Rab v. Muhammad Ji (No. 8 P. R. 1882), and Karm Khan v. Jang Baz Khan (No. 112 P. R. 1882), cited. SHAH BODHRAJ v. SUNDAR SINGH. 100 P R 1885

15. Dismissal of suit on ground that plaintiff after obtaining an ex parte decree (afterwards set aside) had resold the land at first decreed to him—Legality of such ground of dismissal.

In a suit for pre-emption it appeared that the suit having been first decided ex parte in favour of plaintiff, and the Court having rejected an application for setting aside the ex parte decree, plaintiff sold the land in question at an enhanced price to a third party, but the defendants having thereafter appealed successfully against the order refusing to set aside the ex parte decree, and a re-hearing of the case having commenced, they brought to the Court's notice the fact that plaintiff had sold the land at first decreed to him, and on this ground the suit was thereupon dismissed.

Held, that such order of dismissal was not maintainable; that the plaintiff having sold the land after it had become his own by the decree of Court, and after the decree had as regards the first Court become final, was at liberty to do then what he pleased, and to make a profit if he could, subject to the rights of pre-emption by others over the re-sale by him, and was not thereby disqualified from maintaining the suit previously instituted, when the enquiry into the claim had been re-opened, and the decree which made him owner of the land had been set aside. TORABAZ v. PIR BAKHSH. 22 P R 1887

16. Refusal of oral offer—Waiver.

Held, in a suit for pre-emption, following the doctrine laid down in Phulel v. Buta (No. 52 P. R. 1880), and Karm Khan v. Jhang Baz Khan (No. 112 P. R. 1882), that an oral offer of the bargain and a refusal by the pre-emptor is not enough by itself to dispense with the duty of serving a written notice through the Court as required by section 13 of the Punjab Laws Act, so as to estop the plaintiff from claiming the pre-emption subsequently on the ground that he has waived his claim. MUHAMMAD SALAMAT-ULLA v. JALAL-UD-DIN. 24 P R 1887

17. Joinder of vendor as co-defendant—Legal necessity for such joinder—Effect of non-joinder of vendor.

Held that the joinder of the vendor in a suit for pre-emption (though such joinder is both usual and convenient) cannot be said to be in every case absolutely and strictly neceseary in law, so that on account of the non-joinder of the said vendor the pre-emptor must lose all his rights in the suit.

PRE-EMPTION -contd.

14.—LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT—contd.

Kahna v. Dewa Singh (No. 62 P. R. 1879) and Wazira v. Shadi Khan (No. 67 P. R. 1881), referred to. SHIV CHARN SINGH v. SECRETARY OF STATE. 80 P R 1888

18. Mortgage—Redemption of mortgage during pendency of suit—Lis pendens.

While a suit for pre-emption of a mortgage with possession was pending the mortgagor executed a simple bond for the same amount in substitution of the usufructuary mortgage deed upon which the plaintiff was claiming pre-emption. The bond was written in December, whereas the mortgage deed expressly stipulated that redemption could only take place in the month of Jeth.

Held, that the doctrine of lis pendens must be held to apply so as to prevent the defendants, in the action then pending from doing anything which would defeat the object of that suit: that assuming that the plaintiff was entitled to claim pre-emption with respect to the mortgage, which the decree subsequently obtained by him and not appealed against must be held conclusively to have established, he acquired a right to have the mortgage transferred to him subject to all the terms and conditions of the original transaction, which might, when once he came forward to publicly assert it, could not be defeated without his consent by any act on the part of the mortgagor and mortgagee.

Kharak Singh v. Bhup Chand (No. 27 P. R. 1874), and Kahna v. Dewa Singh (No. 62 P. R. 1879), cited. MANDHU KHAN v. SANDHI. 102 P R 1888

19. Mortgage—Custom—Waiver—Omission to bid at execution sale—Construction of Wajib-ul-arz.

Found, that a custom of pre-emption exists as to mortgages in mauza Gohan in the Hoshiarpur District, and must be held to extend to a transfer of a mortgage, or a sale of the mortgagee's rights in execution of decree.

Held, that a plaintiff having a right of pre-emption does not lose it by omitting to bid at the sale in execution of decree. Mula v. Nihal Chand (No. 78 P. R. 1881) followed.

The Wajib-ul-arz of the village provided that a proprietor, alienating his land by sale or mortgage, must first offer it to co-sharers who are partners in the same holding or descended from a common ancestor ("sharkah shikami wa yak jaddi"): if they refuse, he may then alienate to an outsider ("ghair admi").

Held, that the above clause did not take away from a plaintiff not falling within the above description any right of pre-emption he might have under the ordinary law as a village proprietor, the true meaning of the provision being that, whilst the ordinary provisions of the law as to pre-emption were in full force, the special provisions in this village gave a preference to two groups of pre-emptors, co-sharers in the same holding, or proprietors in the village descended from a common ancestor and that failing these an offer might be made under the ordinary law to any one outside these two classes. MUHAMMAD BAKSH v. SARDAR RAJINDAR SINGH. 121 P R 1888

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

14.—LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT—contd.

20. Sale of house, part of which was mortgaged to plaintiff—Plaintiff after the sale demanding and accepting payment of the mortgage-money without any reservation of his right of pre-emption—Subsequent suit by plaintiff for pre-emption—Plaintiff estopped from maintaining such suit.

In a suit for pre-emption, it appeared that when the house of which plaintiff was claiming pre-emption was sold, a ⅓rd share of it was under mortgage by one of the vendors to plaintiff, and that it was provided in the deed of sale that out of the nominal purchase money the amount due on the mortgage should be retained by the vendee for payment to the mortgagee. It further appeared that nearly two months after the sale the plaintiff gave a written notice to the vendee to pay the mortgage debt, threatening him with an action if he did not do so, but saying nothing in the notice about his right of pre-emption, whereupon the vendee paid the amount to the mortgagee who gave him a receipt. Subsequently plaintiff sued the vendee and the vendors for pre-emption, and among other pleas the vendee urged that plaintiff could not maintain this suit, in view of the transaction above described.

Held that such contention was correct that it was open to the plaintiff as between him and the defendant-vendee either to dispute or to affirm the validity of the sale: that plaintiff as mortgagee having without any reservation of his right as pre-emptor, called upon the vendee to pay up the mortgage-money, and having accepted it from him, had elected as between himself and the vendee to affirm the sale as valid, and it was not open to him after such election to treat the sale as voidable. BAWA LEHNA SINGH v. JAGAN NATH. 138 P R 1888

21. Guardian of minor—Consent—Estoppel—Inability of guardian to contest his own acts.

A was entitled to pre-emption by reason of being a neighbour. He was also de facto guardian of a minor co-sharer in the land sold. After having taken part in the negotiations for sale he brought a suit for pre-emption on behalf of the minor. Held, that he was entitled to insist that it was his own interest that he gave up, and to distinguish between his own personal right of pre-emption and that of the minor.

PRE-EMPTION—contd.

14.—LOSS OR WAIVER OF RIGHT—contd.

No. 112 P. R. 1881 distinguished KADIR BAKHSH v. MUSSAMMAT NUR BIBI. 121 P R 1889

22. Suit—Necessary parties—Vendor—Effect of non-joinder of vendor.

Held, that the vendor is not, as a rule, and in all cases a necessary party in suits for pre-emption. In cases where the points in dispute cannot be decided without his being impleaded, he may be a necessary party. No general rule can be formulated and every case must be decided on its own merits.

80 P. R. 1888 followed; I. L. R VII All. 169 and 775, and I. L. R. XI All. 164, referred to. UDDHAM MAL v. GANDA MAL. 134 P R 1889

23. Representatives of vendee—Necessary parties—Limitation Act, section 22—Suit barred against one defendant—Dismissal as regards all.

All the representatives of a deceased vendee and persons in possession of his estate are necessary parties to a pre-emption suit. Where one representative was impleaded after time, Held, that the suit being barred against him, must be dismissed as against all the defendahts. RAM CHAND v. RANA. 141 P R 1889

24. Pre-emption—Custom—Right of one co-sharer to sue.

One co-sharer in a house is not debarred from instituting a suit to enforce a right of pre-emption based on vicinage on the ground that the other co-sharer therein refuses to join in such suit. RAM ASRA v. GURDITTA. 42 P R 1891

25. Act IV of 1872—Pre-emption—Two persons suing jointly, one alone of whom has the right to pre-emption—Effect of such error on substantive right—Procedure.

The plaintiffs, S. and M., sued for pre-emption on the ground that they were collaterals of the vendor. The Divisional Judge finding that S. was not a collateral, dismissed the suit in toto on the ground that M. having joined with himself a stranger had thereby forfeited his own right to pre-emption.

Held, that M. was entitled to maintain the suit alone after the name of S. had been struck out of the plaint.

I. L. R. V. All. 197 dissented from. No. 4 P. R. 1884 distinguished. SHARF v. PIR BAKHSH. 83 P R 1893

26. Pre-emption—Suit by two plaintiffs each entitled to claim, but not having joint right of, pre-emption—Misjoinder—Withdrawal of one plaintiff, effect of.

Held, that a suit by two individual plaintiffs, each entitled to claim pre-emption, but not having a joint right of pre-emption, is bad for misjoinder, and that the Court should order the name of one of the plaintiffs to be struck out under section 32 of the Civil Procedure Code, 1882.

But held, further, that if one of such plaintiffs withdraws from the suit, there is no legal impediment to the suit proceeding and a decision being arrived at on the respective rights of the remaining plaintiff and the purcheser.

I. L. R. IV All. 259 and I. L. R. V All. 197, referred to. No. 10 P. R. 1884 distinguished. KHAWAS KHAN v. RASUL KHAN.
29 P R 1894

27. *Custom—Pre-emption—Wajib-ul-arz—Right of vendor to insist on pre-emptor taking over bargain in its entirety—Vendor unable to give good title to part of property—Waiver or loss of right of pre-emption—Misjoinder of plaintiffs.*

Plaintiffs, who were the occupancy tenants of the village of Muhammadpur, sued for pre-emption on a sale of the village by one Mrs. Ingram, by deed, dated 31st March 1891, in favor of the remaining defendants who were bankers of Panipat. It appeared that the village had been acquired from Government by one Colonel Skinner, and that the status of the original occupiers and proprietors had thereupon been reduced to that of tenants-at-will, but had been subsequently raised to that of occupancy tenants. The entry in the Wajib-ul-arz of the village was to the effect that there was no right of pre-emption because the ancestor of the proprietors had by will forbidden alienation. It was argued, inter alia, on behalf of the appellants, that if the alleged right of pre-emption existed—which was denied—the pre-emptors were bound to take over the bargain in its entirety, irrespective of the power of the vendor to give a good title to the whole of the property in question, and, further, that the plaintiffs, by mortgaging their rights without the assent of the proprietors had lost their rights as occupancy tenants.

Held, that though there was a presumption in favour of the correctness of the Wajib-ul-arz the terms of the entry in the present case were altogether insufficient to rebut the presumption of law that the right existed, and that the family arrangement referred to could not establish any rule at variance with immemorial custom.

Held, further, that the right of pre-emption being defined in section 9 of the Punjab Laws Act, 1872, as "the right of persons, hereinafter mentioned or referred to, to acquire in the cases hereinafter specified immovable property in preference to all other persons" the person entitled to the right is under no obligation either to forego his claim or to buy property for which the vendor cannot give such a good title as may enable the pre-emptor to "acquire" it, or in which the vendor has no title whatever.

Held, also, that occupancy tenants, who mortgage their rights without the assent of the proprietors, do not thereby lose their rights as such tenants, though their mortgages are liable to be set aside under section 60 of the Punjab Tenancy Act, 1887.

With regard to an objection that those of the plaintiffs who were occupancy tenants had joined with them, as plaintiffs, certain tenants-at-will, who had no right to claim, held, that there is a material distinction between the case of pre-emption claimants joining strangers with them in a purchase which the Court is asked to set aside, and the case of such claimants allowing persons, who are not entitled and who retire from the suit when the mistake is discovered, to join with them in suing. The mistake in the latter case can be corrected by the authority of the Court duly exercised, whereas, when a purchase has been effected by pre-emptors and strangers combined the mischief can only be remedied by setting aside the sale.

I. L. R. V All. 382, No. 29 P. R. 1894, No. 98 P. R. 1894 (Full Bench), and Civil Appeal No. 1964 of 1882, referred to. HIRA LAL v. IBRAHIM. 102 P R 1894

28. Pre-emption—Suit by pre-emptor with superior right against pre-emptor with inferior right who has obtained a decree—Waiver of right—Acquiescence — Estoppel — Collusion between plaintiff and vendor.

Plaintiff sued for pre-emption of certain land sold on the 19th January 1891, the suit being instituted on the 8th January 1892. Certain other persons had previously sued the vendor and vendee in respect of the same land and had obtained a decree for pre-emption and plaintiff now sued the decree-holders and joined the vendor and vendee as co-defendants. The decree-holders, while admitting plaintiff's superior right of pre-emption, pleaded (i) that they, having shown superior diligence and obtained a decree, plaintiff had no cause of action against them so long as the decree subsisted; (ii) that plaintiff was estopped by his own conduct from suing; (iii) that the suit was not bonâ fide or for the benefit of the plaintiff, but was brought for the benefit, and at the instance, of the defeated vendee.

Held, as to the first plea, that plaintiff's right of pre-emption being admittedly superior to that of defendants must primâ facie prevail, and, inasmuch as the right of pre-emption attached to plaintiff as a personal privilege and inhered until lost by his own act, or exhausted by suit or barred by the law of limitation, plaintiff's said right was not affected by the existence of defendant's decree.

Held, as to the second plea, that notice of the original sale not having been given to plaintiff in the manner prescribed by law, plaintiff had no opportunity of electing whether he would prefer a right to purchase or would acquiesce in the sale, and could not, therefore, be said to have waived his right to accept an offer which was never made, and was within his rights in preferring his claim at any time within the period allowed him by law, and against any person, holding mediately or immediately under the original sale, who could not establish positively facts or conduct giving rise to an estoppel.

Held, as to the third plea, that, though plaintiff's conduct was suspicious, there was no sufficient certainty to justify the Court in holding that plaintiff's suit was for the benefit of the defeated vendee.

Per BULLOCK J.—The nature of pre-emptive right being a personal privilege, exercisable only by the pre-emptor for his own benefit, his suit must fail if it be established that in suing he is seeking the benefit of it not for himself but for another.

No. 42 P. R. 1878, distinguished. BAIJ NATH v. JITA. 139 P R 1894

